CHICAGO, July 6.—Events to-day have transformed the strike into an insurrection. Bloodshed, violence and the torch, the marching of troops, both Federal and State, an unbridled spirit on the part of the strikers, have been the crowning acts of the day.

Six men killed, two strikers wounded by bullets, three to four hundred freight cars burned, and a lot of heads broken, was the record made.

THE MOB ACTS.

Shortly after sunrise a riotous and howling mob of strikers commenced to gather about the depot at Kensington.
By 10 o'clock the crowd numbered anywhere from 3000 to 5000 people. Women formed a good portion of it, and they were more demonstrative than the men.
A hundred or more noisy claps wearing white ribbons went up the tracks and a little way north, turned two freight cars over on their sides.

Several deputy marshals and eight or ten policemen got after them, but did not appear to be able to stop the rioters from carrying out their purposes.

Nothing but small acts of cowardice marked the movements of the rioters during the forenoon. They continued to set small fires at numerous out-of-the-way places where escape was easy.
The entire force of Armour & Co.'s teamsters quit work during the morning.
A few had quit the day before. These who went to work to-day were assailed by strikers.

THE POLICE TRY THEIR HAND.

The police made their first actual stand against the rioters along the Fort Wayne tracks at Fortieth street. Captain O'Neill and Lieutenant Fitzpatrick fired on a mob that was storming a passenger train there and dove the hundreds off.

About 10 o'clock a Fort Wayne milk train came slowly along. There were two passenger coaches attached to the rear of the train, and these were full of women and children. The rioters caught sight of the train and with wild yells charged upon it.

The police made a rally and went at the mob, which had chased the train as far as Thirtieth street. Later in the afternoon Captain O'Neill and his men had a lively brush with rioters at Thirty-ninth street and Stewart avenue. There was a great mob there, and when the police tried to drive it off the hoodlums showed fight. There was an actual pitched battle for a few minutes and the police lost ground before the mob.
They rallied, though, and soon had everybody on the run. Heads were cracked by the score.

All day long there were fires started in every direction about the stock yards.
They came too fast to count. Engines and hose wagons were chasing up and down all day. The firemen had answered thirty-one fire alarms the night before, and they and their horses were completely jaded. Towards the evening the apparatus could not get along faster than a jaded walk. The firemen went about their duties half awake.

The Big Four and Illinois Central passenger trains south-bound arrived and were stalled, the track occupied by them being blocked. They had not been long on the scene when the mob turned again and started to pull the engines and flames of both trains out of their cars and "kill" the engines. But the engines were too swift for them. Before the infuriated men could reach the spot where they stood they pulled the throat-le open and ran back to Grand Crossing.

TROOPS CALLED OUT.

During all this turmoil and reign of terror the authorities of Pullman and Kensington were telephoning and telegraphing the city for police and military. A small detachment of United States troops was rushed down there and at 8 p. m. the entire First Regiment of militia arrived on the scene. Then everybody breathed a sigh of relief.

ALSO THE PANHANDLE.

The police met and routed mobs of 5,000 people along the tracks of the Panhandle Railroad, bent upon arson and destruction. The yards of the Panhandle for three hours were in possession of wild mobs of strikers, who seemed to find special delight in setting fire to railroad property. Two hundred and fifty cars, a majority of which were loaded with merchandise, were set on fire, and thousands of men, women and children ran along the tracks with torches to anything that would ignite. The fire department was called and attempted to extinguish the flames, but the rioters tore the hose from Fire Marshal Ream, and threatened him with death if he persisted in attempting to extinguish the flames.

Lieutenant Healy ordered a flank movement on the crowd and by fierce clubbing started the mob on a run. The yards were cleared, but little could be done to save the burning property which was scattered far apart in the yards. Hundreds of thousands of dollars went up in smoke and the tired and worn firemen could do but little to save any of the mass of burning cars.

CHARGED BY TROOPS.

