REVOLUTIONARY GATHERINGS.

It is given out that the Royalists will hold a meeting on Emma Square Monday night to protest against the proposed new treaty with the United States. The real purpose of those who have the matter in charge is understood to be to embarrass the Government in its coming negotiation by giving the American people to understand that the "Hawaiian nation," whatever that may be, is opposed to the measure and is not represented in its terms. We may expect at this symposium unlimited abuse of the Provisional Government, and the usual incendiary appeals to the deluded natives to stand out for autonomy—"anatomy" most of them call it—and to hide the good time coming when the royal ensign will once more float on the towers of Iolani.

If it should be given out in republican Paris that the Bourbon party would gather on the Bois de Boulogne to proclaim, in the name of the people of France, that the Government is not representative, the leaders of the movement would be jailed in two hours and the rank and file, on their way to the rendezvous, would run into a cordon of gendarmes.

If a call should be issued in republican Chicago by one of the revolutionary leagues of that city for a rally in the Haymarket, at which some voluble successor of Spies and Parsons would arraign the powers that be, the district police would be instructed to arrest the whole outfit and bring it before a magistrate, under the laws which forbid a disturbance of the peace.

If some Fenian Head Center should emerge from his retirement and call upon the people who favor home rule to gather before Dublin Castle and air their complaints, the British constabulary would swoop down on the crowd with uplifted sticks and the Fenian movement, taking to its legs, would soon reach a vanishing point.

If some misguided Russian should stand on a hydrant in the Nevski Prospect and so much as say that he could not conscientiously agree with the idea that the Czar is the flower of Democratic civility and the patron of civil rights, he would not fail of the gibbet or the Siberian mine.

All governments on earth except the patient and long suffering Provisional Government of Hawaii believe in keeping revolutionary elements under strict subjection and giving them no chance to get into touch with each other through public gatherings or private cabals. On these islands conspiracies go their way unchecked and unchallenged. The excuse is that there is no danger in them and perhaps in a narrow sense this is true; but it remains a fact that every unhindered parade of Royalists and every uncensored expression of Royalist sentiment leads some correspondent of the American papers to plausibly declare that the ex-Queen's cause is gaining ground and that the Provisional regime is too weak to deal with those who are aiming daggers at its life—whereupon our friends in the United States grow despondent and relax their energies and American statesmanship comes to believe that the revolution by virtue of which the title to the control of the Islands would have to be conveyed, is only a feeble makeshift which the "Hawaiian nation" may at any time abolish.

If the meeting on Monday night should be prohibited and the prohibition enforced, this talk in America about a coming restoration and the weakness of the Annexation cause on its own ground would never be heard of more. On the contrary, the world would begin to look upon the powers that be in Hawaii as stable, dominant and safe.

The secrecy with which the sponsors of the Patriotic League guard the names on their alleged roll is explained by the complaints which natives are forever making about having been led to put their signatures to the paper by a false description of its objects. Even forgery is charged and the allegation appears to be well supported. Besides all this the roll contains the names of women, children and dead people. Under such circumstances it is no wonder that the spurious showing is kept from the public eye, along with the new constitution and other black-and-white evidences of Monarchist humbug and depravity.

SAM PARKER's organ wants the public to believe that he has generously given 1000 acres of that "desolate" Puna point tract to the Government for homestead allotment. It is added, furthermore, that he has been considering "for years" the advisability of cutting up several of his "large lands" for the benefit of settlers. Really it is to be hoped that none of Sam's horned cattle will hear of all this or they might belittle till their tails dropped off.

AND now a Royalist paper has reduced the membership of the Annexation club to 150. At this rate of Provisional decrease the 85,000 people who are claimed for the ex Queen ought to muster up the courage to wipe the club out and resume the Government. Or will the heroes of the holy cause wait until the club vanishes altogether?

ANOTHER promised "Restoration day" has come and gone and the discarded sovereign still gnaws a file at Washington Place. What do the natives think of the leaders who are always pledging administrative changes and when the time comes can't be found with a search warrant?

