CHINESE NAMES.

How They are Made and What
They Mean.

The names of the places constantly appearing in the telegrams from the Far East, like Oxford, East-bourne, and many others of our own, are composed of two or more syllables, each expressing a distinct idea.

Thus, since Pe Nau, Tong, and Si or Se mean north, south, east and west, and King is a capital, Pe-king is the northern capital, or "Capital of the North"—the genitive always comes before the nominative in Chinese—Nan-king that of the south, and Tong-king that of the east. Ho, again, being a river, and Pei and Hoang the two colors, Pei-ho and Hoang ho are naturally the White and Yellow Rivers, on the same principle as our Blackwater.

A great river is a "Kiang," possibly the same word as the Indian Ganga, which we have turned into "Ganges;" hence Yang-tze-kiang, the "Great River of the Yang Province," whose size and depth at the mouth earn for it the name of Takiang, the great stream: The country is not exactly called "the Celestial Empire," but Tien-hai (the State), "under the sky," or Chung-tien hia, the "middle (State) under the sky," the centre of the earth's surface, in other words.

The meanings of the other names may easily be put together with the help of the following list: Hai, sea; Chu, pearl; Kin, gold; Sha, sand; Ta, great; Tien, sky; Shang, upper or above; Hia, lower or below; Chung, middle; Shan, hills; Mo, desert; Tsia, ford; Chin, market; Ngau, tranquility; Fu, chief town; Cheu or Chu, district; Mai, to buy and sell, to trade; Mai-mai-chin buying and selling market, or trade center.

Thus we find that Hoang-hai is the Yellow Sea, Tong-hai, the eastern sea, Nan-hai, the southern, Shang hai (the place) "Above the Sea," Tien-tsin, the "Ford of Heaven" or Heavenly Ford; Si-kiang, the "Great River of the West," Pe-kiang that of the north, and Tong-kiang that of the east, which all combine to form the Chu-kiang, the "Great Pearl Stream." The Kiu-sha-kiang is the "River of the Golden Sand," Tien-shan, the "Hill of Heaven," Sha-mo, the "Sandy Desert" (the Gobi is thus called by the Chinese), Si-ngan the "Western Rest," Chung-king, the "Middle Capital," etc.—Daily Dispatch.

The Uses of Peat.

The peat bogs of Ireland and other countries are likely to have much greater value in the future than they have had in the past. The possibilities of peat have been a subject of study for twelve years by Herr Zachorner, of Vienna, and he has found that, while the grasses and reeds composing it have become chemically changed, the fibres have not decayed, but that they are elastic, durable, non-conductors of heat, and non-combustible. These properties adapt the material for many uses. It has been made into a great variety of fabrics, including blankets for horses and cattle, window curtains, and paper of various kinds. The fabrics have the strength of linen, with the warmth of wool. The unspun fibre is not without its uses, for it has proved a highly antiseptic substitute for absorbent cottons.

TOPICS OF THE DAY.

Twenty-five years ago to-day Princess Victoria Kaiulani was brought into this world, and during her young life the 16th of October was always the scene of merriment and happiness at Aiea. To-day her father and a few friends, instead of listening to the merry laughter of the young alii went their way to the Royal Mausoleum to place flowers on the casket which contains the remnants of the handsome hope of the Hawaiian people. What a coincidence it was when last night a brilliant orator at the Democratic mass meeting cried out "will you voters of this territory, allow the alii to be defeated by men unknown among those who were your chiefs?" We call it a coincidence because if the young Princess, beloved by all Hawaiians, had been with us here to-day, on the anniversary of her 25th birthday, she would have pointed to David and said to the people who adored her, "grant to him, our prince, my friend, the highest honor in your gift." And every true Hawaiian to-day hears the voice of the late Princess and will respond to the call from the grave.

As we close our paper we learn that the Central Committee is in session for the purpose of expelling from their ranks J. O. Carter, and E. C. Macfarlane. We have no doubt that the rabid ring which rules the Independents will succeed in cutting the chain which held the anchor of respectability of their party. The dropping of the names of Carter and Macfarlane from their ticket means the suicide of Wilcox & Co. and we hail the event with joy. Jim Quinn is yet with them, however.

