TURNING ON THE WATER AT KOHALA LURLINE LEADING WITH LA PALOMA RIGHT BEHIND

COLONEL AND MRS. SAMUEL PARKER, PROMINENT FIGURES IN THE OPENING CEREMONIES OF THE KOHALA DITCH

President Roosevelt's Promise to Help the Small Farm Movement Conveyed by Secretary Atkinson in an Impressive Speech.

(By Wireless Telegraph.)

KOHALA, June 11.—In the heart of the Kohala Gulch, at the end of an elevation of nearly 1000 feet above the sea, the great Kohala ditch was opened today with impressive ceremonies. Planters and farmers from all the surrounding country and many Honolulu people assembled to hear speeches by Abram Lewis, J. T. McCrossen, Eben Low, Land Commissioner Pratt, John Baker and Territorial Secretary Atkinson, who made the chief address of the day, as follows:

Fellow Citizens: Nothing that I can recall in my lifetime has ever afforded me more genuine pleasure than to stand here today at the opening of this great Kohala ditch, and I only wonder that such a work was not undertaken years ago. But capital is always timid and it needs the force of conviction in honest enterprise to join capital with labor that good may result. One success that we celebrate today has been mainly brought about by the foresight and co-operation of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Parker, Mr. McCrossen, Mr. John Hind and Mr. O'Shaughnessy, that great engineer who has done so much to develop and expand the natural fertility of the soil of the islands of Hawaii. Man, in gathering the water here, sends it sparkling down upon the fields, to carry life to the plants and to make the waste places blossom. It is a great industrial work that has been accomplished in the construction of the Kohala ditch. It is a wonderful demonstration of what is possible in the exact science of engineering. It is an instance of the outlay of capital that much more good any come than the work has cost.

The opening up of this ditch marks a new industrial era for our people. It is an event that is in some ways the most remarkable that has yet occurred in these islands. You, who know the lands that are to be watered, appreciate this. It is always a notable achievement, when the land and the water are brought together, because it means more homes and better homes for our people. Everywhere in our broad land this fact is more and more acutely realized. Only last month, on May 17, President Roosevelt wrote to me and said:

"I will help you in every way in your purpose to try to secure a white population of actual land tillers who are small land owners." (Applause.)

In no way can this be better done than by the union of land and water. Because the value of irrigation in agriculture has been recognized by the nation, the arid states of the west are becoming busy centers of population. The great American desert is a thing of the past. The highlands of Kansas have been changed from dry pastures to fertile farms. Colorado is a land of corn and wheat. The sage brush plains of Nevada have become rich cattle pastures. Even the hot deserts of Arizona and Southern California are lands of fruit, of corn, and wine and across the Colorado river to divert the waters of a mighty stream to the fertilization of sandy wastes. It is building great dams in Arizona to conserve the waters that fall in the hills. Here in Hawaii we are following the same lines. We have long irrigated some of our lands, producing the richest crops of sugar cane that are grown under the sun. We have done by private enterprise and private capital what the government is doing in a larger way on the mainland. The government is reclaiming its lands, as we are independently developing our own in Hawaii. This Kohala ditch is the largest enterprise of the kind so far undertaken here. But who shall say that it will be the last? The lands of Kohala will now be irrigated, and next will come the ditches in Hamakua carrying God's pure liquid to other parched fields that are waiting to pour forth their riches into the lap of man.

These waters that have hitherto gone to waste, rushing down the mountain side into the sea, will now be saved for the purposes intended by the Almighty. They will be used for household purposes in the homes already built. They will help to build more homes. They will enrich the kuleanas and homesteads, whose owners are struggling for a livelihood. They will aid in the development of more small farms when intending settlers see that the lands can be made productive with constant supplies of water assured them. They will add to the fertility of our larger farms, our sugar plantations, which have so often suffered from a lack of water in dry seasons, but whose owners will now feel more content, knowing that the labor of today will not be lost in the drought of tomorrow. As the small farms increase and multiply through the energy and enterprise of white settlers, so let us hope, there will be more employment offered to white settlers on the large farms.

The one will aid the other. Both will create a demand for our own products and those from the mainland, tending to increase the business of the merchants and expand our towns and villages both in size and value. Let us pay good heed to the words of President Roosevelt who, exactly four weeks ago today, wrote to us:

"I will help you in every way in your purpose to try to secure a white population of actual land tillers who are small land owners."

My friends, we have met to note the completion of a great work. The task is done, and well done. The waters sparkle in the distance, rushing ever downward to the sea, whence the hand of God will raise them again to fall once more upon yonder lofty mountain summits, and to be gathered yet again into this artery of life which we have seen opened upon this island. The process will go on, as long as the world stands—so long as the sun shines and the rivers run. (Prolonged cheering.)

At the conclusion of Secretary Atkinson's address, Mrs. Campbell Parker, taking a decorated bottle of champagne, broke it on a gate in the ditch, at the same time pressing a lever which turned the water from the spillway into the ditch. Twenty million

LANGUAGE TEST STILL DANGEROUS

Two Immigration Bills Before Congress, One of Which Makes No Distinctions in Favor of This Territory.

(Mail Special to the Advertiser.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27.—The passage by the Senate Wednesday of the Dillingham immigration bill carried very unexpectedly an educational clause. To the surprise of everybody, Senator Lodge offered his amendment, which he has had before every Congress since Cleveland was President the second time. He did not debate it; neither did other Senators, except that Mr. Simmons of North Carolina discussed in a set speech an educational amendment of his own. Heretofore there has always been opposition from steamship and other transportation companies, which has made it impossible to have the educational test put on in the Senate.

However, Mr. Lodge's amendment slipped through without a dissenting voice and the bill has now gone to the House. President Cleveland once vetoed an immigration bill because of this Lodge amendment. The provisions of the amendment on the present bill read as follows:

"All persons over 16 years of age and physically capable of reading who can not read the English language or some other language; but an admissible immigrant or a person now in or hereafter admitted to this country may bring in or send for his wife, his children under 18 years of age, and his parents or grandparents over 50 years of age, if they are otherwise admissible, whether they are so able to read or not."

"That for the purpose of testing the ability of the immigrant to read, the inspection officers shall be furnished with copies of the Constitution of the United States, printed on uniform pasteboard slips, each containing not less than twenty nor more than twenty-five words of said Constitution printed in the various languages of the immigrants in double small type. Each immigrant may designate the language in which he prefers the test shall be made, and shall be required to read the words printed on a slip in such language. No two immigrants listed on the same manifest shall be tested with the same slip. An immigrant failing to read as above provided shall not be admitted, but shall be returned to the country from whence he came at the expense of the steamship or railroad company which brought him; Provided, That all persons, whether able to read the English language or some other language or not able to do so, who shall enter the United States except at the seaports thereof, or at such other place or places as the Secretary of Commerce and Labor may from time to time designate, shall be adjudged to have entered the country unlawfully and shall be deported as by law provided."

There is an immigration bill pending in the House with a similar educational clause, but it does not apply to the insular possessions, such as Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippines. Speaker Cannon is known to be opposed to the House bill because of its drastic provisions. The House a few days ago by a record vote refused to consider this bill. What the fate of the Dillingham bill will be at that end of the Capitol, however, is another question. As it is getting late in the session, the chances of its being passed grow less daily, but undoubtedly the question, which is so vital to Hawaii, must be met some time this session. Should the Lodge amendment go through the House without any exemption of the insular territories, it would seriously embarrass the project for bringing immigrants from the Azores.

Probably there is no serious danger for Hawaii in the amendment, because the disposition of the Senate will be towards leniency. The House Committee on Immigration is disposed to stand for its provision exempting the Hawaiian and other islands. It is probably a fair statement that the situation only requires careful watching and earnest representations as to what the result would be upon Hawaii. Judge F. M. Hatch is already doing all that. It is not believed that he will have any great difficulty in keeping the case well in hand. There will be influential senators to help him, when the bill gets before the Senate Committee on Immigration again, or before its conferees. Senator Dillingham, chairman of the immigration committee, is likely to be friendly toward Hawaii in bringing about a modification of the Lodge amendment.

The passage without objection of such a clause simply demonstrates how things have changed with the Senate. In the face of the radical demands all over the country, no senator nowadays dares stand up and oppose in the open what that would apparently be to the detriment of big transportation companies. Then the great influx of immigrants during the past year has influenced sentiment in favor of putting up the bars a little higher.

THE REFUNDING BILL.

The refunding bill also passed the Senate Wednesday. It was called up by Senator Foraker, chairman of the Committee on Pacific Islands, and went through without debate. Mr. Foraker

THOUGHT PINWHEELS CAUSED A FIRE

A Chinaman living in Desha lane was celebrating Kamehameha Day last evening by discharging fireworks and setting off pinwheels. Someone thought his place was on fire and turned in an alarm from box 54, corner of King and Liliha. The Central and Palama fire companies responded, but, of course, found nothing to extinguish. A little later someone else thought he would take a turn at sending in an alarm, but had only started when he was stopped.

HE THREATENED THE LONGWORTHS

NEW YORK, June 2.—Representative Nicholas Longworth and Mrs. Longworth sailed for England today on the steamer St. Louis.

Just before the Longworths sailed some excitement was caused on the American line pier by a drunken Italian declaring that he was an anarchist and that he intended to throw a bomb at the Longworths. By the time a police squad arrived the Italian had disappeared. The incident caused some stir for a time. It was believed that the drunken man's talk was due merely to his condition.