SOME correspondence on the Spreckels interview has been received at this office and will get proper notice when Mr. Spreckels returns from his visit to one of the other islands.

THE indictment drawn by Mr. Stevens against the ex-Queen stands. No one tries to deny it, Royalist papers being content to abuse the witness.

Repairs Delayed.

Road repairs on Judd street, near the bridge, have been at a standstill for the past two weeks, creating inconvenience to the public from the fact of the rough stone road bed being left without a sand dressing. Road Supervisor, please take notice!

A HEALTH INSPECTION IN CHINATOWN.

Cholera's Breeding Grounds and Fever's Spawning-Beds—Vile Sights and Smells Abound.

This morning a STAR reporter accompanied Health Officer McVeigh on his daily trip through Chinatown.

The Board of Health has been insisting on the observance of sanitary regulations as laid down in the Code, and of late, has been making raids on Chinese who were not obeying them.

"Now the first place I will take you to is the public washhouse," said the officer. "Here is the worst cholera breeder there is in this city. Look through the cracks in this floor." The reporter looked through and saw a mass of green mud which the tide could not wash away.

"We are expecting to get a new washhouse soon," said the officer, "but as it is now we are doing the best we can. The Board is looking for ways and means to erect a structure near the new market at the foot of Alakea street. But the way affairs are now only about half the laundrymen use this place as we have no room for any more."

The stench that arises from under and around this washhouse is something terrible and the waters of the Nuuanu stream seem to have no effect upon the mass of slops that falls through the floor cracks into it.

The next place visited was Lele Lane, just off King street, near the washhouse. Although the Health officer visits these pest holes every day, it is almost impossible to get the Chinese, Japs and natives who live in them to recognize in the least any necessity for cleanliness. Over sixty eight new cesspools have been built in the last few months and hundreds of ventilator pipes erected where there were none before, but it doesn't half fill the bill. Decayed poi, the sewage from out-houses and the slops thrown out by inmates have made the places underneath some of these tenements simply unbearable. These places are chiefly owned by Akana, a Chinaman.

The next place visited was the notorious "Bay View" resort. This property, until lately overhauled by the health officers, was in a disgusting state. It is under lease to a Chinese procurer named Sam Kow. Kekaulike street is another offshoot from King street and is environed by some of the broken-down Chinese tenements, the yards of which smell to heaven. The microbes and bacteria could be caught floating around in the air, while the effluvia was loathsome. These tenements are owned by Low Chung, of the Wing Wo Tai Co.

Coming through on Maunakea street the eye, as well as the nose, is assailed by the most loathsome sights and smells. The wash houses and vegetable shops are rivals as to which can emit the foulest odors. This property is owned by J. P. Colburn.

When the officer went into a tenement the other day in this locality, he ran across a trap and opened it and found a cesspool. Lighting a match he threw it into the pool when an explosion took place and blue flames mounted to the roof. There are some exceptions to the rule of poor buildings in this place for E. S. Cunha is putting up on Maunakea street a one story brick block, with plenty of drains and cesspools, and he thinks it will pay better than the old ramshackle buildings that are around him.

Kikihale district was next taken in by the officer. This is the resort of the worst of Honolulu's submerged classes. Depraved native women without pretention of moral or physical cleanliness are lying about in one-story white-washed tenements, disputing possession with the many curs that flock around them. The out-houses are in the customary Cape Horn condition and the officer warns the occupants to use "more liue," which he forces them to have continually on hand. Ching Wa of the Sing Chung Co. is the principal owner of tenements in this district.

On the corner of Smith and Pauahi streets there are a lot of dives that have got to be watched continually by the officer. They are owned by Ho Sam, a wealthy rice planter at Ewa, and A. Aio, a Chinese merchant.

The officer was now approaching the sacred precincts of Kaumakapili Church, and quite within its shadow, descending a few steps near Nuuanu stream, off Beretania street, he presented to the reporter an opium den in full blast.

Officer McVeigh had evidently intended this as his last scene. Here were fully thirty Chinamen and natives sucking away at the demon pipe right in the shadow of Kaumakapili! Near this place, seated on the ground, was an emaciated Chinaman in the last stages of berri berri, swollen beyond recognition.

