STATUS OF FOREIGNERS.

A tone of resentment pervades Government editorials, whenever foreign interest manifested in national affairs is mentioned. This must be put down as one of those modern mysteries that cannot be solved to the credit of the producing agents. Why the present Cabinet should arrogate a superior position over the foreign element resident here must baffle anybody not an expert in the ways of impudence. The Ministers stand foreign themselves three to one in respect of nativity and extraction. It is only an impertinence, coming from that quarter, to insist that no foreigner should have opinions upon national politics until he has qualified as an elector of the realm. The naturalization process, in either of its different forms, is such that the foreigner desirous of acquiring citizenship has to assume the risk of rejection upon grounds other than not possessing qualifications that would give him respectable standing as a member of the body politic in his own country. This consideration presents a humiliating obstacle to hundreds of foreign residents who would otherwise gladly assume the responsibilities of citizenship in the nation for so long as they live within its borders. It is the nation's loss that so many people reared under progressive institutions are thus debarred from participating in the privileges of self-government. However, we claim for foreigners having a stake in the country the right to hold and express opinions pertaining to the conduct of public affairs. If they have taxation without representation, there is left them the exercise of whatever legitimate influence they may possess in the community, and the free expression of their sentiments, by voice or pen, within proper bounds. As contributors to the national wealth, they have a right to a say in the administration of the public revenues, so far as the individual voice may yield its quota to public opinion. Bearing their share of the public burdens, it is theirs, surely, at least to state their views regarding the degree or manner of the levying of tribute.

From the influence foreign residents may possess to operate upon the powers to which they are subject, it would seem to be very impolitic to have them snubbed by apologists of the Hawaiian Government, for venturing to show concern in the welfare of this country. Most desirable is it for this nation, under the circumstances in which it is placed, to be governed in harmony not only with the highest indigenous and adopted intelligence, but also with the alien product domiciled for longer or shorter periods within the group. By profession the Government has boasted adopted the King's motto, "Increase the Nation." Is it in consonance with the spirit of that sentiment that the numerous class of residents, possessing the highest qualities for citizenship, who are making trial of this kingdom as a place of permanent abode, should be insulted for venturing suggestions upon the conduct of public affairs? Apart from the impolicy of such a line of tactics, it does not lie with the present Cabinet to hold unnaturalized residents in such contempt. The Ministers make no scruples about employing alien writers to set forth their own claims upon national confidence. They are themselves, by a three-fourths majority, less identified with the native race than a great many of the people whose claims to a voice in affairs they affect to despise. It is doubtful if three out of the four members of the Cabinet are not destitute of sufficient patriotic attachment to hold them in the country after their deprivation of office. Scores of people whom they have the audacity, by their spokesmen, to taunt with gratuitous meddling in Hawaiian affairs, are identified much more closely with the progress and development of the nation than themselves. Not a few foreigners who have neglected the national franchise have yet become linked in even closer union with the realm by intermarriage with the native race. Some have invested fortunes in the development of local industries, and liberally bestowed their means upon the civilized institutions of the country, being especially generous to those designed for the elevation of the native race. Is it in the capacity of the present rulers of the kingdom to say that such people as these have no claim to respect for their views upon national politics?

The Government claquers, however, go even further. They assume that the foreign electors opposed to the Government leave out of their calculations all regard for the welfare of the native element; that their own selfish interests are alone sought to be promoted in efforts to overthrow the Ministry. When it is considered that a very large proportion of the foreign electorate is identified with the national life in similar degree to the class of non-voters described above, it must be concluded that the resources of assurance have been bankrupted to produce such a gratuitous insinuation. This conclusion is emphasized by the fact that foreign gold pays the expenses of promulgating those mischievous assertions, designed to poison the minds of natives and simple-minded foreigners against that portion of the population which constitutes the mainstay of Hawaiian civilization, industry, commerce and general national progress.

A. F. & A. M., No. 21.

A SPECIAL Meeting of Hawaiian Lodge No. 21 will be held this evening at 7:30, for the purpose of conferring the Third Degree.

A smoke stack 120 feet long and divided into six sections of 20 feet each was landed from the Lizzie Iredale yesterday for Honolulu plantation.

LOCAL & GENERAL NEWS.