Three charges were made by the regular troops upon a gang of rioters at Fifty-first street and the Rock Island tracks. Lieutenant Jameson of the Fifteenth Infantry led and directed the charges. Almost before it was light the hordes were at work in the yards overturning freight cars and setting fire to them. Twice they were driven out at the point of the bayonet, and they then started in with the torch. Twenty cars were soon burning and the flames spreading fast. In the excitement the crowd dodged past the lines of soldiers and under the freight cars, and began to hinder the work of the department.
Finally they began stone-throwing, and Marshal Campion appealed to Lieutenant Jameson. The officer turned to his men, gave a short, sharp command, and the next instant the mob was flying before the bayonets of the troops. Many a trooper had blood on his bayonet after the charge.

Twice more the crowd returned to stone the firemen, and twice again they were driven back by the bayonets of the troops. Then there came a succession of fires all over the yard. One freight car after another was set fire to, and for more than three hours the department was kept on the jump.

DEPUTY MARSHAL SHOT.

During this scrimmage Deputy Marshal Ritchie fired a shot in the air and ran, pursued by part of the mob. He was found by Lieutenant Jameson of the Fifteenth in a ditch, blood streaming from his jaw, his skull fractured and his face badly cut. A woman was bathing his face and regretted she had not a pistol "to kill the cowardly brutes." He is an old man and is likely to die.

The troops were run all over the south side and into the stock yards territory, the evident intention of the strikers being to wear them out. In this they partially succeeded. The Fifteenth Infantry is not easily tired, but the amount of running around it had to do did not improve its temper.
The officers of the command declared if any shooting was done it would not be over the heads of the crowd.

LEFT TO THE INCENDIARIES.

From two to three hundred cars of the Panhandle road were burned during the day, and when night came it could be seen that there was no exaggeration in the story; the whole horizon seemed afire. The strange feature of it all was nobody saw just how this work was done. People were afraid at first to venture out to the fire. They left the Panhandle yards to the incendiaries.

The night was one of terror, fire and pillage in the stockyards. The firemen nub applied the torch indiscriminately from Halsted street to Elston, and then to Blue Island on the Grand Trunk road.
They spiked switches and upset shanties and freight trains, which they fired.
Before doing so it was seen that they had taken precautions to prevent property from being saved. Electric light wires were severed and the town plunged into darkness.

MILITIA ORDERED OUT.

Instead of declaring Chicago under martial law, as was expected in some quarters, the United States army authorities held off for the time being and told Mayor Hopkins to go ahead and see what he could do towards preserving order. On request of Mayor Hopkins, Governor Altgeld ordered out five regiments of militia.

CHICAGO IS GARRISONED.

The militia was ordered by Altgeld to report to Hopkins to aid the Mayor in suppressing riots and keeping the peace.
This means that they are to do police duty, whereas the regulars were ordered here to protect Uncle Sam's property and particularly nothing else. Until further orders are issued, the militia being in effect police, the Mayor turned it over to the police officials and within a few hours all the Chicago regiments were at their assigned posts, and the Third and Sixth were either in Chicago or on the way.

REGULARS COMING IN.

Three hundred extra policemen were sworn in, increasing the police force to 3,300. There are in the neighborhood of 1,000 deputy United States marshals in active service, and half that number of deputy sheriffs. The Leavenworth regulars, 380 strong, and those from Fort Brady, 150 strong arrived in the morning.

THE PRESIDENT'S STAND.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Another communication was received from Governor Altgeld shortly after 9 o'clock tonight and it was immediately taken to the President. It can be stated with certainty that the Administration is sure of its course and the Federal troops will not be recalled until such order as will allow its mails to go through uninterrupted and the perfect administration of Government business.

In substance Governor Altgeld's letter says that if the President's assumption that he has the right to order Federal troops into a community without regard to the question whether that community is to enforce the law itself, then the principle of local government never existed in this country or has been destroyed.