The contemplated resignations of Dr. Wood, as president, and of Mr. Geo. W. Smith, as member, of the Board of Health have been before the people so long that while regret may be expressed no surprise is felt. Both gentlemen in private life are very busy men, and can ill afford to spare the time to attend to the onerous official duties, which, as public minded citizens, they have so long and ably discharged without pay and in Dr. Wood's case at, with probably, serious pecuniary loss. Dr. Wood has been eminently energetic, able and square and deservedly merits the thanks of the community.

It is very easy for the candidates on the Independent and the Republican tickets to hold up their hands in virtuous horror and say "don't be personal." We can understand their feelings but we consider it a duty of the press to show to the public the character and public career of every man whose name has been placed before the country as a candidate for legislative honors. On the Democratic ticket there is not one man whose honesty, integrity, and honorable career can be disputed. On the Republican ticket we find swindlers and rogues and the Independent ticket even boasts of a man who was charged with cattle stealing, besides being reprimanded by the Supreme Court while a magistrate. We are averse to personalities in politics but since the Advertiser man has become very shocked because Lilikalani and J. E. Bush made a few personal remarks at Democratic meetings, the gentlemen opposed to honest government might as well be prepared to have their records published in our columns before any decent man is induced to cast a vote for them.

All hail to the founders of the Young Women's Christian Association and the best wishes of the Independent for the success of the Society. While one might demur to the sectional character of the Society yet as in these materialistic days religion is regarded as being purely a disciplinarian for the young until they obtain the riper years when they think and act for themselves the name is of no importance. The benefit to be derived from the Society is muscular christianity of that class which enables a girl to defend herself from the push inveigling her to lonely buggy rides and moonlight bathing ending up with private suppers where wine is imbibed with disastrous results to the innocent and unwar. Go on girls, put on bloomers, push your balls and swing your clubs, develop your muscles, beautify your forms and get sound health and then you will get honorable husbands and become the mother of strong and lusty children. Don't trifle but go ahead.

Political Potpourri.

The Republicans have decided to run John Lane for Representative in the place of one McCabe who has retired. It is amusing to see George R. Carter, the brother of Chas. Carter, who was killed in 1895, on the same ticket with one of the Lane boys, and it is equally amusing to see the Lane boys joining hands with the men who persecuted them unmercifully in 1895.

Samuel Parker has recovered part of his voice and will leave for Kauai this evening. Sam's picture is being illuminated nightly on a piece of cloth expanded in front of the Republican headquarters. In the daytime the complexion of the genial Colonel's picture gives the idea that he is suffering from jaundice, but when his massive head is "electrified" in the evening the householders who pass under the banner get another reminder of the outrageous prices he pays for the meat which the laborer and his wife and growing children must have every day in the week.

It is amusing to see a certain Mormon Elder at Republican headquarters. The individual is not yet sure whether his obligations are due to Sam Parker or to Abr. Fernandez and his religion teaches him not to tell a lie—except when beneficial to himself.

The Democratic mass meeting at the Orpheum last evening was the best meeting held during the present campaign. Even the Republicans and Independents present admitted that fact. Colonel McCarthy presided in his usual graceful manner, and eloquent speeches were made by several of the candidates. It was deeply regretted that Mr. Sam Damon was prevented from attending the meeting owing to illness. His presence would have electrified the intelligent audience who had gathered to show that Democracy will rule the Territory of Hawaii.

When J. O. Carter appeared he was greeted with an ovation which few statesmen have ever received. His public appearance for the first time during the present campaign on a public platform was hailed in a manner which touched the hearts of Mr. Carter and his numerous friends who at all times have admired his noble, unflinching and firm political career.

Mr. Carter was deeply moved and when the uproar caused by the applause had subsided he made a short speech, every word of which breathed his love for Hawaii and the Hawaiians. His words were interpreted by F. J. Testa, whose appearance on the stage was hailed with clapping of hands and stamping of feet. The cartoonist of the Advertiser was not present and the "gap" was not filled by Testa in this morning's issue of Thurston's sheet.