THE KOREA TIED UP BY THE STRIKE

H. Hackfeld & Co., received a cablegram from General Manager Schwerin of the Pacific Mail S. S. Company, San Francisco, yesterday, as follows:

"ON ACCOUNT OF STRIKE OUTWARD PASSENGER BUSINESS SUSPENDED. KOREA AND SUBSEQUENT VESSELS INDEFINITELY POSTPONED PENDING SETTLEMENT."

"NO DELAY INWARD PASSENGERS AND FREIGHT."

"WILL ADVISE BY TELEGRAPH SOON AS SETTLED."

The above dispatch indicates that not only the Korea, but the Coptic and America Maru will be affected. Of course, Honolulu is interested more in the Korea, as far as freight and passengers are concerned, than in the Coptic and America Maru, as the latter two bring no passengers or freight to this port.

It is rumored that one reason for holding up the Korea by the strikers is the fact that Japanese were used in loading some of the freight into that vessel here on her last visit.

MACFARLANE GETS CUP.

Commodore Clarence Macfarlane of the Hawaii Yacht Club will be presented this evening with a very handsome loving cup by the owners of the bark S. C. has had some objections to the bill, but these were overcome when the situation was earnestly presented to him. In the light of complications that would arise with the House. As passed, it includes one amendment, not in the House bill, leaving certain expenditures to be approved by the Secretary of the Navy. Mr. Foraker wanted the expenditures under the proposed law confined to territorial matters solely. It was only when he was assured such a modification would probably defeat the measure in the House that he withdrew his contention. The proviso affecting naval expenditures was necessary to secure the votes and forestall the opposition of certain influential senators. The only objections to that proviso from the territorial standpoint is that it will add a little more red tape. The bill as it passed the Senate reads:

"Be it enacted, etc., That 75 per cent. of the customs and internal revenues collected each year within the Territory of Hawaii, for a period of five years from July 1, 1906, shall be segregated and held apart in a separate fund by the Secretary of the Treasury, to be designated the Hawaiian fund and to be expended, with the approval of the Secretary of War, only for public works, including educational and other public buildings, harbor improvements, and military and naval defenses within the Territory of Hawaii as the Congress may from time to time specifically authorize and appropriate. Provided, That all expenditures for naval defenses shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Navy."

NATURALIZATION.

The House has been considering a Naturalization bill, in which Delegate Kalaniano'le has secured one modification. This pertains to the courts of naturalization in Hawaii. As the bill was reported from the committee it provided for naturalization only in Federal courts. It was shown to the committee that this would confine naturalization in Hawaii to one court. In a letter to Representative Bonyne of Colorado, who has charge of the bill, the Delegate asked that naturalization in Hawaii be also permitted in the territorial courts, and an amendment to that effect was put on by the House.

The personal property bill, designed primarily to permit the sale by auction of the tug Eleu, passed the House last Monday and now goes to the President for signature. It authorizes the territory to dispose of personal property in certain cases.

HONOLULU VISITORS.

There have been several prominent Hawaiian visitors here this week—ex-Minister Castle, who came from Boston and other New England points and who returns to New York in a day or two; Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Dillingham, who came over from New York for three or four days; and William Alanson Bryan, who is on the way to attend a convention of National Museums in New York.

Mr. Castle has been cordially greeted by his numerous old time friends in Washington. He and Judge Hatch made a visit to the Capitol and there met several of the prominent lawmakers. Judge and Mrs. Hatch gave a dinner in his honor Friday evening.

Mr. Dillingham's errand here was largely in connection with the survey for the Hilo breakwater. He and Representative Burton, chairman of the House Committee on Rivers and Harbors, were given a dinner by Mr. George B. McClellan Monday evening last. Mr. Dillingham had opportunity to explain the situation at Hilo carefully for the information of Mr. Burton, whose committee will eventually have to pass upon appropriations for the improvement of that harbor, provided the survey results in a favorable report on the project.

Mr. Bryan, as is understood in Honolulu, is interested in securing a careful and comprehensive survey of the Hawaiian islands, ethnographically, ethnologically, and otherwise. He arrived here yesterday and is at the Shoreham. Before he departs he hopes for an interview with President Woodward of the Carnegie Institute, whom he wishes to interest in this big project. He will also probably visit Pittsburgh to talk with Carnegie Institute officials there. It is necessary to interest capitalists in the work, which will eventually cost considerable money.

LAW LIBRARY FOR DOLE'S COURT.

Through the good offices of Col. "Pete" Hepburn chiefly, an appropriation of $10,000 has been put into the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill by the House Committee for a law library for the federal court at Honolulu. The item is in a very promising way to become law.

LIGHTHOUSE APPROPRIATIONS. The appropriations for two light-houses for Hawaii, mentioned in recent letters—$50,000 for Makapuu Point, and $40,000 for a Honolulu Harbor light—will undoubtedly be authorized at this session. The omnibus light-house bill, which passed the House some days ago, has been favorably reported to the Senate by the Committee on Commerce. It will be but a few days before it becomes a law. Senator Perkins, of California, who is a member of the Appropriations Committee, hopes the bill, which carries only authorizations, will reach the President early enough so that an amendment can be put on the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill in the Senate, making the necessary appropriations for these lighthouses, especially those for Hawaii. Otherwise it might be necessary to wait till next year for the appropriations, and for the beginning of the construction.

THE CASE OF ROBERT LEWIS.

Robert P. Lewis, of Honolulu, reputed here to be a man of large means, has been arrested, examined by police surgeons, and confined to St. Elizabeth's as a dangerous lunatic. Because of his violent actions here Friday last it was feared he might do harm, unless placed under restraint.

Lewis walked into the local police court Friday morning and, calling C. A. Massie agent for the Prisoners' Aid Society, from the courtroom, informed him that that night a bullet would

NOW HERE IS THE BIG CHIEF LIAR OF THEM ALL

The Portland Journal has the following:

Officers of the schooner W. F. Garms, Captain Robbins, report that the people of Honolulu have taken the San Francisco disaster so deeply to heart that public places in the cities and towns throughout the islands will remain closed until July 1. This was the understanding when the Garms left Elele for Portland 19 days ago. The islands are short on merchandise of general nature and quotations on provisions of all kinds have been advanced with jumps and bounds.

The schooner Garms arrived this morning in ballast, and being badly weighted down with seaweed and barnacles, went to the dry-dock at St. Johns for cleaning and painting. She will be lifted tomorrow morning, and will remain on the dock until Saturday, when room has to be found for the steamer George W. Elder.

"We left Elele, Hawaiian Islands, 19 days ago," said First Officer McDonald this morning. "Our trip across the sea to the Columbia river was devoid of sensational features, and we sighted only two vessels, the schooners Admiral and W. F. Jewett, both of which came up the river with us in tow of the steamer Oklahama. The people of Honolulu are grieving deeply over the San Francisco disaster and all public places, such as theaters and saloons and other places of amusement, will remain closed until the first of July. This seems rather a long time and they may conclude to reopen at an earlier date upon learning that San Francisco has taken steps to rebuild and again secure a prominent place on the map. Provisions are running pretty low over there, and quotations are reaching the highwater mark."

The Garms was on the Pacific coast 13 months ago, when she sailed from Tacoma for Callao with a cargo of lumber. From Callao she went to Newcastle, New South Wales, and took a cargo of coal for Elele. The run from Australia took 113 days, one of the slowest on record. It was due to light and contrary winds, and many days the log showed no progress at all. The crew was subsisting on scanty rations when the Hawaiian group of islands were finally seen rising on the eastern horizon.

The Garms will receive a cargo of lumber at the mills of the Portland Lumber company for a port in China.

A Rochester man has elaborated a theory that the San Francisco temblor resulted from the generation of electricity caused by the friction of the sea breezes on the land. As a remedy he proposes the planting of conductors to convey the stored electricity in the land back to the sea.

pierce the brain of a prominent public man and another would be imbedded in Massie's head. The threat was handed to Mr. Massie on a walnut shell. The shell had been polished and on it the threat was written in ink.

With a jeering injunction to Mr. Massie to follow him if he dared, the man turned and walked out of the door, while Mr. Massie, overcome with astonishment at the man's audacity and believing him crazy and harmless, allowed him to depart. The shell was still resting in his open palm, when he realized that the man was dangerous and might be wanted by the police, who were then notified.

Last week Lewis was arrested as a vagrant, as his actions were peculiar. "In the police court," Mr. Massie said, "he was sent to the workhouse for 30 days with the provision that if he could produce sufficient proof that he was no vagrant he would be set free.

"I investigated his case and found that he had recently arrived in this city from San Francisco. He is a native of Honolulu and reputed to be very wealthy. He came to America last month for the purpose of securing a patent.

"While in San Francisco the earthquake destroyed all of his models and many of his papers. When transportation was granted all of the refugees who desired to leave the city, he secured free passage to Washington."

Lewis was then released from the workhouse largely on the representations of Delegate Kalaniano'le. Mr. Massie identified him at the postoffice, where he had a money order cashed and later went with him to a patent attorney, who highly recommended the scheme and said it was very valuable. Mr. Massie supposed that Lewis had suddenly lost his mind, as he betrayed no evidence of insanity before Friday.