The Post Office time table for inter-island steamers for December is out.

Music at the Yosemite Rink this evening for skating and probably dancing.

The Gleaners meet at Fort Street Church Vestry to-morrow afternoon at 2 1/2 o'clock.

NUCA street foot wears one of the most busy aspects of any thoroughfare in town.

The earthing of the water pipes by Huxtable & Robertson to the rear of the I. I. S. N. Co.'s office is almost finished.

The lamp at the corner of King and Alakea streets is in a sadly demoralized condition—looks like a last year's spring bonnet.

HAWAIIAN Lodge, A. F. & A. M., will have a special meeting at 7:30 this evening, in the third degree, to which visiting brethren will be cordially welcome.

ALTHOUGH gold is at a premium, neither Spreckels nor Bishop & Co. will sell any. Their motive is to prevent the precious metal from leaving the country.

A box of waste paper, the breeze wooing its contents out on the street, stands at the corner of the President of the Board of Health's premises, Merchant street.

SOMEbody says that the chairs of the Chinese Y. M. C. A. are more comfortable than those of the other Y. M. C. A., not because the former institution gives free lodging, however.

A VENERABLE gentleman, in speaking of the cold nights this morning, said that the coolness seemed to increase daily, and in consequence he had either to get married or buy a stove. Being in doubt which to do he consulted his most intimate friend, who without hesitation advised the old gentleman to get a stove.

Messrs. J. M. Oat, Jr., & Co. have received "Hawaiian Volcanoes," by Capt. Clarence Edward Dutton, Ordnance Corps U. S. A., issued by the Government Printing Office, Washington. It will receive extended notice in a future issue. The work is copiously illustrated, beautifully printed and cannot but be eagerly sought after.

Persons living in the neighborhood of Merchant and Richard streets complain of being annoyed every night with various discordant and uproarious noises, making night so hideous up to ten o'clock that people are unable to hear each other even when together. The residents are not only annoyed themselves, but are very greatly distressed at the fact that the police are unable to sleep comfortably in that quarter.

RECOVERY DETECTED.

A case of forgery and theft has just come to light. Two bags of coffee came by the steamer W. G. Hall on Thursday last for McClesney & Son, and a native employed at E. P. Adams & Co.'s somehow or other obtained information of the arrival of the article. He wrote an order for the [same] and gave it to his brother, a prisoner who leaves the prison in the morning in his suit of half and half, and when in town adorns himself with a civilian's dress, in which he goes to work, returning to the prison at night with his prison suit on. This prisoner presented the order to the clerk of the steamer W. G. Hall and received the coffee. He took the stolen goods and sold them to H. May & Co. for $34. The case has been followed up and Messrs. McClesney now have their coffee.

RIVER RIGHTS.

The Waikale river in the district of Ewa has heretofore been an unobstructed passage and a right-of-way. Many small vessels ran up and down the river with freight, while natives in canoes frequently went there to fish. No one ever thought the river would be tabooed to everybody but one man, but such is the case. Several small crafts have already been prevented from entering the river, and the injured parties ask what right has any body to obstruct the entrance of a river that has been a free run for more than 15 years. It is said that the land embracing the stream belongs to the Poor estate, and the river has been tabooed to give the sole monopoly of the stream to Mr. F. Wundenburg. Mr. Wundenburg says that Mr. Henry Poor has leased the stream for ten years for the purpose of propagating fish. He had spent about a thousand dollars in importing salmon trout, and the spawn was doing well until the Chinese rice growers dammed this river, drove their cattle through the stream and started a duck farm of a thousand ducks. Mr. Poor then forbade the use of the stream to anybody, and has begun suit for damages against the Chinese on the banks of Waikale stream. Mr. Wundenburg, hearing that the stream was blocked, went to Mr. Poor yesterday to see about it, when the latter gentleman said he was utterly disgusted with his fish venture and would willingly transfer the lease to Mr. Wundenburg. Whereupon the offer was accepted and the papers are being drawn up as required by law. Mr. Wundenburg says that if he can be benefited by allowing none but his vessels to enter the stream you can rest assured that no other vessels shall enter.

YAU HOK KITUK CHING TO UI.

CHINESE Y. M. C. A.—Mr. F. W. DAMON SOLVING THE CHINESE PROBLEM.—DEDICATION OF THE NEW BUILDING.