Our space prevents our reporting the speeches in full. E. C. Macfarlane made an excellent address which specially took the hearts of the Hawaiians. Major J. M. Camara in a short speech made strong points in favor of the Democratic platform, and Abr. Fernandez, Kaloa and Frank Harvey were well received and attentively listened to by the large audience.

Mr. Clinton J. Hutchins, a forceful orator and a strong Democrat, made an address which was listened to with deep attention by all present. The speech he delivered was purely on the lines of the national Democratic issues which had never before been expounded in such a manner as the brilliant orator did. He referred to the possibilities of the eventual absorption by the United States of Mexico and Central America, but such an expansion was for future generations to deal with. He enlarged on the monetary questions and showed how McKinley was originally a supporter of the silver problem and had often voted for bi-metalism. He illustrated the value of silver in India and Argentina and then referred to the result of Philippine sugar on our local values. He showed the vacillating policy of McKinley in regard to poor little Puerto Rico and he "roasted" the present President in strong and eloquent terms. Mr.

Hutchins asked the Hawaiians how they can consistently uphold Republican doctrines and thereby forget their love of their country which the men now calling themselves Republicans took away from them. In finishing the speaker paid a glowing tribute to William Jennings Bryan, a man loved and revered by all, the man we all hope will stand at the helm of our country, a second Jackson, the counterpart of Lincoln, a noble, sincere, true, rugged American.

The speech of Mr. Hutchins was finished under uproarious applause and Mr. McClanahan responded to a call for a speech. McClanahan talked practical politics and his eulogy of Prince David, the first delegate to Congress, caused an enthusiastic applause which nearly raised the roof of the house.

The meeting was not alone attended by representative Democrats and the rank and file of the party, but several leading merchants now affiliated with the Republicans were present, and wondered how they ever committed such an error as opposing the honorable intelligent men who compose the Democratic party in Hawaii.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT MARKET

Across Hotel street, in front of the Republican Headquarters, is spread a very tastefully devised campaign banner which looks extremely pretty at night when the frame of innumerable electric lights, which surround Sam Parker's genial face, are in full but steady blaze. It also has the advantage of brightening up rather a lugubrious block of the city.

A CONVENIENT ARRANGEMENT

For stop off passengers at Honolulu en route to the Pacific Coast.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The following order relative to baggage or through passengers on the trans-Pacific steamers who stop off at Honolulu has been issued by the treasury department:

"Treasury Department, Sept. 25, 1900.—Sir: The department, in a telegram dated the 6th instant, instructed the collector of customs at San Francisco to notify you that when through passengers en route to Pacific coast ports stop off at Honolulu an official stamp should be affixed to their baggage, certifying to the proper examination thereof at Honolulu, and that baggage so stamped need not be re-examined at Pacific coast ports.

"Upon representations made to the department by Special Agent J. D. Power, stationed at San Francisco to the effect that the foregoing requirement is not sufficient for the protection of the revenue, the department hereby directs you, in addition to affixing the aforesaid stamp, to cause each piece of examined baggage belonging to through passengers en route to Pacific Coast ports, stopping off at Honolulu, to be corded and sealed.

"Respectfully,
O. L. SPAULDING
"Acting Secretary."

Bad for the eyes.

Among the sources of the greatest trouble to the eyesight are the excessive use of wine, spirits, or beer; the indiscriminate administration of quinine; and there is even a case on record where a diminution of vision may be traced to the wearing of an artificial wreath of flowers. Another source to failing vision may be traced to impeded circulation. The wearing of tight neckwear, such as collars which are too small, or shirt-bands, or neckties tightly drawn, should be avoided, as they prevent the downward column of blood returning to the heart, and dilatation and development of disease is likely to follow. The same rule holds good of constriction of other parts of the body. Another most serious source of eye-strain is constant reading in railway carriages, which is the practice of nearly all business men in going to and from their offices and shops, and the injury to the eye from this cause is incalculable. Nothing gives tired eyes greater relief than a green disc or square of sufficient size, suspended on a direct line of vision at or against a wall, on which the eyes can rest; but best of all to look upon is a green grass plot or green trees. The green cloth of the billiard-table is not good for the eyes at all. It is suggested that it would be a public boon if our monthly magazines were printed on paper of neutral tint, and the drop curtains in theatres should have scenes printed on them showing great perspective. It is a rest to the eyes, after the concentrated effort made in trying to watch the facial expression or eyes of an actor, to look upon such a picture.

