Clean Air Act to Hike Car, Gas Cost

The requirements of the U.S. Clean Air Act, set to take effect here October 1, 1981, come with an expensive price tag, according to several businessmen and government officials.

Unless waived, the act will compel auto dealers to import only cars which fully meet U.S. specifications including emission control devices, resulting in a substantial increase in price to the consumer. It also requires gas stations to dispense more expensive unleaded fuel for those vehicles, a service for which only two stations currently have the facilities.

Joeten Motors and Microl Corporation have been importing cars which partially meet U.S. specifications, according to their managers. Beginning Oct. 1, U.S. standard vehicles will have to be imported, raising the sticker price anywhere from $800-$2,500, said the dealers.

Mitsubishi has been supplying Latte Motors with U.S. standard vehicles for the past year, but Latte has been removing the catalytic converters and adjusting the engines to run on leaded fuel, manager Wally Kluver said. Unwilling to risk fines which could be imposed after Oct. 1, Latte will no longer make the changes, he said.

"We want to be able to import cheaper cars," Kluver stated. "If the people want U.S. standard vehicles, we'll bring them in. But let it be the choice of the people, not something shoved down our throats."

Unleaded gas would cost the consumer 17-20 cents more per gallon than leaded fuel, according to informed estimates. Mobil Oil has sent a letter to gas station operators indicating that it is prepared to make unleaded fuel available as of Oct. 1. But only two stations — Joeten's and Aldan's of Capitol Hill — have a second tank and pump to dispense the fuel. Tinian and Rota have no such facilities.

To install another tank and pump would cost around $10,000, according to one estimate. It has been suggested that EDLF guarantee loans for this purpose, but gas station owners contacted are not sure they're willing (Cont'd. on page 8)

Court Agrees To Hear Vote Suit

The dispute over who is the Democratic Party's nominee for governor may be resolved by the court.

Commonwealth Judge Herbert D. Soll Thursday refused to dismiss the case brought by Gov. Camacho against party leaders and his convention opponents and set trial for Aug. 25.

"It's a good idea," said Herman R. Guerrero, whose certification as the winner is being disputed by Camacho. "Any doubts by the governor and his supporters will finally be heard in full. Whoever the winner will be, will be accepted by all parties."

Herman Q. Guerrero, Camacho's campaign manager, also said he welcomed the opportunity to get into the merits of the issue.

"We maintain the governor is the winner and this may be the only recourse," he said.

Despite the likelihood of resolving the political dispute in court, representatives of both sides indicated that there may still be a chance to settle the

HOUSE PANEL SCHEDULES HEARING

Atalig, TV Trade Criticism

At least one congressman doesn't like what he sees on the television screen and wants Saipan Cable TV to improve its programming or be taken over by government regulation or ownership.

But Cable TV doesn't think much of Rep. Felipe Q. Atalig's resolution and said so in an editorial Monday night in which it also criticized a number of government operations including roads, water, the retirement plan funding, minimum wages and legislators' trips to the Philippines.

A tape of the editorial by Jerry Staggs, general manager, was played in the House of Representatives Wednesday and received a mixed reaction. Some congressmen, including Atalig were furious but others thought that constructive criticism was in order.

"Our people are capable of governing themselves," Atalig said. "We do not need an alien to tell us what to do."

But Vice Speaker Ben Attao and Rep. Ben Fitial felt that constructive criticism is welcome.

"We know we have a water problem," said Attao.

Atalig charged in a written response to the editorial, "May I remind Mr. Staggs that the people of Guam and Saipan are not the brown stupid natives he obviously thinks we are. We are not satisfied with the lousy job they are providing our people."

The congressman said in his resolution introduced July 27 that Cable TV's service has deteriorated to the point that people are complaining about poor scheduling and programming and a lack of locally produced news, educational and cultural events.

He said instead of 2 or 3 minutes of local news, at least 30 minutes should be provided.

Ray Motley, manager of Saipan TV was reported out of the office and could not be reached for comment.

Atalig also said that the six-year contract under which Saipan Cable TV leases utility poles at $2.50 each year, expired last September. He said he will raise questions about the current validity of contract signed in Sept. 6, 1974 by then District Administrator Francisco C. Ada and Lee Holmes, president of the television company, at a hearing on his resolution to be held by the House Committee on Health, Education and Welfare on Friday, Aug. 14.

The congressman said the company has 1,972 subscribers for basic service at $15.75 a month, and 756 who pay more for premium movies.

Atalig's resolution said if Saipan Cable does not improve its programming the government should place it under its regulation or ownership.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Bertram Ramos Cruz, 25, arrested on charges of attempted rape and burglary, is being held in jail in lieu of $5,000 cash bail set Thursday by U.S. District Judge Designate Robert Moore. The suspect is accused of burglarizing a Chalan Kanoa house on July 10 and trying to rape a woman whose two children came to her assistance when she screamed, according to Prosecutor Rex Kosack.

He said Cruz was on probation from the TT High Court where he had been convicted of attempted rape by a jury.

The 9th U.S. Circuit Court has upheld the right of the United States to intervene in a case which granted citizenship rights to approximately 120 third country nationals residing in the Northern Marianas. It over-ruled U.S. District Judge Alfred Laureta who had ruled the U.S. has no interest in the case until the Trust Territory is terminated.

James Sirok, NMI assistant attorney general, said it is possible that the ruling may result in a new trial of the case filed against Frank Castro, NMI chief of immigration. The NMI has also appealed the entire case to the 9th Circuit Court.

Linda Norita Watson was sentenced to a month in jail, believed to be the first woman to be incarcerated there, after she pleaded guilty to illegal possession of a firearm. Commonwealth Judge Robert Moore, suspended 11 months of the one-year sentence and fined her $1,000 to be paid within six months.

Prosecutor Rex Kosack said that a special room across from the corrections department chief has been provided and Bertha Chong, a female corrections officer, will supervise her.

House Sends Budget To Upper Chamber

The omnibus appropriation bill referred to as the 1981 budget was approved by the House of Representatives Wednesday and transmitted to an uncertain fate in the Senate.

The measure which includes the 1981 operating and capital improvement budgets in the same package, was approved after a conference committee of both houses bogged down over the amount of CIP funding for Rota.

The House also approved a separate salary increase bill.