Two very one-sided games of ball were served up to the big holiday crowd that filled the stand at the baseball park yesterday, the two leading teams trimming the tailenders in easy fashion.

In the opening game, H. A. C. vs. Puns, the former chased home nine times for once that the Puns scored, making seven of their credit marks in the second innings. Outside of that innings the game was a fairly good one. Both teams were changed a little in the lineup, Van Vliet, Jr., being on third and Ahrens in the box for the Puns, and Aylett fielding in the center, with J. Williams on third for the winners. Ahrens proved easy for the Champions, who landed on his delivery for thirteen hits, while Joy was registered for seven. At the bat the big H. A. C. twirler got three hits out of five times up, one of them a nice triple. Van Vliet, Jr., covered third well, making six assists and one put-out for the eight chances coming his way.

Each team scored once in the opening innings. Woods, for the Puns, went first to bat, getting a walk. G. Desha bunted down the first line and beat it to the base, Woods making a break for third and finding Jimmy Williams waiting for him with the ball. Ahrens got a hit. Eddie Desha's fly to left never saw the ground. With J. Desha at the bat G. Desha stole third and came home on the overthrow to that base, while Ahrens filled his place at third on an overthrow to the plate by E. Fernandez. J. Desha walked and Hannah fanned.

E. Fernandez, the first red sweater to bat, bunted and Van Jr. was a trifle slow in the pick-up. J. Williams sent an easy fly to Hannah and Fernandez captured second, taking another on a passed ball. Louis bunted to second and died, Fernandez coming in on the play. Aylett drove to third and had to quit.

The second innings settled the fate of the game, Lyman and the two Van Vliets being quickly retired in the Puns' turn and the H. A. C.'s getting eleven men to bat and scoring seven of them. Ahren couldn't find the blind side of any of the batters and seven singles and a triple were soaked out before the third man fell.

After that there was nothing to it, and although the Puns stayed with it and played as if there was no stone-wall handicap to overcome the fans took little interest in the last seven innings.

HAMPTON PUZZLED THE MAILES.

The tailenders failed altogether in making a dent in the leaders' record, Hampton holding them down to two hits with no runs. The Oahu, for their part, batted as usual and made a double figure in the scoring. Twice Bobby White cleared full bases by timely hits and made a grandstand catch in center-field after a long run. Hampton also did a good share of the fielding, having seven assists to his credit and four strike-outs. The details of the playing are sufficiently given in the following:

Germany defeated Great Britain yesterday in a barge race rowed over the knuckle buoy course in Honolulu harbor. Beer and pretzels established their supremacy over Scotch and soda and the defeated crew acknowledged that their training fluid was not in it with the lager of the Fatherland.

More than usual interest was manifested in the international boat race yesterday. The wharves were lined with spectators. Yachts, steam launches, row boats and almost every sort of craft from a pleasure boat to a Japanese fishing sampan dotted the harbor, all interest centering in the starting place off the Fort street wharf. In the stream near the United States revenue cutter Manning, a large whaleboat of the British cable steamer Restorer was anchored. Two flagstaffs were raised in the boat and from these floated the ensigns of Germany and England. In the boat were the German Consul, W. Protenhauer, judge of the race; the British Consul, R. de B. Layard, starter, and Lieut. Cushman, United States Navy, the umpire.

The vessels in the harbor were decorated not only in honor of Kamehameha Day, but in honor of the great boat race as well. Over at the Myrtle boathouse a large number of friends of the two crews were assembled, with the cadet band of the German training ship Herzogin Sophie Charlotte in attendance. It was arranged that if the Britons won, the band should play "God Save the King"; if the Germans won, it was to be "Die Wacht Am Rhein."

At 4 o'clock the harbor began to fill up with boats and the wharves were black with spectators. Then the quarantine launch, carrying a crowd of ladies whose sympathies were with the Germans, steamed into the arena. Soon after the Restorer's launch, carrying Captain Combe and party and flying the British flag, shot across the course and went to the lighthouse, afterwards following the boats over the course.

After a while the crews came up, the barge Kanoelani carrying the crew of the German training ship Herzogin Sophie Charlotte, and the barge Kapiolani carrying the crew of the British cable steamer Restorer. The Kanoelani was loaned by Prince Kalaniana'ole and the Kapiolani by Secretary of the Territory Aukinson. The crews were as follows:

Restorer—A. J. Clunie, bow; J. W. E. Laker, No. 2; C. Rowell, No. 3; J. Broadfoot, No. 4; J. B. Barnesson, No. 5; W. Wright, stroke; Captain B. C. Combe, coxswain.

Herzogin Sophie Charlotte—W. Fruud, bow; K. Blattner, No. 2; K. Reidel, No. 3; F. Bruny, No. 4; K. Hentschell, No. 5; H. Becker, stroke; Chief Officer Gluud, coxswain.

The Germans were first to the dip and recover, but the Kapiolani shot forward like a feather. As the boats neared the lighthouse, it was seen, however, that the Germans had the heavier stroke. They rounded the lighthouse a little in the lead. The crowd turned the knuckle buoy. They made the turn and faced back on the course before the Britons started to turn. That settled the race for the adherents of the Germans. The crowd at the Myrtle boathouse became jubilant. At the lighthouse the Germans were a dozen lengths ahead of their opponents. The Charlotte's crew finished across the bow of the judge's boat a good twenty lengths ahead and that was the signal for the tooting of the whistles of the revenue cutter Manning, tug Fearless, quarantine launch Oahu and the Restorer's launch, while a wild German yell split the welkin. The Restorer's crew finished, but the entire set of oarsmen were all in. They, too, were given an ovation.

Afterwards everybody repaired to the Myrtle boathouse and winners and losers received the congratulations of the crowd. Consul Protenhauer said: "I am glad the spirit of the Britons, for they said they felt they would lose, but would enter into the sport for sport's sake."

Captain Zander of the German training ship said: "We felt we would win, because our men always keep in trim. This race will be a fine thing to place before the North German Lloyd Company, for it will indicate to them that our men are as fit in the tropics as in the colder places."

The time of the German crew was 12 minutes.

PA-U RIDERS
HONOR DAYPicturesque Cavalcade
Revives Old-Time
Custom.

The Hui Holopa-u Malle Alii have every reason to be satisfied with their first parade as a society, which occurred yesterday in celebration of Kamehameha Day.

The custom of pa-u riding is an old and kingly one and it was eminently fitting that the initial gathering of the club should take place on the anniversary of the birth of Hawaii's greatest king.

About 30 riders gathered at the residence of Mrs. Kaimana Puahi at Waikiki early yesterday morning. The costumes, which were uniform, consisted of yellow skirts, white waists, and straw hats encircled with blue ribbons. Each rider wore a black ribbon as a sash, bearing the word "Kanoelani," done in gold. The word means "the eye of the sun."

Frank Andrade marshaled the procession, which arrived at Washington place at 10:30 a. m. Here Mrs. Puahi saluted Queen Liliuokalani, who was seated on the lanai, surrounded by friends and retainers, with a few appropriate words.

After three cheers for the Queen had been given by the riders, the procession moved to the rooms of the Hawaii Promotion Committee, where Mrs. Puahi thanked the committee for what they had done on behalf of the custom of pa-u riding and the club. Three hearty cheers were given. Present at the rooms were Messrs. J. A. McCandless, J. Spaulding and H. P. Wood.

The next point visited was the statue of Kamehameha I in front of the Judiciary building. The statue was decorated with leis and after a short address by Mrs. Puahi, the riders sang "Hawaii Ponoi," their old national anthem, all Hawaiians in the vicinity uncovering.

Cheers having been given before the statue, the cavalcade galloped to Kapiolani Park, where an exhibition of riding was given by the members of the club. The riders then adjourned to Mrs. Puahi's residence, where a luau was served.

The pa-u riders included Mrs. Kaimana Puahi, Mrs. S. Kamalopili, Miss Lillian Keomalu, Mrs. Wahinekapu Kamaheka, Mrs. J. H. S. Kaleo, Mrs. N. Van Giesen, Mrs. Woolsey, Mrs. Mary Ann Makai, Mrs. Aukai Kae, Mrs. Kaimanipa, Mrs. Hilo Molo, Mrs. Kanuku Mahi, Mrs. Kahapahu, Mrs. Hikimalame, Mrs. Haalou, Mrs. Hattie Thompson, Mrs. Malua, Mrs. Kattie Stall, Miss Tilda Woolsey, Miss Fry, Mrs. A. Makai, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Nakike, Mrs. Makahina.

KAMEHAMEHA I
YACHT LAUNCHED

A nice addition was made to Honolulu's yacht flotilla yesterday, when Robert Scott of the Honolulu Iron Works had a new sloop boat launched. In honor of the day the craft was christened Kamehameha I. Mrs. Scott breaking a bottle of champagne over its bow. The launching was off John Ena's place, where Ala Moana joins the old Waikiki road. It was in charge of John Hiram, an old employee of the Iron Works, the motive brawn to slide the boat over the reef being supplied by fellow-workmen of Messrs. Scott and Hiram. The performance was slick as could be. When the boat dipped into deep water, it was taken hold of by Young Bros.' launch and towed to Bishop's wharf.

