THE DAILY BULLETIN.

Pledged to neither Sect nor Party,
But Established for the Benefit of All.

FRIDAY, MARCH 10, 1893.

Messrs. Thurston and Castle have evidently abandoned diplomacy, and taken to the standard mode of warfare belonging to their clique here—throwing dirt. Was it on account of the corruptions of the court—about which he is so eloquent at Washington—that Mr. Thurston thought—as he said in his place in the Hawaiian Legislature shortly before the revolution—the best way to obtain better commercial relations with the United States was to have the Queen go to Washington and visit the World's Fair in person? Mr. Castle makes even a worse hypocritical exhibition of himself. His face never shone with a holier glow at religious or benevolent meetings in Honolulu, than when those occasions had the benefit and the prestige of the presence of the Queen whom he now so foully abuses.

DEFERRED.

The attempt to railroad the treaty of annexation through the Senate before the close of President Harrison's administration has failed. It is a very poor treaty even in the view of redhot annexationists here, and the probability is that it will never pass in its present form. The postponement is not on account of Mr. Harrison's modesty of responsibility in the closing hours of his government. Neither is it due to the factious desire of the Democrats to have the glory of passing the treaty under their own rule. The treaty is deferred from consideration because the solid public opinion of the United States has been run up against, and it has checked the feverish boom that the sudden appearance of the Commissioners on the Coast, with, as they thought, the archipelago in their pockets, created for adding the jewels to the coronet of the Goddess of Liberty. President Cleveland represents not only the people of the United States, but especially its cautious and conservative elements that will not be hurried into unlighted courses. Information has been received by today's mail that in his inaugural message President Cleveland will recommend the postponement of action on the treaty until a commission from Congress shall have investigated the whole question on Hawaiian ground. Mr. Thurston, it is learned, has written that the treaty would be passed within two weeks—that is, by the executive session of the Senate called to confirm the appointments of the new President. The wish is doubtless father to the thought, as Mr. Thurston probably knew as little of what the Senate would do, even if it came to a vote, as the readers in Honolulu of the press reports from Washington.

THE DISBANDED FIREMEN.

Meeting of the Volunteer Department Board for Settlement of Affairs.

An adjourned meeting of the Board of Representatives of the Volunteer Fire Department was held last evening in the hall of the Fire Police company. Julius Asch, ex-chief engineer, presided, and there were 17 other members present, the only absentees being J. D. McVeigh, who was on duty at the quarantine station; Carl Widemann, who was assisting in the reception to Stansbury, the champion oarsman, and D. Kavanakoa, now in foreign parts.

The minutes of the stated meeting of February 9th and of the special meeting of February 23rd were read and approved.

A bill of the Bulletin Publishing Company for advertising was read and recommended to be paid by the Board Fire Commissioners of the new department.

J. H. Boyd, on behalf of committee to whom was referred the by-laws of the Fire Police company for examination and to report thereon, not having any report to make, it was voted that the committee be discharged.

The proposed addition to the by-laws of the department introduced February 9th was adopted, the motion to indefinitely postpone the same (presumably on account of the disbandment) being put and lost.

In regard to said addition of the by-laws, a motion was made to have the same printed and distributed to each company, which failed.

Claims for refreshments aggregating the sum of $52.75, incurred during the period of martial law, were read and referred to the secretary with instructions to submit and recommend the same for payment by the Fire Board, the Board of Representatives assuming the payment of claims of a similar nature aggregating the sum of $55.

A bill of $25 for medical attendance on George K. Norton was rejected on the ground that a similar claim was presented to the assignee in bankruptcy of said Norton.

The sum of $63.50 was voted towards the funeral expenses of the late W. E. Herrick, late member of Hook & Ladder Company, and the sum of fifty dollars (a second installment) was voted for the relief of the family of the deceased.

The motion to continue the sick fund of the department having failed, it was voted that the same ($3500 being the amount) be distributed share and share alike among the different companies. Each foreman and the treasurer of the fund were appointed a committee to apportion the securities which are all in secured investments.

Meeting then adjourned until Thursday the 16th instant at the usual hour in the same place.

THE AQUATIC CHAMPION.

Gives an Exhibition in the Harbor—Entertained by the Clubs.

