Party Representatives in the Polling Places.

I am requested by parties intercated to publicly state the number of persons representing candidates who by law are allowed in the polling places on election day.

The statute allows each candidate for Representative to have one watcher for each ballot box at each polling place. Each polling place has two ballot boxes. Therefore each candidate for Representative is entitled to two watchers at each polling place in his district. The whole ticket for Nobles, for the purpose of watchers at the polls, is treated as one, and is entitled to the same number of watchers that one Represen tative is.

That is to say, each ticket for Nobles is entitled to one watcher for each ballot bex at each polling place, or two at each polling place.

The clerk and messenger referred to in Schedule C., page 42, are not allowed in the polling place, otherwise than as it may be necessary for the messenger to deliver or receive messages

READ HISTORY.

The youthful editor of The Times gays: "Had any man in August, we will say, of 1887, predicted that within three short years a Reactionary party could have sprung up, headed by the very same individuals whose venality was fast making the name of Hawaii to lose its place as a possible independent government, he would have been considered, if not insane, as an enemy of his country. Yet it is impending."

If the editor had read more history and helped to create less he would have known that what is taking place about him is just what was to be expected, and just what better read men anticipated. A writer in the New York Nation, says: "It takes a good while to ascertain the real results of a revolution. Any one who doubts this should recall the history of the first and second French republics, of the Spanish republic of 1874, of the most of the South American republics, and of the Southern Confederacy."

NO INCONSISTENCY.

There was not the inconsistency charged by the Times between an editorial article and an editorial paragraph cited from this paper on the treaty question. The BULLETIN is, as the article stated, in accord with any policy of maintaining our present free trade relations with the United States. At the same time to talk of "perpetual free trade" being assured in any treaty that does not cede the independence of this country is nonsense. "Perpetual" is a common word in treaties between nations -"perpetual friendship," "perpetual comity," or whatever mutual condition is referred to. The "perpetual" character of the bond, however, only lasts during the pleasure of both of the contracting parties. "Perpetual" in this diplomatic sense is not what the Times means, for it says that the "free trade" it advocates "means that every banana. lime, pineapple, orange, etc., that we raise goes into the United States free of duty until the crack of doom." We say without fear of refutation that such "perpetual free trade" cannot possibly be assured without this country passing under the virtual rule of the United States.

Some of the writers for the Times are lawyers, and they cannot controvert the position here assumed. They know, and they have a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court to fortify their knowledge, that an international treaty is not, in any country a party thereto, a whit more sacred than the statutes of such country. According to that decision, a treaty cannot hold against the provisions of statute laws made subsequent to the treaty. It may be voided in effect by ordinary legislation, even without being directly would be liable to occur at any time, in the case of the "perpetual free trade" treaty advocated by the Times, through a change of policy by the American Union.

This danger is in addition to the event liable to occur at any day, even during the term of the present treaty, of Hawaii's advantages under the compact being neutralized by a change in the sugar tariff of the United States. In such an event, as hable to occur under the "perpetual treaty" as it is under the temporary convention now running, the Times people wish Hawaii's hands to be tied, so that she cannot look elsewhere for markets, by the provision in the projected treaty that all treaties between this and other countries must be approved by the Washington Government. For, it must be kept in view, Hawaii being so vastly the weaker power of the two contracting parties, could not afford to incur the loss of friendship that would be likely to result from legislating herself out of the bonds.

