CONFESSED THIEF GIVES BACK TALK

Satisfied With Sentence
But Says There
Are Others.

DEFENDANTS ARE HASTY IN PLEADING GUILTY

AN UNSIGNED INDICTMENT RE-TIFIED—STRONG MUSTER OF PORTO RICANS AT BAR OF JUSTICE.

Porto Rico was strongly represented at the bar of the Circuit Court this morning. Arraignments on indictments were the order of business.

Jose Reveira, a Porto Rican lad, was the first defendant called up. The charge was larceny in the second degree for the theft of jewelry valued at $15 from the house of Isaac Louis Cockett, Kaibahi. Through an interpreter in Spanish Reveira pleaded guilty. This was at 9:20 o'clock, but the defendant was so full of talk and had so many things to say that more than half an hour elapsed before he took his seat in the prisoner's dock again under the maximum sentence of two years in prison at hard labor.

Deputy Attorney General Cathcart said the theft was committed at night, yet the charge was but second degree larceny. He explained later, when the defendant had made statement, that it could not be proved that the house was closed when entered.

Judge Gear, after hearing the defendant's statement in reply to the usual question if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced, informed him that according to his own showing he had committed burglary and for that crime might be imprisoned for life. The defendant talked back a lot, the court understanding him to say that when he got out of jail he would kill the judge. The interpreter said outside afterward that the defendant did not make this threat.

When the sentence of two years was finally pronounced, Reveira said he was satisfied but there were other guilty persons around town. Then he angrily demanded that his money be returned to him. Judge Gear at first answered that he would have no use for money in jail, but finding on inquiry that prisoners were allowed to buy tobacco, etc., questioned the prisoner about the amount the police had taken from him. Detective Kapa was called and substantially corroborated Reveira's accounting, the deposit being now four dollars and thirty odd cents. A dollar was paid for a hack to fetch the boy's clothes.

Florence Andino, Manuel Morales and Kaimo Martin were arraigned together, the first named for wounding Coda

Takematsu with a knife, the others for being present and aiding and abetting Andino. The principal is a full black, tall and handsome, while his alleged accessories are of the usual Porto Rican type, saffron-bred and medium-sized. Andino corroborated the others in their plea of an alibi, but was told to plead for himself. He promptly said he was guilty. When asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be passed on him, the principal began to tell the story of his deed. He had gone into the place of the Japanese at twilight and called for a lemonade. The Japanese asked him if he wanted to play seven-eleven and the defendant answered that he did not understand what was meant. Then he was hustled about. Here the court interrupted him to ask if he was pleading self-defense. The answer being in the affirmative, a plea of not guilty was ordered to be entered.

There was a hitch in the arraignment of the trio just mentioned. When Mr. Cathcart had concluded reading the indictment he discovered that it was not signed by the foreman of the grand jury. Judge Gear said it was no indictment and continued the case till Saturday. The grand jury, however, came into court later with the indictment duly signed by George T. Kluengel, foreman. Mr. Kaulukou moved the indictment be dismissed on the ground that it purported to have been made on August 8 while it was only signed today.

"How do you know?" asked the court.

"Because I saw Mr. Kluengel take it out of this room this morning."

The motion was denied and the defendants pleaded as already stated.

Ah Cheong pleaded guilty to larceny in the second degree for the theft of jewelry worth $15 from Geo. Haflner. Mr. Kaulukou, who had stood up with him, on hearing the plea stated that he did not appear for the defendant. Ah Cheong, a quiet and respectable-looking young Chinese in European clothes, when asked if he had anything to say why he should not be sentenced, began to answer in such a low tone that Judge Gear called him up close to the bench. Defendant told the court in English that he sold the articles and returned the money to Mr. Haflner by the latter's request. The court ordered the plea changed to not guilty.

Benjamin Haheo, indicted for assault with a shotgun on Rebecca Houghtaling, pleaded not guilty and his bond was fixed at $500. Mr. Kaulukou appeared for him.

Cheong Kwai, assault with intent to murder committed on Fong Quane, had his plea rescheduled till Saturday at the request of F. E. Thompson.

Antone Perry, seduction, and William Pangelly, assault with a weapon, were also allowed to reserve their pleas at the request of S. E. Chillingworth.

R. Duncan pleaded not guilty to malicious injury for tearing down a stable belonging to Annie Akong at Kaibahi and his bond for appearance was approved. This case arises out of an old trespass controversy that has already been aired in civil proceedings.

Bishop Cecil Wilson, the other day at Portsmouth, England, captained a cricket eleven made up of the local clergy against a team of officers from the Royal Marine Artillery. The Bishop's side won, making 122 runs, of which he contributed 18.

MINOR WELL GUARDED

MARY ALICE PORTER'S
ESTATE IS INCREASED

THE MOTHER'S DISINHERITING WILL TO BE CONTESTED IN TRIAL BY JURY—GOOD
HOME PROVIDED.

Cecil Brown, guardian of Mary Alice Porter, a minor, in his annual account charges himself with $2,973.21 and asks to be allowed $2,332.08, showing a balance of $641.13 in favor of the ward on income account. The capital of the estate has been materially increased under Mr. Brown's management, as the following statements from his report show:

"The guardian's accounts filed last year showed a balance of income on hand of $1,193.48. The total gross income for the year ending August 8, 1902, shows the sum of $1,859.73; the expenditures for account of support and maintenance for that period have been $675.20. From the income of the estate there has been transferred to principal account and invested the sum of $1,225. The accounts now filed show a balance of income on hand of $641.13.

