The Lament of the Man who is no Politician.

Is no peace for a soul That's distracted with doubt? Let us know who is in. Let us know who is out ;

For our eyes they grow dim As on figures they gaze That make it for Tilden, And make it for Hayes. O for seers and for prophets

Like those of the Jews ! They were better than papers That plague us with news; They were smarter than editors, All in a daze, Who can tell us 'tis Tilden,

And tell us 'tis Hayes. Call the spooks and the mejums : Perhaps they will know, Summon Slade with his pencil, And Home with his show.

Let them rap on our sconces To end our amaze, And say if 'tis Tilden, Or say if 'tie Hayes is that phantasmal vote

Hid in the mountains or swamps? Go, Grays, with your lanterns, Go, Blues, with your lamps ;

Hust it down, and, when captured Just give it a blaze, Whether fatal to Tilden, Or fatal to Hayes.

We long for a sensors Of quiet and rest To wipe off our mustache And pull down our vest ; But how can we do it When boys stop their plays,

To shout madly for Tilden, And madly for Hayes? Our young men grow gray And our fat men grow thin, Fed on "extras" that lie Like original sin.

Give us calm for our slumbers And peles for our days, For we are weary of Tilden, And weary of Hayes. Cincinnati Commercial

A publishing house advertises for sale a family Bible of General Washington which was presented to him by the author!

Burlington Hawk-Eye: "They are performing the cantata of "Joseph" at the opera house in Des Moines. They had no trouble in securing talent to represent most all the members of Potiphar's family, but they had to send clear to Burlington to get a man to play Joseph.

A doctor recently gave the following prescription for a sick lady: -" A new bonnet, a Cashmere shawl and a silk dress." The lady, it is needless to say, entirely recovered.

There is a man in Newark so close that when he attends church he occupies the pew farthest from the pulpit, to save the interest on his money while the collectors are passing the plate for con-

A French journal of science says that the in-habitants of the Azore Islands could smell the burning of the great Chicago fire. This is wonderful (adds the Cincinnati Times), but John Henry says that when his wife was in New York, last winter, he received a telegram from her which read as follows: "You have been drink-ing; I can smell your breath."

A HARD MAN TO PLEASE.—The following ap-peared in the want column of the Philadelphia Ledger last Monday :

Wanted-A young man with hard hands, a good mother, a last year's coat, a this week's shirt, hair on his face, but not on his teeth, whose corns are on his feet, patches all in front, ambition is greater than his expectation, who was never better or smarter than now, and never manager, superintendent or chief of anything, or considered unusually brilliant by anybody. A seal ring not essential; extraordinary ability very objectionable. A little but not much knowof sewing machines desirable, but not Write, but do not come until I send for you. Address-

This is the way " A Boy " tells his little story in the S. F. Post : My uncle Ned says once in Injy he was walking on the banks of a river with his new foundling dog, and a bear was swimming across to the other side. When the dog see something in the WILL CONTINUE THE GENERAL MERCHANDISE and SHIPPING BUSINESS at the above port, where they are prepared to farnish the justly celebrated Kawaihae Potatoes, and such other recruits as are required by whale ships, at the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

(au23 1y) water he went to fetch it out, like he had been tot, without thinking partickler wot it mite be, but when he had swum, the dog had, up real close, the bear give him a look over her shoulder, and smiled, like sayin its offle good of you to take such a frenly intres in a entire stranger, wen we git to the other side I'll ast you to dinner with me and weel have dog for dinner. But wen the dog seen how it was he wreckelected another engagement, wich he had forgot, and Uncle Ned says there wasent never any body tried so hard for to be punctual as that dog did.

THE BRIDAL CHAMBER .- He was tall and awkward, and she was short and bashful, but both wore a nervous aspect of exceeding great joy. They entered a hotel in Chicago, and after be had registered his name "and lady," he said to

"See here, mister, me and my wife have just been spliced, and I am going to show Amanda Chicago if it takes a mule a day. Now give us one of them rooms like the Temple of Solomon,

The clerk called a hall boy and said : "Show this gentleman to the bridal chamber."

