Power Rate Relief Sought By Senate

By Tom Anderson
Managing Editor

Members of the Senate and Commonwealth Utility Corporation officials finally got together early this week and beside a few attacks on CUC for poor service, the general tone of the meeting was one in which a way to help the utility corporation pay its bills and improve its service without a jump in utility rates, as scheduled to go into effect Jan. 1, was sought by the Senators.

Senators Jose Mafnas, Juan Babauta, Herman Guerrero, Paul

Manglona and Juan Pan Guerrero went over the reasons why CUC needs the rate increase of 11 cents for residential customers and 16 cents for government and commercial customers with CUC Executive Director Pedro Sasamoto, CUC Board Chairman Jose Taitano, CUC Board Members Eloy Inos and Tom Picarro.

Sasamoto explained the rate hike was needed in order for the utility corporation to approach full cost recovery, a goal which is mandated by public law. Sasamoto added that the rate increase in fact is not as large as it should be as the figures are a result of a 1986 study and are not up to date.

"To meet full cost recovery today," said Sasamoto, "We would need to charge 14 cents to residential customers and 19 cents to government and commercial."

However, the Senators said even the jump to 11 cents for residential users will mean a hardship for some families living on a fixed income or those families that have a low income. The Senators looked for a way to offer a subsidy to CUC so that the rate increase would be smaller than what it will become Jan. 1.

The efforts of the Senators was hampered by the interpretation of public law which mandates CUC to become self-sufficient by the year 1989. That public law was closely scrutinized by the Senators.

Sen. Juan Pan Guerrero asked Sasamoto if all provisions of the public law had been met. He

CUC To Get Help In Paying Fuel Debt From Solons

By Tom Anderson
Managing Editor

Sharing their problems with members of the legislative branch of government got Commonwealth Utility Corporation officials an immediate reward of almost $7 million.

For months in numerous CUC Board meetings, the debt owed by CUC for fuel has worried CUC officials. They took that concern with them up to Senate when they meet with Senators Tuesday. After hearing their predicament, the Senate and the House both acted quickly and passed legislation authorizing the Director of Finance to immediately advance government utility payments to CUC in the amount of $6,733,907 in order to liquidate CUC's fuel debt incurred through Dec. 11, 1988.

In taking the action, the members of the legislature stated, "unless CUC's cash flow situation is immediately improved, CUC may not be able to acquire additional fuel from its supplier which could result in reduced essential utility services to the people of the Commonwealth."

The legislative branch of government also said the Executive Branch has sufficient cash available to comply with the provisions of the advance payment bill without any detriment to other needs of the government.

Over a period of time, through credits made on the government utility bill the advance payment will be repaid by CUC.

Bill Seeks Only Required Trips For Gov. Officials

By Tom Anderson
Managing Editor

Stopping government officials from taking unnecessary trips is the aim of a Senate Bill which passed first and final reading this week. The bill was written by Sen. Paul Manglona and Sen. Juan Babauta sitting as Acting Senate President allowed it to be passed without a full committee review of the bill.

In writing the bill, Sen. Manglona said that autonomous agencies and public corporations of the government do not observe standard guidelines with respect to travel. His bill would require a standard travel request and authorization form be made before any trip is taken with the reason for the trip to be plainly stated.

Local travel agencies should be used for travel arrangements, said Sen. Manglona, and travel should be at a economy rates.

Anyone traveling at government expense without prior written approval will be required to reimburse the government for all travel expenses charged to the government.

Sen. Babauta said that when the bill was discussed in the Senate Senator Herman Guerrero suggest similar travel restrictions should apply to the legislative branches as well. However, Babauta argued that it would mean an encroachment of separation of powers, but he did suggest that instead of the current system in which any legislator can signed his own authorization for travel, a system be set up where travel must be approved by the Senate President for Senators and the House Speaker for Representatives.

*In other Senate action, an attempt by Senator Jose Mafnas to have the Senate recall its poker bill from the House of Representatives was beaten back by other Senators. Mafnas said he wanted to add an amendment to the bill and ask for its recall.

Car Found In Lagoon, Man Dies

By Tom Anderson

A governmental vehicle was spotted immersed in the water off Sugar Dock Wednesday morning around 9 a.m. and inside was the body of Ramon B. Santos, Director of the Department of Community and Cultural Affairs.

Police investigated the incident and divers recovered the body of Santos from the vehicle. Santos died from the incident although an autopsy to determine the exact cause of his death has yet to be performed or the information released.

Department of Public Safety Information Officer Capt. Antonio Reyes said the vehicle, a new blue station wagon, was some 25 yards from the end of the dock in water of more than seven feet deep. There are no barriers at the edge of the dock. Reyes said the police are treating the incident as a traffic accident. There were no obvious injuries to the body of Santos except those related to the accident which might have indicated foul play was involved. Also the wallet of Santos was found in the vehicle although Reyes would not say if it contained any money or not.

Capt. Reyes said eye-witnesses had seen Santos earlier Tuesday night having a drink at a local store. Santos was scheduled to go to Guam on Thursday.

Capt. Reyes said he had no information on the exact age of Santos but he estimated he was in his 30s. And while the incident will be investigated further, police are treating the case as one in which Santos just drove off the end of the dock. The vehicle itself was not severely damaged although the front windshield was shattered by the impact of hitting the water. Police suspect Santos was traveling at a high rate of speed when the vehicle plunged into the water.

902 Talks To Resume In Jan.

Becky Norton Dunlop, President Reagan's Special Representative, proposed last week in a letter to Lt. Gov. Pedro A. Tenorio that the 902 talks resume in early January on Saipan.

"Following our October consultations, I asked several federal departments to review their policies on a number of important issues including the taxability of MIHA bonds, the meaning of the term 'full faith and credit', and the role of the Department of Interior in relation to the CNMI" said Dunlop.