The Speaking of the Ass.

A well-known Sydney clergyman tells a good story against himself. While preaching recently an extemporaneous sermon, he had occasion to refer to the question of miracles. Some people, he said, had a difficulty in believing some of the miraculous stories of the Bible, as, for example, the speaking of Balaam's ass to his master. Looking solemnly to the congregation, he suddenly clinched his contention with the remark: "Why should not God make an ass to speak—He made me to speak?" The congregation did not laugh; it was Scotch.

MEMORIAL SERVICES.

In Memory of the Late Professor Yarndley at Central Union Church

At Central Union Church on Sunday the music was selected especially as a tribute both to the pastor's home coming and to the memory of Prof. J. W. Yarndley, to whom the pastor paid a feeling eulogium.
Dr. Kincaid went immediately from the boat to Mrs. Yarndley, on the evening of her husband's death-day, and gave a father's comfort. He also attended the funeral of Prof.
Yarndley, to whom he was greatly attached and whose musical ability he so deeply appreciated.

The organ prelude was fittingly;
"St. Cecilia," by Gounod, rendered with splendid effect by Mr. Ingalls.

Mrs. Annis Montague Turner selected for the morning offertory the
"O, Divine Redeemer" of Gounod, which she had last sung with Prof.
Yarndley's violin obligato. The accompaniment was played by Mr.
Egry, Miss Carrie Castle and Mr.
Ingalls. Mrs. Turner sang also throughout the service.

A fine quartet by Prof. Yarndley, "As Pants the Hart," dedicated to Mrs. Turner, was beautifully rendered by her, with Mrs. C. B.
Damon, Mr. W. W. Hall and Mr.
Chas. Cooke, all warm old friends of the beloved musician.

In the evening the call to worship was "Heavenly Father," by Abt, rendered by Mrs. Turner, with a trio, Miss Charlotte Hall, Miss Harriet Needham and Mrs. C. B.
Damon.

The anthem, "Lovely Appear Upon the Mountains the Feet of Them That Preach and Bring Good News of Peace," was well sung by Mrs.
Turner, Mrs. Damon and choir.

Mention must be made of the organ work of Mr. Ingalls throughout the day, particularly the evening offertory solo, the well known violin solo, "Cavatina," by Raff, arranged for organ by Mr. Ingalls and played by him with deep feeling.

How to Remain Young

To drink the waters of the fountain of youth is still, in the opinion of some, within the range of possibility. Prof. Blumern observes that man begins in a gelatinous condition and ends in an osseous or bony one. He is soft in infancy, he is hard in old age. Ageing is a process of ossification. After middle life has passed a more marked development of the ossific character takes place. The arteries become thickened with calcareous matter, and there is interference with the circulation, upon which nutrition depends. According to "Popular Science," the whole change from youth to old age is one of steady accumulation of calcareous deposits in the system. Entire blockade of the functions of the body is a mere matter of time, and the refuse matter deposited by the blood through the system drops the delicate machinery we call life. The blood contains compounds of lime, magnesia, and iron. In the blood itself are these earthy salts. In early life they are thrown off; in age they are not. Almost everything we eat contains these elements for destroying life. Earthy salts abound in the cereals, and bread itself, mistakenly called "the staff of life," is one of the most calcareous of edibles.
Nitrogenous food also contains these elements, hence a diet made up of fruit is best for people advanced in years. The daily use of water is after middle life, one of the most important means of preventing secretions and derangements of health. Diluted phosphoric acid is one of the most powerful influences known to science for shielding the human system from the inconvenience of old age. Use it daily with distilled water, and so retard the approach of senility. To retain perpetual youth avoid all foods rich in the earth's salts, use much fruit, specially juicy, uncooked apples, and take daily two or three tumblersful of distilled water with about fifteen drops of diluted phosphoric acid in each glassful. Thus will your days be longer in the land.