Among those present, with the foundrymen, were Mr. and Mrs. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Dillon, Mr. and Mrs. Ormond, A. W. Neely, Chas. Lewis, Clarence Givrin and George Little. The Kamehameha I is 49 feet long over all, 14 feet beam and 6 feet 2 inches head room in the cabin. Mr. Scott designed and built her himself. The keel was laid two years ago last January. She will be sloop-rigged and is expected to be smart. It is probable that she will take part in the round-the-island race after the finish of the ocean yacht race.

BROWN LOST
MANY TEETHUnfortunate Happening
at the Cricket Match.

The cricketers made a late start at Makiki yesterday, it being after 2 p. m. before the game, which was scheduled for 1 p. m., started.

Sides were picked by R. Anderson and C. P. Morse and the match resulted in a win for the latter by 48 runs.

An unfortunate accident occurred soon after the game started. Brown was keeping wicket and D. L. Withington was at bat. In playing a ball the batsman made a swipe with his bat which struck Brown flush in the mouth with full force, knocking out a number of teeth.

The injured man was taken to Dr. Herbert in an automobile and his hurt attended to. He afterwards returned to the ground and watched the game out. McConnell took his place in the actual play.

Brown is a new member of the club and expressions of sympathy on the part of the members was general.

Morse's side batted first and were all out for 73, Gill (32 not out) and Morse (15) being the chief scorers. Gill's run-getting streak is considerably improving his average.

Catt did the best bowling, securing 4 wickets for 19 runs.

Thanks to Anderson (79) his side totalling 121. The skipper played a fine innings but unluckily skied a ball which Bailey grabbed and held when the last man was at the wicket.

R. A. Jordan had a field day with the bat, knocking up 22 before being run out.

McConnell (11) showed good form and seemed to be nicely set when given out leg before wicket.

Beardmore was remarkably successful with the ball, 5 wickets falling to him for the trivial cost of 17 runs.

The fielding of Bailey was a feature of the innings.

HAWAII'S ROAD TO PROSPERITY.

Important to Hawaii as was the opening of the Kohala Ditch yesterday, it had no greater augury of public good than was conveyed in the pledge of President Roosevelt, first given out at the Kohala ceremonies, to use the power of his great office "to help in every way the purpose to try to secure a white population of actual land-tillers who are small land-owners," in this Territory.

No land can progress which exists by a single industry.

No civilization is secure which rests on the labor of a servile class and the enrichment of the few.

No country can be Americanized until it has a large white population tilling the soil for itself, free from the control of an employing aristocracy.

No land does justice to itself and its inhabitants until it produces all the agricultural commodities for which its climate and soil are fit and for which there is a cash market.

Upon these four propositions the Advertiser long ago took its stand and made its greatest fight. Every other newspaper was against it and it had to meet and argue with a strong business aversion to any change in the economic system of the Territory. But success was bound to come. It was not long before the planters declared in favor of small farms; and in due time the cultivation of specialized tropical products called for wider areas of land. Pineapple and sisal culture began to expand; coffee, under intelligent direction, began to pay; rubber culture has started under promising auspices, and now labor is being sought on a land-owning basis. As for the once anti-farmer press it is either complaisant over the outlook for diversified industries or it is shouting for the importation of "100,000 farmers" without delay.

Better than all, the President of the United States has placed himself firmly on the side of the small farm movement and the Territorial government is responding to his wishes.

Hawaii's destiny will be realized when:

(I) All available sugar land has been made to produce its staple by means of citizen labor domiciled on the soil.

(II) All land not available for sugar has been settled by white American farmers raising tobacco, sisal, rubber, coffee or other products for which the mainland will be a reliable cash market.

(III) All unoccupied land, held for speculation or for baronial privacy has been forced into the market by the operation of a tax law framed upon that of New Zealand.

A Hawaii like that will be prosperous, well-governed and enlightened—the Paradise of the Pacific indeed.

And it is coming.

THE LABOR PROBLEM.

Any intelligent contribution to the solution of the plantation labor problem is of value. Mr. George Osborne, who formerly was a frequent contributor to discussions of the sugar industry, had a thoughtful letter in yesterday's Advertiser, advocating a system of profit-sharing with laborers. He argues that this would have a twofold effect for the benefit of the plantations, increasing the productive capacity of the laborers and preventing their migration from one plantation to another. This idea is not new, but nevertheless it may be worthy of reviving, at this time, in the consideration of plans for bettering the labor situation. There have been experiments with profit-sharing here and perhaps some are being continued, though little has been heard of such for a number of years. Indeed, the plan appears to have been generally discarded in favor of cane-planting on contracts, which is now practically the exclusive system on the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co.'s plantation, the largest in the group, and is in vogue on many other estates. It is regarded as an effectual preventive of strikes, besides producing a higher standard of cultivation than the direct employment of laborers by the plantations has done.

Cultivating on shares—the owning companies doing the plowing and providing the irrigation—is no doubt an improvement on the old system of having the labor controlled directly. Yet it does not appear to have prevented the continuance of the damaging process of change in the labor supply of the plantations. When the California fever struck the Japanese, those working for contractors of their own nationality took the infection as well as others. Where, therefore, the contract system is in operation it might be an improvement if the contractors were induced to add to the wages of their labor a share of the profits from the contracts. Perhaps some do.

Mr. Osborne puts the situation truly when he says, without objecting to the means now being employed to get laborers, that "what is mainly needed here is to create a condition which will induce or encourage laborers to stay here, and in fact induce others to come of their own accord." But it is not so certain that he is on sure ground in maintaining further that "this condition can be brought about without a cent of cost to anyone, but on the contrary at a great gain to everybody"—going on to state the means whereby such an end can be attained as "simply to divide a part of the dividends among the laborers." The proposition is probably too large a one to be settled by merely setting up a banner in our cane fields and expecting a suitable class of labor to flock to it from the four points of the compass.

There is a transition period upon the Hawaiian agricultural labor problem and the change from old ideas and practices to new will not come about suddenly. "The means that are now being employed to get laborers," all will agree with Mr. Osborne, "are undoubtedly good as far as they go." They are indeed absolutely necessary if the labor system of the Territory is to be harmonized with the policy that President Roosevelt has prescribed of developing the islands upon American lines. On the part of the Territorial executive this policy has taken form in active steps to obtain and domicile upon the plantations a class of labor that will become attached to the soil and blended with the American body politic. An agent is off now for Europe to recruit immigration of that stamp. It is to be hoped that he will succeed early, at least to the extent of bringing out an advance contingent whose reports sent back, after they had been domiciled long enough to know how they liked it, might preclude the necessity of any further trouble and expense in soliciting more people where they came from. Whether profit-sharing should be included in the inducements to such immigration would likely depend on the individual arrangements of plantations with their labor allotments. If they are to be recompensed with a daily or a monthly wage, yes. But if they are to be allotted given areas to cultivate at so much a ton for the product of cane, the principle of profit-sharing would be already observed in the degree of the liberality of the contract on their side. This might above a minimum standard be regulated by a sliding scale adapting itself automatically to the state of the sugar market.

This policy of domiciling labor has even now been given a start with laborers already on the ground. It gives promise of being a success with Portuguese and others who have had experience upon the plantations which gives them exact knowledge of what they are going into. With a colony of Molokans from Russia, raw to climate and conditions, it has proved a failure. At the best that can be expected it will take years before the policy is established over the sugar industry as a whole, if indeed it ever attain to universality, but in the meantime the Territory is committed to the exhaustion of every effort to establish it as the main reliance for a permanent supply of labor, as well as one of the surest means for the Americanizing of Hawaii.

The old order is passing. Any efforts to retain features thereof inconsistent with the ideas prevailing in Washington can only fail, besides, while persisted in, impeding the evolution of a better system and one of permanency to give stability to all Hawaii's material interests. On the other hand, the policy of domiciling labor may not have plain sailing. It may even be balked by legislation in Washington that will ignore the peculiar necessities of the case here. What may be next best, in the event of its delay, will then have to be considered. Practical ideas like those of Mr. Osborne were never more reasonable than now.

This is a time, also, for inventive talent to be exerted with a view to the saving of labor on the plantations. The standard sugar mill of today is an epitome of modern progress in labor-saving devices and scientific economies of manufacture. Progress in cultivating and harvesting the cane has not attained a parallel with the advanced methods of raising other crops on a large scale. Cane, it is true, is a heavier proposition than wheat for instance, yet it presents no more difficult a problem for the reduction of manual labor than a thousand others over which inventive skill has within the past century triumphed.

MOUNTAINS THAT SINK.

The sinking of a volcanic mountain as occurred very lately in the Philippines, is a phenomenon, which, especially where the cones are active, naturally ought to occur oftener than it does.

When you look at a volcano all you see of it has been subtracted from portions of its base. The vast bulk has been built up at the expense of its own foundations. These have been melted and poured out of an orifice and then out of a cone or cones in which the orifice continues. What happens? The heavier the mass grows above ground the weaker becomes the structure it rests upon. Some safety is had from the pyramidal shape of the mountain, but not a guarantee; for a pyramid as well as a square must have good underpinning or it will sink.

In a country like the Philippines, where earthquakes are frequent, volcanic mountains are made to oscillate over what may be vast caverns, more or less hot and subject to molten subsidences of rock partitions—caverns which may be subject to the same seismic shock that affects the mountain. Any sudden convulsion may break the last remaining props under the volcano and down it goes out of sight. Such things have happened now and then and the wonder is that a volcanic mountain ever grows to the snow line.