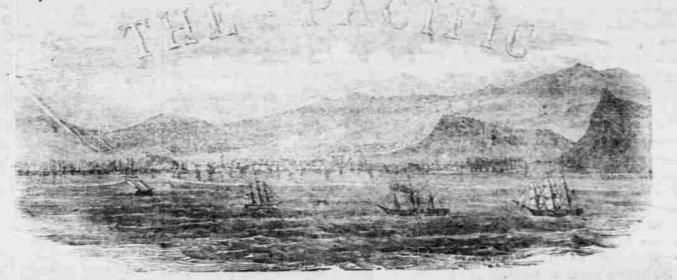

At this direction the tall rustic became instantly excited. "Not by a durned sight! Ye shiny-haired, biled-shirted, dollar-breast-pinned, grinning monkey, you can't play that on me! If I am COMMISSION MERCHANT AND GENfrom the country, ye don't catch me and my wife sleeping in your old harness-room." And they left the botel. F. T. LENEHAN & CO., MPORTERS & COMMISSION AGENTS, A FORGETFUL MAN .- His wife sent him up town for "sumthin' or ruther" early in the evening. On the way he met a friend and they spent an hour in an animated dispute as to whether Hayes or Tilden had the best chance for an election, and when he left his friend at the corner of Fourth and Vine streets, be had entirely forgotten what Maria had sent him after. It was in vain that he tried to think up his forgotten errand. For three long weary hours he wandered around from saloon to saloon, trying to stimulate his unreliable brain and prick up his memory. Twas no use. The more he stimulated the more he didn't remember. He hated to go home and acknowledge as much to his wife, and so he just dropped in on his friends to gather a little sympathy. After he had managed to scrape considerable of the article together, and just as the clock on St. Xavier Church was chiming the midnight hour, the telegraph editor opened a dispatch and remarked that the Associated Press announced the death of Dr .---, the famous physicain ofnow," said the visitor, rising slowly from his seat and turning as pale as a cholera patient; "I remember now. My wife had the cramp colic and sent me to bring the doctor! D—n politically and be chost out of the doctor. tics!" And he shot out of the door after the doctor without staying to hear what the outlook was in New York .- Cincinnati Enquirer.

Two items are fixed at five dollars and one at three dollars. It is partly correct to say that money orders and bills of exchange are taxed, except such as are made payable on demand. The fact is that the exception covers drafts, &c., payable to bearer at sight or on demand. There is no excuse for saying that the Act imposes a tax on "policies of life and fire insurance," for the only policies of insurance covered by the Act are for marine in-

Neither is it correct to say that because nearly all money orders and bills of exchange are drawn at sight or on demand that they are therefore exempt, for they are generally made payable to order, and if so are liable. It is true that hereafter they may and probably will be made payable to bearer, and thus escape taxation. It is not a fact that the law proves, or is likely to prove vexatious to natives as well as foreigners. The Act is so constructed that transactions under $500 in amount pay no higher tax than formerly, and therefore transactions in which natives generally are concerned will rarely feel the increased

Phillips, Esq., our Attorney General several years since, and now engaged in the practice of his profession in the Bay City; and we proceed to give some extracts from

"General" Stephen H. Phillips was called: " Have been Attorney General of Massachusetts, and of the Sandwich Islands; the Chinese question opens a broad field of inquiry; my views may be peculiar; I have strong convictions; in the Sandwich Islands there are 56,000 persons, two thousand of which are Chinese; the latter are there under indefinite, assignable contracts."

It is not very clear what the gentleman wishes to convey by the term "indefinite" when applied to our labor contracts, as he says farther along that they were not to exceed five years, and by the statute they are not assignable.

"There is a great demand on the part of the planters to obtain this kind of labor; without it, in the main, these plantations could not exist; there is a necessity for it at present, but I don't think it beneficial in the end; the contracts are limited to five years."

If it is necessary, it must be beneficial; unless, indeed, all the agricultural enterprises in which we are engaged are prejudicial.

"I think its influence on the community degrading; the Chinese in this city are not available for jury, military, or social purposes, the same as citizens from other parts of the world; imported labor puts other labor to disadvantage."

What can the gentleman mean by his expression that the Chinese are unavailable for social purposes?

"To SENATOR MORTON-Resided in the Sandwich Islands about ten years; the importation of European and French Canadian labor into New England, some time ago, was injurious in its character; I consider all imported labor in the same light."

