GUARD OFFICERS OFFER SERVICES TO GEN. JOHNSON

Company Commanders From Every Island Volunteer For Duty With Regulars

Offering their services to the United States army, both as individuals and organization commanders, many officers of the National Guard of Hawaii have both in person and by mail in the last 48 hours notified Brig. Gen. Samuel I. Johnson, N. G. H., of their willingness to go at once for active service on the border as soon as needed.

"I have had many offers in the last few days from officers of our National Guard, both as individuals and company commanders, offering their services and those of their companies, to the government, through me, for active service," said Gen. Johnson this morning. "The offers come not only from Oahu, but all other islands on which there are National Guard organizations."

National Guard authorities today said there would be no difficulty in mustering in a very large proportion of the National Guard of Hawaii into the federal service from those who have volunteered their services this week. "On Hawaii I found the greatest interest in the Mexican situation," said Charles R. Forbes, superintendent of public works, who returned from the Big Island this morning on the Kilauea. "There are large numbers of guardsmen willing and ready to offer their services right away."

The two representatives were said to be on the steamer arriving today but inquiries as late as noon failed to locate them. Announcement was made by the Secret Service of the appearance of a new $10 counterfeit note, on the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas.

SEVENTEEN HELD IN PRISON; NEW ATTACK BY TREVINO UPON AMERICAN SOLDIERS EXPECTED

Threatens to Treat Column Below San Antonio as 10th Cavalry Were Treated When Trapped at Carrizal—Washington Likely to Demand Immediate Repudiation—Funston Hears From Pershing

(Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless)
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—Gen. Funston has reported to Secretary Baker that 11 survivors of the battle at Carrizal have returned to the Pershing line, and that the relief column sent from Colonia Dublan has found 16 others. Seventeen are known to have been captured and imprisoned at Chihuahua, so that 40 of the 84 under Capt. Boyd are unaccounted for and are believed to be killed. The stories of the rescued troopers shed but vague light upon the fate of the others. Indications in official quarters late today are that while the United States considers there is nothing to mediate in the new crisis, still the expected offer of the Latin-American countries may be acceptable and the United States feels favorably inclined toward letting these southern republics use their influence to have Carranza perform his rightful duties.

(Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless)
WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—A break with Mexico and war expected on top of that is the situation as summarized by the official viewpoint at Washington this afternoon.

Relations between the United States and Mexico have been stretched to such a tensity by the news of the Carrizal fight that it is believed the snapping of the thread is imminent.

The belief is held here that the Carranzistas who surrounded the 10th Cavalry troops at Carrizal deliberately massacred them, and this massacre is felt to be the final straw.

Secretary of State Lansing and Secretary of War Baker conferred with the president today, spending much time in going over the Mexican situation. The possibility of drastic action in retaliation for the Mexican slaughter was considered.

If Carranza accepts responsibility for the attack, showing that his government stands behind Gen. Gomez and the Mexican soldiers who trapped the U. S. Cavalrymen, it is considered certain that the regular troops along the border will be thrown across the Rio Grande and that Uncle Sam will proceed with a vigorous occupation of most of Northern Mexico.

Action by the administration is now understood to be waiting upon the full report from Gen. Pershing, so that it will be definitely known how far the reports of a deliberate massacre of the Americans are confirmed by the facts. It is believed that after this report has been received, the first act of the administration will be to demand that the de facto government repudiate the act.

Such preliminary reports as have been received convince the officials of the state and war departments that the Americans were deliberately trapped. The stories from men who saw some of the earlier stages of the fight, and the reports brought back by the horse-holders, as well as the later accounts by some of the troopers who were in the early fighting and escaped, all go to prove that the Americans did not provoke the battle, but were led into it by treachery.

Trevino Makes Threat of New Attack Upon American Troops

(Associated Press Service by Federal Wireless)
CHIHUAHUA, Mex., June 24.—Reports have been received here that American columns have been seen advancing across the border from San Antonio in the direction of Ojoeliente. Gen. Trevino, commanding the Carranza troops between Chihuahua and San Antonio, has ordered an attack by the Mexicans in the event that the Americans do not immediately retreat. Trevino says that his men will treat the Americans in the same way the 10th Cavalry troops were treated at Carrizal.

Story of Trap Drifts to U. S. Camp

SAN ANTONIO, Texas.—One at a time, according to the meager despatches from the headquarters of Gen. Pershing, at Colonia Dublan, survivors have been brought into safety by the scouts sent out to search for survivors, or managed to find their own way through to the main camp, and report the destruction of their commands. Pershing Says Reports Are Sustained. These reports, says Gen. Pershing, corroborate the statements made immediately after the fighting that the Americans were guiltless of any provocation. They had obeyed orders, avoided fighting until fighting was absolutely forced upon them in self-defense, and then they fought for hot, weary hours, until a charge of the Mexican horsemen, numbering hundreds, broke their lines and left them at the mercy of the Mexicans. Pershing, in his reports, tells little that is not already known regarding the struggle near the horse corral of the Santo Domingo ranch, not far from the sun-blasted little pueblo of Carrizal. His information for the most part comes from Mexican sources and the horse-holders, who were dragged away from their posts when their frightened charges, stampeded by the wild rush of yelling Mexicans, bolted, leaving the 130 men of the two troops—C and H—to their fate. Of the early stages of the fight they know something; of what happened after the stampede they are able to tell little.

WAILUKU CO. TAX ASSESSMENT IS NOW SETTLED

Announcement that an agreement has been reached between officials of the Wailuku Sugar Company of Maui, and the territory, by which the assessment on the company's holdings has been reduced from $4,500,000, the original figure, to $4,100,000, was made today by Attorney-General I. M. Stainback.

"We have agreed on the Wailuku Sugar Company case, the only tax appeal on Maui," said the attorney-general this morning, and added that Deputy Attorney-General W. H. Heen and former Governor W. F. Frear, attorneys for several of the Hawaii plantations having appeals in for reductions, are leaving this afternoon for Hilo to work on some of the tax appeal cases on the Big Island.

"Most of the Hawaii cases will await the return of the tax assessor," Stainback added. "On a number of the larger plantations we have practically agreed on the figures. The others we have not yet had a chance to take up."

In the Wailuku case the return was $2,750,000, so that the assessment now agreed on is a raise of $1,350,000.

All the thunder of a genuine defensive bombardment will be heard next Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock by residents of Kailua and Kaimuki, when proof firing of several new mortars recently installed in Diamond Head (Fort Ruger) will be held.

Capt. Mettler made it plain today that the inspection is not a special one, made in view of any approaching war with Mexico, but only the regular inspection, made once a year.

ARE WILLING TO STOP PRACTISE OF MAGUSA HERE

A letter from G. Negoro, representing Japanese practitioners of the magusa treatment here, has been received by Attorney-General I. M. Stainback, and says that if he decides the treatment is considered as medical practice, they will discontinue it.

The communication, which covers two legal size typewritten pages, says the magusa treatment is not considered as medical practice in Japan. It consists of producing a blister by means of burning a hole in the flesh with a piece of lighted punk or heated metal tube.

"I think the decision as to whether the treatment is medical practice comes within City and County Attorney Stainback's jurisdiction more than mine," said the attorney-general. "I do not handle this class of law, which comes under the criminal statutes."

Treatment, Very Old. Magusa treatment has been in effect in Japan for more than 1000 years, according to a local Japanese, who has made a study of the subject, and the treatment has never been questioned in that country, although not used by the modern physicians of that country exclusively.

Magusa is made from a moss which grows in Japan along the streams and in the meadows. It corresponds to the mugwort plant or common wormwood in America of the Artemisia species. When left in the sun to dry it becomes very light and cottony and is of a yellow green color.

The substance is dried, cut up in small sections and sold at the Japanese stores in the city. Enough of the moss can be purchased for 5 cents to cauterize 100 sores or inflammations. The moss is specially prepared for use by the Japanese.

Japanese Claim Beneficial. Japanese state that the magusa treatment is effective in the case of rheumatism and many other diseases. A small quantity of the moss is placed on the skin and then lighted. It burns into the skin, causing much pain, but with beneficial results, according to three Japanese interviewed on the subject.

Magusa is not a part of the modern treatment in effect in Japan, but is applied by men who have made a study of the treatment. Many of the Japanese are proficient in the art of magusa treatment and one noted expert has made a tour of the world demonstrating the value of the moss in curing rheumatism. One of the Japanese had two scars on his hands and stated that the scars were made by the magusa treatment, but declared that the scars had cured his rheumatism.

Many American and foreign doctors have been making a special study of the magusa treatment for the past year in Japan and they have come to the conclusion that the theory is agreeable to the modern treatment, according to a local Japanese. One man went through Russia last year and established magusa treatment as a cure for many of the diseases obtained in the trenches. According to local reports there are a few men in the city who practice, but none of them are physicians.

ALLEGING INJURIES FROM STEWARD, GREEN SUES MATSON VESSEL

Suit for the recovery of alleged damages in the sum of $10,500 has been filed in Federal court by William Green of Honolulu against the Matson Navigation company's steamer Matsunaka, the complainant declaring that, while on his way to Honolulu in the steamer of the vessel last April, he was assaulted and battered by a ship's steward.

Marshal J. J. Smiddy attached the vessel last yesterday afternoon, the Matsunaka being released soon afterward on bond in the sum of $21,000, furnished by the company with E. D. Tenney and Charles H. Atherton as sureties.

Green alleges that the assault upon him was of a violent nature, in the course of which, he claims, he was pushed against an iron railing on the ship several times. John H. Drew, manager of the shipping department of Castle & Cooke, stated this morning, when asked concerning the suit which has been brought against the Matson steamer Matsunaka by William Green alleging that he had been injured by a steward on board the Matsunaka, that the steward had not touched Green and that the company would absolutely deny the charge.

44 STUDENTS, LARGEST CLASS IN M'KINLEY HISTORY, GRADUATED

Inspiring Addresses Heard By Several Hundred Persons in Opera House

McKinley high school attained another record last night when 44 of its students, constituting the largest class ever graduated from a secondary school in the territory, received diplomas from the hands of Professor Marion M. Scott, the veteran principal and educator.

The commencement exercises were held in the opera house and, while simple, were marked by two forceful addresses, one by Atty. David L. Withington and the other by Henry W. Kinney, superintendent of public instruction. In the class of 1916 was a strong reminder of what Hawaii is accomplishing along lines of education, the graduates representing, among other nationalities, Japanese, Chinese, Korean, Hawaiian and Swedish. Several hundred persons, including friends and relatives of the graduates, attended the exercises.

Forming the theme of three student addresses, delivered by Joseph Stickney, Benjamin Yap and Kunichi Murata, was the fact that Hawaii is a great melting pot of nations and that the education of these nations is one of the greatest problems the territory is facing. Murata spoke from the standpoint of a Japanese born in Japan but educated in Hawaii. Stickney dwelt at length on the purposes of the Pan-Pacific movement.

Rev. L. L. Looftow opened the services with an invocation, this being followed by the salutatory by Miss Winona Wallace. Intermingled with the addresses and orations were several beautiful musical selections. Superintendent Kinney's remarks were confined largely to the influence of modern literature on education. He stated that, while schools may not pretend to turn out boys and girls fully educated, yet, if they have inculcated the reading habit, they have served to broaden the viewpoint of their graduates.

"I would rather see a boy of mine reading a dog-eared dime novel than not have him read anything at all," he declared, "for I know that if he has brains the time will come when the dime novel will not satisfy him."

Attorney Withington, whose topic was "Preparedness," spoke, in part, as follows:

"In the things of the spirit hard is the way and narrow is the path which we must tread if we would attain. What, then, are the conditions of attainment? What must one do to fulfill these conditions and attain a state of preparedness?"

"First of all, the choice of parents. Not so much the father, although it is well to have a decent, clean strain of blood upon the parental side, and the influence of the father is important, particularly in the adolescent years of the boy. This masculine influence, which we miss so much in these later days in our schools, is an important element in preparedness and not to be overlooked. But when it comes to choosing the mother, that is all-important; for the training of the child is naturally and wholesomely begun only by the mother. Quintilian, the greatest authority who ever wrote on education, says that the child should be trained and educated entirely by the mother up to the age of eight years; that is to say, up to the grammar-school age. Tacitus reminds us that Gracchus was trained by Cornelia, and Caesar by Aurelia, to discipline and endurance. We try to supply the deficiency of mothers by the kindergarten, by the primary schools, more often by the street. We try to replace both fathers and mothers by the juvenile court, by organizations of societies, by asylums, and confessions of a decadent condition of the race. There ought to be no necessity for a juvenile court, or orphan asylum. Society ought to be able to absorb those deprived of their natural protectors and trainers without such organized effort, and the tendency of this generation to magnify the importance of these agencies, which are but the nursing bottles of society, is altogether wrong.

"Again, true preparedness, to quote a second time the language of Isaiah, means 'precept must be upon precept, precept upon precept, line upon line, line upon line, here a little, and there a little.' Whatever is done must be done well to be of any value, and the child's education in this period is here a little and there a little, but not line upon line or precept upon precept.

"I am one of those who think that athletics are overdone in the colleges, particularly inter-college contests, and overdone on the mainland in inter-scholastic contests—perhaps not here. But in the best of the colleges and in many of the preparatory schools the boys, and to some degree the girls, can find only in athletics an opportunity for discipline or the sacrifice of self in order to attain a common end. There they learn that it is not the individual effort, but the united effort. There they learn that good habits, sleep, moderation, and what prepare one for the immediate exertion required in the final contest, and to that extent it is a splendid discipline, the value of which is diminished by publicity and glamor.

ONLY SEVEN ARE DELINQUENT ON LUSITANA WORK

At noon today only seven property owners had failed to pay their assessments on the Lusitana street improvement district No. 1. A total of $935.52 has been paid in of approximately $1000 due.

This morning there were eight assessments delinquent, but one of them was paid up shortly before noon. Deputy City and County Attorney Christy is rounding up the remainder of delinquent taxpayers.

The second payment of $1000 on the $10,022.39 due will become payable May 24, 1917, and will be delinquent after June 23, 1917.

ALIEA ROAD WILL BE MADE LONGER IN NEAR FUTURE

Homeowners near Aliea will be pleased to hear that bids for the construction of an extension to Aliea road will be advertised for next week, probably Monday.

According to officials of the public works department, the improvement road will be an earth roadway from Honolulu Sugar Mill to the home-steads, one and a half miles long, costing in the neighborhood of $6000 or $7000. It will supply homeowners in that vicinity a means of road communication to and from their tracts. Charles R. Forbes, superintendent of public works, was to sign the preliminary papers for the job today after his return from Hilo.

The public works department is also in the market for about 80,000 feet of Douglas fir, heavy stringers to be used in repairing the underpinning of Pier 16, one of the territorial wharves.

also disciplines the mind of the boy or girl. These schools are splendidly equipped, but the material with which they deal suffers from a lack of training at home; the lack of training to respect others which has contributed so much to the greatness of the Chinese nation.

"Again, heroes; not only the great outstanding figures of the race, but those superior minds and noble characters with whom during the days of youth we have been brought in contact, including some of our teachers, are a means of preparedness. The contact may be slight; the impression lasting."

The graduates were the recipients of many beautiful floral gifts from relatives and friends.

DAVIS CASE TO GO BEFORE U. S. SUPREME COURT

Appeal Will Be Perfected on Writ of Error From Decision of Judge W. W. Morrow

The case of Foster L. Davis, former deputy clerk and recent clerk of the local United States court, who was indicted on a charge of misappropriating the funds of his office, will be taken to the U. S. Supreme Court for a final decision.

This intended action on the part of the government became known today when District Attorney Seba C. Huber gave notice that at 10 o'clock next Tuesday morning he will make a motion to take the case to the higher court on a writ of error. Attorney Huber's motion for a rehearing of the case was denied today by Judge W. W. Morrow of the Court of Appeals of the Ninth circuit.

Judge Morrow said that, unless some entirely new propositions are presented, it is not generally the rule of courts to review their decisions. He added, however, that the court should be open for any questions involved in a case, and that he was in accordance with the act of District Attorney Huber in presenting the latter's views again.

"However," he concluded, "no error has been pointed out upon which the court might grant a rehearing."

CITY AFFAIRS AND SUPERVISOR NOTES

Next meeting is Monday night.

Kaimuki drainage survey had $500 appropriated for it last night.

Interest on registered warrants amounting to $1467.95 was voted last night.

The mayor was at the graduating exercises of McKinley High last night, and Supervisor Logan presided.

The purchasing agent was authorized to call for tenders on supplies and materials for city use for the next six months.

The board will go to Punahou in a body Monday afternoon at three o'clock to inspect the site of the proposed Circle Drive.

There will be a meeting of the finance committee Monday morning at 11 o'clock to consider the items in the budget for the coming half year. The board will take the matter up Monday night.

Complaint that garages in the downtown district had cut away half of the sidewalk in front of their places of business and so endangered life and limb of pedestrians was referred to the city engineer.

A new park, just below Diamond Head, came into the possession of the city last night. An executive order setting the land aside for city park purposes was read at the meeting. It runs from the road to the beach, and contains 8815 square feet.

The meeting adjourned before 9:30 but Supervisor Arnold, Harry Murray, manager of the sewer works, and Ed Lord, the contractor, kept Pete, the janitor, there waiting to turn out the lights for half an hour more, while they discussed the possibilities of a sludge plant in Honolulu.

Supervisor Larsen, in talking over the frontage tax laws last night, protested against that provision which makes the city pay for the pavement laid in front of territorial and federal property and in front of every school and church in the city. "Why should we pay for new pavement in front of a church or school any more than we should pay for a new roof when they need one?"

Supervisor Arnold came into the city from Aliea Wednesday night to attend a meeting of the board on the budget, and found that the date had been changed to Thursday night after he left the meeting Tuesday. Thursday night he came in to find that it had been called off, and the notice he was supposed to have had failed to reach him. It was planned to discuss the items of the budget after regular business had been cleared from the board last night, but it was again postponed.

Notice from the Industrial Accident Board of the award of three claims against the city under the Workmen's Compensation Act was received last night. Mrs. Fred Wright is to get $40 a month for six years, Mrs. John K. Aylett $5.77 a week for six years, and Mrs. Holokai Fern $2.88 a week for the same period. Mrs. Fern is the sister of Levi K. Kaelepu, a road laborer killed in an accident some time ago. Mrs. Wright will get $100 funeral expenses and $50 for doctor's bills and Mrs. Aylett $100 funeral expenses.

BELT LINE ROAD WILL COST WELL OVER MILLION

Engineer Collins Presents Supervisors With Report Showing Improvement Costs

Belt road improvements needed will cost Honolulu about $595,500 and the city's share in street improvements (it is proposed that it pay one-third of the cost on main thoroughfares) $561,000, a total of $1,156,500, according to a report submitted to the board of supervisors last night by George M. Collins, city engineer.

Supervisor Larsen arose during the meeting and opposed the issuance of bonds for roads at all, claiming that interest would bring the actual cost of the road from $25,000 a mile to $40,000. But there was no discussion on the figures he submitted to prove this.

Following is a synopsis of Collins' figures:

Completion of pali wall, $42,000; concrete road, Pali, $37,500; concrete road with road oil cushion coat from foot of pali to Kualoa, figuring concrete road sixteen feet wide, concrete six inches thick, $297,000; eighteen foot coral road from Kualoa point to South Kahana, $36,000; masonry retaining wall in vicinity of Kaawa, mile in length, $50,000; coral road, Waimea bridge to Haleiwa Hotel, $35,000; curve elimination and reconstruction of belt road between Waialua and Honolulu, $90,000. Total, $595,000.

The cost of the concrete road from the foot of the pali to Kualoa Point is figured at $22,000 a mile, the distance being thirteen and a half miles. City's Share One-Third.

In the matter of city street improvements the engineer's figures consider the municipality's share of the expense as one-third of the total cost, to which is added the cost of intersections and of the share of exempted frontages. His items include the following:

Beretania, from King to Nuuanu, $33,555.25; city's share, $11,185.08; Beretania, Alapai to Punahou, $111,350; city's share, $37,116.67; Beretania, Punahou to McCully, $28,751.25; city's share, $9,583.75; Beretania, McCully to King street at Moiliili, $39,572.50; city's share, $13,190.83. Total for Beretania, city's share, $93,500.

Nuuanu avenue, Beretania to Country Club entrance, $71,429.75; city's share, $23,813.25; Kalihi Valley road, King street to Waialae, $70,400; city's share, $23,466.67; Liliha street, King to Wyllie, $121,539; city's share, $40,513.00.

King street, Richards to McCully, $179,833.45; city's share, $59,944.48; King street, Liliha to Kahanui, $140,015.25; city's share, $46,671.75; Waialae Road, Manoa bridge to Koko Head avenue, $78,939.30; city's share, $26,313.10.

The city's share of street improvements in the business district is estimated at $100,000, while to that is added the cost of street widenings within the business section, at $47,500.

Clear For Action—The Carnival of 1917!

Seven and one-half months away is the Mid-Pacific Carnival of 1917.

Not one day in those seven months and a half but should be utilized in getting ready for the greatest Carnival Hawaii has ever staged. It is not a moment too soon to start now on the groundwork.

Hardly necessary it is to call attention to this fact, for every Carnival management has found its last few months crowded with detail which might have been handled better with an earlier start.

Begin now—and begin right!

Begin right by getting the Carnival corporation down to a clean-cut business basis on which to build the structure of 1917.

The first two requisites are:

1. Reorganizing the finances.
2. Advertising—in every available branch and by every available method.

And the first thing to do under No. 1 is to get down to brass tacks and bed rock on this troublesome point of Carnival stock assessments.

The Star-Bulletin believes, and this paper knows that men intimately connected with the Carnival management, now and prospective, also believe, that the Mid-Pacific Carnival, Ltd., should call in 100 per cent assessment on the stock issued two and one-half years ago.

No one knows what this stock is worth in realization. No one knows how many of the outstanding accounts are good and how many are bad. But there is a lively suspicion that a good many assessments will fall by the wayside, and no business should keep carrying such a mass of doubtful accounts without finding out what they mean.

When the stock was first issued, many individuals and firms paid up in full—they didn't want to be bothered with contributions in installments. This constitutes what may be called the first class of Carnival stockholders.

The second class is made up of individuals and firms that spread their Carnival stock account over say, three years, setting apart each month, or for some other definite period, a sum to be used in retiring the full amount.

The first and second classes are worth 100 cents on the dollar of stock subscription.

But there was a third class. Those in this class subscribed for the stock without very much thought as to whether they would have to pay up on it or not. It is here that the doubtful values lie. Possibly every subscriber of this class fully intended to pay it called on, but not being called on, forgot about it. Many perhaps are not now in the territory; many have lost their certificates.

At any rate, to get the Carnival on to the business basis it should be, the directors should call for 100 per cent payments, under the territorial law providing for the advertising of delinquents and re-selling of delinquent stock.

Until the corporation knows where it stands on stock already subscribed, it is not in a position to begin the financing of a new Carnival. No set of businessmen would feel justified in undertaking a fete calling for an expenditure of $15,000 or $20,000 without balancing the books up to date and knowing how the ledger stands.

And no businessman or civic leader would feel justified in the very large responsibilities of president without knowing how far his plans for a great and attractive Carnival could be based upon the sound foundation of a solvent treasury.

It is only justice to the men who must shoulder the 1917 Carnival that this matter of stock be put on a basis as sound as the rock of Gibraltar.

Such a call will separate sharply the supporters and the non-supporters; the people who can be relied on in the future and the people who can't be relied on. It will also stop the unfairness of asking to dig up cash firms and individuals who have paid or are ready to pay their 100 per cent, while others who subscribed have not fulfilled their pledge.

No. 2. Advertising.

In a live-wire talk to the Rotary Club recently Ed declared that the first appropriation of the Carnival corporation should be for advertising. He suggested the following as illustrative of the many channels which may be used:

Selection of methods.—Study of mechanics, cogency of opportunities, timeliness.

Direct advertising.—Reminders to former visitors and ex-residents, invitations to notables.

"Stories."—Magazines, periodicals, newspapers.

First aids.—Promotion Committee, Chamber of Commerce, Board Retail Trades, Fraternal Societies, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Ad Club, Rotary Club, Commercial Club, University Club, Polo and Racing Association, Schools, Army people, newspaper correspondents, special writers, Tuna Club, swimming, rowing, sailing, curing by climate, travel delights.

Advertising—and a material part of this should be through the absolutely effective channel of paid publicity in the advertising columns—will make Hawaii's carnivals greater and more profitable by far than they have ever been.

Because Hawaii was advertised, the tourist trade has grown into large proportions. Because the tourist trade's profits were advertising themselves and glorious Milton?

Hawaii, things have happened like the coming of the Great Northern.

When the merchants and other businesses of Honolulu put up $40,000 to keep the Great Northern on the run last spring, the stamp of business soundness was indelibly imprinted upon advertising for Hawaii. That cool $40,000 declared Honolulu's faith in advertising and the results of advertising.

Judicious and systematic advertising will bring thousands more tourists to Hawaii than came last spring—and every thousand means, at the lowest estimate, $4000 additional for Carnival season tickets alone!

The steamship lines are getting ready. Captain Matson told a representative of the Star-Bulletin in San Francisco a week ago that the queenly new Matson steamer will be ready by February or the first of March, 1917—and it's a safe guess that she will be ready for at least a part of the spring tourist traffic. And the hotels and lodging-houses are expanding. Accommodations are in the making.

Why not a really big and broad advertising campaign for the Carnival of 1917? The result of the right kind of a campaign is absolutely certain of success.

The Star-Bulletin firmly believes that public sentiment will back the directors in a vigorous move along the lines indicated. Certainly business judgment will back them.

MEXICO'S LOGICAL ANSWER.

Treachery and massacre in Mexico are the logical results of policy in Washington.

Uncle Sam should either keep hands off Mexican affairs absolutely or intervene thoroughly and decisively.

Keeping hands off means withdrawing the troops; means leaving the border defenseless; means surrendering the rights of Americans and other foreigners in Mexico to the banditry and spoliation of greedy, unscrupulous factions; means craven acknowledgment of failure; means, also, political disaster for the present Democratic administration.

Because the administration's handling of the Mexican problem has been weak, the Mexicans are emboldened to rob, murder and outrage; to massacre and to loot; to invade and to ravish.

For more than a year after President Wilson took office, the great mass of the people were willing to accept his handling of Mexican affairs, even though they were perplexed and troubled at his methods. They were willing to back him up because they believed he had some deeper knowledge, some better information than had reached the public; they believed that he had also some definite, statesmanlike plan to reach the goal all Americans must desire—peace, prosperity and progress for Mexico, and friendship between the two countries.

But every month now the administration is drifting into worse dilemmas. The Wilson policy toward Mexico simply is not working out. "Watchful waiting" has become an epithet little better than insulting.

MAUI AGAIN RISES TO THE EMERGENCY OF DISASTER.

Twice within a few months Maui has been visited by tragedy almost unparalleled in the islands' recent history—last winter, when the floods swept Iao Valley with a loss of more than a dozen lives, and on Thursday afternoon, when a plantation train jumped a trestle near Hana, five fatalities being recorded and injuries to 27 others.

In both cases the public spirit, ready sympathy and wideawake energy of the Valley Isle rose to the emergency with measures of relief. In both cases the disaster was recognized as one which had brought grief to an entire community and which the cooperation of an entire community would most quickly remedy, so far as human effort could afford remedy. That none of those most vitally affected were "leading citizens" or the like made no difference—nothing more could have been done for them, reports indicate, had they been millionaires instead of Oriental laborers. It was the cause of suffering humanity the men and women of the Valley Isle hurried to succor.