It was nearly midnight when the following reply by the President to Governor Altgeld was given to the press:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,

WASHINGTON, July 6.
Hon. John P. Altgeld, Governor of Illinois, Springfield, Ill.—While I am still persuaded that I have not transcended my authority or duty in the emergency that confronts us, it seems to me that in this hour of danger and public distress discussion may well give way to active effort on the part of all authority to restore obedience to the law and to protect life and property.

GROVER CLEVELAND.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 6.—Governor Altgeld, on being shown Attorney-General Olney's criticism upon his protest to-day, said:

"The country may be doing Mr. Olney an injustice, but the impression has in some way become rooted that he is the special representative of the great trusts and monopolies that have been plundering the public. The impression also prevails that it is he who is urging on the labor troubles, and thus assist Mr.
Olney's plans.

THE CALIFORNIA STRIKE.

OMINOUS SILENCE PREVAILS AT SACRAMENTO.

The Regulars to Move—Will Not Oppose U. S. Troops—Local Traffic Throughout the State.

SACRAMENTO, July 6.—An ominous quiet prevailed at this end of the great war against the Southern Pacific to-day.
The opposing forces put in the day watching each other and in making preparations for another collision, which both feel is almost inevitable. At the State Capitol grounds the 900 National Guardsmen, drilled, paraded and practiced at firing and charging bayonets. Down at the big depot the strikers moved about mysteriously, in squad and singly, conversing only in whispers.

As a matter of fact the strikers, instead of being enthused over their Fourth of July victory over the State troops, make no secret of the fact that they believe the worst is yet to come, and that many of their comrades as well as the boys in blue will bite the dust before this strike of strikes is brought to a close.

THE REGULARS TO MOVE.

Rumors have reached them to the effect that the regulars now at Los Angeles will shortly be on their way to this city for the purpose of enforcing United States Marshal Baldwin's order, and of course they know that means bloodshed to a certainty if the troops are opposed. But the men have to all appearance lost none of their determination to stand by their guns, and only a miracle can avert disaster. They have all their plans arranged and perfected, and are now waiting for the Government to make its next move.

WILL NOT OPPOSE UNCLE SAM.

So far as can be learned from conversations from Knox and other leaders of the strike, their intentions are not to oppose the entry of Uncle Sam's troops into the depot. While they do not propose to be dispersed they will open the way for the troops and maintain a peaceful attitude until an attempt is made to move a Pullman car. Then, they openly declare, there will be trouble and serious trouble at that.

OVER THE STATE.

Quiet prevails at Los Angeles and many of the railroad men are willing to work. At San Jose the mobs got beyond the control of the county officers and Governor Markham placed the militia on outgoing trains. Local roads everywhere are either hampered or tied up, much perishable freight is going to waste and passenger and freight traffic in all directions is practically stopped.

Nicaragua Canal Report.

It appears from a Washington dispatch to the Chronicle on Thursday that the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce has agreed to report the bill to aid in the construction of the Nicaragua canal. The bill which has already been discussed, provides for the issuance of $70,000,000 of bonds, for which the United States will receive stock, which will practically give our Government control of the company.
Nicaragua and Costa Rica are to be associated with the United States as principal stockholders.—S. F. Chronicle

Russia and Korea.

ST. PETERSBURG, July 5.—It is generally reported that a Russian force has been dispatched to Korea. The number of soldiers in the vicinity of Vladiv-ostok is about 1000, and Russia has twelve vessels on that station, besides six steamers of the volunteer fleet. It is probable that some of these men-of-war have been dispatched to Korea.

Want Ezeta Surrendered.

SAN SALVADOR, July 6.—The Government has sent instructions to Washington to secure the best legal services to do all that is possible to obtain the surrender of Antonio Ezeta and his associates on board the Bennington.

Ottawa Trade Conference.

OTTAWA (Ont.), July 6.—The Colonial Conference had the trade question under consideration all day and still no decision has been arrived at.

New Arrivals.

The S. S. Gaelic brought to Hollister & Co. a large shipment of Manila cigars from some of the most celebrated factories of that place, which they are now offering for sale, either in bond or duty paid, at their store, corner of Fort and Merchant streets.