The House operating budget is for $26,963,600 for operations, less the $8,874,000 already appropriated as an emergency measure last week for the retirement fund, medical referral and power plant fuel.

Its capital outlays include $1.6 million for Rota, $2.5 million for Tinian and $7.1 for Saipan, including $3 million for the power plant payment.

Sen. Benjamin T. Manglona, who heads the Fiscal Affairs Committee said its members will work all night if necessary to review the House figures but said he believes the lower house appropriated about $1 million more than it has resources. If that proves to be true, he said, the Senate will have to trim that amount from the spending.

"We've got to comply with our constitutional responsibilities and uphold the law,"

he said.

Earlier Wednesday, Maria T. Pangelinan, acting finance director, told the Senate committee that there were sufficient funds available to meet this Friday's pay checks to government employees, although some accounts would have to be reshuffled. After this payroll, no money will be available for salaries, she said.

The omnibus bill allots $4,040,600 to the Economic Development Loan Fund, and $11,342,000 to the CIP fund.

In adding up the resources the House Appropriations Committee chaired by Rep. Ben Sablan, said it included as resources $421,000 reserved for training and $595,000 reserved for an audit which it did not expect to be made in the near future. It said the remaining funds come from $480,000 in inflation adjustment funds and the governor's use of emergency powers which accounts for another $583,900.

House Democrats have increased the CIP allotment for Tinian, hoping to get the votes of that island's two Republican senators to join the three Democratic senators.

The conference committee broke up last Friday when the House refused to up its CIP funding for Rota from $2.9 million to $3.1 million, House spokesmen said.

LONG AGO — Miguel P. Tenorio who landed in Saipan with Marines, poses with one of them after invasion. His parents stand in rear.

Civilian 'Soldier' Benefits Sought

Miguel P. Tenorio of San Roque landed with the U.S. Marines when they captured Saipan in June 1944.

Jose B. Magofna of Tanapag accompanied the military when they seized the northern islands.

Both men were issued uniforms and served with the U.S. armed forces as civilians.

Now that they and about 100 others who served with the military are middle aged or older, at least one congressman believes they should receive some of the rights and privileges of military veterans, such as hospitalization, old age assistance and help with housing loans.

Rep. Dino R. Jones said he is trying to contact all Saipan-ese civilians who served with the military to seek some of the benefits for them. He said a similar effort is being made by Guam Sen. Edward Duenas. Jones said that he recently spoke about these persons' needs with a representative of the U.S. Veterans Administration and was encouraged to press forward.

Besides any monetary benefits that might be obtained, Jones said that the experience of these men should provide an interesting and historically valuable insight into the World War II period for younger generations. He said he will interview those still alive and have their accounts translated into English.

"There is no guarantee that they will receive these benefits," he said, "but we will try every possible way."

The congressman said that Tenorio, whom he described as a retired public works painter about 50 years old, gave the following account of how he became part of the invasion force:

Tenorio was aboard a Japanese ship that had gone to Kwajalein in early 1944 to deliver supplies. There he was captured by American forces which invaded that atoll. After interrogators learned that he was from Saipan, he was taken to Hawaii where intelligence officers questioned him about artillery installations. They gave him some military training, issued him a uniform and when the Marines invaded Saipan he returned to his home island. According to his account he also participated in the capture of Japanese snipers.

Magofna, 61, who is enrolled in the handicapped program, told Jones that the American military assigned him first to the Native Police which was charged with keeping Saipanese civilians in their camp, but later was "drafted" into the military to help in the capture of some of the northern islands.

He said he and about 20 military personnel were taken by destroyer to Agrihan and Pagan where they captured the Japanese defenders and took over the islands. He said he was issued a uniform and a carbine.

He said he was shot at but not hit, but another Saipanese civilian was shot and wounded during the capture of Maug.

Water Problems: The Reports Are Mixed

Well, there was good news and bad news about Saipan's double-header water problem.

The good news — Public Works may have found the place where oil got into the water that has been reported on and off in Garapan during the past week.

The bad news was that there seems to be no immediate solution to the water scarcity.

These revelations were made by Pete Sasamoto, director of public works during a press conference in Gov. Camacho's office Wednesday.

Sasamoto said that in the absence of laboratory tests he believes the problem stemmed from diesel oil piped between Mobil and the old power plant that was washed into a leaky parallel water line in Puerto Rico.

He said that public works crew found the leak Sunday and patched the pipe that evening.

So far no reports have been received from the EPA lab in San Francisco on what kind of oil has entered the water supply.

But as far the water shortage is concerned, he sees no major improvement until a pipeline on the eastern side of the island from Kagman to San Vicente can be constructed and a 20 million gallon water reservoir is built at the airport. Both projects, he said, depend on funding.

Camacho said that capital improvement funds for water will be one of his major platform planks in his campaign for a second term.

He jokingly said that even his own mother who lives in Garapan, has complained to him several times about the water shortage.

Sasamoto denied that there was any secrecy to water hours as had been stated in the Marianas Variety last week. He said that water hours are supposed to be 6 to 8 a.m. and 6 to 8 p.m. daily, but admitted that water cannot always be delivered because of "administrative problems."

Under questioning, he explained that his water watch is short-handed and sometimes members either don't open or shut the valves as they are supposed to do.

He said that persons who do not receive water for the two-hour period twice a day are asked to report this to his deputy, Bailey Obradovitch.

He said that work is under way for an engineering and architectural design of a water system which is supposed to take eight months. He said the airport authority is financing design of a runway catchment system and a 20 million gallon tank. But construction financing has not been assured, he said.

Sasamoto said that the northern part of Saipan has a problem of water quantity, while the southern part suffers from water quality, and that a goal is to exchange some of the well product to help both regions.

The public works chief said that most of the unscheduled power outages are caused by line troubles rather than difficulties in the power plant whose three engines are being given an overhaul by Mitsubishi personnel.

He admitted that some engine parts need replacement, but likened it to defects in a new car.

Other sources at public works had said that one of the engines required a replacement turbo charger that was brought to Saipan from Japan last Saturday and installed over the weekend, and that another engine required reseating and grinding of its valves.

The overhaul period will continue through Sept. 20.

OLD SMOOTHIE — Maeda-Pacific construction workers laid down the first of two asphalt coats on Wallace Highway this week. Drivers had been complaining about the numerous potholes caused by the washing away of coral base.