ENLIST NOW!

The Star-Bulletin has been asked to give publicity, and gladly gives it, to the campaign for a new company of the National Guard—the Coast Artillery company being recruited under Lieut. J. W. Caldwell, Engineer Corps, U. S. A. By June 30 Brigadier-General Johnson and Lieut. Caldwell hope to have the needed complement of 60 men, sufficient under the allotment provisions of the new army bill. That the hour for drills is a convenient and easy one—from 5:30 to 6:30 once a week; that the drill will be very interesting and instructive—with the big guns at Fort De Russy; and that the guardsmen will get paid for each drill—these are attractive but not the vital features. The vital feature is the opportunity Honolulu has again to make good on the confidence the war department puts in Hawaii's being able to handle the National Guard problem promptly and effectively.

Lucky it wasn't to Mexico we sent that "strict accountability" note.

As a literary man, is Roosevelt emulating the mute, and glorious Milton?

Safety Last!

News Item: "Crime by shooting and the knife is on the increase in Hawaii. Almost every day sees some act of violence with a deadly weapon." And still the county authorities are doing nothing effective to regulate the sale of deadly weapons.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

—L. W. DE VIS-NORTON:

Through the kindness of Professor Wood of the Volcano Observatory I have secured a set of wonderful photographs of the great gas outburst from the flank of Mauna Loa on the morning of May 19 last. The pictures were taken at a distance of about 35 miles and are a truly marvelous piece of work. They show all four stages of the explosion perfectly clear and are the only photographs existing of this unique occurrence. I shall be delighted to show them to all who are interested.

He is a lieutenant in the "fighting 69th" of New York. Lieut. Monsarrat attended West Point. He was last here a year ago. The 69th Regiment of the New York National Guard made a great record in the war of the rebellion when it organized as an Irish regiment. It has ever since been one of the most popular regiments in New York City.

lining it is tacked on the reverse side. The outlines of the letter are carefully followed with a strong tacking thread, and then the principal spaces are cut out with sharp scissors, leaving the net showing through the strokes of the letter. Then the edge of the linen is buttoned to the net very tightly with the mercerized cotton. When this is done the superfluous net underneath is cut away. Any fine ornamental curves on the design which decorates the letter may be embroidered in the usual way. The effect of the net initial is attractive, and it makes a pretty incense cornerpiece for a dainty cloth or pillow slip.

LARGE BUYERS LEAVE MARKET AND KEEP WATCH

Tendency of Week Has Been
Who Offer Shares.

While during the past week there has been a distinctly visible reactionary tendency to the stock market, the small volume of trading and the absence of offers of large blocks of stock have taken away any appearance of a bear market. The strong holders appear to have simply stepped aside and adopted a waiting game. The offerings of comparatively small lots have been taken by the brokers to mean that the more timid, or the weaker holders, have determined to realize rather than take chances of possible declines and in so doing have had a depressing tendency upon a market which would otherwise have been merely dull.

Those who have been buyers recently, observers believe, in the face of a resumption of the waterfront strike and of the more serious complications in the Mexican situation, determined to watch developments and to wait results.

While a long continuation of the water front troubles might have a serious effect on local industries and hence upon the earnings and values of stocks, it is unlikely that the worst results from the Mexico embargo would have any depressing effect upon sugar prices and company earnings. There have been, therefore, no developments that have any direct bearing on the market for the immediate time being. On the contrary, with the exception of the strike, developments have been good and forecasts from the Atlantic coast are most assuring of continued prosperity in the islands.

But the fact remains unaltered that the week has been one of recessions and this is shown by most of the more active stocks in the list and on the curb. It has been a further demonstration of the old axiom that demand governs the price which can be obtained for supply. The demand has been absent and lowering of prices has resulted. Conservative investors have been "sitting out" but there have been some buyers who were ready to take offerings at prices that have shaded under those of recent markets. In some instances considerable blocks of securities have been taken.

BETTER TONE IN MARKET IS SEEN AND STOCKS RISE

In yesterday's stock exchange stock list appeared the notice of dividend declaration by Pacific Sugar Mill Company, stating that the dividend was declared at a directors' meeting of "June 2." Such date was a typographical error as the meeting was held June 22 and the stock exchange notified of dividend action immediately thereafter.

HAWAII STOCKS QUOTED HIGHER THAN ARE OTHERS

For high grade of its listed securities there is not a stock exchange in the world, it is safe to say, that compares with the Honolulu stock exchange. This statement can be made after a careful study of the par value and the market price of each and every security on the list, taking as the market price the last recorded sale.

Taking the figures for par as 100, as is done generally in stock markets of the East for quotation purposes, the average market price of all securities listed on the local exchange is 186%. This includes bonds as well as stocks, and bonds seldom sell much over par. It excludes territorial securities, however, for the comparisons are merely of industrial concerns. Assuming the same 100 as par the average market price of stocks listed on the Honolulu exchange is 183%.

The par value of 23 sugar stocks listed locally amounts in dollars to $61,899,664, while those same 23 stocks are quoted at figures that brings the market price of all up to $115,767,266.

The stocks of two mercantile houses and 12 miscellaneous companies, excluding sugar concerns, come to $21,872,570 at par and the market prices aggregate $47,697,960.

Bonds, omitting territorial bonds, are worth $12,176,600 at par but their market value is $12,554,660, which makes the selling quotation 103, as an average.

Comparison of these figures with the market quotations from New York, Boston, Chicago or with the European markets, including in such comparison the stocks listed on each of those exchanges and only such listed stocks, excluding the curbs, and it becomes evident that the statement that Honolulu can defy comparisons as to intrinsic values of its securities is well warranted.

The authorized capital of the corporations the stocks of which are dealt in on the Honolulu exchange, together with the bonds issued by some of these corporations and of which there are comparatively few is $95,938,834 and the market values are $175,959,826.

When it is considered that the estimated taxable wealth of the territory on which taxation for the year is to be based is $195,000,000 the importance of the industrial companies whose stock is on the local market can well be conceived for it comes over 9-10 of such estimated taxable wealth.

Brokers this morning reported a better tone to the market and a revival of strength. A tendency in this direction was manifested toward the close of yesterday's session and continued throughout the afternoon. Increasing strength was shown through the list and on the curb this morning, with advancing prices and general recoveries.

Oils rose to 23% and at the session of the exchange sold back to 23%. McBryde rose to 13% and aOlu to 40. Hawaiian Commercial 52%, Pioneer 53 and 10 shares of Pala sold at $250.

On the curb Mineral Products sold at $1.15, Engels Copper was $2.80 bid and Honolulu Oil was $3.20 bid. Other curb securities were all stronger.

Total sales of listed securities were 2295 shares.

TWO LARGE LAND DEALS FEATURE WEEK IN REALTY

Other Transactions of Considerable Importance Found In Record of Transfers.

Two highly important transactions have marked the past week in financial circles and outside of the stock market. The first of these was of interest to all parts of Hawaii, being a sale of plantation and ranch land, the other of especial interest to Honolulu being a transaction in city business property. Both were significant of implicit confidence in continued prosperity and growth for Hawaii and Honolulu.

The sale of the Princeville plantation, as reported by the Star-Bulletin early in the week, was easily the largest and most important deal in ranch lands consummated in a long time. The sale of the Spreckels holdings, told of yesterday, marks the largest transaction that Honolulu has known for a long time in business district realty. The consideration for the first transaction is said to be $250,000 and for the second $350,000.

Among the larger transfers recorded in the week are a deed from Agnes Turner and husband to Alexander A. Hobson of the Granville property, facing on King street, for an expressed consideration of $16,000, and by Chun Kee to John H. Magoon of property on Maunakea street for $22,000. Indicative of further expansion and improvement is the deed of H. H. Tomkins and wife to the Territorial Hotel Company of lot 54 in the Royal Grave Tract for $3500.

Other conveyances of Honolulu property during the week include the following:

ARE BUILDING 500 BOATS HERE EN ROUTE TO EAST COAST

Earl Curzon, Lord Privy Seal, stated in the House of Lords recently that the whole British mercantile marine, which amounts to half the gross tonnage of the world, is now being administered by the government. He said that 43 per cent of the mercantile marine had been requisitioned for naval and military purposes, 14 per cent is now carrying foodstuffs, raw material, etc., for the government and the Allies, and 43 per cent is operated by the British owners under governmental regulations. He stated that 500 merchant ships are now being constructed. The number of small craft added to the British mercantile marine is more than 2500, he said. Since the start of the war 450 enemy ships had been detained or captured by the Allies. In order to save the space by cutting down the amount of lumber imported, he said, the British government has arranged for Canadian lumbermen to come to England to cut British timber for sleepers, pit props and other necessities. Fifteen hundred lumbermen, he said, are now on the way to England.

INTER-ISLAND WILL RUN EXCURSIONS TO HILO AND KAHULUI

The Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company will run two Fourth of July excursions, one to Hilo and another to Kahului.

For Hilo, the Mauna Kea will leave here, July 1, and already a large number of passengers have booked. On the return trip the Mauna Kea will leave Hilo Tuesday afternoon, July 4, at 4 o'clock, arriving here Wednesday morning.

The excursion to Kahului will go on the Kilauea, leaving here Monday morning, July 3, at 7 o'clock, and will arrive there that evening so that the people may see the races and other festivities on the Fourth. She will leave Kahului on the afternoon of July 4 at 4 o'clock on the return trip.

NETHERLANDS TO HAVE TWO SHIPPING MUSEUMS

According to advices from Amsterdam, Holland, a historical shipping museum is to be founded there at a cost that is provisionally put at $400,000, and Prince Henry of the Netherlands has agreed to become patron of the project. The museum will portray the development of shipping and of everything connected therewith from the earliest times to the present day. At the same time, a movement is on foot in Rotterdam, the other big Dutch city, to establish a modern technical shipping museum in that city.

The Inter-Island's Kilauea arrived this morning from Hilo and Lahaina with 40 cabin passengers. Her cargo consisted of two automobiles, one Federal truck, two horses, 984 pieces of ohia lumber, 128 packages of vegetables and fruit, eight crates of chickens, one crate turkeys, one crate of pigs and 310 packages of sundries.

The next mail for San Francisco goes next Wednesday, June 25, in the Matsun steamship Matsunaka, sailing at 10 a. m. from Pier 15.

The Army and Navy Register of June 10 says the Buford has been ordered to return after unloading her cargo in the Philippines. She will steam to Newport News via the canal. It is not known whether she will call at San Francisco en route. The Buford will undoubtedly call here for bunkers.

The U. S. army transport Thomas steamed from Nagasaki for Honolulu and San Francisco, June 21.

The director of the Shipping Bureau in the Department of Communications of Japan, in the course of a press interview, stated that the price of building materials had risen 50 per cent or more, and so it was not surprising that the cost of ship-building should show a proportionate increase. Prior to the outbreak of hostilities the cost of building an ordinary cargo vessel was 130 yen ($4.31) to 140 yen ($4.79) per gross ton, but the figure has now risen to 150 yen (74.78) or 160 yen ($79.76) and is still rising. Recently a certain shipowner contracted for the building of a freight vessel of 5,200 tons gross for 1,000,000 yen ($498,500), to be built in twenty months. In the case of this particular vessel some additional cost was incurred because of provision for oil tanks, but the price of 190 yen ($84.72) per ton must be regarded as extraordinary, according to the Japan Chronicle.

Japan is comparatively free from such difficulties as are due to a scarcity of workmen, the Chronicle says, and there is no fear of trouble over the question of wages. In the Mitsubishi yard at Nagasaki 10,000 workmen are employed at present; 2,400 men in the Mitsubishi yard at Kobe; 9,500 in the Kawasaki yard at Kobe; 3,000 at the Osaka Iron Works; 1,900 in the Uraga dockyard; 300 at the Harada yard, and 800 at the Fujinaga yard, making a total of 27,900 in the shipbuilding industry. The daily wages of these workmen, however, do not average more than 80 to 90 sen ($0.3988 to $0.44865).

The government is encouraging experiments in France with a device to protect against hail, essentially a large lightning rod of pure copper, which is said to affect atmospheric electricity that hailstones cannot form.

With the departure from the Southern Railway's new export coal terminal at Charleston for Buenos Aires of the steamer Pleiades, loaded with 5000 tons of Clinchfield coal, the first actual step has been taken in the development of what it is hoped will be a large traffic in coal between South America and the Southern coal fields through the port of Charleston.

The Japanese steamer Seattle Maru, which will arrive Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from Japan and bound to San Francisco, has 2500 tons of freight and 35 stowage passengers for Honolulu. She will leave here for San Francisco Tuesday.

The Blue Funnel steamer Euryades, Capt. Alexander, from New York via the canal, will arrive here this afternoon to take on 350 tons of bunker coal. She is bound to the Orient with a general cargo. The Euryades was formerly the Indra of the Indra Steamship Company.

Steamers leaving Honolulu during the next few weeks for San Francisco will go with full passenger lists. The Matsun steamer Matsunaka, leaving here Wednesday, June 28, has very few berths left and the Oceanic steamer Sonoma, which will leave for the coast July 4, is already booked up.

LIHUE.—Last Wednesday night at Camp 14, Makawili, a Filipino named Lorenzo Owen chased after another Filipino named Damiano Oebania and practically cut off one of his hands with a huge knife which he was wielding.

The assault was in liquor, and a quarrel of small consequence developed into the murderous attack. The hand was left hanging and had to be amputated by a surgeon—Garden Island.

POPULAR BOB COOK AND DOT OATMAN

Pianoliquists, crosstalkists. No repetitions—an absolutely and entirely new act in every particular.

IT IS WITH MANY SINCERE REGRETS THAT THE

is forced to make the announcement that owing to unavoidable circumstances—one week from tonight—the doors of the theater will close for all time.

"Honolulu's Home of Happiness" will be relegated to a limbo from whence it will return no more. We feel sure, however, that many pleasant memories remain. Before the NATIONAL vanishes forever we desire to say "goodbye" in a manner befitting the conduct of the house since it has become a regular theater under its present management and to celebrate this farewell week we offer you a peerless program. We venture to assert without any possibility of correction that the three acts we are presenting Cost More Money in the Aggregate than any other three acts presented simultaneously in Honolulu.

Many know the reason of our closing, but to the few who do not we append a copy of the letter received from the von Hamm-Young Company, dated June 1, 1916, and we particularly desire you to take notice of the closing sentence.

"We beg to inform you that owing to improvements incident to the enlargement of this business it will be necessary for us to cancel your tenancy of the premises now occupied by you and beg to advise notice of same to you from this date.

"We regret our action in this matter for reasons as outlined above and APPRECIATE YOUR OCCUPANCY AS A GOOD TENANT."

Entering on the last week of its existence and to make it a memorable one in the minds of all—the NATIONAL THEATER will present a program hitherto unexcelled within its four walls.

"Speaking of Preparedness—is this program not an outline of efficiency?"

JAPANESE MASSEURS GET ADVICE ON PRACTISES

The Japanese Massagists' Association is said to have hired a legal adviser, Dr. G. Negoro, to advise it whether the members can give the "acupuncture" and "mogusa" treatments, which the massage men among the Orientals have been using in their practice.

The activity of the police department and county attorney's office in running down illegal practitioners is said to have raised the question whether the mogusa and acupuncture skin treatments are legal. The Japanese Massagists' Association held a meeting on Thursday night and decided to get advice. S. Hashimoto is president and S. Oyama vice-president.

ENROLMENT FOR BOYS' VACATION SCHOOL GROWING

The advance enrolment up to this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. boys' vacation school gives promise of the best school that has ever been conducted at the Y. M. C. A. during the vacation season. Already more than 35 boys have signified their intention of enrolling in the different grades of the school and it is expected that when the classes start Monday morning there will be a large number of other students of Punahou and the various other schools of the city that will enroll.

Physical Director Glenn E. Jackson has announced a highly interesting program of athletics and games for the boys during the five weeks, taking in a league contest made up among the different classes.

A feature that is different from the previous schools and one which makes the biggest "hit" with the boys at the Y. M. C. A. is the feature of a daily swim. Mr. Tait, swimming instructor, will teach any boy who does not know how to swim the essentials of swimming and diving. Contests are arranged for periods of the five weeks.

A course in typewriting is announced for those who desire it as an optional course among the students. Parents wishing their boys to take advantage of the five weeks of "fun and study" should phone in their reservations or send their boys to the Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock Monday morning.

CHORUS OF CHILDREN TO SING PATRIOTIC AIRS

A chorus of between 150 and 400 school children's voices will be part of the Fourth of July program on the Capitol grounds, according to an announcement made by Henry W. Kinney, superintendent of schools, yesterday.

The first rehearsal of the chorus, which is to be comprised of all the children in the public schools in the fifth to eighth grades, will be held Monday afternoon on the grounds of the Central Grammar school.

CHIMPANZEES' ABLUTIONS ENTERTAIN SPECTATORS

Under the watchful eye of Jack London and several others, Red Eye, alias Casey, took a bath yesterday afternoon at the National theater, handling the soap and water much after the accepted fashion of his more advanced audience. Casey scrubbed and lathered and rinsed and splashed and blowed heartily, much to the amusement of the large crowd of invited guests who went with London to see the fun.

London says Casey is the most perfect specimen of human intelligence in animals he has ever seen and likens him to the ferocious Red Eye in his story "Before Adam," recently published in the Star-Bulletin. The famous novelist is fascinated with the great physique and strength of the big chimpanzee and sees him in his antics at the National theater nearly every day.

Those who were with London yesterday were Mrs. Jack London, Andrew Benson, C. S. Crane, J. C. Cohen, Frank Bradley, C. D. Wright, W. Johnson, Palmer Woods, Chester Doyle, A. H. Ford, E. Osborne, Sadie Smith, Miss Reid, Leonard N. Case, Victor A. Norgaard, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Case, and R. P. Faithfull.

M. M. Callahan, owner. Location, makai side of King street, 100 feet Ewa from Richards street. Plumbing shop. J. Holmberg, architect. Oishi & Fukunachi, builders. Estimated cost, $700.

ENLISTED MEN'S EXAMS. FOR 2ND LIEUT. NOW ON

Orders for the examination of enlisted men for appointment to the grades of second lieutenant have been issued by the Hawaiian Department, under the requirements of the army reorganization bill to go into effect July 1, a week from today.

At Fort Shafter a board of officers is conducting the first of these examinations. On the board are Capt. Otto B. Rosenbaum and Capt. William E. Hunt, 2nd Infantry, and Capt. Harry R. McKellar, Medical Corps.

The new law requires an enlisted man to have served in the line only one year before he is eligible to make application for examination for appointment to second lieutenant. The old law required at least two years.

A rigid physical examination will be given applicants, as well as a mental examination, divided into three groups of subjects. Moral character and fitness of each applicant will also be taken into consideration.

GENERAL EVANS TO ATTEND MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR YUAN

Representing the U. S. army, Brig. Gen. R. K. Evans, commanding the Hawaiian department, and his staff, will attend the memorial funeral services for the late president of China, Yuan Shih-Kai, to be held at the Chinese consulate in this city, at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

Three prominent officers of Gen. Evans' staff will attend with him. They are: Maj. Michael J. Lehanan, 1st Infantry, chief of staff; Capt. James A. Gallagher, judge advocate, and 1st Lieut. H. Evans, aide-de-camp.

MANY SOCIAL EVENTS FOR GENERAL EVANS PLANNED NEXT WEEK

Next week will be a busy one socially for Brig. Gen. R. K. Evans, commanding the Hawaiian Department. The general and Mrs. Evans last night were guests of Capt. James A. Bell, 2nd Infantry, Fort Shafter, at a dinner given by him, and afterward they attended a reception given by officers and ladies of the post to Col. Daniel L. Howell, the commanding officer.

This afternoon at 1 o'clock General and Mrs. Evans were luncheon guests of Col. and Mrs. Reynolds at their home. Tonight they will attend the dinner given by Lieut. and Mrs. John D. Burnett at the University Club.

Tomorrow evening Gen. and Mrs. Evans will be honored with a dinner given at Haleiwa by Capt. and Mrs. Douglas McCaskey, of the 4th Cavalry.

At 7 o'clock Tuesday evening Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Case Deering will entertain at dinner for the commanding officer and his wife.

Wednesday night at 7 o'clock Gen. and Mrs. Evans will be dinner guests of Maj. and Mrs. Michael J. Lehanan.

NAVAL MILITIA NOW ON PRACTICAL WORK

Practical work was begun today by the Naval Militia of Hawaii. This afternoon at 1 o'clock the engineer's division met with Senior Engineer J. A. McKee, N. M. H., on board the Mauna Kea, through the courtesy of the Inter-Island, and were given engine-room instruction for an hour and a half.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon the men of the deck force and as many of the engineer force as can go, are engaging in the first boat drill in the new 30-foot cutters which arrived last week. Officers of the boats are Lieut. R. E. Lambert, N. M. H., and Ensign W. H. Stroud, N. M. H.

Ratings of the organization's enlisted men will soon be announced, examinations to determine them having only recently been completed.

MUCH BUILDING STARTS AND MORE IS IN PROSPECT

Permits For Week Show $88,606 To Be Spent and Much More Is Planned.

Increases both in number of permits and amounts involved in the improvements contemplated are noted in the past week over recent similar periods. There were 27 permits and the estimated cost is $88,606. Of these the new Buddhist temple building is the most costly structure planned, the contract price being $39,550, and next comes the new stable and other buildings of the Hawaiian Electric Company, which is to cost $13,850.

Some of the permits are for substantial additions to buildings already built but a large number are for cottages for owners' homes or for rental purposes.

But in addition to the improvements for which permits are granted numerous other improvements are contemplated in the near future and will soon be undertaken. The old Haleiwa station house, long a landmark, is being demolished and removed to make way for a new and modern garage. The National theater is expected soon to close and to be demolished to make room for another substantial building. Von Hamm Young are reported to be making very extensive plans for improvements on Alakea street. Before leaving for the mainland von Hamm admitted that extensive building operations were contemplated by his firm but stated that he was not at that time prepared to announce them. It has been reported that soon after his return from the mainland James McCandless may make an announcement of very important building plans which he is said to have had under consideration before leaving.

Rawley's Ice Cream & Dairy Products company are having plans drawn for a new factory building on Beretania near Alapai street. Present indications are that autumn will see an activity in the building trade such as has not been heretofore exceeded.

GUARDSMEN TO DANCE MASKED TONIGHT IN ARMORY; GOOD MUSIC

Another of the enjoyable mask balls which have proven so popular in the last few weeks will be given in the National Guard armory tonight at 8 o'clock. The general public is invited.

Music will be furnished by Feler-eisel's string orchestra. The dance is being given for the benefit of the enlisted men's club rooms. Ladies are free. Costumes may be rented at the armory.

Attendance at the armory dances lately has been excellent, ranging from 100 to 200 couples.

EPILEPTIC FITS PROVE BLESSING IN DISGUISE

When William Thompson, colored, retired sergeant of the United States army, contracted a series of epileptic fits in Iwilei Thursday he did not know it would lead to his discovery of anxious friends. But it did, thanks to fickle fate, and Thompson is recovering rapidly under the care of Police Surgeon R. G. Ayer at the emergency hospital.

According to a story told by the police, Thompson has an honorable discharge from the army; has served his full time and gets a pension, ample for his ordinary needs, but scarcely a drop in the bucket to the pace he has been setting since some one has "pulled his leg." Friends lost track of Thompson and asked Deputy Sheriff Asch to find him.

Thursday the deputy happened through Dr. Ayer's ward, saw the shaking form of Thompson, recognized him and informed the friends. Now everything is lovely and Thompson is going to be good.

ENLISTED MEN WILL LEARN HORSESHOEING

Five enlisted men have been ordered to leave Honolulu on the July transport for Fort Riley, Kansas, to the school for farriers and horseshoers, to enter the class beginning July 16. Those ordered to attend the school, in orders from the Hawaiian Department, are Pys. Arthur Beardsey, Troop G; Samuel J. Watkin, Troop

The latest addition to Honolulu's list of fine hotels is "The Romagoy," which will open for guests on July 1st. "The Romagoy" is now being elegantly furnished by Hopp & Co. with everything new and of the latest styles throughout, under the direction of Lucille Romagoy, formerly of Huestace Villa.

"The Romagoy" is beautifully situated amid two and a half acres of fine lawns and stately trees and fruit in abundance.

There are many new features brought out which will appeal to local guests and tourists. Large and cool sleeping porches in the main building as well as the cottages will add greatly to the comfort of the guests.

A fine tennis court which will be electrically lighted for evening playing will give many an opportunity of enjoying this sport which would otherwise be denied. Dancing and other entertainments will be frequent occasions to enliven the social enjoyments of the guests.

A large garage for the accommodation of eight cars will be appreciated by motor owning guests. Private poultry yards and fresh cows will supply the table with chickens, eggs, cream and milk of the finest quality. The cuisine will be of the highest standard and excellence and practically available accommodations have already been engaged. However, more cottages and rooms will be added as the demands require.

BISHOP & CO. DO NOT INTEND TO BUILD AT ONCE

Bishop & Company have at this time no intention of immediately improving the property which they are purchasing from the Spreckels Estate in the block bounded by Merchant, Queen, Bishop and Alakea streets. It may be some time before such improvements will be made.

Asked this morning if Bishop & Company contemplated early building operations, A. W. T. Bottomley replied: "No, we do not. There exists no necessity at this time. The purchase was really made as an insurance for the future. We did not wish some one else to secure a corner that we shall later want, and so we obtain the property now."

"Bishop & Company have a lease on the premises they are now occupying that still has five years to run. At the present time, owing to high freight, building materials are way up. It is the part of wisdom to wait until the price shall be lowered unless the buildings are required for immediate occupancy. As we have no such need, we can well afford to wait and profit by so doing."

C. A. C. ENLISTED MEN MAY GET PROMOTIONS

Examinations for the position of assistant engineer in the Coast Artillery Corps will take place here July 1 or as soon after that date as possible, and may be taken by enlisted men of that branch of the service.

The national defense act of June 3, 1916, provides for the appointment of 55 assistant engineers in the coast artillery on July 1, 1916. The war department desires to allow enlisted men of the Coast Artillery Corps a chance to take the examinations. Questions are now being prepared by the commandant of the Coast Artillery School Detachment, Fort Monroe, Virginia.

The Punahou graduation exercises are attracting a large number of people for this evening. The class of 1916, Punahou Academy, had its class night last evening and will hold the graduation exercises this evening in Charles R. Bishop hall, Punahou.

MISS EDITH WILLIAMS HAWAIIAN CLUB HOSTESS.

Last Saturday Miss Edith Williams was hostess for the Hawaiian Club, of which she is an active member. This club of young island women is most creditable. It was formed with the idea of studying the myths, legends and characteristics of the Hawaiian race. Old Hawaiian music is studied and the members entertain their guests on occasions such as Saturday.

Miss Lucy Peabody, Mrs. Emma Nakuna and Mrs. Edgar Henriques correct the written papers in the study of Hawaiian history, folklore and myths. Last Saturday was the first open meeting of this interesting club and from the applause it was evident that the afternoon was valuable. Queen Liliuokalani graced the meeting with her presence and as the different papers were read the queen applauded generously.