Has the discussion of the letter of acceptance of Minister Willis worn itself out? If it has it would be well to consider the wording of the acknowledgment of the Consul from Timbuctoo. These letters do not signify very much as the acknowledgment of a government de jure is not within the scope of power of a representative; no matter what his letter may imply—the home government is usually jealous of its rights in such matters and you will find that such notifications are accepted for transmission to the State Department for action. The wording of the letter depends generally upon the experience the writer has had in diplomatic circles. Nearly every one remembers that when the Provisional Government was formed the representative of one of the strongest governments on earth acknowledged it, and pledged it his moral support without any reference to the home office. He was probably inexperienced in such matters and failed to consider other heads. Whether the letters received by the Government from the foreign representatives imply a full recognition or none at all matters little, it is merely a matter of waiting a few days or a few weeks, nothing stands in the way of such recognition by the various State Departments and the horizon bears every indication of remaining clear of such objects. The discussion has given the newspaper readers some good editorials and furnished a course in a mental diet.

Cleanliness of the mind or cleanliness of the body—which?
Just now we are catering to those who believe first in keeping the skin clean by the use of something more than "Good Morning" soap. We think one of our enamel bath tubs filled with water will do the business all right; they're built with a view to perfect sanitary arrangements—all iron, no wood about them to rot through frequent contact with water—nothing hidden from view or places where roaches may hide themselves; they are simply solid imitations of China wash bowls that may be kept clean with the least amount of labor. Most of the tubs have handsome rims that add a beautiful finish to them.

Our assortment of wash stands and closets comprise the very latest designs and improvements.
Where they are used ill health from sewer gas or noxious odors is impossible. We believe we have the largest and best assortment of these goods ever imported to this country.

Some purchasers of the "Wertheim" sewing machine have thought they were a little bit hard in the running—perhaps they were—but it was because they were not properly oiled.
We have had an experienced man overhaul those in stock, and oil them where they were needed.
We have his word for it that they are easier running than any other machine sold in this market. The embroidery stitch is quite as perfect as any done by hand, the advantage being that more than ten times the work can be done by the machine. A great advantage is also found in the triplex which sews three distinct stitches without changing the shuttle or needle, two parts in a sewing machine which give the operator the most trouble.
In addition to all the good sewing qualities of the "Wertheim" the tables and general fitting are much the finest of any manufactured. The Germans are famed for their perfect inlaid work in wood and the best mechanics of Europe are employed to make these tables. We would be pleased to show the machine to any one interested and we are satisfied that any one who will try the machine will be convinced of its superiority.

THEY WANT ANNEXATION

LITTLE SCHEME OF THE EX-ROYAL COMMISSION.

Will Ask Cleveland to Put Them Back Into Hawaiian Politics to Run the New Republic.

It is learned on seemingly good authority that Judge H. A. Wideman, Samuel Parker, John A. Cummins and Major Sewall, who left by the Rio de Janeiro Friday for Washington, go to lay before President Cleveland a petition for the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands to the United States.

The scheme was inaugurated by John A. Cummins some weeks ago and has just reached a head.

The petition comes from the Hui Aloha Aina Society and is signed by the full membership together with other natives and white sympathizers with that organization. John Cummins, as president of the society, bears the precious instrument and, with the other members of the party, constitute the committee to present the petition to the President of the United States.

The ideas of the committee and of the party are clear. They have figured restoration down to the position of a dead letter, and realize that there is no chance for Liliuokalani in any political capacity in this country.

The trend of events of the past six months and the ultimate passage of the Turpie Resolution has settled that matter in the minds of the most sanguine of their number.

The next idea of the ex-hangers-on was the advantages likely to accrue under annexation. Their petition is for a territorial Government under the supervision of the United States Government, as in the present cases of New Mexico, Arizona and Oklahoma.

The committee, the society and their supporters have figured out an open franchise under such a condition and hope in that way to win what they have righteously lost by their past political course.