According to Willett & Gray the visible coffee supply of the world was nearly two million bags less on May 1, 1906, than on May 1, 1905, the figures being 12,297,490 for 1905 and 10,356,157 for 1906. Willett & Gray continue roasting the exporters in Rio for attempting to mislead the market. "In the years when they were bullish," the latest W. & G. circular says of those people, "the market continually went down, and now that they are bearish in the face of sound conditions as to consumption and production, their errors this time are likely to be just as pronounced as before."

Of course "we all," as the Southerner would say, knew that no ocean beach in all the world could compare with that of Waikiki for bathing, and all the year round at that. Yet it is pleasant to be told by a tourist who has visited all the shining strands on the surface of the globe that Waikiki is incomparably the finest.

According to County Attorney Case, gambling as a trade has been exterminated on Maui. Taking his report as correct and considering other items of county administration, Maui would stand well for first prize in a moral competition of counties.

THE WEDDING DAY BOMB

Details of the Attempt to Kill King Alfonso.

MADRID, May 31.—The public rejoicings over the marriage of King Alfonso and Princess Victoria had a terribly dramatic sequel at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, as a bomb thrown from an upper window exploded with deadly effect near the coach occupied by the King and Queen. Providentially King Alfonso and Queen Victoria escaped, when an electric wire deflected the bomb. The exact casualties from the bomb explosion are twenty dead and seventy-six injured.

General Weyler was seriously wounded. Five of the wounded are dying.

A jeweled decoration worn by King Alfonso was shattered by a splinter of the bomb. Queen Victoria is irremediably, declaring that she is responsible for so many persons being killed.

The explosion occurred just as the royal couple were about to enter the royal palace. The route of the cortege had been diverted from Arsenal street to Mayor street owing to the popular desires. The procession had just passed through Mayor street and was about to enter the esplanade leading to the palace when an explosion shook the buildings in the vicinity, stunning a large number of people and throwing the cortege into inextricable confusion.

The royal coach was brought to a sudden stop by the shock, officers and soldiers of the escort falling to the ground about the querry and horses that had been killed. The screams of the terrified multitude mingled with the groans of the dying. It was immediately seen that the royal coach was intact except as it had been damaged by flying splinters. King Alfonso immediately alighted and assisted Queen Victoria out of the carriage. They then entered another coach and were driven swiftly to the palace.

All this happened so quickly that people away from the immediate vicinity were not aware of the tragedy and continued to acclaim their sovereigns. Soon, however, there appeared the empty royal coach with the horses missing, and others splattered with blood.

The grooms' and drivers looked deathly pale in their spangled uniforms. Then came a boy shouting that a bomb had been thrown at the King.

The appearance of the King and Queen in a coach brought out delicious ovations. The bomb, which was concealed in a bouquet, was of polished steel, half a centime thick. It was thrown from a third-floor window. The house, according to some reports, belongs to the Queen-mother, having been bequeathed to her by a philanthropist, and being the only house she owns in Madrid.

The house is opposite the Church of the Sacramento and the Captain-General's residence. The royal procession had come to a temporary stop, with the royal carriage exactly opposite the house when the bomb was thrown. The missile fell to the right of the royal carriage, between the hindmost pair of horses and the front pair of wheels.

The explosion killed two horses and a groom. The Duke of Sotomayor, who was riding on the right of the carriage, was slightly wounded. The scene of the tragedy presented a horrible spectacle, with dead men and horses lying about, literally torn to pieces.

Intense excitement prevailed, the mob invading the streets, while the forces of the guards sought to maintain order and block the approaching streets. The bodies were wrapped up in blankets and removed on litters, while the wounded were taken to hospitals in ambulances. The pavement was literally covered with blood, and the upper stories of the buildings nearby were startled with it.

The place from which the bomb was thrown is a boarding-house. The chamber from which the missile was hurled was taken May 23 by a man from Barcelona giving the name of Moral. When the police surrounded the house the man attempted to flee, but was captured. Another man escaped over the roofs of houses.

One of the injured proved to be a son-in-law of Premier Moret's private secretary. According to an official statement, it is not known whether one or more bombs were thrown. The statement continues that it is impossible to ascertain at present the authority of the outrage, although it is known that a Catalan named Manuel Duran took an apartment in the house from which the bomb was thrown May 23, paying in advance with a 500-pesta bill. He was well dressed, of elegant appearance and showed a fondness for flowers.

Frederick Whitridge, the American special envoy, went to the royal palace late this evening, where he was assured the King and Queen were reasonably tranquil, considering the circumstance. When the Duke of Sotomayor was entering the palace at the time Mr. Whitridge was there, thus showing that his wounds were not serious. Mr. Whitridge also called at the Foreign Office, and on behalf of the United States expressed profound sympathy with the Spanish sovereigns and people.

SUICIDE OF BOMB THROWER. MADRID, June 3.—Manuel Morales, who ruthlessly slaughtered more than a score of fellow beings in the Calle Mayor Thursday in a vain attempt to murder King Alfonso and Queen Victoria of Spain, is dead by his own hand after adding another cowardly crime to the list before he died. His capture and suicide adds another dramatic chapter to the events surrounding the royal wedding.

Morales was recognized in the little town of Torrejon de Ardos, midway between Madrid and Alcalá. A guard sought to detain him, but Morales, drawing a revolver, shot the guard dead. Then he turned to flee, but a number of the inhabitants of the town were upon him, and, turning the revolver upon himself, he sent a shot in the region of his heart, expiring a few minutes later.

Senor Cuesta, the proprietor of the hotel from the balcony of which Morales threw the bomb, viewed the body this morning and completely identified it as that of his recent guest.

It was late Saturday evening when Morales, disguised in the garb of a laborer, entered Torrejon de Ardos. He inquired of some children when the next train would depart for Barcelona. It was then noticed that his workman's garb did not correspond to that usually worn by a person of his station in life, his face and manners showing him to be a man of some distinction.

A private watchman from a large neighboring estate chanced to be present and he noticed the facial resemblance of Morales to the descriptions given out of the man seen on the balcony from which the bomb was thrown, particularly the long, thin and deeply serious face and the closely cropped mustache. He then observed that a finger on the man's left hand, which the stranger was trying to conceal, was badly hurt, and that there was also a small fresh scar on his forehead. The stranger started out a road leading into the country, but the watchman intercepted him and demanded to know his identity. Morales declined to give this, whereupon a guard arrested him. Instantly Morales drew the revolver from his pocket and fired, the guard falling dead. Morales started up the road, but a small group of villagers barred his passage. Then, turning around, he deliberately pointed the weapon to his heart, fired and pitched forward in the roadway.

An examination of the pockets of the dead man showed that they contained $36 in money and a small supply of bread and cheese, but there was nothing in them that would give a clue as to his identity.

This fact created a doubt that the man was Morales, but when the Governor of Madrid arrived with Cuesta identification was immediate and positive. The body was then brought to Madrid. At first there was a desire to bury it at Torrejon de Ardos, but when this was suggested the villagers indignantly refused to permit the body to repose in their town.

The villagers of Torrejon de Ardos gave a graphic description of the capture and death of Morales. They say he appeared to be greatly fatigued and fell asleep on a bench at the station. On entering the station he called for dinner, but scarcely tasted a morsel. The loquacious proprietor of the inn discussed with him the prevailing topic of the throwing of the bomb at Madrid, declaring it a hideous crime. At this the stranger shifted nervously, saying: "Every one has his ideas, which should be respected." Shortly after this he tried to leave the town.

After shooting himself, Morales fell in the road. The villagers who advanced toward the spot, with the most venturesome among them, Francisco Martinez, leading, saw Morales make a desperate effort to raise himself on his elbow, his right hand still grasping the revolver. Then the wounded man fell backward, but the villagers waited a few minutes before going closer, fearing that he might still be able to use the weapon. When they did venture to the spot where the man lay Morales was dead. The weapon used by him was a seven-shot revolver.

A close examination of the dead man showed that there were three abrasions on the body besides the death wound—one on the hand, one under the left eye and one on the forehead. His disguise was complete to the last detail, even including the common steel watch ordinarily carried by workmen. The body of Morales was exposed this afternoon for the purpose of allaying public indignation. Thousands of persons surged before the municipal morgue, seeking to get into the room where the body lay, but the police blocked the way of the throng, which murmured imprecations upon the assassin. Public feeling was intense.

"It is seldom that a bomb explosion has had such deadly effect, in this case twenty-four persons being killed and more than eighty wounded."

The final disposition of the body of Morales has not yet been determined upon.