A splendid paper was one read by Mrs. Nakuna, who is one of Hawaii's most scholarly and gracious women. Miss Henrietta Smith also read an excellent paper, a myth on the power of the Great Shark God. Several choruses were sung by Mrs. A. G. M. Robertson, Miss Sibyl Robertson, Miss Grace Robertson, Mrs. James Lewis, Miss Agnes Buchanan and Miss Henrietta Smith. Hawaiian refreshments were served. Coconut milk was the delicious beverage. Judge and Mrs. W. W. Morrow of San Francisco were interested guests, the queen chatting and explaining much to the visitors. An excellent hula was danced by one who was very clever and very graceful. She danced accompanied by one of the very few remaining gourd players: he, poor, toothless old chap, keeping perfect time by simply tapping on his gourd with different parts of his hand and chanting all the while. He was aged, but it was astonishing the life and rhythm he displayed. It is said he is practically the last of the gourd players who were attached to the royal palace.

Some among those noticed were Queen Liliuokalani, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Lauka, Mr. and Mrs. John Aimoku Dominis, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Henriques, Mrs. Emma Nakuna, Mrs. Robert Lewers, Mrs. F. A. Schaefer, Mrs. B. F. Dillingham, Mrs. J. Robertson, Judge and Mrs. A. G. M. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cartwright, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Marx, Master Cartwright, Rev. Akaka Akana, Mrs. Arthur Wall, Mrs. A. E. Murphy, Rev. and Mrs. Leopold Kroil, Miss Helen Pratt, Miss Ramona Marks, Miss Helen Kimball, Miss Alice Doughty, Miss Pearl Makinney, Miss Chikan, Mrs. Charles Stillman, Mrs. Doolittle, Mr. William Lewers, Mr. Eaton Magoon, Mrs. Mahulani Rosa, Miss McLean, Miss Grace Robertson, Mr. Gerrit P. Wilder, Mr. and Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Bosworth.

The following is a list of the honorary members and the active members of the Ka Aha Hui o na Pua o Hawaii: Queen Liliuokalani, Princess Kalaniana'ole, Miss Lucy Peabody, Mrs. Henriques, Mrs. Nakuna, Mrs. Ian-ken, Mrs. Webb, Mrs. B. F. Dillingham, Mrs. F. A. Chief Justice and Mrs. A. G. M. Robertson gave a dinner in honor of Judge and Mrs. W. W. Morrow of San Francisco on Thursday evening of this week. It was one of the most exquisitely appointed dinners of the season. The center of the table was made to represent a garden with an old-fashioned lattice trellis over which fragrant pink roses climbed. At the base of the trellis, or rather the garden path, were cordoned rows of old-fashioned flowers and fine ferns. The garden had its dainty growth of greenery. The name cards were gold baskets filled with roses, and dainty fluff bows of tulle were tied on the handle. In the old-fashioned garden grew sweet peas, forget-me-nots, pansies and gardenias. Asparagus was artistically arranged about the lattice trellis.

Justice and Mrs. Robertson's guests were Judge and Mrs. W. W. Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shingle, Justice and Mrs. Edward M. Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chillingworth, Mrs. Hugh Hairston and Mr. Cornell Franklin. After dinner Mrs. Robertson sang several solos.

FORT SHAFTER DANCE.

The dance given at Fort Shafter last evening was a very charming affair. It was given by the officers and ladies of the post. A large contingent of townsfolk motored out to enjoy the hop.

SOCIETY

THE MICHIGAN-CALIFORNIA CLUB DINNER

To appreciate and understand the beauty of art one must recognize the symbol and be able to read into this the thoughts of the artist. The painting of a Corot is only the blending of colors upon the canvas, the beauty is the thought and understanding of the master, who has sunk his personality into and blended his understanding with the spirit of nature. Whether in the art of sculpture, painting or that of decoration, there must be the underlying idea that convey to the minds of others the mind of the artist.

At the dinner given by the University of Michigan and University of California Clubs to Dr. and Mrs. Armin Otto Leuschner Monday evening, Mrs. A. J. Campbell and her committee, Mrs. A. Lindsay, Mrs. E. W. Sutton, Mrs. B. C. Peters, symbolized in the decorations the idea of higher education.

True to the thoughts of nature, which arouses the desire to investigate and understand the great phenomena of this world and which is the cause of educational institutions, Mrs. A. J. Campbell had woven these ideas into her scheme of decoration. No longer was the lamp of the Country Club a building of wood but a bit of nature. There in the shade of the trees the golden lilies bloomed and nodded and whispered their words of welcome to the honored guests, Dr. and Mrs. Leuschner. Baskets of gold were suspended from the ceiling filled with ferns and sweet-scented vines. But, as in all true settings, this nature glimpsed led to the cause of the thought that was to be set as the jewel of this occasion. The thoughts and loyalty of mankind for their Alma Mater.

In the dining room the colors of maize and blue of Michigan intertwined with the blue and gold of California, symbolizing and blending the great thoughts of both colleges. As the dinner passed, in Dr. Leuschner's speech, how indeed the younger University of California is to the University of Michigan.

Truly, it is a blending of the colors and mingling with them were the flowers of the golden showers, golden showers of thoughts scattering seed that has not fallen on rocky soil, but today are reproducing in other lands the ideals of higher education.

Above the U-shaped table, where sat the sons and daughters of education, was a mural board in the intermingling colored maize and the golden tassels. Those who sat beneath it had the right to that symbol, and to the place cards designed by Mrs. A. J. Campbell, a mural board upon which was written their names, symbols of attaining the degrees conferred by their college. In the suspended symbol was the thought that knowledge is ever suspended above that which we have already attained; even if we gain the mountain peaks. The guests of the evening, Dr. and Mrs. Leuschner, have gained heights, but still see heights on and on and are ever striving to know and understand; knowledge represented by the suspended suggestion of the mural board.

Golden lilies, coreopsis and golden shower symbolized the golden thoughts of education, and in the speeches of the evening the golden and expressions of loyalty for this beautiful island land and loyalty for the university of "maize and blue," and for that of California's "blue and gold."

Miss Marguerite Ashford's speech glowed with that most golden quality for which Hawaii is noted. The quality of hospitality — that which makes the stranger a friend.

Long will be remembered Dr. Leuschner's response to the greetings and welcome to Hawaii, and as he by his magical power guided the audience away from this earth home up into the realms of planets, they recognized how far he has traveled and how high hangs the mural board of attained knowledge.

The knowledge that is not simply

Miss Electa Williams, a popular Honolulu girl whose engagement was recently announced to Mr. George Byron Girdler.

Following were the invited guests: Judge C. W. Ashford, toastmaster; Dean Armin O. Leuschner, W. W. Thayer, W. H. Heen, W. T. Carden, Miss Marguerite K. Ashford, Miss A. R. Gurrey, Mrs. Gurrey, Mrs. Leuschner, Mrs. Ashford, E. C. Peters, Mrs. Peters, Dr. V. Mitamura, A. J. Campbell, Mrs. Campbell, Miss Helena Kimball, Mrs. Carden, Mrs. Heen, Dr. W. L. THE PUNAHOU PAGEANT

The Punahou Pageant, given last Wednesday in commemoration of its seventy-fifth anniversary, was a truly remarkable affair from its first episode until its last. The part of the pageant perhaps most impressive to the strangers here was the Hawaiian, everyone declaring it the best of its kind ever given here. Much credit for this part of the program goes to Mrs. Mary Montano, Mrs. A. P. Taylor, Mrs. Naenae Webb and Mr. L. Y. Corretters. The detail of the pageant required weeks of deep study and careful thought.

Following is an article written by Miss Agnes Buchanan, who ably took the part of Liliha and who looked up all the interesting detail in connection with the episode.

Society turned out en masse for this event, and, what is more, remained until the close, quite a remarkable thing, as it was after 7 when the review of the classes of the years was staged.

I. Kane (David Kalauokalani) was the creator of all waters. Kanaloa (Edward K. Liliokalani) was the creator of all fish and food, and a perfect devil.

They both wore the red aha ula to resemble the Iwi bird; the yellow malos and the white kanali resembling the Roman toga. Over this costume was thrown gray and white chiffon to represent clouds and both wore red feather helmets.

Kanaloa carried his kookoo, or magic wand.

2. Kamehameha I (Keoloha Paule Kawaokalani).

Kameelamooki (Fred K. Beckley).

Kaahumanu (Lydia Kamaokalani).

This scene is supposed to have occurred after the battle of Nuuanu, when Kamehameha was dividing the lands to his warrior chieftains. Puna-hou was given to one of the twin princes, whose effigies appear on the royal coat of arms today.

Kamehameha wore the long yellow feather cape, the aha ula; the yellow helmet, kahai and yellow malo.

Kameelamooki's aha ula was of yellow, with a black crescent and triangles down the front, the whole being bordered with red.

Kanaloa's cape was yellow with triangles of red, with three red crescents joined together in the back.

Their helmets were red and yellow. The tops of the helmets were held by five bars.

Kaahumanu in this scene appeared in a pink tap toga with brown designs and a yellow feather skirt. She wore on her head and around her neck the real feather lei bulus.

Right after this scene Duke P. Kaahamoku appeared on the mountain cliffs, representing the God, Kamo hoalii, Pele's father, and the only man that is known to have worn the red malo, and father of many of the Hawaiian nobility, for the ancient Hawaiians, like the Romans, believed they descended from the god, and the red malo is symbolic of Kamo hoalii.

While Duke posed there, Piliiani, a noted oia, chanted the ole of Pele.

About 20 years after came Boki and Liliha and the transfer of Ka-punahou to Bingham for the establishment of a school. Kaahumanu tried to influence Liliha to give the lands, but she refused. In this scene Kaahumanu arrived in her blue cart with red and yellow cushion, drawn by two men wearing kapu togas, petty chieftains. She wore the holoku, invented by the missionaries, but retained her feather pa-u. Kaahumanu was attended by her kahili bearers.

two men carrying the two large state kahilis and five women the smaller kahilis.

Liliha (Amy Buchanan) was attired in a costume considered historically correct. Her toga was an ancient piece of white tapa with a brown figure along the border; her pa-u was of brown and pink tapa. She wore a real lei hulu on her head and around her neck, also a real lei palaoa. On her ears she wore very old kukul nut earrings.

Boki (Rev. Akalko Akana) appeared in a costume when he was affecting at that time, a result of having been to London, but in addition, this being a ceremony, he wore the feather helmet and aha ula of a high chieftain of the Hawaiian regime.

Liliha's attendants were dressed in the old shades of blue that prevailed in that day, with their brown and yellow tapa pa-us. It was noticeable in this court that the attendants all wore the real feather lei hulus.

Liliha was attended by her three kahili bearers, Miss Hookanu, Miss Apa and Little Anna Maertens. Little Miss Maertens wore a brown mahuna tapa for her toga and a pink tapa for her pa-u, and around her neck and head she wore the real lei pua. Her whole costume belonged to her great grandmother, Kahinu.

The old chief, who stood by Liliha, was represented by Judge Archie Mahaulu, who wore just a malo and feather cape. He was wonderful as he showed his displeasure at Boki giving Liliha's lands away and his ole to Liliha as she sat on the ground. Kapunahou was paid quite a compliment in this scene of Liliha by having the blue and yellow costumes.

PRETTY WEDDING ON MAUI

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

WAILUKU, June 23.—One of the prettiest church weddings that ever occurred on Maui was that of Miss Alice Thayer Walker to Mr. Robert Edwin Hughes, which occurred at the First Union church on last Monday evening.

Incidentally it is probably the last marriage that will ever be performed in that edifice, as the old building is to be razed next week to make room for a beautiful new memorial structure. Following the ceremony at the church a short reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Walker of Paia, and later the happy young couple broke away from the shower of congratulations, well-wishes and rice, and were driven to Lahaina, where they boarded the boat for Honolulu, there to take steamer for a several months' trip on the coast.

Promptly at 7:30 o'clock, to the strains of a wedding march played by Mrs. Millie B. Hair, an old friend of the family, the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, where she was met at the altar by the bridegroom, who was accompanied by Mr. Kenneth Smith as best man. Here beneath a rich floral canopy of white and green, supported by a double arch of daisies, lilies and roses, that arose above the chancel and altar, a most impressive ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. Craig Bowditch, assisted by the Rev. B. B. Dodge. The bride was given away by her father.

The youthful bride was charmingly garbed in a white chiffon gown, and she wore a wedding veil, held by a shimmering silver band, that had been worn by her great-grandmother 32 years ago. She carried a large bouquet of white flowers tied with ribbons of same color.

Miss Olive Lindsay, the maid of honor, was charming in a pink crepe de chine and pink chiffon gown. She carried a sheer of pink gladiolus.

The bridesmaids were Miss Annie Walker, sister of the bride, and Miss Dorothy Lindsay. They were dainty in white organdie, and carried white roses.

The flower girls were Margaret Sioskett and Gladys Venhuizen, who wore white and carried baskets of roses which they strewed on the aisles before the wedding party.

The profusion of floral decorations at the church were done by Mrs. James Fantom, Mrs. John Venhuizen and Miss Alexa von Tempsky.

The ushers were Mr. Seabury Short and Mr. Ward Walker.

At the reception at the Walker home the blushing bride and smiling groom stood to receive their scores of friends beneath a cluster of bells that had served in similar capacity at the weddings of both the bride's mother and grandmother. A sumptuous wedding supper was served to about 50 of the more intimate friends of the family. The house was decorated by most lavish use of maiden-hair fern and pink and white flowers by Mrs. Dora von Tempsky, assisted by Miss Emma Hughes (cousin of the groom). It was Miss Hughes also, by the way, who caught the bride's bouquet when she tossed it into the crowd, as she was leaving to change to her traveling gown.

A wonderfully beautiful assortment of wedding gifts was received, including a profusion of rich cut glass, china and silver plate.

Mr. and Mrs. Hughes, who sailed by Tuesday's Manoa from Honolulu on their honeymoon trip, expect to go East to Detroit and New York (Mr. Hughes' old home), after which they will return to the coast for several weeks before coming back to Maui.

Mr. Hughes, who holds a responsible position as head of the machine department of the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Company, will take his bride to live at Puunene upon their return.

SOCIETY

MR. J. F. STONE WEDS MISS JULIA PEABODY

A simple yet exceedingly pretty wedding ceremony was that which on Thursday night united Mr. John F. Stone of the editorial staff of the Star-Bulletin and Julia Russell Peabody, for some years past a member of the Mills school faculty.

Mr. Stone was also for two years a member of the same faculty and the wedding was performed on the broad entrance hall of the school itself, a strikingly appropriate scene for a nuptial ceremony, with its masses of greenery clinging to walls and pillars and making a natural bower, and with a broad staircase well fitted for the descent of a wedding party.

The popularity of both the bride and groom at the school were attested to by the loving care with which attractive decorations of greenery, hibiscus and tulle had been added to the natural beauties.

The intimate friends of the couple were informally invited to be present. At 8 o'clock Mrs. H. Stuart Johnson, seated at a piano on one side of the stairway, hidden in greens, played the Lohengrin wedding march, and the bride and groom descended.

They were met at the foot of the steps by the bridesmaid, Miss Charlotte Blake, the best man, Mr. John F. Nelson, principal of Mills, and the officiating minister, the Rev. John P. Erdman. On each side, atop the end of the balustrades, a tall candle burned dimly. Just above, as the wedding party stood at the foot of the staircase, was an attractive piece of pink tulle woven with pink hibiscus and greens, and it was at this simple altar that the couple pledged their marriage vows.

The bride made a picture of striking sweetness in a gown of white net and duchess lace, combined with white satin ribbon and white satin slippers. She wore a wreath of orange blossoms in her hair and carried a shower bouquet of white bride's roses made up with ribbon.

Miss Blake wore an attractive gown of pink net.

After the ceremony a short reception was held, the boys of Mills school serving refreshments. Later the couple slipped away, but they were found again when the Canadian-Australasian steamer Niagara sailed for Victoria and Vancouver yesterday afternoon. Someone had told the director of the Hawaiian band that a honeymoon couple was about to board the ship, for as they made their way up the gangplank laden with leis, the band struck up the Lohengrin march again and gave them an unexpected escort to the deck.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone will spend two months in the Pacific northwest, visiting at Thornton, Wash., the home of the groom's parents, and elsewhere, and then returning here.

Mrs. Henry Foster Dutton, popular society woman of San Francisco, who has been visiting the Harry Macfarlanes. Mrs. Dutton leaves for San Francisco on the 28th.

The many friends of Lieut. and Mrs. Frederick F. Black regret exceedingly that they will leave the garrison in the near future and go to Schofield Barracks. Lieut. Black was recently relieved from duty with the Signal Corps as his detail expired and was ordered to duty with the 25th Infantry. The lieutenant and Mrs. Black have been at the fort for the past three years and have made many friends here. Their departure will be greatly felt by everyone.

Master Junior Richardson celebrated his sixth birthday on last Saturday and entertained 12 of his little playmates at a birthday party. The children assembled at his home in the cantonment and were taken to Moanalua park, where many games were played and then the real party commenced. A large birthday cake with six candles delighted the little fellows and after the ice cream favors were presented to each and after more games they returned to the garrison. Among those present were Edwin Hartshorn, Bettie Hartshorn, Malcolm Knowles, Dickie Knowles, John Randolph, Marguerite Randolph, Billie Scott, Shirley McAndrew, Pam McAndrew, Lloyd Fredendall, Katherine Fredendall and Junior Richardson.

Maj. and Mrs. William R. Dashiell, Miss Pearson, Mrs. Pearson, and Madame Pearson motored to Haleiwa on Tuesday and spent the day with Col. and Mrs. Charles S. Lincoln, who have taken a cottage there for the summer.

The many friends of Capt. and Mrs. Edwin A. Hickman regret very much to see them leave for the mainland. Orders were received during the week directing the captain to take his company of Signal Corps to the mainland on the July transport for duty in the Southern Department. Capt. and Mrs. Hickman have been in Oahu for only the past six months and during that time have resided in Honolulu, due to the scarcity of quarters at the fort. They have made many friends in the service set during their short stay and it will be with many regrets that their friends will see them depart.

During the West Point dinner on last Saturday night Mrs. John B. Richardson entertained at cards at her home in the cantonment. One table of bridge and one of 500 were played. Mrs. Frederick F. Black held the highest score at bridge and Mrs. Robert Lyons at 500, and each was presented with a dainty handkerchief. Among those present were Mrs. John was the color scheme used by the hostess, and in the center of the table was an old-fashioned bouquet of pink and lavender, sweet peas and blue pansies and forget-me-nots.

Still another card party of the past week was that at which Mrs. Raymond Wheeler was hostess last Friday afternoon at her home in the cantonment. Bridge was the game played. There were three tables, and after several interesting rubbers, Mrs. John B. Richardson held the highest score, and so won the prize, a lacquered tray, and Mrs. John C. Grady was presented with the guest prize, another attractive lacquered tray. Among those playing cards were Mrs. Daniel L. Howell, Mrs. B. W. Atkinson, Mrs. M. J. Lenihan, Mrs. Witsell, Mrs. Douglass T. Greene, Mrs. Clyde R. Abraham, Mrs. T. J. Camp, Mrs. John C. Grady, Mrs. John B. Richardson, Mrs. F. F. Black, Madame Cochran, and Mrs. Theodore Martin. Later they were joined by Mrs. Alfred Rockwood, Mrs. Carl A. Hardigg and Mrs. Robert Howell, who came in for tea.

Mrs. Alfred L. Rockwood was hostess at a delightful afternoon bridge last Tuesday, June 20, when she entertained at her home in the cantonment. There were four tables of bridge, and after several hours of cards quite a few dropped in for tea. Mrs. John C. Grady held the highest score and won the first prize, a pair of dainty crystal and silver flower vases, while Mrs. John B. Richardson held the next highest score, and was presented with a silver bonbon basket. Among those enjoying this pleasant afternoon were Mrs. M. J. Lenihan, Miss Catherine Lenihan, Mrs. Douglass T. Greene, Mrs. John C. Grady, Mrs. John B. Richardson, Mrs. Raymond R. Wheeler, Mrs. Clyde R. Abraham, Mrs. T. J. Camp, Mrs. Ralph Holliday, Mrs. Frederick F. Black, Mrs. Woodfin G. Jones, Mrs. Witsell, Madame Cochran, Mrs. Carl Hardigg, Mrs. Benjamin F. McCollan, Mrs. George H. Halloran, Mrs. McAdams and Miss Elizabeth Rosenbaum.

Mrs. Carl A. Hardigg has issued invitations for a bridge for Wednesday afternoon of next week.

Lieut. and Mrs. Frederick A. Barker entertained at dinner before the dance on Friday evening.

The officers and ladies of the fort were hosts at a delightful formal dance on Friday evening, when they entertained in honor of Col. and Mrs. Daniel L. Howell.

Major George H. Jamerson entertained the officers of the garrison on Saturday afternoon in the 2nd Infantry mess, celebrating his promotion to the grade of major. All of the officers of the fort were present at this informal affair to extend their best wishes, as everyone regrets to see the Major depart for his new regiment.

Miss Elizabeth Rosenbaum, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Otho B. Rosenbaum, is receiving congratulations today upon her graduation from Punahou. Miss Rosenbaum has been a student of that college for the past two years, and is a popular member of the younger set at the fort.

Gen. and Mrs. Robert K. Evans have issued invitations to a dance on July 4.

Lieut. and Mrs. George H. Halloran entertained at a pretty appointed dinner at their quarters in the cantonment on Friday evening before the formal dance, in honor of Lieut. and Mrs. Carl A. Hardigg and Dr. Harry Deiber.

CHILDREN IN WINDOW ATTRACT ATTENTION

In front of the B. F. Ehlers & Co. store this morning was a crowd of "kids." Some were inside the glass display window looking out; others were outside looking in. There was nothing apparently unusual about the little gathering. But the very naturalness was the interesting feature. The "kids" looking out weren't "kids" at all; they were waifs, but so closely resembling the outside children that many had stopped to rub their noses against the pane.

There are various forms of advertising—the freakish, the snappy, the consistent, and the persistent. The Ehlers Company believes in bringing people to its large departments by use of the press; it tries to interest its patrons, even before the store is entered, by the display windows. The little girls and boys who are very modestly posing in the window today are attractively dressed in what Ehlers has for sale, and look as if they were just about to step from their window and mingle with the crowd. Some are in their nighties, others in play suits and sunbonnets, or dressed for the party or the trip downtown. They are all natural and convincing.

Business is business, and so is advertising—plus science and art.

'KALAKAUA DAY' MEETING TO BE HELD WEDNESDAY

Conference of a number of men interested in the observation of Kalakaua Day, November 16, slated for yesterday in the mayor's office, has been postponed until Wednesday morning, in order that a larger gathering may be held. Six were to be present yesterday. The mayor has three times that number on his list for Wednesday's meeting.

"Everyone I have talked with is interested," said A. P. Taylor, secretary of the Promotion Committee, yesterday. "The only objection I have heard is that we have too many holidays already, but, as I understand it, the proposal is not for a holiday, but for an observance of the day."

"And when it comes to a question of holidays, I believe the Hawaiians are entitled to another day of their own at that."

He took a pencil and made a list of the holidays celebrated in Honolulu. First came the purely American holidays—Washington's birthday, Memorial Day, Fourth of July, Labor Day and Thanksgiving Day. Next he wrote a list of the purely American observances—Flag Day, Lincoln's birthday, St. Patrick's Day and Annexation Day. Then came the universal holidays, brought to Hawaii by the Americans—New Year's, Good Friday and Christmas. Then there is the "haole Hawaiian Day," as he classed it, Regatta Day, and the last one, Hawaiian Day, June 11.

"From that it seems to me that the Hawaiians are entitled to another day of their own," he said.

SOCIETY

SCHOFIELD SOCIETY

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, June 24.
—Lieut. and Mrs. E. Franklin Rice, 1st
Infantry, announce the birth of a son,
Louis Franklin, at department hospital, Honolulu, on June 18.

Wednesday evening quite a number of attractive social affairs took place in the garrison, the several parties later going to the Mounted Service Club hop. Lieut. and Mrs. John Corby entertained with a dinner for Maj. and Mrs. Guy G. Palmer, Maj. and Mrs.
Frank Albright, and Capt. Charles Bates. Pink characterized the pretty decorations of the dinner table.

Lieut. and Mrs. Robert P. Harbold were hosts at a delightful "Dutch Supper" given in their quarters on Wednesday evening. A fragrant mass of yellow coreopsis filled a tall, gilded basket making an effective centerpiece for the supper table, from which all the good things were served, the guests, seated on the laua and in the living room, enjoying the informality of the occasion. Present were the Misses Carrie and Esther Mc-Mahon, the Misses Smith and Mc-Guffey, Capt. and Mrs. Pelham D. Glasford, Capt. James Loud, Capt. and Mrs. Americus Mitchell, Lieut. and Mrs. Livingston Watrous, Lieut. and Mrs. Karl Truesdell, Lieut. and Mrs.
Donald Hay, Lieut. Howard Milligan,
Eugene Robinson, O. M. Baldinger and
Robert F. Snow and Lieut. and Mrs.
Harbold.

Lieut. and Mrs. John Hauser gave a dinner for 20 on Wednesday when their guests included Capt. and Mrs.
Charles Willard, Lieut. and Mrs. William E. McCleave, Mrs. Franklin
Wing, Lieut. and Mrs. Joseph Daly,
Lieut. and Mrs. Charles Daly, Mrs.
Ellen Jordan, Mrs. Henry Lantry,
Maj. T. N. Horn, Maj. William S.
Guignard, Capt. and Mrs. John Corey, Lieut. Ballard Lyerly, Clift Andrus and Joseph Andrews. Three small tables were used at which the company was seated, each decorated prettily with white Shasta daisies and white unshaded tapers.

Dr. and Miss Haynes entertained
Wednesday evening with a dinner for Capt. and Mrs. Augustine McIntyre,
Lieut. and Mrs. Roland Gaugier, Capt.
Richard M. Thomas and Lieut. George Keleher.

On Tuesday Lieut. and Mrs. Seth Scotfield entertained at luncheon for the Misses Eleanor McCune and Mary Mathews of San Francisco, who are staying at the Young hotel in Honolulu.

On Thursday Col. and Mrs. Samson
Lane Faison gave a dinner for 12, including Col. and Mrs. Richard C. Croxton, Col. and Mrs. James B. Houston,
Col. and Mrs. James McRae, Madame
Cochran, Capt. and Mrs. Americus
Mitchell and Capt. William E. Cochran.

Dr. and Mrs. Walter R. Pick gave a dinner on Thursday for Lieut. and Mrs. Ernest Carr, Lieut. and Mrs. Harold Vandever, and Maj. and Mrs.
Hercule Bloomberg. The dinner table was attractive with a color scheme of yellow and green.

Col. and Mrs. John Guilfoyle were dinner hosts on Thursday when they entertained for 12. A blue and white color scheme was used effectively on the long table, with a gracefully arranged mass of white flowers in a flat bowl making the centerpiece.
Covers were placed for Gen. and Mrs.
Robert K. Evans, Col. and Mrs. Henry
C. Hodges, Col. and Mrs. William W.
Forsyth, Mrs. Walter C. Short, Maj.
and Mrs. Thomas Schley, Maj. William S. Guignard and the hosts.

Capt. and Mrs. Harry Knight were dinner hosts on Thursday, entertaining in honor of Maj. and Mrs. Edward C. Carey. The long table was decorated in tones of pink and white. Sweet-peas of a deep pink shade made the centerpiece, while the same flowers appeared in the corsage bouquets for the ladies and a single white gardenia was found at each gentleman's cover.
Present were Maj. and Mrs. Francis
Lacey, Mrs. Crandall, Maj. and Mrs.
Carey, Lieut. and Mrs. Thomas Love,
Lieut. Roy N. Jones and John Simmons, and the hosts.