There's full-blown wisdom for you! "To Col. While California and Oregon are sending us the Stamp Act must be-or even should be-re- their fruit preserved by the Alden, the Plummer pealed; but would rather say, give it a fair trial, and Kelley processes, the question may be asked, and if any of its features prove objectionable when will Hawaii possess energy and ingenuity amend them. It is true that the Act imposes a enough to similarly preserve and export our tax varying from "twenty-five dollars to twenty- tropical fruits? The business does not require a five cents; " but this statement may convey a large capital, for we observe in a late Oregon wrong impression. The only twenty-five dollar paper that the Plummer fruit drying machine tax is for public or private charters. Ten dollars exhibited at the Oregon State Fair cost only $50. The merits of the Kelley process are thus eluci-

> "The machinery is a tin cylinder, ten or more feet long, heated from the inside by steam. It is made to revolve slowly, and the fruit, which has first been ground to a pulp, is allowed to drip on it from a perforated trough placed immediately above it. The fruit dries in a very perfect manner, preserving all the color, flavor and sweetness of the original. The process may go on until the cylinder is coated an inch or more in thickness. when it can be removed by dividing it with a knife and peel off as from an orange. It is then rolled up, and is ready for use or shipment. Fruit thus preserved has been taken to sea, and exposed in open boxes through the tropics both ways, without injury to its preservation qualities or taste whatever. The utility of this machine is not restricted to the drying of fruit or berries, but any vegetable can be ground to a pulp, or any juice, beer or milk, can be condensed in the most perfect manner; and to say that fresh milk can be condensed until it resembles flour, and when wished to be used a little water is to be added, and in a short time it will be return to fresh milk. and cream will rise upon it the same as when drawn from the cow, is rather a tough statement, but it is nevertheless true. A Review of Reciprocity.

MR. EDITOR: After the success of our Reciprocity Treaty, it is interesting at this time to review its history; its inception, progress, and ultimate favorable issue. And your correspondent having had some cognizance of matters pertaining to this measure, having also some leisure for the employment of the pen in this quiet decayed little town; and being led to a consideration of the subject of our late negotiation by the recent remarks of Chief Justice Allen, in reply to a committee of the Honolulu Chamber of Commerce, begs to present through the columns of the ADVERTISER, a few additional particulars in relation to the history of reciprocity from his point of

The late Robert Crichton Wyllie, appears to be preeminently the originator and first promoter of a treaty of reciprocity with the United States of America. In 1848 when Minister of Foreign Relations of His late Majesty Kamehameha III he submitted to Mr. Ten Eyck, American commissioner in these islands the draft of a treaty, in the sixth article of which he proposed a reciprocity of commercial intercourse between this Kingdom and the Great Republic. Mr Wyllie subsequently presented his views upon this important Hawaiian question before a Hawaiian Legislature in 1852. And at this early day, in the history of the measure, he urged its negotiation, with great clearness of view of its merits. I derived this impression from a perusal of the report of his remarks before the Legislature; and also from a perusal of his correspondence with Mr. Luther everance, commissioner of the United States, and his representations of the justice and desirability of the measure to foreign powers, especially in a despatch dated July 17, 1852, to the Minister of Foreign Relations of His Majesty the King of Denmark.

In this communication the Minister of His Hawaiian Majesty took pains to satisfy the Minister of the Danish King, that in the contemplated negotiation of a treaty of commercial reciprocity with the United States, there was no design to discriminate in the proposed measure against the rights or privileges granted to Danish subjects in the Hawaiian Kingdom, according to the provisions of the seventh article of the treaty with Denmark, which says:

"No Danish productions, or any other goods on board of, or imported in Danish ships, that can be imported by other foreign ships, shall be prohibited, nor pay more than those duties levied on goods of the most favored nation." However, the Hawaiian Minister's argument at this time rather proved the necessities of this country and his zeal in behalf of its agricultural and commercial interests, than the justness of his position in respect to the Danish treaty. He advocated a treaty of reciprocity with America on the ground of the needs of this country, owing to its peculiar position and condition .- and urged upon the Danish government a kind consideration of those treaty obligation of this country, which appeared to stand in the way of reciprocity with America, and he used this language along with other points advanced in his despatch to the Danish Minister: "On account of the high rate of interest for ioney, and the deficiency of labor, the sugar from Java and Manilla caa be laid down cheaper in Oregon and California, than the similar products of this Kingdom. With a view to obviate these disadvantages, the King passed the order in Council, (Feb. 1852), offering to the United States a special reciprocity in certain special articles.' This order was brought forward and declared mainly through the inspiration of Mr. Wyllie. Therefore we see that long before 1855, the starting point of Chief Justice Allen in his review of the history of reciprocity negotiations, we this country with an earnestness and intelligence to which no additional force has been added by any subsequent discussion. When the first attempt was made to negotiate a special treaty of reciprocity with the United States in 1855, the great Hawaiian Minister, whose fame I desire to vindicate, was almost the sole promoter of the mission confided to Judge Lee. Wyllie moved its consideration in the . Hawaiian Legislaas shown in his dispatches of 29th May 1852, and instructions, which were full and exhaustive in their bearing upon the agricultural and commer-

but by soliciting and obtaining resolutions from agricultural and commercial bodies then organized in this country. And he concludes his report on the subject by observing: "If under all these favorable auspices Mr. Lee succeed, as I hope he will, he will have gained an object of vastly greater advantage to this kingdom than all the ex-uses which may attend his mission.

Surely in view of the part that Mr. Wylife took in the measure of reciprocity with the United States, beginning his efforts in 1848 and continuing until 855, and much later, Chief Justice Allen in his eference to a "first effort" in 1855 might have given a larger credit to his ancient colleague, the sage of Rosebank, than merely to mention his name as a member of the Cabinet of a young King, just placed upon the throne, and who had no voice in a easure that was brought forward for his sanction by the old and experienced Premier, who had been the mainstay of the throne of his predecessor. But these remarks are only a glance en passant;

as I trust some abler pen will at some future day, do full justice to the memory of Wyllie, not merely in respect to reciprocity, but on account of his unwearied efforts, attended with constant personal sacrifice, in behalf of the country which had placed n his hands its public interests.

Surely in view of so much that was done for this kingdom without adequate reward or emolument, a grateful country in its distribution of favors for services rendered, should not omit a monument think calls for a passing word, is in connection with the resumption of negotiations in 1874. The Chancellor remarks that about this period, having spent some time in the United States on his own ersonal affairs, he had an opportunity to interiew the American Secretary of State, who gave him an assurance that he favored a treaty of reclprocity with the Sandwich Islands, which conversation being referred at head quarters here, His Majesty and Cabinet cordially acquiesced in his view of the prospect in regard to reciprocity, and at once appointed a diplomatic mission to renew negotiations for a treaty of reciprocity at Washngton. Now it occurs to me that many obstacles stood in the way before this mission could be set on foot. And the obstacles were of such a nature. that not only the Chief Justice, but every member of the government at that time, despaired of any favorable issue, unless they were removed. There was then in session a very wilful and contentious legislature, which in its attitude, put a dead lock on all public progress, or improvement. Some of His Majesty's Ministers, said on the street, at that lime, that there was no hope of anything being done by the legislature in behalf of reciprocity, immigration or any other important public meas-And the Chief Justice said in a conversation held on the evening of the 25th May 1874, that he was apprehensive on account of the adverse attitude of the Assembly, and he trusted that no steps would be taken to bring forward any resolutions to favor renewal of negotiations, or a bill to preratify a treaty of reciprocity, unless there was very strong assurance of success. But the steps were taken by an active and zealous "lobby," and by this influence mainly, as a score of members can testify, was the temper of the Assembly softened, and it was ultimately led to pass the bill which ratified a treaty in advance, and so made it possible, or sufficiently hopeful to warrant His Majesty and the Cabinet to appoint a diplomatic missio "Sic vos sed non vobis," &c.