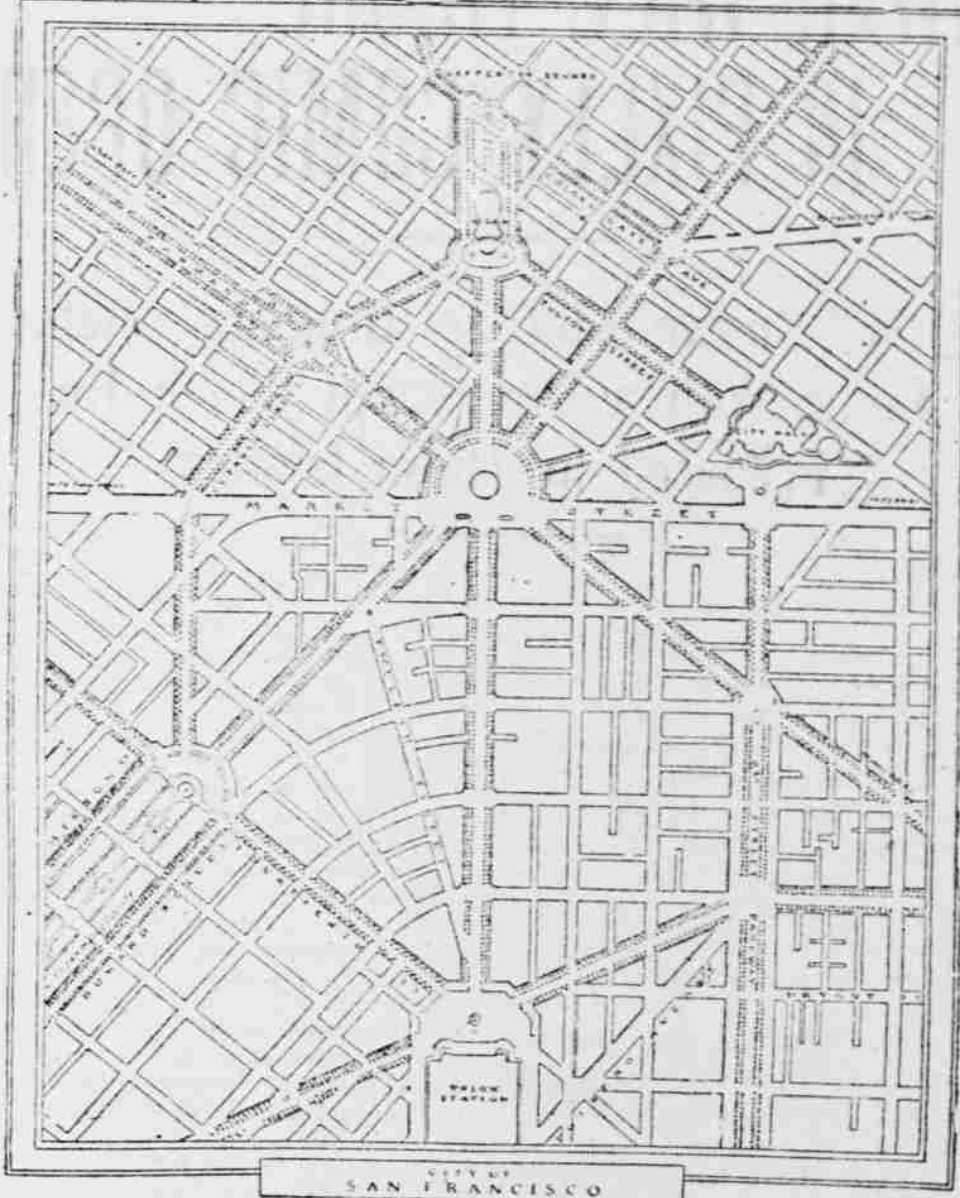

The American Envoy to the royal wedding, Frederick W. Whitridge, and his suite had an opportunity for a brief consultation with King Alfonso during the reception at the palace Saturday night. When the consultation finally turned to the attempt upon the King and Queen, King Alfonso shrugged his shoulders and made the following statement, showing how he views the future:

"Yes, fortunately, it was unsuccessful, but it will come again. It may be any time—perhaps tomorrow; perhaps within a month; perhaps within a year; but it will come."

The face of the King wore a look of calm resignation as he gave this forecast of the future. Although he bore himself splendidly throughout the terrible experience, courtiers who witnessed the trying scene as King Alfonso and Queen Victoria hurried within the castle after the attempt was made to assassinate them, say that for a moment King Alfonso's nerves were completely unstrung and that he turned to Queen Victoria, whose dress was splattered with blood, and said: "Why did I bring you to this country? It was wrong. You should never have come here."

Then the Queen mother and one of the infantas calmed the overwrought nerves of the King and the bridal couple repaired sadly to the nuptial chamber.

The King and Queen attended the opera tonight and were greeted with enthusiasm. It was a brilliant spectacle. The opera was "Lucia di Lammermoor." The churches of Madrid today celebrated mass and offered up thanksgiving for the escape of the King and Queen. The scene at the cathedral was impressive.

THE PROPOSED HUB OF SAN FRANCISCO.

Surrounding the point of intersection of the great highways that are to cross San Francisco in all directions Mr. Burnham has planned a system of connecting avenues which will distribute traffic, prevent congestion, and afford a splendid setting for public and semi-public buildings. At one side of this is to be a monumental railroad station, from which the arriving traveler will look through a long vista to a majestic opera-house.

MANHOOD

FOR MEN WHO HAVE LOST IT

Strong Men Are Full of Electricity.

Weak Men are Lacking in Electricity.

Do you want to Be "A Man Among Men?" Write To-day.

Everybody Admires and Honors a Strong Man. Are You One?

Let any man who is weak, broken down, old and decrepit in physical weakness, full of pains and aches, gloomy, despondent and cheerless—any man who wants to be stronger and younger than he feels—let him come and tell me how he feels, and if I say that I can cure him I will forfeit $1000 if I fail.

I don't want money that I don't earn. I don't need it, and am not after it. But I am after the dollars that are now going wrong in the quest of health. Look at all these poor wrecks of humanity that are spending all they earn on drugs—drugs that are paralyzing their vital organs—that have spent all they have earned for years without gaining a pound of strength for the hundreds of dollars wasted.

That is the money I am after, because for every dollar I take I can give a thousand per cent interest. I have cured so many cases right here that I can prove my claims to you, but if that proof is not enough I'll give you the names of men right near you—where you are. Is that fair?

Most of the Bells that I am selling now are to men who have been sent here by their friends whom I have cured. I think that is the best evidence that my business is a success from the standpoint of cures, as well as the dollar side.

Wherever you are, I think I can give you the name of a man in your town that I have cured. Just send me your address and let me try. This is my twenty-fourth year in the business of pumping new vim into wornout humanity, and I've got cures in nearly every town on the map.

Come and see me if you can and I'll fix you up; or, if you can't call, write to me, and I'll do the same. I've got a nice book on men that I'll send sealed, free, if you enclose this ad.

HAWAII WILL FIGURE IN PIXLEY COMIC OPERA

The Well-Known Chicago Dramatist Returns Home With a Manuscript Which He Prepared in These Islands.

The Chicago Record-Herald says:

Frank Pixley, dramatist, poet and story writer, returned to Chicago yesterday with a valise bulging with the manuscript of a just completed comic opera, the scenes of which are laid in the Hawaiian Islands. In the writer's pockets jingled the brass checks for nine trunks crammed with kimono, paintings, Buddhist idols and other Japanese local color that will furnish inspiration for a subsequent production.

Mr. Pixley, with his wife, has been sequestered in Japan for the past six and a half months while he was incorporating into song and story the scenes and incidents he had absorbed the winter before in Honolulu. He will leave for New York in a few days to dispose of the production. Gustav Luders, who has cooperated with him in most of his operas, probably will write the score.

Japan is a land of sunshine and flowers only in name, according to the returned pilgrim. He found eight inches of snow on the ground when he arrived. Before he left he had become sufficiently acclimated to live in a house with walls of oiled paper, unresisting to snow or wintry blasts. The natives keep warm by bathing, he says. While in Japan Mr. Pixley met everybody from the mikado to peasants, and lived deep in the interior of the island, far from the beaten paths of tourists.

"You would not know there had ever been a war," said Mr. Pixley. "The country has a wonderful army and navy. Every effort of the mikado has been given to its development. Now he is paying attention to education and commerce. In ethics, morals, commercial honor and such virtues, the Japanese are a thousand years behind civilization. But they are the most courteous people on earth."

"The people in the interior are very primitive. A foreigner is a never ending curiosity and is always followed by crowds. There are only two rules of life which they respect—obey the emperor, and follow the dictates of nature. Whole villages go into their swimming pools together. Men and women go about barefooted, clad in kimono open from their chins down."

"In winter the natives bathe in vats in their houses, where the water is at a temperature of 130 degrees. Then they will go out and work three or four hours barefooted in the snow before coming in to take another warming bath."

"They revere the emperor, and when, on solicitation of the missionaries, he directed that the sexes be segregated at the village swimming pools, they obeyed him without understanding why. Now a bamboo pole is stretched across the pools and the men go in on one side and the women the other. There are no towels in the interior and they all run around on the beach until the wind dries them."

TOTS CARRY BABIES.

"Children swarm everywhere. The men do the embroidery and such work, which falls to women in this country, and the women, who must work in the fields, have no time to care for the babies. As soon as a baby is able to toddle, a doll is strapped on its back. It is taught to carry the doll, head upward. Papers and rags are added to the doll and by the time a second baby comes to the family the doll is removed and the new baby is substituted on the back of its predecessor. Everywhere mites of children are seen carrying babies on their backs."

"Jiso, the god who cares for the little children after they die, is, next to Buddha, the most popular idol in the country. Statues of him with long flowing sleeves, one hiding the children and the other carrying sweetmeats and toys, are seen along every road. Children's clothes and cobble stones surround these shrines—the clothes for the comfort of the departed ones and the stones to relieve them of any tasks imposed by the witch, Agra. Agra is supposed to keep every bad child who dies busy gathering stones for a hundred years."

WOMEN ARE DEVOUT.