Maj. Walter Short was an out-going passenger on the Manoa last Tuesday.
Maj. Short will go directly to Rochester, where he is to undergo an operation by the Doctors Mayo.

One of the successful events of the week was the sale of home-made articles held by the little girls of the garrison on Thursday afternoon. In the big open space near Col. Faison's quarters the several booths and tents stood, where one could buy candies or lemonade, fish in the realistic "pond" have one's future predicted, or invest in a really useful article for the house.
Everything on sale was made by the little girls themselves and all were pretty and dainty and the "goodies" most delicious. The idea originated in the girls' sewing club, and once started every member worked faithfully to carry it forward to a success, which on Thursday was enthusiastically realized, the sale netting the small workers a sum something over $40, which will be sent by them to army relief headquarters. One of the attractive features of the affair was the tent where Miss Palmer in a costume of the Far East prophesied most agreeable futures for all who came.
The young saleswomen were Alice Palmer, Harriet Lyon, Helen Mc-Cleave, Henrietta Hall, Elizabeth Martin, Helen Herr, and Barbara Palmer, who contributed greatly toward the venture by her appearance in costume as a "barker" before the fortune teller's tent.

Mrs. Roland Gaugier on Thursday afternoon entertained with a two table bridge in honor of Mrs. Chalmers G. Hall, who is to sail for the coast on the Thomas. Invited in her honor were Mesdames Walter R. Pick,

William Nalle, Robert Cheney, Pelham
Glassford, Swift Martin, George Calendar, Henry Lantry, Joseph Daly,
Clarence R. Bell and Miss Hazel
Haynes. The pivot game of auction was played with Mrs. Cheney and Mrs. Nalle winning the high scores.
Very attractive sandwich baskets of Japanese china and wicker were the table prizes, while to Mrs. Hall was presented a lovely corsage rose of satin and velvet. The delicious tea which followed had a color note of violet, the ices and candies being tinted in violet, and the flowers which filled the house reflecting the violet shades.

Last Sunday evening Dr. and Mrs.
Haynes entertained with a supper and theater party to see "Sadie Love" for the following guests: Miss Helen Palmer, Lieut. Kenny Palmer, Lieut.
Lee Ahern and Dr. O'Connor.

Captain and Mrs. E. H. Eames give a dinner on Thursday for Major and Mrs. Frank H. Albright, Lieut. and Mrs. John Corby and Capt. Charles Bates. An attractive color scheme of yellow was used on the table with golden coreopsis for centerpiece, around which were grouped four yellow shaded candles.

On Saturday evening Lieut. Hornsby Evans gave a delightful dinner at the University Club in town for the following guests, Mrs. Frank Keeler, Mrs. John D. Burnett, Mrs. Joseph
Janda, the Misses Carrie and Esther McMahon, Lieut. James Uilo, Raymond McQuillan, Charles Bankhead and V. V. Enyart. The long table was very attractive in its decorations of rose tinted asters and ferns which were arranged in graceful designs flat on the cloth, the pink note being carried out in the corsage bouquets made of sweetpeas and ferns found at each lady's cover. Later the party went to Heinie's where the evening was brought to a close in dancing.

On Thursday evening a greatly enjoyed "party" was given by James Perine Barney, Jr. The special film at the Amusement hall was given enthusiastic attention, and later the guests went to the host's house for a "spread." The party included Henrietta Hall, the honor guest; Chalmers Hall, Nancy Hawkins, Susanne Guilfoyle, Katherine Lacey, Helen Herr, Alice Palmer, Merrilland Stone Sor-ley, Alice Palmer, Park Hodges, Isabelle Boniface, Straum Schurtz and the host.

On Friday evening before the 25th hop a number of parties took place, the most pleasant being that of the evening. Lieut. and Mrs. William E. McCleave entertained in honor of Mrs. Franklin Wing with a buffet supper, to which were invited Miss Hortense Short, Madame McCleave, Lieut.

tain James Loud.

Lieut. and Mrs. Donald Hay gave a dinner on Friday for Captain and Mrs.
H. E. Eames, Captain and Mrs. J. S.
Cecil, Maj. John Macaulay and Captain and Mrs. La Vergne Gregg. The effective dahlias in tones ranging from pale pink to deep rose were used in the pretty centerpiece with the other table appointments, carrying out the color note.

Mrs. Thomas H. Love on Friday gave a bridge luncheon in honor of Mrs. Edward C. Carey. The guests were invited for 11 o'clock and played a number of rubbers of pivot auction before the luncheon hour. Mrs. Carey, as honor guest, was presented with a lovely piece of Madeira em-entertained with a dinner on Thursday for Capt. and Mrs. Hamilton Hawkins, Col. and Mrs. Frederick P. Reynolds, Maj. and Mrs. Guy G. Palmer and Capt. and Mrs. Hugh Wise. Pink appointments made the dinner table very dainty.

On Sunday Capt. and Mrs. Douglas McCaskey will entertain with a luncheon at the Halewa Hotel in honor of Gen. and Mrs. Robert K.
Evans. Other guests will be Col. and Mrs. Samson Lane Faison, Col. and Mrs. John Guilfoyle, Maj. Charles A.
Hedekin, Capt. and Mrs. Conrad Babcock, Capt. and Mrs. Augustine Mc-Intyre and Lieut. Hornsby Evans.

Mrs. Walter Short was a bridge hostess on Saturday afternoon, when she entertained in honor of Mrs. Chalmers G. Hall. Those present were Mesdames Douglas McCaskey, Hamilton Hawkins, John Guilfoyle, Philip Kiehl, Leonard Prunty, Robert Cheney, William Nalle, Allen B. Smith, Clarence R. Day, W. H. McGill, Chalmers Hall and Mrs. Short. Mrs. Hall was presented with a dainty Japanese sewing set as guest prize.

Capt. and Mrs. Hugh Wise entertained with a dinner on Saturday for 12, including Capt. and Mrs. Hamilton Hawkins, Capt. and Mrs. James P. Barney, Mrs. Ellen Jordan, Maj.
Charles Hedekin, Lieut. and Mrs.

Mrs. Swift Martin was hostess for the Thursday Morning Reading and Current Events Club this week, giving a most interesting series of articles on current topics.

On Friday afternoon little Eleanor Faison celebrated her fifth birthday with a party, to which all the children of the 25th Infantry cantonment were invited. They met at the quarters of the little hostess and there enjoyed a delicious "spread." Later the small people were delighted with a "line party" at the amusement hall, where three special films of Charlie Chaplin were given and proved highly enjoyable to the young audience. As Eleanor Faison's guests all the children of the enlisted men of the 25th were invited to be present at the matinee.

On Tuesday evening a very attractive little dinner was given by Lieut.
and Mrs. Fred Pitts, who entertained for Capt. and Mrs. Frank Halstead and Capt. and Mrs. Harry Blasland.

Col. and Mrs. Henry C. Hodges on Monday of this week gave a regimental reception, followed by a dance, in honor of Gen. and Mrs. Robert T.
Evans. Before the reception Col. and Mrs. Hodges were dinner guests, entertaining for Gen. and Mrs. Evans,
Col. and Mrs. Richard C. Croxton,
Maj. and Mrs. Francis Lacey, Maj.
and Mrs. Lewis Sorely and Lieut. and Mrs. John D. Burnett. The table was beautifully decorated with a profusion of var-colored flowers arranged in an artistic manner.

Mrs. Byard Sneed on Saturday even-at the West Point dinner in town.

Mrs. Sneed's guests were Mesdames Lewis Sorely, Thomas H. Lowe, Robert Sears, Walter Pridgen, Elvid
Hunt, Charles H. Rice and Miss Evelyn Hodges.

A great deal of speculation is rife about the probabilities of the many officers under orders for duty in the California training camp being allowed to go when the Thomas leaves on July 5, on account of the uncertainty of border troubles. Those who are under orders to go are, from the 1st Field Artillery: Lieut. Joseph O.
Daly, Clift Andrus, Ballard Lyerly and Joseph Andrews; from the 25th Infantry, Maj. Frank Albright, Capt.
Alexander Macnab and Lieut. Charles Wyman, Livingston Watrous and Walter Frank; from the 4th Cavalry,
Capt. Gordon Kimball, Lieut. Roland
Gaugier, Swift Martin and Eugene
Lohman; from the 1st Infantry, Capt.
Joseph Janda and John Jordan, Lieut.
Robert F. Snow, Edward Rose, John Smith and Frank Riley. The officers will sail on the Thomas and their families on the Sonoma, which will leave on the 4th.

Other Schofield people who will sail on the Thomas are Gen. and Mrs.
Frederick S. Strong, who are to be on leave for three months; Mrs. Samson Lane Faison, who will not return to the garrison until November;
Maj. and Mrs. Edward C. Carey, Capt. and Mrs. Chalmers G. Hall, the latter two officers returning home on

OLD HONOLULU LANDMARK PASSES, MODERN VEHICLES REQUIRE SPACE

Old Halewai Police Station Goes to Make Room for Modern Garage

One of Honolulu's oldest and most interesting landmarks, the old Halewai police station, is disappearing this week.

On King street, just Ewa of Nuanu street, one wall still stands of that once famous "rest" for the rough and unruly. According to the best information obtainable at the city jail it was built in 1857, the same year that the Oahu prison was erected.

A modern automobile garage is taking the place of the old prison. The garage is being erected by the City Hardware Company and one of the ancient walls of cement and lava stone will serve in the new structure as a last monument to the historic place.

The removal of the structure has awakened memories of the Honolulu of the long ago in many minds of the older members around the police station and many of the reminiscences go "way back."

George Waipa, said to be the oldest ranking member of the police department, who now administers warrants and subpoenas, very quietly informed a number who were discussing the old jail that he has been wearing a badge since 1874.

Marcus Sanders was reminded of the big fire in 1886 in Chinatown, when the Halewai jail was partially burned and the erection of the present structure on Merchant street was started. And Fred Weed proudly remembered the very date, May 12, and that was when he was thin and could "skin" the back fence with agility.

But of all the memories of the old jail, those which Attorney William J. Sheldon called to mind as he turned backward into his youth were probably the most interesting.

Sheldon is 60 years old and remembers the old jail as far back as his memory goes. Those were the days of no street cars nor autos and no police patrol wagons. He told of the 9:30 and 10 o'clock curfew bells.

"I remember the jail from that bell," says Sheldon, "for as a boy I had a great deal of respect for its warning. The 9:30 bell was a warning to hike for home; the 10 o'clock bell was an absolute order for the women and children to get off the streets. No respectable woman would be seen outside her home without an escort after the last bell."

Sheldon says it was the custom then to reckon time at night by the two bells.

"If John met Bill on the street and asked the hour," says Sheldon, "John would say that the first bell hadn't rung or that the second bell was long past, which indicated that it was approaching midnight."

"The children never questioned the authority of that bell on the old jail house and when its first peal rang out they took for home as fast as they could go, and if they weren't making tracks for home at a rapid gait when the second bell rang the police grabbed them."

Balliff Joe Nobriga, who is well informed on the history of the police, says that prior to 1857 the Halewai jail was on the water front and with a large tank on its roof, where the whalers and freighters took water, hence the name "Halewai," house of water.

Manager of Kaeleku Sugar Co. Protests Against Permit in His District

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)
WAILUKU, Maui, June 2.—One license less than at present, is the net result of the meeting of the board of license commissioners for Maui, held on Monday of this week. After July 1 there will be 16 places for the authorized sale of liquor instead of 17. There will be no retail saloons in the Hana district, Ah Ping not having applied for a license at Kipahulu, and L. Y. Aloana's application for renewal of his Hana saloon license being refused. The thirst of the district, however, will be assuaged through one wholesale liquor establishment, a license for which was granted to J. A. Medeiros.

In the town of Wailuku an additional license was granted, this being to the Grand Hotel Company, which is shortly to be built at Main and Church streets. An application for a first class saloon license by Antonio Garcia was refused. In all other districts licenses were granted as they exist at present.

Hana and Kuiaha Protest.

Strong petitions of protest came before the board from Hana and the Kuiaha-Haiku-Pauwela districts against the issuing of licenses. The chief opposition in Hana was to the present retail saloon. A petition signed by some 50 names protested against any form of license, as did a letter from John Chalmers, manager of the Kaeleku Sugar Company, and letters from a number of other persons.

A petition signed by about 60 home-steaders and others of the Kuiaha section opposed the granting of a new license to the Kaupakalua Wine & Liquor Company for its wholesale store at Pauwela, while a petition of about the same length was for it. F. G. Krauss appeared in person and spoke strongly against the issuance. R. A. Wadsworth, representing the company, urged the granting of the license on the grounds that without the Pauwela store as an outlet for the winery that institution must be forced out of business, and that such an event would be a heavy blow to some two or three hundred Portuguese small farmers of the Kaupakalua district who own stock in the wine company, and depend upon it for the utilization of their grape crop, their chief means of livelihood.

In Wailuku, A. Pombo, proprietor of the Aloha saloon on Market street, narrowly missed losing his license when a motion to refuse his application and grant that of Antonio Garcia was voted upon. D. H. Case and C. D. Lufkin supported the motion, while D. C. Lindsay and W. F. Kaee opposed. The deciding vote by Chairman T. B. Lyons was against the motion.

The Grand Hotel Company was authorized to open a bar in temporary quarters pending the completion of its hotel building.

L. R. Mathews of the Alexander House Settlement made a verbal protest against granting any liquor licenses in the town of Wailuku. No protests were made against granting any of the applications except those already noted.

NATIONAL HERO OF PHILIPPINES IS HONORED ON TWO DAYS EACH YEAR

From the fact that local Filipinos have just celebrated the natal anniversary of Jose Rizal, which falls upon June 19, and from the fact that each year they patriotically observe the anniversaries of both birth and execution of their patriot and hero, the physician, author and popular leader of thought makes the following sketch of him of interest at this time.

Few Americans know much of the life and labor of Jose Rizal, the Filipino patriot, but to the Filipinos he is the great hero of their islands and the life of no man has ever gripped their imagination or held their emotion as the life of this young man has done. It is an interesting fact that this man who exemplified and combined the best characteristics of the Filipino people had among his ancestors leading men of the Chinese, Spanish and Filipino. The three principal peoples of the islands. This fact was a liberalizing influence in the thinking of Rizal and has much to do in uniting the discordant elements among his people.

Jose Rizal was born in Kalamba, June 19, 1861. His father was Chinese and a prominent man in the community. His mother was Chinese mestizo, a gifted woman and one unusually cultured for that time and place. When Jose was three years old his mother taught him to read. Three uncles concerned themselves with the training of their promising nephew. One was a teacher and looked after his regular studies, another looked after his physical training and the third taught him the value of work and of independent thinking. When Jose was 10 years old he entered a Jesuit school in Manila. On finishing there, in 1882, he went to Madrid for the purpose of studying medicine. While in Madrid he was a member of a Filipino social club composed both of Filipinos and Spaniards, who were interested in the Philippines. The idea of this club was to quietly assist in improving social and political conditions in the islands. At one of the meetings Rizal suggested that the best means of doing this would be the writing and publishing of a book telling the truth and conditions in the Philippines. This was the beginning of a series of studies of the political condition of the Philippines which resulted later in the publication of his most noted books, the "Social Cancer" and the "Reigning of Greed." After receiving the degree of doctor of medicine and of philosophy at the University of Madrid he studied in Paris, Heidelberg, Leipzig and Berlin. In these universities he acquired proficiency in optical surgery and a more or less extensive knowledge of seven European languages. He also made a careful study of history, institutions and customs of the various European countries. He soon began to realize clearly the terrible disadvantage under which his own race in the Philippines labored. In 1886 he published his novel, the "Social Cancer," in which he exposed and denounced the injustices of the Spanish administration in the islands.

In 1887 he returned to the islands, but his writings had aroused the animosity of the Spanish officials and Rizal was forced to leave the islands within a few months. He spent his time in Japan, London and on the continent of Europe and in 1891 published the "Reign of Greed." About this time he organized the "Liga Filipina," which had for its object certain land reforms in the islands, the securing of the freedom of assembly and of liberty of the press. In 1892 Rizal returned to Manila, under a promise from

MILLS COLLEGE OAKLAND, California

The high quality of the work done at Mills College is indicated by the fact that undergraduates transfer to the Universities of California and Stanford without loss of status, their credits being accepted at full unit value. There have been students among those transferred to Stanford who have been appointed to assistantships and readerships before securing the bachelor's degree, as well as during their year of graduate work. Typical instances are: Celeste Young, reader in history; Josephine Cressy, assistant in German; Rachel King, assistant in mathematics.

Graduates of Mills College secure their second degree and their teacher's certificate at the University of California in one year. Dora Lemon, B. S., Mills 1915; M. FAREWELL WEEK PROGRAM GOOD

In the farewell week's performance of the National theater, beginning this afternoon, Bob Cook and Dot Oatman will present a rural comedy act, with entirely new songs, one of which will be "You Remind Me of the Girl that Used to go to School with Me." Harry DeCoe, a "big time" equibrist act, one of the best in the vaudeville business, will not be the least feature of the bill.

In the presence of a select audience Casey and Bix, the chimpanzees at the National theater, gave a dinner scene on the stage of that playhouse yesterday which may or may not be incorporated as a new feature of their performance the coming week, but which certainly convinced their friends that these apes are astonishing creatures.

NEW FILM STARS GROW POPULAR

With reputations firmly established as screen stars, Cleo Ridgely and Wallace Reid close their initial stellar engagement at the Liberty theater tonight, having scored a success from their first appearance. However, it was to be expected that this pair of artists would prove popular in leading parts, their work in secondary roles having won for them the highest praise and fitted them to reach the headline in Lasky casts.

"The Golden Chance," is a drama filled with action which at no time is inclined to lag. As a matter of fact, there are times when melodrama is reached and in these scenes all of the artists are good.

"The Broken Coin" is a rip-snorting melodrama of the old school, done over for the films, and it should prove one of the bright lights in the splendid series that are presented at the Liberty theater.

Ohio's June crop report places the condition of wheat at 68.

'WHITE HAT' McCARTY SAYS AKOZ QUICKLY RID HIM OF AILMENTS

Owner of Famous Racers Tries New Mineral With Great Success

(San Diego Union, Jan. 14, 1914.) "White Hat" McCarty, who claims to have owned more trotters and runners than any other man in the world, is busy telling his friends around the court of the Palace Hotel, San Francisco, where he has been almost a fixture since the early days of the old Palace, is shouting the praises of Akoz, the new medicinal mineral discovered by John D. Mackenzie, because of the prompt relief it gave him in treating rheumatism, neuralgia and stiff neck.

When "White Hat" isn't telling about having owned C. H. Todd, the winner of the American Derby in 1887; Sorrento, who finished second in the same classic in 1889, and Dexter Prince, for whom he refused $30,000, he is talking about the marvelous work done by Akoz.

"Akaz is surely the goods," said he. "It cured me of rheumatism, neuralgia and a stiff neck. If there had been anything else the matter with me I am sure Akaz would have cured that. My neuralgia was so bad that I was nearly wild and could hardly speak. Akaz took all the pain out in a day. Rheumatism in my foot was also knocked out in a hurry. A neck responded over night to an ointment of the Akaz compound."

BIJOU PRESENTS CLEVER THEME

In "Souls in Bondage," the feature at the Bijou theater, Nance O'Neil has a part that suits her talent from the ground up. She is seen as a young woman of exemplary character whose younger sister is wayward and incorrigible. To shield the younger girl the older sister assumes the part of the former's child, and thereby keeps the father from sorrow and sadness over the downfall of his favorite child. The older girl, however, is banished from the family roof tree.

She meets and weds and after a few years roll by she realizes that the love of her husband is cooling. She follows him and learns that the wiles of her younger sister have ruined her home. Murder is in her heart, and she would have killed the sister but for the memory of their father. Instead she spares her life and gives her husband to her.

Given an opportunity to become a red cross nurse the disappointed woman grasps the opportunity and the end finds her happy in death on an European battlefield.

'TWO ORPHANS' FINELY STAGED

Theda Bara is probably the most talked of screen artist in Honolulu today. She is appearing at the Hawaii theater in "The Two Orphans" and that is the reason that she is the subject of so much conversation. The role of Henrietta in this play is one that calls for a sweet, lovable and sympathetic character and strange to relate, Theda Bara gives her characterization all of these qualities. It is rather difficult to imagine this clever actress in such a role, and her many admirers are pleasantly surprised to learn that their favorite is a "Vampire Woman" only on the screen. So naturally has Theda Bara handled these parts that she has been

HAIR RAISING EPISODES SEEN

Again Helen Holmes, the daring heroine of many railway dramatic offerings, appears in a series of hair-breadth escapes when as the girl operator at Lone Point, a flag-station on a Western railway line, she foils a gang of criminals who had planned to wreck a limited train because their demand for money had gone unheeded.

Miss Holmes, who has become a universal favorite with patrons of the screen drama, will return to the Empire theater today in an intensely interesting production. "The Fate of No. 1" is the vehicle in which this courageous girl displays her marvelous ability as an artist. The play has to do with the outlaws who sent the train into a ditch as a warning that they meant business, and when they discovered that the railroad was determined to fight their demand for blackmail they laid plans for a second wreck. Miss Holmes at the risk of her life brings the desperadoes to justice.

The care-free life at a modern mining camp is well depicted in the presentation of the gripping two-act melodrama, "The Wives of Men."

The Empire program today will include two clever comedies. The popular Snakeville series has been revived. "Whitewashing William" is a roaring travesty on the suffragette campaign waged in a western state.

Judged incapable of handling other parts. This she disproves in good measure in "The Two Orphans."

The scenes of this offering are laid in France, mostly in Paris, and the photo-play is very nearly along the lines laid down by the famous drama of the same name that has held numerous thousands spellbound during the past several decades.

LONDON, Eng., June 24.—Reports from Mesopotamia and Persia, coming through official sources at Constantinople, are cheering for the Central Powers. On the western front the Germans are also making gains, according to last night's despatches. The Teutons evidently have gained another step in their attack upon the former French fortress. On the right, or eastern bank of the Meuse river, they succeeded yesterday in forcing their way into the advanced trenches protecting Thiaumont Farm, about five miles northwest of the outskirts of the city, and lying between Hills 344 and 345.

Other attacks were made on the trenches protecting the lines at Flury, but the French lines held there despite the repeated and desperate attempts of the Germans to force a passage. The French counter-attacks even succeeded in wresting certain ground from the attackers.

VISITORS MEET LULUS TODAY AT ATHLETIC PARK

Tomorrow afternoon Floyd Brown, the big rightlander of the Santa Clara team, will oppose the Chinese at Athletic park. Luck Yee or Hoon Ki will oppose the Missionites. This game should bring out a good battle if the Chinese squad can play the ball that they have exhibited during the series past, with the exception of last Sunday's booting error.

The local boys will have a number of good players to oppose the visitors and there is expected to be a banner crowd out at the park. The Santa Clara squad may be slight favorites but the Chinese players are a heady bunch and are working hard all the time. Capt. Ken Yea will have the best lineup possible, and may go behind the bat in tomorrow's contest. Ah Lee at first, Kai Luke at second and Lang Akana, and En Sue in the outfield make up a strong combination.

Santa Clara has the Honolulu as the first opponents this afternoon, and the visitors should be the favorites. It will be a game in which the fans will have an opportunity to get a line on the strength of the teams. Capt. Henry Bushnell has been handicapped but has strengthened his team with two players in the infield, but still the lineup does not look strong enough to warrant their being favorites. If the Santa Clara team does not win from the Lulu by six runs, they will not be favorites against the 25th Infantry when they meet.

The Santa Clara boys have proved to be gentlemanly fellows, and the majority of them in the recent controversy between the Oahn League and Junior league said: "Give the boys a chance." This move is certain to make them popular with the fans.

Baseball had an excellent chance to get back in the good graces of the fans, and everything was pointed this way until a few of the Oahu League officials got to grunting about the Juniors making such a showing. Despite the protests of one or two, the Juniors will be playing ball very soon, and the fans will be coming out, notwithstanding the efforts to kill baseball by some pretended friend of boosting the game. The Juniors will be out to the games, and boosting. That is, unless the Oahu League cuts out their admission tickets.

Everything that can be done has been done to make the meet tonight at the Y. M. C. A., the classiest contest yet staged by the local association. The talent is entered, the officials are the best to be secured, even the ticket booth, all decorated, and from which will emerge the necessary door slips, has been made to stand in the front of the lobby.

The first event will be called promptly at 8 o'clock, and from then on each event will follow in close order. There are to be no waits, for the races are sandwiched with novelty and semi-racing events which give the racers the necessary time for resting.

The admission for tonight's events is only 25 cents. This goes to cover the cost of the expenses of the meet, and handsome prize cups are being awarded the first places in the 50 yard, the 100 yard, the 440 and the 100 yard backstroke.

The mile walking race between C. D. Luce of the battery department of the Schuman Carriage Company, and H. M. Ayres, the erstwhile mile record holder, will take place at the Kapolani Park track at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. The stakes are $25 a side.

There will be a special meeting of the Myrtle Boat Club at the boathouse tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock. Several matters of importance will be discussed and all members are earnestly requested to attend.

Regatta and Baseball Will Be Big Features of Excursion; Three Days' Trip, $15

"The Special Excursion to Hilo for the 4th of July festivities is certainly going to be a grand success. I. W. Weir told me this morning, 'There is not the slightest doubt that the splendid program offered by the progressive Crescent City is drawing a great crowd, and the Inter-Island Company reports record bookings. It does not appear to be clearly understood, however, that the festivities are not confined to the one day; even for those who do not take advantage of the specially reduced rate to the Volcano, there will be plenty of amusement, for on the Sunday there will be a big baseball game between the local gang and the crack aggregation from the U. S. Army. There will also be a concert by the splendid band of the 2nd Infantry, either in the afternoon or evening, I am not quite sure which, as yet. Then on the Monday there will be an opportunity to make the magnificent scenic run over the Hamakua extension line to Paauilo, returning to Hilo in time for the return baseball game and the second concert. The coastal trip is now at its very best, for the recent rains have freshened everything up, and the succession of glorious gulches crossed by the air line has never seemed more beautiful, so I strongly advise all who go over to make this trip. An excellent lunch is served at Paauilo on arrival, and the whole run is a delightful experience.

"On the Monday evening there is the great ball in the Armory, and this will certainly eclipse anything of the sort ever gotten in Hilo. In fact, Hilo has attempted together a celebration which will do real honor to the great occasion, and which will be long remembered by all who participate in it. The $15.00 return fare with an extra day's stopover was a great concession on the part of the steamship people, and it is gratifying to find that so large a crowd is taking advantage of the exceptional opportunity."

This morning the Young Giants won a ten inning game of indoor baseball from the Junior Americans. The game was a regular pitchers' battle right through, and was finally won by Leo de Roo. Knell, who heaved for the Americans, pitched great ball, although hit a trifle harder than de Roo. Last week Leo de Roo won another close game from Knell, the score being 4 to 3. Today's score was 3 to 2.

One of the big features of the Independence celebration on Oahu will be the regatta at Pearl Harbor on July 4 under the auspices of the Hawaii Yachting Association. Entries will be made by the Myrtles, Honolulu and Healanis.

In former years these races at Pearl Harbor were held in shells. This year the clubs will use their barges. All of the clubs have crews working hard under the supervision of their respective captains: Charles Brown for the Healanis, George Crozier for the Myrtles and William L. Lyde for the Honolulu.