Issues Of 1988 Will Be Around In 1989

Another year has come to a close in the Commonwealth. Many things happened and many things started to happen which should come to fruition in 1989.

We reported heavily on issue in the last quarter of the year which currently are not in the news but are sure to be sometime in the upcoming year.

For awhile, talk about zoning filled the pages of the local media as people came out heatedly either for or against it. The public hearing was held by the Senate on a zoning bill and it got lost in the shuffle for a new headline on front page on a different subject. But zoning will be back in the news in 1989 you can bet on that.

Having a building code established in the Commonwealth made the front pages. It too has gotten put on a back-burner, and it too will be back for 1989.

The challenge to the law which would require alien laborers to send their dependents home if they do not have an income of $20,000 was a hot news item. It waits in the federal court until the new man can acquaint himself with the facts of the case and schedule it for a hearing.

Other alien labor measures filled the pages of the Variety such as the effort by act of legislation to require all alien labor dependents to be sent home should they become pregnant.

Garment factories were in the news of 1988 with a strong effort, which is still underway, by the House of Representatives to stop one factory from going into Gualo Rai. The industry came back with figures showing just what their being in the Commonwealth meant to the local economy.

Hotels made news with expansions and new openings and more openings being planned.

There was crime too in 1988, the worst sort of crime with several murders taking place. In some of the cases a person was found guilty of the crime of murder, or persons are charged and awaiting trial, however some of the murders remain unsolved as 1988 closes.

Commonwealth officials started a dialogue with the U.S. in 902 talks in 1988 over longstanding differences of opinions on just how much self-government is allowed under the Convent agreement. Those talks should produce real results in the coming year.

And as 1988 closes, one issue which has strong supporters on both sides of it remains unsettled. That issue is whether or not poker machines should be allowed in the Commonwealth. It is an issue which seems to provoke passion in those for the machines as well as those against them. Seldom is a fence sitter on the issue to be found. It will have to wait until 1989 like so many issues which the Variety reported on during 1988.

New undoubtly arise during 1989, but I am sure you are like we are and remain curious as to just what be the final outcome of the issue which have already arisen.

We hope you have a safe New Year's Day, a good year in 1989 and that you will be back with us next year as a reader to find out the conclusion of old issues and to start following the developments of new ones.

Why Not Make Changes In The New Year?

Throughout the course of the year, we each find ourselves in moments of solitude reflecting upon our deeds both good and bad. This moment is even more profound at the end of each year as we prepare ourselves to turn the pages of what then will be history--1988. And as we turn the pages of 1988 to a final close, we make personal resolve to do better beginning on the first day of the New Year. Why Not! We all deserve better days under the sun.

Other than the fact that I am prepared to end the Year 1988 with a retirement from government service, there's a personal commitment to nurture a more positive attitude toward my family, work, people, and what life has to offer. And I plan to celebrate my fortieth year with a ban so loud that I won't be able to hear it myself. I say "Why Not!" Life begins at forty anyway. Gee, another decade and I may be prepared to wear a new hat--Senior Citizen!

There are personal fits that I'd like to can for life--cigarettes and alcohol. That's two resolutions to work on in 1989. The third one may have to be "None of the Above" and that's when I find out a bit too late that I can't hack either of them. It's going to be awfully difficult but one that I must try ever so hard. It's not going to do me any good keeping them around. It's bad for my dacy: Sen. Herman Guerrero, Tony Guerrero and Froilan Tenorio. Notice that their last names all end with the vowel "o". It could be a long "Oooooooo" as three kabayeros head to the final showdown we call the primary. The GOP has yet to organize itself. But we should find out what's in their pocket as the Year 1989 begins to roll down the pike.

Some of my friends have toyed with the idea of my running for public office. I say "NEVER!" I am not prepared (and never will I be ready anyway) to engage in playing the role of good old St. Nick even before the holiday season arrives. Thanks, but no thanks. My family obligations take the first seat. Everything else comes tertiary. And if it is power that I relish (which isn't the case insofar as this humble scribe is concerned) I prefer playing the power that comes with the Fourth Estate--the press. That mighty pen can make you or break you within reason and decency.

Finally, I missed making my stressed the fact that all the provisions must be met before CUC could raise utility rates.

"The real intent of that law is to provide for an efficient utility system," said Sen. J. Guerrero. "I worked on that law."

Sasamoto explained that not only was CUC forced to raise the rate because of the public law, but also federal laws, and the loan agreement with CDA called for a rate increase also.

Sen. Herman Guerrero suggested that during the 902 talks the federal restrictions of CUC could be taken up as an item for discussion.

Senator Jose Mafnas, who chaired the meeting, appeared to ask Senate Legal Counsel Tim Bruce to review the public law which roadblocked the Senate from offering a direct subsidy to CUC, although after the meeting, Bruce said he "had no firm marching orders" from Mafnas.

Sen. Mafnas also attacked the process in which CUC raised the rates claiming that the Aug. meeting of CUC in which the rates of 11 cents and 16 were proposed was illegal in its procedure.

"You adopted your rates in the Aug. 26 meeting and then held a public hearing," said Mafnas. He added the correct procedure would have been to have the public hearing and then adopt the rates. Mafnas said CUC did the process in reverse order and argued CUC only held public hearings to meet the requirements of the law and not to seriously consider the input from the public.

Mafnas' statements were reacted to by CUC Board Member Tom Picarro and by Sasamoto. Sasamoto said in the Aug. meeting proposed rates had to be offered and agreed on so that the rates could be published in the Commonwealth Register.

Picarro said the public meetings were not just conducted in order to satisfy the requirements of the law but were held to gather information from the public and to explain to the public why the rates had to be increased.

Sasamoto added that in the public hearings the impression he received from the public was one that indicated the rate increase itself was not strongly opposed by the public but rather the lack of good service from CUC was the main objection.

"In the public hearings, their biggest concern was that we are raising our rate at a time when service is poor, but how can we improve service without money," said Sasamoto.

