ENGLISH BUILT CRUISERS SILENCED RUSSIAN FORTS

Official Report of Latest Port Arthur Battle by Admiral Togo—New Japanese Cruisers Do
Excellent Work at Laoteshan.

Washington, April 17, 1904.

To SAITO,
Admiral Togo reports that our combined fleet, as previously planned, commenced on the 11th inst., the eighth attack on Port Arthur. The Fourth and the Fifth destroyer flotillas, and the Fourteenth torpedo flotilla, with the Koryomaru reached the mouth of Port Arthur at midnight on the 12th inst., and succeeded in laying mines at several points outside the port, defying the enemy's search light. The Second destroyer flotilla discovered at dawn of the 13th, a Russian destroyer trying to enter the harbor, and after ten minutes' attack sunk her. Another Russian destroyer was discovered coming from the direction of Laoteshan and attacked, but she managed to escape into the harbor.

On our side there were no casualties, except two seamen on the "Ikazuchi," slightly wounded. There was no time to rescue the enemy's drowned crews as the Bayan approached. The Third fleet reached Port Arthur at 8 a. m. When the "Bayan" came out and opened fire, immediately the Novik, Askold, Diana, Petropavlovsk, Pobieda and Poltava also came out and made an offensive attack. Our Third fleet, tardily answering and gradually retiring, enticed the enemy 15 miles to the south east of the port, when our first fleet informed through wireless telegraphy from the third fleet, suddenly appeared before the enemy and attacked while the enemy was trying to regain the port. A battleship of the Petropavlovsk type struck the mines laid by us the previous evening, and sunk at 10:32 a. m. Although another ship was observed to have lost her freedom of movement, yet the confusion among the enemy's ships prevented us from identifying her. They finally managed to regain the port. Our Third fleet suffered no damage and the enemy's damage besides the above mentioned may be probably slight. Our First fleet did not reach the firing distance. Our fleet retired at 1 p. m. and prepared for another attack. The vessels resailed on the 14th inst. toward Port Arthur. The Second, Fourth and Fifth flotillas and the Ninth torpedo flotilla also joined them at 3 a. m., and the Third fleet at 7 a. m. No enemy's ship was outside the port. Our First fleet arrived at 9 a. m. and discovered three mines laid by the enemy and destroyed all.

The "Kasuga" and "Nisshin" were despatched to the west of Laoteshan and made an indirect bombardment for two hours, this being their first action. The new forts at Laoteshan were silenced. Our forces retired at 1:30 p. m.

STEAMSHIP NIPPON MARU MAY HAVE BEEN SUNK

Has the Japanese steamship Nippon Maru been sunk by the Russians? This is a question which the officers and passengers aboard the Toyo Kisen Kaisha liner America Maru, which arrived in port yesterday from Yokohama, would like to have answered.

WAR NEWS FROM JAPANESE FILES

TIENTSIN, April 2.—Some Americans have hired a Chinaman's house at Yinkow to hold a meeting and hoisted an American flag. The Russian authorities have caused it to be hauled down.

TIENTSIN, March 31.—The British Consul at Yinkow has given notice to the British residents that although Russia has proclaimed martial law, British subjects need not obey it before the Consul receives instructions from the British Minister concerning the question, and further that the Consul will hold himself responsible for their protection.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS.

There were two correspondents on board the Chicago Daily News press boat Fan (a British steamer), which is being detained at Newchwang. On suspicion of being spies, the American correspondents are under arrest by the Russians together with two Japanese servants. One of them is Mr. Washburn, son of a Senator.—Japan Gazette.

A GERMAN DISCLAIMER.

BERLIN, April 6.—The statement of the New York Herald that Germany sold four vessels of the cruiser type to Russia, is as foolish as all similar former false reports.

EGGS PROHIBITED.

SHANGHAI, April 1.—Eggs have been proclaimed contraband of war. The Customs authorities at Shanghai prohibited their export to Japan yesterday. The egg dealers have been panic stricken. Negotiations are now in progress.

THE NIPPON MARU, SINCE CONVERTED INTO A JAPANESE CRUISER, WHICH IS REPORTED TO HAVE BEEN SUNK.

CORRESPONDENTS FOR THE FRONT

KOBE, April 1.—The steamer No. 11 Nagata Maru will have here on April 3 with eleven newspaper correspondents, eleven horses, and thirty-six coolies.

WAR FUND FOR THE RED CROSS

A meeting of the Japanese War Fund Committee was held last night at which it was decided to turn over the subscriptions received in the Hawaiian Islands to the Red Cross Society of Japan. The fund now amounts to $42,938.00 contributed as follows:

Agency of Yokohama Specie Bank	$2,283.00
Kei Hin Bank	13,407.95
Patriotic Japanese Women's Association	576.30
Hawaii Shimpo Sha	670.75
Total	$42,938.00

VESSELS FROM THE ATLANTIC

No vessels are believed to be obtainable in Oriental waters to replace the Nippon and Hongkong Maru, and the two new vessels will doubtless be brought around from the Atlantic ocean. Captain Greene of the America Maru believes this will be effected shortly.

THE SLATES ARE FIXED

Island Caucus for Convention Tonight.

All Districts But Oahu Decide What They Want.

Each of the Six Districts May Get a Delegate—Carter Said to Be Certain of Election.

Outside delegates representing a majority of the delegates to today's convention fixed up a nice little scheme to get the best of Oahu at a number of caucuses yesterday and Saturday. Hawaii is anxious to take two, one for each representative district, Maui one and Kauai one, while the delegates are also willing to elect Governor Carter and Delegate Kuhio to represent the Territory at large. This would leave Oahu without representation, but the outside delegates are also quite willing to credit Carter and Kuhio to Honolulu. This is one of the schemes which was agreed upon yesterday, but its promoters will not be able to put it through. Tonight's convention is still very much in the air, and although various island delegations have come to an agreement as to what they want, the agreements have all been made without reckoning on Oahu, and there are likely to be many slates broken before it comes to the voting in the convention tonight. Senator W. C. Achi is almost assured of election as permanent chairman of the convention, although there is also a deal on to give the place to a Kauai man. All the districts but the Fourth and Fifth held meetings yesterday and reached a tentative agreement as to their action in convention.

Hawaii decided that she wanted two delegates, one for each district. The representatives they agreed upon were Sheriff Nahala of Kona and Rev. S. L. Desha of Hilo. Hawaii has thirty-three votes, and will, it is reported, go in under one chairman. If they can't get what they want they will take what they can. Nahala will then go as delegate and Desha as alternate.

Maui decided to send W. T. Robinson as its delegate, with Senator C. H. Dickey as alternate, while Kauai has picked Representative E. A. Knudsen with no choice for alternate. In separate caucuses the three islands agreed as to their individual wishes, but there was lack of harmony in the joint caucus and the matter has not been entirely settled. Both Maui and Kauai object to giving Hawaii more than one delegate. Hawaii is about evenly divided on Carter and Kuhio for delegates at large, but Kauai and Maui are said to be for Carter, with the chances that Kuhio may not go through. Hawaii, assisted by some of the other delegations, is also proposing another plan by which Kauai should get no representation, but be given instead the convention chairmanship. Kauai refused the offer and proposes to fight Hawaii's demand for more than one delegate.

Oahu delegates have not been able to get together as yet, but will probably caucus this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Oahu is entitled to 67 of the 135 delegates and local delegates also hold a few proxies from the other islands. But the Oahu delegates are not working together and there will probably be a division in the convention. McCandless expects the support of the Fifth, while Hoogs is strong in the Fourth. He has to fight Robertson and Breckons in this district, and there is no telling who will win, as the outside delegates may decide the contest. What seems certain now is that Hawaii will not get more than one delegate, and that Carter will be the delegate at large. If Kuhio is included, one of the two will be credited to this island, and the fight for the sixth delegateship will be between Hoogs, McCandless, Robertson and Breckons. The disappointed ones will get a chance to be alternates.

The convention will be called to order at ten o'clock this morning by Senator C. L. Crabbe as chairman of the Republican committee. W. H. Hoogs will be the temporary secretary. Unless the Kauai deal goes through W. C. Achi will be the permanent chairman of the convention. There is talk of putting in W. H. Charlock of this city as secretary. W. H. Coelho of Maui will be the temporary interpreter.

STEAMSHIP NIPPON MARU.

There was a well-defined rumor among the officers that the favorite Japanese passenger vessel is somewhere at the bottom of the Sea of Japan between Hakodate and Vladivostok.

Four days before the America Maru left Yokohama for this port the rumor was freely circulated in that city, but it could not be confirmed, as in fact no news of losses can be officially substantiated. The Japanese government gives out no information whatever, concerning losses of vessels, and the newspapers are strictly enjoined from making any mention of even such a rumor.

The Nippon Maru after being fitted out as an auxiliary cruiser was sent north to the Sea of Japan with Hakodate as a base.

The loss of the steamship is believed to be of recent date, as the news only reached Yokohama a few days before the America Maru was scheduled to sail. No word of the loss has reached the Japanese Consulate here.

Captain Greene, the Nippon Maru's former commander, is now in command of the America Maru, and C. Lacy Goodrich, the Nippon's purser is now with the America Maru.

THOUGHT IT AN INSULT

A British Officer Is Hit by Hobdy.

Exciting Incident on the Deck of America Maru.

Altercation Caused by Alleged Slurring Remark of Passenger Toward Americans.

A bit of a scrap which took place aboard the America Maru yesterday morning looked for a time as if it might have serious consequences, but fortunately was settled by apologies. When the vessel was close to the islands on Saturday night the order was given to all passengers to be ready at 7:45 yesterday morning for inspection by the United States Marine Hospital boarding surgeon.

Every passenger was ready for the surgeon at the hour appointed, with the exception of Captain A. W. Warwick, of the British army. Dr. W. C. Hobdy was the boarding surgeon. A request was sent to Captain Warwick to arise and stand the inspection. The captain is said by the passengers to have paid little attention to the request. A second request was sent, and finally the officer arose, but instead of donning his deck clothes, he is reported to have sauntered to the bath-room, had his morning dip, returned to the stateroom and then put on his wearing apparel. When the captain emerged on deck it was about three-quarters of an hour behind the time set.

When he and Dr. Hobdy met, the Britisher is reported to have said that he did not intend to hurry around for "any" American, as they were too fussy. The tone in which the statement was delivered was said to have been of the supercilious kind. Dr. Hobdy, as everybody knows, is a Southerner and from Kentucky at that. There was thought to be insult in the tone. At any rate, the doctor's long right arm shot out, his fist landed somewhere over the captain's jugular, and the Britisher went down.