There will be a cutter race between the U. S. Alert and Navajo. The regatta committee is endeavoring to have the entire division of submarines and the U. S. S. Alert anchor off the peninsula, on the Fourth. A special train will leave Honolulu at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. Tickets for the special train, including admission at the Peninsula, can be secured from any of the members or at the sporting department of E. O. Hall & Sons. The committee has announced the tickets at 75 cents. Those going by auto will be charged 50 cents admission.

Inasmuch as the program will continue both morning and afternoon arrangements have been made with the Sweet Shop to furnish sandwiches and lunches at the regulation prices.

The program will consist of the following events:

Following events:

- Intermediate six-oared race, "A."
- Intermediate six-oared, "B."
- Pair oared race, "A."
- Pair oared race, "B."
- Scull race, "A."
- Scull race, "B."
- Six-oared barge race for boys under 20 years.
- 12-oared cutter race.

Featuring the above lineup in most of their games the Ewa team has been making a great record in the Sugar League, and are now leading the other teams in the circuit. Last Saturday the Ewa aggregation fell before the Alea tossers, but another result is looked for in the next game.

Manuel Ornellas has been pitching grand ball for the Ewa team and is good ball for the Ewa team, and in the game against the Aiea team he sent eight batters back to the shade via the strikeout route. He has been ably supported by Corderio, a good catcher and one of the best hitters on the team.

Bento at first base is a steady player, and has shown to form it in games in Honolulu. William Eklund, baseball player and tennis star of Hawaii, is as fast on the diamond as he is on the courts, and his drives are not always handled by his opponents. His work with the bludgeon, approached his success with the racquet.

Rodrigues at third is a good lead-off man, and a quick thinker. Last Sunday he pulled off a pretty double play unassisted. Thomas at short stop can hit and field. He hammered Ross for a double and a single last Saturday. Loo Sun, Travens, Cortez and Ah Chong have been holding up the strength in good shape in the garden. Nawaakoa is one of the best pinch hitters in the league.

At a meeting of the new shoemakers' Union in Worcester, Mass., a few days ago, several of the members of the union came to the hall in their own automobiles.

A strong, vigorous nervous system means health, strength and ability to endure hardship and also to enjoy the full pleasures of life.

The man with healthy nerves accomplishes greater tasks with less fatigue. He has a clear eye, an active brain and a sound body. He is enabled to think better and work faster. He has energy. With healthy nerves he can overcome the hardest competition, be successful and gain wealth.

The woman with healthy nerves is never listless, weak or hopeless; she is not irritable, she never suffers from hysteria, she has a reserved surplus of endurance. Healthy nerves will prevent the sleepless mother, although worn with care and nursing, from a "break down" caused by her double or treble duty.

All men and women who suffer from these forms of nervousness — known as Neurasthenia—who have "gone to pieces," who lack energy, who have insomnia, who have succumbed to nervous prostration or nervous exhaustion, either mental or physical, whose condition is one of irritable weakness, will find ready relief and cure in the peculiar properties of

(Formerly called Persian Nerve Essence.)

These wonderful little tablets contain no narcotics, no harmful ingredients. They act like magic. The result is the elastic glow, the clear and active brain, the courage and strength and comfort they impart are noted almost from the first day they are taken.

One box of Sensesperza will do a great deal of good, the full course treatment of six boxes is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or the money will be refunded.

The proprietors earnestly ask for every sufferer to give Sensesperza a good fair trial at their risk. Don't delay, commence today. Sold by Chambers Drug Co., Hollister Drug Co., Heouliou Drug Co. or sent post-paid for $1 per box or 6 boxes for $5.

GERMANY, UNABLE TO INCREASE BIRTH RATE, HAS BABY CAMPAIGN

Wants to Cut Down Rate of In-
to Be Big Help

BERLIN.—Some of the difficulties which, for the present at least, confront many of the details of plans for increasing the birth rate of Germany, have led to a strong companion movement to lower the infant death rate. Its proponents argue that many steps are possible along this line at the present time.

Prof. Dr. Langstein, director of the Kaiserin Augusta-Victoria-House for combatting infant mortality in the German empire, believes that it will be possible to reduce Germany's loss in infants to seven or eight per cent, Sweden's present rate, and thereby gain about 200,000 in population annually. He relies largely upon education to accomplish this result—education beginning with children in the folk schools, and extending upwards so as to include every person who has anything to do with babies, nurses, physicians, and so on.

He advocates a mild form of sex hygiene instruction in the schools, as well as both theoretical and practical education as to the care of children which shall extend from the lowest through the highest schools.

The newspapers can be a great educative power for good, he believes, and he recommends that they publish helpful articles at regular intervals. They must, however, eliminate advertisements of "offerings," the use of which already costs the lives of a not inconsiderable number of babies.

Maternity hospitals and like institutions have in the past, he believes, had too great a tendency merely to give assistance at birth and have failed to pay any attention or to exercise any supervision over mothers or children afterwards. This must be altered, he says, so that by some system of inspection the hospitals may continue to exert a wholesome influence.

In every corner of Germany there have sprung up so-called "Care Institutions," where the wives and families of soldiers have been given all sorts of aid—from meals to clothes and money, advice and general oversight. Prof. Langstein hopes that these institutions will not disappear after the war, but that they will continue and develop so as to fit into his whole social plan.

IF IMPROVEMENT WANTED, PEOPLE MUST PAY TAXES

Supervisor Hatch Tells Colleagues That Dancers Must Always Pay Piper

"It was an interesting session," commented Supervisor Hatch, as he slipped into his coat. And all the rest of the supervisors concurred with him. There was but one important piece of business done, the awarding of the contract for the Beach Walk improvement to the Lord-Young Engineering Company, but there was a deal of interesting discussion.

It started when someone mentioned roads and the proposed bond issue for them.

"There is no doubt in my mind that the community wants new roads and better roads," declared Supervisor Hatch. Then, first stopping to smile, he continued: "But there is a doubt in my mind as to whether the community wants to pay for them."

"Personally I am going to work for extra taxation for a number of years," continued Hatch. "I am in favor of putting the proposal for a bond issue before the people and letting them decide whether or not they want a new belt road, improvement of the main thoroughfares in the city, extension of the water and sewer mains and all of the other things proposed. But I believe the people should have a chance to decide."

"As I said, I intend to work for an increase, a material increase of taxes for say five years. Compare our tax rate with that of any city of our size on the mainland and you will find it is extremely low. We can and should have a higher rate. Let the community put its hand in its pocket for the things it wants. That is the only way to get them—pay for them."

He asserted that any unprejudiced individual who would make an examination of the expenditures on roads during the last 30 years would satisfy himself that the money was well spent, according to the light of the times.

He called attention to some of the more important pieces of work the present board is doing—the Pali wall, the Pali concrete road, the work at Hakipuu, etc.—and asked why some of those who wanted to know how the board had spent its money of the last year had not visited these places if they were really interested in what the county is doing.

THIS IS SOME NAME
JEFFERY QUAD HAS

"Ambidexterous" is a new word just coined by the Tucson (Ariz.) Citizen to designate the type of motor truck that drives, brakes and steers on all four wheels. The term was suggested by the word ambidextrous, which signifies a person who uses both hands with equal facility. The Citizen was commenting on the growing use of Jeffery Quads by mine operators in Arizona, such as the Copper Queen Consolidated Mining Company, the Tom Reed mine, the Chino Copper Company, and many others. After wrestling with such terms as "all-drive," "four-wheel-drive-brake-and-steer," and other perfectly good but inelegant expressions, the editor went Noah Webster one better and dubbed the Jeffery Quad the ambidexterous truck.

:: "The Best For Our Children" ::

A Notable Punahou Day Feature

(Paper written and given by Mrs. W. J. Forbes, president Punahou Mothers' Association, on "Punahou Day," June 22, 1916.)

I have not the honor of being an alumnus of Punahou but I am the mother of prospective alumni, and that is why I am here—to speak to you from the viewpoint of the mother of the Punahou children of today.

All mothers want the best for their children, and Punahou mothers are no exception.

It was this impulse in human nature which led the mothers—and fathers—of long ago to found this school, in order that the tragedy of sending their young children far, far away to the mainland might forever end.

From its beginnings Punahou has offered to its students advantages comprising favorably with the mainland schools.

This fact bears witness down the ages to the sterling character of the strong men and women of the early times in Hawaii, who in spite of the disadvantages of isolation and distance were nevertheless able to establish in these far-away islands the same ideals of education as their brothers of New England.

Mothers May Rest Secure.

A steady development has been continuing until on this 75th anniversary we Punahou mothers would have to search far and wide through our better country of America to find a greater school in which to give our children their secondary education.

The boys and girls of 75 years ago grew up into splendid men and women, proving the solid foundations that were laid at Punahou. A few of them are still with us whom we are privileged to know and to honor.

They and their sons and daughters have given of their substance to erect these beautiful buildings and to furnish the equipment our children now enjoy.

But while we look back with satisfaction on the past of our Punahou, we must look forward on the years that are to come. The quarter of a century before us which will round out a hundred years of Punahou's existence will doubtless witness greater changes than we now think possible.

Science will work wonders—we know not what—beside which wireless telephony and telegraphy will be mere pigmies, while the most timid of us may yet cross the ocean in airships.

Such greater facilities of communication and transportation, together with the increased business activities which are bound to come to our community, will render more complex than ever the problems with which we as teachers and parents will have to deal.

The question for us will be, not how to carry out our ideals of education in spite of the disadvantage of isolation, but how to carry out our ideals of education in this "Crossroads" of the Pacific which may yet become a whirlpool in the struggle of nations' interests of many nations.

How are we to impress upon our children that character building is the highest aim of all education?

The trustees of Punahou today, for the most part sons—and worthy sons—of 75 years ago, are honestly endeavoring to pass on to our children the high standards of life and scholarship for which the founders of this institution stood.

Their earnest and careful thought has brought together the fine corps of teachers under whose guidance we are happy to place our children.

Who are to be the responsible leaders of tomorrow, if they are to be thoroughly imbued with the Punahou spirit of the past, if they are to turn out to be Doles and Gulicks and Armstrongs, let us remember the teachers cannot produce these results alone.

After all, the spirit of the home pervades the school. Our children are very largely what we make them. The kind of character they are forming depends upon the influence they receive at home far more than upon the influence brought to bear at school.

The influence of the school upon a child is far greater if the atmosphere at home is loyal to the school. On the other hand, harsh criticism of the school at home will render much more difficult a healthy development of the child at school.

Should we as parents ever criticize? By all means, provided the criticism be frankly, honestly and lovingly expressed to the person in whose power it lies to rectify the fault, if fault there be.

Often a heart-to-heart talk with principal or teacher will reveal the fact that the supposed fault is no fault at all, but quite likely a misunderstanding of the teacher on the part of the child.

Cooperation and sympathy! These of

must be our watchwords! Cooperation and sympathy between trustees, faculty, parents and students!

A long step in this direction was taken when the Punahou Mothers' Association was organized two years ago. Its meetings are held once a term or oftener should the need arise. Topics of vital interest concerning school life are here freely and frankly discussed, as any one who has been present can testify.

No longer can a mother be hoodwinked by her child who says, "I must do thus or so, because all the others do." Mothers now have an inside view of finding out whether other mothers really approve of any certain aspect of school life under discussion, or whether each has been giving consent simply because all the others do.

For example, when each mother found that all the others preferred their daughters to be more simply dressed, then the demand for elaborate dressing disappeared.

When earlier hours for evening parties were advocated by the mothers in congress assembled, the effect of the resolution on this subject was at once felt in the social life of the school.

In fact, quite unexpectedly to the mothers, this resolution resulted last year in doing away altogether with the parties heretofore held each term in Pauahi Hall.

And now also unexpectedly to the mothers comes the second result of this resolution, for the students themselves offer a proposition to be considered soon after school reopens in September of having a freshman dance as usual next fall, with fathers and mothers invited as honored guests! Why not, mothers and fathers? Why not thus enter into the social life of the school? The more intimately we associate with our children in their relations to the greater will be their confidence in us, and the longer will we be able to exert the influence over them as much desired.

Cooperation and Sympathy.

Cooperation and sympathy! We believe that there is a spirit of cooperation and sympathy binding together the school and its patrons.

This was shown at the last meeting of the mother's association when the question of the school children's home work was being discussed. After opinions had been frankly expressed, there being some who thought that too much was required of the children, those who felt satisfied with the amount of home work required were asked to express their satisfaction by rising. A very large majority of these present arose at once, thus signifying the general confidence felt in the school, at any rate on this point.

To believe in Punahou, to be loyal to Punahou and to cooperate with the faculty of Punahou, these are duties of every parent. Cooperation and sympathy! These of

must be our watchwords! Cooperation and sympathy between trustees, faculty, parents and students!

Men, Books, People & Things by E. A. Rath

It is flattering to a writer to know that his readers have good memories, even if it be to call attention to his faults and inconsistencies!

In view of what I have written about aristocratic titles and appendages generally, a correspondent quotes from a reprint of mine, in which I say:

"Several of Dr. W. J. Goodhue's friends have determined that he must not any longer refuse the honors and rewards which are due him, and it is gratifying to know that steps are being taken to have the order of knighthood conferred upon this ardent lover of his fellow man." (Journal of American Clinical Medicine, Chicago, November, 1913.)

This was merely for a recognition on my part of what the world considers reward for honorable service, and what I said and did was in the way of friendly office alone.

Undoubtedly the offer of such preferment would be pleasing to any man. It was to Gladstone and other men who refused it.

After all, what prompts a gift is the gratifying part of it; it is often more honor to refuse things than to accept them.

I did not advise or consult Dr. Goodhue regarding knighthood. I did not know and do not know now whether he would even accept it, but I rather think he is enough like his own father not to do so.

Like the rest of the family he is rather a stickler for the real things of life.

To my knowledge, I think foolishly, he has refused one or two academic degrees. I did the same for years, but have decided that such degrees when earned by honest work in science or literature have their place for a writer of medical or scientific papers.

They should not be given due importance or used immodestly, but in Who's Who, or on the title page of a scientific contribution, they are proper.

Regarding Dr. Goodhue, in my letter to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, I said frankly that such "honors" were nothing to me personally; that under no sympathy I repeat. Let these be our watchwords. Let us see to it that we as parents do our part to enable Punahou to do its best, and that, we earnestly believe, will be the best for our children.

circumstances whatever could I be induced to accept a title which might disqualify me for American citizenship, and I thought perhaps my brother felt the same way; but I believed that the offer of such distinction from abroad would be gratifying to him and to many of his Canadian friends.

Mr. Laurier, who not long ago approved of a bill to do away with aristocratic titles in Canada, wrote me that he agreed with me entirely. So much for that.

J. A. RATH.

Without repeating an aphorism, everyone knows the power of system. Order alone does wonders.

Not only in heaven, where order is supposed to reign, but in the other place, where order is needed, does regulated performance accomplish things.

I am told that the big work being done by Rath at Palama is done so efficiently because the man who does it is the epitome of order, system, method, and an unflinching clock-like regularity which drops no seconds by the way.

Time is conserved like drops of water on a desert.

Few people realize, if they know, what has been and is being done at Palama Settlement.

Mr. Rath is not only a stickler for systematic and technical character-building; he is a man of sympathy whose vision is keen and whose attitude toward the people he is physically bettering and morally reclaiming is broad and humanly charitable.

One sad mistake does not constitute a crime. Two mistakes are worth fighting to correct; a hundred are compatible with a large constructive work. Sir Rath recently told one who contributes largely toward the Palama movement (but who objected to Sunday amusements, and who desired Mr. Rath to preach to his people) that he was no preacher; that he didn't know how to preach, didn't want to know how, and wouldn't preach if he did know how, as that sort of talking coming from him would only injure his influence among the people he was helping.

Moreover, said he to this contributor, that of the two, the contributions or the Sunday amusements, he would take the latter.

"I'm here to do things material for these people," he said.

"And everyone who works with me—doctors, nurses and other helpers—must do things. All day and every

GUARDSMEN TO BE DRAFTED FOR ACTIVE SERVICE

House Unanimously Passes On Rush Measure to Strengthen Uncle Sam's Army.

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—The house of representatives yesterday adopted by a vote of 332 to 2 the resolution, introduced by Congressman Hay, chairman of the military affairs committee, authorizing the president to draft into service immediately all national guardsmen subscribing to the new oath of that service. It is probable that the senate will adopt the same resolution this morning, as the indications last night pointed to such action.

TUXPAM OIL CAMPS BEING ABANDONED

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) GALVESTON, Texas, June 24.—The oil camps of Tuxpam are being abandoned by the operators, who are beginning to arrive here in increasing numbers. According to the story told by these refugees, the Carranza commander there has informed the Americans in the district that a state of war exists between the United States and Mexico. The refugees also bring word that it is commonly reported in Mexico that an edict will be issued July 1 ordering the "execution" of all Americans still in the country.

We are here not to increase church membership (which, however, I hope may be increased by our work), but to help a lot of unfortunate people to help themselves; to grow up strong in body and healthy in mind; to develop to the extent of their physical and mental abilities.

"And if our methods seem a bit new and unorthodox, they are meeting the needs."

If anyone thinks that all the slums are in London or New York, they should have seen slums in Honolulu before Rath took hold of them. Now Mr. Rath is not a pig; he doesn't pose as a reformer, nor object to publicity; but he's doing the biggest work that's being done in Hawaii today, despite the talk.

The money which has been given to carry on the work would accomplish little in some hands, none in others.

"That it has been such a good investment is because it was given to the right man. The right man, sir. Long may he live to keep things hustling at Palama."

DREADNOUGHTS; BATTLECRUISERS DECIDED UPON

Senate Committee Agrees to Bigger Navy Plan; Personnel Increase

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—The senate naval sub-committee has agreed upon a program of four superdreadnoughts and four battlecruisers to be laid down this year.

This program was decided on following a prolonged conference with Rear Admirals Taylor and Blue and Secretary Daniels. It was also decided to recommend an increased personnel for the service of more than 20,700 men.

It is understood that this program, particularly that part of it increasing the personnel of the navy, is acceptable to President Wilson.

REFUGEE AMERICANS FLEEING TO VERA CRUZ

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 24.—From all parts of the border and from Mexico itself comes word of the increasing seriousness of the situation. Americans by the hundreds are fleeing to the coast ports in the hope of escaping in time. Vera Cruz is thronged with refugees, and hundreds more are reported to be on their way to that city. It is understood that transports are to be sent immediately to bring them to the United States.

From the City of Mexico came the report officially that the American note is being kept secret. Officials declared that Mexico would "not" attack the United States troops now in Mexico, but will not permit any advance to the south.

The Carranza cabinet met yesterday morning and held a long meeting, but made public no statement.

From Nogales came the report, unconfirmed as yet, that 10,000 Mexican troops are assembled south of the border line and that 2000 more are on their way to join the first force. These are 84 miles south of the border.

Articles of incorporation were filed at Dover, Del., by the American Zepplin Co., capital $6,500,000.

News and Notes From Hawaiian Board

Among the speakers at the 94th annual meeting of the Hawaiian Evangelical Association to be held in the Halli church, Hilo, from June 29 to July 6 will be, Rev. George Laughton, pastor of the Hilo Foreign church; Rev. J. M. Lydgate, pastor of the Lihue Union church; Rev. J. L. Hopwood, pastor of the Bishop Memorial church; Rev. A. C. Bowditch, pastor of the Makawao Union church, Paia, Maui; Rev. E. E. Pleasant, pastor of the Kahului Union church, Maui; Rev. J. P. Erdman, superintendent of the Hawaiian department; Rev. R. B. Dodge, pastor of the Wailuku Union church; Rev. A. Akana, president of the Territorial C. E. Association.

Rev. Norman C. Schenck, superintendent of the Chinese department, left for Hawaii per Kilauea last Wednesday. He was invited to give the address at the graduation exercises of the Kohala girls' school and will also look into the board's work in Kohala generally. Mr. Schenck will stop in Hilo on June 29 to attend the annual conference.

The Mauna last Tuesday carried away Rev. and Mrs. Frank S. Scudder. They will be on a vacation until September, visiting places in the East as well as on the Pacific coast. During Mr. Scudder's absence, Rev. John P. Erdman will act as superintendent of the Japanese department.

Umetaro Okumura, son of Rev. T. Okumura, pastor of the Makiki Japanese church, graduated recently from the Yale School of Religion. He graduated from Yale college in 1913 and now after his theological training is ready for Christian work in these islands. The board has called him to a position in the Molokai section.

World's Strides In Temperance

Bavarian Drunkards Work.

The drunkard who depends upon public charity to take care of him when he is no longer fit to work is getting a jolt in Bavaria. The applications for poor-relief in that country, according to an article in the Munich Medical Weekly, come most frequently from the drunkards, those afflicted with what the Germans call "trunksucht," a mania or craving for drink. In order to stop this drain upon the poor funds a law has been passed providing that persons applying for poor relief must accept some line of work that will be given them to do. If they are unwilling to do this or fail to work aid may be refused or they may be arrested and committed to a house of correction or workhouse. If they are unable to work they may be committed to an institution where a measured amount of work will be a part of their treatment.

Strikers Ban Boozing.

When the Building and Common Laborers' Union of Cincinnati, Ohio, struck in support of their demand for better working conditions the first thing decided by the men was that they would remain out of saloons during the strike. This is considered one of the strongest assets of the workers, and the rule, voluntarily self-imposed, will be rigidly observed.

All advertisements posted or distributed in the city of Montevideo, Uruguay, are subject to a municipal impost. Advertisements of alcoholic beverages are made subject to an additional tax of 10 per cent of the regular schedule.

Social Clubs Closed.

One of the most sweeping reforms inaugurated in Luna country, New Mexico, was started when Sheriff Simpson served notice on the proprietors of eight social clubs at Columbus that they were to close their places of business and keep them closed. Since Columbus voted out the saloons about two years ago the town has seen the birth of several clubs, and until recently the thirty residents of the border town had their needs supplied by one or two of the social clubs, but with the coming of immense numbers of soldiers other clubs sprang up almost over night until eight of them were running full blast.

An ordinance has been introduced in the city council of Columbus to prohibit cabaret performances in places selling intoxicating liquors. The measure if passed will affect several hotel grills and other places. It provides that no place where liquor is sold shall have any side, rear or upstairs rooms not open to public view.

Chicago Drinks Less Beer.

Records for the month of April compiled by the collector of customs, show in April this year there were 79,959 fewer barrels of beer consumed in Chicago than in the same month last year. The government collected tax on 463,448 barrels of beer in this district in April of this year. In the same month last year it collected tax on 474,407 barrels.

Ordered to the Front. Minister of Munitions Albert Thomas of Paris has issued instructions that any munition workers found under the influence of alcohol shall immediately be sent to the fighting line to get out of temptation. His action is prompted by the fact that there has been a diminution in the output of munitions due to excessive drinking.

Poor Old John. The manager of a large circus is quoted as having said: "We do not of Honolulu, where he will labor especially among the English-speaking young Japanese. Mr. Okumura arrived on the Matsushima Wednesday.

Plans are being made for the opening of the Hawaiian Board Bible School in September. The lectures and recitations will be conducted in the Mission Memorial building, and the boarding and dormitory departments will be carried on in some suitable location nearby. Whereas last year 12 students were enrolled, it is likely that at least fifteen students will be in the school next year. Under the leadership of Rev. John P. Erdman the Bible school has now become an important factor in training young men for the ministry. Next year Mr. Erdman will have to assist him in the work Rev. N. C. Schenck, Rev. F. S. Scudder, Miss M. Caborn, Rev. J. L. Hopwood, Rev. A. Akana and Rev. H. P. Judd.

Theodore Richards and Rev. S. K. Kamalopili left on the Kilauea Wednesday for Lahaina to deliver addresses at the closing exercises of the Lahaina-Luna seminary. They returned to the city this morning.

Quite a number of the delegates to the annual meeting in Hilo will leave on the Mauna Kea this afternoon, but the larger number will go next Wednesday, June 28. Probably more than 300 delegates will be on that voyage.

Directly after the conference Messrs. Akana, Richards, Judd and Schenck will make an evangelistic tour in the Hilo and Hamakua districts, being joined later by Rev. J. P. Erdman, who will visit Maui right after the convention to assist in the dedication of the Paia Japanese church and the ordination of its pastor, Mr. J. Fukuda.

'BILL' DREIER TO BE SPEAKER AT M. E. CHURCH

"Big Bill" Dreier, who for two years has had the intermediate boys' work at the Y. M. C. A., is to be the speaker at the First Methodist church tomorrow evening. Mr. Dreier leaves next week for the mainland, where, next fall, he will enter the Rochester Theological Seminary at Rochester, N. Y.

During the years he has been here he has been active both in the Sunday school and Epworth League of the Methodist church, and his friends there were very anxious that he should speak at one of the services before leaving. His athletic achievements and his keen interest in young men have made him especially popular with them.

Signor De Nufrio will play Dolora's Delores on the harp at this service.

"THE SOUL'S TRUE ENVIRONMENT" TO BE SERMON SUBJECT

At the morning service tomorrow in Central Union church Rev. Amos A. Ebersole will preach on "The Soul's True Environment." The musical program will be as follows: Organ Prelude—Matins... E. Martin; Anthem—Jubilate Deo... Buck; Response—Holy, Holy, Holy... Weber; Offertory—I Sought the Lord... Stevenson; Mrs. G. K. Tackabury and Quartet; Organ Postlude—Finale—Marche... Miss Edith Gattfield.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH TO BE SCENE OF COMING MID-WEEK GATHERING

The union mid-week service in which the Methodist, Christian and Central Union churches join will be held next Wednesday in the Christian church at 7:30 o'clock. The service will be led by Rev. A. A. Ebersole of Central Union and the topic will be "How Teach Religion in Our Schools?" Representatives from some of the local schools have been asked to be present and take part in the discussion, which will center about these questions: "What is being done in teaching the Bible in our schools in Hawaii? TWENTY-THREE

HAWAII AT CHICAGO'S NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

TERRITORY'S TWO REPUBLICAN DELEGATES PLAY LIVE POLITICS

Votes Split and When Right Time Came Both Climbed on the Hughes Band Wagon—Lyman Abandons Roosevelt Early—Charles A. Cottrill, Former Revenue Collector, on Ohio Delegation—Convention Tired and Impatient at Long-Winded Speeches

CHICAGO, Ill., June 10.—Robert W. Breckons and his family headed the Hawaii delegation, which arrived here Monday morning after a short stopover in Wyoming. Other members of the party were J. K. Kalaniana'ole and Henry J. Lyman, two delegates, and John Evans and A. L. Castle, the latter being an alternate. Mr. and Mrs. Breckons and "Tiekie," their daughter Evelyn, located immediately at the Virginia Hotel, which accordingly became the official headquarters of the Hawaii delegation. Prince Kuhio, Lyman, and Evans took a suite at the New Southern Hotel, a few blocks from the Coliseum, and L. A. Castle got a room at the Sherman Hotel.

The delegation immediately got in touch with Congressman W. B. McKinley of Illinois, who was leading the Sherman representation, whose headquarters were in the Congress Hotel. Mr. McKinley held Charles A. Rice's proxy as national committeeman from the Territory of Hawaii, and voiced Hawaii's interest in the contest for the recovery of her delegates and two of the six votes taken away from the territory last year by the national committee.

Prince Kuhio was with Congress man McKinley on Monday afternoon when the latter attended the meeting of the National Committee at the Coliseum. It was largely through the efforts of the Philippine delegation and Mr. Rice's proxy that the fight for the recovery of the votes was so successful. The Philippine delegation took the lead in this contest, Hawaii, represented by Mr. McKinley, falling in behind.

