August 23, 1976

Dear Friend:

The campaign to elect Nelson K. Doi for Mayor of Honolulu is in full swing, and we'd like to invite you to be an active participant if you haven't yet been contacted.

Canvassing is about complete and stew and rice rallies have begun. A $20 steak-fry fund-raiser is scheduled for Friday, August 27, 6:00 p.m. at the Neal Blaisdell Center with plenty of food, drinks, and entertainment. If you're interested in attending or participating in any of these activities, please call headquarters - 537-1981.

Enclosed please find a "Kokua Book" and a return reply envelope. This "Kokua Book" is one of the most important activities in our campaign. It enables voters to commit their votes to Nelson. It only requires that you contact ten of your friends and relatives and ask them to pledge their votes. They need not contribute money or volunteer their time unless they choose to do so. All we are asking is that they go out and vote for Nelson Doi on October 2.

We need 80,000 votes to win this election and you can play an important role if you can recruit supporters for Nelson.

It is vitally important that you begin completing the book immediately. Please return the book within five (5) days whether it is completely filled or not so that those individuals listed can receive information about Nelson as well as the campaign. All names will be kept confidential.

Additional Kokua Books may be obtained by calling the headquarters. If you have not yet visited our headquarters, please do so. We are located at 404 Piikoi Street, Room 225. Our office hours are 8:00 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. daily and 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on Saturdays. Many volunteers are needed to work on a host of activities. Please join us as many others are doing. Mahalo.

Sincerely,

LINDA Y. WONG, Campaign Co-Chairperson

Nelson K. Doi

This book is the tool for the most important part of Nelson K. Doi's campaign, the person to person contact that will build a winning vote. Talk to your friends, relatives and people you work with or anyone else you can think of. Perhaps they might help in the campaign or give a small donation as well as their vote to Nelson Doi. In whichever way they can help, be sure to write their full names (last name first) and addresses in your book. Be sure to include apartment numbers. Obtain home addresses and zip codes rather than P.O. Box numbers. Phone numbers are also important. Fill out separate sheets for husbands and wives. Your work on this project will supply the votes, volunteers and contributions Nelson Doi needs to be elected Mayor of Honolulu.

A Statement on GOVERNMENT SERVICES (II)

The worst enemy of any large organization is aimlessness. It causes uncertainty, indirection and wasted effort. This is always an unsettling experience, which erodes morale and reduces the importance of each individual's contribution.

A large organization, such as the State government, requires and deserves clear-cut goals, a sense of mission and resources equal to the task. The people who work for that government are entitled to know these goals and be a part of them.

This is what I propose for the government of the State of Hawaii.

The State government has the primary policy powers for shaping the physical, social and economic environment for all of us.

I will use such powers to shape that environment for the better.

In broad terms, this means limiting urban sprawl and conserving farmlands for food production; generating jobs, reducing unemployment and combating inflation; restoring education to its former vigor; improving health care and providing opportunities for the disadvantaged.

In the context of government service, it means providing a climate in which government employees can work with confidence and have a sense of achievement. We all want government to work well and responsively. But this does not happen by accident. It requires positive commitment on the part of the executive to assure that creativity can flourish.

Responsive and responsible government requires openness and constructive participation by all. Public information should be public. The average citizen needs confidence that the State government is fair and open, and will listen.

Here are some of my specific thoughts on things we must do:

1. Advancement within the public service must be on merit and ability to serve the public. We do not need "cronyism," political pressure on promotions, or conflicts of interest in our system.
2. Public employees should not be pressured to make political contributions or do political campaign work. It is their right to participate, but it should be an individual choice freely made.
3. Creativity in public service should be prized and encouraged. Finding new and better ways to serve the public is crucial to maintaining public confidence in our government.
4. We need to redefine our goals in all departments, and set priorities to reach those goals. Those working in the various programs, as well as the Legislature and the interested public, should contribute their thinking to setting these goals and priorities. What we decide to do we must do well, and we must support these decisions with money and positions.
5. The indiscriminate "freezing" of positions and across-the-board cuts in money and personnel, without regard to program, is a "cop-out" from the responsibility to make decisions on goals and priorities. It cannot continue.