Afterwards it is said explanations and apologies were made and the misunderstanding corrected. Captain Warwick called on the British consul yesterday, but not to make a complaint. He gave Consul W. R. Hoare his version of the affair. Mr. Hoare said last evening relative to the little unpleasantness:

"Captain Warwick, who arrived in the S. S. America Maru, called on me this morning to pay his respects and in the course of conversation stated that there had been some unpleasantness in connection with his being required to present himself for examination by the quarantine officers at an early hour this morning. He said that he understood from those on board the ship that the time for examination of the passengers was fixed for 8 o'clock, and that he was in his stateroom preparing to go on deck or into the saloon, which ever it might be, at that hour. That about half past seven or twenty minutes to 8 o'clock he was told that the quarantine officer was ready to examine him. He said he would get ready at once, but was not then in a condition to present himself before other passengers, but would get ready as soon as he possibly could. When he saw the quarantine officer, he said some words passed between them, by reason of the officer telling him that he was delaying the examination, but that he, Captain Warwick, entirely disclaimed any intention of doing so, stating that there was some misapprehension in regard to the hour set for the examination. From what Captain Warwick said to me it seemed that apologies had been made and accepted on both sides, and that there was an end of the matter."

BOTTLED SUNSHINE

Scott's Emulsion brings sunshine to the entire system of the consumptive.

All life is sunshine. The sun pouring its rays into the plant combines earth, water and air into new plant tissue. Sunshine stored up in the plant is its life.

The animal changes plant tissue into animal tissue, changes the stored up sunshine of plant life into animal life.

Fat contains more stored up sunshine than any other form of animal tissue. This is why Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil is literally bottled sunshine, full of rich nourishment and new life for the consumptive.

For the Skin

You cannot have a clear and smooth skin unless the blood is pure. Blotches, eruptions, rashes, pimples, all show how impure the blood must be. Get all impurities out of your blood before you are seriously ill.

Miss Dorothy Maher, of Fitzroy, Victoria, sends her photograph and this letter: "I had a terrible eruption on my face, which was of a very irritating nature. I tried many blood medicines, but without relief. Friends told me to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, as it was a most famous blood remedy. I did so, and after taking only two bottles I began to see a great change. By the time the third bottle was used the eruption had entirely disappeared, and without leaving a mark on my face. I am perfectly well now, and I owe it all to this great blood-purifying remedy."

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

There are many imitation Sarsaparillas. Be sure you get "Ayer's."

Correct any tendency to constipation with Ayer's Pills. They are sugar-coated, easy to take, mild in action. A family laxative.

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY:

THERAPION. and popular remedy, used in the Continental Hospitals by Ricord, Boissac, Jobert, Velpeau, and others, combines the desiderata to be sought in a medicine of the kind, and surpasses everything hitherto employed. THERAPION No. 1 maintains its work in the system and restores the vitality of the kidneys, purges the bowels, and restores the vitality of the system, affording prompt relief where other well-tried remedies have been powerless.

THERAPION No. 2 for impurity of the blood, purifies, purges, spots, blotches, pains and swelling of joints, gouts, rheumatism, & all diseases for which it has been so much a fashion to employ mercury, and restores the vitality of the system, affording prompt relief where other well-tried remedies have been powerless.

THERAPION No. 3 for exhaustion, sleeplessness, and all distressing consequences of dissipation, worry, overwork, &c. It possesses surprising power in restoring strength and vigor to those suffering from the enervating influences of long residence in hot, unhealthy climates.

THERAPION is sold by the principal chemists and druggists throughout the world. Price in England, 2s. 6d. and 4s. 6d. In order to state which of the three numbers is required, and observe that the word "THERAPION" appears on the British Government Stamp (all white letters on a red ground) affixed to every genuine package by order of His Majesty's Home Secretary, and without which it is a forgery.

SMALL GRAIN EXPERIMENT

Maui Small Farmer Tries Oats and Wheat.

Now Shipping Bananas For Sale on Coast.

Kula People Lose Corn and Potatoes Because of Too Early Planting.

MAUI, April 16.—Mr. E. H. Bailey of Makawao, who perhaps takes more interest in agriculture from both a scientific and practical standpoint than any other person on the island, has recently planted for an experiment several acres of barley, oats, wheat and speltz, all of which are growing finely and are at the present time nearly a foot high. He consulted the United States Experiment Station as to the varieties of seeds to be used and followed the advice freely given. The oats are called 20th century oats, the barley is one of the latest varieties known to agricultural science, speltz is the newest "thing" in hay, and the wheat is styled macaroni wheat owing to its glutinous properties.

Mr. Bailey selected the wheat to please the many Portuguese residents of his vicinity. They complain that the bread made from American flour is too white and too brittle, not like that produced in their old home islands, they prefer to have their favorite food of an elastic glutinous nature which can be pulled out and twisted into long rolls. If this experiment is successful, it is to be hoped that the other farmers of the district will cultivate macaroni wheat—and the good old days be recalled to Makawao, the days of '49 when every field was green with tall waving wheat and Mauiites made money through the shipment of the staple to California.

The present season is a good one for Makawao farmers though planting has been somewhat delayed by rains, but has proved unfortunate for the Kula people whose recent crops of corn and potatoes have failed owing to too early planting, the cold winter rains having killed the young plants.

MAUI RACING CLUB.

Saturday night, the 9th, the annual meeting of Maui Racing Association has held at the Walluku Court house. Most of the old officers were re-elected with the exception of the Executive Committee which now includes Messrs. M. L. Decker, W. H. Cornwell and W. T. Robinson.

This committee was instructed to prepare a program for the 4th of July.

NEVADAN CARRIES BANANAS.

Per steamer Nevada which sailed for San Francisco from Kahului Friday night, the 15th, 628 bunches of bananas were exported as a trial of the California market. Cyrus Green sent 300 bunches of Walluku bananas and W. O. Aiken 328 bunches grown in Makawao.

It is stated that the Makawao fruit much exceeds the Walluku variety. If this venture succeeds great impetus will be given to the banana industry of the island.

NOTES.

Judge A. N. Kepolka is expected in Walluku as soon as his commission arrives from Washington.

Tom Pratt, the Hamakua poke steam plough engineer, is at the coast purchasing a new set of steam ploughs for the Maui Agricultural Company, (Paia and Hamakua poke.)

Tuesday night, the 12th, congratulations were offered Mr. and Mrs. J. N. S. Williams of Puunene upon the birth of a baby boy.

Mr. Bliss of Erie, Pennsylvania, spent Thursday night, the 14th, on the summit of Haleakala and viewed the "Palace of the Sun" by sunset and sunrise.

Tuesday afternoon, the 12th, the Ladies' Missionary Society held their annual meeting at the residence of Mrs. D. C. Lindsay of Paia.

Saturday afternoon, the 9th, Miss Edith Alexander of Paia gave a "tea" in honor of her guest, Miss Sumner of Hilo. Miss Sumner departed for Hawaii by the Kinau of the 12th.

By today's Claudine Mrs. S. H. Dowsett of Makawao will depart for New York to be gone for several months. She will be accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Dora von Tempisky of Kula and her son, John H. Dowsett of Honolulu.

School Inspector Chas. W. Baldwin of Hawaii is spending an Easter vacation at Hailu—Inspector Chas. E. King has been at Kaupo.

Mrs. W. F. McConkey has been recently elected superintendent of the Sunday school of the Paia Foreign church.

During the week John Waterhouse of Honolulu has been visiting J. P. Cooke at Kulamau, his Kula residence.

Most of Maui's delegates to the Honolulu Republican convention of the 21st depart by today's steamer.

The score of the league baseball game at Wells' Park, Walluku, the afternoon of the 10th, was Kahului 21 to Walluku 7. The Kahului is a crack nine and with Jackson as pitcher should win the championship of the island. However this cap be determined better after they have met the Stars.

This morning the ship A. G. Ropes arrived in Kahului in ballast, 31 days from Yokohama, Japan.

Weather—Delightful summer atmosphere with occasional showers—trades.

Court Notes.

Judge De Bolt granted a divorce to Ying Kiyau Yap Ngu against Yap Ngu on the ground of non-support, awarding the custody of the three children to libellant. Libellee is ordered to pay $8 a month toward the children's support, also $25 to libellant's counsel in addition to $25 ordered before, together with costs of court. J. P. Ball for petitioner; no appearance of or for respondent, who was represented formerly by A. L. Ahlo.

G. R. Carter, administrator, files an inventory of personal property in the estate of J. W. Wulbers, deceased, with valuation of $346.70.

It is stipulated that plaintiff in the suit of the A. Harrison Mill Co., Ltd., vs. F. H. Redward, defendant, and F. M. Swamy, garnishee, may have until April 20 to file its bill of exceptions.

Judge De Bolt will take up the following cases for trial in their order at 10 o'clock this morning: Territory vs. Yoshikawa Dengiro, Territory vs. Man Chong, Territory vs. Chun Tong Cheong et al. and Territory vs. Solomon Kaupuni.

Judge Gear's jury is summoned to appear today.

Judge Robinson's jury is not required to appear this week, as he will be engaged with C. S. Deaky's injunction suit against C. W. Booth to enjoin foreclosure and reform mortgage of Pacific Heights property.

BURNS AND CUTS.—Slight injuries of this character are of frequent occurrence in almost every household. While they are not dangerous, except when blood poisoning results from the injury, they are often quite painful and annoying. They can be quickly healed by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It allays the pain almost instantly and heals the injured parts without matter being formed, which insures a cure in one-third the time that the usual treatment would require. It is the most perfect preparation in use for burns, scalds, cuts, bruises and like injuries. It should be applied with a feather, and before the parts become swollen if possible. For sale by All Dealers and Druggists. Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., Agents for Hawaii.

HOW A FORTUNE MELTED.

That a man of great wealth, descended from a long line of shrewd, clever, successful business men, himself reared in an environment of high-class financing and investment, and a member of a widely known and prosperous Wall street firm, may dissipate a large fortune, not through high living or reckless speculation, but by unprofitable investments, is shown by the appraisal of the estate of the late Robert L. Cutting, just made public. Only $5,000 is left of a fortune once estimated at $2,000,000. Nearly all the investments made were in stocks and bonds of companies which have long since gone out of business. The $5,000 value left in the estate is represented by household goods.

