WRIT ANSWERED BY NO ANSWER

Dole Maintenance Case Set For Hearing Tomorrow.

WRIT OF PROHIBITION TO JUDGE DICKEY

CALLING OF CALENDAR IN SUPREME COURT—JUDGE DE BOLT OCCUPIES NEW COURTROOM.

Judge Gear has made an answer to the effect that he has no answer to make to the writ of prohibition directed to him at the instance of Edmund P. Dole. The document reads thus, leaving out the caption:

"A writ of prohibition having already been issued in the above cause by the order of the Honorable the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, and said order being in the exact language of the prayer of the petition, and all the relief prayed for in said petition having already been granted and no rule or order to show cause having been made or issued by said Chief Justice, the Second Judge as defendant herein has no answer or plea to make to said petition, as no other relief is prayed for than that already granted herein."

Edmund P. Dole vs. Second Judge, First Circuit Court, writ of prohibition, was set for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock on the calling of the Supreme Court calendar this morning.

There was a large attendance of lawyers at the opening of the adjourned session of the Supreme Court. Government cases were put as far down as possible at the request of Deputy Attorney General Cathcart, who will be detained at the outset by attendance on the Grand Jury.

A motion to dismiss the appeal of defendant in the alimony case of Carolina Silva vs. M. G. Silva was the only matter heard at the morning session. No bill of exceptions had been filed and the motion was granted. Thompson and Gill & Farley for plaintiff; Correa & Creighton and Ashford for defendant.

Recess was taken till 1:30, when the case set is Manuel da Quadros vs. W. F. Frear et al., exceptions of plaintiff from First Circuit Court.

A writ of prohibition was granted by Chief Justice Frear, on the petition of Wong Chow, represented by W. A. Whitings, against L. A. Dickey, Second District Magistrate of Honolulu. It was made returnable on Friday.

There are fifty cases on the Supreme Court calendar. Chief Justice Frear announced, before calling the calendar, that he did not know if the court would sit beyond Tuesday of next week.

Judge De Bolt held term court for the first time this morning in his new courtroom. E. C. Peters has qualified by oath as master to examine and report on the second annual accounts of Henry Smith, trustee under the will of R. W. Holt, deceased.

Judge Robinson called the special venire of jurors and adjourned until 1:30 p. m.

Joseph O. Carter and Samuel C. Allen by their attorneys, Kinney, Ballou & McClanahan, have filed a demurrer to the complaint of Koolau Kalkalaha. They say she has a remedy at law and that she has no right to sue as a single person in the various capacities in which she sets out that she is plaintiff. Defendants pray that the bill be dismissed and any injunctions granted under it be dissolved.

Frederick H. Hayselden and John F. Colburn by their attorneys, Ashford and Creighton, have filed a lengthy answer to the complaint of Charles Gay, also a motion to dissolve the temporary injunction.

Benjamin Haahoe was tried and convicted before Judge De Bolt, as assault with a dangerous weapon. E. A. Douthitt for the prosecution; J. L. Kaulukou for the defendant. The following are the jurors who tried the case: B. S. Gregory, F. T. P. McIntyre, C. A. G. Maertens, J. D. Cockett, Jessin Andrade, James Nott Caesar Vieira, Henry Hickey, Wm. L. Peterson, K. B. Porter, Lot P. Fernandez and A. K. Vierra.

The members of the Hawaiian Planters' Association from all over the islands met in annual session in the assembly hall above Castle & Cooke's offices this forenoon. Vice President Alex. Isenberg calling the meeting to order shortly after 10 o'clock. Mr. Isenberg stated that he had been asked to preside at the meeting by Wm. G. Irwin, who was forced to be absent on account of his sudden departure for San Francisco on important business. Among those present at the meeting were the following: August Ahrens, Andrew Adams, J. B. Atherton, C. Bolte, Geo. Chalmers, J. T. Crawley, C. M. Cooke, J. P. Cooke, T. Clive Davies, Geo. E. Davies, E. Forbes, W. W. Goodale, James Gibb, Geo. Gibb, G. C. Hewitt, W. W. Hall, H. A. Isenberg, J. F. Hackfeld, C. C. Kennedy, A. Lidgate, John T. Moir, A. Moore, J. R. Meyers, C. E. Olding, W. Pullar, W. C. Parke, G. F. Ren-ton, Geo. H. Robertson, Geo. Ross, J. A. Scott, F. A. Schaefer, W. O. Smith, Jas. Scott, L. A. Thurston, W. G. Walker, C. B. Wells, H. M. Whitney, Henry Waterhouse and H. Deacon. After the calling of the roll of members the roll of plantations of the islands was called.

After the reading of the minutes, Vice President Alex. Isenberg made the following address by way of welcoming the planters to the twenty-second annual meeting of the Hawaiian Planters' Association:

Honolulu, November 17, 1902. To the Members of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association. Gentlemen:—In welcoming you to the twenty-second annual meeting of our Association, I express my regrets at the absence of the President, Mr. Wm. G. Irwin.

The past year has been one of unusual anxiety and depression on account of the low price of sugar, but it seems to me that the worst has been overcome and with an improving sugar market the general aspect for the future can confidently be said to be a bright one.

The world's production of sugar has so greatly increased that the governments of the various sugar-growing countries in Europe have come to an understanding, in order to restrict the overproduction of sugar beets and to abolish all export bounties on refined sugar. This convention will go into effect on September 1st next year, and it is expected that the same will be of decided benefit to all sugar producers on account of the anticipated rise in the price of sugar.

With the increased production of sugar, competition has become so keen as to show more plainly the necessity of vigilance and the application of the best scientific knowledge in the manufacture of sugar. Had it not been for the improvements made in the past years on our plantations I believe it would have been impossible for most of them to bear the unprecedented depression in prices which have recently prevailed.

In considering the future of our sugar industry the two most important subjects, in my estimation are, first, mechanical and engineering features, by which economies in the cost of production can be made, and, second, the subject of labor, which principally has occupied the time of your trustees in the many meetings held during the past year, and I suppose, will also again be the foremost subject of consideration during this meeting.

It is of the utmost importance that those who are carrying on the sugar industry of these islands should confer together with a view of seeking to solve the differences which confront them. It is to be expected that men of thoughtfulness and of strong convictions will differ in matters of detail and even in matters of policy, but at the same time these men will not forget the proverb: "In Union There is Strength"; also that under the prevailing circumstances co-operation is essential and absolutely necessary.

Your trustees have had several interviews and also social intercourse with the members of the Senatorial Commission which visited these islands on a tour of investigation. A memorial was read and presented to the Commission, setting forth the complete change in conditions since annexation took place and the needs of the Hawaiian planters to meet these changes; also strongly urging some special legislation by Congress for restricted immigration of Chinese agricultural laborers. It is to be hoped that this memorial will have the desired result, which would not only benefit those directly interested in sugar, but, in consequence, would have a good effect on the prosperity and welfare of the entire Territory.

In conclusion, I beg to say that reports of committees on various subjects will be submitted for your consideration as usual, and I hope that the expression of your views will lead to harmonious understanding and will be of lasting benefit.

On motion of W. O. Smith, it was voted that all reports presented before the meeting be printed in the Planters' Monthly or in any other manner that might be deemed proper. Secretary W. O. Smith reported as follows:

"Forty meetings of the trustees have been held during the year, besides many conferences.

The Committee on Labor, consisting of W. M. Giffard, J. P. Cooke and W. Protzenhauer, have been most diligent during the year, and have received valuable service.

The principal matters receiving attention of the trustees have been those relating to labor, adjustment to the new conditions resulting from the extension of Federal laws, proposed tariff changes, dealing with insect pests and blights and kindred subjects.

A joint meeting of the trustees and delegates from the various plantations was held in March. A similar meeting was planned for June, but was postponed to meet in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Association.

These joint meetings tend to establish a better understanding among the planters and a more uniform grading of wages for the different classes of work on the plantations.