This ended the journey for this day. The STAR reporter had seen quite enough, and was satisfied.

Trusts and Combinations
Are unpopular. But there is one form of trust against which no one has anything to say. That is the trust which the police reposes in Hood's Sarasparilla, and the best of it is the fact that it is fully justified by the merit of the medicine. For, remember, HOOD'S Sarasparilla CURES.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or gripe. Sold by all druggists.

THE CIRCUIT COURT.

The Last Day Ends in the May Term—Two Divorces Granted.

To-day was the last day in Judge Cooper's Court for the May term. The first thing attended to was a divorce granted to Joaquin M. Sozo from Beke M. Makalena for desertion. Kalua (w) was given a divorce from Ahana, a Chinaman for extreme cruelty and failure to support.

Just before final adjournment for the term the Court announced that all cases now pending on the calendar will be continued until next term, and also announced the following rule:

That all cases that shall have been on the trial calendar for two terms without being heard may be stricken off by order of the court and will not be reinstated except upon motion; and all cases that shall have been upon the docket for more than one year will be dismissed for want of prosecution unless good cause is shown.

The entire calendar was called by the court, but some cases were not reached owing to the fact of the litigants not being ready.

Auction Sales To-day.

There was an auction sale of stocks and land to-day at the following prices: Fifteen shares of Inter-Island Steam Navigation stock, of the par value of $100, brought $133.

Fourteen shares Wilder Steamship Company's stock, of the par value of $100, brought $110.

Eighteen shares People's Ice and Refrigerator Company's stock, of the par value of $100, brought $96.

Two shares in Hui land at Kaanapali, Maui, brought $60 per share from H. P. Baldwin.

One share in Mailepai Hui land, Maui, sold to H. P. Baldwin for $20.

A parcel of land on King street, in Lele, of 197 ft. 6 in., subject to a small mortgage, sold to H. Vierra for $100.

For Tourist Accommodation.

Mrs. Anna M. Paris has taken the house formerly owned by Mrs. Helen Alexander, Halekale, and will, about the 1st of July, be able to accommodate tourists at reasonable terms. Transportation from Paia will be made easy.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Stanley, formerly of this paper, has gone to Tacoma.

C. L. Wight of Mahukona, Hawaii, arrived on the Kinoh.

T. Krouse expects to be in his new quarters within a few days.

M. S. Grinbaum will return to the Coast on the next steamer.

Paul Neuman is looked for by an early steamer from the Coast.

Minister Porter will visit the Coast soon after June 1st, to be gone sixty days.

Consul-General Girvin at San Diego is reported to be an ardent Annexationist.

H. J. Rhodes is the probable successor of Mr. Wiling as Government gardener.

Mrs. F. M. Hatch is said to be recovering, at last accounts, from her severe illness.

Mr. Manning of H. B. M. S. Hyacinthe will sing "As Pants the Hart," at the Anglican Cathedral to-morrow evening.

Frank L. Hoogs and Superintendent of Water Works Andrew Brown returned from Hawaii on the Kinoh this morning.

Minister Blount is understood to have applied for his permanent recall, and it is not unlikely that the name of his successor here will soon be known.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. J. Philip Smith of Santa Cruz expect that, on their arrival here from Japan on the China, they will make another stay in Honolulu.

BY MISREPRESENTATION.

How Names Were Secured for the Kauai Royalist List.

KAPAA, May 25th, 1893.