James Stansbury, champion single sculler of the world, arrived by the S. S. Alameda yesterday on his way to the World's Fair, Chicago. The champion was met by a delegation from the Myrtle and Healan boat clubs, who requested him to be their guest and give an exhibition in the harbor. Stansbury readily complied and decided to give an exhibition for one club and be entertained in the evening by the other.

One of his shells was launched from the Oceanic dock at 4 o'clock in the afternoon when the champion immediately spurted out into clear water. His sculling was superb, his long reach enabling him to cover considerable space at a pull. The movement of his arms were like clockwork. The wharves were crowded with people eager to catch a glimpse of the champion from the land of sport.

A six-oared shell manned by the senior crew of the Myrtles gave the champion a good pull around the can buoy and return. A close scrutiny of the Australian showed that he was not in trim, as he carried too much flesh. The muscles on his arms and the calves of his legs, however, showed out boldly, denoting great strength and endurance. After an exhibition of about half an hour Stansbury was invited to the Myrtle boat house, when he was shown over the building. He expressed surprise at the beautiful finish and decorations of the hall and its comfortable appearance. There were larger sheds in Australia, but they were nowhere near as good as the Myrtle's club house.

Stansbury gave the Myrtle boys praise for their stroke and stated that on his way back he intended to make a stay here of several weeks. The Myrtles informed him that if he did so, they would expect him to give them a few lessons. The champion said he was not much of a teacher, but he would be pleased to accommodate them. When asked if the harbor wasn't too rough, Stansbury said that it was calm. On the Parramatta River, Sydney, it is always rough, and many a time had his shell been filled with water. The sculler, before returning to his boat, stated that he had not been pulling in his shell for nine months. As he was leaving the boat house the "boys in red" gave the champion three rousing cheers.

In the evening Stansbury was entertained at dinner by the Healan Boat Club.

Three days is a very short time in which to cure a bad case of rheumatism; but it can be done, if the proper treatment is adopted, as will be seen by the following from James Lambert, of New Brunswick, Ills: "I was badly afflicted with rheumatism in the hips and legs, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It cured me in three days. I am all right to-day; and would insist on every one who is afflicted with that terrible disease to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm and get well at once." 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers. LATE FOREIGN NEWS.

(San Francisco, Mar. 3, per S. S. Monowai.)

UNITED STATES.

John W. Mackay, the bonanza millionaire, was shot in the back by a crank named W. C. Rippey, near Hirschman's jewelry store, San Francisco, at noon of Friday, Feb. 24. Rippey then fired a shot into his own body, and was following Mackay up to shoot him again, but became too weak to pull the pistol trigger. Mackay's injury was not considered dangerous except from the possibility of blood poisoning. The bullet was extracted. Rippey was the worse hurt, but might recover.

The great battle-ship Indiana was launched at Cramp's shipyard, Philadelphia, Feb. 28, in the presence of thousands of people, including President Harrison, members of the Cabinet, Congressmen and others from Washington. She is the most formidable of all the vessels built or building for the new American navy. Her cost will be $3,000,000 and she will be ready for service in a year.

"August Flower"

Dyspepsia. There is a gentleman at Malden-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., named Captain A. G. Pareis, who has written us a letter in which it is evident that he has made up his mind concerning some things, and this is what he says:

"I have used your preparation called August Flower in my family for seven or eight years. It is constantly in my house, and we consider it the best remedy for Indigestion, and Constipation we have ever used or known. My wife is troubled with Dyspepsia, and at times suffers very much after eating. The August Flower, however, relieves the difficulty. My wife frequently says to me when I am going to town, 'We are out of Constipation of August Flower, and I think you had better get another bottle.' I am also troubled with Indigestion, and whenever I am, I take one or two spoonfuls before eating, for a day or two, and all trouble is removed."

Saturday, March 4, 1893.

The annexation hurrah promises to bring such a rush of Americans to Hawaii that it is a question where they will be accommodated with land. Lots of land here will be made ready for planting whatever the new arrivals think will pay the best. If they will accept the advice of experienced men they will procure "Hendry Breakers" as the best means of accomplishing what is necessary in making it ready for cultivation. That they are superior to any other plow on the market is shown in the number of testimonials we have received from persons who are using them. Mr. H. Lidgate, manager of Hamakua Plantation, says regarding it: "We are so well pleased with your 14-inch Breaker that we are, by this mail, sending through our agents for two more, one 14 inch and one 12-inch. The piece of ground we are using this one on is full of stone and soon uses our other plows up, but yours stands the rough work well and turns the sod where the others only root." When a conservative man like Mr. Lidgate puts his name to a testimonial as strong as this the public may rest assured that he believes the plow to be a good thing.