Crops.

The crops harvested for the year ending September 30, 1902, have yielded well considering the great damage done by the drought of last year. The total output was 355,511 tons, being about 4,500 tons less than for the previous year. A tabulated statement of yields on the several plantations is presented herewith.

Experiment Station.

This station has been operated during the year, and has maintained its high standard of usefulness.

In November, 1901, Prof. C. F. Eckart succeeded Mr. Blouin as director of the station, and the work at the station has been efficiently and satisfactorily conducted.

Members of the Association and delegates will be interested in visiting and inspecting the gardens and operations.

Prof. R. C. L. Perkins has, in the absence of Prof. Koehle, rendered valuable service in the line of scientific research, and guarding against the introduction of pernicious pests and blights.

Planters' Monthly.

The publication of this magazine has been maintained, and, under the editorship of Hon. H. M. Whitney, has from time to time presented original articles and extracts from other journals of an instructive character.

It is much to be desired that contributions be furnished by planters, giving the results of their work and experiences in various branches of their work. In seeking to obtain the best results much may be learned from the experience and experiments of others. With increased production of sugar, in the various sugar producing countries, and greater competition, it is imperative that the closest attention be given to economy in every detail of production and manufacture.

With the great variety of locality, climate and conditions which exist in the various parts of these islands where sugar is produced, statements of results with different varieties of cane, methods of cultivation, fertilization, transportation and manufacture are instructive and profitable.

With all the problems that confront the planter, and tax their time and strength it is not a light task to prepare papers for publication; but such articles written by practical men are of the highest value.

In competing with other sugar producing countries, and the low prices of sugar which prevail, it is of the first importance that the best results be obtained.

In striving for this end and the value of the knowledge of the experiences and work of others is inestimable. The reports of committees are important, but in addition to these papers contributed to the Planters' Monthly, even brief, are very much to be desired. Visit of Senate Committee.

GOVERNOR DOLE LEVIES RUMOR

Executive Council Gives Ruling On Fire Claims.

TEN PER CENT. WILL BE PAID IMMEDIATELY

INTEREST MONEY FROM WASHINGTON TO BE SUPPLEMENTED WITH SOME OTHER FUNDS.

At the meeting of the Executive Council, which lasted nearly three hours, the most important matter to the community discussed was that of the payment of a pro rata of the fire claims. It was decided that the Auditor should require the presentation of certificates of awards as a basis for issuing warrants.

Governor Dole said after the meeting that the intention was to pay 10 per cent of the awards immediately, for which purpose a little would have to be drawn from the treasury in addition to the $10,000 interest on Hawaiian bonds received from the Federal Government.

An informal discussion was had on the matter of the collection of income taxes.

A few matters of minor importance were also under consideration.

Governor Dole was asked by a Bulletin reporter if there was anything in a rumor current about town that Secretary Hitchcock had written a letter of advice to him regarding the suspension or dismissal of officials. He replied that there was no foundation for the rumor, as nothing about that matter had been received from Washington.

TWO KAUAI LUAS

Purser Friel of the steamer W. G. Hall, which arrived from Kauai yesterday morning, reports that the luau given to celebrate the victory of the Republican party were a great success. There were two luau, one at W. H. Rice's place at Lihue and one at Koloa. Although the weather was rainy this did not interfere with the luau as at W. H. Rice's place, a large covered luau had been built while at Koloa a similar luau had been constructed next to the mill. As has been said both luau were eminently successful especially the one given at Rice's place which is reported to have been the greatest luau ever given on the island of Kauai.

WINDJAMMERS ARRIVE.

Yesterday no less than four windjammers arriving from Newcastle during the day. Of these the American bark Abbey Palmer made the voyage in 55 days and brought 2750 tons of coal consigned to order. The barkentine Benicia made the trip in 55 days. The schooner King Cyrus made it in 54 days, bringing 1197 tons of coal for Castle & Cooke. The Norwegian bark Excelsior made it in 55 days and brought 1980 tons of coal consigned to order.

Dr. Emerson, C. E. F. Delanux and Henry van Giesen were the witnesses for the prosecution. No evidence was put on for the defendant. The jury found a verdict of guilty in six minutes.

Captain Scott of the Gerard C. Tobey, states that he expects to sail for San Francisco on Friday or Saturday of this week. The vessel will have a load of about 14,000 bags of sugar.

HILO WANTS TOURISTS

CHAS. R. FRAZIER FINDS THE TOWN PROGRESSIVE

CORDIAL SUPPORT GIVEN TOURIST GUIDE—LONGER STAY IN HILO SUGGESTED FOR VISITORS.

"The people of Hilo want tourists," says Chas. R. Frazier, who returned from that city in Saturday's Claudine, where he has been in the interest of his handbook of information of the Hawaiian Islands. "I found a very hearty co-operation of many of Hilo's prominent business men and besides saw many things that should prove of great interest to tourists if properly presented. Most tourists start for the Volcano of Kilauea and return by the same steamer to Honolulu, but if they had any idea of what they were missing in the way of scenery in and about Hilo, they would quickly change their plans. In the first place, this quick trip is such a hardship on the average traveler that it takes away considerably from the enjoyment and does not give as favorable an impression as it should. A more interesting plan would be to spend a few days in Hilo either before or after proceeding to the Volcano, in which time the tourist could visit the celebrated Rainbow Falls and the great cave, or blow-hole at Kunaia. This blow-hole extends for an unknown distance toward Hilo and an exploration of it is intensely interesting.

"While in Hilo I accompanied a party over a mile down this cave and we turned back only for fear that the ladies we left at the mouth of the cave would think us lost. We had been walking continually for two hours with torches for light and each step brought out something new of interest.

"Hilo itself is supremely beautiful. It is a garden of the most beautiful flowers and foliage every day in the year. "The drive toward Onomea and the Onomea arch is another feature about Hilo and then there is a trip down the railroad through beautiful scenery to Puna, where the tourist is shown the Green Lake, set like an emerald in the hollow of an extinct crater, and the Puna Warm Springs. After having seen these things the trip to the Volcano could take up the balance of the time, and there are so many points of interest about the Volcano House, besides the main feature, that they can not possibly be seen in one day. For instance, Kilauea Iki, the sulphur banks, the free fern forest, etc.

"Mr. Logan will bring out these points in the tourists' guide and Hilo should certainly get her share of tourists. Those people in Hilo who gave support to this guide-book did so in a liberal and hearty manner and it required only a brief presentation of the proposition to find out whether they were willing to support it or not."

CALL OF UNIONS

A special meeting of Honolulu Labor Council is called for Friday evening, Nov. 21, at their hall. All unions are requested to send their full delegation. The topic for discussion is the request of the Merchants' Association for action on the proposed immigration of Chinese.

KOLOA TOOK HOLIDAY TO CELEBRATE THE ELECTION

LUAU AND BALL—LIHUE'S BIG CELEBRATION—PERSONAL NEWS NOTES OF GAR- DEN ISLE.

Koloa, Kauai, Nov. 14.—Kauai had given up all hope of having the honor of entertaining Delegate-elect Kuhio, but this morning the welcome news arrived that he would come to Lihue Saturday morning, remain at the luau and then return to Honolulu the same day in the Hall. Preparations are being made to receive the crowd at Dr. Watt's place, which is not far from the Lihue postoffice.

Koloa is going Lihue one better, for two luau are to be held here tomorrow, and in the evening a ball will be given in the sugar room of the mill. The plantation will take a half holiday and arrangements are in progress to give an open air luau at the court house in the afternoon at the plantation's expense. Of course the luau at the court house and the ball at the mill will both be Republican jollifications, yet the Home Rulers are not to be outdone, and say they will give a luau at G. Mookin's.

Chief Engineer F. Loehr is home from Germany. He brought his bride with him.

H. Wedemeyer, late plantation bookkeeper, will visit the States, but will return again.

Bill Henry, the well known kamala luna, has cast his lot at Kilauea.