One way to receive money from the Legislature was suggested by CUC Board Member Inos. While public law may stop the legislature from directly subsidizing CUC, it does not stop the legislature from subsidizing consumers, said Inos.

He suggest a program be set up in which persons of low and fixed incomes could apply for energy assistance payments from the government. Inos' suggestion appeared to have the support of the Senators and from CUC officials.

Another suggestion was made by Sen. Herman Guerrero as a means for the government to help CUC without a direct subsidy. He suggested the rate for government power be raised from the proposed 16 cents to 20 cents. Guerrero said big power users like the government should pay more and CUC should "leave the residential customer alone."

"The sentiment of the public is that this rate increase will hurt the little guy more than the big guy," said Sen. Herman Guerrero.

Ways to take some of the load of the little guy will be looked at by CUC in the future, said CUC Board Member Picarro.

Picarro said he would, with the support of at least two other board members, discuss a graduated rate in which those who use less power would pay less than larger users in future CUC Board meetings. Other ways to reduce the residential rate would be studied, said Picarro, such as a higher government rate, as suggested by Sen. Herman Guerrero and a demand rate schedule also.

Picarro said before such actions could be taken he wanted to "look at the figures."

leagues in the CNMI should have an opportunity to review the federal position papers prior to our meeting and some of the papers are not yet in acceptable form, it was not possible to schedule a meeting for December," she said. "I hope we are able to meet before President Reagan leaves office. I have several recommendations to discuss with the 902 Representatives from the CNMI. We are making progress and it would be useful to have another meeting before the inevitable delays that occur with a new administration.

These talks will give all of us a clearer understanding of rights and responsibilities our citizens in the CNMI have and the legal authorities governing our relationship."

"Simply because the CNMI is far from Washington, D.C., does not mean that its citizens can be forgotten in the decision-making process of the U.S. government," said Dunlop. "All families need to have family conferences and clear the air from time to time. We are engaged in that process and will continue it."

Senators Discuss Travel Poker Bill In Session

One of the opponents of the move by Mafnas was Sen. Babauta. Babauta said he objected to way Mafnas had handled the recall effort. "He had premeditated the idea of the recall," he said.

Babauta said members of the Amusement Association were in the Senate to pressure the Senate for the action. He added he believed the aim of Mafnas was to have the poker issue decided through an action which would put the question before the voters in the next election.

Good News Often Goes Un-Noticed

You have probably heard the expression- "no news is good news" before and as a member of the media I would fully support a newspaper that came out every now and then with a blank front page with a large banner across it saying "Everything is fine nothing to report this issue". However, I do not think our advertisers would fully support such an action.

Once a member of the House of Representatives approached me and asked if one issue of the Variety could be published which would only have positive news in it. That could be a possibility if nothing else of a negative sort that needed to be reported happened.

Newspapers report car accidents in which people were badly injured or killed. We don't report the thousands of safe trips people make in their cars every day.

We report cases of person drowning in the ocean, but not the thousands of bathers who go for a swim and enjoy the ocean without any damage what so ever.

We report when a government agency is being mis-managed and is having problems, but not the thousands of daily transactions made by government agencies which come off without a single problem arising.

We report wife and child abuse, but not the thousands of loving and caring relationships which happen in families all the time.

We report when a law officer gets into trouble with the law himself, but not the daily efforts of law officers to provide us with a safe environment.

We report on poor roads, unreliable electrical power, poor or non-existent water service, but we do not always tell of the slow efforts to correct these problems which are going on.

However it is not all our fault. Survey taken around the world year after year of newspaper readers produce results which say the reader wants sex, violence, and controversy in the newspaper. That those three items sell the most news issue after issue. How would you react if you knew someone had been killed yesterday and when you picked up your newspaper the story was not in it. You would probably wonder were the reporter was and why he was not doing his job.

But an issue of just good news would be fun for me to write and it might even be fun for you to read. I can't say that it will ever happen, although there are newspapers in the states which have started in recent years which offer just that, only good news.

No news may be good news but even though it would be nice to live in a world of only good news we do not. The every day reality of events has to be explored by newspapers in order to inform you. I don't like saying that a hazardous chemical has been found near a school, but your deserve to know that so you can take action to protect yourself.

Should 1989 bring to pass some of the projects which I understand are scheduled to happen during the year, maybe there will be more good news than bad to report on anyway.

For you personally, I hope 1989 is a year of good news.

Workshop Aims To Aid Tourism Workers

The Northern Marianas College's Visitor Industry Program in conjunction with the Marianas Visitors Bureau and Kapiolani Community College will be sponsoring a tourism workshop called "Interpret Northern Marianas".

The workshop is an intensive training program for the visitor industry personnel who have a direct contact with the public and visitors that come to the Commonwealth. This community interpretation workshop on heritage training will promote a greater understanding and appreciation of the cultures and lifestyles of the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands.

The concept of the workshop, the skill of imparting information that is relevant and meaningful and enjoyable to the receiver, has equal application and relevancy to tourism because it is the fastest growing and most important industry in the CNMI, say workshop sponsors.

Nowadays, tourists are becoming more sophisticated, wider traveled, and more demanding for information, experiences and understanding in their host regions. Interpretive planning, and training and implementation of simple yet meaningful insights on how the tourism industry can progress in cooperation with the development of a sense of cultural heritage and pride. Interpretation offers an effective way for the community, industry, residents, and visitors to realize that the relation between tourism and the host destination is mutually beneficial.

The five day workshop is scheduled for Jan. 9-13. It is designed to introduce the principles of interpretation in a vivid and meaningful way. Since the workshop is intended for front-line personnel presently working in the local tourism industry, the format will incorporate practical methods of hospitality, communication and interpretation that can be directly applied to their respective occupations. The emphasis will therefore not be on dates and facts, but on how to provocatively share the island experience with the visitor.