"The guardian, as the interest on the mortgages and notes is paid, hopes during the coming year to credit the principal account with whatever sum that may not be needed or expended in the support, maintenance and education of the minor, and invest the same.

"Since the last report the mother of the minor died, leaving a will under which the minor was disinherited, everything having been left to the husband of the mother and stepfather of the ward. Proceedings disputing the validity of the will have been taken, and are now pending for hearing before a jury.

"The ward has been placed in charge of her grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Savidge, who is superintending the care, maintenance and education of the ward, and is providing her with a good home and proper surroundings."

The ward is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Theo. C. Porter. Her father was manager of the bank of Claus Spreckels & Co. and for a time Minister of Finance in the Provisional Government.

ARE NOT DEMOCRATS

The Independent came out on Tuesday last with a statement to the effect that the sympathies of the members of the Portuguese Political Club are Democratic. Several of the most prominent of these young men have been seen and they emphatically deny that there is even the slightest grain of truth in this statement. They want a public denial of it.

Of course, it is well known that J.M. Camara, president of the club was a Democratic candidate for the Legislature at the last election. It is also well known that he was defeated. Now Camara, when he went to the Portuguese Club did so with the understanding that the work of the organization would be non-partisan in its nature and he then and there swore allegiance to all political conviction except the dictates of the club. It is probably from the fact that Camara was a Democrat that the rumor to the effect that the club is Democratic has gone abroad.

The young men who have been seen declare that they have not joined any party but the probabilities are that they will vote the Republican ticket if that party gives them representation.

TODAY'S TAX APPEALS

There are four cases before the Tax Appeal Court for this afternoon as stated below: C. W. Ashford being attorney for the appellants in the first three and Magoun & Peters for the last named.

Kapiolani Estate, Ltd., returned $32,400, assessed $46,100, appeals on $13,700.

Carlos A. Long returned $7500, assessed $11,250, appeals on $3450.

John F. Colburn, returned $15,500, assessed $23,350, appeals on $8850.

Elizabeth K. Booth, returned $20,500, assessed $31,000, appeals on $10,500.

Assessor J. W. Pratt said this afternoon that the appeals yet pending would all be over taken within the time limit of the court.

MISTAKE CORRECTED.

In a recent article published in the Bulletin reference was made to the management of the new hotel in the Young building and in connection therewith the name of H. W. Lake was mentioned. The words "now of the Monna" were also used, referring to Mr. Lake. This was, of course, a mistake, for Mr. Allen is still the manager of the fine hostelry, nor have there been any changes there in the management since he took charge of the place November 1, 1901.

The Baroness von Ketteler, widow of the German minister killed in Peking, has sent invitations to several friends in Detroit, her former home, to attend the unveiling of the monument to her husband in Berlin.

WATER SITUATION

WAS DISCUSSED

At a Meeting of Waimea
Stockholders Held
Today.

COMMITTEE APPOINTED TO MAKE INVESTIGATIONS

ATTEMPT WILL BE MADE TO GET
LEASE FROM GAY & ROBIN-SON SATISFACTORY TO THE AGENTS.

A meeting of the stockholders of the Waimea Sugar Co. was held in the assembly hall above Castle & Cooke's offices this forenoon for the purpose of discussing the present condition of the plantation and its prospects for the future. There was a large attendance and the discussion developed many interesting points pertaining to the plantation.

Castle & Cooke, agents for the plantation, presented a statement of affairs to the stockholders which represented that if the water supply could not be improved, they wished to be relieved of the agency.

It was brought out that the wells of the sugar estate showed about 100 grains of salt to the gallon whereas in the past, the amount was only 40 grains.

Manager Fassoth of Waimea gave as a reason for this increase in salt that the well casings which had been in use for from sixteen to twenty years had become worn out, allowing the salt water from the upper strata to seep through into the volumes from below.

The whole success of the future of Waimea plantation seems to hinge on a satisfactory lease of mountain water being secured from Gay & Robinson.

A lease has already been made out which together with the work of leading the water down to the plantation would cost about $30,000.

It is understood that the terms of this lease are not satisfactory to Castle & Cooke and that this is really at the bottom of the refusal of the present agents to advance the money.

While the plantation in the past did a flourishing business even when the wells did show 40 per cent of salt, it is conceded by all who know the conditions that pure, fresh mountain water is the only salvation of the sugar estate so that all energies are being directed toward this matter. With fresh water, the crop could be increased by 500 tons.

At this forenoon's meeting, a committee consisting of E. E. Conant, W. E. Rowell and Edwin Paris was appointed to examine into the exact condition of the plantation affairs with reference to the wells and to report on the practicability of bringing out new water.

Every effort will be made to get a lease from Gay & Robinson that will prove satisfactory to Castle & Cooke.

AMERICAN SUGAR CO.'S AFFAIRS IMPROVED

At the annual meeting of the American Sugar Co. today the affairs of the corporation were shown to have distinctly improved.

By the auditor's report it was seen that since January 1, 1901, when the debt was $144,192, a reduction of $57,378 had been made, the net indebtedness on July 31 last being $87,113.

The reports showed that the herds had increased to about 5000 head of cattle and 21,500 head of sheep. Negotiations were reported in progress for renting a portion of the land for the cultivation of rice.

Officers were re-elected as follows: E. H. Woolehouse, president; Geo. N. Wilcox, vice president; E. A. Mott Smith, secretary; A. W. Carter, treasurer; W. H. Baird, auditor; A. F. Judd and Jas. M. Wakefield, directors.

Over twenty ping pong players have already entered for the tournament to begin soon at the Officers Club.