Favorable Report Secured. The committee on credentials reported favorably on the contest for the recovery of votes, recommending to the convention that Hawaii be given two ballots in the choice of a Republican candidate for president of the United States. Prospects were promising high, and the Hawaiian delegation expressed satisfaction all around.

"The chances are now ten to one that we will get our vote," remarked R. W. Breckons on Monday night. Others in the delegation felt as Breckons did.

Miss Breckons a Real Politician. "Bob" Breckons laid the affairs of state aside for a spell Monday afternoon to see Mrs. Breckons, who was scheduled to go on East, on her way. Miss Breckons stayed behind to act as her father's private secretary and to see the convention. She was interested in the outcome of the coming nomination, and followed the fluctuations of national political stock with the interest of the well informed politician.

The whirl and confusion of Chicago did not phase "Tiekie" in the least, and she found her way around Chicago with all the ease and assurance of an old timer. She did think that things moved a little faster here than in Honolulu, but really enjoyed the change.

Chicago began to show definite signs of the coming convention on Monday. Michigan Avenue between the Blackstones and Auditorium Ho-

FORMER PUNAHOU BOY "COVERS" BIG CHICAGO NOMINATING CONVENTIONS

 Joseph R. Farrington, former Punahou student, and now a freshman at the University of Wisconsin, represented the Star-Bulletin at the Chicago and St. Louis national conventions during the last few weeks. He has covered "Hawaii's end" of the Chicago conclave in the articles appearing on this page, supplementing his telegraphic news. In a later issue the Star-Bulletin will print his letters from the St. Louis convention. *****

There was a region of gathering politicians. The delegates began to arrive rapidly on Monday and were in evidence in the lobby of the hotels where numerous small groups were gathered in serious or convivial confabs.

By Monday night a considerable number of groups were scattered through the lobby of the Congress and Auditorium Hotels and around the headquarters of the different factions. The air was full of tobacco smoke and rumor. There was some confusion and some seriousness, but it was of little account in the all-around political handshakes and "Glad to see you," "Where are you from?" "Do you know so and so?" talk, and general sociable and political discussions.

Charles A. Cottrill Was There. Charles A. Cottrill was a busy member of the Burton delegation from Ohio, having been elected first alternative at large from Ohio. He was standing in the lobby of the Congress Hotel greeting numerous passers-by when I met him on Monday afternoon. I heard him say "Tantalus and Makiki Heights" while waiting to introduce myself.

"You can give my heartiest aloha to Honolulu," said Mr. Cottrill. "Honolulu is my home now and I intend to go back there some day." He was in the real estate business in Toledo, Ohio, but at the same time is taking an active part in the political life of Ohio. He is a strong Burton man and volunteered the information that Senator Burton was one of the "dark horse" candidates.

Wanted Support for Burton. Senator Burton was an instructor at Oberlin when J. B. Castle and W. A. Bowen of Honolulu were there, according to Mr. Cottrill. Not only through these affiliations, but through what he had done for the islands in his position on the rivers and harbors committee, he believed that Mr. Burton was in line for some support from the Hawaiian delegation.

"I have delivered over 40 lectures on the islands, its beautiful scenery, delightful climate and wonderful people since I left Honolulu," said Mr. Cottrill. He said that he found interested listeners everywhere and that he had not lost any of his old love for Hawaii. Rather, his determination to return to the islands had increased. With family affairs aside, "Bob" Breckons turned busily to his work as national committeeman. On Tuesday morning his room in the Virginia, the Hawaiian headquarters, was a busy place. Further negotiations on the recovery of the Hawaiian votes were to be made and arrangements completed to bring together the Hawaiian delegation.

Disatisfied With Rice's Action. Some dissatisfaction on the action of Charles R. Rice, national committeeman of Hawaii, was expressed by the delegation. Mr. Rice refused to give his proxy to one of the Hawaiian delegates, although urged by repeated letters and telegrams which were sent before and on the way to the convention. His proxy should have been in the hands of a Hawaii delegate, according to delegates. Congressman W. B. McKinley held Mr. Rice's proxy.

Mr. Breckons expressed his confidence in a favorable report on the contest for the recovery of the Hawaiian, Porto Rican and Philippine votes from the committee on credentials. When passed favorably by this and the national committee, Hawaii was practically sure of her vote, for the convention would undoubtedly accept the report of the committee without contest.

The fight to get a vote for the District of Columbia was involved in the general contest for recovery of votes and did not meet with much favor. This threatened the success of the island's contest. Later the District of Columbia was refused the support of the committee. But this was on the basis that they were not represented in Congress. Hawaii and other territorial possessions are represented in Congress. Accordingly they were then practically sure of a favorable report to the convention from the credentials committee.

Candidates Next. With a vote almost sure Hawaii turned toward the candidates. "Who will it be?" I asked. "Favorite son?"

"No."

"Hughes or Roosevelt, then?"

"Probably. Any man has a right to his guess."

Who could predict? No one. There was little confidence in anyone's success. Mr. Breckons intimated that Hughes would be a strong man, but went no further. "I don't know," they all said.

Lyman Plays Politics. Lyman asserted that the Hawaii delegation would be split on the first ballot. But Lyman was playing politics. He probably knew that the Hawaii delegation would come together—but after the credentials committee had given Hawaii her two votes.

Henry J. Lyman, delegate from Hawaii.

Joseph R. Farrington, Star-Bulletin's special correspondent.

Teddy would hardly be ready to arise in favor of giving two votes to the Hughes camp. Therefore, to gain the favor of both parties, to eliminate any possibility of losing votes through party affiliation, the Hawaii delegation took an early stand for the two prominent candidates.

Possibly a little far-fetched. But that was the way George R. Carter sized it up.

Burton looked like the logical man for the islands to support. There were intimations to the effect that he would get our vote at the start, anyway; but remember, we had not recovered the two previous ballots yet.

Delegates Gather. Tuesday was a mean day. Early that morning the sky was overcast and the weather man was predicting a heavy rain storm. It came and came hard, and instead of a stream of rain, there were umbrellas. Everything was damp and "goofy." It was uncomfortable.

But nothing could phase the ardor of the gathering delegates. They were coming in rapidly and instead of groups there were crowds in the hotels. The lobby of the Congress Hotel was jammed. You had to edge your way around through stout, well-dressed, nice looking, jovial, political men to get anywhere. The air was so dense with tobacco smoke that it made my eyes sting. There was lots of noise, but there was peace.

Favorite Son Booms Going. The headquarters of the favorite sons were the places where the biggest noise prevailed. Bands, glee clubs and many more human voices created a somewhat discordant song. But what did they care. The more noise they made the more people they would attract. Maybe that fellow's vote will be forthcoming. That's what it all looked like.

Wednesday, the first day of the convention, did not dawn "bright and clear;" it was rainy, muggy and mean. Everything was damp, the sky was overcast and it rained hard a good part of the time. But affairs must proceed.

Henry L. Lyman was standing at the door of the New Southern Hotel waiting for a taxicab at 8:45 on this morning. He was wearing a long dark overcoat and a dark felt hat and possessed a disposition which was in keeping with the weather. Evidently he had forgotten his 8:45 appointment of the day before in the pre-convention celebration of the night before. Fortunately, too, for he was in no mood to discuss the affairs of state.

A. L. Castle, alternate from Oahu.

Under the sub-head, "Not That Jonah," Ring Lardner writes of one of the Hawaiian delegates as follows: "I left the Coliseum soon afterwards and who should I run into but Jonah Kuhio Kalaniana'ole, one of the delegates from Hawaii, and it ain't the Jonah that the whale swallowed or the whale would have choked on his surname."

"Well, I say, 'what do you think of the outcome?'"

"I do not speak ze English," he says.

"So I translated."

"Nun," I asked him, "was denken auf dem beach at Waikiki?"

"Aloha Oe," he says, meaning "Good-night."

On the morning of the first session of the convention two photographers had arranged their cameras on the press benches at the side of the speaker's stand. One of them was a Japanese.

Uncle Joe Cannon said: "They could do worse than nominate me," when queried on the convention.

Attorney G. McK. McClellan, formerly a resident of Honolulu and for a long time private secretary to J. K. Kalaniana'ole, delegate to congress, was attending the convention as a visitor.

Mr. McClellan is a strong Burton man and "it was said that he did some work for Burton."

Representative from Tennessee Richard W. Austin is going back to Honolulu the first chance he gets.

The band playing "Aloha Oe" while the crowd was gathered for the second session of the convention.

"Now if they would only put a few Hawaiian flags on the wall, everything would be fine," said Bob Breckons, national committeeman-elect, whereupon he adopted the slogan "Six votes and a Hawaiian flag" for his work as a national man.

Hard man for both Progressives and Republicans to follow, and that it was possible that a man like Weeks or Burton could be chosen as a compromise candidate. He conceded Hughes tremendous strength in the Republican party and spoke of him as a mighty strong man.

Talked Burton at First. Kuhio intimated that Burton would probably get some votes from Hawaii. Wednesday was the first day of the convention. The doors of the Coliseum were opened at 9, but it was not until about 11:30 that the meeting was called to order.

TWO VICTORIES WON BY HAWAII'S DELEGATION, WRITES ANGUS ERLY

Correspondent at Washington Tells of Popularity of Republicans From Islands

BY ANGUS ERLY. (Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence) (Angus Erly is a well known Washington correspondent and was a member of the big congressional party which visited Hawaii in the spring of 1915.)

CHICAGO, Ill., June 10.—Hawaii had two notable victories in the Republican national convention. The first, and by far the most important, was the giving of full voting privileges to the two delegates. The second was the securing of a plank in the platform which pledges the Republicans to refrain from "carpet-bagging" in the territories should victory be won upon their banners and Ex-Governor Hughes become president.

Although Hawaii had only two delegates and one alternate here for the convention, they were not lost in the hustle and bustle of the big show. Everywhere, and by that I mean in the convention itself, in the crowded hotel corridors, dining rooms and at the individual headquarters of the candidates for the presidential nomination Prince Cupid, Henry Lyman, "Uncle John" Evans and Mr. Castle were greeted with "aloha," but thanks to the excellent work of the Hawaii Promotion Committee there was hardly one visitor to the convention (there were registered 30,000 strangers in addition to the delegates and alternates) who did not know Hawaii and her sons and continually they were greeted with the glad hand of fellowship.

The Monday evening before the convention the delegation, chaperoned by George McClellan, entered the Pompeian room of the Congress Hotel for dinner. The crowd of diners welcomed them with a shout of "aloha," and the musicians followed quickly with Hawaiian airs. Before long the small party had grown into a stirring procession. Congressmen and relatives passing stopped to pay their respects. Former Congressman Thomas of Ohio joined the Hawaiian contingent as a permanent aide-de-camp. If there had been a representative of the Promotion Committee on hand he would have reported that the Hawaiian delegates are the cause of "ex," which in newspaper parlance means great excitement.

So far as the delegates concerned it was not all a question of social performance. They were on the ground to work and they went at it without any hesitancy. Prince Cupid on Monday and Tuesday, with Henry Lyman, visited every national committeeman and every state chairman and interviewed each member of the committee on credentials to see to it that he proposition to give full voting powers to the Hawaiian delegation was put through without a hitch. Their strenuous work was effective.

When the proposition came before the committee on credentials, on which the prince served as Hawaii's member, there was not a dissenting vote. It was unanimously carried by the convention. The fobbing the prince and Lyman did on this proposition was not amiss for it developed that there was an opposition to the proposition which, would have manifested itself had not the Hawaiian delegates trooped out to oppose by an intelligent presentation of their case.

Mr. Lyman served on the resolutions committee and it was his proposition against "carpet bagging" that went into the platform. After one session of eight hours' duration the Lyman plank, pledging the party to name only territorial citizens for territorial offices, went into the platform.

Hawaii's delegation to Chicago made a splendid impression. They made friends with all of the delegates and so carried themselves on the first two votes for the presidential honors that none of the favorite sons had a grievance. On the third ballot they followed the lead of the Sherman, Burton, Weeks and Cummings delegation and voted for Hughes.

Prince Cupid has left Chicago for Washington. Mr. Castle will go to Boston and intends to return to the islands in September. "Uncle John" Evans has gone into Michigan. Mr. Lyman will visit New York City and Washington. With the prince and Evans he is acquainted to return home in July.

BRISBANE, HEARST'S BIG CHIEF, IS A $50,000 SALARY MAN

He Looks Like It and Works Like It, Writes Star-Bulletin's Correspondent

CHICAGO, Ill., June 10.—Arthur Brisbane, the $50,000 editor of the Hearst papers, was at the convention, only a few rows in front of me on Tuesday morning at the Republican convention.

He was in the press box writing a detailed account of the convention. My seat was above the level of his, so I could watch him closely as he worked.

He sat at the long bench like all the other newspaper men, and not in the front seats, either.

From the back Brisbane looked like any other man. From the front he plainly showed that "something different;" he had a $50,000 look and was not a disappointment; he looked pleasantly like you would imagine a big salary man to look.

Brisbane wore a plain blue suit, a pair of moderately large gold-rimmed spectacles, and a $50,000 look. He has very light thin yellow hair, which ought to be somewhat gray to be in harmony with his face. His hair is leaving him. He combs it back lightly from his high forehead. His forehead is strikingly high and his head so constructed that it looks as though his brains might be all right up in that forehead, just over his eyes—that his increasing knowledge has raised the level of this part of the head above normal. Nice thing to imagine on $50,000, anyway.

His high forehead makes his face look long and his features a little smaller than they really are. He has a drawn face, marked with lines of thought rather than age. A small mouth drawn at the corners and a small, fine nose are both of the $50,000 type, but would not do in a beauty show. He has blue eyes which peer through his glasses from under that high forehead; eyes that seem to take in rather than to express what is in.

I watched Brisbane. He was earning his $50,000. A young fellow at a noiseful typewriter sat next to him. Another fellow, a pompadour blond, waited for the stuff; then there was still a third, a messenger boy. He kept all busy, moving rapidly, too.

His right elbow rested on the long bench. His hand wandered about his head, systematically, yet aimlessly. He gave the gathering conventionalities the "one over" and the next minute the noiseful typewriter was writing it off. He peered from under his head, lifted his fine nose, and his hand over his mouth and did a lot of more. The typewriter was doing some more. His mouth showed that he was talking rapidly. A short while and the paper was off the typewriter. Brisbane edited this stuff with a worn pencil, and the messenger was off.

He repeated this continually. He turned out stuff like a cash register, not listening but hearing, and not looking but seeing. He kept three men on the move all the time, working as if no one else was about.

Less than an hour after the convention was over I was reading Brisbane's two-column detailed account of the convention.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE G. O. P. CONCLAVE SOMETHING OF THE BIG AND LITTLE MEN

Under the sub-head, "Not That Jonah," Ring Lardner writes of one of the Hawaiian delegates as follows: "I left the Coliseum soon afterwards and who should I run into but Jonah Kuhio Kalaniana'ole, one of the delegates from Hawaii, and it ain't the Jonah that the whale swallowed or the whale would have choked on his surname."

him when in an allusion to the countries from which our ancestors came, he mentioned that some of them had come from Germany.

"Now what will happen if the Japanese land a million men in Mexico," said one man in one of a thousand heated and serious discussion groups which were held in the lobbies of the hotels all through the week.

Another old Irishman who was a delegate from Oklahoma, exhibited a letter and a telegram from Roosevelt, swore at everybody who was not for Roosevelt, was willing to bet all he had on Roosevelt, and said that the other candidates were a "bunch of petrified stiffs." He was "Col. Dick Plunkett."

The difference between the two conventions was the difference between Hughes and Roosevelt. There was a difference in the noise.

'BOB' BRECKONS CLAIMS DINNER WITH GOVERNOR

That Is, in Prospect, With Next Chief Executive of Colorado

CHICAGO, Ill., June 10.—The new committeeman from Hawaii, R. W. Breckons, claims that he dined on Friday evening with the next governor of Colorado; and if the judgment of at least one astute politician of the Continental State is correct, so is Breckons.

That Colorado will choose a Republican governor this fall seems to be admitted. That the candidate of the Republican party to be chosen in the September primaries will be either Allison Stocker or Sam Nicholson, likewise appears to be admitted. Two former is a cousin of Breckons, not a Chinese cousin, but a real, Anglo-Saxon first cousin. He is now state treasurer of Colorado. Sam is a friend of Bob's, having become well acquainted with him on a recent trip to Honolulu. He is living at the same hotel with the new committeeman.

More Than Keeps Pace With Growth of City During Last Decade.

Business Grows From Three-men Concern to One Which Employs Upward of 100 Workers—Large Building at Corner of Alakea and Merchant Streets Covers Floor Space of 80,000 Feet—First Building in 1907 Covers Only 3000 Feet—President of Company Did Not Believe Automobile Would Be Anything But Fad at First—Now Sells One Machine Each Day of Year—New Building Cost $127,000

"It should be catalogued as one of the places of interest for tourists," said a visitor yesterday as he walked out of the new building recently erected at Merchant and Alakea streets by the Schuman Carriage Company, Limited. "I was indeed surprised to see the large number of motor vehicles in Honolulu, but I was astounded when I was taken through the great vehicle establishment."

Visitors to Honolulu are not more appreciative than the local residents, who have watched the Schuman Carriage Company grow from a small concern to one that ranks well with any in America, considering the population there is to draw from. Hundreds of Honolulu residents have been shown through the motor and carriage departments on Merchant and Alakea streets, and there will certainly be many tourists taken through the various departments to show what goes on in Honolulu.

Gustave Schuman, president of the Schuman Carriage Company and founder of the business, was asked by the Star-Bulletin to tell something of the history of the company and the progress that was made. Mr. Schuman declined to talk about himself, but in relating the progress of the business one could see that a personality had entered into the development from stage to stage.

Gustave Schuman in 1897 started a business in carriages and harness on Fort street above Hotel. All of the goods sold at that time were American made, and the business steadily increased year by year. The sales for the first two years averaged $30,000. Now the sales each year total more than $1,000,000.

At the time of the organization of the business the concern covered 2,000 feet of floor space. There is now 80,000 feet of floor space in the new building. In 1897 there were two employees busily engaged in handling the business. Today the establishment is a veritable beehive, with upward of 100 employees carrying on the business that is forty times larger than that of less than twenty years ago.

These figures alone show the progress of the business more than any other word that could be said. The figures not only show that Honolulu is growing rapidly, but they show that the Schuman Carriage Company has more than kept pace with the growth of the island metropolis.

One of the two employees who were first connected with the Schuman Carriage Company is still with the company. This is William A. Akerman, who is connected with the sales department. A number of the other employees who joined the company later are still in harness. Employees state that the company has at all times been wide awake to the opportunities which have presented themselves.

Mr. Schuman visited the world's exposition at St. Louis in 1904, and brought back the first car with him. It was a Ford. Mr. Schuman drove this car, and the first car eight of the cars were sold. One of the features of the sales was that the clients bought four cars to be placed in the rent service in 1905. James Quinn also had a rent car in service at that time.

During the early years of the automobile business Mr. Schuman, like many other men, believed that the automobile was merely a fad, and expected it to die out in time. But as the fad grew to be a necessity he took advantage of the opportunities and went into the automobile business with a purpose, and as a result the sales average about one car per day at the present time.

The Schuman Carriage Company building occupies 80,000 feet of floor space facing three streets—Alakea, Merchant and Richards. The front is constructed of terra cotta block, and the garage and machine shops have concrete walls, all of which are fire-proof.

The building was constructed along the plans outlined by Mr. Schuman, and every detail was carried out to bring the very best results. The structure was erected at a cost of $127,000, and required 11 months for completion. As it stands now, it is one of the show places of the city.

The main entrance to the main building leads into the large show-room, which has a 260-foot glass frontage, giving an ideal lighting for the exhibition of the cars. Here are located the private offices and the general offices. In another room the bookkeepers are stationed. In every department the latest office appliances are used. New desks have been purchased for use in the offices.

The various departments, including the motorcycle, bicycle and accessories, are connected. The paint and varnish departments are ideally placed, and all enter into the big concrete workshop, which is one of the busiest spots in Honolulu at all times.

A visit to the workshops, which include the machine shops, the woodworking department, blacksmithing and trimming departments, shows the men at work on the many and difficult jobs that have given the Schuman company a reputation for speed and efficiency combined.

In the basement row after row of tires are placed and in one large room there is now more than $30,000 expended on tires. In the basement are also kept parts for automobiles, motorcycles and carriage and wagon material. Parts for farm implements are also located here, the implements themselves being on the first floor.

From the first to the second floor an inclined drive takes one to another workshop where the men are working on broken-down automobiles. In one large room the rough painting is done. In another room the painters are busy on the fine work. This room is constructed so that not a particle of dust accumulates on the cars when they are being painted.

In the construction of the building everything was done to make the handling of the business systematic in every way. From the cash carriers in the office to the large vacuum cleaner in the basement, there are equipments to handle every situation. In the construction department the same thing holds good. One man was working on a bicycle chain, another was completing the new body on the motor ambulance for the Maui Agricultural Company hospital.

Altogether each department is handled by a capable force, and the work is systematized. Department 1 comprises the selling of new cars, including the sale of Ford, Overland, Oakland, Oldsmobile, Hudson, Franklin, White and the Pierce-Arrow, in pleasure vehicles. In the truck line are the Republic, Federal, White and Pierce-Arrow. Excelsior motorcycles and Iver-Johnson bicycles are in another department. During the tour of this department, word was given out that a carload of new Iver-Johnson bicycles will soon arrive for the Schuman Carriage Company, which is the territorial agent for this well-known make.

Other departments are: Automobile accessories and tires, including all supplies; carriage and wagon materials; farming implements; auto repair shop; carriage shop, which includes woodworking, blacksmith and trimming and painting departments; garage, including the Associated Garage on Bethel and Merchant streets, where a service is still retained for automobile owners. Among the tires handled by the company are Goodrich, Kelly-Springfield and Michelin.

In discussing the good roads question with reference to the automobile business, Mr. Schuman said:

"The automobile is here to stay. If we had better roads there would be more automobiles sold, naturally. One of the principal points in building a road is a foundation. If the top falls away you still have the foundation,

SUPER-SIX HAS HONORS IN BIG SPOKANE SHOW

Wins Hill-Climb and Captures Clean Sweep for Hudson First in 100-Yard Dash;

"The Hudson super-six won the feature event at the Spokane meet which was a part of the auto show," said Mr. S. S. Paxson of the Schuman Carriage Company, local Hudson distributors.

The big motor car event of the day was the hill-climbing contest, which was listed as event No. 4, between the winners of the first three classes. This was easily captured by a stock super-six, beating a number of non-stock cars, and particularly a popular eight which was stripped of body fenders and running boards and used a canvas hood. The hill course was 2,159 feet, with an average grade of 7.55 per cent. The time of the super-six was 36.47 seconds. The stripped eight was second in 38.15 seconds. The super-six's time was the best ever made up this particular hill, Spokane's test hill, in a contest on high gear.

The trophy for the winner of this event was the Spokesman-Review silver cup. The meet was sanctioned by the American Automobile Association under class C, for non-stock cars, and the association's representative, Frank W. Gilbert, was at the finish line.

The super-six also annexed event No. 2, for cars with a motor displacement of from 231 to 300 cubic inches, which was a dash to test speed. The Hudson car made a speed of 45 miles an hour, at the finish line doing the dash in 37 seconds flat.

On another day of the auto show contests the super-six won the 100-yard dash. The requirements were that the driver should be standing on the ground with the door closed. At the pistol shot he must open the door, jump in, start the engine, drive 100 yards, and stop on the line. Frank McDonald defeated a number of entrants for this event in 15.25 seconds.

It will be seen that the Hudson super-six practically made a clean sweep by defeating all winners of other events in the fourth event, and by capturing the coveted trophy, as well as others of the events to which its piston displacement made it eligible to start.

OUTPUT OF CHEVROLET CO. IS TO BE LARGER

The Chevrolet Motor Company has decided to increase the output from the Oakland factory 50 per cent. In other words, they will build 15,000 cars this season instead of 10,000. This is the information brought back by Vice-President R. C. Durant of the Chevrolet Motor Company of California. The Chevrolet Motor Company is not only going to build a plant in Oakland, Cal., but also at Fort Worth, Atlanta, Minneapolis and Kansas City. These factories are now also in the process of construction and will shortly be completed.

"Some time ago $90,000 was spent on a piece of road on the other side of the island, one end of which went to pieces before the other end was completed. This was due to poor foundation. With a principle established of first making the foundation substantial, the good road question will be answered, when the people realize what good roads mean to a community."

The present officers of the Schuman Carriage Co., Ltd., are as follows: Gustave Schuman, president; S. S. Paxson, vice-president and manager; W. G. Ashley, treasurer, and G. W. Schuman, secretary.

SPARK PLUGS REQUIRE CARE, SAYS P. M. SMOOT

more and more a higher standard of accessories that go to make up the ideal car. Given the right motor, the correct body, the lasting, serviceable, economical touring car, limousine or roadster a motorist can figure a comparatively low depreciation on his investment, but it is in the line of the smaller, less noticeable but highly important accessories that he must watch with zeal and caution if he would get the best out of his motor. Spark plugs enter largely into the running of a car, but the average motorist rarely bothers himself as to the why and wherefore of a spark plug.

Mr. P. M. Smoot of Smoot & Steinhauser, Ltd., points out that it is in the making of plugs—in the long, careful process of manufacture, of expert handling from the raw material to the finished article, that spells the secret of their longevity.

Nothing is left to guess work or haphazard methods. A tried, tested and proven design decided upon, and banks of the most intricate automatic machines with skilled operators, take up their part in the several processes entailed in the actual making of the plug.

SURF RIDER TO BE USED ON ALL RADIATOR TOPS?

Local Auto Dealers Boost for Hawaiian Type on Cars on Mainland Trips

"Boost Hawaii in some way, say all the men who are interested in the promotion of the Paradise of the Pacific, and the automobile men are doing their share in the good work. The latest booster plan is the placing of a Hawaiian surf rider on the radiator cap instead of the kewpie, dancers and other novelties not typically Hawaiian."

A few cars already have placed the Hawaiian surf rider figure on the radiator, and everywhere the comment is made that the type is Hawaiian, and denotes speed. A number of tourists have already placed the surf riders on their cars, and travelers are beginning to know those who have paid a visit to Hawaii by the radiator top.

Local automobile men are urging the residents of Honolulu who are taking their cars to the mainland to secure one of these tops, as they will help greatly in giving an impression of Hawaii that will not soon be forgotten. The new plan of boosting appears to be meeting with much favor.

PRESIDENT OF CUBA NOW OWNS BUICK TRUCKS

The president of the Cuban republic now owns a Buick D-4 truck which is used to do all the hauling for the presidential estates in Havana. The chief of the republic was so impressed with one of these trucks which he saw on the streets of Havana one day that he ordered one purchased for his own estates.

CORRECT INFLATION OF TIRE MOST IMPORTANT TO MOTORIST

Too Many Drivers Use Insufficient Air to Gain Easy Riding, Says S. S. Paxson, Manager of the Schuman Carriage Co.—Rubber and Fabric Cannot Stand the Strain That Should Be Placed on Wheel—Weight of Tire Factor in Pressure

S. S. Paxson, manager of the Schuman Carriage Company, makes a few interesting comparisons between a motor car engine and a tire, making the point that no engine is guaranteed to do its work satisfactorily without sufficient lubrication, and that no tire, however well made, should be expected to give its best service without being pumped up to the proper point. He contends that proper tire inflation is as necessary to good service as is proper motor lubrication.

