SPECIAL TERM, DECEMBER 21st, 1891.

ROSINA K. MANAKU VS. MOHOLE MOANAU, ADAM PETRIE AND JOHN SPENCER.

Exceptions from BICKERTON, J., Jury being waived.

JUDG. C. J., McCULLY, BICKERTON and Dole, J. J.

Section 1449 of the Civil Code (of the descent of property) being a particular enactment will control where the facts are applicable and is not repugnant but is an exception to the general rule of descent laid down in section 1448. So where J. M. died intestate leaving a widow M. and two daughters R. and K. and K. died under age and unmarried, the other daughter R. takes the share of K. and not M. the widow.

OPINION OF THE COURT PER JUDGE, C. J.

This is an action of ejectment for a lot of land on King street, Honolulu, originally granted to M. K. Kananaka by royal patent number 3024. The essential facts are that one J. Moanuli died intestate, seized of this land; that said intestate left a widow, Mohole, the defendant, and two daughters, one Rosina, the plaintiff, by a former wife, Namoomoo, and one Kalanikapu born to him of the defendant. A deed of partition was made on the 20th October, 1887, between the above named widow and daughters of J. Moanuli, in which the premises in question were set off in severalty to Kalanikapu, who thereafter died at the age of fourteen, unmarried. The two questions raised by the exceptions are, 1st, Under the statute of descent, does this property go to the mother (defendant) or to the half-sister (plaintiff)? 2d, Does the deed of partition affect the plaintiff's claim?

By the 1448th section of the Civil Code if the intestate be a woman and leave no husband nor issue her estate shall descend to her father and mother, or to either of them if only one be alive. By this law Mohole the mother as the sole surviving parent would inherit the land from Kalanikapu her daughter. The next section, 1449, is as follows:

"If the intestate shall die leaving several children, or leaving one child, and the issue of one or more others, and any such surviving child die under age, and not have been married all the estate that came to the deceased child by inheritance from such deceased parent, shall descend in equal shares to the other children of the same parent, and to the issue of any such other deceased children, who shall have died, by right of representation."

By this law Rosina would inherit from her half-sister the land coming to her, Kalanikapu, from their father J. Moanuli. Are these two sections repugnant to each other and if so which shall control?

Section 1448 states the general rule governing the descent of property that in case of failure of issue or husband, the parent inherits. Section 1449 states a more special rule that where the estate came to the children from an intestate parent and one child dies in minority and unmarried the share of the child so dying goes to the surviving child or children. We think that the particular enactment is operative in the particular case and that it is not repugnant to the general provision in section 1448. This is in conformity to the rule for the interpretation of statutes as laid down by Endlich, Section 399 and cases there cited. "Where there is in the same statute a particular enactment, and also a general one which in its most comprehensive sense would include what is embraced in the former, the particular enactment must be operative, and the general enactment must be taken to effect only such cases within its general language as are not within the provisions of the particular enactment." This view carries out the fundamental principle of the statute of descent that property should go from parent to child; and unless the deceased child has by marriage acquired new relations and responsibilities, its share should go to the other children, and not ascend to the parent.

The part of section 1448 which applies to intestate females, being passed in 1872, subsequent to the 1449th section, which was in the original statute of descent of 1850, does not repeal the 1449th section. This act (of 1872) was passed in order to make clear, what might have been assumed without any enactment, that the same rule as to descent of property from a male would apply to females, and was enacted in consequence of a decision of this court in re estate of Napua Zupplein Kalanuihine, 3 Haw. 323 (1871) which seemed to make it doubtful.

The Supreme Court of Massachusetts, under a statute like ours (Gen. Stats. Mass., p. 474), held that where Mrs. R. died intestate, leaving two daughters and a husband, and thereafter one of the daughters died under age and unmarried, "upon the death of one under age and unmarried, the other inherited her share." Richardson vs. Stodder 100, Mass. 528. See also Sedgwick vs. Minot, 6 Allen, 171.

It is urged against this view that Section 1449 gives only a life estate to the minor with a reversion in the sister; and that in case the minor's property should be sold by order of Court the right of the sister to inherit would be defeated, which it is claimed would be unjust and absurd. But this would be equally true if the mother was the inheriting party. The estate which Kalanikapu had was of fee simple. It could not be defeated by any event which could happen in her, Kalanikapu's, lifetime. The only effect of the statute is this, if she should die under age and unmarried, her sister inherits the land, if she should live to attain majority and die then her mother would inherit it, and if married then her husband and mother would inherit it equally. The purchaser at the guardian's sale of the minor's land would get the title quite as clearly whether the sister or the mother and husband should turn out to be this person's heirs.