Another article that increased immigration will create a larger demand for is the Steel Aermotor. Wherever rains are uncertain the Aermotor is an absolute necessity—once erected the cost of maintaining it is practically nothing. We know of people on the islands using our mill who tell us that their savings by this means have paid for the investment the first three months after purchase. One back number Chinaman saw his taro going to waste for lack of water and to get some money out of it leased his patches to a neighbor who owns an Aermotor. Look at the result: the man with the windmill saved the taro and drives a double team, while the misguided Chinaman sits on the fence and marvels at his lack of savez. We have testimonials enough on the Aermotor to fill the columns of this paper, but it would crowd out "late dispatches," so we don't publish them. If you want water buy an Aermotor, damp weather won't last forever.

Late news from the United States continues to keep on the fence some people who are anxious to get down on one side or the other. Between annexation and monarchy with some of them it's a case of "How happy I could be with either were I other dear charmer away." This plan may work, but it's doubtful; a man can't expect to continue for ever sliding down a slippery board without getting a splinter in some part of his anatomy. What about wire? There are from four to a dozen, reports vary, war ships, coming here during the next thirty days and they will average 300 men each. Let us calculate that eight will arrive; that's 2400 men; add this number to the sailors already here and we will have an addition to our floating population—say 4000 souls and each one of them will average two pounds of meat per day, that's 8000 pounds. There's millions in it! Beef, not wire. With this large increase in the demand for beef will come a demand for fence wire and you will find it to your advantage—and ours, to buy from us. We have the largest stock and the best quality of wire in Honolulu and we're shipping it to ranches and plantations all over the islands by nearly every steamer leaving this port. People who came to see it bought it and you will probably do the same if you are interested in cattle or want to keep them off your crops.

FURTHER POSTPONED

ANNEXATION TREATY ABANDONED BY THE LATE SESSION.

Commissioners Hope for Success in Extra Session.

San Francisco, March 3.

By February 25 it was understood the Hawaiian annexation treaty was to go over for the session. That day the Senate refused to go into executive session, which confirmed the understanding.

The Commissioners had been led to believe that when the Senate met, to confirm Cleveland's appointments, immediately after the close of the old session, the treaty would be brought up, discussed, and ratified. Mr. Castle said this would be unusual, but it was an unusual case.

"If the Democratic administration wishes to simplify the treaty we will not object," he said, "even if it be cut down to two lines, to the effect that Hawaii is hereby annexed to and made part of the United States."

Mr. Castle did not see what rights Princess Kaiulani had anyway. "Everybody on the coast," said he, "knows that Kalaaua was not one of the royal family; that he was called to the throne by election, and that before his coronation he had to sign the constitution, and that Liliuokalani had to do the same thing. They became rulers of Hawaii by contract and not by right of succession. Both violated the constitution and broke their contracts, thereby forfeiting the throne."

Paul Neumann was particularly pleased at the latest turn in affairs, as any delay in ratifying the treaty gave him more time in which to present his own views in the case. He said on the 25th: "Judging from the action of the Senate to-day I am impressed with the idea that many Senators are coming around to my way of thinking and I am now convinced that the Hawaiian question will be disposed of in a manner quite satisfactory to everybody, with the possible exception of a few members of what is called the missionary party."

Neumann was questioned about Kaiulani and he also said that her presence in Washington would have no effect.

NEUMANN HOPED FOR A COMMISSION TO VISIT THE ISLANDS.

Mr. Neumann next day expressed the conviction that the treaty of annexation with the commissioners of the Provisional Government was practically defeated. He said the Senate would be asked the following week to appoint a commission to visit the islands and investigate the condition of affairs there. If this were done he said the Senate and the country would learn the conditions under which the people of Hawaii would almost unanimously support a movement for the annexation of the islands if it were then determined that that was the best thing for both countries.

He asserted that the Queen was not deposed, but had simply retired to her private residence in order to avoid a conflict with the United States troops. He asserted that Minister Stevens was compelled to raise the United States flag over the Government buildings in Honolulu to protect the Provisional Government from its own partisans.