The total charges to attend the workshop will be $75 per individual participant and the size of the workshop will be limited to only 20 persons. Therefore, those interested should send representatives who possess training skills so that in the future their representatives can conduct in-house training of other personnel.

It is the workshops aim to motivate those who attend to share the skills they learn in the workshop throughout the tourist industry.

Christmas Day Fire Destroys Chalan Lau Lau Home

By Tom Anderson
Managing Editor

A candle which was left burning appears to have caused the Christmas Day fire which destroyed the house of the Larry Ilo family, reports Department of Public Safety Information Officer Capt. Antonio Reyes.

Reyes said DPS received the call on Dec. 25 around 1:33 p.m. from a neighbor of Ilo who lives in the Chalan Lau Lau area. Firemen responded to the call but the wooden house was consumed in flames when the reached the home and little could be done to save the home, said Reyes.

The owner of the home said a candle was lit before the family went out for a short time and he suspected it was the cause of the fire as it had not been put out before they left. While the home was destroyed, no injuries resulted from the fire. Aid to the family following the fire was provided by the Rotary Club.

Bird Count Set For Saturday

The Saipan Christmas bird count of the Marianas Audubon Society will take place Saturday. The count is open to all and people are needed to help in the bird count. No special skills are required.

This will be one of more than 1,500 similar counts held throughout North America and the Pacific. During last year's count, 45 species of birds were seen on Saipan. This compares to 351 species seen in the Panama Can Zone, 215 in Freeport, Texas and one in Prudhoe Bay Alaska. Participants attempt to count both the number of species and the number of individuals of each species seen during the day.

The Guam Christmas Bird Count held on Dec. 17 to 18th found 44 species, a new island record. Audubon sponsors say more species should be found on Saipan than the "birdless island of Guam."

Those who wish to take part should be at Smiling Cove at 6:20 a.m. on Saturday. Please bring binoculars if you have them. For more information contact: Jim Reichel or Cliff Rice at 322-9095 or 9729.

Power Outage Announced

Residents from Lovi's Emporium to Koblerville are informed that from 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. on Saturday there will be a power outage in their area.

Executive Director of the Commonwealth Utility Corporation Pedro Sasamoto said the reason for the outage is to change engine oil in a generator.

Hotel To Build Floating Dock

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers issued a federal permit Dec. 13 to Saipan Grand Hotel authorizing installation of a floating dock, gangway, and swimming area floats in the coastal waters fronting the hotel in Chalan Kanoa.

Under the permit issued by the Honolulu Engineer District, the hotel management will install a floating dock 20 feet long and 6 feet wide which will be connected to a gangway extending 21 feet from its onshore terminal.

Adjacent to the floating dock, floats will be installed to mark the boundaries of a swimming area 390 feet long and 230 feet wide.

Application for the permit was sent to all concerned federal and local agencies for their review and comments. No objections were raised during the evaluation period.

Ex-Judge Laureta Honored By House

By Tom Anderson
Managing Editor
Ex-Federal District Court Judge Alfred Laureta was honored the House in a Resolution passed on Tuesday.

"During his tenure as district judge the Honorable Alfred Laureta helped forge a strong and independent Commonwealth for the people of the Northern Mariana Islands," reads the Resolution.

"Among his many noteworthy and scholarly opinions he authored the milestone opinions in Lucy Peters DeLeon Guerrero vs. The United States, which guaranteed citizenship rights to many Commonwealth residents, and in Temengil versus The United States, which ordered the United States to compensate Micronesians who had been paid less than non-Micronesians under a disparate wage-scale system by the Trust Territory."

The Resolution expressed best wishes for the former judge in his retirement years.

PALAU COURT DISMISSES PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION SUIT

KOROR, (AP)--A judge, saying the election commissioner had followed Palau's election laws, dismissed on Tuesday a suit filed by a defeated presidential candidate, the government announced.

Palau Appeals Court Judge Frederick J. O'Brien said some irregularities alleged by Roman Tmetuchl in Palau's national elections on Nov. 2 were unsubstantiated.

Tmetuchl lost the presidential race by 31 votes to Ngiratkel Etpison, a 63-year-old businessman and governor.

Tmetuchl's suit was an appeal from a Palau election commission decision denying his request for a recount.

Meanwhile, the government announced Etpison will be sworn in as president at private ceremonies early Jan. 1. His formal inauguration is scheduled Jan. 26, said Bonifacio Basilius, government spokesman.

Etpison will succeed Thomas O. Remengesau Sr., who was vice president. He became president on Aug 20 following the death of Lazarus Salii, who died from a self-inflicted gunshot wound.

Remengesau finished third in a field of seven presidential candidates in the national election.

Shortly after the election, Remengesau fired his cabinet and has never replaced them, said Basilius.

Remengesau returned to Koror last Friday after spending nearly three weeks in Honolulu where his wife has been hospitalized.

"The government just ran itself while he was gone," said

Basilius. "The president is president wherever he is."

Basilius said Etpison will name his cabinet within a few days after he becomes Palau's fourth president since constitutional government was formed in 1980.

Palau is the world's last trusteeship established in 1947 by the United Nations. Its affairs are administered by the United States.

About 15,000 persons live on its eight inhabited islands 4,500 miles southwest of Hawaii. Several thousand other Palauans live abroad.

FSM-Japan Establish Diplomatic Ties

KOLONIA, FSM (AP)--Japan and the Federated States of Micronesia, a Western Pacific island government, have established diplomatic relations, the FSM government announced on Tuesday.

FSM External Affairs Secretary Andon Amaraich said the new relationship will strengthen "cultural and ethnic ties dating back to the turn of the century."

The FSM became semi-independent in late 1986 after 39 years as an U.N. trust territory under United States authority. The United States continues economic aid to the 607 islands spread across a million square miles of the Pacific about 3,000 miles southwest of Hawaii.