It will probably be interesting to everybody at this juncture, to quote from the decision of the United States Supreme Court just mentioned. The decision is the one upholding the legality of the Chinese restriction Act known as the "Scott Law," and is dated Washington, May 13 of last year. A few extracts will show how much reliance is to be placed on the promises now held out to our people of everlasting free trade under a treaty. The decision is by Justice Field. Referring to the validity of the Act having been assailed on the ground that it was in violation of existing treaties between the United States and the Government of China, Justice Field said:

"It must be conceded that the Act of 1888 is in contravention of the express stipulations of the treaty of 1868 and of the supplemental treaty of 1880; but it is not on that account invalid or to be restricted in its enforcement. The treaties were of no greater legal obligation than the Act of Congress. A treaty, it is true, is, in its nature, a contract between nations, and is often merely promissory in its character, requiring legislation to carry its stipulations into effect. Such legislation will be open to future repeal or amendment. If the treaty operates by its own force and relates to a subject within the power of Congress, it can be deemed in that particular only the equivalent of a legislative Act, to be repealed or modified at the pleasure of Congress. In either case the last expression of the sovereign will must control.

THE REFORM MEETING AT WAI-LUKU.

EDITOR BULLETIN:-Large red posters had for days given the Maui districts notice, that the Reform Party would hold a meeting in the skating rink in Wailuku, where the candidates for legislative honors would express their views, assisted by the professional politicians from Honolulu-Messrs, W. O. Smith, W. A. Kinney, W. C. Achi and S. M. Kaaukai. After an adventurous journey the Honolulu gentlemen were picked up at sea and landed in Maalaea Bay, where they were received by a committee consisting of Assessor-General H. Treadway, and Mr. J. Stelling, who in backs conveyed them to Wailuku. Messrs. Kinney and Achi were unable to come, but instead we found Mr. A. Kaulia and Mr. Vivas, who was imported to act as Portuguese interpreter. The meeting was called yesterday about 7 p. m. In spite of free trains and backs the attendance was very slim for a while. Later on a number of natives from Waihee, generously carted in by the plantation manager, arrived to furnish the enthusiasm, which they failed to do owing to corruption and gin-so say the Reform men.

The Government doctor in Makawao. Mr. Crane, acted as chairman, assisted by a staff of other gentlemen. Mr. W. O. Smith acted as Hawaiian interpreter and Mr. Vivas as Portuguese.

Mr. Smith was the first speaker. I will not bore you by reporting his speech. It was the usual worn out ward speech used by him in Honolulu together with the reading of the newest of the new platforms. Mr. Smith failed to arouse any interest in the audience and retired during deep silence, interrupted by the noisy departure of a number of peo-When Mr. Vivas was going to give his interpretation of Mr. Smith's speech a funny incident happened. The 15 or 18 Portugnese present thought that Mr. Vivas was going to address them on his own behalf, and they interrupted him violently, so it was with difficulty that he was allowed to continue. He explained what was going on in English to the audience and threw out a gentle insinuation that the Portuguese were hired by the Opposition to insult him. The Opposition has got better use for its money than to spend it on a chap like Vivas. Mr. Baldwin was the next speaker. After the usual remarks about good mentioned. These contingencies government, etc., he asked the voters to show some charity to the members of the Cabinet and give them one more show. They had given us the Lahaina road (Mr. B. voted against the appropriation for said road), they had done lots of good and he would think it right to keep them in, but perhaps better still to put one honest, good, straight and smart Hawaiian in the Cabinet. (Did he mean J. U. Kawainui?) He then abused Walker, Bush and Rosa, and stated, that they were the men who would lead, if the Opposition won. He and his family and "we planters" were to be considered before everything else. He finished by expressing his love for the Portuguese (!) which he had always shown. Then Major W. H. Cornwell, equerry in waiting, took the floor. 'Reform Party forever," it was a glorious party. The Cabinet had been the best since the King came on the throne, and had been above reproach, since we "give them the helm" in 1887. He would not say that the Opposition would not make a good Government, but they had some bad men among them. He dared anybody to say that he was not sincere towards the Reform Party. With their ticket he would stand and fall. (McGinty!)