The defendant claims that the habendum clause in the partition deed by which Rosina conveyed to Kalanikapu the land in question and "her right, title and interest both at law and in equity in the same," estops Rosina from now claiming it. An examination of the deed refutes this position. This habendum clause is followed by these words, "that the said Kalanikapu Moanuli shall have hold possess and enjoy in severalty by herself and to her heirs and assigns for her share all that property," etc., describing the premises in question. The object of the deed of partition was that each coparcener might enjoy in severalty what was theretofore held in common and the deed contained no warranty whatever that an after acquired title not existing at the time should not be set up, when acquired. We think it well established by a long series of decisions, that partition merely severs the unity of possession leaving the title as before. It confers no new title. Partitioners do not by their deed of partition acquire new rights, they merely regulate the method of enjoyment of their old rights as acquired from the title of their ancestor or grantor. This view will be borne out by the following authorities:

Doe vs. Dixon 5 Ad. & Ellis 834.
Wade vs. Derry 50 Cal. 376.
McClure vs. McClure 14 Penn. 134.

Williams Real Prop. p. 82.
1 Washburn R. P. p. 432.
We can see no reason why a grantor of real estate may not thereafter inherit the same estate from his grantee. We therefore overrule the exceptions and the judgment of the lower court stands.

Thurston & Frear for plaintiff; C. Brown and F. M. Hatch for defendant.

What Is

THE EDISON MIMEOGRAPH? It is not a talking machine, yet it can talk on paper. There is no electricity about it but it will reproduce letters, music, programmes, drawings, etc., with lightning rapidity. It is simple, compact, cleanly and cheap. Nothing to get out of order as in some machines. You can take 3000 copies of your own handwriting, or, if a type writer is used, 1500 duplicates, each as good as the original. Every busy man should have one. The circular letter which you send out from your office will look like a personal one and the recipient will read it. All users on these islands endorse it. How much do they cost? That depends on the size. A small machine $15, and $22 will buy a mimeograph 9x12 inches, suitable for general work. They are fitted out completely, with paper and ink ready for operating.

THE DAILY PACIFIC COMMERCIAL ADVERTISER

SIX-PAGE EDITION

Let all the ends thou aim'st at be Thy Country's, thy God's, and Truth's.

THURSDAY, JAN. 21, 1892

ANOTHER of the Wilcox Moreno fantasies about Hawaiian affairs has turned up, this time in the Illustrated American. It is accompanied by a capital cut of Wilcox and a very pretty picture of Hilo bay, dubbed "the beach at Honolulu." This is a fair sample of the accuracy of the article, which presents a glimpse through the queer spectacles constantly worn by our friends of Ka Leo office.

THE meeting of Portuguese voters at the Club House last night was one of the most successful political demonstrations ever known here. We believe it is a happy omen for Mr. Dillingham's candidacy. It shows clearly that the Portuguese have an awakening interest in politics, and an interest which will surely grow more intelligent each year as the electorate becomes better informed. It is a happy sign for Hawaii.

THE Portuguese Union came out with a supplement yesterday, which contains, among other matter of little value, an address by Mr. C. W. Ashford to the Portuguese electors. In this address Mr. Ashford assures his potential constituents that he is opposed to the constitutional amendment disfranchising all foreigners who are not subjects. Very good, Mr. Ashford. Now, when will you tell the Hawaiians about it?

THIS little incident is an admirable illustration of the character, or rather, the want of character, of Mr. Ashford's whole canvass. If it is true that clothes make the man it seems to be doubly true that language, which is one sort of dress, makes the politician. Mr. Ashford is one man in Hawaiian and quite another in Portuguese. It is literally LIP SERVICE which he brings the people. He applies the scriptural injunction, to be all things to all men, with a truth to the ear and a falsehood to the sense that would have "paralysed" the apostle.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the statements made, or opinions expressed by our correspondents.

Mr. Dillingham and the Portuguese.

MR. EDITOR:—In the Voice of the Nation of January 19th, it says "Dillingham will enlighten the sons of Portugal as to why he prefers Chinese and Japs for railroad building, and offers Portuguese 75 cents per day. We know the latter part of the statement is false, as we worked there, and received from $1.25 to $2.50 per day; and the only work the Chinese did was where the Portuguese would not work—and that was in the mud; and we will all vote for the man that gives us our bread.

Monday, Jan. 18, 1892.

Political campaigns usually affect business to a certain extent. The "outs" are so busily engaged in their efforts to get in and the "ins" as strenuously laboring in the same occupation, with a view to remaining in, that business falls flat with many people, but with us its the same old story—commerce comes in our door and we're here to attend to it.

Carbolineum Avenarius! a big word for a wood preservative, isn't it? You have seen it advertised before perhaps, and thought you had no use for it. We didn't know what it was for until the other day when one of our customers inquired for it. He explained its uses and convinced us that it is the best thing extant for preserving wood against all sorts of insects, rot, fungus and what not. We bought the entire stock of the Agents for the Kingdom, and we believe we are the only people here who sell it.

Its uses are manifold. If you are building a house or a sidewalk and the wood is to come in contact with the earth it will prevent decay. If you happen to be a plantation manager and you wish to build a railway you will add a hundred per cent. to the life of the ties by coating them with Carbolineum Avenarius. With telephone poles, in fact in any case where the timber is to be buried the effect of this preparation is marvelous. It is absolutely proof against the ravages of enemies of wood.

There is one wood pest particularly that the preparation will knock clear into Ballyhoo. Every householder in the Kingdom has suffered more or less annoyance from "Borers"—their buzzing is not pleasant nor is their work profitable. Once in a year or two veranda posts and floors must be renewed because of these bugs or bees or whatever head the naturalist may place them. If, when you are building your house you will coat the wood with Carbolineum Avenarius the Borer will stay away from it. Five gallons of the liquid will save you hundreds of dollars worth of lumber.

The preparation is not a new one; it is not an experiment, but has been subjected to the most severe tests in Europe during the past twelve years, and from the reliable testimonials we have read and from what we are told by parties here who have used it, we feel safe in guaranteeing that it will do all the Manufacturers represent.

We received by one of the late arrivals an invoice of lamp globes ordered for Christmas but reached us too late. Their beauty has not diminished by their late arrival, and we think they are the most exquisite in finish and coloring we have ever had. They are etched and then "fluted" and when the lamp is lighted the effect is most pleasing to the eye. We've shipped "Little Wonder" Ice Cream Freezers to every island in the group. They prove satisfactory to every one. Think of it! Ice Cream in just seven seconds.

The barkentine S. G. Wilder will probably sail on Friday for San Francisco.

The bark Harvester is still at Hilo loading sugar for San Francisco.

The schooner Amana arrived at Kahuiki on Tuesday about twenty-five days from San Francisco.

The bark Albert arrived early on Wednesday, January 20th, about 11½ days from San Francisco with nearly 1500 tons of general cargo. Had southeast trades the entire passage, with little rain.

The barkentine Mary Winkelman arrived at port on Wednesday night about twenty-two days out from San Francisco.

MARRIED.

CHASE-LOOMIS—On Wednesday evening, January 20, 1892, at St. Paul's Church, Erie, Pennsylvania, by the Rev. John H. H. Porter, the daughter of Paymaster J. Porter and the late Kate Harkinson Loomis, to Esquig Volney Ogilvie Chase, U. S. N.

SMITH-KINGSLY—In this city on the 20th of January, at the residence of the bride, by His Lordship the Bishop of Oahu, Mrs. A. M. L. Kingsley to Mr. W. H. Smith, both of Honolulu.

DIED.

ERNSTBERGER—At Kawaiahae, Honolulu, January 20, 1892, Lili, beloved child of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Ernstberger, aged 1 year.

An Evening Entertainment.

Under the auspices of the Y. W. C. T. U. Mrs. F. Williams gave what had been called a lecture, though it was hardly that. It was a story from Browning's tale of Balaustian, and was narrated in a most entertaining and attractive manner. She told how this brave maiden, only fourteen, rescued the spirit of patriotism in her fellow Athenians, and kept up their spirits in their perilous voyage from Rhodes to Athens.

The audience was a fair one, mostly ladies with a few gentlemen, more of whom would probably have attended had it been stated in the notice that it was for all who chose to attend. The day lectures being for ladies only, many thought this also was for them only.

Professor Anderson.

Professor Anderson will appear at the Opera House next Saturday afternoon and evening. The evening performance includes an illusion called "The Haunted Pavilion." This is said to be the greatest trick the wizard performs.

The matinee performance will be especially for ladies and children, and at the nominal prices of 25c and 50c the theatre ought to be crowded. Seats are on sale at Levey's.

Booked to Leave.