TICKETS ARE SELLING

FOR FISTIC CARNIVAL
AT ORPHEUM THEATRE

SOLDIERS AT CAMP M'KINLEY
BACK KAMISKY FOR ALL THEY ARE WORTH—NO KICKS
ANTICIPATED.

Indications point a most successful fistic carnival at the Orpheum on Saturday night next when Weday and Kamisky will box for ten rounds and other exponents of the manly art will exhibit their cleverness with the mits.

Tickets for the great event were placed on sale this morning and inquiry at the box office brings out the information that the seats are going very rapidly. Among the early purchasers of tickets were a large number of prominent business men of the city.

The show at the Orpheum Saturday night will begin at 8:30 o'clock and it is calculated that the preliminary bouts will consume an hour's time so that the big event of the evening will start in at about 9:30 o'clock.

Those who have seen "Spidey" Jackson and Edwards at their work state that these clever boxers will surprise the spectators when they come together. They are clean fighters and are as well matched that the outcome of their four-round bout is a matter of doubt.

In fact, every number on the program will be well worth seeing and the management promises that there will not only not be a single hitch in the program but that the people will leave the place without a kick to register.

The soldiers at Camp McKinley are taking the greatest interest in the Weday-Kamisky fight and are backing their man for all there is in it. There is also a well defined rumor that if Weday should win the fight there will be a very poor financial condition at the camp for a month after the fight.

On Saturday morning all the men who are to take part in the various bouts will be examined by a physician to see if they are in a perfect physical condition.

Paddy Ryan will be the referee for all the matches of the evening.

The management, ever mindful of the press, has arranged for a table on the stage where newspaper representatives may at all time during the evening, have an unobstructed and close view of the matches.

TOOK ADVANTAGE OF THE WARNING

In the Police Court this morning the principal case was the one against Wong Loy, charged with keeping a disorderly house. F. M. Brooks appeared for the defendant and he and the deputy sheriff, who conducted the case for the prosecution, had several heated arguments.

The deputy sheriff took the stand, stating that he had arrested the defendant in his house on King street, near Liliha, on the night of August 8. He had found the defendant on the porch while in the house were several Chinese women, one of whom, Ah Chin, alias several other names, was discovered with a Chinaman in a very compromising situation. Officer Ah On, who accompanied the deputy sheriff at the time of the arrest, testified to the same effect.

Ah Chin was next put on the stand and it was at this time that the fun commenced.

The deputy sheriff examined the almond-eyed lady but was soon interrupted by Brooks, who objected to the asking of any questions by which the witness might incriminate herself. He stated that there was a case in the Federal court this afternoon, as it was supposed that the defendant had imported the women from China for the purpose of prostitution.

The court stated that the Federal court had nothing to do with the Police Court but warned the witness that she was at liberty to refuse to answer any question by which she might incriminate herself. After this, the witness proved to be a very poor one for the prosecution and the case was nolle prosequi.

Another case against the same defendant in which he was charged with soliciting, was continued.

A SALOON ASSAULT

Herman F. Angel, until recently a motorman on the Rapid Transit line, got pretty badly hurt in a row in one of the saloons of the city this morning. His assailant, a sailor named Alfred Butner, met Angel in the saloon and attacked him with a beer glass, inflicting a couple of wounds on the latter's scalp. Officer Hart quickly arrived on the scene and set Angel, whose wounds were bleeding profusely, to the Queen's Hospital. He then placed Butner under arrest. The case will come up tomorrow.

When Butner was arrested, he stated that he had been drunk last night and that Angel had taken advantage of his condition by stealing $55 from him. He attacked Angel to "get even" with him.

GOT A "CLEAN SHAVE"

A good joke on a prominent Hilo man now in the city for a short sojourn is now going the rounds.

A couple of days ago this man went into the barber shop at the Hawaiian Hotel and asked for a shave, not mentioning the fact that he wished his sideburns to be left intact.

The man from Hilo settled himself comfortably in the barber's chair, closed his eyes, and probably dozed. The barber went at his work, and when he had finished, tapped his customer on the shoulder and said: "Dere, sir; you look mooch better now."

The "clean shave" which had been given the Hilo man so startled him when he looked in the mirror that he was speechless for a moment. When he did recover, however, there was a flow of oratory more eloquent than any ever heard from a judge's bench on the Big Island.

It was not for needless driving that Nishimoto was tried yesterday, but for adulterating milk. Food Commissioner Shorey, the complaining witness, admitted that the Century Dictionary was an authority and it was put in evidence as showing that milk might be as much as 90 per cent liquid. This is a lower standard than that fixed by the Food Commissioner and Judge Gear granted a motion to direct a verdict for the defendant.

An answer was filed by Queen Lilikoukani to the bill of C. B. Wilson to declare a trust for certain property on the Plains claimed by him. She denies that she made no endeavors to sell the land, and says the property was sold to Cecil Brown for $1400. She disavows also any knowledge as to the petitioner expending $500 for improvements. Respondent says further that the service rendered to defendant by plaintiff and his wife was without promise of pay, for the reason that petitioner was under obligations to respondent for financial assistance rendered, which had never been repaid.

Lilikoukani says further: "That she allowed said petitioner and his said wife to occupy said premises without demanding rent on account of the close friendship existing between petitioner's wife and this respondent, and by reason of the fact that she believed that said petitioner was in poor circumstances financially and could not afford to pay rent."

The will of J. H. Harrison was filed for probate with a petition for the appointment of Cecil Brown as administrator. The estate is valued at $500.