A MEMORANDUM TO GOVERNMENT SERVICES

6. The new public employees bargaining law must be made to work. The public employee, in exchange for commitment and service, is entitled to decent wages and other benefits. The public employee is also entitled to participate in decisions which affect his or her job. I look forward to working with the various unions involved to make the promise of the bargaining act a reality.

A Statement on HOUSING

We have a housing crisis in Hawaii.

The statistics are impressive:*

- Vacancy rates steadily under three per cent.
- More doubling up of families than any other state.
- Long, long waiting lists for public housing.
- The lowest rate of home ownership in the nation.
- Very high home construction costs -- and matching rental rates.
- Disproportionately large shares of income paid for housing.
- Less floorspace for more money than elsewhere in the country.

For most of our people, the choices are sharply limited. They cannot buy in the private housing market because they cannot pay the high downpayments and the large monthly payments required. They are forced to live in high-priced rental housing which may be very poor in quality. Or, they have to double up with relatives or friends.

But our task in Hawaii is not just to build sufficient numbers of houses at prices people can afford. We must also meet the intangible needs and desires of people as to the type of homes they want to live in -- such things as a sense of community or neighborhood, and close contact with family.

Our housing crisis must be met in the context of our critical land situation. We have limited land. Our good farm lands must be preserved to grow the food to feed ourselves and a hungry world, and to sustain our agricultural base. On Oahu, farm land is also open space, and as such, valuable to an urban community.

These factors are part of the economics of the present housing market. Land is limited and much of it is controlled by prospective developers. Housing is built in small amounts and sold for high prices. Much of our present housing construction is no longer for shelter, it's for speculation or investment.

We need sound land use, tax, transportation, and conservation policies, all working together to assure orderly urban development and the preservation of agriculture and open space. Where possible, new housing should be built within the existing urban districts. New urban districts should be in land unsuited for agriculture and not essential for open space use.

Most of the legal authority for this already exists. We should, however, add one very important element -- an Urban Development Corporation. This public organization, working with the County governments to effectively combine the needs and resources of all governmental agencies, will build and sell or rent homes. The homes will be for eligible Hawaii residents who do not own a home and cannot afford one at today's prices. The corporation will control the price of these homes by building in substantial numbers and selling close to cost. Resale must be to the corporation at a price which protects the owner's original investment and pays him for any improvements, but prohibits speculation. The home may then be resold by the corporation to another eligible buyer.

On Oahu, these homes can be low-rise garden units, or high-rise construction with adjacent open areas. In this way, we can make the most efficient use of our expensive and limited land. We must be careful that the design is good and the construction of first quality.

This plan does not compete with the private housing market -- the people served are not part of it.

This is an approach to solving our housing crisis which will work. We will use legal authority which, for the most part, is already on the books. It will build homes for our people at prices they can afford to pay. It will build homes in pleasant surroundings and tie them in with transportation and other public facilities. It will keep new construction within urban districts designed to preserve our agriculture and open lands.

Our housing crisis is a disgrace to the State. It cannot be solved by talk and half measures. We can put together a program which will work.

Tom GILL
GOVERNOR

A Statement on THE ISSUES

Tom Gill is a candidate for the office of Governor of the State of Hawaii. His rich and varied experience makes him easily the best qualified of the candidates seeking election.

Tom Gill has served as a leader of the Territorial and State House of Representatives, Congressman, War on Poverty director and Lieutenant Governor. He is a principal author of the State Land Use Law, Statehood government reorganization act, and pacesetting housing legislation. In Congress he was a floor manager for the mass transit and civil rights acts of 1964, and helped write and enact the Economic Opportunity Act which began the War on Poverty. As director of the War on Poverty program here, he was recognized as having one of the most effective State programs in the nation. As Lieutenant Governor he reformed Hawaii's election laws, and brought to the forefront the economic, governmental and planning issues on which he seeks election.

OPEN GOVERNMENT

Tom Gill firmly believes in open, honest government and citizen participation. He will support public financing of campaigns, and he will eliminate the use of government works projects for patronage. Tom Gill will rotate architect and engineering job awards among qualified professionals or, where appropriate, have recommendations made by an impartial panel. He will make public all aspects of government bid awards. He will open up government operations to public scrutiny, and invite citizen input.

INFLATION

Tom Gill will bring the full resources of the State government to bear in the fight against inflation. He will use the market influence of the State government to reduce inflationary building booms, restrain urban sprawl that drives up the cost of government, and build homes that people can afford to live in. He will encourage the increase of local food production and strive to lower food prices.