EDITOR STAR:—Having seen in the columns of the Bulletin that Mrs. Kaee has got my name on the "Memorial" presented to Commissioner Blount as one of the Royalist committees from the Island of Kauai, I herewith protest against such publication and state that she has done me a great wrong in getting my name on a paper the nature of which was misrepresented to me. Mrs. Kaee called at our house and assured me she was one of the committees of the "Hui Aloha Aina," and stated her errand to me. She positively told me she was not working against annexation, but was trying to procure civil rights and protection for our husbands and sons, and not have them driven to the mountains like a lot of wild Indians if annexation was to take place, as it had been rumored so by the Royalists. For this reason only I signed her list without any heading to it whatever. Had she shown me the Memorial, which now has my name attached, I would never have consented to sign, as I can plainly see it is against annexation, which is against both my wishes and also my husband's. We are both Annexationists. I would further state that there was no organization formed nor a meeting called to form a club for the purpose of electing its officers. If you will kindly publish this in your columns you will confer a great favor on me by so doing. In the meantime I have written Mrs. Kaee and told her what I thought of her, also urging her to have my name erased from that memorial immediately, or I would write to Commissioner Blount about it. Yours very truly,

HARRIET MUNDON.

STILL ANOTHER.

WAIKAE, May 24, 1893.

EDITOR STAR:—I wish to state in your columns that any person who has accused me of signing an Aloha Aina petition is a liar.

The party who wrote to Mr. Austin, of Hilo, with the intention of doing me an injury belongs to that class of curs who snap at the hand that feeds them. If my name is on any Aloha Aina petition it is a contemptible forgery, as I have never seen or signed any such paper. WILMOT VREDENBURG, Principal of the Waimea English School.

N. C. Austin, Tax Collector and Assessor for Hawaii, writes:

"I would like to see the list of the 'Hui Hawaii Aloha Aina,' as I have no doubt it contains forgeries. For instance, I received word the other day that W. Vredenburg, my deputy in Waimea, had signed the roll of that Hui, but when questioned by telephone he denied the charge, saying that he had not even seen the list, and would not sign under any circumstances. I believe him. He is on the warpath now and may be able to nail the lie or tree the forgery if any has been committed. * * * Annexation is gaining ground every day with the Hawaiians, and delay will only make the sentiment more unanimous. I think as the Royalists are being found out, the Hawaiians will naturally look to the other side for information and ideas."

AN ANCIENT EGYPTIAN SHRINE.

The British Museum has been enriched by a remarkable gray granite shrine from the island of Philae, south of the first cataract in Upper Egypt, presented by the Egyptian Government. This relic was originally in the Great Temple there, visited by Strabo, who says that he saw on a shrine a bird which the priest called a hawk, but, he adds, it was larger than and different from the native hawk, and had a distinguishing plumage. The bird, too, was sick and nearly dead. There is no absolute proof as yet that this was the very shrine, but it is highly probable, and the holes sunk in the sides of the open part would have served for an iron or bronze bar grating such as would have been used for the cage of a large hawk or eagle. The worship of Egyptian gods continued at Philae until 450 A.D., or about 70 years after the edict of Theodosius, when he attempted to abolish the old gods of the country. About that time this shrine was thrown down, and afterwards dragged away by the Copts; and, turned on its side, was made to form the base of the altar in the succeeding Coptic Church. The second shrine of the old religion was thus embedded in the chief feature of the Christian Church which followed. It is interesting to remember that the date of Strabo was about the beginning of the present era. The shrine is about 10 feet or 11 feet high, and weighs some six or seven tons. It is an exceedingly valuable relic, as there is nothing like it in the British Museum collections. The color of the stone would seem to indicate that it had been specially brought from some distance, as the local granite, and, indeed, all that rock in the Assouan district, is red. It is remarkable, too, that the hieroglyphs are in relief, and not sunk, as is usual. The Ptolemies were the great builders in the Philae Islands, especially the second, fifth and seventh of those kings; and the temple may, therefore, be of some date between 300 and 250 B.C.

Mrs. Cleveland's Carriage.

Early last February Mrs. Cleveland gave an order in New York for a private carriage. "I want," said she, "not a state carriage exactly, yet one to use on all important occasions. It must be a landau, so that it can be used in wet or sunny weather, roomy and comfortable, and elegant in design, while not gaudy nor pretentious."