To his daughter, Phoebe, wife of Samuel Johnson, deceased leaves $10; to his son Henry James is given the home key engine and property used in his stove-cure business. To his wife is given one-third of the remainder, and the balance then remaining goes to the son Henry James.

Chamber of Commerce ELECTS All Its Former Officers

The regular annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce was held at the regular place yesterday afternoon. Vice President C. M. Cooke in the chair. There were present the following: C. M. Cooke, J. G. Spencer, W. M. Giffard, J. B. Atherton, G. P. Wilder, H. A. Parmelee, W. W. Hall, Alex. Isenberg, J. P. Cooke, Cecil Brown, T. Clive Davies and W. L. Hopper.

Owing to the delay in the arrival of enough members to constitute a quorum, the meeting was not called to order until close upon 3 o'clock.

The chair calling for nomination of new members, Secretary Spencer stated that M. S. Grinbaum had applied for membership some time since and that at that time, R. R. Berg was mentioned as the manager and the accepted representative of the firm.

Mr. Spencer then stated that he had received a letter from M. S. Grinbaum & Co. in which A. Gartenberg was mentioned as being the representative of the firm in the islands.

On motion of Mr. Atherton, Mr. Gartenberg was voted a member of the Chamber of Commerce, representing M. S. Grinbaum & Co.

The name of J. A. McCandless, nominated for membership at the previous meeting, was brought up and on motion the rules were suspended and the secretary cast a ballot for Mr. McCandless.

J. P. Cooke reported for the Fire Claims Committee to the effect that a joint meeting with the committee of the Merchants' Association had been held and that the joint report was ready. The committee would recommend a meeting of the two organizations at 2 p. m. on Friday to hear the report.

Mr. Hall of the same committee stated that J. G. Pratt, Fire Claims Commissioner to Washington, would be present at the meeting to answer any questions that might be asked him. Mr. Pratt's report will also be read at that time.

The report of the Fire Claims Committee was adopted.

The next business was a proposed change in the by-laws, making the Collector of the Port of Honolulu a member of the Chamber of Commerce with out vote. A motion that the by-laws be amended to that effect was carried unanimously.

Next came a letter from Collector Stackable in which he stated that he had received a departmental letter from Washington, dated June 18, in which he was requested to make up an estimate of the merchandise imported here from the United States from July 1, 1901, to June 30, 1902. He desired the co-operation of the Chamber in computing such statistics, since the Customs Department no longer keeps a record of such imports.

W. F. Allen stated that Mr. Stackable had been to most of those concerned in the city and that they had agreed to keep a record of such receipts. Mr. Spencer stated that letters had been sent to the merchants by him covering this ground. It was also reported that since June of this year, the Collector had been requiring manifests of vessels entering this port and that no statistics would be asked for from that time.

On motion, the letter of the Collector was received and merchants will be asked to comply with the request. J. P. Cooke introduced the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That the officers of this Chamber be requested to act in conjunction with the officers of the Merchants' Association in arranging a plan for the entertainment of the members of the Senatorial Commission, appointed for the purpose of investigating conditions in the Territory or Hawaii, and for the preparation of data concerning the business interests of the Territory which may be requested by the Commission.

Be it further Resolved, That the officers of this Chamber be requested to report their action for confirmation, at the joint meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' Association.

Mr. Spencer reported that Senator Burton of Kansas, a member of the Commission coming to visit the islands, would be here on the 29th, two days before the joint meeting of the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association. It was the sense of the meeting that this matter be left to the same committee as the mentioned in the resolution of Mr. Cooke.

Next came a letter from W. C. Weedon, dated at San Francisco, in which he announced that he had received letters from the Mayor of Baltimore and the president of the largest chemical works in St. Louis, to give lectures at those places. He had arranged for a meeting in San Francisco to which the Chamber of Commerce had been invited. He thought it advisable for him to go to St. Louis as soon as possible. In closing his letter, Mr.

Weedon said that there need be no fear on account of the seismic manifestations in Southern California. They were very much exaggerated.

An application for an endorsement by the Chamber of Commerce from S. De Freest, was read and referred to the president and secretary of the Chamber. Mr. De Freest wants the position of United States Shipping Commissioner here, the post about to be vacated by W. Porter Boyd, now in the Orient. He states that he has already had much experience along this line and has received the endorsement of most of the merchants of the city.

The secretary's annual report was read by Mr. Spencer. In the beginning was mentioned the change from the old quarters to the assembly hall above Castle & Cooke's store and then into the beautiful room in the Hackfeld building furnished the Chamber free of charge by H. Hackfeld & Co., Ltd.

The sum of $1000 had been raised for the government to outfit the Fire Claims Commission, an appropriation of $800 a month had been set aside to enable the Board of Health to enlarge its sanitary inspection of the city, the commission of Wm. Haywood as representative of the Chamber of Commerce at Washington had been renewed, a seal had been adopted, Mr. Haywood had been instructed to favor the passage by Congress of a fire claims bill, a petition had been sent to Congress favoring the passage of the Mackay cable and the payment of the fire claims which had been endorsed by the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce and Board of Trade, W. C. Weedon had been employed for six months to lecture on Hawaii in cities of the Mainland and the proposition of an exhibit at St. Louis and Osaka, Japan, had been taken up for consideration.

The treasurer's report gave receipts of $2629.81, expenses, $951.80, leaving a balance on hand of $672.01. W. F. Allen was appointed auditor to go over the accounts.

Then the matter of the election of officers was brought up. President Cooke stated that he had seen W. G. Irwin just before he left for the other side of the island and had mentioned to him the matter of president of the Chamber of Commerce. He said he was in favor of having the president of the Chamber advanced, from year to year, to the office of president but that, if the members wanted him to serve again as president, he was willing to accept.