Having established a protectorate, however, Neumann said Minister Stevens should have been amply supported by his Government. Personally he hoped the protectorate would be maintained until the fate of the islands was settled.

Neumann criticised the action of Davies in starting to the United States with Princess Kaiulani, and also the reported proposition to Minister Lester in London to accept an American protectorate over the islands, with the Princess on the throne and with a regency for three years.

Thurston and Castle were of the opinion that a request for a visiting commission would impress the people of the United States favorably because of its apparent fairness on its face, but that in the end it would prove to be a boomerang. Mr. Neumann was a bright man and would ask for one thing after another, beginning with the restoration of the Queen and ending with more money for her. He continued:

"To suggest that a commission visit the island is the best move he could make to push the treaty over for several months, but the outcome of such a proceeding, should he get his commission, is a very difficult matter. This commission would reach the very bottom of things and that would insure annexation. The commission would discover things that we have refrained from mentioning. The most character of our court circles would be exposed in all its hideousness and there would be no more question of the Queen's restoration. It would be found a matter of utter impossibility."

Mr. Castle here interjected with talk to the same effect, saying that under no circumstances would Liliuokalani be placed back on her throne unless the United States placed her there, and he could conceive of no condition of things that would warrant that country in doing so. He went on to say:

"We have not thought it necessary to take into the domestic life of Kalaaua royalty, as it would stir up as filthy a mass of stuff as ever affected the public nose, but it will have to come out if a commission goes to Hawaii. That is inevitable. We have been urged by those who know the facts to go into details in this matter, but we have refused to do so. Only yesterday we received a message from Senator Chandler urging us to use clubs, as the other side probably would, and even Congressmen preferred to be clubbed in a reason anyway. Rest assured of this, we will have no more monarchy on the islands."

SENATOR MORGAN SPREADS HIS WINGS AND FLIES OVER THE SEA.

Senator Morgan sailed on the steamer New York on the 25th. In reply to the address of a committee seeing him off he made a speech urging the annexation of Hawaii. He remarked that it was singular there were just then three immense propositions grouped together, relating to that great body of water, the Pacific—the Behring Sea arbitration, the Nicaragua Canal project, and Hawaiian annexation.

"These three together must convince all thinking men that there never was a moment in the history of this Government, save the period of our civil war, when so much wisdom, courage, manhood and intrepidity, foresight and determined American pluck were necessary as just now."

The Senator said that he had come to a pivotal point in American history, when they must go back or forward. They could not take the middle ground. He did not want to see repeated what was perpetrated on the States when they acquired their independence, when, although France was at their back, they did not have the foresight to acquire all that belonged to them. "We did not take Newfoundland, the Bahama, Bermuda, the Windward Islands, Jamaica and all the territory known as Yucatan. Why should a people of 35,000,000 hold against a people of 65,000,000 all these islands? I am not criticising them; I admire them. I wish an American to be as much like them as possible, only more so."

"Great Britain has already planted herself in Australia and New Zealand and is now approaching the Sandwich Islands—that Gibraltar of the Pacific. Let me ask you, when she gets there and completes the chain, including Vancouver, Victoria, Hawaii, Hongkong, New Zealand and Australia, will we not then see repeated in the Pacific that miserable, despicable policy which was perpetrated in the Atlantic when there was nothing left but for us to put the eastern islands into the bill of sale treaty?"

"With these three great questions confronting us we have need of that spirit of manhood, energy and endurance which were superbly developed when we were fighting one another with 1,000,000 men in the field. Then we shall see the outcome of our policy, and spirit of a great people on a great occasion. Let us move to the front."

PRINCESS KAIULANI ARRIVES.

Princess Kaiulani arrived at New York on the steamer Teutonic the first of March. With her were Theophilus Davies and Mrs. Davies, English guardians of the Princess, Miss Davies and Miss Wartoff, a companion of the Princess. E. C. Macfarlane, ex-Minister of Finance, and Dr. Mott Smith, Hawaiian Minister to the United States, went down the bay on the revenue cutter Chandler to meet the young Princess. They boarded the steamer immediately after she left the Health Office boarding station. There was quite an army of curiosity seekers on the pier to get a glimpse at the Princess. A suite of rooms had been engaged for the party at the Brevoort House and they were driven there immediately after coming off the steamer.