"Though the Japanese religion has no place for women, the women are religious. When the great temple at Kioto was rebuilt the women of the countryside, who had no money to give, cut off their hair to make cables to hold the heavy beams. Twenty-nine of these, 11-6 inches in diameter, and from 150 to 200 feet long, are hanging in the temple. The religion offers no hope of reward for correct living, nor any punishment for incorrect. Consequently, Japanese do not employ their fellow countrymen in positions of commercial trust. Chinese are the cashiers and tellers in Japanese banks and warehouses."

Mr. Pixley wrote "The Prince of Pilsen in Vienna and Italy," "King Dodo" in the Bermudas, "Woodland" in Southern California and the Sandwich Islands, and "The Burgomaster" at the Union League Club in Chicago. He has not selected a name for the new play written in Japan, nor the locality where he will immerse himself next winter to write the Japanese play.

AN OLD MAXIM APPLIED TO A MODERN REMEDY.

"Everyone speaks of the feast as he finds it," is a maxim of the Portuguese. Judging by the letters received from people all over the country, praising Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, it is evident this remedy has been found satisfactory. It is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, and no case has yet been reported where it has failed to give relief, and it has been in general use for more than a quarter of a century. ALIEN JAPANESE MUST LEAVE AMERICAN NAVY

NEW YORK, June 2.—All Japanese are to be excluded from the American Navy on July 1st unless they produce citizenship papers or a signed statement declaring they will take out the same. In the future no Japanese will be allowed in the Navy unless he renounces the Emperor in favor of the Stars and Stripes. Orders to drop the names of all alien Japanese from the papers of every warship in this country have been issued by Secretary of the Navy Bonaparte. He further directs that the places of Japanese who have been employed as stewards and servants to be filled by American negroes.

Officers of the navy yard in Brooklyn say that it has been discovered that the Japanese Government has been able, through its subjects on board American ships, to learn altogether too much about the Yankee service, not only the personnel, but also plans for the future defense. Hence Bonaparte's order.

A story is told by officers of American battleships now at anchor in North river that less than a month ago a midshipman discovered a Japanese steward making plans of the business section of the turrets of one of the latest types of warships. The steward's personal effects were searched by order of the commander of the ship. It was discovered he had been working for weeks on the plans of the ship, and he was a remarkably fine draftsman. The matter was reported to Washington and was doubtless one of the things which caused the order issued against the Japanese.

CONSTANTINOPLE REPORTS A CURE FOR THE LEPROSY

BERLIN, June 2.—The Hamburger Nachrichten's Constantinople correspondent telegraphs that Deycke Pasha, director of the Culbanc Hospital at Constantinople, has discovered a new method for the prevention and cure of leprosy. He claims the method will render people immune to the disease and cure all cases where the virus has not yet completely destroyed the system. He hopes the discovery will render possible the eradication of the disease in all districts where it is now prevalent, such as those in Norway.

FURNITURE CHEAP

Increased business has forced us to add another store to our large Young Building furniture establishment. This gives us a frontage of 93 feet on Bishop street and depth of 68 feet. We are handling a large quantity of furniture and in this way are setting the pace on prices. We buy in large quantities and thus get our goods from the manufacturers cheaper. We ship in large quantities and are thus enabled to take the cheapest freight rates. This is of interest to you as it means we can sell the goods to you at bedrock prices.

LOW PRICES NOW

The summer months in Honolulu, particularly the months of June and July, are usually dull as far as furniture is concerned. Now, we have been importing large quantities of goods which have reached us during the last month; the steamer "Nebraskan" brought in a big lot. This rather takes even our 15,000 square feet of show room and warehouse space. We wish to brighten up June and July business this year and also to reduce stock. On this account we are going to cut our profits and move the goods. This means low prices. Come in and tell us of your wants, we can save you some money. There is not one home in Honolulu that is fully furnished—that is not one but what needs an article or two to fill out. What does your home need?

GOOD FURNITURE

We may be able to tell you. Perhaps you need new feather pillows or mattresses for your beds, and possibly a new bed would be better and more sanitary than the one you have now? Another chair for bedroom, diningroom or kitchen? A new dining set or some odd pieces for your parlor? New shades for your windows?

In bedroom sets we have some really dainty pieces in Mahogany, Curly Birch, Birdseye Maple and Golden Oak and many odd bureaus in all kinds of woods.

We have everything you need in the house furnishing line. Furnish your home better and reap big enjoyment dividends thereon.

Who's Your Tailor?

We have just completed arrangements with one of the largest and most reliable "Merchant Tailoring" establishments in the United States, by which we are prepared to take your orders for suits, trousers, etc.

We have now on hand and ready for inspection, 500 samples of woollens, from which to select.

Your measurement will be carefully and properly taken, and the garment delivered within a very reasonable time.

The large line of patterns which we show, reduces to a minimum the possibility of meeting every other man wearing a suit of similar design to yours.

We will make any style of suit for you from "Full Dress" to a Golf Outfit.

For those who are unable to spare the time required to have their garments made up, we have on hand the biggest and best stock of the famous "Stein Bloch" ready-to-wear clothing that we have ever carried.

We have also added a handsome line of the famous Paragon Trousers in outing and business patterns.

It is only a pleasure to us to show you what we have; your inspection is invited.

At the first concert given in Paris by Jean de Reszke since he became a teacher, the debutantes who aroused the greatest enthusiasm were Mary Tracy, a young American girl; May Macnamley, an Australian; Miss Tate, an English girl, and Mr. Binyon, a Canadian.

It is probable that the liquor saloon license fee in San Francisco will be $500 a year. The Ministerial Union petitioned to have it $1000, and Bishop Montgomery and the Catholic clergy not less than $500. Both Protestants and Catholics asked to have grocery and saloon disavowed.

President Cabrera's statement that the revolution on Guatemala has been crushed is ridiculed in despatches from Mexico, which state that the affair has only begun. In upper Guatemala enthusiasm for General Barillas is growing and preparations are being made to give battle to the loyal forces at the capital. President Escalon, of Salvador, has informed the Associated Press that he has nothing to do with the revolution.

Senator Shortridge of the California Legislature stands prepared to make a strong fight for a decent appropriation to restore Agnews Asylum. He has heard vague whisperings about some underhanded scheme to rob Santa Clara county of its asylum. It will take about $700,000 to restore buildings, but Shortridge thinks about $230,000 will be sufficient for the present fiscal year.

A London special to the New York World says that Mrs. Almerie Hugh Paget, a daughter of the late William C. Whitney, won $7000 at bridge whist and poker during April. She has paid $40,000 for the lease of Mrs. Hartmann's house in Berkeley square. King Edward, who at one time frequently visited Mrs. Hartmann, was wont to declare that the most comfortable house in Mayfair.

The Health Commission at San Francisco has ordered that all bodies which had been interred in the city cemeteries under temporary permits be exhumed and taken beyond the city limits within the next sixty days. It was also resolved to issue no such permits in the future, conditions having again approached a normal basis. During the days immediately succeeding the fire a number of bodies were buried in the parks and vacant lots. These have, with one or two exceptions, been removed, and the Health Officer will at once order the exhuming of such as remain.

The California Legislature on the first day of the extraordinary session, June 2, broke all records in organizing and getting down to business. One bill was passed through all its stages and reached the Governor's hands late at night. It was one extending the statute of limitations, so that whenever the time within which an action must be brought would expire after June 1, 1906, and before January 1, 1907, such action may be commenced at any time prior to the latter date. Other urgency measures were advanced, including postponement of date of publication of delinquent tax lists and granting a month of grace for performance of legal acts that would otherwise have to be performed in this June.

In the military appropriation bill, which went to the President from conference June 2, is a provision authorizing the expenditure of $1,500,000 at Fort Mason for Army supply depots and transport docks, and makes $750,000 immediately available to begin the work of construction. Californians in Washington regard this as a triumph for Senator Perkins, who engineered the matter. By establishing supply depots and transport docks at Fort Mason the Government is permanently committed to San Francisco as the Army headquarters of the Pacific Coast, Alaska, Hawaii and the Philippines. The military bill also carries an appropriation of $50,000 for beginning a small repair plant at Benicia arsenal. This modest appropriation is in reality the beginning of a manufacturing plant at Benicia that will ultimately employ thousands of men, according to the plans adopted by the War Department.

A Tucson, Ariz., dispatch of June 2 says the damage done by rioting Mexican miners at Cananea was not so great as was at first reported, but grave fears were still entertained for the safety of the American population there. The hatred of the striking Mexicans for the Americans was intense. Only two Americans were killed in the disturbance of the previous Friday. Twenty-five rioters were shot down before they could be driven back. The majority of the American volunteers would return home on the arrival of 800 men under General Torres, as both the Mexicans and the Americans desired to avoid international complications if possible. Governor Ysabel expected to be able to control the situation with Mexican troops, which would number 1300 on arrival of Torres' party. The State Department on June 2 received a most urgent telegraphic appeal for help from American Consul Agent Galbraith (Dr. Galbraith formerly of Honolulu) at Cananea. It also received direct application from the Governor of the State of Sonora, Mex., for help from the American side, a most extraordinary occurrence. While doubt was felt by Washington officials as to the right of the United States to send troops into a friendly state, the officials of the general staff were making ready to execute any orders that might be issued.

IN THE WASTE PLACES.

By James W. Girvin.