STANDING OF THE BOYS

By a typographical error in Saturday's list Charley Correa was credited with 2,075 papers. This should have been 2,015 papers. The correction is made today, which accounts for his appearing to have sold but 18 papers, when in reality he sold 78 on Saturday.

SEA FISHERIES PUBLIC

The Supreme Court rendered a decision on the test fishery cases Saturday afternoon. It is written by Justice Galbraith, who with Judges De Bolt and Robinson heard the case. Frear and Perry being disqualified.

The opinion holds that the Hawaiian statutes giving konohiki in the sea fisheries were not grants of property but were public statutes in which no one could acquire a vested right, and that when repealed by the Organic Act no one had any "private property in such fishery." It is also held that exclusive rights in a sea fishery surrounding these islands could not be acquired by ancient custom, nor a Royal Patent convey a right to such fishery.

Justice Galbraith goes at length into the history of the fishery laws of the islands, showing where at first the king had an interest in the fisheries and that this was abandoned when it was found that the business was not profitable to the government. Thereafter the fishing rights were granted to the people and the court holds that there could be no private right through ancient custom.

A number of Hawaiian Supreme Court decisions are quoted as showing that the fisheries should not be included as an appurtenance to the land or by a royal grant. The opinion concludes: "Under the common law the right of fishing in the open sea like that of navigation was a public right. The grant of an exclusive right to a sea fishery cannot be presumed. Every ambiguity or doubt in the instrument by which the right is claimed to be granted will be construed most strongly against the grantee."

COLLEGIANS VICTORS

WIN GAME OF FOOTBALL AGAINST THE HONOLULU

SCORE OF 6 TO 5—THE H. A. C.'S WEIGHT DID NOT COUNT FOR MUCH—LINE-UP OF SATURDAY.

In the football game between the Punahou and Honolulu Athletic Club teams on the campus at Oahu College Saturday afternoon, the former defeated the latter by a score of 6 to 5, notwithstanding the superior weight of the Honolulu. The Punahou men seemed to be able to go through the line or around the ends at any time they cared to do so and always for a gain. They were very much quicker and the Honolulu will have to change their tactics quite a good deal if they expect to do anything with the collegians.

Each team secured a touchdown but the Honolulu failed to kick goal, thus giving the game to the Punahou. Russell, quarter back for the Honolulu was badly hurt in the second half and was carried off the field in an unconscious condition. Hatch was also forced to retire from the game on account of an injury.

It must be said that the men who have charge of the games in the future will have to do a little more watching if football is to be popular. There was some work noticed by outsiders who were stooping down low during the scrimmage that should not be countenanced for a minute. No names need be mentioned as the work referred to was very plain indeed. Twisting a man's neck, stepping on the back of the head, kicking in the head or trying to twist the foot of a man that every one knows has been suffering from a sprained ankle are things that will go to make football very unpopular in Honolulu if something is not done to stop it.

Taking into consideration the nature of the day and the condition of the grounds, the play was fair and with a little more practice the men will be able to put up a much better game.

The Punahou demonstrated their ability to take care of themselves in the face of big odds in weight. They were quicker in every move and their full possession of his wits at all stages of the game. Russell, the quarterback for the Honolulu, seemed to be dazed after his first injury and did not play with the precision that he has been noted for while at practice.

The game next Saturday afternoon will be between the Honolulu and Maile-Himas.

The line-up Saturday was as follows:

Jack Weday Awarded THE PURSE In Saturday Contest

With the exception of one number—a fiasco between "Sailor" Brown and Ulysses Harris—the boxing tournament at the Orpheum Saturday evening furnished the best sport of its kind Honolulu has ever seen.

Best Glove Contests Yet.

A large crowd was present, everything was carried on in the most orderly manner, and cleaner bouts with the gloves could not have been wished for. The preliminaries were all as interesting as the main event, but, of course, they did not last as long.

Japanese Wrestlers.

The Japanese wrestling matches were most interesting and proved the little brown men to be adepts at the art of catch-as-catch-can.

Some Dissatisfaction.

The decision in favor of Weday in the main event caused some little dissatisfaction and disaffection in some quarters. It being claimed that, although Weday did get a little the best of his opponent in the last two rounds, still the work of Kennard in the first eight rounds was enough and more than was needed to throw the balance in favor of the small man.

Paddy Ryan on Deck.

Paddy Ryan, who acted as master of ceremonies, started the gong going shortly after 8 o'clock by introducing two negro boxers, both of whom were about one hundred and thirty pounds in weight. They were O'Brien of Australia and Lowrey of Philadelphia. Both men were clever and willing and for four rounds, it looked like a knock-out at any stage of the game.

Some little wrestling took place, but in the main, it was a clean bout and was declared a draw, much to the satisfaction of the crowd.

Completely Knocked Out.

Reichling and Owens, two sailors from the New York, donned the gloves for the second of the four-round bouts. This lasted but one round, Reichling disabling his opponent with a blow in the stomach just as time was about to be called.

The men were very evenly matched and did good work. Reichling started in with very fast work and Owens was put on the defensive. An unintentional foul by the latter caused some stir in the audience during the middle of the round and this was greatly added to when Reichling sent Owens rolling on the floor by a swift punch in the stomach.

Makahashi Wins.

Two sets of Japanese wrestlers were next introduced—Makahashi and Yamamoto and Figita and Hamamoto. Makahashi and Figita won their bouts in fine style and then went against each other, Makahashi winning the final easier than he did the preliminary.

"Sailor" Brown Mesmerized.

Next to the event of the evening, the go between Harris and "Sailor" Brown was looked upon to be the most promising. However, the many friends of both men were doomed to disappointment as there was no fight. The "Sailor" looked big and wicked enough to "eat" Harris, and when he was introduced as the first man who had ever got a decision over Sharkey and who had fought Peter Jackson, it was thought surely that Harris was "up against it." Indeed, when the referee had completed his announcement there were cries all over the house of "Good-bye Harris." The gong sounded and the men faced each other. Brown led and missed. Harris punched the "Sailor" in the face and the latter rushed for the ropes and held on while Harris punched him with his left eight or nine times. Brown put his head down and stood half bent over the ropes but he made no attempt to fight back or even defend himself. It seemed as if he was completely dazed.

Harris was stopped by the referee although after the first or second punch he delivered he wanted to stop out of pity for his antagonist. The charitably inclined, concluded that "Sailor" Brown should have been fined $2 and costs before Judge Wilcox. Not since the big bully stevedore went up against Denver Ed Smith has such a rank game of quit been played before a Honolulu audience.

The management was furious at the "Sailor" and it is understood that when he called for $75 he met with a swift reply which was not accompanied by any coin.

Weday and Kennard.

The preliminaries being over, all was expectancy for the Weday-Kennard go. Both men had many partisans and before the bout was declared to be Weday's little Kennard had fought himself into the hearts of the majority of the audience.

Billy Woods, Referee.

Billy Woods was introduced as the referee in this bout and the hardest work he had to do was to keep out of the fighters' way. It was a clean struggle from beginning to end—a big hard hitter against a little, wonderfully clever man who could take a punch and give one. There was a difference of over thirty pounds in weight and about six inches in height, the reach of course being with Weday.

Claim of Foul.

Only once in the fast ten rounds was any claim of foul made and that was in the fifth when Weday asked Kennard not to duck too low as he was hitting him below the belt. Kennard answered that it was Weday's own fault for hitting the way he did.

First Round—Sizing Up.

In the first round the men fiddled about sizing each other up and the crowd became a little impatient. Kennard played with Weday considerably and the round ended without much work on either side but a little in favor of Kennard. Had he stood up and fought, Weday could have got at him but the little fellow was wise and kept away.

Second Round—Faster Work.

The second round opened fast. Weday was beginning to size up the little fellow. Some good blows were exchanged, Weday landing on the head while Kennard reached Weday's body hard, escaping a great deal of punishment by clever foot work and ducking. His blows at Weday's head fell short in nearly every attempt, his glove landing on the big man's shoulders. In the short arm work, Kennard did great fighting and hit as he pleased, smiling all the while.