EMPLOYMENT

Tom Gill will improve jobs in the tourism industry and elsewhere and seek to generate new employment opportunities in diversified agriculture, research and "think" industries. If unemployment here remains at current record high levels, he will support State programs that will serve as counterparts to public service jobs legislation now under consideration by Congress.

HOUSING

Tom Gill will develop home ownership programs that will produce satisfying homes at prices people can afford; homes with privacy and open space, in neighborhoods that have a sense of community and good access to employment and transportation.

LAND USE AND ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION

Tom Gill will use the State Land Use Law he helped to write as an effective tool for the preservation of farmlands, open space and conservation areas, and the limitation of costly urban sprawl. He will develop the new planning tools of incremental and conditional zoning and higher use easements, and assure that tax, agricultural and transportation policies support land use policy. He will work to pull together the planning mechanisms of both the State and the Counties to insure a unified and cooperative result.

TRANSPORTATION

Tom Gill will provide the transportation alternatives Hawaii needs in an era of constantly rising fuel costs and increasing urban congestion. Tom Gill will help the County build Pearl City-Hawaii Kai and trans-Koolau rapid transit lines to provide fast, efficient and comfortable transportation for the people of Honolulu. To assure timely and convenient surface transportation among the islands, he will support the operation of an interisland ferry with roll on-roll off freight-carrying capacity.

EDUCATION

Tom Gill will return Hawaii to the pursuit of educational excellence that has been one of the State's most cherished political goals. He will maintain the strength of the statewide education system, expand opportunities for creativity on the part of classroom teachers, and undertake innovative programs to make the school experience more rewarding.

Tom Gill wants Hawaii to have an outstanding University. This means proper funding and the prevention of political interference. He will help restore the University to its rightful place as a leading center of creative thought.

POPULATION

Tom Gill believes that there are limits to growth and supports restrictions that will preserve Hawaii's irreplaceable resources. While existing legal or constitutional authority will not allow the State to regulate immigration directly, such authority as does exist lies with the Federal government. Tom Gill favors new Federal legislation to provide benefits for immigrant impact areas like Hawaii; legislation comparable to that providing for education of dependents of Federal employees.

EQUAL RIGHTS

Tom Gill believes in equal rights and equality of opportunity for all groups in the community, and will support legislation required to achieve this goal. He will insist on full enforcement of existing laws which provide for these rights.

A Statement on EMPLOYMENT

Over 31,000 of Hawaii's people were without jobs in June 1974. These are men and women who want to work and are available for work. They make up over eight per cent of the State labor force.

Unemployment rates topped ten per cent on the Big Island and approached nine per cent on Maui. These are the highest levels in our history except during periods of major labor disputes.

There are many reasons for this. Many are related to the state of the national economy. The Federal government is following a policy of tight money to combat inflation. The result has been extremely high interest rates and a slowdown in many basic U.S. industries. The fuel crisis this Spring had a negative impact upon employment.

As long as current Federal policies are in effect, we must expect a continuation of high unemployment. A new fuel crisis, which many experts see ahead for us, could create further problems for tourism and construction, two of our major employers. Our agricultural industry faces the long-term prospect of declining employment. Sugar is doing very well on world markets. But the industry has eliminated many jobs. The average employment rate fell about three per cent annually throughout the decade of the '60's. This trend will probably continue and may accelerate to 4 to 4.5 per cent until 1980.

Pineapple is the softest spot in our agricultural economy. By 1975, pineapple acreage in Hawaii will have decreased from its peak by one-third. This reduction has had, and will continue to have, severe repercussions on our job market. Job losses on the farms are compounded by job losses in the canneries as production is shifted toward fresh pineapple for the Mainland market. This shift alone may affect 1,000 regular year-round employees, about 2,000 intermittent year-round employees, and nearly 9,000 seasonal employees. During 1960-69, pineapple employment declined about 1.7 per cent per year. This will accelerate drastically during the current decade.

The military, until this year Hawaii's largest income-producing "industry", is eliminating the U.S. Army Pacific Command headquarters, and the Navy's Pacific Service Command with the loss of many jobs. Post-Vietnam cuts in spending in the Pacific area by the U.S. Defense Department may bring about further reductions in military-related Federal employment.