Mr. Cooke went on to say that, even though Mr. Irwin was absent from the islands a number of months out of each year still to have him at the head of the Chamber was a very advantageous thing once he was so well known in business circles in New York and San Francisco.

Mr. Atherton nominated Mr. Irwin for the presidency but withdrew that and made a motion to the effect that the rules be suspended and that all the old board of officers be re-elected, the secretary casting the ballot. This carried unanimously and the officers now stand as follows:

President, William G. Irwin; vice-president, Charles M. Cooke; secretary, J. G. Spencer; arbitration committee, C. M. Cooke, J. B. Atherton, F. A. Schaefer, W. F. Allen and F. M. Swanzy.

A recommendation in the report of the secretary that the by-laws be revised was taken up for consideration. The final action being that the secretary was instructed to have 250 copies of the by-laws as amended at various times during the past year, printed for distribution among the members. The meeting then adjourned.

It is understood that the by-laws will contain on the front page a picture of the new Hackfeld building in which are situated the headquarters of the Chamber of Commerce.

JAPANESE CONFERENCES.

After a week of daily sessions, the conference of the Japanese preachers and converts in Christian evangelized work in the islands ended yesterday at the Japanese Methodist Church on Nuuanu street. The daily sessions were very well attended and great interest was manifested by the Japanese as well as the foreigners who assisted. The sessions were practically those of a summer school of instruction for Japanese Christian workers. Among those who made addresses were the following: Rev. Kosaki, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Tokyo; Dr. Alexander, a former missionary in Japan, who spoke on doctrinal themes; Rev. George L. Pearson, on "The Preacher and His Message"; W. A. Brown, on Sunday school work; Rev. Mr. Kosaki, religious and modern thought as viewed from the Japanese standpoint; O. P. Emerson on prayer. Rev. Mr. Rice and Rev. O. H. Gulick also delivered addresses.

WARNING TO DOCTORS

REGARDING REPORTING CONTAGIOUS DISEASES

REGULATIONS FOR HILO FISH-MARKET ADOPTED BY THE BOARD OF HEALTH AS ALREADY PUBLISHED.

At the meeting of the Board of Health yesterday were present: Dr. H. C. Sloggett, president; Fred C. Smith, Dr. W. L. Moore, D. P. H. Isenberg and Attorney General Dole, with the executive officer, Dr. J. S. B. Pratt, and Drs. Camp and Mori in attendance.

The two latter physicians had been called to answer information charging them with failing to report contagious disease encountered in their practice. President Sloggett dismissed them with strong cautionary remarks after hearing their statements.

After they had retired, the president suggested that the press should emphasize the necessity of having all suspicious cases of any contagious disease reported before the patients were in articulo mortis or subjects of post mortem examination. If physicians neglected their prescribed duty in this matter the vigilance of the Board to prevent the introduction of pestilence would be constantly liable to defeat.

Mr. Isenberg, after some discussion, recommended the sending of a letter on the subject to every physician in town, warning him of his serious obligation in the premises. This recommendation was adopted.

A report was received from the committee on the Hilo fish market, consisting of President Sloggett, Dr. Moore, Mr. Mott-Smith and Dr. Reid. It recommended regulations of similar purport to those submitted by Sheriff Andrews and fully reported in last Thursday's Bulletin. The report was adopted.

An electric signaling system has been devised to protect picture galleries from theft and vandals. So many thefts have been committed at the Louvre in Paris that the authorities were compelled to adopt heroic means of protecting their priceless treasures. The electric bell system eventually adopted and installed, according to the Western Electrician, is so designed that the moment a picture is moved, on matter how little, a bell is rung and an annunciator announces the exact location of the point of alarm.

HIGH ART PLUMBING

BATH'S PLUMBING ESTABLISHMENT.
Interior view: Located at 165 King Street, opposite Young Building.

This up-to-date plumbing shop is the result of a very rapidly increasing business and was made necessary on account of the cramped quarters formerly occupied on Richards street. To make a display of the large and fine stock of sanitary plumbing materials the new shop was opened.

A full line of the world-famed Douglas Closets is carried, which are provided with either high or low tanks and are as near noiseless in their operation as closets can be made. They are constructed on the syphon principle, which makes a strong suction that thoroughly washes the bowl. These closets are sold under a written guarantee, and are also guaranteed against leakage, no charge being made for repairs.

People today are paying much attention to sanitation and sanitary plumbing is one of the requisites in every modern residence. The BATH SHOP is the leader in sanitary plumbing and years of experience and a large force of capable workmen enables Mr. Bath to do work equal if not superior to any other shop in the islands.

A line of rolled-rim enameled Bath Tubs are on hand, as well as open bathtubs. These are highly sanitary, goods, and the connections are nickel, making them artistic in appearance.

One of the latest Improved Wash Trays may be seen on exhibition. These goods are all connected with the city water mains and may be seen in full operation at the store. The public are invited to call and make inspection of these goods.

Mr. Bath will call and give figures on work at any time. He also gives all work entrusted to him his personal supervision.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 14, 1902.

Don't let the supreme satisfaction of party harmony blind Republicans to a realization that there is a larger field to conquer.

A seven-year-old Russian child is gaining considerable attention from the press on account of having made the unsolicited prediction that the millennium is at hand. When the child is a little older, it will know better.

Competitive cooperation among the business bodies of the city to place facts before the Senatorial Commission is just what is needed to sift the wheat from the chaff and put before the Commission the data and sentiment that is necessary to obtain proper legislation for the country.