Third Round—Kennard Smiles.

Several times in the third round Weday found Kennard's right ear but the little fellow came up smiling and gained many friends by his cleverness.

No damage was done to either but Weday had the best of it.

Fourth Round—Kennard Wary.

Nothing startling happened in the fourth, the quick, clever fellow keeping away from the larger man.

Fifth Round—Kennard Has It.

Kennard opened the fifth round by slapping Weday on the top of the head. He apologized and the crowd laughed. He then found Weday a little more and continued it. There was no questioning the fact that it was Kennard's round.

Sixth Round—Weday Aggressive.

In the sixth, Kennard by his cleverness, missed many warm punches coming to him but Weday was getting ambitious and landed a good many times with both hands on head and body. However, it did not see into stop Kennard and in coming up from under Weday's left arm, he wiped his face on the iron moulder's glove just as a joke. The crowd cheered.

Weday did more effective work in this round than in any of the preceding ones and Kennard was a bit tired when time was called.

Seventh Round—A Straight Punch.

At the opening of the seventh Weday found Kennard's left ear twice in rapid succession and took several hot ones in the body as payment. One straight right punch in the face made Weday's head go back and he was more careful about getting in close. The end of the round found honors about even.

Eighth Round—Fighters Cautious.

Both men were more cautious in the eighth and the smaller man took more punishment in the short arm work. It was a round of rushes, with the superior weight and strength telling for Weday. To even up matters, the little fellow shouldered a good deal in the clinches which were frequent but clean.

Ninth Round—Weday Hits Hard.

In the ninth round Kennard lost his happy smile as he began to appreciate that he had to take a blow to give one. He was tired and did not fight with the snap he began with. Weday connected with his right on Kennard's head and neck and landed some hard blows on the body which distressed the little fellow a good deal. Kennard used his feet to good advantage in this round and rested up considerably for the final. In an exciting exchange of body punches towards the end of the round, Weday did some good work while the blows of Kennard lacked force.

Tenth Round—Crowd With "Kid".

The men shook hands for the win, Kennard having the crowd with him. Weday started in to finish things and mixed it up from the beginning. Kennard could not evade his antagonist, often enough to escape a great deal of heavy punishment and in the middle of the round Weday secured first blood from Kennard's nose. In this round, Kennard showed his gameness and stayed with it until the gong sounded.

Roar at Decision.

Quite a roar was raised when the decision of Referee Billy Woods was announced for Weday but as the contest was for points and the man doing the most damage to the other scored the highest number, it is thought that he could not do otherwise. Kennard escaped a great many blows but he took many more than he gave and so, while his cleverness saved him from being knocked out, his failure to reach Weday except in the clinches and occasionally by fanning, lost him the battle.

Well-Managed Show.

Nothing but praise was heard for the management of the tournament and from the full attendance, a good profit must have been netted by Manager Joe Cohen. A cleaner night's sport has certainly never been offered Honolulu sparring enthusiasts.

MACKAY'S BRITISH ESTATE.

London, Nov. 6. — The estate in Great Britain of John W. Mackay, who died here July 20th, has been sworn at $7,685. Mackay's will is a brief document, declaring all his estates to be community property of his wife and himself and bequeathing everything subject to his testamentary disposition to his son Clarence. This will contains no other bequest of any kind.

The Democrats of Connecticut cut out Bryan and the Kansas City platform from their resolutions and considered trusts and the tariff. It is evident that they mean to emulate the fashion set by the Democracy of Massachusetts, who believe that the future is yet before them.—Boston Herald.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1902.

Hawaii can give thanks in this year of our Lord, without chasing around Robin Hood's barn to discover something to be thankful for.

If it be true that the Grand Jury cannot find sufficient in the charges against Jas. H. Boyd to warrant an indictment, on what basis of decency or honesty can it be said that "Boyd Escapes?"

Judge De Bolt in his charge to the Grand Jury said: "It would be highly improper for you to discuss among yourselves outside of the Grand Jury room any case or matter which may have been submitted or which may be pending, or which may or might come before you for consideration. Neither should you permit any person to discuss with you, or any of you, any such cases or matter." In view of the rumors that have been rife since Friday regarding the result in the Boyd case, it is up to the Judge to investigate the Grand Jury.

REPUBLICAN FAIR PLAY.

Notwithstanding the attacks which one Republican factor has seen fit to make on a member of the Republican organization, it does not appear that the party or any considerable number of its membership is prepared to take up the cudgel of factionalism or allow false representations to avert it from strict attention to business, free from prejudice, honest in its discussion of men and affairs. Extreme prejudice and false accusations voiced by one publication would seem to indicate that the nine days of quiet from personal attack and evil innuendo might well pass as a nine days' wonder.

The sentiment throughout the party is such, however, that the factor which seems factionalism or seems anxious to put warfare above a temperate discussion based on facts and political decency is warring all by its lonesome. The inability to stir up a war within the party ranks or mislead the workers has perhaps served a good purpose in proving to the voters that the organization has no intention of wasting its time with factional play or being false to its promise of fair and honest dealings. The Republican party has too much at stake, too much to do in forwarding capable business administration throughout the Territory to be fiddling among the reefs of personal prejudice which kept the Territory stranded for a full two years. A knocker's society is not the chief end and aim of Republican work, notwithstanding the knocker made himself known after a peace period of nine days.

CONDITIONS IMPROVED.

The annual session of the Planters' Association is held under more favorable auspices this year than any meeting since the organization of the Territory. While the planters have yet many serious problems to deal with, there is every promise that the darkest days consequent to changed conditions and depression in the sugar market have passed and the light of returning prosperity is in sight. The planters of the country have had an experience in the last two years that has tested to the utmost their capacity to overcome obstacles. That they have held the fort and averted a panic which at times has threatened attests the business ability and good judgment of our captains of industry. The result of the Territorial election has reestablished the local confidence so necessary to industrial progress, and the visit of the Senatorial Commission has undoubtedly secured a better understanding of our conditions in the National Legislature and gives reasonable assurance that an earnest effort will be made to make such favorable allowances for Hawaii as will give this Territory a fair share of the general prosperity which obtains on the Mainland. The improvement of the status in legislative circles, National and Territorial, coupled with the prospect of better prices for our chief product clears the industrial atmosphere in a way that gives a more cheerful aspect to the whole situation. The severe tension is at least relieved.

SUGAR PROSPECTS BETTER

mitttee from the United States Senate the trustees of the Association presented papers and statements upon various subjects relating to the sugar interests, and the general agricultural industries of the islands. Statistics and data as to average cost of producing sugar, production per acre, cost of transportation, and upon-kindred subjects were furnished, and corrections were made of mis-statements and incorrect information which had been given.

Representative at Washington.
 William Haywood Esq. has continued as representative of the Association at Washington, and has rendered good service. His visit to Honolulu on the occasion of the meeting here of the Senate committee was opportune.

Conclusion.
 In union is strength, and at no time in the history of the sugar industry of these islands has it been more important that there be interchange of views and co-operation.

The interests of these islands — industrial, political and social — depend so largely upon the sugar industry, and the character and attitude of the sugar planters, the issues involved will doubtless be met in the same broad and dignified spirit which has heretofore characterized the deliberations of this Association.

On motion of W. M. Giffard, tomorrow (Tuesday) was set apart for the labor convention, when the delegates and trustees will meet together. Managers of plantations interested in the matter are invited to attend. The convention will come together at 9 o'clock.

The next business of the meeting was the election of the Board of Trustees for the ensuing year. On motion of W. M. Giffard, the old trustees were unanimously re-elected. They are as follows: J. B. Atherton, F. A. Schaefer, H. P. Baldwin, W. G. Irwin, F. M. Swanny, G. H. Robertson, H. A. Isenberg, B. F. Dillingham and W. O. Smith.