Mr. Walbridge next appeared. He would have no change in the Cabinet. Thanks to this Cabinet, we had now no corruption in any department (?), and this was the only country so situated in God's world. He would hear nothing about blood in the streets, nothing about Bush and Wilcox. This Government would settle them. Those against this Government are simply men asking for something they never will

The Noble speakers were now exhausted, as the other three candidates had not appeared. Mr. Makakoa, one of the candidates for Representative for Wailuku, was called upon and made an uninteresting speech, the main point being that be ought to be preferred as a candidate to Kalua and Kanealii, and he had three children (?) and the other gentlemen none.

Then Mr. Cockett addressed the meeting and surprised friends and foes with his deep exposition of national debts and homestead laws.

Mr. Kaaukai, a would-be noble from Honolulu, made a speech on a par with his usual performances in that line. We were pleased, though, to hear him advise the voters to vote for J. W. Kalua, if they did not like the Reform candidates. Mr. Smith did not interpret that part of the speech.

After a few short remarks by Mr. Enos to the Portuguese, telling them that they had the right to vote, and should exercise this right either on one side or the other, the meeting adjourned and plunged through the mud back to the train and town.

If the members of the Reform party carefully scrutinized the people present, they will perhaps have a clear understanding now how they MAKAAINANA. Maui. Jan. 26, 1890.

other workmen present that their lines had fallen in this pleasant

country which, although on the outskirts of civilization, yielded two dollars a day for their labor; whereas in the Pennsylvania coal mines no more is paid for much harder work,

and longer hours; while in Germany only 50 cents a day is paid a laborer. Mr. Kinney gave a graphic sketch of the stages by which we grew as a nation, from the primitive days of whaling to sugar planting, and the struggle through which the early sugar growers passed to the birth of the Reciprocity Treaty "which gave us life and sal-vation." Yet that treaty "was trampled-on in this hall last night."

"On Wednesday we have to decide whether we say to the United States

we want you, or fall back on foreign powers." The conduct of the Op-position implies that the United States might say to us that we must look for protection to foreign powers, and driving out this Cabinet is putting a nail in our coffin, and the sequel is too terrible even to predict. The loss of the treaty would open the doors to Chinese, and the Mechanics' Union would not be able to stop the avalanche. The result of the Opposition "howl" for the last three months would scatter the Portuguese colony. Do not mis-understand him, if the Cabinet meant to give the country away, he would rather they got beaten. He would call attention to the absence of Hawaiians whom the Opposition for two years, with "malicious motives,"

endorsed by Macfarlane, Muller, and Widemann, had estranged from them. Mr. Kinney mentioned an incident illustrating the well-known generosity of the Hon. S. M. Damon, using it as an argument that the Reform Party generally are actuated by aloha for the native. "But the strong hate of the native is endorsed by our own flesh and blood."

"If these men trouble you again I will handle a gun." (This remark was aimed at Mr. Crowley, our reporter, who arose and denied having used the words quoted.) Native boys whom he had known pass him like a dog "through standing on a platform built on hate." Natives who stand for Reform should be supported. Wilcox wants native

Portuguese, giving an outline of the tics was to remove the President of

WHY AFRAID TO AMEND?

and liquor and vote for Gonsalves

EDITOR BULLETIN: - Some selfstyled Reformers there are who, having reached the scope of their ambition and tasted the sweets of arbitrary power, call all, who do not blindly support them, by some abusive name. They do not know progress when they see it. To them it is reaction, the spectre they so much dread. They are afraid to "amend," for fear a loose-jointed thing will fall in pieces if touched at all. They forget that progress aids reform to make the new plastic creation symmetrical before it has crystalized into a monstrous body. So they don't know, or conveniently forget, are afraid, misapply epithets, encourage their organ to call the Privy Councillors "slimpsybacks," without distinction, and indulge in detraction of "personal friends and good neighbors." Did one in a thousand of the "revolutionists" know the contents or spirit of the paper they are claimed to have adopted, and which they are now expected to sustain in its entirety, deprived of the poor privilege of suggesting the least amendment? QUERIST.

A CARD OF THANKS.

The undersigned, feeling under the deepest and most lasting obligations to the many ladies and gentlemen, who, by their noble acts and timely sympathy, came to his assist-ance in his late hours of affliction and trouble, wishes to take this opportunity of publicly expressing his grateful thanks and heartfelt gratitude to each of his kind friends who extended him such humane and timely favors.

Respectfully,
DANIEL LYONS.

SUPREME COURT.

The January term closed with a full day's session on Saturday. M. de Gouveira vs. H. N. Greenwell, ejectment, was tried by a foreign jury, who turned a verdict for plaintiff. W. A. Kinney and A. Rosa for plaintiff; F. M. Hatch for defendant. At 5:30 p. m. the Court adjourned without day.

Before Mr. Justice Dole at Chambers this morning, the petition of Junius Kaae, to revoke probate of will of the late Kealijahonni, was continued one week. Carter for petitioner, Hatch for respondent.

closed by saying in a raised and significant tone, "the natives are not here, and we will not forget on the 5th of February who did it." The trespass case of Su Wai vs. J. H. Soper, Marshat, was continued in the Intermediary Division until next term day. H. N. Castle and F. M. Hatch for plaintiff; C. was sorry to see some of his friends Creighton for defendant.

Saturday evening Samuel, about 11 years old, the youngest son of Mr. James Lyle, Marine Railway, met with a severe accident. He was riding a tricycle when the machine came apart, and as he fell a piece of the mechanism made an ugly gash in his back. Dr. Miner dressed the wound and the little fellow is doing nicely.

It is reported that an insane native chased a little boy at Palama, Saturday, causing the child to fall and break his wrist. The man was arrested and lodged at the station, but the other part of the story is not verified.

A horse driven by John Sullivan met with an accident, this morning, which resulted in injury to the animal's chest. John was driving on the prison road, near the railway station, when his mare became alarmed by the letting off of steam from one of the engines, and plunged forward. NATIONAL REFORM PARTY.

Another Hass Meeting in the Fourth

The call for a mass meeting in the Fourth District again crowded the Old Armory Saturday evening. Mr. J. A Mehrtens presided. The hall was packed with people, there being several hundred present.

Mr. H. G. Crabbe of the Oahu Noble ticket was the first speaker, being interpreted by Mr. Albert Kunuiakea. The labor question he considered one of the most vital to come before the Legislature. The Government was paying out thousands of dollars to import a class of laborers that would turn the natives out root and branch. An attempt had been made to improve on the state of affairs, but the intended settlers soon skipped out to the Coast. Homesteads had been portioned out, in some cases where the settlers could find no road to get to them. The speaker advocated more scientific road making, the improvement of Honolulu harbor, and other benefits proposed in the party's platform. He had heard that a Minister of the Crown went into the Government yard that day, to electioneer and threaten to dismiss the laborers who refused to vote the Government ticket. The men told him they would go if paid for the three years for which they were shipped. In what other country could they behold the spectacle of a Minister of the realm going round stumping at an election?

Mr. Thomas Lucas was introduced as "Representative Lucas of the Fourth Ward." He said the crown of England bore the lion and the unicorn, and he wanted the unicorn to stand by his side, and Mr. R. W. Wilcox coming forward as inter-preter the audience "caught on" with laughter and applause. In the course of his remarks Mr. Lucas emphasized the word "National" in the party's name as peculiarly significant. The candidates would stand on the principles of their platform, having no rewards of money or offices to offer for votes. Wednesday next the people would have the power of decision in their hands, whether the kingdom of Hawaii should continue or lose its existence. The speaker advised the electors as to their conduct on election day, when by good behavior and intelligent voting they would put a feather in the cap of the country. He referred to the sudden change of tone of the Advertiser toward the Mechanics' Union when it had the temerity to enter the political field. It would not pay the Minister of the Interior to be spending his days and nights and Sundays in pulling the wires. There must either be something wrong in the Interior Department or the Government, or else the fear of the loss of that $5000 a year, a bigger salary than he every had before. The speaker closed with instructions about balloting, having been vigorously applauded throughout. Mr. C. J. McCarthy of the Noble ticket began with an object lesson to show how the ballot was to be folded. He then discussdenied that the party was inciting natives against foreigners, their campaign being only against a clique, and sald the party was going to vote peaceably and win. If the natives thought he would not do the right thing for them, he asked them to scratch his name from the ticket. (Cries of "We won't do it.") The speaker was loudly cheered on retiring.