that is the assurance of the Chief Justice, that this measure of reciprocity was carried in the American Congress "purely on its merits." Now the merits of the measure, as understood by Mr. Wyllie and other faithful men devoted to Hawaiian welfare, were a perfectly equitable reciprocation of benefits in a mutual remission of duties .a fair commercial bargain without any collateral political issue-of course the Chief Justice knews that a collateral issue was brought into this measits merits," as the concluding words of the 4th Article of the treaty clearly show, in saying that which any other nation shall obtain the same privileges relative to the admission of any articles free of duty, hereby secured to the United States." I must wonder that our senior commissioner should have acquiesced in this concession, when early political days, the famous despatch of Daniel Webster in respect to these islands, dated Dec. 19, 1842, wherein he declares, "as the sense of the government of the United States, that the government of the Sandwich Islands ought to be respected, as an independent sovereignty; and that no power ought to seek for any undue control, or any exclusive privileges or preferences in the matter commerce." Also the words of Mr. Abel P. Jpshur, Secretary of State, in his letter, July 5, 1843, who takes the same view, that the United States will not endeavor to obtain any especial advantages" from these islands. And also in view of the same position taken in this matter by Secretary Clayton, and by Secretary John C. Calhoun, who was the first American statesman to accord a recognition of independence from the United States Government to this Kingdom. Yet in view of all this assurance on the part of emient American statesmen, our Chancellor and the Ambassador of His Majesty, could accept a stipulation, which as set forth in a report of a committee on Foreign Affairs of Congress, presented the collateral issue of ultimate political dependence of these islands, on their government, as the chief ground for their action. Mr. Wyllie, who contended all the time, so long as he served a Hawaiian King, for identity of treaties with all powers, as the best guarantee of independence of this kingdom, would never have consented to such a concession; and I feel assured that it would never have been acquiesced in by any Hawaiian negotiator in the days of Kamehameha IV or V. But "cui bono" somebody says, all this comment on the treaty, which is a good thing for many nterests, and has I am assured, benefited mine although my production, wool, has been left out of its provisions. It may perhaps seem wise to some to take the good that comes to our hand, without caring for results that concern other people, and keep silence. But as I, like the Chief Justice, feeling some weight of years, and having even as he must have done tasted largely of the vanities of life, we feel in our later days a more earnest regard for the utterance of truth, for its own sake, and regardless of consequences. Now far be it from me to bint, or imply in any way that our worthy Chancellor has uttered anything in reference to this subject, but the truth. Still it is possible, that owing to the infirmities of human nature, which beset even great men, that truth may be impaired, when partially set forth, by witholding something, or a suppressio veri.

HONOLULU, Jan. 1st, 1877.

To the Editor of the Pacific Commercial Advertiser : DEAR STR : I am requested by the Hawalian Caledonian Club to tender you the thanks of the Club as expressed in the following resolution which was passed unanimously at the last meeting

" Resolved: That the thanks of the Hawaiian Caledonian Club be tendered to the Editor and Publisher of the "PACIFIC COMMERCIAL ADVER-TISER" for publishing paragraphs which have contributed materially towards the welfare of the

I may also inform you that at the meeting above named eight new members were enrolled; and a committee was appointed to enquire into the advisability of holding a " Caledonian Ball" on the 24th May next; said committee to report at the next meeting the feasibility of the same and the possibility of its success.

The tone of sentiment amongst the members generally tends to favor the formation of a St. Andrews Charitable fund in connection with the Club when the means will permit, and a desire is expressed to make the organization beneficial and The next point in the review of the Chief Justice, which has attracted my attention, and which I helpful, as well as social and entertaining. Fears of non-permanence have been entirely dispelled. I am, dear sir, yours very respectfully, VIEWS OF BEN. Hill OF GEORGIA .- A telegram from Washington dated Dec. 9. says : In a conversation to-day, Hill said: If the people of this country were not capable of settling the disputed Presidential question without violence, they were not fit to have a President, and ought to be governed by a monarch. He said that he had confidence in the wisdom of the people, and felt that they would not sustain any movement likely to jeopardize public tranquility. If the representatives of the people here in Washington could not settle amicably the present difficulty, they ought to go home and give their constituents a chance to put wiser men in their places. For party purposes, he said he had been put in a false attitude before the North in the late canvass, but those who know his record and his disposition will bear him out in saying that no man deprecates ultra measures more than he, or has more earnestly determied to maintain the interest of the whole Union. He could see no contingency growing out of the present situation, that would justify eather party in precipitaing an armed conflict. Hill believes that public opinion will demand of Congress, a speedy and peaceable solution of the whole question. thinks well of McCrary's proposition introduced yesterday, for a Joint Committee of both Houses to report some legal or Constitutional measure to meet the present emergency. Hill's views seem to be entertained by nearly every influential Democrat from the Southern States.