The Chair next called for the reading of reports of various committees, calling first on J. P. Cooke to report on labor. On motion of Mr. Cooke, the reading of the report was postponed until tomorrow, when the labor convention meets. Mr. Cooke explained that the report consisted for the most part in statistics.

The report of C. F. Eckart on "Fertilization" was a long one, but it was listened to with a great deal of interest on account of the extremely valuable suggestions contained. On account of the length of the report it is impossible to give here anything but the very briefest outline. The following matters were dwelt on:

1. Application of nitrogen in the form of nitrate in districts of heavy or uncertain rainfall.
2. Application of nitrates followed by heavy irrigation.
3. Use of large quantities of nitrogenous fertilizer with the seed.
4. Applying the total fertilizer for the crop in one application to very young cane.
5. Making late application of nitro-nous fertilizer and prolonging maturity of cane.
6. Using excessive amounts of nitrogen.
7. The use of nitrate of soda in considerable quantities on field receiving irrigation water of high salt content.
8. In dwelling with the matter of potash, Mr. Eckart described these as the principal ways in which the element might be used to least advantage:

1. The application as nitrate in districts of heavy and uncertain rainfall.
 2. By applying large amounts of potash to lands poor in lime.
 3. Through the use of potassium salts on heavy lands without first using lime.
- The last two subjects dwelt upon by Mr. Eckart were "Phosphoric Acid and "Green Manuring."

At this stage of the meeting A. F. Judd appeared on the scene and stated that he had been appointed a committee of one by the Live Stock and Breeders' Association to call on the Planters' Association and invite them to a joint meeting for the purpose of hearing the report of R. C. L. Perkins on the matter of lantana bugs and other matters pertaining to the extermination of the pest. Mr. Judd asked that the Association appoint some time for a meeting and, on motion of W. O. Smith, the hour for the joint meeting of the two bodies was set for 2 p. m. today in the hall over the offices of Castle & Cooke.

The next report was on the "Handling and Transportation of Cane," which should have been presented by J. A. Low of the Honolulu Plantation Co. On account of the absence of Mr. Low on the Mainland, the matter had been referred to G. C. Hewitt of Naalehu, who wrote a letter to the Association in which were contained a number of facts of importance with reference to the matter of handling and transporting cane.

W. W. Goodale of Waiakua reported as follows for the Committee on Manufacture:
 Honolulu, Oahu, Nov. 17, 1902.
 Mr. Wm. G. Irwin, President Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association, Honolulu, Oahu.
 Sir:—In order to obtain information on the processes in use in sugar mills, your Committee on Manufacture sent to each of the fifty-five managers of mills and plantations a list of questions intended to bring out facts as to changes in methods made during the past year that have resulted in increased quantity and better quality of sugar, reduced cost of manufacture and decreased losses in the waste products.

accompany this report.
 Chemical control in mills is the exception rather than the rule and for that and other reasons, some managers have no doubt felt that they could not contribute exact information. They would not write what might be inaccurate and misleading. Other managers have attached too much importance to the fact that the mills under their charge are not "Modern Mills," forgetting that although some of the so-called "modern mills" are of greater capacity, have crystal-lizers instead of coolers and water driven centrifugals instead of belt-driven, they differ in no material respect from the good mills of earlier date, managed and worked by progressive men.

The results of the work in the smaller mills, could exact figures be obtained, would be found to be highly creditable to the efficiency of the machinery and to the men in charge.
 Your committee find that a majority of the managers are in favor of the adoption of uniform methods of laboratory work.

A letter from Mr. J. N. S. Williams on this point is attached to this report.
 We understand that a number of the chemists employed in the Territory have formed an Association. We would suggest that in carrying out the plan outlined in Mr. Williams' letter, the chemists be asked to consider the matter and to propose the rules for uniform practice.

Men who are familiar with manufacturing in other places and with the economic necessity where there is close competition, are struck with the fact that we are far behind other manufacturers in the utilization of waste or by-products.

No other industry could stand the loss of 15 per cent of the raw product in the process of manufacture.

Our waste or by-products are the bagasse, scum press cake containing fibre and sugar, refuse molasses containing sugar in large quantities, and probably other useful substances, and the ashes containing potash.

It is probable that the loss of sucrose in all the mills in the Territory will average 15 per cent of all the sucrose in the case.

In producing a crop of 400,000 tons of marketable sugar of an average polarization of 96 per cent, approximately 65,000 tons of sugar are lost in bagasse, scum press mud, molasses and undetermined losses; 65,000 tons of sugar at $50 per ton net worth the enormous sum of $3,250,000.

	Estimated Per cent.	Value.
In bagasse	6.5	$1,451,666.66
In press cake	1	223,333.33
In molasses	5	1,116,666.65
Undetermined	2.5	558,333.33
	15.0	$3,350,000.00

It may be argued that the bagasse is not a waste and that it is necessary for fuel to develop power for grinding and for steam for boiling.

The sugar lost in the bagasse alone, however, as shown above, amounts to $1,451,666.66, or the price of 181,458 tons of coal at $8 per ton.

It has been proved that slow grinding and high dilution will add materially to the amount of sugar extracted from the cane by the mills and that by the use of machinery of good design and proper size worked continuously and to its full capacity, very thin juices may be taken care of without expense for extra fuel.

It may be found that a large part of the sugar lost in the bagasse can be saved by extremely high dilution as in some of the mills of the Colonial Sugar Refining Co. with a slight additional expense for other fuel.

The loss of sucrose in the molasses may be partly offset by its use as fuel, but it is probable that other more profitable ways will be found and adopted.

Undetermined losses are probably exaggerated, but they are so stated in all mill reports and cannot be ignored. There are no doubt errors in weighing cane and measuring juices that account for some of the undetermined losses.

We would suggest that the utilization of waste molasses be made a subject for special investigation by a committee to report at the next annual meeting. Respectfully submitted,
 WM. W. GOODALE,
 Chairman;

F. B. MULLER,
 E. K. BULL,
 JAS. RENTON,

Committee on Manufacture.
 Puunene, Maui, Oct. 27, 1902.
 Hon. H. P. Baldwin, General Manager Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Company, Puunene, Maui.
 Dear Sir:—In replying to the eleven questions on the circular from the Committee on Manufacture, I would say that a uniform system of chemical control and statement of results from our sugar houses is most desirable.

It is to be feared that individual rivalry has caused the natural demand for high results to be met in a way that does not conduce to further progress in certain branches of sugar manufacture, and I think it is certain that a well-thought-out system of sugar-house control, backed by a uniform method of arriving at results, would in a short time produce handsome returns for the time and trouble expended.

I would take the liberty of suggesting that a special research committee be appointed for the purpose of looking into and reporting upon this matter; and since all practical branches of the business are interested, let the managers, engineers, sugar boilers and chemists be represented in the committee, say one from each branch. Yours very truly,
 J. N. S. WILLIAMS.

One of the best reports of the day was that of James Scott, chairman of the Committee on Machinery. Following are extracts from this report:

Since the last annual meeting of this Association there have been at least two large complete new sugar factories started operations, the one the property of the Olaa Sugar Co. of Hawaii, and the other the Puunene Mills of the Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar Co. of Maui. In addition to these there has been a complete rein-

Installation of new machinery at the Ewa Plantation on Oahu, and also the Maui Sugar Co.'s mill on Maui.
 The saving in labor so far effected by the introduction of fuel oil at Kihel is a fraction over 30 per cent, but this allowing the four boilers to be cleaned every two weeks, as against every four weeks with the use of coal.
 The latter part of the report of Mr. Scott is given up entirely to the matter of the extraction of sugar from the cane. This subject is treated very exhaustively.