"The weight of the tire is, of course, the chief factor in determining its proper inflation pressure," says Mr. Paxson. "The best efficiency cannot be obtained by keeping the tires inflated to any particular pressure regardless of the weight carried. The pressure to which a tire should be inflated depends upon the maximum allowable deflection of the tire under load; that is, the degree to which its shape is flattened out at its point of contact with the ground. This deflection varies directly as the load carried and inversely as the pressure within the tire. That is, the greater the load the greater the deflection with the same pressure and the greater the pressure the less the deflection with the same load."

Motorist Places Burden on Tires.

"The owner inevitably has to contend with the question of sufficient air pressure to give long life to tires, on the one hand, and not too great pressure to give easy riding on the other hand; and motorists are prone to allow their tires to run a little under the proper pressure for the sake of easier riding. When this is done the motorist is simply placing on the tires the burdens the springs and shock absorbers should bear."

"Tires are not meant to do this work. Rubber and fabric cannot stand the strains that should be placed on steel. When the tire casing is allowed to run soft enough to take up the road shocks that the shock absorbers and springs should be accountable for, there is a constant flexing of tread and fabric that inevitably causes disintegration and separation between the layers, and which in time will result in the utter destruction of the body of the tire. Increase too slight for any consideration."

"Tire manufacturers are unanimous in saying their tests have shown that a great deal more damage to the tire is occasioned by endeavoring to compensate for the difference in pressure caused by increase in temperature of the tire through lower inflation in summer timethan would be caused by such increase in pressure itself. This increase is so slight that it need not be considered. It is almost negligible from the standpoint of the car owner."

"The tensile strength of a single layer of 17-ounce Gen. Island fabric is approximately 480 pounds to the square inch. In a five-inch tire, where seven layers of fabric are used, the tensile strength of the carcass is in excess of 3000 pounds to the square inch. In a perfectly built tire it would require this amount of hydraulic pressure to blow it out."

"Experiments along this line have been conducted in which more than 2000 pounds of air have been placed in a tire and the iron rim itself has given away before the tire, and the hydraulic pumps have broken down before the pressure in the tire being subjected to the tests has given way."

Dick Oliver, for a number of years manager of the Waimea Hotel on Kauai, has resigned the position to take the Kauai agency for the Schuman Carriage Company. Mr. Oliver has been an ideal "mine host," and has many friends throughout the island. He is a graduate of the Kamehameha Schools and an active booster for Kauai. The automobile world gains a booster, although the tourists and travelers will miss his aloha at the Kauai hostelry.

Hard Base Tire for Trucks

Conservatively 60 per cent of all the Trucks in the United States have proven the superior stuff of which Firestones are made.

NOTE THE CONSTRUCTION

The steel channel is sawtoothed. A hard rubber base is forced into these sawteeth, then the tread rubber built up, ply by ply, to the required thickness. The whole tire, steel, base, hard rubber sub-base and soft tread rubber, is cured under an enormous pressure, in steam, making an absolute unit, as strong at the unions as the steel base itself. The sides of the channel form an additional protection to the base unions. In the event a wheel strikes a curb, the rubber cannot be injured.

THE WEEK IN MOTOR CIRCLES

—WITH TRADE AND OWNER—

WAY TO MORE MILE AGE FOR OWNERS AND THOUGHTFUL DRIVERS OF CARS

If tire users better understood the construction of inner tubes, and things which contribute to their wearing out, it would be easy, indeed, to secure more and better service. Spare tubes should not be carried in cardboard boxes as furnished from the dealers' shelves—there is danger of the tubes being chafed. Tube bags can be secured for this purpose.

If the car is equipped with smaller tires on the front wheels than on the rear, wheels an extra tube should be secured for each size.

The cross sections of inner tubes are made a little smaller than the normal air space inside of the cases. It is not advisable to use a 4 1/2-inch tube in a 4-inch case. This usually wrinkles and creases the rubber, with bad results. Do not use a 4-inch tube in a 4 1/2-inch case for any length of time. When this is done the rubber is required to stretch too much and the effect of heat and action due to displacement of air in the tire quickly wears up the nerve and life of the tube. If put into usage for which it is not designed the tube will not, as a usual thing, render efficient service. If it was practical to use one size of tube in another size of case, tire manufacturers could effect a big saving in equipment and furnish only a few sizes of tubes.

Lubrication is most important to preservation of the tube, but it is a matter that is given least attention. Practically all tire manufacturers coat the inside of cases with a white solution to prevent tubes from sticking to the adhesive "friction" of the fabric—a good lubricant, however, should also be used.

Some customers neglect dusting dampstone inside of the case when changing a tube—others use the soap alone so sparingly that it does but little. If any, good, or they may use so much that it does more harm than good. If a quantity of it be dumped into the case it will collect at one point, and during the hot weather will heat up to such an extent as to burn the rubber of the tube, making it very thin, brittle and lifeless; this can be recognized by the honey-combed appearance. Scapstone is the lubricant most used for tires and it is quite satisfactory, but not lasting; therefore a fresh supply should be put into the tires at least two or three times during the season. Powdered mica has proved a more durable lubricant than scapstone and quite as effective as graphite, as well as more pleasant to handle.

The lubricant should be dusted on the fabric all around the case, and on the inner tube. It is essential that tubes be equipped with valves having the correct type of spreader. Most companies have, in the past, furnished tubes with specially equipped valves for clincher cases, another type for quick-detachable clincher cases, and still another type for straight-side cases. The clincher valve spreader will not properly lock the Q. D. clincher beads on a Q. D. clincher rim, nor the straight-side type of tire on a straight-side rim. The valve equipped with a straight-side spreader will lock the beads on a clincher rim or a Q. D. clincher rim, but on account of difference in width and shape may damage fabric of the case.

Don't overlook the importance of a tube with a properly equipped valve. Care in this respect will insure a proper anchor of tire to rim and eliminate much annoyance from tube being pinched near valve.

Pinching of an inner tube usually occurs from oversight or carelessness in application of tire to rim. Illustration shows how the tube may be caught underneath bead of case. This may occur from putting too much

PEKING WALL IS OF NO USE NOW

Built to Keep Invaders Out; Hupp Goes Up Barrier With Ease

A cablegram from Peking, China, from Charles Denby, vice-president of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, announces the latest performance of the Huppmobile, which is "noted for its many feats all over the world."

To demonstrate the hill-climbing ability of the model "N" Huppmobile, Charles De Wette, representative of the Huppmobile agency at Peking, drove one of the cars up the Tartar City wall at Peking, carrying five passengers.

This is the first time an automobile has ever been driven to the top of the famous Chinese wall and it remained for an American car to be the first to accomplish the feat. Moving pictures were made of the performance of the Huppmobile going up the incline, used by the troops, to the summit of the wall, and several hundred spectators saw the performance.

De Wette in making this climb carried a distinguished list of passengers, which included the American minister to China, Paul S. Reinch; Col. Donald of the American Range; Charles Denby, former American consul-general at Shanghai, also vice-president of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, and a Chinese journalist.

The climb up the Tartar City wall was made May 15, the cablegram having been received by President Drake at the Hupp factory of the successful attempt to make the wall. The Tartar City wall is the wall around the inner or Imperial City of Peking. It is higher and much more difficult to climb than the outer Peking wall. The Tartar City wall is 50 feet high and 60 feet wide at the base, tapering to 40 feet wide at the top.

RUSH 30 TRUCKS TO MEXICO DUTY ON SPECIAL CAR

Big Order Placed With Locomobile Co. By United States Government

An unusual order for trucks was placed last week with the Locomobile Company of America by the United States government for a complete company of thirty three-ton Riker trucks. The order was the first that has been awarded for anything larger than a two-ton vehicle. The Locomobile Company was awarded this contract in competition.

The order was placed Monday morning and was filed by the Locomobile Company in every detail Tuesday afternoon. The trucks were loaded on a special train in the Erie railroad yards in Jersey City, and were shipped directly through to San Antonio, Texas. It is understood that these trucks will go into immediate service on the Mexican border.

Forty-one mechanics and drivers accompanied the trucks, on the special train consisting of engine, Pullman sleeper, diner and express cars.

This order follows a demonstration given by the Riker truck a few days ago, when this motor truck ran from Columbus, N. M., to El Paso, Texas, over the rails of the El Paso and Southwestern system. At this time the truck made the run of 85 miles, averaging a little better than 19 miles per hour. The truck carried 20 soldiers with their complete equipment, and on arrival at El Paso was derailed and driven up the main street to Gen. Scott's hotel, where the general inspected it and pronounced the test highly satisfactory. The truck left El Paso the same evening and made the return trip to Columbus, N. M., without incident.

The flanged rim device was invented and developed by A. L. Riker, vice-president and chief engineer of the Locomobile Company of America. Riker is chairman of the committee on internal combustion engines of the United States Automobile Association.

MOTOR HONKS By Otto Horne

Dr. Albert J. Deskey, dentist of Lihue, Kauai, will leave July 1 for an extended visit to California and eastern points. He will be accompanied on the trip to California by his mother and son, Ellsworth. They will tour California in a Hudson "Super Six," which has been ordered to be ready for them on their arrival at San Francisco.

Dr. O. E. Wall, Honolulu dentist, will tour California in a Hudson "Super Six."

The Honolulu fire chief's Pope-Hartford car has been running on a Goodyear tire for over 8000 miles. This tire is still running and looks to be good for many months' wear.

For Tightening Bearing Caps. In removing play from rod bearings by reducing shim thickness great care should be taken in getting each rod bearing to be as free as every other bearing. To make one bearing tight and the other rather free is to court trouble, for it will be found that in most cases of this sort a knock will occur.

Loose Spokes. Wooden wheels with loose spokes emit a squeaking sound, which is annoying. The sound is more distinct when the car is driven around a corner. Sometimes this looseness may be removed by replacing one or more spokes or by forcing small wooden wedges between the spokes at the hub. A wheelwright can do the work in a short time.

Oil Leakage. When oil from the differential housing makes its way to the brake drums the trouble usually can be traced to the use of too much oil in the housing. Often, however, the felt washers at the end of the axle tubes become worn and allow the oil to pass.

Installing the Magneto. The removal of the ignition unit of a motor usually is a simple matter, but many owners hesitate because it is believed to be a difficult job to replace it. The work is not as hard as it may at first appear. With the ignition unit on the bench, proceed as follows to get No. 1 cylinder in firing position: Turn the motor over until the piston of that cylinder is on top center and both valves are closed, which condition will prevail after the compression stroke has been finished. With cylinder No. 1 ready to fire, it is only necessary to get the ignition unit ready to fire, and then slip it in position. The distributor cover should be removed and the arm turned around until it is in contact with segment No. 1 on the distributor board. By rocking the arm back and forth slightly and watching the interrupter points, one can see them opening and closing. The unit is ready for installation when the arm is on No. 1 segment and the point just about to separate.

LAUDS ROADS AS AID TO DEFENSE

Separate Highways for Freight and Passenger Traffic Predicted By A. A. Head

"Another 10 years will see national road systems covering every section of the country—the greatest practical step in the direction of preparedness that could be made," comments Dr. H. M. Rowe, the newly elected president of the American Automobile Association, from the Washington headquarters.

"In a decade we will begin to have separate roads for freight traffic and passenger traffic," predicts Dr. Rowe, "and the horse and mule will have practically disappeared. Our present highways will be greatly multiplied and largely increased in width and improved in quality. No other country on the face of the earth can make such good and profitable use of good roads as the United States of America. We will eventually excel in that as we do in many other things. There have been wonderful changes in all matters relating to transportation since the introduction of the motor car, but there are still greater things to come."

"But equal justice and fair treatment for the users of motor vehicles must continue to be sought for some time to come. Everything the motorists ask for, everything the A. A. A. and the clubs affiliated with it have worked for, has been based on these principles. We have worked for good roads for the reason that they are of equal economic benefit in the final analysis to all, and it is only just and right that the people of our country should have the advantage to which they are entitled."

"We have worked for unrestricted intercourse between the states through the use of motor cars, because that is a constitutional right that has been denied us. We have asked for equal taxation. That is another constitutional right that has been set aside, partly because we submitted to it willingly, I admit, but it is an injustice and constitutes unfair treatment just the same."

MATSONIA BRINGS STOCK OF NEWEST FIRESTONE TIRES

So great has been the demand for Firestone tires that Smoot & Steinhauser, Ltd., have found it difficult to meet requirements.

In an interview with Mr. Smoot he stated that Firestones are giving excellent service throughout the states, and they certainly have been proving their merits here in the territory as well, and of this the automobile community has begun to take notice.

"The longshoremen's strike caught us short-stocked, and one can't imagine how humiliating it is to tell a customer you haven't the tire he wants. However, the worry is over. We received by the Matsonia Wednesday night about 50 big crates of Firestones, so our stock is now way above normal and the customer is sure of getting good, fresh tires."

CHALMERS OFFERS TRAINING CAMP EXPERIENCE TO THEIR EMPLOYEES

Addressing 600 members of the Chalmers Men's Club on May 15, Chalmers offered to pay full salaries of the first 50 employees of the company to enroll for the summer training camps held under the auspices of the United States government at Plattsburg and Fort Benjamin Harrison.

"Eventually I would like to have every man on our payroll undergo this course of military training," said Mr. Chalmers in announcing his offer. "Until we can place a plan in effect, however, whereby our factory routine will not be disorganized, we will have to limit the number of those attending this year's camps."

"I am heartily in favor of universal military service for every American youth, not alone because it will enhance his value to the government as a soldier, but because it is the best possible training for the strenuous civil life of today. Initiative, self-reliance, a true spirit of democracy, and the ideals so necessary to the success in business of the average man are better taught in a military school than in any college in the land. If the manufacturers of this country will enter in an effort to give their employees the benefit of such a training, I am certain that the effect will be shown in superior efficiency in times of peace as well as war."

President Dittmer of Chalmers Men's Club has appointed a committee to enroll the first squad of recruits for the training camps. He reports that over 50 men have already applied for permission to take advantage of the 30 days' vacation in camp.

STREETS OF SIGNS.

By G. L. McDermott, M. D.

There's a feeling that comes stealing through the creases of my brain, It's a blend of woe and worry and an 18-carat pain. For it tells about a city that's the fairest 'neath the flag, Where the Lord laid out a haven and the men built streets of slag.

I bought a choo-choo wagon and had pleasures great in view; I would roll in sweet contentment 'neath a sky of azure blue. But my dream is swiftly passing; my ambition seems to lag. For the tires were only rubber and the streets were mostly slag.

Then I thought about the taxes that I yearly had to pay, Of the hope I fondly cherished of a distant land away. Of the language I was using as I cursed each glass-toothed snag. In a state so blessed with gravel, but where streets are made of slag.

May the Lord look down in pity on this fairest spot on earth, Where man did build a city of spid, staple worth, Where the alleys are of concrete for the ashman and the vag, But where the streets are ever finished with a bristling coat of slag.

GOODYEAR TRUCK TIRES USED ON MEXICAN BORDER

The large motor truck trains running across the border into Mexico with supplies for Gen. Pershing have withstood the hardest test that a piece of machinery has ever been called upon to perform. These huge motor trucks were despatched by special train from the factories in Detroit and were accompanied by a complete crew of drivers and mechanics. Since their arrival they have solved the problem of getting supplies and provisions to the troops across the border. One can imagine the road conditions which were met by these trucks. Roads which were very seldom traveled were opened up in this heavy motor service without any preparation.

Harry Parker of the local Goodyear agency just received word from J. G. McAllister, formerly truck tire representative of the Pacific coast, who is looking after the tire equipment of these trucks in Mexico. Goodyear tires are standing up in this service wonderfully, from all reports, and on account of their past records and the confidence of manufacturers, they have been used on the majority of the machines.

The flat tread insures an equal distribution of weight over the tread from the time it is applied to the wheel. Under normal conditions it is guaranteed to give 7000 miles' service as a basis of minimum mileage.

The Reason and Reward of Success

Success is measured solely by sales. Automobile sales are the direct result of performance.

Therefore the consistent, insistent and increasing demand for the famous Cole Eight must be directly credited to its unapproachable performance.

There now seems to be little chance of our ever catching up with immediate orders.

From a standing start to sixty miles an hour, in less time than you can say it; for swift without noise, rattle or vibration; for soft, smooth and perfectly balanced operation; for real economy; for the last word in comfort and smartness—get a Cole Eight.

It's the car of today—and the future. It's the automobile you want.

street. The hall is 403 feet long, 170 feet wide and 110 feet high, and faces north. The seats were arranged as they might be in a large circus. In the center of the main floor were seated the delegates, who numbered about 1000. In back of them in a similar arrangement were the alternates. In back of the alternates and still on the main floor were guests.

The speakers' platform was about six feet wide and extended out some 15 feet from the wide platform in its rear, where speakers, chairman, secretaries and distinguished guests were seated. To either side of the speakers' platform and raised some four feet above the level of the ground floor, but below the speaker's platform, were accommodations for some 600 working newspaper men. These seats faced the speaker's platform and extended to either side of the building.

From the press section and in back of the chairman's platform the seats for guests extended with a gradual slope to the south end of the hall. These seats were arranged parallel to the width of the building and faced north.

From the east, west and north sides of the main floor sections seats were arranged on a gradual slope which extended to the wall of the building on these sides. On the east and west sides of the building, just above these seats, but not extending out as far into the center as they did, were arranged balconies. Above the second balcony was arranged another wider balcony, which extended around the building. All of these seats were for guests.

Eight thousand yards of white bunting were used to cover the arched roof. Four thousand yards of gold bunting were hung on either side of the rows of electric lights which extended the entire width of the arch at intervals along the length of the building. Three thousand yards of red, white and blue bunting and 360 flags and shields were used in decorating the fronts of the balconies. Twenty-five panels of white cloth, each 25x50 feet, were used to hide the bare walls and girders.

Back of the speaker's platform and on the south end of the hall was arranged a large picture of Abraham Lincoln, where it could be plainly seen by everyone.

Delegates Real "High-Brows." People were packed in the seats. Delegates and guests on the main floor were so close together that they appeared a mass of human heads when viewed from above. And a striking feature of this mass of heads was that a surprisingly large number of them were bald. The seats in the balconies were equally close together and when full were a mass of human beings. Through the aisles in all parts of the building policemen were conspicuously posted, their blue uniforms and white caps standing out distinctly against the dark clothes of the closely seated people.

Signs designating the delegations on the main floor made it easy to locate the different states. Hawaii was in the west center of the main section and was located between Vermont and Idaho. All signs faced south.

First Day. With the gathering of the people, the convention was called to order by the chairman. Shortly afterwards Temporary Chairman Warren G. Harding spoke, delivering the "keynote" speech. Upon the finish of this address there was considerable applause, a few details of business were attended to and the convention was adjourned until the next morning.

The convention listened to Senator Harding's oratorical effort like a jury. There was applause, but everyone felt it was forced applause, and not real. In view of the fact that Senator Harding had been considered a presidential possibility, his speech, although admittedly rhetorically beautiful and almost perfectly delivered, did not strike the convention effectively.

But there was an unquestionable air of skepticism in the convention. It was, "What about Hughes?" and "What about Teddy?" Everyone seemed to be in the wild enthusiasm over Roosevelt in the Progressive convention. No one seemed to know what was going to happen. As "Bob" Breckons said, so every other seemed to feel, "everyman is entitled to his guess." They were waiting and watching.

Delegates Get Noisy. That night the confusion in the lobby of the Congress hotel was little less than a riot. A younger, more rough and noisy element was in evidence. There was shouting, whooping and yelling. Roosevelt and Sherman men were conspicuous with their flags and badges. Headquarters were equally lively and bands and glee clubs, rosters and boosters were all over in confusion. It was still raining, so most of the enthusiasm was precipitated in the halls of the hotel.

The Hawaiian delegation was somewhat scattered and out of the way of the "big noise." George B. Carter was at the Blackstone on Wednesday night. He predicted that the parties might not come together, saying that it was up to Roosevelt. He was in the Progressive convention when they cheered Roosevelt for 96 minutes. He said that there was an uncontrollable element in the Progressive convention and they were little less than wild. He did not know what they would do before they got through.

Carter's Sizing-up. Here is the way Mr. Carter sized up things on Wednesday night:

The parties will not come together. Roosevelt will be nominated by the Progressives regardless of the efforts of others to stop it. The Progressives are too wild. Favorite sons are too small. Hughes will resign if Roosevelt is nominated. Republicans will not take Roosevelt. There may be three parties. Let them go ahead and elect Wilson if they will," he said.

And Mr. Breckons had sized it up this way:

There was reason to believe that the Old Guard would support Hughes. No one knows if the parties will come together.

Mr. Cottrill as an alternate from Ohio thought that:

Burton was a dark horse. If the parties must find a fusion candidate, Burton was the man.

Prince Kuhio thought:

It would be Hughes. But no one was justified in feeling confident. He did not know whether the parties would come together or not.

With the weather still disappointing the convention opened its second session less than an hour before noon on Thursday. Senator Warren G. Harding was elected permanent chairman without opposition. The reports of the committees on credentials, rules and permanent organization were submitted and accepted. After these reports Chauncey Depew, Uncle Joe Cannon and Senator William E. Borah delivered addresses. The meeting was then adjourned until 4 o'clock, giving those present something like an hour and a half recess.

Reports of all committees were accepted by the convention as a matter of course. The committee on credentials favored regranting Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippines two votes and upon their recommendation the convention acted favorably. By action of the committee on rules, Hawaii's vote at convention in the future was assured.

After the first session of the day the Hawaiian delegation was gathered around its seats in the convention hall. George McK. McClellan was there beside the delegates. He said that he was attending the convention as guest. He sat with the guests but spent considerable of his time with the Hawaiian delegation afterwards.

The delegation expressed much satisfaction on the recovery of their two votes. Except for one incident, they found no difficulty in doing this. On Wednesday afternoon when the committee on credentials met, Kuhio asked that in its recommendations the committee change "Hawaiian Islands" to "Territory of Hawaii" to avoid possibility of classing the islands with Porto Rico. A member of the Tennessee delegation was somewhat nasty when the prince asked for this change, but he eventually attained his ends.

Soon after 4 o'clock the convention was called together again. The chief business of the afternoon was the report of the resolutions committee. National committeemen from each state were nominated by the delegations and elected by the convention.

Breckons Named Committeeman. Robert W. Breckons was elected national committeeman from Hawaii upon the nomination of J. K. Kalaniana'ole, representing the delegates, and the election of the convention.

Plan 15 of the adopted Republican platform says that all officials appointed to positions in a territory shall be bona fide residents of the territory in which their duties are to be performed. Henry J. Lyman, appointed the resolutions committee for Hawaii, presented this plan.

Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts read the report of the resolutions committee, which comprised the Republican platform. He was frequently interrupted by applause, for the most part vocal. The convention was adjourned shortly after this report.

On Thursday night the weather improved for a while, but for a very short while. The confusion in and around the hotels on Michigan avenue was increasingly boisterous and attended with considerable rowdiness.

Friday. Nominating speeches and the first two ballots were the work of Friday. The session began at a little after 11 and continued without adjournment until about 9 that night.

There were many men to be nominated—Roosevelt, McCall, Hughes, Root, Fairbanks, Sherman, LaFollette, Cummins, DuPont, Burton, Weeks and Brumbaugh. Each had a nomination speech ranging from 10 to 40 minutes in length, each was cheered from one to 40 minutes, and each had to be seconded once and usually twice in a speech lasting from one to 10 minutes, and then cheered some more.

Few Good Speeches. The consensus of opinion was that there were few good speeches. Attempted flights of oratory marked every speech. Every imaginable "bro-mide" was employed. "Lincoln," "the red, white and blue," "the eastern ocean," "the parent continent," "this e-e-a-t republic," "catyclisms," and innumerable other phrases were used so profusely that the convention reached the point where it was hardly willing to stand any more. The people became tired and the convention had to be called to order consistently. The audience tendered some speakers what the chairman called disgraceful attention.

In the nomination speech of Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin the speaker vied with all others in the use of "bro-mides." His speech was so full of intensively figurative language that it became ridiculous. It was late and the people were tired. After the speaker had proceeded for about five minutes the audience would laugh when he paused. People in the balconies would shout, "hurrah, hurrah," in fun at his flights of oratory. The people would laugh, and some would shout to him to sit down. The speaker was stopped many times when the chair had to call the house to order again. The people were laughing, and were relieved when the speaker ended after 40 minutes of riproaring Fourth of July oratory.

Audience Is Impatient. Seconding speeches were limited to five minutes. They were ridiculous. The audience was impatient, hungry and tired. Repeatedly the listeners would yell "time" in a great chorus when the speakers seemed to be talking too long. They laughed, yelled, talked, and applauded some. The chairman had to call them to account regularly and had to force speakers off the rostrum at the expiration of their time. The nominating speeches were tiresome, but these were worse. One speaker merely seconded his candidate's nomination, and the convention cheered him longer than any other speaker. They appreciated the brevity of the speech.

The people of the convention did not seem in a mood to be talked to and not a speaker of the day sounded a note which went to the right spot. The day was long and tiresome. Cheering Is Forced. There was cheering for every candidate. There was some clapping, lots of whooping, yelling and mechanical noise-making. At the end of the "favorite son" nominations the supporting delegation would rise and others would rise to see the fun. The noise would begin, some of it would come from the balconies and some from the delegates. Flags were brought out, the band would chime in at psychological moments, and women stationed at what seemed regular distances through the balconies would get up and howl and wave flags. The delegates would march around the main floor carrying flags and other insignia. They did their best to maintain this racket for as long as possible. And they were able to keep it up for long stretches. The others waited patiently; the cheering was all in vain, but the roughhouse furnished the spectators some amusement.

How Lyman "Stayed Roosevelt." The delegates showed most of their enthusiasm when Hughes was nominated by Governor Whitman of New York. They got up and marched around and in this confusion was Henry J. Lyman, conspicuously taking part in the Hughes demonstration. Prince Kuhio stood up, but that was all. But that same atmosphere of doubt pervaded the hall. Some felt that even the Hughes demonstration was artificial.

Galleys Want Teddy! There was real enthusiasm when Roosevelt was nominated. It was not down where the delegates sat, but in the galleries. The delegates sat still for the most part after the noise had proceeded for some minutes, but the galleries proceeded for over 30 minutes. Cries of "We want Teddy" were continuous. Women shrieked, men whooped and howled, flags were waved, hats were waved, every means of vocal noise-making was employed. It was bedlam. The delegates sat still, quite, and amused. The delegates demonstrated for Hughes, but the people for "Teddy." It was marveled by everyone there. There was no doubting it.

Still that atmosphere of skepticism, doubt and indecision seemed prevalent when the nominating speeches were all over and the voting began on the first ballot. There was more doubt upon the appointment of conferees from both parties to find, if possible, a means of compromise.

The first and second ballots went almost as had been predicted. There was little excitement and all went off smoothly and in a matter-of-fact way. The press boxes alone were places of hurried confusion.

Kuhio voted for Weeks and Lyman for Burton on the first ballot. On the second Lyman was carried away by surrounding Hughes men and cast his second ballot for Hughes, although it was expected the delegation would vote as it did at first and later join the Hughes vote.

Friday night Mr. Breckons predicted Hughes would win. Others in the delegation felt about as he did, and Hawaii expected to vote for Hughes. Judge A. A. Wilder was in the convention on Friday as a visitor. He was stopping at the Sherman Hotel. He left Chicago the next day.