UNFAIR AS WELL AS UNGENEROUS .- The remarks of the Gazette respecting the action of the late administration in " the steamboat business" may be thus characterized. The fact is generally known that three of the members of the late Cabinet were in favor of accepting the tender offered, and it appears probable that they went out of office on that issue.

STEAMER TIME -The clipper schooner Bonanza, Capt. J. H. Black, which arrived on Saturday evening, made the passage from San Francisco in twelve days. The bark H. W. Benefits of the Treaty.

It is stated that one of the results of the Hawai ian Treaty has been a great appreciation of value on the Islands, and of a large increase of trade between the Government of Hawaii and the United States: The area of land for the production of sugar and rice is being extended, and it is expected that the next sugar crop will exceed the previous yield by at least twenty-five per cent. A still larger increase in the rice crop will be obtained, and the planters are confident of releasing their property from debt in a year or two, and placing hemselves upon a solid commercial foundation Hitherto a large portion of the crops has been sent to the Australian colonies, where the duties were less than in American ports, but since the duties have been entirely removed here the whole yield of the Islands will find a market on the Pacific Coast. The exports of lumber, hardware, flour, etc., from San Francisco to Honolulu have nearly trebled in the last month in consequence of the extension of plantations, which necessitates the building of storehouses, crushing mills, etc., the purchase of new machinery and other articles that have in times past been obtained from England and Germany. In view of this state of affairs the Hawaiian Government has appropriated a subsidy for carrying the foreign mails, and negotiations are pending that will probably result in the establishment of a direct line of steamers, between San Francisco and Honolulu, by the Pacific Mail Company. It is expected also that such modifications of the Australian mail contract will be made as to require but three steamers on that line instead of five, and reduce the time of passage. This will allow the placing of two steamers between San Francisco and Honolulu, running once a month, between the Australian steamers that will continue to touch at the Sandwich Islands .- San Jose Mer-

Per contra, a Spanish Mexican coin, dated 1710, is said to have been found imbedded in a solid rock taken from the bed of the Rio Grands river. The stone is described as very hard, and almost transparent.

The salmon are either salted and packed a base ball club, with the somewhat aspiring in barrels or canned fresh. In the latter form it is name of " Excelsior." With a proper recognition in great demand in all parts of the world, and hunof its title, this club challenged the hitherto invinci-ble "Athletes" of Honolulu, and accordingly the dozen cans, which latter weigh a pound and a quarter latter proceeded all the way to Wailuku to give battle. Two games were played, the first on Fri-day the 29th, in which the Wailuku boys were the apiece, are annually put up. BALL ON THURSDAY EVENING .- Under the able management of a committee of citizens, a sutly patronage to Russia, has gone to St. Petersburg to secure the order for the growns regnant and matrimonial of the future head of the Lower Empire and his imperial spouse the Grand Duchess Marie. Mr. Mundella, M. P., in a speech the other day, said something about the desirability of Byzantium being restored and handed over to "onr sailor Prince." A German king has been found to suit at Athens. Why should not an English one of German blood do at Constantinople? England has princes and to spare for exportation to foreign States. If the realization of this scheme were to relieve the Consolidated Fund of the pension of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburg, it would be a slender consolation to the British terrange for their terrange with China. Representative Stephens of Georgia, over his signature, says the statement that he is advising the friendly acceptance by the South of the inauguration of Hayes is utterly unfounded.

Springfield, Osio, Dec. 16.—Governor Hayes passed here yesterday, and made a short speech touching the political crisis. Regarding the present condition of affairs he said: A paragraph in an Eastern paper expressed the sentiment which may well be adopted by good honest men of whatever political party. I have faith in the saving common sense of the people. The all-important interests of labor, trade, education and religion depends upon the preservation of peace, and any depend upon the preservation of peace, and any disturbances of that peace endangers those in-

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 17 -- Several merchants from the laterior of Mexico arrived here yesterday and they confirm the news of the capture of Lerdo the death of Escobeda, and the capture of the city of Mexico by General Diaz. Iglesias, from Leon, ordered Diaz to hold the city of Mexico, and proclaim the Presidency of Iglesias, which Diaz de-clined to do, unless he could name four members of the Cabinet. This was refused by Igiesias, when Diaz proclaimed himself provisional Presi dent, and the revolution now continues between these rival pretenders, who are now preparing for a new struggle. General Revuellas still bolds Matamoras, and refuses all communication with the revolutionary chiefs until some one of them can show proper authority from Iglesias to demand the place, which none of them has, and he posit ively refuses any communication with the bandit