An estimated 90,000 persons live in the FSM's four district states.

Japan became the 10th country to establish diplomatic ties with the FSM. Others include the United States, which has a State Department representative based at Kolonia, the national capital; Israel, Australia, New Zealand, Fiji, Papua New Guinea, Kiribati, Nauru and the Marshall Islands.

Japanese Foreign Minister Souda Uno and Amaraich exchanged diplomatic documents in ceremonies on Tuesday, Kolonia time. The FSM and Japan are west of the international date line.

The FSM was occupied by Japanese military forces until the 1940s when the United States captured them along with other Pacific islands.

Leaders In R.P.

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - The prime minister of Thailand and the president of the Federated States of Micronesia each will visit Manila in January.

Thai Prime Minister Chatichai Choonhavan will visit Jan. 26-27, and Micronesian President John Haglilgam will visit Jan. 30-31.

Foreign Affairs sources said they would discuss regional and bilateral relations with R.P. officials and probably would meet with President Aquino.

Unusual Ocean Temperatures May Have Role In Drought Of 1988, Say Atmospheric Scientist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some of this year's drought in the Midwest may have been caused by ocean temperature abnormalities near the equator in the Pacific Ocean, according to a new computer study reported Thursday.

Such droughts could be anticipated if the temperature abnormalities turn out to be predictable, one of the authors said in the report appearing in Friday's issue of Science magazine.

The authors are Kevin E. Trenberth and Grant W. Branstator of the National Center for Atmospheric Research in Boulder, Colo., and Phillip A. Arkin of the Climate Analysis Center of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration in Camp Springs, Md.

They noted that when asked what caused the drought that hit much of North America in 1988, meteorologists often reply "the jet stream was displaced northward of its usual position so that storms, which tend to track along the path of the jet stream, were similarly displaced northward."

"Such an answer is, however, just a brief description of the weather patterns associated with the drought but does not get at the cause. A more satisfying response would address why the jet stream was displaced northward," the team wrote.

Their proposed answer focuses on the development in April, May and June of drought in the Midwest, where several states recorded less rain than at any time since 1895. By July the weather pattern they studied was breaking up, and continuing dryness in the study area and elsewhere probably had other causes, Arkin said.

But during the April-June period there were alternating high and low pressure centers across much of the northern half of the Western Hemisphere: A high-pressure center north of Hawaii, a low in the Gulf of Alaska, a high in central Canada extending down into the northern Great Plains states and a low on the East Coast.

In this period, Pacific Ocean temperatures ranged up to 5.4 degrees Fahrenheit below normal in a narrow band extending about 4,000 miles along the equator westward from the coast of South America, with the coolest spot midway along the band.

At the same time, a bit to the north of this band, surface temperatures ranged up to 0.9 degrees above normal.

When this temperature pattern was fed into the computer, the pattern of stationary alternating high and low pressure systems was reproduced. The below-normal equatorial temperature by itself did not give such a result.

"We haven't proved anything; all we've done is shown that it's a possibility," Arkin said.

The global atmosphere is so complicated that repeated running of a more detailed computer model would be needed to show that these abnormal temperatures are likely to be associated with drought, he said.

If the model holds up, the work will be the first demonstration of tropical sea surface temperatures affecting weather outside the tropics in the summer, Arkin said.

Bush Appointment Of Lujan Praised

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — The announcement Thursday that outgoing Rep. Manuel Lujan Jr., R-N.M., will be the secretary of Interior in the Bush administration drew praise from New Mexicans including Democratic Sen. Jeff Bingaman who called it great news for the nation and New Mexico.

The authors took note of computer models predicting increased frequency of drought with the buildup of the "greenhouse effect" global warming caused by accumulation of gases like carbon dioxide in the atmosphere.

"The greenhouse effect may tilt the scale such that conditions for droughts and heat waves are likely, but it can't be blamed for an individual drought," they said.

"President-elect Bush has taken a strong positive step in entrusting the stewardship of our national treasure of public lands to Manuel," Bingaman said. "I know he can be counted on to protect and preserve those lands."

Sen. Pete Domenici, R-N.M., said he was very excited and pleased for Lujan.

"I believe he will do a wonderful job," the senator said.

"Obviously, there aren't a lot of Cabinet members so we're proud to have one from New Mexico," Domenici said. "Even aside from Interior issues, Manny will be a part of the team (New Mexico delegation) and we'll be able to get our views heard first hand at the Cabinet level."

Rep. Joe Skeen, R-N.M., said the appointment was significant for the state because the Interior Department is important to New Mexico.

"We are a large public lands state," he said. "Also, the Bureau of Land Management and Bureau of Indian Affairs, which fall under the Interior Department's jurisdiction, are very important agencies in New Mexico."

Republican Gov. Garrey Carruthers said New Mexico and the United States have been well served by the Bush administration and Rep. Bill Richardson, D-N.M., said Lujan will make an outstanding secretary because of his great knowledge of environmental and energy issues.

William Waldman, state director of the Nature Conservancy of New Mexico said his group was pleased.

"It's beneficial to Nature Conservancy and the west that the president appoint someone from the West," he said.

Cargo also said there was no tokenism in the selection of Lujan, predicting that Lujan will do a wonderful job.

HUNDREDS FILE POLLUTION SUIT IN JAPAN AGAINST GOVERNMENT

TOKYO (AP) — A group has filed suit demanding about $94.3 million from the government and factories for air pollution damages suffered by 483 people, a lawyer said Monday.

It is the largest air pollution damage suit ever filed in Japan, said lawyer Seiichi Onuki. A suit seeking $69.4 million for 471 people, also in western Japan, was filed in 1984.

Onuki said his clients also sought a court injunction to limit the discharge of air pollutants in their neighborhoods.

Onuki said the suit claims damages for 483 people, including 11 who have died, who have been recognized by the Environment Agency as suffering from air pollution.