The Princess is 18 years old. She is a tall, beautiful young woman, with a sweet face and slender figure. She has the soft brown eyes and dark complexion that mark the Hawaiian beauty. She had come to the United States, she said, more for the purpose of learning and observing for herself the nature of the people who had been asked to take control of her country than to make a formal petition for her crown.

"That," she said, "is rightfully mine, and if the Americans are the noble-minded people I think they are they will not be a party to the outrage by which I have lost my birthright."

In regard to her views on the various aspects which the Hawaiian Government is likely to assume, Princess Kaiulani referred to her guardian, Mr. Davies, but she issued the following address:

"To the American People: Ubudiden I stepped upon your shores to-day where I thought so soon to receive a royal welcome on my way to my own kingdom. I come unattended, except by loving hearts that come with me over wintry seas. I hear that commissioners from my land have been for many days asking your great nation to take away my little vineyard. They speak no word to me, and leave me to find out as I can from rumors in the air. They would leave me without home or name or nation."

"Seventy years ago Christian America sent over Christian men and women to give religion and civilization to Hawaii. They gave us the gospel; they made us a nation, and we learned to love and trust America. To-day three of the sons of those missionaries are at your capital asking you to undo away their work. Who sent them? Who gave them authority to break the Constitution they swore to uphold? To-day, I, a poor weak girl, without one of my people near me, and all these Hawaiian statesmen against me, have strength to stand up for the rights of my people. Even now I can hear their wail in my heart, and it gives me strength and courage and I am strong; strong in the faith of God, strong in the knowledge that I am right, strong in the strength of 70,000,000 people, who, in this free land, will hear my cry and will refuse to let their flag cover or do dishonor to mine."

STATEMENT BY MR. DAVIES.

Mr. Davies made a statement, in which he related the circumstances under which the Princess was sent to England. It was when Mr. Thurston was in power, and Kaiulani was 11 years of age. "It was felt to be very important that she should be sent entirely away from the surroundings and influences of Hawaiian court life in order that she might be trained in a quiet home atmosphere which would enable her to more fully take up her future position as a sovereign. Thurston repeatedly urged that the young Princess should be sent to England with this object in view, and in 1889 the plan was carried out, and Princess Kaiulani was sent to England in charge of a lady who was about to spend a year in Europe, and who undertook to place her at a suitable school."

At the end of the first year the result was considered so satisfactory that King Kalakaua was persuaded to consent to a continuance of the Princess' stay in England. An arrangement was made whereby she was put under the guardianship of Mr. and Mrs. Davies. She had been entirely as one of their children, spending her holidays with them. Her one idea and theirs had been to prepare her for a return to her own land during the present year, when she attains her majority. Mr. Davies told of the appropriation of $4000 made for the Princess' four home through the States, and continued:

"When the news reached me by cable of the revolution in Hawaii I wrote to the Minister, pointing out what appeared to me to be grave difficulties in the way of the carrying out by the commissioners of the proposal for annexation. I stated in my opinion that no amount of reasoning and no amount of bribes would ever gain the pure Hawaiian vote, and that the vote annexation could be neither completed nor carried out hereafter."

"I then urged that a convention of all classes of voters should be called, a carefully revised constitution presented them, that the Queen be requested to abdicate, and that the Princess Kaiulani should be proclaimed Queen, with a council of regency, of which I suggested that Dole, now the head of the Provisional Government, should be president. On February 11th I received this cablegram from Washington: 'Islands transferred; the Princess has been provided for.' Whether this cablegram was to be considered an official communication I do not know, but it was the only communication that reached me and absolutely none reached the Princess."

Mr. Davies said they came to America "with no official status and with no official information, but with the conviction that the Government and people of the United States will not lend their countenance to the disinheritance, for no fault alleged against her or her nation, of the royal lady who has with singular grace and courage endeavored to fit herself for her high station and who has shrunk from neither duty nor sacrifice in the effort."

He said that the Queen appeared to have violated her constitutional oath and to have laid herself open to deposition, but that could not affect the Constitution itself nor the oaths which the Commissioners took. There was no pretense that the Hawaiian electorate ever knew of the revolution at the date of the Commissioners' departure. Mr. Davies concludes regarding the Commissioners as follows:

I do not for a moment believe that any of them would be guilty of intentional cruelty or even discourtesy to the Princess, and the unenviable position which their silence toward her betrayed them into must arise from the difficulty they find in reconciling their present attitude with the knowledge that their oath to sustain the Hawaiian Constitution binds them to the succession of the Princess unless the nation itself releases them from that oath.