U.S. Hacks Funds For Military Land Leases

Funds for the military lease of two-thirds of Tinian have been axed out of the 1982 U.S. budget by a committee of the House of Representatives.

Washington Rep. Edward Pangelinan noted in a telex that the only hope for restoring the cuts now rests with the U.S. Senate and asked for advice on what steps to take.

In his telex, Pangelinan said the House Committee of Appropriations deleted the $32 million budgeted for the lease of 17,700 acres on Tinian, 177 in Saipan in the Tanapag Harbor area and for 206 acres on Farallon De Medinilla which has been used for target practice.

The committee gave as reason for rejecting the funding that the option price had risen from the original $19.5 million to $32 million because of the inflation factor since the negotiations were held in 1975.

"Since there is no immediate military use for the majority of this land other than holding it for contingency purposes," the committee report read, "the committee has not approved the request for funds. The committee suggests that the Navy negotiate a separate lease agreement for the site of the proposed war memorial."

Sen. Serafin Dela Cruz, who is president of Tinian's Land-owners Association, said he will call a meeting of his members to discuss what action to take. He said there are about 60 title holders for 38 parcels 5-6 hectares each and that four more parcels are pending.

"I'm disappointed the U.S. has not taken up the option,"

he said.

He added that with the conservative composition of the U.S. Congress he feared that it might not appropriate funds next year either. The U.S. must exercise the military lease option by Jan. 1, 1983.

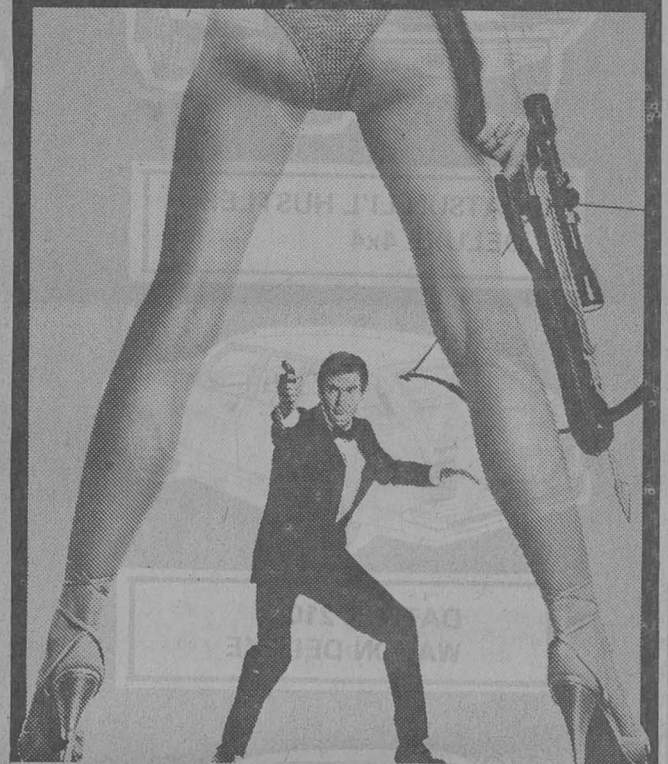

Dela Cruz said that because of the low cost of the lease, it would benefit the United States to exercise its option. He said lease costs are far higher in Diego Garcia, Rota, Spain, and the Philippines.

He said the Tinian land-owners are in a bind since they cannot develop their land while the option period is in force.

Senate President Pete P. Tenorio, who had received a telex from Pangelinan in response to his inquiries, said he will consult with the Tinian delegation, the administration and others to determine what,

All Schools To Open On Time, Chief Says

The Northern Marianas public schools, including Marianas High School, will open on Wednesday, August 26.

That was the word from Superintendent Loran Koprowski this week.

"By virtue of the governor's signing of the proclamation declaring education to be included in emergency funding, we have been able to cover our (teacher) recruitment needs," he said.

But receiving the funding was only a first step. Because of the late date, some potential recruits have notified the department that they have accepted jobs elsewhere, Koprowski said.

This week the education personnel officer and a member of the personnel office staff were in Guam trying to fill as many of the remaining vacancies as possible, the superintendent said.

An allotment for fuel for schools buses has not yet been received, but education is working with the Planning and Budget Affairs Office on the matter, Koprowski said. Though several of the buses need repair, Koprowski said he has been notified that public works will have them ready to run by the August opening of the schools.

Artist To Display His Batiks

Artist Harry Conley will have an exhibit of his batik paintings at the Duty Free Shoppers main store in Garapan, starting Saturday, Aug. 8. The public is invited to the display which will be held on the second floor during store business hours.

Youth Service Act Signed

Gov. Camacho has signed an act to establish a Division of Youth Services within the Department of Community and Cultural Affairs.

The responsibilities of the youth services administrator will be to provide recreational services, individual and group counseling, outreach, survival education, employability development, substance abuse education and others. The division will also collect and disseminate information pertaining to youth needs and problems. Parent effectiveness training for families of predelinquent and delinquent youth and rehabilitative services to youth adjudicated by the courts are also to be provided.

The new division is authorized to accept gifts, and grants from any sources, but will be funded from general government appropriations.

matter through negotiations.

Party President Vicente D. Sablan, a defendant in the case, said if a meeting with the candidates indicates a chance for an outside remedy, he will summon the Central Committee.

Soll in refusing to dismiss the suit, said application of a doctrine that courts do not intervene in political disputes where there is no evidence of fraud, cannot be made without hearing some of the facts in the case.

Edward Arriola, attorney for Guerrero, his running mate, Sen. Froilan C. Tenorio, and party leaders, had argued that courts in several States had refused to take cases involving party primaries.

But Howard Trapp, representing Camacho, said that the Commonwealth should not readily accept rulings of other States. He also argued that if the present case is not taken up by the court it would give a "green light" to party chairmen and secretaries to choose their own candidates.

Camacho had won the convention by 322 to 321 votes, but the 75 ballots cast in Rota were disqualified by Sablan and Vicente Santos, party secretary, as having been submitted tardily. They then certified Guerrero and Tenorio as the Democratic candidates.

Guerrero said outside the court that another way to settle the dispute would be for him and Camacho to withdraw and let the party choose another candidate. He suggested these could be Lt. Gov. Francisco C. Ada, Froilan Tenorio, party president Sablan, or John Sablan, former deputy high commissioner.

NMI Protests Pan Am Cuts

Washington Rep. Edward Pangelinan has submitted objections of the Northern Marianas government to any decrease in Pan American flights between Guam and Honolulu to the U.S. Civil Aeronautics Board.

Pan Am has proposed to cut the number of its weekly flights from six to five. It had seven flights a week in 1977, Pangelinan pointed out.

In addition to objecting to flight frequency reductions, the Washington representative urged the CAB to conduct its hearings in Guam so that the people most affected in Micronesia could be heard.

He said that reduction of flights will work a hardship on government officials who must travel frequently to meet with federal officials on the West Coast or Washington, medical evacuations, mail and air freight, and television tapes.

In a separate request he asked that the CAB not give authority to Air Micronesia flexible fare increases because it would work economic hardships on the people of the Northern Marianas.

Suit Settlement Fails

Efforts to settle a $1 million damage suit stemming from an electrical accident in a Tinian laundromat have apparently failed and a District Court hearing has been rescheduled for Sept. 28.

In an earlier ruling, District Judge Alfred Laureta had decided that both the CNMI government and Benusto and Lucia Arizapa, operators of the laundromat, are jointly and separately liable for damages.

The suit was brought by Conseulo T. San Nicloas, and her husband, Ramon, after she suffered an electric shock that resulted in the later amputation of her arm.

Peter V.N. Esser, chief of civil litigation in the attorney general's office, said that attempts to settle the matter out of court have failed and the hearing is to decide on the amount of the award.

Loans For Businesses Offered

A University of Hawaii professor stopped by Saipan this week to offer money for small business development.

A minimum of $35,000 in federal funding is available to the members of the Pacific Basin Development Council excluding Hawaii, according to Dr. David Bess, acting dean of the College of Business Administration at UOH. He and a colleague are visiting American Samoa, Guam and the Northern Marianas to encourage submission of proposals for projects to assist small businesses.

"Practically all businesses here qualify as small businesses," he noted.

Usually individual grant awards amount to about $5,000, but in the past some have been as high as $18,000, he said.

After talking to local government officials and members of the legislature, Bess said that a principal problem here is that people don't have the business background to set up and maintain records. Assistance in accounting could be funded in this program, he said.

Another proposal suggested would be to request managerial assistance in setting up locally owned and operated companies to serve the Japanese tourist trade.

"One of the easiest things to get into is fishing," Bess said. "The industry holds major potential for growth."

Proposals may also be submitted for funding for overall economic development affecting an entire industry, such as assessing market potential, he said.

Further information may be obtained from the Department of Commerce and Labor, 4th Floor, Nauru Building. Proposals must be submitted within the next two weeks, Bess said.

Musicians Sue Hotel On Pact

Six musicians who made up the now defunct Tropic Sette Combo are suing the Hyatt Regency Hotel for alleged breach of contract.

The members of the group allege that they signed a contract with the Continental Hotel on Dec. 28, 1979 to start playing the following March at $4,200 a month, but that the agreement was breached before that time.

They are asking $80,000 damages in the complaint filed in U.S. District Court by attorney Ramon Villagomez, claiming that they could not find equivalent employment and had to disband.

Members of the combo who are seeking damages are Herbert Rosario, Ronald Rosario, Frank Pangelinan, Donald Fleming, Ricardo Castro and Pete Duenas.

Investors Sue Cruise Operator

A writ of attachment has been issued on the Saipan Lady, a tourist cruise vessel, in connection with three separate damage suits filed against its owner.

A hearing on the attachment of the ship and four cargo containers has been scheduled in U.S. District Court on Aug. 14 at 9 a.m.

Judge Alfred Laureta issued the attachment order on July 23 but allowed the ship to continue operations.

Three persons have filed damage suits against Arthur Maxwell Thompson based on allegations that they invested money in his enterprises, were to manage them, but that the operations never materialized.

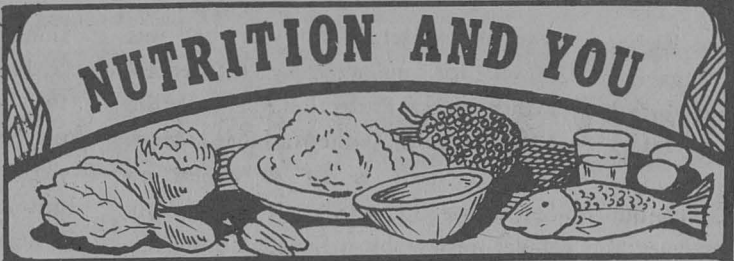

The three plaintiffs, James Noel Forbes, Falstram Pty. Ltd. and its director, Norman James Jordan, and Roderic Paul King and Thompson are all Australian citizens.

They asserted that the funds they invested for a theater restaurant and gift shop were diverted into equipping and operating the Saipan Lady, a 115-foot motorized ketch.

Each of the plaintiffs is seeking $1 million in punitive damages, recovery of loss of wages and funds they said they had invested.

Forbes alleged he invested $60,000 in Australian funds, Jordan, $40,000, and King, $30,000.

The law firm of Cushnie and Fitzgerald is representing Forbes and Jordan while King filed his suit without a lawyer.

“FRAGILE” NUTRIENTS: HANDLE WITH CARE!

We see this on some packages of merchandise that are shipped or mailed: “Fragile. Handle with care!”

Food too, needs proper and careful handling to protect the nutrients from destruction. The nutrients in food help keep us healthy and well. But after all the handling it undergoes, like washing, cutting, and cooking, how sure can we be that the vitamins, minerals, and other nutrients are still there by the time we eat the food?

Here are some facts about nutrients in food, particularly vegetables, and what to do about them:

FACT: In some vegetables, much of the vitamins and minerals are found in the skin or just under the skin.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT: Eat vegetables with the skin, if it is edible, such as cucumbers, eggplants, zucchini, and other young squashes and pumpkins. If the skin is not edible, pare the vegetables very thinly. Cook vegetables in their skins whenever possible, such as for boiled or broiled potatoes and sweet potatoes. When vegetables like these are peeled after cooking, it is easy to peel off just the very thin outer covering. Nutrients are better retained this way.

FACT: Some nutrients dissolve in water, and therefore may be thrown away with the water in which rice and vegetables are washed. If the water in which meats or vegetables are cooked, is discarded, the water-soluble vitamins go down the drain with it.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT: Wash rice just once (or twice if necessary) before cooking. Do not the rub the grains together when washing. Just run the fingers loosely through the rice, then pour off the water.