The artist's model who called New Yorkers vulgar because they gazed upon the exhibition she made promading Fifth avenue in a bathing suit is carrying the realistic in art to a point that closely approaches the days when the Garden of Eden contained all the humanity of the world.

Gold Democrats have captured the organization of Michigan, and thus is Bryan being gradually beaten back to the private life down on the Nebraska farm. The Democrats while chasing after an issue have become firm in the conviction that an issue cannot be made out of a personal hobby.

MORE WORK NEEDED.

Is it not true that Republican committees are devoting too much of their time to a discussion of candidates and neglecting the canvass for voters? In other words, is the Republican party keeping its force as well in hand as the Home Rulers?

The Bulletin is led to make this query because to all appearances the precinct officers appear to have considered their work finished with the close of the primaries and District committee men also seem to be of the opinion that their real work will not begin till the party platform is framed and the candidates named. Furthermore it is claimed that the Home Rule party has so far advanced its canvass that it already has pledged voters in various precincts and districts to the support of its candidates and has thus obtained a nucleus which is being steadily increased in consequence of the lack of Republican activity. It is also claimed that the Home Rulers have in this island and so far completed their organization as to divide their party followers into blocks of fifty or a hundred in charge of active lieutenants whose duty is to keep up the enthusiasm and by regular house to house visits hold the voters in line.

These claims may be false. The number and character of the pledged voters may be exaggerated. It may seem the utmost folly to attempt to pledge voters and expect to hold them before the men and measures they are to vote for are known. It cannot be denied, however, that an endeavor should be made to counteract opposition party influences at every point, in season and out of season.

What is being done by the Republicans?

Is it not true that the Republicans are placing too great dependence on latter day conversions? Are they not banking too heavily on what they hope to do, or the vote this, that or the other candidate ought to carry when the enthusiasm of the campaign is in full swing, and neglecting the hard, toilsome, apparently thankless duty of the hour? Are the party leaders and managers in touch with the political status of every voter as they must be in order to start in upon a thoroughly effective campaign when the platform and candidates are finally put before the people?

The Bulletin puts these questions to the party because it believes the managers will make a sorry mistake if the great mass of detail necessary to a successful canvass is put over to the eight weeks following the conventions. Successful politics means doing politics as a long game. It is exceptional for a preliminary house to house canvass to be overcome by the appeals or arguments from the stump. The work must be incessant. And in order to make the efforts of speakers and candidates count to the best advantage, they should know the exact party strength, the location of weak points and the reason for them the moment the convention closes its labors. The party that has to devote one week or two weeks of an eight week campaign to the assembling of its forces is shouldering a tremendous task, one which will be entirely unnecessary if proper plans for perfecting the organization are carried out in proper time. There is no occasion for District committees or precinct clubs to wait for the new Territorial committee. Whatever the party policy or the Territorial committee plan of campaign, the data to work with ought to be prepared, and the District committees should be responsible for the campaign in their several sections. The Home Rulers are at work. This is no time for Republicans to wait.

A NEW SPECIES OF IMMORALITY.

[Japan Gazette.]

Moral codes have received severe shakings of late, and as might be expected in the line of modern heresies, Count Tolstoi takes the lead in upsetting well established conventions. None of the latter has been more fixed or potent than the creed of praise accorded to the altruism of the priesthood. Whatever the faults incident to their calling, or whatever the immoralities to which they have been peculiarly liable, all have been usually atoned for by the fact that their aim has been purely altruistic, and that they have been actuated by a desire to "save souls." The Russian sage, however, now comes forward with the dictum that the whole business of saving souls is thoroughly immoral, and in his view a greater sin than pride. "No man," he says, "is called to instruct others, but the duty of each is to perfect himself in truth and love. For it is only by his own perfecting (with no thought of others) that man can influence others." The best way for a priest, the Count says, to get out of his false situation, is heroically to assemble his flock and before them make open confession of error in having led them astray. He further declares that in his view a greater sin than pride is to say, "I can help others to live well and to save their souls."

Apart from the fact, that there is much truth in the Count's contention that every man who arrogates to himself the role of intermediary in religious relations prevents him, where he would guide, from entering into those direct relations which are the very essence of religion, it is easy to account for these extraordinary utterances as the natural result of reaction in the mind of an earnest and able Protestant born in a land which has the reputation of being the worst priest-ridden country upon the face of the globe. His dream becomes interesting, however, when we find an echo of its sentiment on the other side of the Atlantic, in a region especially exempt from priestly domination. The fact that long ago Emerson pointed out the futility of doing things for example's sake, the policy of affectation never having been in the least effective in improving the condition of mankind, may perhaps have prepared the ground in New England for these latest ethical heresies. We find, for instance, a prominent Boston paper lending its columns to the circulation of the doctrine that it may be grossly immoral to live up to one's highest principles, if such principles involve a running amok amongst those whose lives are patterned upon other plans. As typical examples of such immoral dealings, of course the missionaries are cited, they being described as the people who go forth among peaceful, law-abiding savages to force upon them a religion that has outlived its usefulness; a religion that has not prevented them from doing such an immoral, impolite thing. They go forth to promulgate the truth of which they are not sure. They inviscidly invade the premises of goodly primitive people and ruthlessly trample upon their traditions, beliefs, superstitions, and feelings. We shut people out of our country, and then send missionaries to offer them free admission or standing room in our heaven. Heedless that their bodies are starving, we come and ask to let us save their souls. We forget that they have a right to their religion, to their way of non-thinking, to take the medicine they like; that their method of salvation is best for them.