My old Missourian friend, whose company I have enjoyed in the valleys and on the mountain tops, came to me with a proposition to go to Pearl Harbor on a yacht. He had obtained the consent of the owner to invite a friend. Early on Sunday morning we slid out of the harbor on the good yacht Spray and were soon heeling to the breeze along the coast, scanning the beautiful scenery which the island affords from the sea. Trailing behind us was a fleet of white wings bound to Pearl Harbor to join in the afternoon races. Towards sea a Kaula steamer gradually arose on the horizon, white caps scudded across the face of the deep, flying fish leapt from crest to crest, and the line of breakers guarding the coast was distinctly visible.

Our able captain soon made the entrance to the harbor and we were quickly beating our way up the winding channel which Uncle Sam has so well defined with buoys and numbered spars. It was a delightful sail and all too short to suit our hunger for yachting. We were quickly made fast to the wharf and thrown on our own resources.

I suggested that we walk around to Waipio and see the oyster beds, the reputation for the pearls of which had given the name of Pearl Harbor to the expansive and beautiful lochs. He was rather suspicious of there being any oysters or of obtaining any of the excreta from the diseased bivalve dominated pearls, but as I had never deceived him he blindly followed my lead.

Having arrived at the land denominated Waipio, we walked along the embankment of the immense fishpond which is now used for a roadway for conveying cane from the Waipio Peninsula. It afforded an opportunity to see the great variety of fish sporting themselves in their native element and to see some rare specimens of jelly fish. One beautiful anemone attracted his attention and he would fain have gathered it in if a hand net had been convenient. It certainly was one of the most beautiful sea anemones I had ever seen and might well engross the attention of a landsman.

The embankment afforded homes for myriads of ugly black crabs, which are the scavengers of the shallows. Arrived at the Peninsula, we visited the tomb of the high chief John II. My friend remarked on the unusual length of the tomb (all of 20 feet) for a man the brevity of whose name could hardly have been curtailed. After learning the pedigree and biography of the chief he remarked "that for a man with such a long pedigree a monument of such a length was not misplaced."

"And now, my friend," said he, "we will have those oysters so graphically depicted by you." I showed him a bank where the decaying iridescent shells of the succulent bivalve scintillated against the dark background. This whetted his appetite, and we wandered on around the coast of the peninsula in a vain search for the mythical bed of oysters. We found strata of shells of oysters, mussels and clams at elevations of from four to eight feet above the sea, which proved that they had been very numerous in old times. I told of a jar of pearls which had been collected by one of the natives and of its having been sent to the Coast for disposal and of its reputed destruction in the great cataclysm which had engulfed San Francisco. His appetite for the bivalve would not be appeased, however, and after a long walk we concluded to return by a railroad which wended its course through the rank sugar field which covered the peninsula. Finding the inviting shade of an algaroba, we took advantage of it to enjoy our lunch.

The heat in the roadway had been excruciating and we had both acquired the roscate hue which the tropical sun paints on the skin of the northern man. In our conversation we reverted to the Molokan dislike to labor in the cane fields. He said: "I do not blame them, for much as they would wish to better their condition by removing from a land where they were not at liberty to worship as their consciences dictated, it does not take long for the northern man to discover his inability to labor in tropical fields." We had admired the ingenuity of the American in raising cane on the island and peninsula in the loch and of ferrying the cane to the mainland. Of his conveying water through flumes and aqueducts, the latter made of wooden pipes reinforced by belts of iron. Of his taking advantage of the good soil wherever it lay and of utilizing the waste places we were well able to judge when we reached the eminence.

afforded by the great brick structure which guided the immense store of water conveyed to the home (1-2 by 1-2 feet of water).

"Yes," said my friend, "the ingenuity of the American will overcome every obstacle. The individual American's inventive ability, encouraged as it has been through the protective patent system, will surmount any possibility which may arise. There are some things, however, that he cannot do. He cannot overcome the effect of the blistering torrid sun and inure himself to the requisite manual labor of cane planting in the tropics. This must be done for him and it is the foundation of all agricultural success. Labor-saving machinery he can invent, pest remedies he can discover, chemical changes in the making of sugar he can control, at marketing his product he excels, but the foundation on which the whole superstructure stands, viz.: as the man with the hoe, for this he must depend on the man whom nature has provided with a pigment in his cuticle which will withstand the actinic rays of the tropical sun."

"What an observing man you are," said I. "Here you have been wandering about our Islands for but a few months and you have discovered this. Do you not know that we who have batted on the wealth of the sugar industry for the past forty years know well that what you say is true? Do you not know that during all this time we have struggled in the maelstrom between Scylla and Charybdis with a desire on the one hand to build up Hawaii on American ideals and have a country full of schools and churches and all that goes to make up an enlightened community, and on the other to raise wealth from the soil to support such a community? You must have seen that with this object in view and with a realization that American men could not do the manual field labor we have spent enormous sums of money in an endeavor to induce immigration of people of the temperate zone from all possible parts whom we might perchance assimilate and our utter failure in this respect. Oh, Philosopher, tell us how."

"I think," said he, "that you have indeed made a struggle in the right direction to cultivate the waste places of the tropics and I believe that perhaps if you had restrained your cupidity somewhat and never have given a position to an Oriental which an American could fill you would today have a larger community of the desired population. Farther than that I would not go. I should set the conditions faithfully and truly before Congress and those wise men cannot fail to see the futility of attempting farther to induce immigrants to Hawaii whose character and antecedents proclaim that they are unsuitable to life in the tropics."

"My dear friend," I replied, "apparently you know more of the conditions of this country than you do of your own. If an attempt such as you suggest should be made it would meet with sneers from opponents who would give no credence to any assertion that the ultimate welfare of the country was being sought but that 'the wealthy sugar barons' of Hawaii were seeking their immediate benefit. That the labor unions throughout the land would rise en masse to oppose the introduction of Orientals, etc., etc."

We proceeded on our tramp up towards Waipahu coming across a mass of cherry tomatoes which appeared to have grown wild there for many seasons and with which we filled our lunch basket. The ripe fields of rice on either hand engaged my agricultural friend's attention and he remarked that he had never seen cereals grow so rankly.

The cosmopolitan population at the depot and coming and going elicited from him remarks on the suitableness of the airy garments of the Koreans and Japanese and of the apparent at-home-ness they felt in this tropical land. It was the Sabbath and a little Sunday school of Japanese were being marched to the train dressed in all the colors of the rainbow. This stream with a background of green rice made a picturesque vision. Recalling that each of these on returning to his native land would be more or less of a missionary of glad tidings of American civilization my friend said, "Hawaii will have an effect on Asia which is immeasurable."

In many ways he could not refrain from calling my attention to the cultivation of the waste places by the Chinese. Being of a very observing nature he noticed the great depth of alluvium where cutting had been made for the railroad, of the utilizing by the Chinese of every nook and corner, either for a duck-pond or a little garden in some otherwise waste angle, of the possibilities of cocoanut tree planting in lands suitable yet useless for other purposes. He also took note of inebriated Hawaiians and declaimed against their being allowed access to intoxicants, saying that in the wisdom of the American lawmakers they had prevented the Indian from obtaining such and that it was wrong in a people just emerging from barbarism to allow them to be subjected to the temptations of alcohol.

A FAMILY AFFAIR.

"Once upon a time there lived a good man of New York, who was soliciting contributions for the erection of an orphan-asylum," said the story-teller. "He had been to many rich people and received liberal contributions, which were entered in a book he had for that purpose. Among these many names there appeared, 'Mrs. Russell Sage, $25.' The good man went to Mr. Sage's office, and showing him the contribution entered in the book by Mrs. Sage, asked if he would not give a like sum. And what do you suppose he did?"

"Well, I suppose he at least doubled it," remarked a listener. "Doubled it! Not Russell!" exclaimed the teller of the story. "Why, he simply took his pen and wrote 'Mr. and' before his wife's name, and handed the book back to the good man."

Tests Patience

The Most Patient Honolulu Citizen Must Show Annoyance at Times. Nothing spoils a good disposition. Nothing taxes a man's patience. Like any itchiness of the skin. Itching Piles almost drive you crazy. All day it makes you miserable. All night it keeps you awake. Itch! Itch! Itch! with no relief. Just the same with Eczema. Can hardly keep from scratching it. You would do so but you know it makes it worse.

Such miseries are daily decreasing. People are learning they can be cured. Learning the merit of Doan's Ointment.

Plenty of proof that Doan's Ointment will cure Piles, Eczema or any Itchiness of the skin.

Frank Leiby of 336 S. Main st., Wilkesbarre, Pa., U. S., says: "It is with much pleasure that I testify to the merits of Doan's Ointment in cases of itching piles. I suffered from that tormenting affliction for the past year. I tried nearly everything that was recommended to me and what I saw advertised, but I could get no relief. Finally I procured Doan's Ointment. After a few applications I was much relieved, and, continuing the treatment, I was soon completely cured. I have felt no signs of that intolerable itching since, and it is four months ago since I used Doan's Ointment. To say that I was delighted is only half expressing my enthusiasm. I recommend this remedy whenever the opportunity is presented. You may publish my statement at any time and I can always be found at 326 S. Main street, and will vouch for the same."

Doan's Ointment for sale by all dealers; price 50 cents. Mailed by The Hollister Drug Co., agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

Remember the name DOAN'S, and take no substitute.