Wash vegetables before peeling or cutting. Don't wash them after they have been peeled or sliced, because much of the nutrients are washed away.

Don't soak vegetables in water. The water-soluble vitamins will go into the water and will be thrown away along with it. Certain vegetables like banana heart, eggplant, potatoes and sweet potatoes, darken or discolor after peeling and slicing. Instead of the usual practice of soaking in water to prevent darkening, cut up the vegetables just before putting them into the cooking pot. This way, they will not have the chance to discolor, and you save the nutrients. Some cooks soak green peppers, carrot sticks, or celery in ice water to make them crisp. They lose nutrients this way. One way of making vegetables crisp and still retain the nutrients is to chill them in the refrigerator, in a tightly covered container.

Steaming is a good way to cook vegetables because cooking is done over water, rather than in water. If you don't have a vegetable steamer, lay several sticks or small pieces of wood criss-cross over about one inch deep of water in a saucepan, and place the vegetables on top of it. Make sure the vegetables do not touch the water. Cover the pan and let the water boil until the vegetables are done just right. Okra, winged beans, green beans, eggplant, broccoli, and a number of other vegetables will cook very nicely this way in 5 to 10 minutes' time.

Sweet potato leaves (tops) or similar vegetables can be cooked simultaneously with rice without having to use additional water. When the rice has been boiling a while and the cooking water is almost absorbed, place the leaves directly on top of the rice, and cover the pot or cooker. The vegetables will be cooked by the time the rice is done.

FACT: High heat or long cooking destroys some of the nutrients.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT: If vegetables can be eaten raw, like carrots, cabbage, tomatoes, lettuce, and cucumber, serve them raw, taking care to wash them well. For vegetables that have to be cooked, put them into the cooking pot when the water is already boiling. Cook vegetables in the shortest time possible.

Overcooking of meats can also result in reduction of nutrients.

FACT: Long storage increases loss of nutrients in vegetables and fruits. Wilting lessens nutrient content. So does long standing at room temperatures, after slicing, or after cooking. The shorter the time between harvest or purchase and cooking, the less nutrients lost. The shorter the time that elapses between slicing and cooking, and between cooking and serving, the more nutrients are retained.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT IT: Buy produce as needed. Refrigerate, but use as soon as possible. Slice vegetables and fruits as close to cooking time as possible. Cook vegetables and prepare fruits at the time needed, never way ahead of serving time. Also avoid exposure to air and light.

REMEMBER: Get the most vitamins, minerals, and other nutrients from food by handling them properly!

All written comments and matters raised at public hearings will be made part of the permit application and will be considered in the coastal permit decision.

Clean Air . . .

to make the expenditure.

There is also risk involved in offering both kinds of gasoline, because the Clean Air Act provides a substantial penalty for service stations which intentionally pump leaded fuel into U.S. specification vehicles, Microl manager Vic Waki pointed out.

He and Kluver also noted that using the wrong type of gas voids the warranty of the car.

"Most of the additional devices on U.S. standard cars are useless on Saipan," said Norman Tenorio, manager of Joeten Motors. They make the engine more complicated, consume more gas and more expensive gas, and add to the purchase price of the vehicle, he charged. "Everything works against the consumer," he said.

Kluver and Tenorio also pointed out that since there is no federal agency here to enforce the law, foreigners are getting by ignoring it.

"Dealers cannot import vehicles unless they meet U.S. standards, but Japanese companies import their own vehicles which do not meet those standards," alleged Tenorio. Right-hand drive vehicles with Japanese specifications have been brought in by construction companies, tour operators and others, he said.

"Locked into the U.S. market, our costs can't compete with foreigners," Kluver said.

He also pointed out that if heavy equipment can only be U.S. standard, costs of construction will go up. "It mushrooms in other areas," he said.

Not everyone is opposed to accepting the requirements of the Clean Air Act, however. One government source noted that since unleaded gas burns cleaner, engines require less tune-ups, saving the consumer money. He felt that unleaded gas should be available to those who want it.

He also suggested that having two service stations to dispense the premium fuel would be sufficient at first, and more would be inclined to make the capital investment in a second tank and pump as demand increases. Virtually all cars on Saipan will require unleaded fuel five years from now, if U.S. standard vehicles continue to be imported, he noted.

The Clean Air Act originally was to take effect Oct. 1 last year, but was waived for one year by the federal Environmental Protection Agency at the NMI's request. At the Washington level, the act itself is set to expire on September 30, 1981. It is currently under review by a Senate Committee and most likely will be renewed, sources say.

In light of this situation, Gov. Camacho this week sent a letter to the U.S. Senate committee, EPA and other Washington officials requesting an amendment to further postpone the law here. He asked that the act be deferred "until such time as Congress has made a final determination on the recommendations of the Federal Laws Commission."

Jose S. Dela Cruz, liaison attorney for the CNMI office of the Commission on Federal Laws, said that the Clean Air Act is one of the commission's four priority areas. The sentiment of officials here is to have the NMI indefinitely waived from the requirements of the act, he said. But the next meeting of the Commission is targeted for November, and no recommendations can be made before then.

The ramifications of the Clean Air Act will be discussed with car dealers and gas station owners at a meeting Wed., Aug. 12, called by the Planning and Budget Affairs Office.

You might call it a photo finish.

The Department of Public Safety is now providing laminated driver's licenses complete with the owner's photo.

"This kind of driver's license is useful for many purposes, as an ID card, when cashing checks, and so forth," said Chief of Police Joe Babauta. He noted that it will be especially good for those traveling outside the Commonwealth, since many places will not honor an ID card unless it has a photo.

Effective Wednesday, the charge for a license was raised from $1.50 to $5 to cover the cost of the photo and lamination, explained Lt. Albert M. Cepeda who is in charge of the program. Drivers will be required to get a license with photo when they come in to renew their license, but anyone may pay the $5 and get a photo ID before their license expires if they so desire, he said.

The Polaroid ID-3 system, as the photo machine is called, was provided with funding from the federal highway safety program, Cepeda said.

It takes 60 seconds to develop the photo and another couple minutes to prepare and laminate the card. The whole process is finished in 3-5 minutes, according to operator Josepha Kapileo.