That human hopes and human creeds have their roots in human needs. We forget that they have just as much a right to wear their mental corsets as we have to wear ours, or, if you wish, that their beliefs are as true to them as ours are to us. We forget that they speak to God in their own language. We go forth among them and mock at all that is holy and dear to their hearts.

Of course, missionaries, like all agitators, are devoted people, living up to their very highest principles, and we all mean well; but this sort of business, this invasion of and utter disregard for others, is grossly immoral. To court and minister to the needs of cannibals and brigands is too much altruism on our part, and this excessive phase of it is wicked and hurtful.

The writer, curiously enough, comes out squarely upon Tolstoi's ground when, in discoursing upon happiness for others, he holds not only that it is not right to force it upon others against their consent, but also that it is wrong to do it at the expense of one's own welfare. Here again we have Emerson's teaching that unless a man does what he can for himself first, he is not justified in trying to manage other lives upon a better basis. If he essays the task, even from the highest principle, he is woefully misled by that principle.

The upshot of it all is that what has been heretofore held as the highest type of morality is sought to be relegated to the lowest place in the code, the dictum of the modern law reading: "If he loatheth the world what shall it profit a man that he gaineth his soul?" or in other words, of what earthly use is a soul without a wicked world to use it in?

If now one asks wherein is the practical advantage of this making a topsy-turvy of the generally accepted laws of morality, the answer is plain that no such extremely new positions would be advanced were it not for the excesses of those who persist in running the old ones into the ground, and if the whimsical protest made against such excesses does but result in awakening us to the fact that most of the harm in this world is done by the well-meaning people devoid of tact, and by the high principled people lacking in judgment and common sense, it will serve a most admirable purpose.

MILLIONS INVESTED IN SMOKE.

[New York Commercial.]

To the members of the Anti-Smokers' League, who make such violent opposition to the use of tobacco in any form, it will be interesting to learn that the United States of America grows, approximately, one-half of all the tobacco consumed in the world. This is, par excellence, the great smoke-producing country. We not only use millions of pounds of the weed for consumption ourselves, but we export it to the uttermost bounds of the earth, to provide consolation (as we assume) to all races of mankind. During the fiscal year of 1900 we exported, according to the census statisticians, 244,655,697 pounds of unmanufactured tobacco, to say nothing of the millions of American-made cigars and cigarettes with which we deluged the foreign markets. Our tobacco trade is one of the most valuable of our commercial resources, and the clouds of smoke that annually are puffed from the human throat provide for us an income of millions of dollars every year. Under these circumstances the opponents of the smoking habit find themselves confronted by a very strong fact. They are fighting not merely a custom that they regard as pernicious, but a comfort to the country at large, adding, as it does, vast sums annually to our national wealth.

The figures presented by the Census Bureau are remarkably significant. The total production of tobacco in this country during the year 1900 amounted to 868,163,275 pounds, valued at $56,993,063, or an average of 4.6 cents per pound. An area of 1,101,183 acres, embracing 398,317 plantations, was devoted to the culture, and the average crop was 788.2 pounds per acre. The product exceeded that of 1899 by 272,506,629 pounds, showing an increase in the decade of 77.8 per cent, which is certainly a creditable record. Tobacco was cultivated in every State and Territory of the Union, except Colorado, the District of Columbia, Nevada, Rhode Island and Utah; but, except in the case of the Southern States, the culture was comparatively of little importance. In only eighteen States did the crop exceed 1,000,000 pounds. Thirteen States report a crop of over 5,000,000 pounds, eight States over 25,000,000 pounds, and three more than 100,000,000. Virginia, which was the originator of tobacco growing in this country, produced 1,746,412,000 pounds; North Carolina, 649,314,819; Louisiana, 48,249,800; and California, 31,522,880. The total production of these five States was 2,515,471,540, forming 38.8 per cent of the aggregate production of the United States.

In the manufacture of tobacco a capital of $124,989,871 is invested, and the value of the products in 1900 was $282,076,346.

DIVERSIONS OF NOME.

[St. Paul Globe.]

Information which has lately come in by steamer from Nome indicates that a great deal of unnecessary worry and sympathy have been wasted on that far-away Northern municipality. While the people of Seattle, St. Paul and Sitka were having been wondering whether friends in Alaska were freezing to death or passing over the styx for want of food, the denizens of Nome and Candle City have been enjoying winter fetes of varied character.

A correspondent at Nome writes a glowing account of a roof garden performance in midwinter by the Knights of Pythias Club. He asserts that the hall was made to represent an Atlantic Coast roof garden in the summer season. Scattered about the hall were palm trees, Chinese lanterns and artificial willows. The ladies wore light frocks and the men were attired in ducks, shirt waists and straw hats. All those present are said to have enjoyed themselves until after midnight, no doubt imagining they were eating watermelons and sipping lemonade and mint juleps. At the very moment they were doing this, however, the wind outside was howling and the mercury was down in the bulb to 40 below zero.

This is cheerful news, indeed, and clearly indicates that a Yankee is bound to have a "hot time" in spite of any weather conditions with which he may have to cope.

James Sims of Cazenovia, N. Y., celebrated his 100th birthday anniversary recently. He cast his first vote for John Quincy Adams for President. Dr. Sarah Brown Belcher of New York, a bacteriologist of great ability, is credited with devising means of making the smallest dairy farm as pure as a source of milk supply as the large, completely equipped farms backed by great capital.