A very interesting report on "Cultivation" was presented by James Gibb. Following are extracts from the report:
 As with all other branches of the sugar industry in Hawaii the cultivation of cane has undergone many changes. New varieties of cane have been introduced and experimented with on every island; the treatment of soils by scientific and practical experiments; the adoption of modern implements in their fields for plowing and cultivating; and the co-operation of planters through your Association and experiment station have all been important factors in the development of cane growing in these islands.
 The general method of planting is to place the seed in the furrow by hand, butt to butt, and covered to a depth of from two to three inches. Many amusing notions still hold sway in the planting season. Some prefer the top of seed left uncovered to keep the seed alive; others demand the seed planted whichever way the wind mostly blows. In Hamakua this year a Japanese company threw up a co-operative contract on the ground that the seed was not planted so that it would grow the prevailing way of the wind. Suffice it to say that the young plant from this doomed seed is as far advanced today as the plant from seed of supposedly more favored conditions.

The question of cultivation by animals between the cane rows is still much discussed. We firmly believe that wherever it is practicable cultivation between the rows should be done with cultivators drawn by mule power. A man and a mule with a cultivator or small plow can perform the work of ten men with hoes. It seems, therefore, fair to assume that this matter of detail should have careful attention, and especially at a time like the present, when labor is very scarce and the market for sugar falling low. In nearly all unirrigated plantations the land is freely stirred up and weeds controlled between the young cane rows by mule power; the exceptions are on those plantations where stony ridges and other conditions make it impracticable to place animals in the young crop. Some planters still content that using small plows has been adopted for many years. It is now generally conceded that mule cultivation is most beneficial to young cane in that it thoroughly loosens up the soil for the cane to spread in, and improves the condition of the soil by exposure to sun and atmosphere.

 The cultivation of crops directly calls for a large percentage of expenditure; and in view of the many difficulties to hinder planters from making observations abroad we would suggest for your consideration the securing of a competent man to collect data from the various plantations, and have same published in some form that would be of general benefit to all engaged in the production of sugar. In such wise we would obtain information regarding the different modes of cultivation, new varieties of seed cane, new implements, the results of various experiments, and other matter that would be of great value to each and all interested in the sugar industry of these islands.

At the conclusion of the reading of reports, the meeting adjourned until 2 p. m.

OUR COAT OF ARMS.
 Washington, Nov. 6.—A question arose recently as to the correctness of the design of the coat of arms as displayed on the President's flag which has been in use in the Navy for many years. Attention was first called to the matter when a foreign attaché remarked that it was strange that the Army and Navy should have two different flags for the President. It was then discovered that the two differed in the matter of the coat of arms. The State Department was called upon for an authentic copy of the coat of arms. It showed seven white and six red stripes in the shield, while the Navy Department's flag had seven red stripes and six white ones. The matter was referred to the President, but he sent it back to the department for decision. While Acting Secretary Darling has not formally decided the matter, he inclines to follow the State Department.

TOM JOHNSON'S FIST

Cleveland, O., Oct. 31.—Mayor Tom L. Johnson was one of the principals in a fist fight on the public square shortly after noon today. William Myleraine was talking in the square to a little knot of people. He was discussing an attack which he claims Johnson made upon him in regard to assessments in the Thirty-second ward, where in 1900 Myleraine was assessor.

Johnson sent out a circular in which he said a certain piece of property was assessed at $3 per cent of its real value. Myleraine told his hearers. "Now, that property is worth $1000. It was assessed at $300. If anybody says that is $3 per cent he is a liar."

According to Myleraine, Mayor Johnson then stepped up to him, "Do you say that I am a liar," the Mayor asked.

"I do if you made that statement," Myleraine replied.

Thereupon the Mayor struck him in the face. Myleraine showed a bruise near his mouth, which he claims resulted from the Mayor's blow.

The crowd surged in and Johnson walked away. Myleraine talked of getting out a warrant for the Mayor's arrest, but his Republican friends persuaded him not to do it.

Johnson says that he did not mean to hurt the man, but did not propose to be called a liar.

SOLAR PLEXUS BLOW.

St. Louis, Nov. 6.—In the boxing contest scheduled for twenty rounds, between Benny Yanger of Chicago and Tony Moran of New York, before the West End Club tonight, Yanger knocked Moran out in the third round by a solar plexus blow. Both men weighed in at 135 pounds.

From the beginning it was apparent that Yanger had the advantage. In the first round he devoted himself to leading out his opponent. In the second round the boxing started in fiercely, but in stepping away from a clinch Yanger landed a left uppercut on the jaw which put Moran on the mat for nine seconds. Moran endeavored to retrieve himself, but a blow on the head landed him and the gong saved him.

In the third round Yanger seemed determined to win out in a hurry. Moran could not find him. After fiddling around for a few moments Yanger seized his opportunity and landed a blow on the solar plexus and Moran was counted out.

SHORT STORY FOR EVENING HOURS

A RANGER'S LETTER

The rangers were lounging about the corral. Breakfast was over and the April sun was scattering the pale blue fog that arose from the Rio Grande. "Guess who I seen in Juarez last night," said Tompkins. "Panhandle Pete," said Holliday. "Yep. How d'ye know?" "How did he know?" roared Kelly. "What he sparkin' Pete's gal for?" "What do you mean?" asked Holliday, his florid face looking tawny with anger. "If you mean that I've told the woman anything, you lie."

Just then Peterson galloped round the corner of the corral with the mail from El Paso, and the rangers crowded around eager for letters. Captain Crews, a low-voiced, sun-browned man, with black, curly hair, came out of his tent, and took his letters.

"Tompkins!" roared the mail carrier. "Kelly!" and the curly giant reached out a big paw for his letter.

"And a love letter for Holliday," said the younger ranger bit his lip as the crowd roared, but he took the letter in silence and, going to his tent, read:

"Sweetheart—I found the flowers on my table after supper. I know they came from you. Meet me at the middle post of the bridge at 9 o'clock tonight. I have something to tell you. Your own, LOTTIE."

"Listen here, boys!" Captain Crews was calling to his men, "a letter from the Governor. The reward for Peter Dimitri is increased—five hundred now. Can't some of you scheme up a way to get him across the river? I've sent him a half-dozen baits, but he won't come."

"I sent him a letter from his gal," said Kelly, "but—"

"You don't expect him to bite at that kind of game, do you?"

"It might have worked," said Tompkins, lowering his voice, "but every time we set a trap that bad gasted woman puts him next."

"How in the devil does she know?" asked Crews, looking from one to the other.

"You might ask Holliday," sneered Tompkins. "I seen him in the Plaza with her Tuesday night, and I bet she's a readin' a letter from her right now."

"He can outshoot you, Tom."

"He ain't never shot nothin' 'r no body, is he?"

"He's a peach with a lariat, isn't he?"

"Well, s'posin' he is. He ain't roped nothin' 'cept this here gal o' Panhandle Pete's. I don't mind sayin' right out that I think he's a tipple off Pete fur to stand in with th' gal."

"Aw, get out, Tompkins!" said the Captain trying to smile as the men shuffled out of his tent, but he looked uncomfortable, and he saw that his men agreed in their estimate of the new ranger.

Holliday met Tompkins half-way between the corral and the camp and said: "Tompkins, do you know where Pete is living in Juarez?"

"Now, I don't know where he's livin', I seen him dead in the bed of the river, an' I got him spotted so's he can't get no letters there 'bout me knowin' it. Hear that, Mr. Tenderfoot?"

But Holliday only sneaked back to his tent and sat down at the soap box which served him as a table. With much effort and many loving touches

Captain Crews was smoking in the moonlight before his tent when he heard the clatter of horses' hoofs coming loud on the rocks and dull on the sand. "Kelly's drunk again," he guessed as he walked toward the corral. But there he found Holliday dismounting. The men came running, but the "dude" laughed in their faces and said:—

"I've got him, fellows. There at 'end of my rope."

Tompkins, all befuddled with his vain stalking, galloped up as they stooped over the bound outlaw. They carried the limp prisoner into a tent and searched him, and in his greasy pocket they found a letter which read:

"Sweetheart—I found the flowers on my table after supper. I know they came from you. Meet me at the middle post of the bridge at 9 o'clock tonight. I have something to tell you. Your own, LOTTIE."