The literal embodiment of these instructions is constructed on beautiful lines. The body is hung higher than is customary, and is very roomy. The color is dark olive green, with black moldings, which have a hair-line of apple-green to brighten the dark colors. The gear and wheels are black, the spokes on the latter having broad bands of apple-green. This tint appears again in faint lines on the spring brackets and on the carved spring bar. On the doors and back is the monogram "G. C." in plain lettering, also in apple-green. The lamps are circular and deep, and on each are four bands of silver, but no filigree work. The door-handles are embossed silver, and the door pulls ebonized. The top is of black enameled leather, especially tanned to withstand daily exposure. The top opens readily, converting the vehicle into an open carriage for pleasant days. A silver thumb-screw on the body ceiling holds the tops together, and the change is made by a single touch.

Dark-green Turkish morocco is used in the upholstery, faced with apple-green silk and bordered with brocaded lace of the same shade. The window sashes and ceiling are of dark green cloth. The price was $1800.

Is the Sea Serpent a Reality?

The great sea serpent has hitherto been regarded by most people as a myth, but it may be assumed that its authenticity is now placed beyond any doubt by the treatise on the creature just written by Dr. A. C. Oudemans, director of the Zoological Gardens at The Hague. The Professor declares that the animal is no sea serpent at all, but belongs to the unclassified species of genus Pinniped. The length of the monster in adult specimens he reckons at 250 feet, dimensions far in excess of anything attained by the saurians of the pre-Adamite period. Dr. Oudemans has arrived at his very exhaustive conclusions regarding the form, habits, mode of life, disposition and geographical distribution of the sea serpent from an historical and critical examination of all the notices of the appearances of the animal upon which he can lay hands. He seeks to show that the monster is represented by only a few individuals, the race being in process of becoming extinct. The great Pinniped, the Doctor says, is harmless and timid, and it frequents the warm ocean currents of the Atlantic, making only erratic journeys to other seas. Its rate of speed, from the extraordinary vertical undulations of its huge body, is far beyond that of our fastest steamships, so that in a stern chase it could never be overtaken.

Wonderful Sense of Smell in Dogs.

It has often been proven that dogs are able to track their masters through crowded streets where it would be impossible to attribute their accuracy to anything except the sense of smell alone. Mr. Romanes, the naturalist, once made some interesting experiments as to this wonderful power, as exhibited in his own dog. In these tests, which were elaborate enough to deserve a longer and better description than can be given in a single "Curious Note," the naturalist found that his dumb friend could easily follow in the tracks of his master, though he was far out of sight and that, too, after no less than eleven persons had followed, stepping exactly in the tracks made by Mr. Romanes, it being the deliberate intention to confuse the senses of the poor dog if possible. Further experiments proved that the animal tracked the boots instead of the man, for when Mr. Romanes put on a new footgear the dog failed entirely.

M. McINERNY.

Are we to be, or not to be, a part of the Great Republic, seems to be the burning question of the day, and one we had rather leave to wiser heads than ours to solve; and while great statesmen are wrestling with this momentous question, we want to have a little "paw-paw" with you on some other subjects, that concern you as well as ourselves.

Has it not occurred to you that you've been wearing that old hat long enough! In these progressive times if you intend to be "in it," you've got to keep pace with fashion. No matter how otherwise well dressed you may be, unless your hat is the correct thing you bear a shabby appearance.

We have already laid in a stock of the Latest Hats of the coming Spring and Summer styles, in hard felts, soft felts and straws, and including a line of the celebrated "Fidora" Hats, at present all the rage in the United States. There is therefore, no necessity for you to hang on any longer to that old Tile that bears such a strong resemblance to the hat "your father wore."

Believing that business will be better in the near future, we have not hesitated to keep our stock full in all lines. Take collars for instance: We have almost everything you could wish for. If you wear a standing collar, just come in and take a look at our "Narenta" or "Ardonia;" or if you prefer a turn down collar, try the "Winnipeg" or "Goswell;" we have have lots of others, and can't fail to suit you. Cuffs in abundance, links or otherwise.

Neckwear in profusion, scarfs windsors 4-in-hands, and a special lot of "Boys' Bows;" suspenders in great variety, leather and woven ends, good strong, serviceable goods.

We might go on indefinitely, but space is valuable, and to enumerate everything we carry would fill a pretty fair sized Book. If there is anything you want in the men's line, just drop in and see us, and if we can't suit you, we don't believe any one can.