HONGKONG MARU MAY ALWAYS BE JAPANESE CRUISER

The America Maru may be the only vessel of the original fleet of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha operating between Hongkong-Yokohama-Honolulu and San Francisco, that will be in the future passenger service of the company. The Nippon Maru is reported to have been sunk, and the Hongkong Maru is reported to be so satisfactory to the Japanese Naval Department as a scout cruiser and commerce destroyer, that she may be retained permanently in naval service.

The Hongkong, when stripped of her passenger accommodations and turned into a cruiser, was strengthened and made over to a formidable warship. Capt. Greene, of the America Maru, reports that the vessel appeared at Yokohama a few weeks ago with her war-paint on, and looking like a crack cruiser with big eight-inch guns mounted on the forward or poop deck. The poop had been strengthened beneath with heavy timbers so that that portion of the vessel is able to withstand the terrific strain imposed upon it by the firing of the guns.

A letter from the Navy Department to the Toyo Kisen Kaisha officials recently filed showed that the Navy Department was very well satisfied with the vessel, both as to her speed and efficiency in the gun tests.

A COLONIZATION SCHEME.

Senator Hoar has introduced a bill in Congress, the provisions of which might be put into effect by the Territorial legislature, with profit to the islands. The Hoar bill provides for a Colonization Bureau in the Department of the Interior, with an appropriation to permit loans up to $1,500 to persons settling on homestead lands.

Governor Carter some time ago was considering the same sort of scheme for filling the now vacant lands of the Territory with desirable settlers, though doubtful at the time of the legality of such an act on the part of the Territorial Legislature. His idea is that if the Territory can loan to prospective settlers a sufficient sum to make their homesteads self-supporting, they will eventually be able to repay the amount, and the government will benefit in the increase of tax values. While such a colonization scheme would possibly bring in a large number of American farmers anxious to start life afresh it might also be of benefit in making a large percentage of the Hawaiians self-supporting.

The bill which has been introduced in Congress is favored by Commander Booth-Tucker of the Salvation Army, who hopes thus to relieve the congested city populations. The bill authorizes the proposed Bureau Colonization Bureau to make loans not exceeding $1,500 to any person duly qualified to enter land under the homestead laws, and properly certified to as to character; the money to be used in improving and establishing a home and farm on the land, and the loan to be repaid by the settler with interest at 6 per cent, in annual or semi-annual installments. The Commissioner is authorized to pay from any such loan the expenses of transportation of the settler's family and his necessary household effects, and the loan is to be a lien on the property purchased and acquired. A Colonization Fund for the purpose is to be provided by the issue of not more than $50,000,000 3 per cent fifty-year bonds, not more than $5,000,000 of which are to be issued per year. The lands acquired by a settler are not to exceed forty acres irrigated and eighty acres non-irrigated.

A COUNTY SUBSTITUTE.

If the commission authorized by the Kellinot resolution performs its functions properly, there will be little need for the work of the county bill commission. Kellinot's concurrent resolution provides for the appointment of three men to serve without pay "to report at the next regular session of the Legislature a plan for the reorganization of our system of accounts, by establishing funds for each Island or District, so that the residents in each may be able to see what each district contributes to the support of the whole, and how much has been expended for improvements and the maintenance of public institutions in each."

The only valid argument advanced in favor of county government so far, has been the one that the islands, other than Oahu, had not been getting a proportionate return for the amount of taxes paid, an argument which, however, has never been borne out by the facts. If the newly authorized commission devises a plan which will demonstrate just how much each district pays for the support of the government, with the counter statistics showing the amount each receives in return, some of the residents of the outer districts will speedily learn that Oahu is about the only island which raises sufficient revenue to support the double system of government. When once the people of the Territory learn that for every dollar spent in the luxury of a double government, they must pay one dollar in taxes, the agitation for a county law will be confined to the professional job chasers and the riff-raff which pays no taxes.

The legislators will receive pay at the rate of a hundred dollars per week for the ten days they are in session. The salary is probably more than double the amount the majority of the members ever earned in private life, but the taxpayers are quite willing that they should be paid at the same rate of salary at the regular session if they keep within the four weeks limit.

Maul growers have also begun the export of bananas to the California market. The banana industry offers wide possibilities for the future of Hawaii. Eventually it means the establishment of a fast line of fruit steamers, which will settle the tourist question for the islands by the offer of tempting passenger rates.

DR. ATCHERLY HAS A KICK

Kamuela, South Kohala, Hawaii, T. H. April 15th, 1904.

The Editor Pacific Commercial Advertiser.

Sir:—In self-defense may I ask you to allow me to make public the means by which the same Legislature that last June raised my salary to 125 dollars, as Government physician, were induced to lower it to ten dollars a month, and at the same time to reduce that of other physicians.

I have it on the authority of certain members of the House, one of them the Speaker, that the following story about me, told by Governor Carter, produced the desired result, as well it might. This was the story: That a poor native boy came to me for medicine, for his wife, who was seriously ill at Hamakua (Hilo district), and that I refused to give the medicine till he paid for it, although my pay at that time was $125, and that of the patient's husband only $20. This statement seemed, to those members who knew me, utterly incredible, and they asked for time to communicate with me, which was refused. Now the true account of this will show that the "poor boy," the patient's husband, was a Swedish farmer and team owner, certainly not poor or indigent. That he sent his Japanese with a note for the medicine, instead of coming himself. That my salary at the time was 50 dollars and not 125 dollars a month. That he had only that month given up hauling and gone to work for the ranch at 26 dollars together with a house rent free, free food, etc. That I was altogether unaware of this change. I had treated this family for some time having visited them at their home in Hamakua, six miles out of my district. He occupied this house with land and owned horses, mules, wagons, etc., with which latter he worked on the Government roads, hauling materials, and receiving $7.25 a day (see books of S. Kohala Road Board) a sum more than three times my own pay of 50 dollars a month. He was under treatment himself, for a severe injury, just before his removal, and had not paid his bill, although he was able to do so; consequently when on April 30th, 1903, he sent his Japanese for more medicine for his wife, I told the Jap that I objected to continually treating people of another district for nothing, and left him waiting, while I went to the near-by store. In the meantime he laid a complaint at the ranch office, and Mr. Alfred Carter spoke to me about it; I gave the Jap the medicine, and he paid a dollar for it. In such a district as this without plantations a physician at 50 dollars a month must get fees from those who can afford it or he could not exist. It seems that he had just quit the hauling business and gone to work for the ranch at 26 dollars, but even then his income with free house rent and food was equivalent to more than my 50 dollars, prices here being higher than in Honolulu. It is likely that Mr. Alfred Carter knew nothing of this patient's real circumstances, still it would have been more just had Governor Carter investigated matters before discrediting me in the House. To be condemned, without a hearing, for charging a man in better circumstances than myself, a fee for medical services, when my own pay was not half enough to support a family in such a place in Waimaea, is the cruelest injustice. And if the physician here cannot exist on 50 dollars a month and then never to demand a fee, on pain of further reduction, is an utter absurdity. I am sir, Yours truly,

JOHN ATCHERLY,
M. R. C. S., etc., Govt. Physician to South Kohala, Hawaii.

Shakespeare's "Disinherited Child."

It is probable that many Shakespearean readers have never heard of a play called "The Two Noble Kinsmen"; and yet no less eminent authorities than Lamb and Coleridge, and, in our own day, James Russell Lowell, have come to the conclusion that Shakespeare collaborated in its authorship. Mr. Rupert Hughes, an American writer who has carefully examined the credentials of the play, says that its claims to authenticity are just as strong as those of "Titus Andronicus" and "Pericles." Moreover, its qualities are "so splendid that it ranks among the very highest of Shakespeare's achievements in the minds of those of us who think it his." The same writer continues (in The Theatre, January):

"This is no place to go into an historical argument on the merits of the case further than to say that, against Hazlitt, Hallam, Knight, Ulrici, Von Fresen, Furnivall, and Rolfe, who were not convinced that Shakespeare had a hand in the work, one can place the names of Lamb, Coleridge, Spalding, Dyce, Schlegel, Hickson, Fleay, Ward, Stack, Lowell, Littledale, Hudson, and Skeat, as well as the title-page of the 1634 edition (printed only eighteen years after Shakespeare's death), which says that it was 'written by the memorable Worthies of their time: Mr. John Fletcher and Mr. William Shakespeare, Gentlemen.' To these authorities we would add confidently the internal evidences of the text."

The plot of the play was probably suggested by the Boccaccio legend embodied in Chaucer's "Knight's Tale" of the Canterbury series. Says Mr. Hughes:

"In his description of the Temple of Mars, Chaucer proved that he had the epic as well as the lyric touch. It is in the same temple scene of the dramatized version that one reads such majestic lines as surely no Elizabethan could have written save one. Arcite, with his attendants, kneels and prays Mars' favor in his approaching combat with his former boon friend Palamon. This is his apostrophe to war (very timely, too, in these bloody days of arbitration):

"Thou mighty one, that with thy power hast turn'd

Great Neptune into purple, whose approach
Comets prewarn; whose havoc in vast fields
Unearthed skulls proclaim; whose breath blows down
The teeming Ceres' foison, who dost pluck
With hand omnipotent from forth blue clouds
The mason'd turrets: that both mak'st and break'st
The stony girths of cities; me thy pupil,
Youngest follower of thy drum, instruct this day
With military skill, that to thy laud I may advance my streamer, and by thee
Be styl'd the lord o' the day! Give me, great Mars,
Some token of thy pleasure!

[Crash of thunder.]
Oh, great corrector of enormous times,
Shaker of o'er-rank states, thou grand decider
Of dusty and old titles, that heal'st with blood
The earth when it is sick, and cur'st the world
Of the pluriety of people, I do take
Thy signs auspiciously, and in thy name
To my design march boldly! Let us go!
[Exeunt.]

"Of these lines Lowell said not only that in them Shakespeare expressed the true philosophy of war, but that they were 'as unlike Beaumont and Fletcher as Michelangelo's charcoal head on the wall of the Farnesina is unlike Raffaele.' These and other considerations numberless impel me to condense the whole matter of the authorship of certain scenes of the play to this. If they were not written by Shakespeare, they were written by some one with a skill equal to Shakespeare's at his best."—Literary Digest.

IN SEARCH OF A TREASURE ISLAND

By S. S. Blake, of San Francisco.