They looked up at Holliday. "I didn't forge the letter," he said, blushing. "She sent it to me all right. But I—er—just fixed up the envelope a little."—John H. Rothery in Chicago Record-Herald.

COOPER ANSWERS WRIT

Henry E. Cooper on Saturday filed his answer to the writ of mandamus issued by Judge Gear on behalf of James H. Boyd who seeks to regain his office as Superintendent of Public Works. Geo. A. Davis is counsel for the respondent.

Cooper admits the appointment of Boyd but denies that he is now Superintendent of Public Works, and alleges that Boyd was suspended for sufficient cause by the Governor.

Then is set out the allegation that Boyd converted money to his own use belonging to the government, and also the charge of embezzlement made against him in the Police Court, and the further fact that an indictment has been preferred against him by the Attorney General. Cooper further denies that he conspired to keep Boyd out of office and says that he is in lawful possession of the Public Works office by reason of his appointment by the Governor, and he answers further that the official acts of the Governor ought not to be controlled by mandamus. The respondent further alleges that the restoration of James H. Boyd when charged with the embezzlement of public money would work public mischief and be in violation of the law of the land. Respondent denies that he has power to restore Boyd to office and says that even if the writ were issued he could not comply with the order.

The respondent further says he is acting by virtue of the orders of the Governor and the correspondence in connection with the Public Works office is made a part of the answer.

SPANISH BRUTALITY.

Madrid, Nov. 6.—Reports of brutality to prisoners rivaling the horrors of the ancient Inquisition come from Barcelona. In order to extract confessions from thieves and other criminals, it is alleged, the police have inaugurated a system of elaborate and cruel tortures. Many prisoners have died from the effects of the "examination." It is said that, after having beaten their victims into insensibility, the police throw them into dungeons, where they are starved. Helms and collars fitted inside with spikes and then gradually tightened on their heads and necks until they signify their willingness to confess. Sometimes prisoners drop dead with pain and loss of blood.

These revelations have produced a profound sensation throughout the country. Anti-dynastic parties are organizing indignation meetings in order to compel the Government to investigate the charges.

NAVAL ACADEMY HEAD.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 6.—Captain Willard H. Brownson, who arrived here last evening, was officially received as superintendent of the Naval Academy today. The officers and professors attached to the academy assembled in front of the reviewing stand and the battalion of midshipmen was paraded and presented to the new superintendent. Midshipman G. S. Radford, acting adjutant, then read the orders assigning Captain Brownson to the academy and the ceremony was perfected.

Captain Brownson walked to the administration building and the direction of the business of the academy was turned over to him by Commander C. E. Colahan, who has been acting as superintendent since the departure of Commander Wainwright.

ANTI-TRUST LAW SUSTAINED.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 6.—The Nebraska Supreme Court today gave a decision sustaining the constitutionality of the State anti-trust law, which had been attacked by the Nebraska Retail Lumber Dealers' Association as defendant in a suit for damages for covering a retail dealer out of the business. The law exempts laboring men. The Court holds the association to be unlawful, but dismisses the suit as to the association because it is not incorporated. The members of the association are held liable for damages.

Barrett's New Play.

London, Nov. 6. — Wilson Barrett produced a new play, "The Christian King," of which he is the author, at Bristol last night, with the greatest success. The play deals with the story of King Alfred and is cleverly constructed. It was well received by the London critics this morning. Barrett appeared in the title role.

Porto Rico Wants

HIGHER DUTY

For Its Coffee

New York, Oct. 20.—The principal feature of today's session of the International-American Coffee Commission, held at the Coffee Exchange, was the introduction by Senor de Assis Brasil of the first part of the report of the committee on the causes of the crisis.

This portion of the report dealt with the causes only, while Part II, which will be read at the next meeting, will treat of the remedy for these causes.

It seemed to be the unanimous opinion of the committee that the production was causing a supply far in excess of the demand under the present conditions.

The fact was brought forth that the high prices prevailing during the year 1898 were in a great measure responsible for the establishment of many new coffee plantations, which have brought about overproduction in comparison to the demand.

Needed Tariff Changes.
The members of this committee were also of the opinion that one of the most practical measures to increase the consumption of coffee will be the suppression, or, at least, a reasonable reduction of the duties imposed by European countries on the importation of coffee.

On this account the Porto Rican delegate has asked for protection for the insular industry, notwithstanding the fact that the United States admits coffee duty free.

In presenting his views on this subject, Senor Mariana, the Porto Rican delegate, said:

"To accept in an absolute manner the suggestion of the committee on the causes of the crisis, tending to suppress, or, at least, decrease, the customs duties levied on coffee in consumable form, would be very agreeable, if it were not against the wishes of the Porto Rican people."

"My duty is to protect their interests in this conference. Indeed, that island, beginning now in the United States, and thus forming part of its territory, and expected soon to be a member of the Union, will be more entitled to protection for its coffee."

Need of Caution.
"If, as a Porto Rican, and consequently as an American citizen, I were to ask that said duties be abolished, I would go against the laws, eminent protectionism of the United States, who would have ample reason for refusing the protection which the Porto Rican people desire for their coffee."

"Therefore, I request the honorable gentlemen composing the committee to modify the recommendation in the sense that they may simply reduce these duties so as not to restrict the liberty of the United States Government when it may try to protect our coffee as a national product."

Owing to the report being, as yet incomplete, action was necessarily deferred until the next meeting, which will be held on Wednesday at 11 o'clock a. m.

One of the reports, embracing many phases of the coffee industry, which was submitted at a previous session and rather severely criticised by the delegates as being of too sweeping a character to admit of prompt action, was that of Senor J. H. de Arango e Vasconcellos, from the Dominican Republic.

High Quality Advocated.
This report, which was rather exhaustive in its treatment of the subject, favored the production of the best quality of raw beans and the suppression of an overproduction of inferior qualities.

It also advocated the detection and punishment of fraud in every form, and the stern repression of misrepresentation both on the part of the wholesaler and retailer.

Reliable information regarding the quality of coffee he thought ought to be furnished the public.

In a set of resolutions he requested that Western planters having tested the capacity of their lands should keep them up to a scientific standard; that the seeds should be of the best; that proper attention should be given to the germination and nurturing of the seed; that a proper system of grading should be adopted; that pulp and shells should be utilized as fertilizers, and that yearly exhibits from the coffee growing territory ought to be made.

Taxation Considered.
Taxation on exports, imports and consumption was also one of Senor e Vasconcellos' arguments in favor of remedying the present situation in the coffee industry.

An Innovation In Financiering In the Territory

FINANCIAL ARTICLE NO. 2.

HISTORY AND PROFIT

Lack of space forbade the completion of the last article. No. 1. In this paper, and below is a little further history of the building and loan associations of Europe and the United States.

An error was made in saying that one of the co-operative banks in London only handled eighty-four millions of dollars in fifty-one years. It has handled over a billion and a quarter in that length of time.

All over Europe you will find the same installment system of saving money and paying off mortgages. They are called "People's Banks" in Germany, "Land Banks" in Austria, "Building Banks" in Belgium, "Building Societies" in England, "Banc Societies" in China and building and loan associations in the United States.

The greatest installment loan institution in the world (second only to the Bank of France) in assets is the Credit Foncier, France. The oldest society in the United States since the movement was crystallized into a stated payment per month system is the "Union" of West Philadelphia, organized in 1854. It has paid out about Five Million Dollars from its inception to the present time. It is still prosperous and in its fifty-seventh year in 1901 is paying out a net profit of 7 per cent per annum.

The 201 associations in Chicago in 1901 averaged 7 per cent, and the 345 outside of Chicago in 1901 averaged over 10-12 per cent. Chicago, like other large cities, has smaller interest rates on city property.