As in the past, the license is good for three years. The fee may be paid at either the finance or revenue office; bring your receipt to the police station to get your license.

WATER 'CRISIS' NEEDS EXPERTS

Dear Sir:

In view of the extremely serious water problem we are having on Saipan, not to mention the recent discovery of "petroleum" derivative or products in our drinking water system, I would like to kindly request that you publish the enclosure as a matter of urgent public information and interest.

Pedro A. Tenorio

Dear Governor Camacho:

If there is any remote possibility that the Commonwealth abides by a "drinking water standard" to safeguard public health, I believe that the recent discovery of "oil" or petroleum products in the public water distribution system in Garapan and vicinity makes it mandatory that the water system be shut down before somebody gets really sick from ingesting the contaminated water.

The problem of "oil" contamination in our water system is now about a week old. If the water system cannot be shut down, which is understandable, then appropriate public education must be instituted immediately so as to prevent sickness and other health nuisances.

The shortage of water, despite all the rains, coupled with the presence of "oil" in the water system, are certainly strong reasons to declare an emergency in the interest of protecting the health of our people (see enclosure). It appears that no one seems to give a damn, not only about the serious shortage of water, but more so on the quality of water being distributed for public consumption.

It appears that locally, we do not have the expertise to detect the source of the "oil" contamination. Why not bring in people that know how to get to the problem so that the contamination problem could be solved?

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has under its emergency authority the means to assist states and territories affected by water problems which are classified as emergencies. Our problem, no doubt, has reached a crisis situation that the Corps could justify extending its services to Saipan.

Please consider this letter as a serious recommendation aimed at helping out our government and our people and not sent for any other reasons.

Thanks for listening.

Sincerely yours,
Pedro A. Tenorio
Executive Director
Hydrologist

CLUB CONNECTION SEVERED

Dear Mr. Editor:

Please allow me to make corrections on an article printed in your paper on July 31, 1981, relative to the Japan/Commonwealth Inc. or the Saipan Health Club located at Gualo Rai.

In this article, my name was mentioned as Secretary to the Board of Directors with 1,000 shares.

It is a fact, however, that at the outset, I donated my time and effort in putting the organization together, by getting all the necessary documents in order as well as the construction of the facility and hiring of employees.

In November of 1980 just prior to the opening of the business, I wrote a letter to the Board of Directors informing them that as of that date, I discharge all my temporary assignments and duties and that I no longer connect to the organization. However, for some reason, the Board never made an amendment to the Office of Registrar.

By this letter, I hope to clarify that statement in your paper and again in no way do I connect to the business.

Ricardo R. Duenas

WRITER CHIDES MANGLONA

Dear Editor:

Senator Benjamin T. Manglona from Rota has again demonstrated another non-sense and groundless criticism to our hard-working and only beloved Chief Executive Governor Carlos Sablan Camacho, for illegal purchasing of T-shirt, handkerchief, etc. without any concrete evident of legality.

Senator Manglona, I highly recommend that you start your elementary investigation directly to the First Northern Marianas Legislature. Many travel authorization had been performed by your former Republican colleagues by controlling the house are traveling to Manila for the purpose of pleasure, haircut, massage etc. What about the unwanted casino gambling issue where thousands of money has been expended without having accomplished anything and still unsolved.

It is great and preferable for the Governor to purchase T-shirt, handkerchief,

(Cont'd. in next column)

By Jane Dickhudt

It would appear that somebody at public works is attempting to help the public understand the power situation. But I wish they'd get their story straight.

At about 5:20 p.m. Monday, the KSAI announcer started off the Community Bulletin Board with the news that you can turn your air conditioners back on; everything's fixed and back to normal at the power plant.

Deciding not to sit through the oft-repeated immunization blurb which came next, I switched stations.

The voice of WSZE'S Martin Cahn came through (pardon me if I paraphrase a bit):

"First, here's an announcement that was handed to me about 10 minutes ago. There will be a power outage tonight from 12 midnight to 2 a.m. to replace 36 exhaust valve stems. The shutdown can be avoided if power consumption is reduced. Turn off air conditioners if your home and office — well, it's 5:30 already; I hope some people turned off their office air con before they left at 4:30 — and reduce lighting to a minimum."

How does one know who to believe?

I decided it didn't matter to me. My office a/c is broken; I don't have one at home; and I planned to be asleep during the outage, if it came, anyway.

Apparently power wasn't shut off at our house that night, though some folks were without it from 6-7 a.m. Tuesday. But around 9:20 a.m., the hotel restroom I happened to be in was plunged into total darkness.

And all this came in the wake of word from public works through the public information officer last week that no more outages were planned. . .

It's good to see the grass being cut along the road from San Vicente to Capitol Hill. Being rid of the overgrowth widens the road considerably, making blind curves less blind and reducing the danger of traffic accidents. As a frequent runner along that road and admittedly something of a traffic hazard myself, I appreciate the road crew's efforts immensely.

One local wit suggested that if water hours were announced in advance, one could avoid messy clean-ups by learning to regulate one's bowel movements to the schedule of water hours.

Wonder which would be more difficult to make consistently regular — one's body or the opening of the water mains?

After two meetings without a quorum, the Chamber of Commerce finally got a sufficient number of members together this week. But a few notables were missing.

Secretary Ramon Villagomez took the chair, explaining that both president Tom Picarro and vice president Jeanne Yamamura were off-island. He appointed his own secretary to fill in for him taking the minutes.

The president's monthly report thus was passed over, and when the time came for committee reports, all committee chairman were found to be absent. (Frank Ferreira did take the floor briefly, however, to discuss sports and the upcoming arrival of YMCA directors.)

But a chamber meeting is never quite as lively when the presence of Joe Screen is lacking.

With a quorum, though, at least this meeting could be officially adjourned.

Maybe somebody should tell the Education secretary who she's working for.

Whether I ask for one of the top two people in the department by first name, last name, first and last name, or title, the response I get is invariably a puzzled: "Who?"

After one or more repetitions when the message finally gets across, the next response is almost as predictable: either "She's in a meeting" or "He's busy right now."

I must admit, though, the people at Education are better about returning phone calls than a lot of others.