The group in Amagasaki, 270 miles southwest of Tokyo, alleges that nitrogen dioxide, sulfur dioxide and other pollutants from plants and highways caused respiratory diseases, including asthma and bronchitis, Onuki said.

He said the pollutants were discharged by nine manufacturing and electric power firms in Amagasaki, and the government and the government-owned Hanshin Super Highway Corp. were accused of failing to curb pollution on a national highway in the area.

JAPAN'S CABINET CHANGED

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita, seeking to erase the shadow of a stock scandal that tainted his government, reshuffled the Cabinet on Tuesday with an aggressive new justice minister at the forefront.

The 20-member Cabinet does not include any politicians linked to the so-called Recruit scandal, which led to the resignation of the finance minister and 16 other influential politicians and business leaders.

The scandal and the passage last week of a tax reform package that includes a 3 percent sales tax have hurt the popularity of Takeshita's government.

There were changes in four ministries touched by the scandal, even though the ministers themselves were not accused of personal involvement.

Takeshita left in place his foreign minister, his chief Cabinet secretary and two top leaders of the Liberal Democratic Party who are strong contenders to succeed him as prime minister.

The chief secretary, Keizo Obuchi, said the changes were in keeping with Takeshita's promises to tighten political discipline.

Seen as a key to these efforts is the new justice minister, Takashi Hasegawa, 76, who heads a parliamentary committee on political ethics.

"I am aware that the public is losing confidence in politicians, business leaders and public officials," Hasegawa said in a news conference following his appointment. "It is a serious matter to rectify it. For Japan to be trusted in the international arena, we have to start with establishing a trustworthy political system."

In the scandal, a number of influential politicians and business leaders profited from bargain purchases of unlisted stock shares that rose sharply in price after their public offering.

While not illegal, the transactions in shares of Recruit-Cosmos, a real estate company, have been viewed as unethical donations.

Apart from the new Justice Ministry appointment, analysts said they expected no significant changes in government policies with the new Cabinet.

LUCKY CHARMS FAVORED IN JAPAN

TOKYO (AP) — Whether they come in the form of occult goods aimed at teen-agers or as amulets sold at mainstream shrines and temples, lucky charms are a staple of Japanese life — and a profitable business.

Each year tens of millions of Japanese adults flock to Shinto shrines and Buddhist temples to buy charms said to bring luck or ward off nearly any kind of calamity imaginable.

During the three-day New Year's holiday alone, priests at the Tsurugaoka Hachiman Shrine in Kamakura, southwest of Tokyo, expect to sell 300,000 lucky arrows, according to Atsushi Takahashi, a shrine spokesman.

"The New Year's holidays are our busiest season, and we expect nearly 2 million people to visit," Takahashi said.

If all the lucky arrows are sold, at 800 and 2,000 yen ($6 and $16) each, the Shinto shrine will take in over $2 million. And arrows are just one of nearly a dozen charms sold at the shrine.

Money made from sales of amulets is considered a contribution, and the shrines and temples pay no tax on the income.

"Sales of charms are what keep many shrines in the black," said a priestess at another Kamakura shrine. "But sometimes I wonder whether people who buy the amulets aren't missing the real point, which is faith in the divine," she said, requesting anonymity.

Tourist maps are sold at the Kamakura train station which show the location of major temples and list each one's divine favors — including business prosperity, improved eyesight and even the prevention of cancer.

Most of the charms are colorful, pocket-sized pouches which contain a talisman or drawing of a deity.

"The popularity of amulets may be due to the abundance of money in Japan and people's desire for material things," said the business director of Kiyomizu-dera, a major Buddhist temple in Kyoto, Japan's ancient capital.

"But we don't consider that as necessarily bad," he said, identifying himself only as S. Aoki. "The point is that if they didn't have any faith at all, they wouldn't come here in the first place."

Kazushi Sano of the Association of Shinto Shrines, which supervises the nation's 80,000 shrines, said there are no written rules regarding amulets, but added his organization discourages their sale in department stores or other commercial outlets.

"That would be rude to the gods," Sano said.

Besides Obuchi, others who kept their positions were Foreign Minister Souda, Defense Agency Director-General Kichiro Tazawa, and Finance Minister Tatsu Murayama, who was appointed Saturday.

Murayama replaced Kiichi Miyazawa, who quit to take responsibility for an aide's involvement in the scandal.

Two contenders to succeed Takeshita retained key party posts - Shintaro Abe as secretary-general of the Liberal Democratic Party, and Michio Watanabe as party policy chief.

Also keeping his post was Masayoshi Ito, chairman of the party's Executive Council.

It is customary for prime ministers to rotate senior party members through ministerial posts without changing the power balance among major factions, and the new Cabinet reflects this.

Takeshita's own faction has six portfolios, while those of Abe, Miyazawa and former Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone have four each and that of senior politician Toshio Komoto has two.

"In a word, I have a feeling of stability," Takeshita said after announcing the changes. "I'm looking forward to them all working hard."

A poll this month by the newspaper Mainichi Shimbun showed the Takeshita administration had only 18 percent support, down from 30 percent when the prime minister took office 13 months ago.

But Tokyo University political scientist Takashi Inoguchi said, "Takeshita may be on a temporary low, but by next summer he will be shining again."

Inoguchi suggested that Takeshita can boost his popularity by faring well in a meeting next month with President-elect George Bush and possibly holding a summit.

MAYOR AMBUSHED - KILLED ON MINDANAO ISLAND

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Communist rebels killed a town mayor and his policeman driver and wounded five other people in an ambush on the north coast of Mindanao Island, the military said Wednesday.

Another policeman was missing after the attack Tuesday on Mayor Porferio Branzuela along a highway in Plaridel town in Misamis Occidental province, 455 miles southeast of Manila, said military spokesman Maj. Filipino Amoguis.