> NEW YORK, Dec. 8-Morning .- A Times' edito rial rebuke was yesterday administered to the little squads of home-guard Democrats led by Hewitt and Fernando Wood, and urged on by the New York World, which has been calling for the impeachment of the President and making silly threats about war. Hewitt's proposition for the Committee of Inquiry looking to impeachment was voted down in the Democratic caucus, and the speech by Wood was denounced by Ben. Hill. That gentleman intimated that it was only men who were invincible in peace and invisible in war who talked about bloodshed, and said plainly that if this class had not had enough of it, the South if this class had not had enough of it, the had. John Young Brown also declared if there was to be war on the Presidential question, Northern Democrats must make it. This display of good sense and genuine patriotism on the part of the men who have heretofore been regarded as among the more violent, is a hopeful sign and one

The South has had all the war it wants, and its journals says to frankly. Thus the Macon Telegraph and Messenger remarks: "Whenever and wherever the slogan of war is raised, let the emphatic response of the entire South be. 'Get thee behind me. Satan!' Our people have already resorted to this sort of 'arbitrament,' and were so terribly in carnest that they never succumbed until nearly every family mourned the loss of a gallant son brother or father: a debt of two billions of dollars had been repudlated ; four millions of slaves, our rightful property, emancipated; towns and cities laid waste, and gaunt famine and want stared of arms, to seat Mr. Tilden, or engage in another attempt at revolution, is wholly and absolutely false. The very men most opposed to such folly are the battle-scarred heroes of the lost cause. They have felt the shock of battle and realized the miseries of war, and therefore shrink aghast at a renewal of the dreadful spectacle. No. Hav-ing taken anew the oath of allegiance and plighted our faith to conserve the public peace, we do not intend to be seduced into rebellion upon any na

MEETINGS.—CHICAGO, Dec. 16th.—Another affecting scene occured in the Moody meetings to-day. A dissipated outcast came to seek salvation. Upon announcing his name, it was discovered that he was the man about whom some broken bearted parents living in Scotland bad written to Mr. Moody early in this series of meetings, asking him if he could possibly do so, to discover his whereabouts and urge him to return to his home. At the noon meeting to-day be gave his experience, which brought tears to the eyes of thousands who heard it. Next Sunday closes the regular services, but the Tabernacle will be turned into a great inquiry supposed to form the essential points of the program-me which will presented to the Porte.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—The Vienna correspondent of the Times says: The Russian General Nikitine has started for Servia to take command of the Russian troops there and act as Russian Plenipotentiary. The soldiers belonging to the active army of Servia, who are estimated to number 66,000, have been ordered to rejoin their colors by the 22d of December. Berlin, Dec. 16 .- News from the Conference in high political quarters, maintains that a Russian-Turkish war is inevitable. Russia has not completed her preparations and will endeover to protect the Conference until her Southern army is concentrated. Advices from St. Petersburg say that Russia is unalterably determined to meet immediately the grievances which have been already too long inlulged in, but will not enter the field until she feels an unexpected and marked approach has been effected between the views of Russia and England. This seems due above all, to the assurances given by General Ignatieff concerning the aims of the Russian policy. In the face of this it appears that Turkey has felt it necessary to make known its views. Several Vienna papers publish a sort of Communique derived from sources which they allege to be Turkish. Said Communique declares that the Porte will adhere to the Treaty of Paris and consider every project of occupation as casus belli. THE CHINESE INVASION .- In an appealing leader

We are threatened with a danger not the less real because there seems to be no means of gappling with it. We are being beaten by an enemy we cannot touch—we are lighting with our bands tied. We cannot, as they are doing in Trinity Bay, join in resisting the law, for if the law is overthrown, all the horrors of mob rule threaten our very exis-tence as a community. dations of morality and religion now existing, and to lay another foundation, and to erect another superstruction, that shall be the crowning felicity of humanity. In striving to accomplish this, they set aside the Bible as unworthy of consideration, One Hundred and Thirty-one Days and "make no references whatever to the supposed will of God as a moral governor, or to any idea of pleasing him." In order to spread their sentiments, they publish a weekly, called "The National Reformer, Secular Advocate, and Freethought Journal." In addition to this, they scatter a multitude of tracts over the land, and the apostles of their doctrine are ever ready to make addresses wherever audiences will assemble to

SATURDAY, JANUARY 6.