THE DRINK QUESTION NOW
AGITATING THE GERMAN PEOPLE

The drinking habits of the people of few districts of the German empire bid fair to become the subject of legislative regulation in Germany as they have lately been in France, says the Philadelphia Record. A resolution has been proposed and adopted without opposition in the Prussian Diet requesting the ministry to prepare a bill to impose more rigid restrictions on the liquor traffic. Count Douglas, a descendant of a Scotch soldier of fortune, who submitted the resolution, declared that while he is not an abstinence man, he likes to drink good beer or wine on proper occasions he is nevertheless deeply impressed with the injury inflicted in Germany by excessive consumption of alcoholic beverages. He asserted that the Germans spend 3,000,000,000 marks ($750,000,000) a year in drink, twice the amount of the combined army and navy budgets. One-third of the inmates of insane asylums in Germany are victims of intemperance; 80 per cent of the idiots are the offspring of intemperate parents, and the number of persons convicted of crimes has increased from 299,249 in 1882 to 478,139 in 1898.

In the statement of Count Douglas that the United States was far more advanced in the matter of reform legislation with respect to the drink habit is open to some correction. We have prohibition, local option, high license, and government dispensary laws in the various States; we subject spirits, wine and beer to far heavier taxes than does any other country, but the reformatory effect of such legislation, whether regulative or restrictive, is a matter of controversy. It is not noticeable in any great reduction of the quantity of beverages consumed. Official statistics of the money expended for drink in the United States are not available, but taking the census figures of the quantities distilled, malt and various liquors consumed and reducing the gallons into dollars at their approximate retail value, the liquor bill of the United States runs up to something like $1,000,000,000 a year. Adding 50 per cent to this to arrive at the cost of the drinks as sold over the bar it will be seen that this nation spends twice as much as the German for this item.

We are nearly twice as numerous as people as are the Germans however, and the price of drinks is much higher in this country; moreover, the average earnings of Americans are greater. The figures quoted by Count Douglas, therefore, may well give German statesmen food for thought. It may be inferred from Count Douglas' remarks that in Germany, as lately in France, there has been observed a tendency toward an enlarged consumption of ardent spirits. The remedy adopted by the French Government was a remission of internal taxes on wines and a heavy increase of taxes on distilled liquors, and the effect has been as expected—brandy has been superseded as a drink to a large extent by wine, which of all alcoholic beverages is the least noxious. A similar treatment of the problem by the German Government is not possible. Wine grows only in a comparatively few districts of the German empire and any encouragement of the cultivation of beer to offset "schnapps" would probably not be deemed desirable. The quantity of beer consumed, particularly in Bavaria, is prodigious, and inordinate indulgence in this beverage (moderate enough when taken moderately) brings in its train evils to the human body and mind almost if not quite as deplorable as those which flow from excessive tipping of whiskey.

Just how the Prussian Government will meet the problem remains to be seen. The question is of world-wide interest, and every experiment in the regulation and restriction of drinking adds something to the sum of human knowledge and will be of aid to legislators who may have to deal with the same subject. While the cultivation of good habits and deportment is more particularly a matter of morals, and sobriety cannot be enforced by acts of parliament, still the mandate of the law may usefully supplement the persuasions of morality; and it is to the interest of all to discover what are the legal helps that are most efficient in promoting the temperate use of stimulants.

Colonel Henry C. Demming, who is connected with the United States Geological Survey, has recently made a remarkable suggestion for the securing of heat and steam from the center of the earth. He says that the recent seismic outbreaks have again called attention to the awful power which is walled up in the center of the earth, and which he thinks should be made use of by man to supply his wants. He calls attention to the fact that at Pittsburgh, where the deepest hole has been made, a supply of hot water is always available. This hole is 6000 feet deep, and he says that if it were made 3000 feet deeper steam could be secured. In order to utilize this heat in a practical manner he would dig two holes located not far from each other, and at a depth of 12,000 feet connect the two by means of heavy charges of some explosive. He says it would then be possible to pour cold water into one of these holes and it would flow out of the other, having been heated to the boiling point by its passage through the earth.

MURDER ON KAUAI

High Sheriff Brown has received from Sheriff Coney of Kauai the following letter relating to a murder recently committed on that island:

Lihue, Aug. 9, 1902.
Dear Sir:—There was a murder committed in this district on the night of the 7th inst. by which a Chinaman was killed. The culprit has escaped so far, but I am following the matter closely and hope for results in time.

J. H. CONEY,
Sheriff of Kauai.

The officers of the steamer Kauai, which arrived from Kauai yesterday, were questioned with regard to the case but stated that although they had been in Lihue on their recent trip they had heard nothing whatever of the murder.

It is reported that the multiple-unit system of electric train operation invented by Frank A. Sprague has been sold to the General Electric company at a valuation equivalent to one million dollars. The electric elevator patents of the same inventor recently passed into the same hands, according to the Electrical World, at a similar valuation, so that the epoch-making inventions of this man have been sold for approximately one million dollars each. Even in these days of fabulous wealth and million dollar units, such extraordinary prices for patent rights are notable. Apparently the electrical field offers the greatest opportunities for inventory realizing on their work, as there are very few inventions in other fields, even in these modern days, that have a commercial valuation of a million dollars.

A German paper describes a method of preserving woods by electricity, which is applicable not only to railway ties, telegraph poles and the like, but also to fine woods used in making furniture. The apparatus employed comprises essentially a wooden trough filled with a solution of borax, resin and sodium carbonate, and under the influence of an electric current the sap of the wood exudes and rises to the surface of the bath, its place being taken by the preserving solution. After five or eight hours of this treatment the wood is removed and dried; either in the open air or in a drying oven.