Amoguis said an undetermined number of New People's Army guerrillas fired on the police jeep carrying Branzuela, mayor of Calamba town, killing him and his driver, policeman Eddie Torres.

Three policemen, a soldier and Branzuela's civilian bodyguard were wounded.

Calamba, about eight miles southwest of Plaridel, has a population of about 15,000.

The ambush came about eight hours after expiration of a Christmas cease-fire called by the New People's Army and President Corazon Aquino.

In Zamboanga City, also on Mindanao Island, fire of undetermined origin leveled the entire Moslem-dominated barter trade center, destroying about $1.3 million worth of goods but causing no injuries, officials said Wednesday.

In Manila, the newspaper Malaya quoted witnesses as saying the Tuesday night fire was preceded by two loud explosions, possibly from grenades.

But military and police officials could not confirm the report.

Mindanao Island is wracked with both communist and Moslem rebellions.

Christmas Coconut Remains Mystery

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Even though the mystery of the Christmas coconut has turned into a local media gimmick, Ed Clinch still is a good sport about the nutty tradition.

"It's gotten out of hand over the years," Clinch said Monday, a few minutes before the annual arrival of the coconut. "Who'd believe a practical joke would end up like this?"

Every year since 1948, a decorated coconut has been delivered to Clinch as a practical joke from an unknown prankster. The gag is wearing thin now for the 73-year-old victim, even though he still good-naturedly accepts the gift.

"This started in 1948 with a bunch of my buddies," Clinch said.

"I came back from the war telling a lot of stories about the Philippines and coconuts. I think one of my pals got an idea from that."

"We used to really have fun with it," Clinch said of the palm tree nuts. "The first year, I took it to a party and we were throwing it around and singing 'I Ain't Got Nobody.' The first one was delivered with a note 'To Daddy from The Thing.' It was a just a joke."

In following years, the coconut's delivery became an event.

They've been delivered via ambulance, police canine corps, past Peoria mayors, an FBI agent and even the Bradley University basketball team.

Clinch said he used a lie detector test on his friends at the Peoria Park District, where he worked 40 years, to try and discover the source. He even blackmailed his buddies, got mad at them and tried every means of persuasion possible to uncover the joker.

"One time, every one of my friends admitted to it. What was I going to do."

After about 10 years of receiving Christmas coconuts, Clinch said the local news media heard about the tradition and he knew then he'd never discover the name of the source.

"I knew it would be covered up forever once the media got involved."

Over the years, most of his friends have died, leaving Clinch to wonder about the coconut's originator and who is perpetuating it.

And he laments the intrusion of the media into what was a joke among friends.

No longer are the coconuts delivered by parachute, horseback, helicopter or other imaginative host as in the past.

"Oh, some radio or TV personality brings every year now," he said. "There's not much to it. I think they've run out of ideas."

Clinch said he thinks the local media may be perpetuating the Yuletide stunt.

The 1988 coconut delivered by a local radio station disc jockey.

When opened it was wearing a ribbon advertising the station's number on the radio dial.

But he gladly accepted the nut and joked briefly with the media on hand for the event. He goes along with the joke, in part because his children and grandchildren enjoy it.

"My kids grew up with the coconut," he said. "I used to throw them away. But my daughter started saving them and made a scrap book, and I'm glad she did."

"It's a never-ending story. I don't know what to say except Merry Christmas and Happy Coconut. Now I can go in and have a cup of coffee."

PUBLIC NOTICE

A recently conducted Leak Detection Study has proven what the government suspected regarding leaks in the water system. Nearly 55% of all the water leaks occur on the customer side of the system. These leaks are mainly the result of the following problems:

1. Rainwater/Catchment Tanks are connected to the public water supply without a float valve or other controls to prevent overfilling. During water hours the tanks continuously overflow draining the water supply pipes.
2. Water service lines to occupied homes and businesses are either on the surface of the ground or very shallow. These lines are cracked or otherwise poorly installed and allow considerable waste.
3. Open hose bibs, abandoned homes, and cut service lines are the next biggest cause of wasted water.
4. Finally, the leaks in kitchen, bathroom and laundry faucets in most homes combine to account for significant losses.

As residents on a small island with limited water resources we must all work together to prevent unnecessary waste. Failure to control waste may result in a decision to disconnect your service.

Executive Director, CUC

PUBLIC NOTICE

Dear Customer:

The Commonwealth Utilities Corporation is recommending that all new residential water service lateral be installed in 3/4 "PVC Schedule 80". Our standard water meters are sized to accommodate this type of installation. It will also help to reduce the cost for the CUC and our customers both in installation and future monthly billings.

Thank you for your cooperation in helping the CUC to standardize our water system.

/s/PEDRO SASAMOTO
Executive Director, CUC

PUBLIC NOTICE

After December 10, 1988 any unreported, unauthorized water taps will be disconnected and only by proper registration can they be connected again.

All water deliveries must be metered and CUC will furnish your meters. Please contact CUC to obtain instructions and meters.

CUC advises those who are presently receiving water service and are not registered with CUC as a customer or are not being billed for water service to inform CUC immediately. Failure to do so will result in disconnection and discontinuation of service.

CUC will not allow anyone to tamper with the meters or break the meter seal for any reason. Only authorized CUC personnel may remove or install a meter or break the seal. The seal is CUC's insurance of metering integrity. Any customer whose meter has been tampered with will be subject to immediate disconnection fee, reconnection fee, deposits, plus any legal fees incurred by CUC in prosecution.

This notice is made in accordance with Article IX, Disconnection of Water Service, and Article V Installation of Water Service Connections and as established by the Regulations Governing the use of the CUC Water System, effective July, 1988.

Your cooperation is appreciated.

Save Energy

Don't let the gas station attendant "top-off" your tank by filling it to the brim after the nozzle's automatic shutoff stops the flow. This often results in overflow and a waste of gasoline. Also, in warmer weather some space should be left in the tank for expansion.