The story of yet another hunt for the buried treasure of Cocos Island. The syndicate whose eventful search is here described got hold of an old mariner who asserted that he was the sole survivor of an expedition which dug up the hidden millions and buried them at another island. The romantic story of the hunt for this modern "Treasure Island" and its twelve million pounds of pirate plunder is here set forth.

Twelve million pounds in buried pirate treasure! That's a prize to tempt an ordinary hard-working citizen in these prosaic days, especially if he is tempted by the man who has not only fingered the golden hoard, but has actually spent thousands of dollars of it in the joys of living, and who says he can sail straight to it "with his eyes shut."

It is an alluring tale, too—a tale of the loot of Spanish cities, of a shipload of plunder, of quarrelling freebooters, of scuttled Australian specie-ships, a poisoned crew, and a fight among the three surviving men till only one was left.

Anyhow, a round dozen of hard-headed American business men listened to the story, and so impressed were they by it that they outfitted a vessel for the narrator, Captain Brown, to go to the South Seas and dig up the plunder. The adventures have just returned to San Francisco—without the treasure—but with a narrative that outstrips anything of its kind since Morgan, Captain Kidd, and others of their kind ravaged the Spanish Main.

The tale of the buried treasure on Cocos Island is an old one, but Brown's version differs in many points from others. For one thing, he claims to have been present when the chests of gold were dug up by a successful search-party some fifty years ago and secretly transplanted to another island. This part of Brown's story was carefully investigated by the San Franciscans, and it was found that such an expedition as he described did actually touch at certain Central American ports, leaving in search of a buried treasure. Nothing more was ever heard of it; and Brown, the sole survivor, in an uncanny tale, tells the reason why.

The whole of Brown's story was carefully checked by the cautious business men before they advanced the money to back up the venture; whenever the tale touched on facts, or persons, or records that could be got at, they carefully verified his statements. All their inquiry agents sent in favorable reports with one exception; the report on Brown's character stated that he had led a "tough life at sea." Brown's own story frankly confessed as much, and the inquiries readily agreed that his story could not be true unless he had led that kind of life.

There seems to be no doubt of the fact that some ten million pounds in treasure was buried on Cocos Island. The men who investigated Brown's story all reported it a "matter of history," and even the unimaginative British Government has sent several expeditions to find it.

According to one story, a gang of pirates in 1822 looted a number of rich churches and haciendas in Peru. They loaded their plunder on the schooner Black Witch, Captain Schmid, and sailed for Cocos Island, some four hundred and eighty miles southwest of Panama. Here they buried their loot and sailed away on another black-flag expedition. A storm arose, the vessel was wrecked, and only a few of the crew escaped. Among them was the captain, who was so battered by the hardships that he barely managed to reach his home at New Bedford, where he died. However, he lived long enough to tell his son where the treasure was buried.

Now enters Captain Brown. Some years after the pirate captain's death, James Brown, then about nineteen years old, drifted into Kingston, Jamaica. Captain Schmid, son of the ex-pirate, was there, busy outfitting a schooner for a long sea voyage. Brown succeeded in getting a job to help him. In course of time the two young men became close friends, and at last Brown was let into the secret that the object of the voyage was to lift a pirate treasure! Would he go along? Of course he would; and he signed on forthwith to sail as mate.

According to Brown the expedition found the ten million pounds in plunder buried just as old Captain Schmid had described. To obviate the risk of any other survivor of the original crew having disclosed the location of the treasure, the lucky finders decided to remove it to another hiding-place. Forthwith they loaded the plunder on their schooner and sailed far away to another island, uninhabited and desolate, where it was again carefully buried.

And now comes a chapter which smacks of those wild days when the bodies of villainous pirates hung from every gallows-tree on the Dry Tortugas. The sight of the enormous treasure they had just transplanted so fired the greed and devilry of those engaged that forthwith they banded themselves together under blood-curdling oaths to embark in pirate raids themselves.

At that time, be it remembered, the broad Pacific was dotted with Californian and Australian specie-ships, bound round the Horn with gold dust from the mines. Brown tells how these pirates of the fifties ventured forth in search of prey, and by treachery and guile succeeded in capturing three gold-laden vessels, yielding some two million pounds in plunder. All this spoil was carried to their island retreat and cached beside the original ten million pounds, so that it was not twelve million pounds in treasure! The secret of the abiding-place of this fabulous wealth was held by some thirty cut-throats. Is it any wonder that Brown's story thereafter contains nothing but treachery, crime, and bloodshed?

The last prize captured yielded over one million pounds, and with this enormous haul the pirates returned to their island. In the jubilation which followed rum ran freely. During the orgy, however, a number of the freebooters still on the vessel collapsed in the throes of death—poisoned! The drunken, half-crazed ruffians glared threateningly at one another, ready to spring at each other's throats. "Treachery!" shouted someone. "The quarter-deck is after our share, mates."

That gave direction to the leashed passions, and pandemonium broke loose. In the midst of the shooting and stabbing a lamp was smashed, and in a trice the flames ran racing up the hangings. Not a hand stopped in its death-dealing work to check them, and when daylight cut through the curling smoke the schooner lay a smouldering wreck on the beach and only three survivors looked down upon the awful scene—the captain, Brown, and the steward.

There was only one means of escape for the survivors, and that was the long-boat, which had been shelved on the beach. She was loaded with what remained of the provisions on shore, some sixty thousand pounds of the treasure was dumped into her, and the three adventurers pushed off for Australia, the nearest land.

What followed would form the basis of one of the most thrilling melodramas ever written. Of course, no one knows what really happened in that little cockle-shell dipping over the waters of the broad Pacific. Only Brown is alive to tell the tale, and he won't say much. The few sentences he grudgingly yields have to do with lessening food and scant water, with gradually increasing fever and beckoning madness.

So naturally enough came the day, the black day, when two were killed and only one survived. Brown refuses to talk about it, but under the pressing questions of the members of the syndicate, who insisted on knowing the whole of his story before they would embark in the treasure-hunt, he stated that the captain, crazed with suffering, killed the steward and then turned on him, whereupon Brown shot him in self-defence. He was then alone in the boat, and sole owner of the twelve millions of treasure.

Brown eked out the biscuits and few spoonfuls of water, and thus managed to prolong his waning life and to reach the Australian coast. There he buried all but a pocketful of the three hundred thousand dollars he had brought from the island, and made into the interior, where he obtained work in a mine. Later on he embarked in sheep-raising. From time to time he drew judiciously on his buried treasure and invested the money in business, till finally he was accounted a very successful speculator, with a good round sum at his command. He took advantage of this reputation to dig up the rest of his hoard and sail for his home in Providence, Rhode Island, where for years he continued to live in good circumstances.

The tale that swept away the remnants of Brown's sixty thousand pounds of pirate loot came up during the prelude to the late Spanish-American War. With his filibustering blood aflame at the glowing prospects offered at that time in the Antilles, the old sea-rover, with others, invested all his remaining money in outfitting two privateers. The U. S. Government did the rest by confiscating the vessels. The members of the treasure-hunt syndicate satisfied themselves that Brown had somehow got together a round sum of money in Australia, had lived in comfort thereafter, and that it was on record that he invested in two privateers confiscated by the Government.

In this financial distress Brown now, for the first time, told of his connection with the buried pirate treasure and the way he and his fellows had transplanted it. Several Eastern men of means became interested. They investigated his yarn, and were so favorably impressed that they subscribed the money the old sea-rover required to "lift" the plunder. Brown and several others came on to San Francisco to push the adventure. He frankly told those interested that he didn't expect any "advance" or wages, but would be fully satisfied if they gave him one-quarter of the treasure recovered. [They promised cheerfully.]

In preparing for the trip Brown demanded a certain kind of schooner, with special fittings. The Eastern men's representatives declared that their specifications called for regulation fittings, and they flatly refused to sanction any others. Brown declined to go ahead unless his ideas were followed, and so the representatives turned their backs on the scheme and went home. G. W. Sutton, a well-to-do New Yorker, with a home in New Rochelle, remained behind. He had enough confidence left to wait awhile to see if another chance to lift the treasure would not develop. He wanted to be in it.

Then Brown fell ill. He is a big, raw-boned man, seventy-four years old, "full of tropic fevers" that bring him to bed periodically.

Living in the same hotel where Brown was ill with his "fever spell" was Dr. George J. Luce, a physician of reputation and means. It transpired that both men belonged to the same big fraternal organization, and they very quickly became acquainted. During their talks the old sea-rover told of the business that brought him to the coast. Dr. Luce became interested. Later he recounted the story to a number of his friends, and after careful investigation the nucleus of another company to go after the treasure was formed.

The new list of treasure-hunters included such well-known San Franciscans as Judge W. R. Dainoff, Dr. George J. Luce, Attorney Daniel Stoney and John Chetwood, and Ogden Hoffman, a prominent club-man related to the late Judge Hoffman, of the United States District Court. Several merchants also subscribed their quota, with the cautious proviso that under no circumstances were their names to be divulged.

G. W. Sutton, who had been in the original company, also joined. Brown took a trip East while the others were getting things in shape. As before, he did not ask for bonus or salary; all he asked was a percentage of whatever was recovered. Before he left the subscribers interrogated him carefully to assure and reassure themselves that there was no flaw in his story.

The new Cocos Island Treasure-Hunting Expedition did its very best to start on a "sure thing" basis. Attorney A. E. Warrent, of New York, was instructed to thoroughly investigate Brown and his story. In order to trip the sailor-man, the lawyer primed himself with facts gathered from newspapers dated fifty years back, facts which Brown must have been acquainted with had he lived the life he claimed; he also talked with people familiar with the ports and coasts Brown said he had visited. With this armful of data the attorney cross-questioned the old sea-rover, but Brown passed the ordeal safely, and Lawyer Warrent sent back his report accordingly. But the hard-headed business men in the company still demanded more assurance. So George Sutton was deputed to put the captain through the mill again with a view to wringing some conflicting statement from him. Again Sutton catechized him, and again the report came back that the story seemed straight.

Then a singular coincidence happened which, in a manner, clinched the whole business. In looking about for clues regarding the buried treasure the investigators stumbled on a stranger just back from Cocos Island. He showed a fistful of old Peruvian coins, and his story was to the effect that he had been spending his money and time digging at Cocos Island in search of the treasure. He had dug over all the west portion of the island and had found this fistful of Peruvian coins scattered about. The pieces were of the period before 1820, old and discolored but still recognizable, and they resembled the few coins that Brown was still preserving as mementoes of his connection with the buried treasure. The stranger said that he had come to San Francisco to raise money to continue his search on the east side of the island. He offered his services to the new company, but they were not

TO MEN WHO ARE WEAK!

This is a message to men. It is to men who want to feel like men, to look like men and act like men. This is to men who lack courage, whose nerves are shaken, whose brains are muddled, ideas confused, sleep restless, confidence gone, spirits low and easily depressed, who are backward, hesitating, unable to venture because they are afraid of failure, who want somebody to decide for them, who are weak, puny, restless. It is to men who have part or all of these symptoms and want new life, new force, new vigor. I offer it to you in my wonderful accepted. They had Brown, and felt safe.

So five thousand pounds was subscribed for the venture, and Captain Brown was given a free hand in the selection and outfitting of a schooner. It was set forth in a contract that he was to receive no pay for his services, but was simply to get twenty-five per cent of all the treasure recovered. This contract was duly signed and sealed, and given into the custody of a prominent San Francisco bank.

A year ago last July the expedition sailed through the Golden Gate, bound for the South Seas. Ogden Hoffman was on board as the representative of the vessel's owners; Frank Luce, George Sutton, and Attorney Chetwood kept watch for the company in general. This vessel, the hundred-ton schooner Herman, carried an up-to-date treasure-digging outfit warranted to "lift" the biggest lot of loot ever stowed away. In addition she carried a complete smelting outfit "to melt down the plate for easy handling, so that no Government can claim it," as Brown suggested. Oddly enough, one of the so-called obstacles that the adventurers now complain of was the sharp way they were watched by representatives of the English and French Governments. Old treasure hunters also kept dogging their course with a view to getting an idea of the location of the new treasure island.

Besides the seven gentlemen on board, the vessel carried a cook, steward, and six strapping sailors, all carefully picked for the business in hand. The eight members of the crew were only permitted to carry clasp-knives and were signed on to obey certain regulations, all pertinent to a treasure-hunting expedition. The captain and cabin passengers were fully armed with weapons of the latest pattern, and their quarters were stoutly fortified against any attempt to capture the treasure.

All these careful preparations showed with what degree of confidence the subscribers viewed the outcome of the expedition, and it must be admitted that the prospect was certainly alluring. The voyage Hawaiiward over the shimmering summer seas passed like a dream. Brown told tales of buried treasures and of the joys of life down South. Everybody was in high spirits.

The trouble began just off Honolulu. They ran into bad weather near that port, and Captain Brown decided to dock the Herman and strengthen her against any stress of weather she might meet in the variable winds farther south.

"Go ahead," said one of the representatives. "Never mind the cost, for I've two hundred pounds in this pocket"—he tapped his coat—"and an order for as much more on a firm to pay for any bills we run up here."

On this assurance Brown beached the vessel and everybody went ashore to have a good time while the repairs were under way. When pay day came, however, the locker yielded only twelve pounds to defray the outstanding demands. The schooner was promptly labelled. When the storm of wrath broke.

Brown declared he was placed in an embarrassing position. Everybody on shore knew he was the captain, and that he was piloting the expedition to lift an enormous treasure, and here the whole outfit was held up for a few pounds. Everybody he met in the street was laughing at him, he said.

Sutton, Chetwood, and Dr. Luce conceded that he had been badly treated, admitted the mishap was most unfortunate, and insisted that it was all due to the bad management of the young man who had been deputed to handle the company's funds. But Brown, though appeased by their excuses and the promises of an early settlement of the trouble, was a changed man from that moment. His pride was badly hurt. All the voyagers agreed on that point. Thereafter he seemed to regard them with suspicion. Later, in a burst of anger, he openly declared that some scheme was afoot to trick him out of his share of the treasure, and that he would father, if yet. Meanwhile two of the party were dispatched back to San Francisco for more funds. On their return the bills were paid and the schooner bore away south.

She made Apia all right, and here again the party got tangled up in a mess which the American Consul had to straighten out. This seems to have completely upset Brown. He declared that the party was haunted, and he insisted that so much time had been lost in these delays that the season was gone, and the only thing to do was to make for Sydney and tie up until calm weather came again. There were bickerings, charges, and counter-charges on all hands, and at last the vessel was headed for Sydney.

Here Brown, who now seemed to have given up all idea of piloting them to his treasure island, gave himself up entirely to enjoyment ashore. By some oversight, according to Chetwood, the title of the vessel had been placed in Brown's name, and one day the voyagers discovered to their dismay that he was trying to sell her. They promptly deprived him of the captaincy and placed Sutton in command, so that when the schooner put to sea again Brown went along as supercargo. The adventurers bore away toward Tahiti. On the voyage Brown was taken down with one of his "fever spells," and for his safety they had to put in at Tongarewa or Penrhyn Island.

And now followed a period which seems to have completely shattered the exhausted nerves of the luckless treasure-hunters. The voyagers were divided in opinion, and their tempers—either because of the sweltering tropic heat, the uncertainty of the venture, the eccentricities of Brown, or the beckoning visions of such an immense treasure—suffered proportionately.

In the height of fever Brown raved about his old messmates and the ghost-guarded treasure-chests. Plainly in his delirium he saw the savage crew, with drawn cutlasses and ready carbines, at bay on the island, defying mortal man to lift the plunder.

"There's a curse on it!" he shrieked. "There's a curse on it! Haven't they killed every man who tried to get it?"

They quieted the fever-racked man as best they could, and when he was better he solemnly said: "You're liable to go crazy, plumb crazy, when you see such a pile of treasure. I have seen men go crazy at the sight of it, and I know. First and last there's always been a curse on it, and there always will be."

To further heighten the nervous strain of the situation one of the voyagers, in rummaging about, discovered, secreted away, a lot of arsenic, strychnine, and rat poison—"enough," as he put it, "to kill a whole regiment of soldiers." He showed it to the others, but one and all denied bringing it on board. Suddenly there flashed across their minds Brown's story of the poisoning of the pirate crew, and he was charged with bringing the poison on board, but stoutly denied it.

Finally, the deadly stuff was locked up in Dr. Luce's medicine-chest for safe keeping. A few nights later the medicine-chest was broken open and the poison abstracted! Who took it, and for what purpose? Questions like these only added to the hair-raising, nerve-wrecking situations which encompassed the bewildered little vessel.

And so the voyagers swung about, all at sixes and sevens, continually badgering Brown the while to give them the location of the island. But he steadfastly refused. Then, in desperation, they put into Apia, sold the schooner for sixteen hundred pounds, and all of them came back to San Francisco on one of the Pacific liners. Messrs. Sutton, Chetwood, and Luce were so exasperated that they prevailed upon the captain of the vessel to hold Brown a prisoner in his cabin. Once on land they asked the United States authorities to take up the case, but there was nothing on which Brown could be held, and several days later the old sea rover left for his home in Providence, R. I.

After the voyage Sutton, who eventually succeeded to whatever trust Brown finally reposed in his fellow-voyagers, said: "We started on the trip with every confidence, but we ended in the air. After we left Honolulu we wanted Brown to take us direct to the treasure, but he always had some excuse, quarrelling with us continually. I firmly believe the treasure is out there somewhere. But does Brown know its location? That's the uncertain point. He was given every chance to take us to it and failed. That settled his claim, to my mind."

Chetwood said: "What came over Brown in the South Seas I don't know. Before we reached Honolulu he seemed all right, and after that all wrong. I kept studying over the whole matter while we were in the doldrums, and then I went to him with the two following propositions:

"Proposition 1.—Your contract with us for a quarter share of the treasure is locked up in a San Francisco bank, and amply protects your portion of all the treasure you may unearth. Your claim, therefore, that we may cheat you is baseless, and is useless as an excuse for not taking us to the island."

"Proposition 2.—You say you are afraid of the curse and the ghosts hanging about the treasure. Now, I propose that you give us the location of this island, its longitude and latitude, and then remain here in Tahiti, where you will be safe and well cared for at our expense. We will sail to the island, defy the ghosts, lift all the treasure we may find, and take it to San Francisco, where we will land it as quietly as possible and then send for you."

"Brown wouldn't listen to these propositions. That settled him with me." Brown, interviewed concerning the voyage, spoke as follows: "This treasure's a big thing," he said, "and experience has taught me that I have got to protect myself in it. Since the very first day that plunder was raised there's been nothing but plotting, fighting, and blood-letting over it. It's cursed for sure. Everytime I have seen it, or tried to get at it, I've butted into no end of trouble—and all kinds of trouble. That's why I'm so dead sure that the ghosts of all the people who have ever had a hand in it are still fighting over it and ready to bring misfortune upon everybody—that comes nigh it."

"Why shouldn't I be suspicious of the passengers on this last trip after the way they acted at Honolulu? They chip in a few thousands to get millions and fall down on paying a few small bills. They talk about its being a gamble; it's a cinch (certainty). 'If it wasn't, do you suppose I'd go in on the lay of getting nothing but a quarter share of the treasure? No, sir, I'd be playing for fair wages, or big expenses at least.'"

"Then Luce and the rest acted as if they were risking everything and I nothing. Wasn't I, though? Mind, this treasure's all I have got in sight. I'm too old to follow the sea now; I'm broke, and I'm getting along in life. This is my last play to get enough plunder to keep me going in my old age. If I'm tricked out of it I'm done for good and all—and that's why I'm suspicious. Maybe it's my past experience. Maybe it's because I was always mixed up with such rough hands in this treasure business. Anyway, I've got suspicions—bad—and I can't shake 'em off. I ain't going to be tricked out of my share of the plunder when it's dug up this time—not much! On the Herman, this last voyage, there were lawyer sharks and other kinds of sharks. They all talked fair and above-board, maybe; but—well, a shark's a shark in whatever water you find him. No, sir, next time I go after that treasure—and I am going—it'll be with a crowd that means business, and I'll have a guarantee that everything's ship-shape and battened down fast before we make sail."—Wide World Magazine.

AMERICA MARU IN PORT AGAIN

With her war-paint off and again a peaceful passenger liner, the Toyo Kisen Kaisha steamship America Maru came into port yesterday morning at an early hour and docked at the Hackfeld wharf, where she is discharging 2,000 tons of freight for Honolulu.

The America Maru was the only vessel of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha line that did not get in active war service. The vessel, however, was stripped of her furnishings and was being made over into a cruiser with her sister ships the Nippon Maru and Hongkong Maru, when an order came to cease work. This order was made when it was found that the Russian fleet had been put hors de combat.

Then came a tug-of-war between the Navy and Army departments. The Navy Department wished to keep the vessel in readiness for any contingency that might arise, and the army wanted the vessel badly as a troopship. Between the two, the company managed to get the vessel back, and immediately refitted her to resume her run to San Francisco.

The furnishings were re-installed and without waiting to put on all the fancy work that had been her glory in pre-war times, the America Maru took in a big cargo and such officers and crew that could be obtained, and started for Honolulu.

The result of the laying-up of the vessel is shown in a sort of woe-begone appearance of the varnish and paint, especially in the interior. Many of the pier-glasses have had their usefulness destroyed by too much sunlight, and there is yet need of considerable burnishing.

The vessel formerly carried Chinese for the diningroom and staterooms, but owing to her starting direct from Yokohama this trip, Japanese were taken on. Captain Green of the Nippon Maru was given command, D. Mori, first officer and Purser C. Lacy Goodrich also of the Nippon Maru, joined him. B. H. Stanley-Aylward, the surgeon, came to Yokohama as surgeon for the two warships brought out from Italy, and T. R. Morgan is making his first trip as freight clerk. Charles Thomson, engineer, occupies his old berth.

The America Maru left Yokohama on April 7 and came direct to Honolulu without making a detour, there being no danger felt from Russian sources. Purser Goodrich supplies the following account of the trip:

Left Yokohama April 7 at 4:30 p. m. and from thence to April 10 had light winds and moderate seas. On April 10 at 8 p. m. experienced heavy gale of wind, shifting round from north, N. N. E. and N. N. W. with a high beam sea. The ship rolled heavily and shipped much water. This gale continued up to and throughout April 12. From April 14 to arrival the vessel experienced a strong N. E. and E. N. E. breeze with heavy squalls and seas. Passage 10 days, 3 hours, 22 minutes. Passengers: 301 steerage for Honolulu, 51 cabin and 100 steerage for San Francisco. Freight: For Honolulu, 41,289 packages—2090 tons.

The ship took her initial departure from Kobe (April 4) omitting Hongkong, Shanghai and Nagasaki.

Among the passengers aboard the America Maru are some distinguished Japanese officials. They are Viscount N. Matsudaira, member of Peers; Mr. Djo Kawamura, Director of Civil and Criminal Bureau, Department of Justice; Mr. K. Kanokogi, Chief of Communication Bureau, Formosa; Mr. T. Yamaguchi, representing Committee of Japan Tea Exporters; Mr. K. Iwaya.

The vessel is scheduled to depart for San Francisco at 9 o'clock this morning.

SHIP LUZON HAS INTERESTING RECORD

The American ship Luzon, Captain Park, arrived in port yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock from Newcastle, sixty-six days out. She brought 1960 tons of coal to order and is docked at the Railway wharf.

For twenty days the Luzon experienced easterly winds off the north end of New Zealand. In this same blow the ship Emily F. Whitney was damaged.

The Luzon has a unique interest to Hawaii, as she was the last vessel in June, 1900, to receive upon her clearance papers the Hawaiian stamp, and the signature of the American consul for Honolulu. The vessel sailed the day before Hawaii became a Territory, and on the day this honor was conferred upon the islands, the vessel arrived at Kahului and there registered as the first vessel under the American shipping laws.

FILMER AND GOING ARE ON TRANSPORTS

Captain Filmer, formerly of the steamship Hongkong Maru, is now in command of the big steamship Manchuria Maru, recently purchased by the Toyo Kisen Kaisha company for use in cargo trade on Oriental waters. The big ship carries nearly 4,000 troops and is now engaged in transport work. Captain Filmer was arrested and held a prisoner for twenty-four hours on his first entry into Yokohama with the Manchuria Maru, having failed to hoist his number or to conform to the strict harbor regulations imposed by the Japanese government.

Captain Going, formerly of the Nippon Maru, is also a transport steamer captain.

BKT. EDWARD MAY LOADING SUGAR

Purser Friel of the steamer W. G. Hall reports:

"Steamer Mikahala at Waimea loading sugar. She has 1000 bags aboard. Will take a full load of K. S. M. sugar. Bkt. Ed May at Makaweli loading sugar; has 5000 bags aboard. Bkt. Hawaii at Elele discharging coal; 900 tons discharged.

"Gasoline schooner Eclipse at Anahola weatherbound, and only part of her freight was discharged when they had to stop work, owing to rough weather."

Shipping Notes

The Claudine brought the following cargo: 100 sacks corn, 158 sacks paila, 50 hogs, 43 packages hides, 142 packages sundries.

The following sugar is reported on Kauai ready for shipment: K. S. M., 4900 bags; V. K., 400; M. A. K., 7000; G. & R., 3250; M. C. B., 24000; K. P., 50; B., 4850; G. F., 1537; H. M., 7400.

SHALL WE DISPUTE

The Opinions of Scores of Our Fellow Citizens.

Residents of Honolulu, like other American citizens, in making an investment want to be sure of getting the worth of their money. They want to know all the whys and wherefores, and a direct ratio to the value of the investment they burrow and ferret until satisfied with the collateral. Take an instance in the realm of proprietary articles. If we know of a friend who has been cured we have some faith in the preparation; if we know of two or three our faith increases. If the cures reach scores all well known citizens, anyone who still maintains that there is nothing beyond ordinary merit in the said preparation, can safely be left to the care of his fellow tax-payers. If he wishes to pick a quarrel with them on the question of their judgment and veracity, he has ample opportunity in Honolulu to do so. Begin with this case.

Mr. H. H. Smythe, of Inter-Island S. S. Co., this city, writes to tell us that he was afflicted with a lame back for a number of years. "Ascribing the cause of this to the kidneys and hearing about Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, I got some of them at the Hollister Drug Co.'s store. They relieved me so much that I am perfectly satisfied with the result of having taken them, and can recommend the pills to others, suffering from backache."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are becoming popular in Honolulu because they are always endorsed by Honolulu people.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box (six boxes for $2.50) or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

C. B. WILSON ON THE LAST NATIONAL CONVENTION

Honolulu, April 15.
Editor Advertiser:

As the Territorial convention is about to convene for the purpose of electing delegates to represent the Territory of Hawaii at the coming Presidential nominating convention of the National Republican party, to be held in Chicago during June, 1904; and in order to give the members of the Territorial convention some idea of the wishes and preferences of the American people on the mainland, and of what they will expect and hope to see in the personnel of the delegates sent to the convention, I feel that it will not be amiss nor inappropriate at this moment to give some important facts relative to what was our experience and observations during the trip and while attending the Republican convention in the city of Philadelphia, in June, 1900, to which convention I had the honor and good fortune to be an alternate and member of the Republican delegation from this Territory, with Colonel Samuel Parker as our standard bearer, leaving here early in the month of June, 1900.

After a run over of about twelve days we arrived in Philadelphia, and made our headquarters at the "Wharton," in a suite of rooms on the second story, at which hotel we found later, that the Executive committee of the Republican National party also had its headquarters on the tenth story.

On the evening of our arrival the news received by us was the rumor that the Executive committee had decided not to allow the delegates from Hawaii to seats as members of the convention. This piece of news was not very encouraging, after traveling with little or no rest, about 6000 miles in order to be there on time.

On the receipt of this unwelcome news, the Hon. H. M. Sewall, who accompanied us on the trip from Honolulu, went out with Col. Parker to ascertain the truth of the rumor, only to return later without finding out anything as to our situation for the morning, as the convention was liable to meet the next day. However, we were relieved of our embarrassment somewhat, when a gentleman came in and introduced himself, by handing me a card, as Colonel Dick, now General Dick, who is now at the head of the party, but was then secretary of the Executive committee of the National Republican party. He called on the delegation, as he stated, to make enquiries as to our status and more particularly to know how many members of the delegation from Hawaii were native Hawaiians, and also to inform the delegation that the Executive committee had received a telegram from President McKinley, to the effect that it was the desire of the President that the Hawaiian members of the delegation should be received by the National committee and be allowed to take seats as members of the National Republican convention.

I being the only member of the delegation at headquarters at the time, furnished the required information. The other members of our delegation had gone out with H. M. Sewall in search of the Hon. Joseph Manley of Maine, who was a member of the Executive committee, for definite information as to the rumor and to our status under the circumstances.

When General Dick called again, he informed us that the request of the President had been acceded to by the committee, and that Col. S. Parker and A. N. Kepoikak as delegates, and R. Rycroft and the writer of this as alternates, were to represent the Territory of Hawaii at the convention. Passes and other details would be arranged later by the committee, which was done. Although other members elected to the delegation were on the mainland at the time, W. R. Castle being with us at our quarters, was the only other member who attended the convention, we all felt at the time that Mr. Castle should have been admitted as a member of the convention, he being a native son of Hawaii. As we had no voice in the matter, we had to be satisfied in faring as well as we did. The delegation fully recognized that to outlive and most lamented President, Wm. McKinley, we owe our deepest gratitude for our admission as members of that body—as I would rather say, the greatest, the grandest and the most popular of American political gatherings.

This action of the President in our treatment was also unanimously backed up by the American people as was shown in the manner the glad hand of good fellowship which was extended us by peoples of every city and township visited during our trip. We found from personal intercourse with the American people of all classes, and it was the universal opinion expressed, that the newly-acquired Territory of Hawaii should be represented at all national functions on the mainland by native Hawaiians, or people of the Territory born of American or foreign parentage, and discouraging the idea of sending people there to represent the Territory not born of the soil, especially to a presidential nominating convention. The reasons given were that it would give the American people an opportunity to have intercourse with the Islanders, to meet them and see for themselves, as it was in our case, the kind and class of people that the administration had taken into their fold and made them a member of the one great family and also endowed them with all the rights and privileges of an American citizen; also giving the Islanders golden opportunities to see and to judge for themselves of the kind of treatment they had received, and also it enables them when they return to their Island home and people, that they can tell them of that vast country the greatness of the American state, of the people and of its institutions, the sincerity of the American people and of the Republican administration, in their endeavors for the reconciliation of our Island people.

In the above as given is a statement in substance made to our delegation at various times by President McKinley, and by senators, congressmen, city officials and others of the American public in general, without an exception: as I previously mentioned, it was the universal expression of opinion, "That the Territory of Hawaii should be represented at all national functions on the mainland by the native sons of Hawaii," which, of course, as I understand it in its broad sense, to include those born here of American or of foreign parentage. Whether the American people on the mainland are of the same opinion today or not, I am not in a position to know, but I do not think, nor can I believe, that the American people are so fickle as to change a policy (as I call it) outlined by its chief executive not quite four years ago, backed up by his political party organization at the time, and later confirmed it all the more by himself at Canton, Ohio, before a gathering of over 25,000 people, when the President said, "That it is my desire that the peoples of those Islands be given special privileges in the administration of their affairs of government wherein they are capable."

As the above written matter explains for itself the purpose it was intended, it would be needless for me to make any lengthy suggestions than the following, say to the members of the convention for the benefit of the party:

Endeavor to meet the wishes of the American people by meeting it half way, if not all of the way.

Do not let the affairs of party and state be set aside for personal gain and ambition.

C. B. WILSON,
Alternate to the Convention of 1900.

PRaise FOR THE LATE MRS. COOKE

The news of the death of Mrs. H. E. Cooke of Oakland came like a shock to her numerous friends here. Though for years her home had been in California, she never lost her hold upon the hearts of those who knew her. To a large and sympathetic circle this news from over the sea brought a profound sadness while to the few intimate friends the "Ways are darkened" with an overwhelming sense of loss.

Mrs. Cooke was rarely gifted socially. Her genial manner, her quick sense of humor, her sympathetic interest in others made her a favorite everywhere, and to those who knew her well she was the delightful companion, and in a marked degree the loyal loving friend. With a nature that was sincerely itself, subtleties could not live in her presence and the atmosphere that surrounded her was clear as crystal. Added to this was the helping hand, and the generous heart.

No one will ever know to what extent Mrs. Cooke lived for others, for in all that she did there was an entire absence of show. She could not pose, but her strong attractive personality impressed itself upon all who knew her and all felt the influence of a noble sunny nature! The world is richer that she lived in it—poorer that she has gone! As the strong, the devout, the human, with whom we have walked side by side leave us, we are grateful that in the words of the poet:

There is no Death, what seems so is transition;
This life of mortal breath
Is but a suburb of the life elysian
Whose portal we call Death."

TEN YEARS FOR EACH

Conspirators Are Sentenced by Little.

Hilo People Say They Are Thankful for Rain.

Plantations Had to Use Water From Flumes—J. A. Smith a Republican.

HILO, April 15.—Judge Little in the Circuit Court on Thursday morning sentenced Funakoshi and Watanabe, who were tried and convicted at this term of court for conspiracy to extort, to ten years imprisonment each.

Thos. C. Ridgway represented the Territory and J. U. Smith appeared as counsel for the defendants. Another indictment is pending against the same Japanese for conspiracy to abduct which will probably now be quashed. These cases grew out of the tragedy which occurred at a Japanese hotel on Front street in July, 1902, when Motohiro, a carpenter was found with his throat cut from ear to ear and for whose murder the same parties are under sentence of 30 years and 25 years respectively. The murder cases are now pending on appeal in the Supreme Court, no decision having been rendered.—Tribune.

REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES.

Aside from a little flurry caused by the sudden rise to power of the Young Men's Republican Club, there was little interest shown in the Republican primaries held last Saturday. It is difficult at any time to arouse sufficient interest in the stay-at-home voter to attend and vote at primaries, and outside of Hilo where there was an attempt to create a rivalry in republican leadership, there was not even the appearance of a contest. The Young Men's Republican Club was perfectly organized and every member stood by the "slate" agreed upon at the caucus the night before. The result demonstrated the effectiveness of unified organization and the Smith wing of the party rode into power on the tide of the younger Hawaiian vote. The delegates chosen are all capable men and can be relied upon to represent the wishes of the party in the Convention to be held in Honolulu next Monday.—Tribune.

SMITH A REPUBLICAN.

I do hereby pledge myself to uphold and support the traditions and policies of the Republican party and announce my unswerving allegiance to the principles of that party and shall uphold and support all regular republican.

YOU WILL NOT

be deceived. That there are cheats and frauds in plenty everybody knows; but it is seldom or never that any large business house is guilty of them, no matter what line of trade it follows. There can be no permanent success of any kind based on dishonesty or deception. There never was, and never will be. The men who try that are simply fools and soon come to grief, as they deserve. Now many persons are, nevertheless, afraid to buy certain advertised articles lest they be humbugged and deluded; especially are they slow to place confidence in published statements of the merits of medicines. The effective modern remedy known as WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION is as safe and genuine an article to purchase as flour, silk or cotton goods from the mills of manufacturers with a world-wide reputation. We could not afford to exaggerate its qualities or misrepresent it in the least; and it is not necessary. It is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry; and how valuable such a blending of these important medicinal agents must be to plain everybody. It is beyond price in Insomnia, Anemia, Weakness and lack of Nervous Tone, Poor Digestion, Lung Troubles and Blood Impurities. Science can furnish nothing better—perhaps nothing so good. Dr. W. H. Dalfé, of Canada, says: "I have used it in my practice and take pleasure in recommending it as a valuable tonic and reconstructive." It is a remedy that can afford to appeal to its record and represents the science and knowledge of bright and aggressive medical investigation. "One bottle convinces." At chemists.

lian nominees, and shall uphold the constitution of the same, striving to do whatever else may be necessary to perpetuate upon our soil, "A government of the people, for the people and by the people."

II.
That I will not sign any petition in behalf of or recommending for nomination any person as an independent candidate for any office for which candidates would be or shall have been nominated at any such convention.
(Signed) J. U. SMITH.

The above is a copy of the pledge required to be signed by all persons voting at the republican primaries last Saturday, together with the name of a prominent citizen who subscribed to the same.—Tribune.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. McKenney again said farewell to their friends at an assembly given in their honor by the Hilo Elks at Elks' Hall Tuesday evening. The hall was decorated with flags of various nations and bamboo. The weather conditions were anything but favorable to an assembly of any sort, but among the large number of guests there was no regret for the inconvenience occasioned by the downpour. It was the largest affair ever given by the Elks and the success of the evening was jointly due to the regard in which the guests of honor are held by the community and the excellent arrangements of the house committee. Mr. and Mrs. McKenney with Exalted Ruler Richards received the guests at the mauka end of the hall until nine o'clock, when the dancing began. Punch of excellent brew revived the weary and a large bowl of cold consommé gave added vigor for the continuance of the dance.—Herald.

LOST A FINGER.

A very painful accident occurred at the Enterprise Planing Mill last Saturday which resulted in the loss of a finger by Dick Behrens, the cabinet maker. In attempting to remove some work from the saw table, Behrens permitted his left hand to come in contact with the rapidly revolving circular saw, which he believed had been disconnected. His hand was violently thrown on the rip saw which was going at a high rate of speed and before he could recover himself, the fingers of his left hand were fearfully cut and lacerated. Medical assistance was immediately secured when it was found necessary to amputate one of the fingers. His hand and arm are doing nicely and under all the circumstances he is fortunate in not suffering the loss of his entire hand.

Mr. Behrens attributes the accident to his own carelessness.—Tribune.

THE HILO RAILWAY.

Within two months the terminus of the Hilo railway in Olaa will be twenty-two miles. With that reduction in the distance to be covered by carriage to the Volcano the trip may be made with a little more comfort than at present though the hardest part of the journey is beyond twenty-four miles, a section that was almost entirely washed away by a Kona storm early in February. With the large increase in the tourist travel it would seem to be only a matter of decency to the people who are asked to visit the Volcano if this section of the road was improved. In its present condition it is not particularly beneficial to invalids. Three men were at work there last week cutting away the brush from the sides of the road but any improvement other than that was not noticeable. A few weeks ago as many men were sent to twenty-four miles to throw out the stones that had accumulated along the road. Instead of working up where the condition was the worst they worked down where it was not particularly needed. When the road from Honuapo to the Volcano House is completed it is probable that the bulk of the travel to the crater will move that way unless repairs are made to the route from Hilo. This is a matter which directly affects the Wilder's company and it is strange that Mr. Wright has not done something in the way of influencing the department of public works toward having the needed repairs made. Hilo may be able to do something but it will require Herculean efforts to move the powers at the capital. There is only a short distance to be repaired and the sum required is not large.—Herald.

NOTES.

It is said that the Board of Education will soon discontinue its Hilo agency for the sale of school books and that when that takes place teachers and children will be obliged to purchase their supplies, probably from a dealer, in Honolulu at an advance over the present prices. If there is one thing more than another needed to make the public schools on Hawaii more obnoxious than they now are it is a corner in school supplies.

The ship Kenilworth has secured its full crew and will clear today for Delaware Breakwater for orders with a cargo of sugar.

The S. S. Helene which arrived on Monday brought three bags of mail and 150 Japanese laborers for Olaa and 66 for Waialeale plantations.

All the forest fires in this vicinity which have been spreading with alarming rapidity in Hilo and vicinity are quenched by the recent rains.

At a meeting of the Young Men's Republican Club on Tuesday night it was decided to endorse George N. Day for first choice as delegate to the Republican convention at Chicago. J. K. Nahale of Kona was endorsed as alternate.

J. P. Hale has been appointed Lieutenant of police, subject to the endorsement of the Republican committee, vice Chas. Moore, resigned.

The ship Falls of Clyde has been tied up to the railway dock during the past week.

The freight of the Amy Turner is being discharged from lighters at the railway wharf.

John T. Moir had no opposition as a candidate for delegate to the Territorial convention.

Postmaster Madeira has been officially notified that hereafter mail will not be held at San Francisco for the S. S. Enterprise but dispatched by the first steamer to the islands.

W. Ross Campbell, the genial society man about town, leaves today for Honolulu en route to Shanghai, China, where he will look into the business prospects of the country.

At a meeting of the Hilo Cynillon club held last week Doctor J. Holland was elected president. H. L. Shaw, treasurer and Mrs. D. W. Marsh, secretary. There may be one or two more dances before the summer vacation. The following comprise the executive committee: Mrs. E. N. Holmes, Mrs. W. S. McLean, Miss Mocine and E. T. Guard.

Forester Young was a passenger by the kinau arriving yesterday. While here he will lay out the city park and arrange for such trees as will be suitable for the place. Sheriff Andrews has in mind a plan for the removal of the trees on the Bridge street extension in front of the Catholic church to the park.

Phil Dankey at one time connected with the Hilo Hotel writes from Shanghai that the reports of continued Japanese success are likely to be exaggerated. He predicts a change in the fortunes of war in the far east and advises the public to look out for surprises.