Dayton, Ohio, with a population of a little over 85,000, has per capita deposits in building and loan associations of an average of $107.74. Practically one-half of the population of Dayton carry building and loan association stock, and the largest association has two and a half millions in assets, and has paid out twenty-five million dollars in twenty-six years in maturities.

The dates of the following figures are some years back, and the comparison is not so good, as they would be now for the companies, but we give them for what they are worth:

In the United States there are 3,679 National Banks, with a paid up capital of six hundred and fifty million. The stock is owned and controlled by two hundred and eighty-eight thousand stockholders. There are, approximately, 6,000 building and loan associations in the United States, with a capital of seven hundred million, which are owned and controlled by two and one-half million stockholders.

This shows the popularity of the people's co-operative banks (1895-6 Govt. Rep.).

There are over eight million pass book holders in the United States, and "now you talk about your hard times."

A building society in London runs a bank that pays 2 per cent on deposit. Two per cent on call money is a fair rate of interest for England. It is not a "poor man's bank, but any body's bank," says a North Dakota man.

There are no class distinctions when it comes to dollars and dimes savings in the building and loan association.

We will add that this is the only Inter-State Building & Loan Association operating in the islands. However, there is one local company confining its business to Honolulu, and there are a few scattered shares of stock in fourteen different companies in these islands.

We call particular and special attention to the following features of the Phoenix Savings, Building & Loan Association:

Guarantees against loss. Guarantees a certain number of payments to accomplish a certain result. Guarantees maturity. Under control of State authorities of California.

Stock non-assessable, non-taxable; no liability to stockholders. Our class A stock (60c payments, limited to $100) will be off the market soon. Do not delay.

Robert Slaughter, General Agent, Hawaiian Department Judd Building.

WHY

do we talk so much of the excellent securities upon which our loans are made? This is a question we are very glad to answer. There is not a man, no matter what his station, condition, nationality or position, who has not felt at some time in his life that little feeling which makes his "heart come up in his throat, or like the proverbial soldier's, go down into the toe of his boot," when he has thought of home at different times in his career. This is called home-sickness.

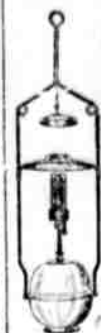

The home is the safeguard of the nation, the citadel of man; childhood's happy dreams and first ideas of life are formed there. It is the woman's supreme kingdom over which she is queen. It is the harbinger of happiness and the making of better men and women, especially when it is owned by them.

In the United States only one-fourth of the entire population own their homes, but a great portion of the other three-fourths are making giant strides toward that end since the inception and particularly since the popular movement in the last ten years among the building association or co-operative people's banks.

Home makes the man a better citizen and a better father, provides the boy and girl with good surroundings, and the wife is happier if she knows the home is or will some day be hers. If we look back to the stubborn fights in the various wars of the past, we will find that at stake was home and family and the cause of right (of course, both parties are sure of that); but we will find from the birth of the world down to today that the most stubborn battles have been fought from one standpoint, protection of home.

Don't you think, dear reader, that a man would fight just as hard to keep his home from being sold over his head? It is a different battle from the other and only needs a little care, for ninety-nine out of a hundred to have a little competency or a home, by using the methods offered through the popular building and loan associations, or co-operative people's banks.

Now you can see that this is the first essence of our security. Another: the fact that as each month goes by and a man finds himself nearer the ownership of his home, it gives him sufficient interest in his property to keep up until he is through.

You, in placing your money with the Phoenix (while we will say frankly that we are not operating for philanthropy) are placing a means for some one, if not yourself, to get a home. Aside from that, do you not consider that if you would place, say, $12 per month and knew that that $12 paid was loaned on first mortgage improved city real estate worth $24 (in several hundred different localities) on some man's home, and that same man was paying back an average of about 1-80 or 1-90 of your $12 with interest upon the same (which would be immediately loaned to some one else and repaid by them under the same conditions) would you not consider your money was safer than if placed upon some speculative proposition, or where it was not earning you anything, or possibly has never been placed at all from the fact that you never saved anything.

Below are matters for your reflection:

WHAT IS HOME?

1. Home—A world of strife shut out; a world of love shut in.

2. Home—The place where the great are small and the small are great.

3. Home—The father's kingdom, the child's paradise and the mother's world.

4. Home—The place where we grumble the most and are treated the best.

5. Home—The center of affection, around which our heart's best wishes twine.

6. Home—A place where our stomachs get three square meals daily, and our hearts a thousand.

7. Home—The only place on earth where the faults and failings of humanity are hidden under the sweet mantle of charity.

We do not wish to tire you on this subject but, your money if placed with us goes on people's homes and this company is managed by the men below, they also have set aside a permanent capital and guarantee you against loss of their own money.

NEWS NOTES OF WAIHEA

Waiheia, Kauai.—The evening of Sept. 20 was the time set for the reception of Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin, who have recently returned from Iowa, for which place Mr. Baldwin started to find his bride. The Makaweli hall was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and greens of all varieties, together with flags of all descriptions. The string band from Waiheia played upon the stage behind a cluster of tropical vegetation. Misses Danford, Harwood and Elston deserve much credit for their work and artistic decorations of the evening.

Mrs. C. B. Hofgaard gave a most enjoyable tea on Tuesday afternoon, September 24 in honor of Mrs. and Miss Faye, Lady Heron, just returned from Europe, and Mrs. Miller, who was to leave Elele. There were thirty-six ladies present out of forty invitations issued. A delightful afternoon was spent by all present.

It is with much regret that we learn of Mr. Arendt's, of Hofgaard & Co. leaving for the Coast. He has held the position of manager of said firm for a brief period but has in that time proven himself to be a man of much business ability. The citizens of Waiheia were loathe to see him leave, but business called him and he had to answer the call.

The many friends of J. H. Arendt will be glad to see the following announcement:

BORN.
ARENDT—At Pleasanton, Cal., Oct. 1902, to the wife of J. H. Arendt, a son. Both wife and child doing well. C. B. Hofgaard & Co., Ltd., have bought out the store formerly known as the Metropolitan Co., Ltd., Waiheia, Kauai, and are now conducting the business under the name of the Papehaka store.

It is with pleasure that we welcome back Mr. and Mrs. Faye with children, Miss E. Faye and Miss Landsay, who have been for the past eighteen months touring through Europe and the States. They are all looking very well, the children being the picture of health.—The Garden Isle.

YACHT MARION'S CREW WEATHERED THE GALE

Considerable anxiety was caused by the supposed unreasonable long absence of Kenneth Brown, Kenneth Atkinson, Ned Crabbe and one other young man, who had gone out sailing in J. F. Brown's yacht Marion. The young men were supposed to have left the harbor at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon for the Peninsula. Owing to the rough weather which prevailed at the time some anxiety was felt for the safety of the young men and early yesterday morning their relatives telephoned to Pearl Harbor to find out if the yacht had arrived safely. They were told, however, that the natives in the vicinity had seen nothing whatever of the boat and this of course made the boys' relatives fear that the gale had caused some disaster for the small craft. Arrangements were being made for chartering a tug to look for the yacht when a message was received from the Peninsula that the Marion had arrived safely the night before.

Owing to the fact that a late start was made from this city the Marion did not arrive at Pearl Harbor before 10 o'clock Saturday night. The lateness of the hour explains that the natives had not seen the boat when she entered the lochs and its presence was not discovered until the following day. The Marion came out of the rough weather in good shape with the exception that her rudder was damaged. The young sailors left the Marion at Pearl Harbor and returned to Honolulu by train yesterday afternoon.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN SORRY

Considerable amusement was caused in the Police Court this morning when the name of Abraham Lincoln was called and a small, woolly headed negro boy stepped up before the judge. The namesake of the great statesman was in trouble for having violated the curfew law, he being found on the street at 3 o'clock this morning. Abraham was tearful and penitent and when Judge Wilcox told him that little boys, who went out on the street at night instead of sleeping, never grew any bigger, he readily promised not to violate the law again, whereupon he was discharged.