(Cont'd. from previous column)

etc. so at least I could wipe my tears for your wrong-doing. Rather, than to learn that our public funds has been used for massage purposes. No wonder why Rota still behind among many pending problems because in all fairness, you are not a problem solver but a problem maker. Why not picture yourself like our Governor enabling a lot of developments to take place nowadays, for instance, the paving of new roads, preparation of new master plans for the new and most modern hospital, recreational facilities for our young folks, retirement program, street lights, social hall, new power plant which evidently we enjoy today and many many more which I can only list a few.

Furthermore, you are in the position to fight for what Rota's needs but yet failed to put your pieces together toward a workable solution.

For your own information, the Governor deserved another 4 years to fully complete his promises and many pending projects ahead of us. "Before you teach the people how to learn, you yourself should learn how to learn."

Military Lease Is Poor Real Estate Deal

By Kurt Liepman

The news that Congress is balking at spending money for the military lease option might not really be bad for the Commonwealth for two reasons.

The first is the give-away price of leasing the land. The $32 million the U.S. would pay for use of the slightly more than 18,000 acres, comes to $1,770 per acre. The 50-year lease with a renewable 50-year extension at no extra cost means that the military would lease the land for the princely sum of $17.70 per acre per year for 100 years.

That price make the Indians who sold Manhattan Island for $24 seem like real business tycoons by comparison.

In addition to giving the land away so cheaply, the influx of the military is expected to bring the usual array for honky tonk bars, ladies of the night, drugs and other social activities that may not be the most desirable.

As far as I am concerned, if the U.S. lets the option slip by not exercising it by Jan. 1, 1983, so much the better.

Speaking of federal money, you got to hand it to George Chan, chief physical planner. He just coaxed another $162,800 out of the supposedly tight-fisted Reagan administration which has been chopping away at a number of programs.

The grant is to provide information and technical assistance to residential and business users as well as farmers on how to cut down on energy.

That all sounds pretty good but if last year's program is any example, the whole thing seems like a lot of money squandered.

For example, the Energy Office sponsored a couple of workshops on Saipan, Tinian and Rota on the use of alternate energy for which it paid the travel and hotel costs of several professors who were imported to lecture. One who came by yacht received a per diem. The audience never exceeded more than 30 persons, most of them government employees attending on company time, and a couple of spouses.

The pilot public bus program whose start was postponed several times, died after a couple of months experiment for lack of patronage.

A wind pump which has been stored in a crate since last January is still not installed, and a windmill project was scrapped by the Reagan administration.

The Energy Office did manage to have a couple of solar heaters constructed and installed at Marianas High School and the hospital, and owns a hotel size refrigerator operated with photovoltaic cells. Unfortunately photovoltaic cells are still hugely expensive and their mass use awaits development of a much more economical method.

The Energy Office, under its peripatetic chief, did manage to squeeze in a 10-day trip to Taiwan for 13 persons last year to inspect integrated farming. But as far as I know, none of the travelers was a farmer.

The office has been promoting the use of bicycles which seems to have had some success. But while some gallons of gasoline may be saved in that manner, many more are being swallowed up by the ever increasing number of the big American cars that are being imported to Saipan even as their number declines on the mainland where real conservation efforts are being made.

In other words, so far the energy conservation education program hasn't seemed to have had too much of an impact.

Why, last weekend I noticed that at both the Civic Center and in the Senate building the outside lights were burning brightly all day long.

I'm not saying the Energy Office hasn't tried, but so far too many of its suggestions seem not to have been followed. Perhaps the most charitable thing that could be done under the circumstances would be to return the money to Washington.

Pity Mike Newman. There he was on Monday morning in his vast new SSI office in the Nauru Building interviewing clients with not a stick of furniture in sight.

Newman, the resident representative, said that the movers were to transfer furnishings from the former office in the Inter-Con and new furniture from the dock on Friday, but the downpour put a halt to that. So until the movers got around to the task on Monday afternoon, there was no chair, no desk or anything that made the place look like a government office. Fortunately, Newman could open shop because he had carried the files and other documents over personally.

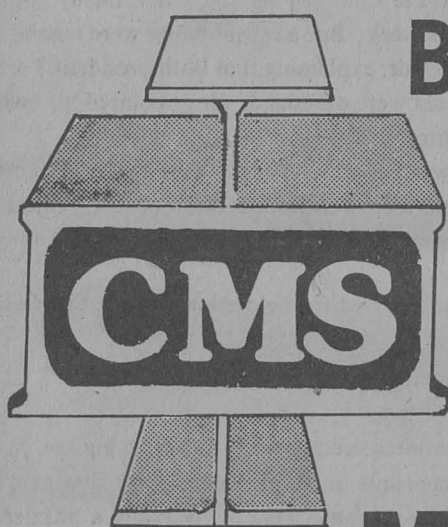

Although I had received a number of complaints about the wretched state of Wallace Highway, I did not realize what a painful driving experience it was until I traveled it last Sunday during one of the frequent rain squalls.

The road - actually a series of water holes somehow linked together - was a particularly hurtful experience because I was going to Dr. Torres Hospital to get some medication for an infection. Only my sense of prudery and modesty keeps me from describing the exact location of this unfortunate infirmity, but be it enough to say that it was on that part of the anatomy nearest the car seat. The jouncing, bouncing ride was not the most salubrious experience.

Fortunately, I am told, that the road will be paved even before my infection clears up.

The move by the public auditor's office from the Nauru Building has been delayed at least for a couple of weeks. It seems that after making an inspection trip to the newly assigned quarters in the old Congress of Micronesia annex, attorney Randall Fennell threatened to take the government to court if it insisted on the move.

The old buildings on Capitol Hill are dilapidated, said Fennell, there is no air-conditioning and the grass was 2-feet high. Besides, the doors had apparently been nailed shut from the inside, one of the public auditor's employees said after trying to open them with a key.

HELP WANTED

EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

NATURE OF WORK: Highly responsible secretarial work.

An employee in this class provides secretarial services to the Managing Director and the Board of Directors. Direction is generally received in the form of suggestion or general outline with detailed instructions given only in unusual cases. The use of independent judgment, initiative and discretion is essential and the employee is entrusted with very confidential records and files. This work differs from that of regular secretary in that the lower class provides secretarial services which do not require the same amount of knowledge of overall government operations nor the use of the same degree of judgment and discretion.