Mr. E. C. Macfarlane was received with great enthusiasm, and was interpreted by Hon. A. Rosa. He said rumors were circulated that day that if this party lost the election the Hawaiians would make a disturbance. If he thought the natives had any such intention he would resign from the ticket. He believed if the election took place that night they would win, and on Wednesday they could carry the day with ballots. It was believed by some that in case of their defeat the news would have to go round the world of another insurrection. But he believed, as a true Hawaiian born on the soil, that in the improbable event of a defeat, the story of the good behavior of the Hawaiians going round the world would be such as he should be proud of. Nothing but intimidation or obstruction. however, would stand in the way of certain victory for the National Reform Party. What chiefly drew him into this canvass was the question of independence, and if elected it should be considered his concern to protect the autonomy of Hawaii They should see that especially the six and four year Nobles were men who were right on this important question. He wanted them to act at the election in such a way as to refute the damnable lies told against the party. And he would ask them to promise that they would accept the situation however the election went. (Loud cries of "Aye!") Mr. Macfarlane sat down amidst deafening applause.

Hon. Antone Rosa, introduced as 'a man from the country," received an ovation, and made speeches in Hawaiian and English. He knew prejudices had been stirred up to break up this party, and the Reform Party had done scarcely anything but utter tirades against Mr. Bush and Mr. Wilcox. There was never a more promising day for the young Hawaiian than the present. Most of the candidates on the National Reform ticket were Hawaiian either by birth or long residence. The Reform Party was reduced to Min- per month.

ister Thurston in the field and Mr.

Kinney in the press. Mr. D. Logan dealt with some of the personalities in the Times, showing that the party using them could, if desirable, be made to smart under the same weapons.

Mr. R. W. Wilcox was the last speaker and was cheered through a brief speech, in which he supported the party platform. The meeting dispersed about ten o'clock with loud cheers for the candidates.

Thanking Providence that it didn't tear his eyes out, Fogg murmured, "A woman always carries her point," and retired from the contest, vanquished.

THE undersigned wishes to inform the public that he has opened a Branch California Land Office, at No. 42 Merchant street, Honolulu.

To persons wishing to invest in Choice Timber, Agriculture, Fruit or Grazing Lands in the fine State of California, or in Desirable Building Lots in the heartiful City and Suburbs of Onk. the beautiful City and Suburbs of Oak-land, with its unrivaled climate and opportunities, I am prepared to offer every inducement in the way of bar-

The Lands which I here offer have all the Lands which I here oller have all been most carefully inspected by a thoroughly reliable surveyor, employed specially for that purpose, and I am therefore enabled to give satisfactory gnarantee that every piece offered will strictly correspond with the description given by me given by me.

The Titles to these Lands are perfect, being in the main state school lands.

The previous personal inspection thereof at great expense, offers absolute security to purchasers and is an inducement offered by no other dealer in state school lands in California.

The price ranges from $3.50 per acre upward according to quality and location, and there is no doubt, by taking into account the rapid growth and progression of that State, that these lands gression of that State, that these lands offered at these low figures must within a few years command a much higher price and so secure to every investor a profit not easily equaled in any other line of speculation.

This opportunity will be open for a limited time only, and I therefore extend an invitation to all who wish to secure good and cheap homes in that magnificent State and Country, and also to those who desire to invest a little money to so great advantage and profit.