They think the present administration and list of officials now belonging to, and to become parts of the Government, can be snowed under by their ballots if their little scheme proves successful, thus reinstating the old cast of favorites to run the republic.

Mr. Cummins has spent several weeks working up the scheme and left feeling sure of a hearty reception by President Cleveland and the accomplishment of the mission.

On reaching Washington the committee will (if they have a chance) present their petition to the President, and request an early response.

Delayed at Oahu.

The young ladies and gentlemen expected home from school today have reached Oahu and could proceed no further on account of the strikes on the railways. They are receiving the careful attention of Hon. C. B. Bishop and other Hawaiian friends.

The party will try to reach Vancouver for the next steamer.

At Remond Grove.

Sixty-five couples of young people attended the dance at Remond Grove Friday night. The night was superb, cloudless and pleasant. The program consisted of seventeen dances. The Quintette Club was in attendance. The party reached the city at 1:15 this morning.

On account of the death of Mr. S. N. Castle, the Hawaiian Mission Children's Society will not meet at Mr. Hall's to-night. The meeting has been postponed to next Saturday evening, July 21st.

A STRAIGHT REPUBLICAN PARTY.

The Schutzen's Meet and Form for the Campaign.

The Schutzen Club held a large and enthusiastic meeting last night. The meeting was continued to a late hour and several important business matters received careful consideration. The Club was presented with two large oil paintings for their new hall, one, the "Battle of Bunker Hill," by Captain Carl Klemme; the other, the "Battle of New Orleans," by E. Klemme. A life size painting of President Dole was also reported.

The Club then proceeded to organize a Republican party, straight and simple. In an hour this had been accomplished and the committee had been appointed. The party is organized for the coming campaign and is a nearly like the Republican party in America as circumstances require. The platform will be given out in a few days and the party will appear in the front for the ratification of all Republicans.

The meeting adjourned at 10:30.

AN OLD RESIDENT GONE.

S. N. CASTLE PASSES AWAY AT 8:30 THIS MORNING.

Once Prominent in Hawaii's Social, Political and Religious Life—Funeral Sunday P. M.

Mr. S. N. Castle died shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. He had been ill for some time, recovering somewhat a few days ago, but relapsing again yesterday, passed away this morning at 8:30. Of respect to the venerable citizen's family the hardware stores in town have remained closed all day and flags were displayed at half-mast.

Samuel Northrup Castle was born in California, in New York State, August 12th, 1808. His childhood and youth was full of hardship and poverty. He was one of a family of nine children. Vigorous health added to a determination to have an education enabled him to acquire more than was usual in the schools of those days. He had a retentive memory, read much, and was able to make use of his information. He taught school for several winters, was clerk from time to time in several country stores, and, developing a taste and fitness for business, selected that for his life. It was said of him then and has often been said of him since, that he would have been a good lawyer, for he was possessed of a logical mind, quick perception and sound judgment. This opinion was justified in the earlier years of Hawaiian jurisprudence, when he was selected as arbitrator in several cases.

He became a member of the Congregational Church when about 30 years old, and from then till his death tried to live up to his belief.

While cashier of a bank in Cleveland, Ohio, he became convinced that he ought to offer his services for missionary work, and presented his name to the A. B. C. F. M. as a teacher, but he was needed in a financial capacity, and was sent to Hawaii as an assistant agent of the missionary colony then here. He arrived in 1837 in the missionary ship Fraser.

With the largest of the several reinforcements, Mr. Castle, chamberlain soon dying, he became the agent of the mission, in which capacity he acted till 1860, when he resigned. About 1850 he established, with Mr. A. S. Cooke, the mercantile house of Castle & Cooke.