There is no better place in the world to live than Hawaii. But to the person who has no job it does not seem so. To be denied the opportunity to work, to provide for oneself, is a terrible thing. The great period of unemployment during the depression years of the 1930's left scars upon the American spirit which are still raw. We cannot permit this in Hawaii.

Every person in our State should have the opportunity to work at a job which is meaningful and satisfying and which pays a fair wage. Anything less is a denial of basic human rights.

There are many things we can do:

Increases in employment in the tourist industry have not matched the growth of the industry itself. While tourist spending in Hawaii has gone up 17 per cent per year, the number of hotel employees has increased only 12.5 per cent each year. Slower growth of the industry is forecast during the next few years. The industry must develop more and better paying jobs to serve roughly the same number of tourists.

This can be done by emphasizing a quality product for our visitors. More service and better service is what is required. This requires more and better paid employees. We must appeal -- particularly in our Neighbor Island development -- to the tourist who demands a higher quality product and is willing to pay for it.

As the agricultural pattern in our islands changes, we will be afforded an opportunity to diversify into new areas such as food crops, seed crops, animal feed production, and ornamental plantings. All of these will be encouraged to the fullest extent to take up the slack in our agriculture industry and to provide some new jobs.

There are opportunities for new industry in our islands. I will press for the development of such clean, non-polluting industries as "think tanks", computer soft-ware producers, and communications and research activities.

There are future employment opportunities in such things as aqua-culture and in the mining of manganese nodules from the seabed. The resources of the State government will be placed fully behind the research and development efforts necessary to bring new jobs for Hawaii's people into being from these areas.

I believe that a fixed-guideway transportation system for the island of Oahu is essential and that we must begin to build it now. The construction of this system will provide hundreds of jobs and, once completed, new jobs will be available in the operation of the system.

I am dedicated to providing decent jobs for Hawaii's people. This means people who make Hawaii their home. We should not create jobs which will only attract more people to Hawaii and create further population problems.

In the event the national economy falls deeper into a recession, driving unemployment levels higher, I will propose legislation establishing a Statewide program of public service jobs.

These will be useful jobs on projects designed to enhance and improve our State -- the repair and improvement of beaches and parks, roadways and other public facilities.

Hawaii's people deserve good, well-paying jobs. I will do everything possible to insure that they get them.

Tom GILL
GOVERNOR

A Statement on EDUCATION

We in Hawaii embarked on a pursuit of educational excellence a good many years ago. Education was the most politically binding, broadly-supported objective of the landslide Democratic victory of 1954, from which so much of our situation today originates. Then Hawaii had suffered from limited social opportunity. Education in 1954 seemed much of the answer to opportunity and equality. Support for education was overwhelming. As a result, education has been much improved, and in our pursuit of excellence we have come at least halfway.

Now the question is whether Hawaii will stop and fall back in education, or whether we will go on. I want to go on. I want to renew this pursuit of excellence in education. For me this is not just a phrase, but a program. In broad terms, we all should pursue a course which will give the teacher both more responsibility and more opportunity to apply his or her training and skills.

Our single Department of Education system can serve us well in central purchasing, in gaining funding from the Legislature, making payrolls, maintaining fiscal records, planning and directing school construction. Centralization allows us to spread the educational dollar evenly in remote rural areas and in the urban neighborhoods of Honolulu. But centralization should not prevent creative input from the individual teacher. The true test of a successful education system is success in the classroom, and it is in the classroom that the teacher's contribution is foremost. This should be encouraged.

Our communities differ and so, too, should the atmosphere, tone and program of the schools. They must involve and be a part of the neighborhoods, and no one is better equipped for this than the person who works day in and day out with its children --- the teacher.

These are generalizations. I believe they are sound, but any policy of great importance must be pursued with urgency and commitment. Specifically, I am appalled by the recent cutback in services and the layoff of probationary teachers. This may only be a start, because seniority lists have been drawn up school by school, and tenured teachers of minimal seniority may be the next to go. I am absolutely opposed to this trend --- opposed to the breach of faith with the young teachers, and opposed to the dissolution of the innovative programs. If elected, I will put a stop to this trend of deterioration and again put education in forward motion.

Please join me in restoring education to its rightful place in our community.