MR. WILDER DISCUSSES THE PRINCESS.

Mr. W. C. Wilder, one of the Commissioners, in an interview at San Francisco on his way home, is reported to have said: "The Princess, who will probably arrive in New York to-day, is, I think, ill-advised in making any attempt to further her cause by a personal appeal to the new President. Her education and upbringing are entirely English, and her being brought over at this juncture will save us strongly of English influence that it cannot surely have any but a deterrent effect upon the minds of the American people, who of all things in the world relish the idea of English interference least of all, no matter in what indirect shape it may show itself. Her guardian, Theophilus Davies, who accompanies her, is head of a large English firm in Honolulu whose anti-American views are well known. The inference naturally is that she has become imbued with his principles, and this will certainly not help her cause in the slightest."

PRINCE DAVID OBJECTS.

Prince David was questioned at New York regarding the object of Princess Kaiulani's visit, and said he did not know why she came over there, and did not believe Mr. Davies knew what he brought her there for. So far as he could learn from what Mr. Davies said he was there "for the sole purpose of working against the interests of the deposed Queen. If he has been correctly quoted in the newspapers he certainly is working in the wrong direction."

"What right has Mr. Davies to say that the Queen appears to have violated her oath? Mr. Davies evidently would like the Queen to step down and out. He says that the Queen should be requested to abdicate and that Princess Kaiulani should be proclaimed Queen with a council of regency. After hearing such views from Mr. Davies I can only state that he is working against the interests of the Queen, which is bad taste, to say the least.

Mr. Davies does not know the situation in Hawaii, nor did he know it when he left England. If he had known it perhaps he would not have left England. The fact of the matter is that Mr. Davies does not know what he is talking about."

Mr. Macfarlane is reported as saying he does not know of any good reason for Kaiulani's coming.

TROOPS FOR HAWAII.

A Standing Army Recruited from the Inhabitants Suggested.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The Herald's Washington special says: Anticipating the ratification of the Hawaiian annexation treaty by both the United States Senate and the Provisional Government of Hawaii, the military and naval authorities are discussing what should be done for the preservation of the peace on the islands pending the establishment of a permanent government. It is realized from the heterogeneous character of the population of the island and the general tendency of the native element to revolution, that to peacefully maintain American sovereignty over the islands, there must be a proper display of military from the time annexation becomes an established fact.

In this connection the advisability of sending troops of the regular army to the islands is being informally and seriously discussed by many army officers. Navy people, as a rule, believe that sailors and marines should be utilized for this purpose. But they are forced to admit that, by reason of the limited number of naval vessels at hand, it might be advisable to send several batteries of artillery from California, to remain at Honolulu until some of the new vessels can be sent from this coast. Under the permanent form of government to be established by legislation it is suggested there should be a standing army organized from the inhabitants of the islands.

A number of American officers, it has been further suggested, should be detailed to perfect the organization, and when the United States has established the proposed coaling station in Pearl Harbor there should be an American garrison to defend the entrance to the harbor.

The strongest recommendation that any article can have is the endorsement of the mothers of the town. When the mothers recommend it you may know that that article is more than ordinary merit. Here is what the Centerville, South Dakota, Citizen says editorially of an article sold in their town: "From personal experience we can say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has broken up bad colds for our children. We are acquainted with many mothers in Centerville who would not be without it in the house for a good many times its cost, and are recommending it every day." 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers. TURN OF THE TIDE.

Strong Expressions of American Public Opinion Against Annexation.

EDITOR BULLETIN:

I leave for London, England, tomorrow, and take this opportunity to send you a few lines on the annexation question. The following is an editorial from the St. Paul (Minn.) Globe:

UNSEEMLY HASTE.

President Harrison, in the closing days of his administration, sends to the senate a message announcing the negotiation of a treaty with the "representatives" of Hawaii, transmitting a copy of it and the correspondence of Minister Stevens, and urges the immediate ratification of the treaty.