The dedication of the new building erected for the purposes of the Chinese Y. M. C. A. took place last evening with exercises appropriate to the occasion. The building stands on the lot in the rear of the Chinese Church, corner of Fort and Beretania streets, and is reached by a wide alley from Beretania. The approach to the building was lit up by strings of lanterns thrown over the alley at intervals, and by several big Chinese lanterns hung about the arched gateway at the street. Lanterns of all colors, shapes and dimensions lit up the areas in the front and rear as well as the rooms, halls and corridors within. The general audience room is in the upper flat, and was filled with chairs to its full capacity and there were very few chairs unoccupied. The platform and walls were elaborately decorated with bouquets, fan palms, ferns, maple, and other Hawaiian flowers and plants. All the decorations were the handiwork of Chinese volunteers, and the artistic genius of the race showed itself with very fine effect. The audience numbered probably about 300 persons, and consisted of Chinese, Hawaiian, American and English friends of the institution. Mr. Goo Kim, President of the association, Mr. To Teng U, preacher in the Chinese church and teacher in the Chinese school, and Rev. C. M. Hyde, D.D., were on the platform with Mr. F. W. Damon who conducted the proceedings. The boys of the Chinese school were present wearing the star and ribbon of their "order." Some are, as yet, very fragmentary specimens of humanity, but even the smallest midgets among them conducted themselves with a decorum that seemed to indicate consciousness of an event of great national importance being about to take place. The boys' share of the programme was to open the proceedings by pronouncing the Lord's Prayer together, in Chinese. The 24th Psalm was read by Mr. Damon, in English and by Mr. To Teng U in Chinese. Four verses of a hymn were sung simultaneously in English, Chinese and Hawaiian, Mr. Damon giving the piano accompaniment. Mr. Damon next read a paper on the origin, aims and present position of the Chinese Y. M. C. A., and was followed by Mr. Goo Kim giving a similar account in Chinese. Next came two verses of Coronation sung in the three languages of the audience, with piano accompaniment. The formal dedication of the building was then read by Dr. Hyde in English and Mr. To Teng U in Chinese. Following is the English version:—

FRIENDS AND BRETHREN:—He, whose Good Spirit put it into the hearts of this Chinese Y. M. C. A. to "arise and build," has now brought us together to unite in the rejoicing over the finished work.

We read, in God's Word, that when the patriarch Jacob was journeying, away from home and friends, he lay down, a wearied traveller, for his night's repose, with only a stone for a pillow and the blue sky of heaven for the canopy of his couch. But in his dreams he saw the sloping hillside opposite transformed into altar stairs, on which were God's angel messengers, ascending and descending on their errand of "peace on earth and good will to men." More than that, this child of God, a solitary, desponding wanderer, heard, then and there, God's own voice of heavenly comfort, and His promise of divine blessing to him and to the nation that should have in that land their ancestral home. Adoring gratitude moved him, on awakening, to mark the scene of such special mercies, by consecrating the stone that had served him for a pillow, and setting it up as a pillar, bearing God's name, to perpetuate the memory of that vision of divine fellowship and sympathy.

So this building, beneath whose roof we are now assembled, into which the members of this Chinese Y. M. C. A. have built not only the silver of their generous gifts, but their spirit of kindly sympathy and their purpose of loving helpfulness, stands—and long may it stand—no unsubstantial dream of the night, but a solid and honorable testimonial of that spirit of brotherly kindness and open-handed liberality, that comes into the darkness of our earthly life, wherever the light of Christian truth blesses the heart of man with its revelation of the fatherhood of God, and its promise of a home of heavenly holiness and blessedness. Here the stranger will be welcomed, the inquirer guided, the ignorant instructed, the penniless sheltered, the sick relieved, the poor assisted, the solitary ones made glad with the assurance of human sympathy and of divine remembrance. In devout recognition of the Holy Spirit, revealed as the comforter, whose office it is to make evident and effectual Christ's life of self-denying and self-sacrificing love for our sinful and suffering humanity, we do now dedicate in Christ's name this building, and all its belongings to the service of God, for the pious uses for which it has been planned and built. May Christ's name be ever honored, and grateful praise be given, by the right use of every apartment and of every convenience here provided. May all of us here present, and all who may enjoy the privileges of this building consecrated to God and humanity, be living stones in the temple of our God. May all have that faith, and hope and love, which give the sure pledge of "a house of God, not made with hands, eternal in the heavens," the mansion prepared for the redeemed soul. And now to the God, who made us, and redeemed us, that we may ever dwell with Him in the fellowship of holy love, be all praise, dominion, and majesty, evermore. Amen.

General Secretary Fuller, of the Honolulu Y. M. C. A., being called on, delivered a short address, Mr. Damon interpreting for the Chinese. A brief and eloquent speech in Hawaiian followed, by Mr. Henry Waterhouse. The following hymn was sung in the three languages by the audience, standing:—

DEDICATION HYMN.

These walls we to Thy honor raise,
Long may they echo with thy praise,
And thou descending fill the place,
With choicest tokens of Thy grace.

Here let the great Redeemer reign
With all the graces of His train,
While power divine His work attends,
To conquer foes and cheer His friends.

And in the great decisive day,
When God the nations shall survey,
May it before the world appear
That crowds were born to glory here.

The hymn ended with the doxology, after which the services were brought to a close by Dr. Hyde pronouncing the benediction. The audience was invited to remain seated and partake of tea and cake provided by the members of the Association, an invitation which was highly honored. The refreshments served were liberal in quantity as well as excellent in quality. About half an hour was very agreeably spent in those social felicities peculiar to the world over to the "cup that cheers but not inebriates," after which the audience dispersed while congratulations could be heard on every hand on the auspicious inauguration of the Yau Hok Kituk Ching To Ui.

EVOLUTION OF THE MANATEE.

A rare specimen of the Manatee, or sea cow, was received at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, recently, from South America. Lecturing upon it, Dr. Wilder said:—"The Manatee is one of the cases in which evolution has produced just the opposite of its usual effect. The Manatee is an animal belonging to a family that has evidently seen better days. I predict that not many years hence there will be found more and more conclusive evidences that the forms from which Manatee and its relatives have been descended had arms and legs and a very much smaller tail. The hind legs have been lost in the process of evolution, the front legs have been degraded into fins, and the tail has become one for swimming instead of for flapping from side to side. The Manatee will be dissected with a view to demonstrate the bearing of its whole structure upon the question of retrograde metamorphosis."

A CENTRAL AMERICAN ALLIANCE.

The New York World, Nov. 12th, says:—"Although the Tripartite Convention between San Salvador, Guatemala and Honduras was signed over a month ago, a copy has not been in possession of the Consul of either republic here until yesterday, when a prominent Salvadorian General just arrived gave them the contents. He reports that it is an extraordinary document, which is likely to agitate the people of those countries. It provides for an alliance, offensive and defensive, and its provisions seek to regulate the internal affairs of the three countries. In his opinion it will greatly retard the scheme of confederation proposed for the three republics named, among other things, it provides for a uniform law regulating civil marriages, and provides that in the event of internal disturbances in any one of the three countries, the troops of the other two are to be brought in to quell them. Should any attempt be made to carry this out, it could not fail, it is said, to create more trouble, if not kindle revolution. The alliance has yet to be ratified by an Assembly of each republic."

PROHIBITION AGAIN REASONED.

BY D. M. CROWLEY.

Is the liquor traffic, as licensed by law, a business which should be encouraged or suppressed? The answer must depend upon an impartial enquiry into the nature of the business and its results upon the general well-being of the people.

The first act to regulate or license the sale of ale in England dates from 1552, and, as we learn from the preamble, was of a restrictive character. It reads: "An act for keepers of ale-houses to be bound in recognizances and giving the justices the power to close ale-houses in such town or towns as they shall think meet and convenient." Evidently the unrestricted sale of ale was not found to be an unmixed benefit three centuries ago, and in the interval down to our own time the British Parliament has enacted and repealed hundreds of laws for the better regulation of the conduct of the ale, and its numerous added "cocktail" relations in the spirit business; and yet it is confessed that a satisfactory solution—that of bringing the business into harmony with the general interests of the people—has not yet been realized. Experience undoubtedly proves that no legislation which permits the existence of this business can prevent it from becoming an injury.

The indictment against the liquor traffic was never so strong as it is to-day. In the United States, especially, an enlightened public opinion is giving force to a movement which threatens its overthrow at no distant date. There are solid causes to account for this movement. The people now realize the fact that for years the liquor interest has been a growing power and a potent factor in politics, a gigantic "Tammany" organized and equipped, and so boasting of its strength as to be a practical menace to the peace and moral order of society. In the United States the two great political parties have been so controlled by the rum power that the temperance question could not get a hearing, and, as might have been foreseen by the bosses, this has led to the formation of a "third party" which has nailed its colors to the mast and on its shield is cut deep these words, "Down with the rum power."

In this kingdom few would suppose the whiskey business sufficiently powerful to control the Privy Council and the Ministry to the extent of treating with silent contempt the petitions of the people most interested—against the threatened extension of the business. This is an act unequalled in our time under any Government disclaiming despotic power, and brings the rum power out into bold relief as the enemy of civil liberty. Were these political meddlings with the proper functions of good government the only charges against the liquor traffic, they would be enough to raise every free man's hand against it, but unfortunately corruption is its product everywhere; moral and physical injury, sorrow and suffering, are the unfailing products of the drink traffic in every walk of life. The working man—in America, especially—is beginning to understand political economy well enough to know, that the drink traffic is the reverse of every other industry in that it is not reproductive. He knows that this enormous outlay of labor and capital drawn from legitimate enterprise, is the chief cause of commercial and manufacturing depression. He knows also, if he belongs to a trade or labor union, that the drink destroys the workingman's independence, and that by his poverty he can not resist the reduction of wages.

The employer knows the drink to be antagonistic to his interests, and hence we find manufacturers in the United Kingdom entreaching themselves in cities of their own—as Saltare in England and Bessborough in Ireland—for the one purpose of keeping the drink away. In America this course is followed by the Corliss Engine Works and Fairbanks & Co., the celebrated scale makers of St. Johnsbury, Vermont. Hear, friend Nota Bene, what Fairbanks & Co. say in reply to enquiries in this line and it must be admitted that they have a "correct understanding" of a manufacturer's wants:—

"It has been the rule of this house, ever since its establishment, to employ no man who is in the habit of using intoxicating liquors. That rule is firmly adhered to at the present time. We do not say that a man shall not drink, but we do say that he can not work for us if he does. This is so thoroughly understood, that occasionally we have had a man leave us of his own accord because he could not endure the restriction. Our rule has been the means of reclaiming not a few who have become staunch temperance men, and who, before coming to us, were on the road to ruin."

"The result of this rule is to bring us a company of men who are intelligent, industrious, and frugal. Those who have been the longest time with us have accumulated property, and have comfortable, happy homes. Many of our employees are numbered among our very best influential Christian citizens. When a man falls out through want of conformity to our rules, we have no difficulty in filling his place with a sober man who respects himself—which means, being respected by others."

We have now medical evidence of deteriorative and special diseases produced by drink which were not known, or, at least, under consideration 50 years ago, but are now given in the writings of all eminent physiologists. The physical effects of alcohol and the value to health of abstinence are written in the report of every actuary in life insurance. Fifty years ago or less, a teetotaler could with difficulty get his life insured—to-day he is at a premium. This is not due to any sentiment, but to figures which "can't lie." Total abstinence is the motto of every athletic club to-day, as it was in the days of Greece and Rome. The champion oarsman and champion shot of to-day are water-drinkers. The danger to life and property from drink is well exemplified in the prohibitory rules of many of the leading railroads in the United States; not that it is a new discovery, as the following 30 years' old resolution proves:—

"Resolved, That the different Marine Insurance Companies in the city of New York will allow a deduction of five per cent. on the net premiums which may be taken after this date on all vessels, and on vessels together with their outfits, if on whaling and sealing voyages, terminating without loss, provided the master and mate make affidavit, after the termination of the risk, that no ardent spirits had been drunk on board the vessel by the officers and crew during the voyage or term for which the vessel or outfits were insured.—Adopted by the Board of Underwriters of the City of New York in 1834."

I will conclude this article by proving that the principle of prohibiting the liquor traffic is as old as our Anglo-Saxon history, and quote facts concerning its operation which may help "N. B." to a "correct understanding."