THE PACIFIC

(Communicated.)

For years there has been in England a sect of

Reformers, who are striving to dig away the foun-

The True Basis of Morality.

Their motto is, " Clear the way, our road is One of these tracts entitled, " True Basis of Morality." by Annie Besant, is before us. Morality is defined as, " Harmony with natural order; physical meralty is barmony with all those laws, obedience to which result is physical vigor; and moral morality is harmony with all those laws obedience to which results in moral vigor. This definition really carries in it the whole gist of this essay; for if morality be harmony with law, the true basis of morality must necessarily be sought for in the study of law, as manifested in phe-

The writer is not satisfied with any basis of morality herets known, or with any law of morality hereto discovered, and she asserts that "diffing the past ages of the world morality has been based wholly on authority; it has drawn its sanctions from the supposed will of the gods; it has been rendered alluring by bribes of heaven, and utter ignorance of the teachings of the old philosophers. Says Plato, "Perfect virtue is the highest element of hapiness, and would, if possessed assuredly secure it." "The morally wrong can never be truly expedient." "It is always, and under all circumstances, better to suffer an injury than to do one." Virtue is horsely the soul's best

Now the authority of the old philosophers was only such as wise and good men always exercise; such as some men not very good nor very moral, as Voltaire and Tom Paine exercised over their followers; such as Charles Breadlaugh is now exercising over his disciples. But this is evidently not the sort of authority referred to by the writer of the tract before us. She means authority enforced by rewards and penalties; or, to use her own words, morality " has been rendered alluring by bribes of heaven, and enforced by threats of Without admitting that the science of morality has ever made any advance, she would begin the study anew: for "authority and intention, or conscience both fail." Then she goes on to assert that " the true basis of morality is utility; that is, the adaptation of our actions to the promotion of the general welfare and happiness, the endeavor so to rule our life that we may serve and bless man-

Now this was precisely Jeremy Bentham's theory

of morals; but perhaps Annie Besant never heard of Jeremy Bentham. The theory is a beautiful one; but it has one radical defect. It cannot be put into practice. Selfishness is the governing principle in the world, and it will not listen to the doctrine of "The greatest good to the greatest a number." The same lack attached to the theories of morals promulgated by the ancient philosophers. While a very few heeded their precepts and reformed their manners, the great mass remained unaffected,-as selfish and wicked as if the philosophers had never taught a better way. Says Macaulay, "The boast of the ancient philosophers was that their doctrine formed the minds of men to a high degree of wisdom and virtue. * * But the truth is that, in those very matters in which alone they professed to do any good to mankind, * * * * they did nothing or worse than nothing. They promised what was impracticable, * * * * * and they left it (the world) as wicked and as ignorant as they found it." But the boast of these modern reformers is no less confident and arrogant than was that of the ancient philosophers; and their boast will be as empty as was that of Voltaire who said "that with one hand he would overthrow the editice of Christianity, which required the hands of twelve apostles to build up." Their motto, Clear the way means " Do the same thing that Voltaire attempted to do." "Christian morality has had its turn," so says the tract, "and the present state of society, its crying shame, its cruel suffering tell us that authoritative morality has failed," and so these reformers, it they desire to construct a morality CLASS AND PLATED WARE which will bear all assaults unshaken, and which can maintain its ground against hostile criticism, must be content to give up their heaven-born theories, and to walk humbly in the path of the study of earth-born phenomena; they must follow which these reformers are pursuing: just as though the ancient philosophers, as well as those of recent date, had not studied "earth-born phenomena" as thoroughly as themselves, or were less able to understand all the lessons which "earthborn phenomena " can teach. To build up a morality which shall bless the world on the basis of utility, is as quixotic as was the search after Eldorado or the "Fountain of Youth." While they are putting forth mad efforts to distroy the foundation of belief in God and immertality as brought to light in the gospel, the truth remains that " other foundations can no man lay than that already laid which is Jesus Christ.'

the scientific method, and must be able to demonstrate the solidity of every position they take up."