What are the known facts? A couple of thousand citizens of the United States have settled in Hawaii and engaged in business. With their usual thrift and craft, they have obtained large property interests there. They have imported into the country large numbers of coolies to work their sugar plantations. They have grown wealthy and rapacious as their wealth increased. They are not content with the gains made under our treaty with that country and which they are deprived of by the McKinley act. They want a share in the bounty given to sugar producers in this country. To get this they must make the islands a part of our domain. They organize a conspiracy to overthrow the legitimate government. They carry it into effect. The government is helpless with its army of less than a hundred soldiers. The minister of this country, without other pretext than a pretended fear of trouble, recognizes the usurpers and establishes a protectorate over the country, and our man-of-war sends its armed force to sustain the usurpation.

The provisionals charter a steamer and send commissioners to this country to offer the islands to us. They refuse passage to representatives of the government on the same steamer. They find a ready reception at the White House. Meantime representatives of the deposed Queen come to make their protest. The natives send by them a protest before whose simple words of pathetic remonstrance, greed, avarice, rapacity, should sink away ashamed. Protest and remonstrances, the rights of the native people, of their rightful government, are unheeded. A president of this country, retired for cause by his people, on the verge of oblivion, takes up the cause of the speculators and recommends this country to grasp that which they offer, but have no right except that of might to give.

The Globe has not thought it possible that the President would take this course at all; much less that he would take it with such indecent haste. It trusts that there will be found among the senators enough with a finer sense of right than the President has shown to defeat the plans of these freebooters. The above expresses the real sentiment of many papers in the States; the reason annexation is favored is purely from feelings of sentiment and patriotism—a desire to acquire a little more territory, and a feeling that England may take the islands. I have talked with many business men in this city, and have often heard the opinion expressed that the annexation business was a "steal" pure and simple. This feeling is gaining ground as the facts are becoming known, and if all the details of the affair in Honolulu had been published in America two weeks ago, the question of annexation would not have been thought of.

Both people and Congress have been laboring under a misapprehension, and some of the red-hot annexation papers have refused to print anything but the annexationists' side of the story. I know this to be a fact. Some people for the purpose of manufacturing a little false glory for the American flag, are quite willing to steal a nation, especially as Hawaii is poor and weak. But many condemn the whole affair as the subject is better known and as the facts are being brought to light.

Three days is a very short time in which to cure a bad case of rheumatism; but it can be done, if the proper treatment is adopted, as will be seen by the following from James Lambert, of New Brunswick, Ills: "I was badly afflicted with rheumatism in the hips and legs, when I bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It cured me in three days. I am all right to-day; and would insist on every one who is afflicted with that terrible disease to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm and get well at once." 50 cent bottles for sale by all dealers. MISSING WORD CONTEST.

For the Readers of the Daily Bulletin.

As a needed diversion in the midst of political anxieties, an exercise in mental ingenuity or literary research, and an opportunity for mutual profit between this paper and its brightest readers, the BULLETIN now opens a missing word contest.

The sentence from which the last word is missing in the following voting ticket is from a volume of standard literature. Every person is entitled to give the missing word on each ticket sent with a fee of ten cents. At the close of the competition, with ten days added for votes from the other islands, the entire aggregate of voting fees will be divided in equal shares among all who have correctly named the missing word.

For Missing Word Contest No. 1 the ticket will appear in six successive issues of the DAILY BULLETIN. The division of receipt will be made on Thursday, March 23. Following is the voting ticket:

Missing Word Contest, No. 1.

DAILY BULLETIN.

"I ought to say besides, that that portion of the army so imprudently sent to the aid of the English Colonies struggling against their mother country, was imbued in the New World with the doctrines of....."

[Address]

Fee 10c. enclosed.

The voter has simply to cut out the above ticket, write in the blank what he believes is the missing word, sign his name with address on the lines for that purpose, then enclose the ticket with ten cents in an envelope, and send it to this office, addressed as below. The ten cents may be sent in postage stamps. A good way for voters in the country would be for several to send a list of their names and a P. O. O. to cover the aggregate of their fees, each, however, sending his vote separately. Voters in Honolulu may hand their votes into the BULLETIN Office.

To attest the fairness of the contest, the name and page of the book, from which is taken the passage containing the missing word, will be published along with the list of those who have given the correct word and are entitled to the dividend.

One person may have as many votes as he pleases, but only one vote is allowed on each ticket. He may vote different words or repeat the same one on separate tickets.

Address votes:
