THE ELECTIVE FRANCHISE.

The conferring of the right to vote upon resident aliens which has lately been discussed in these columns, was one of the innovations of the Constitution of 1887. With voters for nobles there must have been at least three years residence, while one year suffices for electors of representatives. All members of the Legislature must be Hawaiian subjects. At first sight the provision may excite surprise but reflection must cause the thinking man to approve. Hawaii is a very small country; the total population is less than that of many single wards or districts in several great cities of the world. She is powerless to afford protection to her subjects who might need protection against wrong and outrage in any other part of the world. Naturally most of the foreigners who come here to reside, either temporarily or permanently, will retain their nationality. We cannot do without them, for it is the influx of foreign brains and capital that has put little Hawaii in the front rank of enlightened nations. Were the nation to be deprived of the wealth and population represented by aliens resident here, it would become at once so insignificant and poor that its position and independence would be at once forfeited. Instead of being a respected member of the family of nations we should drop at once to the position of Samoa, Fiji, the Caroline Islands or any other insignificant island of the Pacific.

We do not say, nor do we intend to convey the impression, that the native Hawaiian counts for nothing. On the contrary, it is because of the intelligence and sagacity of the natives of these islands that civilization was so soon planted, and that it so rapidly became the controlling influence of the country. It is, however, none the less true that the country could not be what it is without the large alien population and immense foreign capital. The bulk of the taxes and burdens of government are borne by this population and capital, and it is and always will be dangerous to have taxation without representation. It was in part this thing which produced the reform of 1887. It was becoming more evident each day that to place the tax largely upon one class while the power to tax was wholly retained by another was an unequal and dangerous state of affairs. Complaint became more loud and angry. The position was fully appreciated by the legislative governments of the latter half of Kalakaua's reign, and the determination to profit by it, and to prevent any possibility of change was evidenced by such alterations of the naturalization law that no alien could by any course of conduct, acquisition of property or length of residence become a Hawaiian citizen without the direct consent of the King. This power was used in an injurious and detrimental way, prior to 1887. One of the first acts of the Reform Legislature was the amendment of the naturalization act. It was this state of affairs, and the knowledge that a large part of the wealth and intelligence of the country would continue alien, that induced the placing of this provision in the Constitution of 1887. It is not objected to by fair-minded and intelligent Hawaiians, indeed, many of them have said that the provision is fair. It has not proved in practice detrimental to the best interests of the country, nor is it likely to do so. Until it so proves, any change would be wholly sentimental, if not open directly to the charge of an endeavor to return to the unsafe and unequal position prior to 1887.

The Reciprocity Section of the McKinley Bill.

Sec. 3. That with a view to secure reciprocal trade with countries producing the following articles, and for this purpose, on and after the first day of July, 1892, whenever and so often as the president shall be satisfied that the government of any country producing and exporting sugars, molasses, coffee, tea and hides, raw and uncurd, or any of such articles, imposes duties or other exactions upon the agricultural or other products of the United States, which in view of the free introduction of such sugar, molasses, coffee, tea and hides into the United States, he may deem to be reciprocally unequal and unreasonable, he shall have the power and it shall be his duty to suspend, by proclamation to that effect, the provisions of this Act relating to the free introduction of such sugar, molasses, coffee, tea and hides, the production of such country, for such time as he shall deem just, and in such case and during such suspension duties shall be levied, collected and paid upon sugar, molasses, coffee, tea and hides, the product of or exported from such designated country as follows, namely: (Here follow the rates to be levied).

The Penalties of War.

Up to the present time Chile seems to be acting in utter disregard of the penalties of unsuccessful war. Even if the Chilean navy should enable that nation to gain some temporary advantages, it is not within the range of reasonable probability that in the end the United States will not dictate terms of peace. What will be these terms? When Germany had France at her mercy it asked a thousand million dollars and two provinces as the price of peace. When an American army was in the City of Mexico the price of peace was California and other territory on the Pacific Coast and between the coast and the Missouri River. The United States will not go to war with Chile unless forced to do so, and when the terms of peace come to be talked over in the event of war the victorious party will be likely to demand "indemnity for the past and security for the future."—Call.

HILO.

[Written for the ADVERTISER.]

A watery waste behind—I look before,
Through gleaming curtain of a golden haze;
And far beyond the verdure-bordered shore,
Like silhouettes against the sunset blaze,
I see twin peaks of mighty mountains rise, Illumed in glorious tints of gold and rose;
And crimsoned vapors climbing purplish skies, Incarnadined the everlasting snows.
While sunset fires burned slowly 'mong the woods,
Our vessel glides into the crescent bay,
And darkness down the mountain solitudes Creeps softly down and closes up the day.
Night's gray robe unfolds; garish day is done,
And God's bright lamps in heaven come one by one.

The morning dawns; the east is all aglow.
Carnage of color paints the vaulted dome.
The drowsy wavelets faintly ebb and flow,
And drift athwart the beach in rippling foam.
Beyond the gleaming belt of yellow sand,
Set deep within green Paradisal bowers,
The city sleeps, as in a fairyland;
Buried beneath a wilderness of flowers.
A lovely land, where flowers forever blow,
And all the forests with bird music ring;
Where faint winds through the woodlands come and go,
And gentle songs among the branches sing.
If there's an Eden found beneath the skies,
This surely is the earthly Paradise.

Hawaiian Hardware Co., Ltd.

Monday, Nov. 16, 1891.

What we need more than anything else is show room. We can't get it on either side of us, because our neighbors want what they have. We can build the width of our store from the roof as high up as you can see, but it's not a good place for show. Customers would rather come some other day than climb up stairs. We're in a pickle, and you must help us by having a little patience while we do the climbing upstairs for an article you want, if there's no room for it on the ground floor.

Last week was phenomenal in selling Refrigerators. It counts to have just what people want, and prices that nobody else is matching.

Take Haviland! Our stock is growing all the time, and yet it takes a heap of thinking to keep up with the demand for it. We have about the largest stock outside of New York—a San Francisco merchant here last week said as much—and he ought to be a judge.

In lamps, it is the same. We are close to the best artists and artisans. We have at command the cream of modern methods of making. It's our profit and your pleasure. We tell you the truth about them and make good our guarantees. There are some Lamp dealers who reflect credit upon the Lamping guild. There are others—

As we write the kettle is singing on the stove, and we are reminded of a conceit down in the store that is bent almost double under the name of "Five O'clock Tea." This five o'clock business is a "fad" and as far as hours go, don't amount to shucks. But it had to be encouraged by people in and out of society—it's the people out of the 400 who make things attractive for those who are in. This stand we started to tell you about is of wrought iron, and patterned after some ancient Pompeian idea. The kettle and lamp are of wrought copper. A pretty ornament for a corner in your parlor—useful too, if you give a high, or otherwise, tea. If there's a man in the house who shaves himself it will be useful for that purpose even. What about one for a Christmas gift?

Most of our novelties are on the "S. N. Castle" and will arrive probably, this week. Among the prettiest articles is something exclusively for the ladies. A week more and we will ask your opinion of them.

The preparations for our great holiday attraction are now almost complete. It will unquestionable be the local trade event of the season. When you see the display we are making you will promptly admit that it's easily ahead of anything of the kind we ever before attempted. You will be equally surprised at the fine finish of the workmanship and the excellence of the novel designs in all goods offered. Both will take your fancy and retain it.

THE BEAGLE CASE.

Marshal Wilson and Attorney-General Whiting Interviewed.

Some Additional Light on the Matter—Two Women in the Case.

The Beagle episode has given rise to a number of rumors, and the arrival of the wives of the supposed yachtsmen, coupled with that of the Sydney attorney Mr. Lawrence, naturally led to suppositions of all sorts. The rumor current that Mr. Lawrence came here in search of fugitives from justice, supposed to be identical with the Beagle yachtsmen, proved to be unfounded, so far as Mr. Lawrence is concerned, whose arrival had nothing whatever to do with the Beagle. It is well known that the Australian authorities sent to the police here photographs of persons who were wanted in Australia. These photographs are stated by those who have seen them to be undoubtedly pictures of Messrs. Bloom & Douglas. Unhappily, these pictures were missing just when they were wanted. It was said that Marshal Wilson had carried them off to Waimea with him, and that the Attorney-General had declared in conversation that the pictures were carried off so that no proceedings could be instituted against the "Bloom" couple in his absence. As all these statements uncontradicted and unexplained tended to place the Attorney-General and the Marshal in an unfavorable light, an ADVERTISER reporter called on Attorney-General Whiting and Marshal Wilson yesterday.

In response to the reporter's query: "It is stated that you made a remark that the photographs of the suspects, Messrs. Bloom & Douglas (alias Douglas & Bloom) were taken away for the purpose of defeating the ends of any prosecution that might take place?" the Attorney-General straightened up in his easy chair and said that the rumor had no foundation and was utterly false. He said that his department had worked in conjunction with the police in this case, and that in his opinion Marshal Wilson had taken the photographs away with the best intentions, that is, he was afraid he would lose the pictures if he left them in anybody's possession but his own. He also stated that they had heard of the Beagle's owners some time ago from the authorities at Sydney, giving a description of the men wanted, and referred the reporter to Marshal Wilson for any further information.

Marshal Wilson was seen, and the reporter stated the object of his errand with the following result: The Marshal stated that some months ago he received a letter from the Police authorities at Sydney, giving a description with photographs of two men named Bell and Davis who were charged with misappropriation of goods, to the amount of $150.

Bloom and Douglas tallied with the photographs and description of the men wanted, with the exception that they had let their beards grow. He had written a letter to the authorities at Sydney informing them that the men were here and to send some one with the necessary papers. He had not heard from the Colonies and could not arrest the men on any specific charge. He showed the reporter the photographs of Bell and Davis, and they are exact pictures of our late visitors, with the exceptions above noted. The Marshal also stated that no officer or detective from Sydney had ever called on him in relation to the Beagle owners. The above explodes the many detective rumors.

This ended the interview.

New Coin for the U. S.

Under the authority of an act of Congress approved September 26, 1890, the Director of the Mint has prepared new designs for silver coins which have been approved by the Secretary of the Treasury. The designs are intended for half dollars, quarters and dimes. On the obverse face of the coin is a female head representative of Liberty, looking to the right with an olive wreath and Phrygian cap on the back of the head; on a fillet over the front of the head is the word "Liberty," and over the head at the top of the coin "In God we trust." Around the medallion are thirteen stars and at the bottom the date of coinage. On the reverse side appears the seal of the United States, as adopted in 1782; an eagle with open wings, on the breast a shield argent, six pallets gules, a chief azure holding in the claw an olive branch, representing peace, and in the sinister claw a sheaf of thirteen arrows, representing war. In its beak the eagle holds a scroll containing the motto "E Pluribus Unum," ensigned above and about the head with thirteen stars, environed by clouds. This will be the design of the halves and quarters. The dime, on the obverse, in place of the stars, will have "United States of America." "In God we trust" will be omitted from the dime. The reverse of the dime will be the same as at present in use. The reverse of the halves and quarters is a return to the design of almost the first coinage of the country.—Ex.

HUI KALAIAINA.

A Rousing Meeting at Robinson's Hall Last Night.

Independence Day to be Appropriately Observed by the Hui.

The Hui Kalaiaina met again at the Robinson Hall on Friday night. The attendance is improving. President J. A. Kahooni presided. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

Mr. F. J. Testa moved that something be done to celebrate November 28th which was Independence Day. Carried.

Mr. Kahooni explained that the Hui Kalaiaina would observe the day in this manner: On Saturday morning, November 28th, at 10 A. M., a procession consisting of country delegates and members of the Hui Kalaiaina will march from the Robinson Hall out to Thomas Square. A special programme had been arranged. At the conclusion, the procession will march back to their hall where light refreshments will be served. Several speakers will give addresses. Hon. A. Rosa, and Mr. F. J. Testa will give brief outlines of the history of the day. In the afternoon, delegates from the Hui Kalaiaina will be banqueted at Ewa.

Mr. Testa said that he rejoiced that his motion was carried. Although it passed by a small majority yet he was satisfied that it passed. It would have produced untold agony in his inmost soul if his motion had been discarded by the meeting. More than that, he would have concluded that those present were devoid of patriotic feelings for the day that gave them independence—liberty. That is the day on which a Hawaiian may raise his head with pride and say: On this day I gained my liberty. He urged those present not to depend on the empty contributions (money and eatables) published in the Ka Leo several months ago. The Ka Leo has nothing to do with the nation's independence. The responsibilities of the proper and improper observance of that great national day devolve on the Hui Kalaiaina. Do not rely on Bush and Wilcox in this matter.

The President here announced that delegates from the Hui Kalaiaina and representatives of the Hui Kalaiaina from the other islands would meet at their hall on Monday evening, November 23d. Outsiders would not be admitted. He also requested intending candidates for representatives and nobles for the next election to present their names to him during next week so that he might bring them before the meeting next Friday evening.

Mr. J. L. Kaulukou said that the Hui Kalaiaina had really no platform. The new Liberal party had a platform already. If it is the sense of the meeting to adopt the same platform, well and good.

Mr. S. C. Kaponu, president of the Maui Hui Kalaiaina, said that he was greatly surprised to know that the Central Hui Kalaiaina had no platform. The Maui branch had a platform which was sent to him two years ago, at the same time that he received his commission as president. With that same platform he fought and defeated the candidate of the Reform party.

The old platform was adopted and the meeting then adjourned.

The Ordnance Bureau of the War Department has just completed a test of French "B M" smokeless powder with rifled field guns. The guns were 32 inches caliber. The service charge of ordinary powder is 3 1/2 pounds, giving a velocity to a shot of 1680 feet per second, with a pressure in the gun of from 35,000 to 37,000 pounds per square inch. One pound and four ounces of smokeless powder gave the same velocity, with a pressure of only 27,000 pounds. With a full charge of two pounds eight ounces of smokeless powder a velocity of 2650 feet was imparted to the shot, with a pressure of 35,000 pounds, well within the safe pressure for the gun.

The farmers and other land holders of Pomona, Cal., are greatly excited over the fact that a cloud has been thrown upon their titles by the treachery of B. S. Nichols and P. C. Tonner of that place. ## SHE HAD RED HAIR.

Effort of a Friend to Save Her from White Horses Proves a Boomerang.
They were talking about the red headed girl and white horse fad at the Kimball House the other night when somebody told a good one on Sam Hardwick, whom everybody knows as general passenger agent of the Georgia Pacific.Sam was with a party of Birmingham friends not long ago—gay young society people they were, and all well known to everybody in the Magic City —when somebody started the white horse story. One young lady in the party had ideal Titian hair, and the joke was, of course, at her expense.
There were white horses everywhere.
Every little station brought another white horse to add to the fair one's discomfort and correspondingly to the happiness of the man who persisted in pointing them out. It was a white horse day. Glimpses of them met the gaze of the party everywhere until the victim of it all began to think that every horse and every mule in Alabama was of that, to her, detestable color.A bright idea struck Sam—hit him hard, in fact.
"Now, I'll bet twenty dollars," he said to the white horse man of the party, "that there won't be a white horse at the depot in Anniston when we get there."The bet was promptly taken, and the coming to Anniston was eagerly looked forward to.In a few minutes Hardwick looked at his watch, and, murmuring something about "wanting to see the engineer," went forward.A minute later the train stopped at a little station. So intent was the party upon looking at some white mules in the distance that they didn't notice the brakeman, who hurried into the telegraph office and hurried out again.
Had they seen the message he bore they would have read:"To Blank, agent, Anniston—Ten dollars to you if you have no white horses or mules at depot when train arrives."But they didn't see it.
Sam went back to the party chuck-ling to himself and admiring his own cleverness. It was but a few minutes when the conductor called "Anniston!" The young ladies looked out and laughed. Sam's face wore a benign smile as he pushed one of the men aside, and pressing his face to the pane he saw—White horses everywhere! In all that throng of drays and hacks every mule and every horse was white.
A tap on the shoulder aroused him.
"Mr. Hardwick, I'm sorry—it was the agent who spoke—"I'm sorry, but I could only get nineteen!"Sam jerked the telegram from his hand, but for a minute was speechless.
Then without a word he handed a roll of bills to the man with whom he had bet.The telegraph operator had made the "no" "20."—Atlanta Constitution.Masons' Marks on Old Church Stones.
Masons' marks have an interest of their own in old churches. Where there has been some protection from the weather, such as a bold overhanging cornice, we may sometimes see them on the external masonry; but generally rains and winds have obliterated them there, and we have to look for them in the interiors. On many a stone we may see cut the curious device of the mason who wrought it from the rough block that was taken from the quarry into the flat surface it now presents. These devices are of innumerable variety and combinations of geometrical figures, crosses and lines.They are to be noted in many parts of the world as well as in our churches.
In Elsdon church, which is in a moss trouping center, there are several deep cuts on one of the pillars of the arcade of the south side, which are of a different character to masons' marks, and considered likely to have been made by the sharpening of weapons upon them.—Gentleman's Magazine.Singing the Hair.
The fallacious old practice of singeing the hair in order to prevent its falling out in handbills has largely fallen into disuse in this city. There used to be a time when every barber shop in the city had wax tapers, and the employees would politely ask customers if they desired a "singe," much the same as they now insist on a person taking a shampoo. The philosophy of the singe is simple, but it is fallacious. Barbers contend that the hair is a hollow tube, and the oil from the bulb of the hair exuding from this tube caused the hair to dry up and fall out. Singeing the hair closed up the ends and prevented the loss of oil, thus keeping the hair from falling out. But the fact remains that it did not prevent the hair from falling out, and the practice has gradually become almost extinct.—Philadelphia Record.Jews Who Plow.
The question, "Has a Jew ever been seen to plow?" is answered by Mr. Arnold White with a very emphatic affirmative. Jewish cultivators flourish even in the Argentine Republic, where French and English Christians are giving up the struggle and coming home.
Mr. White tells us that he has just returned from the agricultural Jewish colonies of Cherson and Ekaterinoslav, which number 30,000 persons, subsisting entirely by agriculture. They are described by him as industrious, sober and having no counterbalancing vice, unless a propensity to early and improvident marriage is so to be considered.—London News.Misplaced Pity.
Lady (to lame beggar)—Poor man, now sorry I feel that nature has not provided you with a pair of healthy limbs!
Beggar—Why, as far as my business goes, that would be the same as if Patti were deprived of her voice!—