Northern Marianas Music Society

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Our year-end event, COLORS OF DANCE, has added a news dimension to our efforts as a group. We are proud of this years multifaceted calendar which has expanded our horizons. We were able to present a salon with local talent nearly every month this year. In March we undertook the dramatic play, PICNIC. Following closely in June the musical 'LIL ABNER', was an unqualified success. Our Fall schedule included the annual United Nations Day variety show and a dance and beach concert featuring the U.S. Navy Band Combo from Guam. It was our great pleasure to host A CHRISTMAS FANTASY featuring children from the Marianas High School, Mt. Carmel High School. The Chris Weeks Dance School, and the San Jose Youth Choir. The Christmas show may have been one of our most successful in terms of attendance and audience response. The kids were wonderful!

As this year draws to a close, we in the Music Society wish to express our appreciation to all the individuals in the community who have been so very generous with their time and resources in their gift to the Music Society. There is no greater giving than of yourself. We are mindful of all the extra trips to the lumberyard and the hours of painting, memorizing lines, practicing songs, rehearsing scenes and other labors of love that have been performed. We wish to recognize the business community which has been so quick to offer assistance and support.

We wish you a Joyous Holiday Season and a Happy and Prosperous New Year

Rest From Medication Suggested By Doctors

"Multiple medical problems come with age, resulting in multiple drugs," says the director of geriatric programs at a New York medical center, who warns users of possible over-medication or over-accumulation.

"Without careful monitoring," says Dr. Geraldine Lanman of the Long Island Jewish Medical Center, New Hyde Park, N.Y., "the drugs that keep our elderly alive longer, can also sharply minimize the quality of life."

At the Daughters of Jacob

Geriatric Center in New York, where the average age of the residents is 87, about 80 to 90 percent of them take a "medication holiday" from non-essential medication each Monday.

"The program is designed to cleanse the body, decrease possible side effects and provide the opportunity to re-evaluate prescription patterns," says Claire Vogelmann, president of Daughters of Jacob. "Ultimately, some medications may be changed, some eliminated completely."

Senior Citizens Should Ask For Lung Cancer Test

In order to detect lung disease, the National Jewish Center for Immunology and Respiratory Medicine, in Denver, suggests that senior citizens ask for a breathing test called spirometry as part of every physical examination. The spirometer measures the lungs' "forced vital capacity," say researchers at the hospital, or how well a person can force air from the lungs. Lung cancer remains a serious health threat.

World Rocball Play Scheduled For January

The 5th Annual World Rocball Tournament will begin in January. Mariana's High School students have fielded 12 teams to participate this year in the games.

The 12 teams will be divided into two leagues. League winners will play each other some time in late April or early May to decide the world championship.

The play is called the "world championship" because Rocball is Saipan's own unique gift to the sporting world. The game of Rocball started 8 years ago at Hopwood Jr. High School and moved to Mariana's High School in 1986 and went into international competition last year.

Miyazawa High School students from Yokohama, Japan, Saipan's international competitors, brought the international perpetual trophy with them last year. They will be back in Feb. to try and reclaim the trophy during the 2nd Annual Mariana/Miyazawa Goodwill Cultural Exchange and Sports Encounter program.

As Rocball has progressed, its players have enjoyed and experienced many of the positive aspects of organized sports. This year, in addition to the other happenings, Rocball players are honored to its MVP award sponsored by Pacific Gardenia Hotel.

Each week the player of the week will be honored by the hotel as its "Master Blaster". The highest scorer and the most outstanding player of each round of competition will be recognized.

Pre-season games of Rocball have already gotten underway. Rookies and veteran players alike are looking forward to a new season getting underway after the holiday season when Rocball games will official start.

There was a general meeting of the coaches, captains, and players before the holiday break to elect officers. Elected were; Climaco T. Laniyo as President; David T. Chargualaf as Vice President; Fred O. Omengkar as Secretary; and Flesia F. Ruwreun as Treasurer.

Coral Point Invites Public

Coral Ocean Point Country Club on Saipan's southern coastline sounds like a private club, but it's not, according to the man who has been in charge of developing the $30 million facility.

Coral Ocean Point President Mike Imai said that all facilities, including the Club lounge and restaurant are open to the public and that further, unlike other golf courses on Saipan and in Japan, Coral Point charges no membership fee.

"We are very aware that the course is on public land," said Imai, "and this is one of the policies resulting from that fact."

Fees for use of greens and golf carts at the course also reflect the same concern. Tourists pay $100, hotel guest $70, but local golfers pay $20 ($30 on weekends).

Imai offered some contrasts with Japan, where typical green and cart fees might range from $150 to $200 at a public course to $350 at a private membership club. Japanese golf clubs are well known for huge membership fees. Imai said that at one club with membership currently priced at $2 million, golfers still pay a $60 green and cart fee.

Although some local golfers have pressed for further reductions in the fees, this would not be fair to the large majority of tax-paying, non-golfers in the Commonwealth, said Imai. Under the Mariana Public Land Corporation lease for the property, Coral Ocean Point, a CNMI corporation, pays a large annual lease fee which will increase in years to come, plus the normal 5 percent gross receipts tax paid by CNMI businesses. Further reductions in fees would simply decrease government revenues at the expense of the rest of the public, explained Imai.

Finishing touches are still being applied to the Club, which will be receiving its first large contingents of guests from Japan in the next few weeks.

Work will also begin soon on improvements to the shoreline area in front of the course, to further encourage public access and enjoyment of the area. New picnic tables, shelters, barbecues, toilets and other public facilities will be installed by Coral Ocean Point. Other plans call for cleaning up trash in the shoreline area and marking historical sites which have been preserved within the golf course and park area. Large scale planting of local trees and shrubs is underway.

Imai said that American PGA Champion Larry Nelson, who laid out the course, will be on Saipan in early Feb. to check his work.

Rocball got its start as a sport in the CNMI.