EXAMPLES OF DUTIES (Illustrative Only)

- Reviews correspondence, memoranda, reports and other material and determines their disposition.
- Identifies matters requiring priority handling and brings them to the attention of the Managing Director.
- Accepts and adjusts appointments for the Managing Director and schedules and briefs him on matters to be considered before meetings and conferences.
- Gathers, researches and refines material and data for the use of the executive.
- Assists important callers using fact and diplomacy, applying an extensive knowledge of government functions and operations.
- Keeps abreast of policies, staff, organization, functions, and the protocol of the government.
- Establishes and maintains files of policies, reports, schedules and other materials for the convenience of the executive.
- Prepares agenda and takes minutes of meetings and conferences.
- Types correspondence, memoranda, reports and other materials.
- Receives telephone calls, providing information on MVB functions, rules, and regulations and also determines and disposition of other calls.
- Makes all necessary arrangements for meetings.
- Takes and transcribes dictation with speed and accuracy.
- Drafts memoranda and correspondence as required.
- May supervise stenographic or clerical employees.
- Performs other related duties as assigned.

REQUIREMENT OF WORK:

- Thorough knowledge of English language usage.
- Thorough knowledge of government policies, functions and operations.
- Thorough knowledge of office practices and procedures.
- Skill in typing.
- Skill in taking and transcribing dictation.
- Skill in the use and care of office machines and equipment.
- Ability to deal tactfully and effectively with officials of the government and the general public.
- Ability to screen callers, correspondence, memoranda, files and reports and determine priorities for the attention of the Managing Director.
- Ability to work under pressure.

DESIRABLE PREPARATION OF WORK:

Two (2) years of College education from an accredited college with emphasis on Secretarial Science.

- Be able to type 70 words per minute.
- Be able to take dictation at 110 words per minute.
- Be able to use dictating machines.

EXPERIENCE:

Minimum of two (2) years work experience in secretarial work.

SALARY:

$230.00 by-weekly to $272.00 by-weekly depending on qualification.

Leases . . .

if any action he will recommend.

Pete A. Tenorio, executive director of the Public Land Corporation recommended that the option question be left to the U.S. without interference from the Northern Marianas.

He said there was no way to tell if the people of the Commonwealth still favor the military lease option as they once did in approving the covenant.

"It would be unfair for the governor or the Legislature to enter the situation when we do not know what the people want," he said.

He said that there is considerable private interest in developing Tinian if the military lease is not executed, and said that even if the option period expires, the Commonwealth is still free to negotiate a lease at more favorable terms.

Meanwhile, it was disclosed that Lt. Gov. Francisco C. Ada has resigned as chairman of the governor's task force to advise on the negotiations with the military. Ada wrote the task force did not have the expertise for the project and suggested that MPLC handle it.

MPLC director Tenorio said that the attorney general had ruled that his corporation has the authority to conduct land negotiations.

WATER PROOFING — Megan High, Saipan Swim Club member, gives swim lessons to a few of 60 participating youngsters.

Club Offers Free Swim Lessons

Over 60 youngsters are attending free swim lessons offered by the Saipan Swim Club.

Held from 8-9 a.m. daily at the Grand and InterContinental Hotel pools, the two weeks of lessons are taught by about a dozen members of the SSC, each working with small groups of children. The enrollees range from the "beginningest beginners" to teenagers who are improving their swimming skills, according to SSC coach Bill Sakovich.

He and his wife, Jean, are certified Red Cross instructors, and the SSC members they supervise have been certified as instructor aides. Thus, those taking the course will receive Red Cross certification for whichever level of tests of swimming ability they pass, Sakovich said.

"We want the kids to know how to swim for their own safety," he said. If they want to continue and swim in competition they can join the swim club. Training will begin at the end of this month for this fall's first swim meet in October, Sakovich said.

Providing the lessons free is the club's way of saying thanks to the community for the support given them, the coach said.

Slow Pitch Still Slow

Again this week, the Men's Government Slow-Pitch Softball League saw little action.

Monday's game was cancelled when neither Health Services nor the Airport Authority teams mustered enough men for a game. Tuesday's game between Lawmakers I and Lawmakers II was postponed by rain.

The remaining games, including those rescheduled after being rained out, are as follows:

Fri., 8/7 CCA vs. Lawmakers I

Mon., 8/10 Executive vs. Lawmakers II.

Tue., 8/11 Examiner vs. MIAA.

Wed., 8/12 Lawmakers I vs. Public Works.

Thu., 8/13 Executive vs. MIAA.

Fri., 8/14 Lawmakers II vs. CCA.

Mon., 8/17 Lawmakers I vs. Lawmakers II.

All games are scheduled to be played at Mt. Carmel field beginning at 7:30 p.m.

A play-off tournament will follow.

When this league is finished, a district-wide fast-pitch softball league will begin, playing on Monday, Wednesday and Fridays nights, according to the Softball and Baseball Association president Dave Igitol. On Tuesdays and Thursdays, a government/commercial slow-pitch league for men over 30 years old will be held, he said.

Sports Briefs

The second annual Kool Tennis Tournament will open with singles matches this weekend, weather permitting. Games will begin at 8 a.m. at both the InterCon and Hyatt tennis courts, with finals set for 4 p.m. Sunday.

Doubles teams may sign up until Tues., Aug. 11, for their matches the following weekend. Entry blanks are available at both hotel's tennis shacks, and the entry fee is $5 per person.

An awards banquet at the Hyatt Regency will follow the tournament.

The deadline for submitting team rosters for the 1981 Women's Islandwide Volleyball League has been extended until Aug. 14. Ten players are required for a team; there is no age limit. Rosters can be submitted to either the CCA office at Lower Base or the Mt. Carmel rectory. Games will be played at Mt. Carmel gym starting Aug. 17.

A volleyball clinic will be conducted by Ben Saures on Sat., Aug. 15 at 11 a.m. at Mt. Carmel gym. All players in the upcoming league and other interested persons are invited to attend.

A general membership meeting of the YMCA will be held on Thur., Aug. 13 at 5:30 p.m. at the American Memorial Park recreation building (former Garapan Headstart). Plans will be discussed concerning the expected September arrival of a husband/wife team of professional YMCA directors.

YMCA membership is open to all. Individual memberships cost $15 per year; businesses may also join.

Ben Concepcion will lead a night dive at the Grotto this Friday evening, Aug. 7. All certified divers are welcome to come along. Meet at Concepcion's home in Garapan at 7 p.m., and bring a waterproof flashlight. Other equipment is available for rent.