Saturday. The weather was bracing, warm and pleasant on Saturday morning when the convention was called, a little after 11 o'clock, for the last time. The report of the conference committee was heard. The report from Roosevelt was heard with intense interest. It had at last seemed as if some decisive step would be taken by the two parties. Roosevelt stated his position and brought forth great applause from the delegates and from the gallery. But the latter soon settled down and the former carried on the racket quite alone.

That meant Hughes on the third ballot. Upon the third ballot most of the other candidates dropped out. There were short speeches and there was the voting. Practically everyone jumped on to the band wagon in this vote and Hughes was nominated. Hawaii on Band Wagon.

Henry J. Lyman put so much emphasis on "Hughes" when he answered "Two for Hughes!" to the secretaries' roll call of states that there was almost applause. Hawaii was on the band wagon, too.

In the demonstration that followed the Hughes nomination Mr. Lyman was in evidence with the Hawaii sign. There was considerable enthusiasm, but it was greatest among the delegates, who got up and in the jam of the delegates' section walked about, yelling as before, carrying their state signs and waving what they had.

Charles Warren Fairbanks was next nominated for the vice-presidency in an uneventful proceeding. There were some speeches, but most of the people in the balconies were going out and they could scarcely be heard. Fairbanks was nominated easily on the first ballot and Hawaii cast both votes for the winner. After the nomination of the vice-presidential candidates a few small details of the business of the convention were done away with, Chairman Harding delivered his finale and the convention was adjourned.

Prince Kuhio proceeded to Washington shortly after the convention. H. J. Lyman to New York, John Evans to Superior and R. W. Breckons to Washington.

COLE COMPANY NOT IN FAVOR OF RACE GAME

General Manager Says Game is Not Worth Risk Taken to Automobile Men

Among the thousands of automobile enthusiasts who witnessed the speedway races at Indianapolis this year much comment was made on the ever changing list of car entries as the years go by. It is always so. Every spring some car which, during the race the previous season held the vast crowd of spectators spell-bound by its sensational performance, is missing from the latest lineup and in its stead a new make of automobile is seen puffing away at the starting point, apparently impatient to get away and establish a reputation for itself. Comparatively few of all the many makes of cars race each season at Indianapolis. Because of the great danger to human life and the extraordinary expense involved in maintaining a racing car and crew, many of the most prominent of the automobile manufacturers feel that once the reputation and ability of their product has been established the racing game should be discontinued.

Cole Not Entered. One of the cars not seen in the speedway races, although it holds an enviable record in speed events, was the Cole automobile, manufactured by the Cole Motor Car Company of Indianapolis. In 1910 the Cole Motor Car Company figured prominently in various contests. That year it won the Massapequa trophy at the Vanderbilt cup races. On May 5 of the same year Endicott drove a Cole "30" to victory in the ten-mile event at Atlanta. Also in the same year a Cole "30" took second prize in the speed events at Indianapolis motor speedway. On May 7, 1910, a Cole "30" took two firsts at contests in Atlanta, and on the 10th of the previous month it had captured the 12 mile event at the Los Angeles motorhome. Furthermore, it was a Cole "30" which won the speedway championship in the Class "C" event. And during the same event year the Cole won the economy contest at the Chicago motorhome. In 1911 Johnny Jenkins piloted a Cole car to victory in the Cincinnati road contest.

"We are not racing for the simple reason that our car does not have to win another race to make a name for itself," said A. F. Knobloch, general manager of the Cole Motor Car Co. "Its reputation in the racing field is established, so why should we cause any man to flirt with death just for the sake of adding another star to the crown of the Cole. In our opinion, life is too precious for such ventures. Moreover, we do not need to use that method of acquainting the public with our car. It has been demonstrated in every locality and proved efficient under all conditions. That is a better recommendation for the car than all the racing in the world."

WILLYS CONFIRMS HUGE AUTO COMBINE

TOLEDO, O., June 24.—Immediately after John Willys, president of the Willys-Overland Company, arrived from New York at noon today he issued a statement officially confirming reports of organization of a $200,000,000 motor car combine.

Mr. Willys' statement says: "A great many reports have been circulated of the contemplated merger of the Willys-Overland, Hudson, Chalmers, Autolite and other companies. Negotiations are pending which, without doubt, will result in formation of a holding company." John N. Willys will be the president of the new holding company. The capital will be approximately $200,000,000.

STEEL WHEELS GAINING IN WAR SERVICE NOW

The war has been responsible for the almost complete elimination of the wood artillery wheel. For truck service the cast steel wheel is generally employed by the French and Italian armies. The British, while large users of cast steel wheels, also employ a percentage of disk wheels. For automobile ambulance service and light trucks, particularly those

PROPERTY OF FEDERAL RUBBER COMPANY TAKEN OVER RECENTLY

Important Changes and Much Expansion Planned By New Company

The latest and most important development in the pneumatic tire and mechanical rubber goods industry is the recent incorporation of the Federal Rubber Company, a Massachusetts corporation, capitalized at $10,000,000, and which has acquired the property and business of the Federal Rubber Mfg. Co., located at Cudahy, Wisconsin, well known nationally as manufacturers of Federal tires and a complete line of mechanical rubber goods.

The policy of the new company as announced by H. T. Dunn, president, is to be one of general expansion in the production and selling departments of the business. To this end several new buildings are to be added to the present large Federal plant, and through a most attractive selling proposition the present heavy demand for Federal products will be augmented.

with twin pneumatics at the rear, the steel disk wheel is in a decided majority. American trucks brought into Europe for army service are all fitted with wood artillery wheels. These are allowed to remain, but in most cases when renewals are necessary they are replaced by steel. Fiat, one of the largest manufacturers in Europe, and certainly the largest in Italy, uses no wood wheels.

THIS MAN USES FORD TO OPERATE HIS MINE

Hugh Leonard of Atolia, Cal., has a tungsten mine operated by a Ford car.

Tungsten is a metal which has found general use only in the last few years. It is employed chiefly in tungsten steel and to make filaments for incandescent lamps.

In view of the demand now existing for a tungsten mine that can be operated ed to a volume commensurate with its capitalization and the increased production of the plant.

Contracts for three of these new buildings have already been let and the work will be pushed to completion as fast as possible. This will give the company approximately 12 acres of floor space and increase its present output of automobile castings and tubes, motorcycle and bicycle tires, mechanical rubber goods, horse shoe pads, rubber heels and soles approximately 50 per cent.

In addition to the line of Federal rugged and plain white tread tires the company is now placing on the market a line of black tread tires of attractive design and exceptional quality in "Traffic" (non-skid) and plain tread types, which it is anticipated will meet with the same popular favor and endorsement as the Federal "Rugged" and plain tread white tires. A stock of Federal black tread tires is expected in the near future by the ersner Vulcanizing Co., local Federal agents.

cheaply means enviable profits. Leonard's chief visible asset is the hole in the ground 100 feet deep. The total overhead is a tripod derrick and a Ford car.

A cable is hitched to the rear axle of the Ford, which brings the ore buckets to the surface by making trips backward and forward.

Leonard's progress as a captain of industry is only equaled by his comeback when at the end of his rope.

Lieut. Commander Chosuke, Japanese naval observer on the British battleship Queen Mary, was lost when she sank in the Jutland naval engagement.

Directors of the Hercules Powder Co. declared an extra dividend of 13 per cent in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent.

Three persons were killed and two injured when Denver & Rio Grande west bound passenger train No. 15 was derailed near Colton, Utah.

VALVE IN HEAD MOTOR CARS

The Big Idea Back of Buick Success

Back of every commercial success there is a big idea. The bigness of the success is always in proportion to the bigness and soundness of the idea. The public has discovered that back of every Buick motor car there is a fixed and definite engineering idea—as big and sound as the motor car industry itself.

The idea is the Buick Valve-in-Head motor. It is an idea that has been the corner-stone of Buick success. In time we confidently predict that it will be the universally accepted principle of motor car design.

Manufacturers are today adopting this idea as rapidly, if more reluctantly, than the public. The public proved it long ago, and one by one the manufacturers are admitting its soundness. It is the biggest idea ever conceived in connection with the development and manufacture of motor-propelled vehicles.

The demand for Buick Valve-in-Head motor cars has always been and is now in exact ratio to the spread of knowledge concerning the methods of designing and building motor cars. Today this demand is so insistent that even the greatly enlarged Buick plant cannot fully supply it.

OKLAHOMA DRY, TAKES TO GAS JAG-LIKES IT

Natives in That State Unable to Secure Liquor, Seek Solace in Latest Gasoline Jag

There is nothing surprising in the statements coming from Oklahoma that natives of that country, unable to secure ordinary liquor, have discovered a solace in "gasoline jags."

Back in the days when motorcycles were first introduced into America, and when they were used for pacing bicycle riders in the contests of the time when Jimmy Michael, Johnny Nelson, Harry Elkes, Bill Stinson, Eddie McDuffie, and scores of others were the reigning stars, the boys of the eastern section of the United States, and small boys at that, found the secret of the "gasoline jag."

Some Oor.

The mechanics who used motorcycles did not have carburetors up to the quality of those of today, and were forced to search the highways and byways for gasoline that would show full 76 Baum test. They often secured gasoline that ran as high as 80 Baum test, and the odor from this, when filling the tanks, was overpowering.

There was a reason for this high test gasoline, for the lower test petrol caused the slowing down of the pacing machines, and in those days a second added speed to the pacing machine meant dollars in the winnings.

Around the bicycle tracks the boys repeatedly asked for a "dip." It was at the Philadelphia track that an investigation was made, and much to the surprise of the cycle-racing crowd a considerable number of the boys were found lying under the track practically unconscious or in a hilarious state.

Brought a Jag.

It was found that the effects of sniffing the gasoline-dipped rag brought on a "jag," and in many instances resulted in serious illness for the young lad. From that time on the gasoline came was guarded and the boys were driven away from all of the tracks. It was learned later that, unable to secure their "dip" at the bicycle tracks, the boys sought the headquarters where gasoline could be obtained, and there secured the petrol. Publicity given to the fact resulted in barring the boys there, and in that way the habit was broken largely.

O. S. K. TO HAVE 17 NEW BOATS BY 1918

According to a report from Osaka, Japan, an O. S. K. order to the Osaka Iron Works for a five years plan of building new vessels totals about 125,000 tons and are worth $7,500,000. Of this number to be completed next year will be four vessels of 4130 tons each.

In all the company's orders of new boats up to date, which are to be completed by 1918, number 17 steamers totaling 881,600 tons. The different shipbuilding companies which have been given orders are as follows:

Osaka Iron Works—Six of the 8,000-ton class of which four are to be completed in a year and the rest in two years; five of the 4,200-ton class of which one is to be ready by the fall of 1917 and the rest in the same year; two of the 3,200-ton class to be completed in the summer of 1917.

The Kawasaki Shipbuilding Yard—One of 4,500-ton class to be ready within the year.

Ishikawajima Shipbuilding Yards—Two of 2,100-ton class, to be finished by 1917.

Calculating the above, according to their gross tonnages, they total about 130,000. Besides this, the plan of the company four years after 1918 approximates a new total tonnage of 100,000 (gross). This makes a grand total of 230,000 tons.

In addition to this the company is at present negotiating with the Kawasaki and Mitsubishi Yards with a view of granting new orders. The Kawasaki Yard is reported to have their hands full and may not be able to sign new contracts for some time to come. The Mitsubishi Yards are not working at capacity, and it is believed new contracts will be filled at a near date for two or four ships of 4,500 tons to be completed in the early part of 1918.

Capt. Duncan J. Clow, president of the Clow & Nicholson Transportation Co., of Duluth, was found dead near his home with a bullet wound under the heart. He was well-known on the Great Lakes.

Two trainmen were killed when the Seaboard Air Line Flamingo Flyer was wrecked near Raleigh, N. C.

LEADER OF AMERICAN LEGION

Men in Canadian Regiments From Every State in the Union

Maj. Donald Marion McRae, son of Lieut.-col. James H. McRae, of the Hawaiian Department, is mentioned with prominence among officers of the 97th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force, commonly known as the American Legion, in an article in the New York Times of May 28.

As stated in the Star-Bulletin last Monday, young McRae joined the British forces in January and is now at Aldershot where his battalion is in final training for active duty. At the time the article was written he was a captain and the adjutant of the battalion.

The recruiting station of two battalions of the legion and the point from which the entire organization was directed is Toronto (the Indian meaning of the city's name is meeting place), and here assembled representatives of 45 states and territories of the United States, taking the following oath when they enlisted:

"I will be faithful and bear true allegiance to His Majesty King George V, and I will, as in duty bound, honestly and faithfully defend His Majesty in person, crown, and dignity against all enemies and will observe and obey all the generals and officers set over me."

Furthermore, the soldier of the American legion engaged himself to serve for one year or until the war should end, and for six months after the close of the war should his services be required.

Leading these men is a Unitarian clergyman, Lieut.-col. C. Seymour Bullock of the 237th Battalion and one-time chaplain of the United States army in the Spanish-American war. The badge of the legion is the coat of arms of George Washington upon the Canadian maple leaf.

Col. Bullock made his initial speech in a Methodist church in Toronto to a congregation of Canadians and Americans. He recalled the time of the Civil War when 48,000 Canadians went over the border to fight in Northern armies.

The first battalion of the legion was made up in almost a night and designated the 97th. Three more were immediately organized, making enough for a full brigade, and now a fifth is under way with headquarters in England.

According to statistics the enrollment of men from the various states in Maj. McRae's battalion, the 97th, is as follows:

New York, 187; Michigan, 140; Illinois, 50; Massachusetts, 58; Pennsylvania, 51; Ohio, 50; Minnesota, 29; Washington, 27; Wisconsin, 20; Missouri, 18; Indiana, 18; California, 12; Iowa, 15; Alabama, 14; Montana, 12; Rhode Island, 11; Nebraska, 11; Oregon, 11; North Dakota, 10; Connecticut, 10; Virginia, 9; Texas, 9; Vermont, 8; Colorado, 8; Tennessee, 6; Kentucky, 6; Maryland, 6; Idaho, 5; Maine, 5; Louisiana, 4; Kansas, 4; Florida, 4; New Jersey, 4; New Hampshire, 3; Oklahoma, 2; District of Columbia, 2; Arizona, 2; Mississippi, 2; North Carolina, 2; South Dakota, 2; Georgia, 2; Wyoming, 2; Utah, 2; Arkansas, 1; and West Virginia, 1. This is for the first 875 men to enroll in the battalion.

It is stated that 62 per cent of these men had seen military service in the United States army or the militia of various states or both, and the remainder had not seen fighting in the Mexican or Philippine wars, but the age is about 30 years, but of it before.

WORK FOR

"To be dishonorably discharged the service of the United States; to forfeit all pay and allowances now due, or to become due while in confinement under this sentence; and to be confined at hard labor at such place as the reviewing authority may direct for one year."

This is the sentence imposed upon two musicians at Fort Kanehameha, 143d Company, Coast Artillery Corps, charged with conduct to the prejudice and good order of military discipline, to wit: Take away and use without permission an automobile belonging to two privates of the Fort Kanehameha hospital corps. The trial was held March 31, but the findings have just been made public. Trial was by court-martial.

Both men, James A. Luttrell and Karl H. Matthews, pleaded not guilty to the specification and charge, but were found guilty by the court on both. Action is as follows:

The sentences are approved and will be duly executed, but the execution of that portion thereof imposing dishonorable discharge is suspended until the soldiers' release from confinement, unless sooner ordered by competent authority. many are more than 40.

They know that trench warfare will not be easy, and most of them have undoubtedly enlisted at financial sacrifice. The pay of the enlisted man is $32 a month, and in addition to this amount the Canadian government sends $20 a month to the soldier's family whether in Canada or the United States.

Questions of citizenship have arisen with the enlistment of these Americans. The American consul at Vancouver, who is said to be opposed to the legion, has told Americans in that part of Canada that their enlistment in the British Columbia battalion of the American will cancel their citizenship.

But at Winnipeg the American consul takes the opposite view. There came up a case recently in the city of Detroit that is of vital interest to the legion. A citizen of Michigan who went to the war in a Canadian battalion was wounded and sent back.

Upon his return to his home in Detroit a group of Germans demanded that he be deported on the ground that he was an alien physically unfit to support himself.

Ignated as the place of confinement. The prisoners will be held at Fort Kanehameha until further orders.

SWISS SOLDIERS TOTE
HEAVIEST ARMY PACK

Swiss soldiers are said to carry the heaviest pack of any national army—one weighing 70 pounds. Swiss boys begin preparing for the army at seven years and continue until 15 years of age. At the age of 20 years they enlist in the army.

These were some of the points brought out by Capt. Remy Faesch of the 22nd Infantry of the Swiss army, speaking recently before the Main Line Chapter of the Pennsylvania Women's Division for National Preparedness.

Capt. Faesch in explaining the Swiss military system asserted that Switzerland, with a population of about 3,800,000, has an army of 500,000.

SET OPENING NIGHT
SHORTLY AT SHAFTER

With the work of putting on galvanized iron sheeting nearing completion, the new Fort Shafter theater is about ready to announce the date of its opening night. The end walls will be up next week, and the stage will be fixed in place at that time. The remodeling work that has been done on the building will allow for about 100 more seats, and the stage will be much larger than before.

Two four-round bouts have been arranged for, together with several vaudeville and amateur acts as soon as the building is ready for shows. Lieut. Raymond A. Wheeler is in charge of the work.

National Guard Pointers
from the War Department

(First of a series of timely pointers for the National Guard of Hawaii.) Through special arrangement with the National Guard, the Star-Bulletin begins today printing in regular form bulletins containing advice from the militia division of the War Department to guardsmen. The following article on field cooking is the first of these features which will be printed hereafter on the regular army page each Saturday.

FIELD COOKING. In past years many National Guard organizations have not made any provisions for enlisted cooks, but have depended upon such arrangements as they could make by means of hired cooks or caterers to supply them with food during their camps.

Now that their camp and field service is more nearly approaching that of the Regular Army, it is plain that National Guard organizations should have, as a part of their regular personnel, properly instructed enlisted cooks.

Field service in campaign demands great physical endurance, perfect health, and vigorous physical condition. Diet is the one most important consideration in the maintenance of perfect health in the field, and nowhere else is its necessity felt more keenly. Troops sustained on an improperly prepared ration are not capable of fulfilling their mission—they are assailed by abnormal sickness and loss of stamina, and their ultimate breakdown and uselessness as fighting and maneuvering units can only be a question of time.

While the matters of selection, purchase, preservation and distribution of the components of the ration are largely in the hands of staff officers, the company commanders have absolute control of the preparation and consumption of the ration. Company commanders need a practical knowledge of the principal foods and their preparation. They must know how to make up bills of fare, giving a variety of wholesome food in ample quantity, and without waste; they must pay close attention to mess administration, and must not leave these matters wholly to mess sergeants.

The Manual for Army Cooks, of which there should be two copies in every company, will prove of great assistance.

The company kitchen in field or garrison is most important. It, with its personnel and surroundings, must be absolutely sanitary. A company commander must be able to select a good cook. The cook must know his work thoroughly. He and his assistants must be clean. Only the best men should be his permanent assistants. Men should not be punished by giving them extra cook's police. This duty should be by roster.

The National Guard needs as cooks men who are able to prepare the U. S. Army ration properly. If National Guard companies have such men they should assign them to such duty. If they have not good material for efficient cooks they should try to enlist qualified men. No effort should be spared to secure proficient, cleanly cooks for all companies. It is suggested that at company smokers and on social occasions when visitors are received and entertained, the cooks should prepare food selected from the articles listed on the Ration Table, using in the preparation the regulation equipment.

In the infantry especially whenever practicable on practice marches, the noon meal should be cooked by squads. As soon as a halt is made, the squad leader should detail one man to procure water and fill the canteens of the squad; two men to gather wood; one man to dig a shallow pit for the fire (using trenching tools); two men to prepare rations; one man to build a fire, and one man to cook. The man on the water detail should refill canteens while the meal is being prepared. A 10-inch frying pan might well be carried in each squad for squad cooking.

Governor Pinkham has recently received a call from the American Defense League to accept a position as honorary vice-president of that organization, which is founded with several ideals of preparedness in mind, including plans for a campaign to instruct foreigners in American citizenship, raise funds for the purchase of airplanes for the National Guard, and provide a permanent league that can be at the service of the government in time of national crisis.

In a letter to the governor, the Defense League, which is organized in New York and which intends to spread to various states and territories, has this to say of its purposes:

"To the end that immediate practical steps may be taken to provide for American defense, some of the most prominent men in the nation are now organizing the American Defense League with headquarters in New York City.

"Those who have closely followed the proceedings of Congress realize the lamentable condition of our unpreparedness and the full seriousness of the international situation confronting us. We have recently more than once faced a grave international crisis, and there is no present assurance that America is freed from the threat of events to come.

"An active, systematic, educational campaign among foreign-born residents, beginning with immigrants as they land, to teach in his own language and English, will be undertaken to instruct them in the advantages and high purposes of American citizenship. No more valuable work could be attempted than this teaching of American standards, and this coordination of American citizenship ideals.

"The naval and military appropriations of Congress have met only in part what are known to be imperative necessities. It is an object of this League to raise funds for the purchase of airplanes to be presented to the various regiments of the National Guard in all states, and to aid in every possible way in bringing the equipment of the National Guard up to the highest degree of efficiency.

"These are the two pressing steps first to be undertaken. The league has the further object of providing a permanent organization with funds and effectiveness that can at once be placed at the disposal of the federal government in any time of national crisis. The league is absolutely non-partisan and non-sectarian, and has no connection whatever with any individual or group of munitions manufacturers. It is purely a patriotic American league, permanently organized for defense and not for offense."

The governor is studying over the question, but has not yet accepted the position of honorary vice-president of the organization.

General Letter Sent Out By Washington Tells How to Send Reports

Under the general instructions that are sent out to all collectors of customs at various ports of the United States are wartime advice for collection in dealing with belligerent armed vessels. Such a report has been received by Collector Malcolm A. Franklin, and follows herewith:

"In accordance with a request of the Secretary of State, you are instructed to make a report to the Department in regard to each belligerent armed vessel that arrives at your respective ports and to withhold clearance pending further instructions.

"Such reports should cover, as directed by the Secretary of State, the following points:

"1. The caliber of the guns.

"2. Whether they are mounted, and on what part of the vessel they are mounted.

"3. Their arc of fire.

"4. The amount of ammunition on board.

"5. The use to which the guns have been put during the voyage, particularly whether they have been used to fire on submarines before the latter gave warning.

"6. Facts regarding the gun crew, whether they are naval gunners.

"7. Whether any of the officers are naval officers.

"8. What, if any, instructions the officers, or the gun crew, or the owners may have received from the government of the vessel's nationality in regard to the use of the guns.

"9. What penalties are attached to the disregarding of such instructions.

"10. What use is intended to be made of the armament.

"11. The general character of fuel, supplies, cargo and passengers carried by the vessel.

"12. Any other facts which may appear to the collector important or useful in assisting the Department of State in determining the question whether the guns on board have been or may be used for offensive purposes at sea.

Assistant Secretary."

WARMLY PRAISES
FILIPINO GUARD

Lieut.-col. L. D. Timmons, 4th Infantry, National Guard, and editor of the Garden Island, praises the Filipino members of the guard in an editorial regarding recent homicides on Kauai. The last issue of his paper says editorially:

"Sheriff Rice states to the Garden Island that no member of the National Guard was directly or indirectly involved in the Filipino homicides which jarred this community a few days ago. He states further that, on the other hand, Filipino members of the guard were the first to step forward and volunteer assistance to the police department in bringing the accused men within reach of the law, and that their services in working up evidence has been most valuable.

"These statements are interesting, for they bear out information obtained by this paper some time ago to the effect that the National Guard had done much to bring out the better points of Filipino character. Joining the guard seems to have definitely aligned the Filipinos on the plantations on the side of law and order, and when once in the companies they not only behave themselves but encourage others to do so.

"We do not know what observations, if any, have been made on the other islands along this line, nor have we any positive assurance that the good influence of the guard on the habits of the Filipino will continue; but certainly an excellent start seems to have been made."

NATION WITHOUT AIR SQUADRON

So Says Admiral Robert E. Peary, Advocate of Huge Aviation Corps

Declaring that an aerial coast defense system for the United States is as vitally necessary for the nation's protection as is a great fleet of battleships or an immense army, Rear-Admiral Robert E. Peary, chairman of the National Aerial Coast Patrol Commission, argues in a recent letter to the Philadelphia Ledger for an immediate start to increase America's aviation strength.

"The aeroplane has completely changed modern warfare," says the admiral. "Surprise attacks are no longer possible. And if one of the contestants can secure command of the air and deprive the other of it, conditions immediately become those of a fight between a blind man and one in possession of his sight."

"Our geographical position is a great asset. An attack upon us must come by sea. Our coast line as a base gives us an inestimable advantage in aerial warfare, and will enable us to send out such a cloud of aeroplanes as will completely overwhelm and destroy any number of aeroplanes that can be transported on the decks of a hostile fleet, thus leaving us in the possession of our eyes and the enemy blinded."

"A vital thing for this country is an aerial coast defense system, over and beyond the aeronautical equipment of the army and navy, and one that shall not be dependent upon or subordinate to either the navy or the army. The first essential in an aerial defense of our coasts is to have on hand immediately such a number of machines as will with certainty destroy the maximum number that can be brought here at one time by a hostile fleet and its transports.

It is, of course, impossible to fix on this number with precision, but with the present equipment in ships and aircraft possessed by several foreign countries, I can imagine an alert and resourceful commander bringing 500. It may be safe to figure on 1000. If these numbers seem large it must be remembered that the present war has thrown all previous ideas as to quantities and numbers to the winds. With the aircraft of an attacking force eliminated, his means of reconnaissance, observation and information will be gone, and our own aircraft, with only the enemy's antiaircraft guns to look out for, can do much more effective bomb work on his fleet. If the fleet escapes this attack and attempts the landing of men and supplies and ammunition by boats, then this gives another opportunity for attacking the enemy at a most critical period in his operations. We should have at the very minimum not less than 2000 aeroplanes ready for duty on the Atlantic coast and an equal number on the Pacific. Five thousand on each coast would be much better.

"What we want immediately is several hundred young men who know how to drive an aeroplane. Then we shall in a measure be prepared for an emergency. Those of special aptitude and intelligence can later be selected and trained still further for our permanent military aeronautical personnel."

"We can get aeroplanes in an emergency more rapidly than we can get men to drive them. One thousand dare-devil young fellows who know just enough to handle their machines perfectly are worth more to us now than 500 highly trained young officers, though, of course, we shall need these as well. The former class can be obtained in large numbers and trained in a few weeks. The other kind would require a year or more of training and would be difficult to find."

"The size of our population and the quality of our youth from the mingling of many strains give us more and better material in the essentials of physique and temperament to draw on for quick, intelligent, daring aviators than any nation in the world, unless it be France."

"Little Bulgaria, with an area somewhat greater than Maine, and a population less than Massachusetts, has over 300 aeroplanes. The personnel of the British air service numbers more officers and men than we have in our entire navy. Germany has not fewer than 9000 aeroplanes, and all these countries are constantly adding with feverish haste to their equipment in this department. More machines have been lost in a month by France and Germany than we have in both our services. The ministries of these nations, which have thousands of aeroplanes, are constantly apologizing to the people of their countries for not being able to increase their air fleets fast enough to defend their country and protect the lives of their people."