The following persons are booked to leave as passengers on the next trip of the Australia: Mrs. C. A. Clark and child, Mrs. Wood and daughter, W. L. Oliver and wife, Miss Beaman, Miss Severance, Miss Payson, Mrs. Stuart and two children, Mrs. Fitch, Jos. Hyman, Mrs. M. Phillips and two children, Mrs. G. E. Boardman, F. L. Sprall, and C. C. Bennett.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Mr. Geo. Stratemeyer is decorating the new vault in the Finance Office.

The Y. M. C. A. will hold its monthly meeting this evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Some did, and some didn't. But who did? The secret will be told to-night at the concert.

Postmaster Hill announces several changes in postage rates. See the "By Authority" columns.

The Royal Hawaiian Band will give a concert this afternoon at the Queen's Hospital at 3 o'clock.

A black seal purse has been lost. The finder will be rewarded for its return to the Hawaiian Hotel.

Sealed tenders for some lumber will be received up to noon to-day at the office of the Chilean Consul.

Eight shares of the Peoples' Ice and Refrigerator Company's stock are for sale. Apply to G. P. Castle.

Mr. C. W. Ashford has accepted Mr. Dillingham's invitation to be present at the Armory next Saturday evening.

A second death took place at the Quarantine Station yesterday from small pox. The remaining two patients are out of danger.

The Government's receipts and expenditures for the quarter, ending December 31, 1891, can be found in the "By Authority" column.

Oh, yes, that was a great day that the Kamehameha was to sing about to-night. Harry and his boys remember it well, especially Willie.

The Hawaiian Gazette Co. have been awarded the contract to print the ballots for the coming election. There will be about 150,000 printed.

Reynold's Golden Rule Bazaar make a specialty of spectacles and eye-glasses. If you need a domestic sewing machine, join one of the clubs.

The quarterly meeting of the Honolulu Board of Underwriters will be held this afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce room, at 2 o'clock.

Owing to the crowded condition of our columns this morning, several interesting letters from windward ports were deferred until to-morrow morning.

Mr. S. B. Rose, the local agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, has a strong testimonial letter in this issue from Mr. Gerrit P. Wilder.

The Mechanics' Union will hold a public meeting at Robinson's Hall this evening. The candidates of the National Reform party will make addresses.

Six sailors of the burnt bark J. P. West were in the Police Court yesterday morning to answer to a charge of disturbing the peace. Judge Foster fined them a small amount with a good reprimand.

In the suit of H. F. Bertelman vs. L. A. Thurston as executor of the estate of a mixed jury allowed the plaintiff $1330. The amount sued for was $1552.72. The case was heard in the Supreme Court yesterday before Chief Justice Judd.

The Y. M. C. A. will hold evangelistic services to-night in Bethel Hall, Bethel street, mauka of Castle & Cooke's store. Seats free. All welcome; young men, sailors and strangers especially invited. Song service begins at 7:15 p. m.

Mr. William H. Schmidt and Miss Susie Perkins, daughter of ex-Governor Perkins of California, were married in Oakland on January 1. Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt will spend several months on this island, partly in remembrance of their first meeting, which was in Honolulu.

Kohala Notes.

Kohala plantation and Hawi mill began grinding last week.

There have been two days of stiff Kona wind since last writing, and there have been considerable heavy rains since the new year came in.

Mr. Will McIntyre died suddenly of heart disease on Friday evening. There are three tickets for Road Board in the field: Ist.—J. Hind, Eben Low and T. S. Kay. 2d.—H. L. Holstein, A. K. Eldredge and D. S. Kahokano. 3d.—Joe Smith, D. K. Pai and Solomon.

Rev. S. Kekuewa appears to have been adroitly put up by the Wilcox-Bush party as candidate for Noble.

Registration.

The following Precinct Boards will meet this evening at 7 o'clock to register voters:

First District, First Precinct, at Long Branch Baths, Waikiki.
Third District, First Precinct, at the Royal School House, on Emma street.

Fifth District, First Precinct, at the Tramway Co.'s Building.

Additional Registrations.

In addition to the list already published, the following candidates have registered their names at the Interior office: Noble for Oahu, Henry Waterhouse; Representative for Molokai, D. S. Nahim; Representative for South Waikiki, Noa Kana; Noble for Hawaii, S. W. Kukuewa.

CARBOLINEUM AVENARIUS.

A preservative against rotting, decay, fungus, etc., of wood and stone. Will preserve any kind of wood above or under ground or water, and prolong its life at least 150 per cent.

Will keep off all sorts of insects, vermin or other enemies of wood.

Will prevent rats and mice gnawing wood coated with it.

Will force all moisture out of wood without closing the pores.

Will prevent shingles coated with it from rotting, cracking or warping.