The filling in, and grading of Bridge street, was a laudable piece of work and received the heartiest commendations; but to open Bridge street and thereby close King is not an evidence of clearheadedness on the part of a supposedly intelligent Road Board.

The Hawaii Mill is now running full blast, and since the installation of the two and three roller mills is turning out a fine grade of juice. The cane cut is of a fine healthy variety and the output of sugar for the season will be materially increased.

Mr. C. C. Kennedy, in tightening a steam valve at Waialeale Mill last Tuesday, jammed his hand between the end of a wrench and a hot steam pipe, suffering a severe burn.

The tug "Councilman" of the Matson Line has been refitted with new boilers and received a thorough overhauling. She is now ready to resume operations towing vessels in and out of the bay.

The much needed rain was a welcome relief to those in Hilo and vicinity relying on tanks for their water supply. Many of the plantation camps had to resort to water taken from the flumes.

Rev. Edward Bates Turner, for many years in charge of the Kohala Union church and Secretary of the Board of Managers of the Kohala Seminary, has resigned his pastorate and will leave soon for the coast.

Planters are jubilant over the fact that the rain appears to have come to stay and cane planting throughout the district is being pushed vigorously. Rose bamboo does not appear to be so much of a favorite as heretofore—yellow Caledonia taking its place.

The smallest coin in the world having a genuine circulation is probably the Maltese "grain," a tiny fragment of bronze about as big around as the top of a slate pencil, and worth only one-twentieth of a penny.

Rescued from Suffering and Death by PAINE'S Celery Compound THE GREAT MEDICINE.

MR. ALFRED BROWN,
A Prominent and Popular Citizen, Says:
"After the Use of Paine's Celery Compound, I Am Now in the Best of Health."

The greatest of modern physicians, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., after years of long practice and close scientific study, gave to suffering and diseased men and women his marvelous, life giving prescription, with the conviction and positive knowledge that it had peculiar virtues and ample powers to cure.

Thousands of the strongest testimonials from the best known and most reliable men and women of our country fully sustain the claims made by Dr. Phelps regarding his incomparable Paine's Celery Compound.

One of the most convincing proofs furnished, comes recently from a gentleman widely known in the capital city of the Dominion of Canada. We refer to Mr. Alfred Brown, 91 O'Connor St., Ottawa, Ont. Mr. Brown's letter fully demonstrates the fact that the greatest sufferer may cast off his or her burden of disease and become well, strong, and happy. It proves, too, that the great medicine maintains more fully than ever before its unrivaled place in the estimation of people of wealth and social standing as well as with the masses.

"I acknowledge with thankfulness and pleasure the fact that I have been cured of a very painful illness of eight years' standing by use of Paine's Celery Compound. I had, during the years of my illness, tried almost all the advertised medicines without deriving any good results. I was also treated by several of the best doctors of this city, hoping to find that one of them, at least, would understand my case.

"I was getting worse, and was told I was incurable. I was indeed in a critical condition. I could not go from the house alone, as I was liable to sudden collapse. I tried hospital treatment, but no relief or good results came to me. I could not sleep; anything that I ate increased my agonies; I was extremely weak, restless, tired, and despondent; was obliged to walk about with my hands pressed firmly into my left side to ease my pains; my feet and hands were cold continually; had inclination to vomit, had profuse, cold sweats, quick breathing, and would be racked with pain for hours at a time.

"After the regular use of Paine's Celery Compound for a time, I am now in the best of health, have good appetite, and can use any kind of food. Thank God I am my old self once more, all through the use of Paine's Celery Compound."

PIRATES HAVE GOOD LOCAL HITS

The Pirates of Penzance hold a scenic and orchestral rehearsal this evening of the first act at the opera house, followed to-morrow by the second act and on Wednesday by a dress rehearsal of the entire opera. Two full orchestral rehearsals have already been held with eminently satisfactory results, and these last few reviews are entirely for polishing purposes.

Considerable time is being spent on local hits, most of which surround the doughty police corps, of which Sonny Cunha is the redoubtable sergeant. Aside from his solos Mr. Webb has an extra number which embraces a timely and popular topic.

Nearly all the principals are new to Honolulu as opera singers, though all have appeared in concert work, and the production will take a fresh interest from this fact. All are young, with fresh, true voices, and under the dramatic tuition they have received and with their own natural ability will reveal much power of stage craft.

The chorus is confidently said by those who have heard it to be far better than any that has yet come before the Honolulu public. The house is practically sold for Thursday night and big raids have already been made on Saturday's plan.

Fourteen young Japanese women are aboard the America Maru en route to the St. Louis Exposition to assist in the serving of tea at the Japanese tea-house. One is a young actress and two are geisha girls.

The Hawaiian Forester and Agriculturist for April has been issued. The entire issue is devoted to a republication of W. L. Hall's report on the "Forests of Hawaii," with editorial comment by Mr. Giffard.

The Kiloheana Art League musicale which was to have been given at the Young Hotel pavilion this evening, has been postponed to next week, Monday evening. The invitations issued will stand for the postponed date.

The party of Japanese officials and other passengers from the America Maru were taken out yesterday afternoon for a drive about the city, and in the evening many of them were entertained by Japanese residents.

The match race between Geraldine and Jennie E. is off for the present, and the forfeit money has been drawn down. They will doubtless try each other's mettle at the Fourth of July races here, however.—Maui News.

The Japanese beetle pest has practically disappeared from Wailuku, and we are fast becoming a city of roses, several magnificent bushes of which are in full bloom in the handsome grounds of the Wailuku hotel.—Maui News.

Mr. George R. Field of the Riedon Iron Works, San Francisco, accompanied by Mr. Gage and Mr. Snyder, was in Wailuku this week looking over the proposition of a new sugar mill for the Wailuku Sugar Co. On Thursday he visited the big mill at Punene, leaving the same evening for Honolulu.—Maui News.

W. C. Wilder received a cablegram last evening from Mrs. Gardner Wilder at San Francisco, stating that herself and her brother and sister, Miss Edith Barnes and Mr. Clayton Barnes, had arrived at San Francisco, and all three would accompany the remains of the late Gardner K. Wilder to Honolulu on the steamship Alameda. The vessel is due to arrive here on April 23.

Chinese residents of this city, numbering seventy, have donated the sum of two hundred nineteen dollars and fifty cents ($219.50) to the Japanese Red Cross Society through Dr. Iga Mori. Among the donors, Messrs. Foo Yet Chong, Pang Lum Mow, Lee Sue Heng, Wong Cheu, Chau Shun, Yee Yip, Sum Yip and Kong Kim will be enrolled as regular members of that Society according to its rules.—Hawaii Shimpoo.

Several attorney-runners are, we are informed, trying to raise funds among Japanese gamblers in this city to be used on behalf of Funakoshi, the convicted murderer of Motohiro. They claim that Funakoshi could be liberated by resorting to a writ of habeas corpus before United States Judge Dole. The murderer is confined in the Hilo jail at present, pending his appeal to the higher Court.—Hawaii Shimpoo.

The adjourned annual business meeting of the Y. M. C. A. members will be held this evening at 7:30. All members should be present.

WILL BID FAREWELL

Two Last Nights of the Nawn Vaudeville
Company.

With tonight and tomorrow night the Nawn Vaudeville company will close their local engagement, leaving on Wednesday for Sydney, where they open their Australian tour.

The farewell program arranged will be found to be eminently satisfactory from the amusement standpoint. Nawn as the "Politician" should be seen by everyone in town who loves a hearty laugh. And "Pete" Baker also is an artist of the class whose visits are few and far between.

The others are excellent in their various lines. The xylophonists, the two Johnsons and their fair coadjutor, cannot be surpassed in their act, while Dorothy Drew and Katherine Dahl are fine entertainers of the songstress order.

The Hiawatha Troubadours produce a lyric novelty of most pleasing effect and the Austin jugglers have been constant favorites since the opening night.

By special request the "Train Robbery" film will be repeated this and tomorrow evening. All those who have not seen the company or enjoyed the present programme should make a point of taking in the show before the performers leave for fresh fields.

During the past week three pool rooms supported entirely by women were raided in New York by the police and much surprise was occasioned by the revelations following. There are hundreds of women in New York who do nothing but follow the races. As a class they are a curious study. Usually they are women past 35 years of age. Once in awhile a girl joins their ranks, but she soon drops out. It seems to be with her nothing more than the satisfactory woman who has just passed so it being of a desire for novelty, while to the comes a serious and steady business.

Yesterday's Kauai steamer brought news of the unveiling of the Isenberg monument at Lihue. The unveiling ceremony was of unusual interest and was followed by a fine luau.

ALL WANT PASSPORTS

Gov. Carter Supplies the Demand From States.

Honolulu is becoming the center of distribution of passports for people in the Western States, who travel toward the Orient nowadays, and the State Department at Washington is being ignored. To get a passport, was formerly a long and tedious proceeding for the people of Hawaii, as it often required months for the proper papers to pass between Honolulu and Washington. For over a year now, authority to issue passports has been vested in the Governor of Hawaii, but it is only lately that the island people have begun to appreciate the advantages of the new law. Since the first of the year, Governor Carter has issued passports for thirty-four different people bound on foreign travel, and the documents are of as much force and effect as if signed by the Secretary of State himself.

Island people are not the only ones to benefit by the new law. Residents of the Western States contemplating travel to the Orient, instead of unwinding the red tape which hedges in the State Department at Washington, call on Governor Carter while the steamer is in port, and secure their passports here. It is not a difficult operation to get the certificate that entitles you to the protection of the American government in your foreign travels. Of course you have to be an American citizen and must swear that you will support the constitution. Then two friends are required to take oath that you are a citizen and that you will be loyal to the government. After that you are required to furnish a description of yourself, age, stature, forehead, eyes, nose, hair, complexion and similar explanatory particulars. To top it all off, you must pay a fee of one dollar which is turned into the United States treasury, and then there is handed you quite a neat, little official document, which entitles you to more things than you ever dreamed of before in the way of assistance from the representatives of the United States in the foreign countries in which you intend to travel.

Most of the passports issued here are given to Chinese citizens, although of the number granted in the last quarter, nearly half were to other nationalities. A number of Californians were given passports, while one Colorado man, and residents of several Pacific coast states took advantage of the new powers bestowed upon the executive heads of the United States insular possessions. One passport was issued to a Japanese, who had citizenship papers given him in Utah, while quite a number of well known Honolulu people were given passports during the past quarter.