Early in 1841 his wife died, leaving an infant daughter, now Mrs. E. G. Hitchcock. He went to the United States in the fall and returned in 1843, bringing the present Mrs. Castle. Until 1860, when he was stricken with illness, Mr. Castle was very actively associated with the political, social and religious life of the country. Taking the political side first it may be said that he was a member of the Legislature in 1848 and 1865. Afterward, during the reigns of Kamehameha V and Kalakaua, he was a member of the Privy Council; and during Kalakaua's reign was appointed a member of the House of Nobles, and served until failing health necessitated his resignation, when he was succeeded by H. A. Wideman. He retained an active interest in the political affairs of the country to the time of his death. During the disturbed reign of Lunalilo Mr. Castle became convinced that the time was rapidly approaching when a distinctive Hawaiian Government must cease and believing that the best interests of the country would be realized under annexation, he had since been an earnest advocate of annexation to the United States. He lived and rejoiced to see the Hawaiian Islands under a republican form of Government.

Mr. Castle has always taken an active interest in the commercial affairs of the country. He was an original member and was for many years president of the Chamber of Commerce. He was also an original member of the Board of Trustees of the Queen's hospital, of the Sailor's Home and of Oahu College, of the last of which he was treasurer for a term of forty years. Failing health compelled his withdrawal from this work.

His health has compelled Mr. Castle to be retired to his home and for the last ten years he has not been a familiar figure on the streets of Honolulu.

He leaves, besides his wife and Mrs. Hitchcock, seven children and sixteen grandchildren. His children are: William B. Castle, attorney-at-law; George P. Castle, of Castle & Cooke; James B. Castle, Collector-General of Customs; Henry N. Castle, editor of the Commercial-Advertiser; Mrs. Coleman, of the Kindergarten; Miss Carrie Castle, and Mrs. Helen Meade of Ann Arbor, Mich.

ABOUT THEIR DUTY BOXES.

A Sailor Boy Enters a Protest Against Boyish Discipline.

EDITOR STAR: The shrill whistle sounds, the boatman pipes all hands. At that warning sound a stillness reigns throughout Her Majesty's ship. "Bring your duty boxes to divisions with you," is yelled out by stentorian voices. A sudden panic seems to have taken possession for the time.

A duty box is a small article for depositing one's names, mothers', sweethearts', and sisters' letters from home, sacred relics, etc., dear to the sailor they belong to. Are these to be overhauled?

Naturally the sailor shrinks from the ordeal of prying eyes, but really there is no cause for alarm, for these little boxes are carefully placed at the foot of each man, whilst the stern official gravely walks along the ranks.

Whilst the young sailor is in a trailing ship he is taught to keep his belongings clean—arms and legs are daily inspected, for the young idea is apt to fly shy of soap and water.

Cleanliness is next to godliness; granted such is the case; but when one has reached years of discretion it is calling to be reminded of his childhood days. If conscience he actually does resist this slight, it is time he left the service he is serving in.

Men are required; but if these men are converted into boys again, the fault rests with those who enforce childish discipline.

DUTY BOX.

FIRED BY COMBUSTION.

WILDER'S COAL PILE BURNING ON THE INSIDE.

May Prove a Troublesome Blaze—Firemen Doing Good Work—Water From the Bay.

At 12:55 to-day the fire bell rang and No. 1 Engine charged down Fort street to the wharf, closely followed by No. 2 chemical.

The fire, proved to be in the great pile of coal, containing 3000 tons, to the rear of Wilder's warehouse, and belonging to the Wilder Steamship Company.

The cause of the fire was spontaneous combustion, and smoke was issuing from the sides and top of the pile when the engines arrived. The chemical engine of No. 2 turned a healthy stream against the solid wall of coal, but did little good.

Captain King, Minister of the Interior, had in the meantime taken charge and ordered the firemen, with hose and picks, on top of the coal. Deep holes were made here and there and flooded with water. But this availed nothing, as the fire was deep and the coal packed hard.

Then began the work of cutting and wading the coal away on the sides. But the deeper gone the further the fire was seen to extend, and the chances are that it reaches half through the pile.

As the STAR goes to press the firemen are working away diligently, but little hope of checking the fire before night. The chemical engine withdrew at 1:30 and No. 1 is pumping water from the bay and throwing two streams. The warehouse containing the U. S. Government coal stands against the burning pile.