Will prevent rope treated with it from rotting, causing it to remain pliable, and excellent tar coating.

Teredos will not attack timber coated with it.

Carbolineum avenarius does not contain acids or poisonous ingredients injurious to the fibres of wood.

The following is an extract from the London "Building World": "The Directors of the Palatine Railways say of Carbolineum Avenarius: 'Two boards cut from one and the same piece of pine, one of which for the sake of experiment was painted with Carbolineum Avenarius, and the other left unpainted were buried, and after a lapse of three years dug up and examined. The result was, that the wood to which the Carbolineum Avenarius had been applied showed no signs of decay, whilst the other was found to be in a rotting condition.'"

ALASKA'S FEMALE ROTHSCHILD.

She Makes Much Money and Gets Married and Divorced at Will.Chief An-na-hootz is dead, James Jackson won't marry the widow so as to be chief, and Emaline Baker, the Princess Thom, has raised a ruction at Yakutat.
Nothing in all this to startle the world,
but to the Sitka Indians it is just as important as a revolution in France would be to Frenchmen, for their tribal government has gone to sticks and they are plunged into political anarchy.An-nahootz was eighty-two years old and living with his thirteenth wife when he died. He was a convert to the Greek church, a firm friend of the whites and the first of his race to take medicine and other precautions as old age came on.The rule among the Sitkas has been that when man or woman grew old and incapable of great activity and endurance,
he or she lay down and waited for death, dying easily of inanition as a rule. So it was rare to find a Sitka over sixty.The rule of succession is for the chief's oldest nephew to succeed him, but he must marry the chief's widow. Now the widow is seventy years old and as unhandsome as an aged squaw generally, while the nephew Jackson is, as his name implies, a converted Indian, besides being young, handsome and possessed of a pretty wife. So he won't take the widow, and there is no king over the Sitkas.They are superior to Alaska Indians in general, have a rather pretty village and some cattle, and the richest woman in it is the Princess Thom. She is a regular female Rothschild, owning about $15,000 worth of stuff, most of which was acquired by her own activity and shrewdness as a trader. Some years ago she married a man named Thom, considerably her junior, but after awhile decided that she preferred his younger brother, who was the handsomest Indian in the settlement—a regular aboriginal Apollo. So she divorced the older Thom and gave him her sister, then married the younger, whom she literally loaded with jewelry and elegant hunting gear. But the young squaw delighted to make her jealous and the young husband suddenly died. Soon after her sister died just as suddenly, and then she remarried her original Thom. Of course there is "talk."
The Greek priests protested, but no official made inquiry; the princess has her way, and so there is a social scandal as well as a "political situation."

An Impression.

Before I saw her I had read Miss Field's articles and had read or heard much about her public lectures, so that before meeting her I had come to regard her as one of the strongminded women with a highly cultivated literary style.
But as she sat that evening in a large easy chair with her arms calmly folded,
listening to much irrelevant matter,
with a large, long laugh looked in her eager eyes, and the compressed lips smothered some strong retort, I saw that she possessed a virtue not common to the so-called strongminded—patience.
She is a heroic listener, but her replies contain more of the hammer than the anvil.Though a cosmopolitan from reason and experience, she "holds that the man
the best cosmopolite who loves his native country best," and the "picturesque English," which she blends with more classical phrase and finer fact than upon emergencies she regards American slang as the most forcible form of idiomatic English.

Professor Russell's Summer in Alaska.

Professor Israel C. Russell and party have reached the United States, after having been reported several times as lost in Alaskan wilds, and their report is of unusual interest. For one thing they have proved to a certainty that Mount St. Elias is much higher than is usually stated, as the corrected calculations from a base line and trigonometrical measurements, which enable them to calculate the exact height to within a few feet. Another interesting fact is the rapid change of productions and climate as they went inland. On the shore of Icy bay and for a few miles inland they found strawberries, salmon berries and huckleberries in lavish abundant and of the finest quality.They landed through the surf of Icy bay on June 6 and made haste over eighty miles of hill and final of glacier to the north side of Mount St. Elias. They next surveyed the coast line to the eastern limit of Disenchantment bay, and late in September reached Yakutat, whence they sailed Oct. 8 in the United States steamer Pinta, and surveyed the coast southward. This was Professor Russell's third trip to Alaska, and his collection of maps, photographs and specimens is extensive and valuable.

Quick Photographs.

The latest achievements in "instantaneous" photography have been the making of twenty-four different pictures of a dog during the interval between its leaving and alighting on the ground in the action of jumping.—New York Recorder.