If you should want a pair of nice shoes, let us try a hand at fitting you. Did it ever occur to you

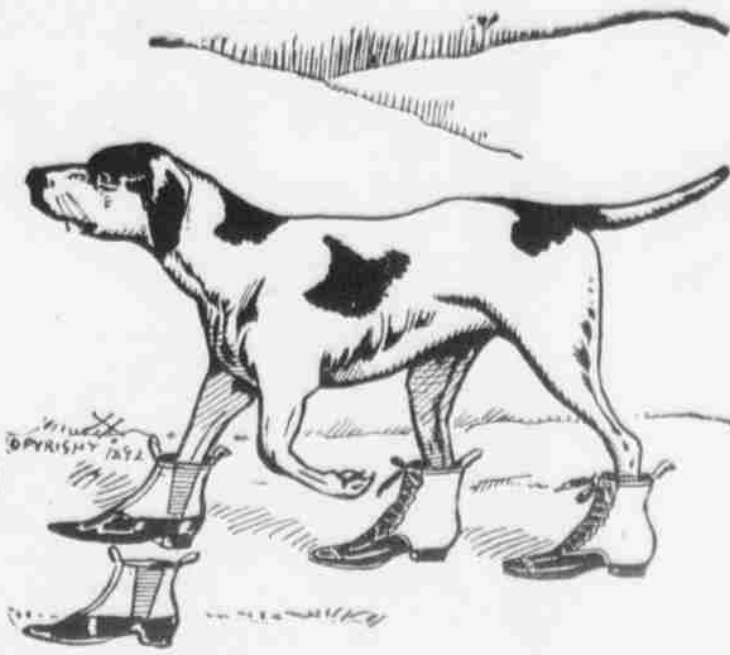

How much a man is like his shoes; For instance, both a soul may lose. Both have been tanned; Both are made tight by Cobblers; Both get left and right; Both need a mate to be complete; And both are made to go on feet.

They both need healing; oft are sold, And both in time will turn to mould. With shoes the last is first; with men The first shall be the last; and when The shoes wear out, they're mended new; When men wear out, they're men dead too.

They both are trod upon, and both Will tread on others nothing loth. Both have their ties, and both incline When polished, in the world to shine; And both peg out. Now would you choose To be a man, or be his shoes.

Willie's Experience on the Stage.

Willie Van Wyck, formerly a Journalist, decided to go on the stage a few weeks ago. One day Business Manager McDonough discovered in Van Wyck just the talents he had been searching for. Until there was a favorable opening on the stage the young man was to act as the business manager's secretary, with privileges to use the stage mornings. A week later, Van Wyck abruptly ceased his dramatic instructions.

"I don't think I was treated quite right," he explained. "I came here to be prepared for the stage, and my training did not agree with me. I didn't mind posting lithographs, writing bright paragraphs for the press, getting the managers old-fashioned silk hat pressed, showing ladies to the boxes, sweeping out the office, bringing the stage-manger chewing tobacco, sitting in a chair for the strong fakir to hoist me with his teeth, washing bottles in the bar or working the growler for the soufrettes, but when it came to shoveling coal in the boiler all night, then I quit. I wouldn't have cared so much for the work, but the way Mr. McDonough tried to jolly me was insultingly original.

"I came here to act," I pleaded, "and not to shovel coal." McDonough had the nerve to look me squarely in the eye and say:

"I'm a little disappointed in you, my boy. You are an ingrate. You are learning the rudiments of a noble profession at the expense of my experience and patience. I simply have you toss a little coal in the boiler now and then so you will appear natural should you ever be cast in the part of fireman."

And they have not seen him since.—Evening Sun.

The foreign vote of Chicago is steadily increasing. A year ago it was 49.4 of the total vote of the city, and in the election just held there is little doubt that it exceeded one-half of the whole number. When a Chicago voter is registered he has to state his birthplace. If he does not tell the truth it is because he claims to be American when he was really foreign born. Hence the data furnished by these queries do not make the number of foreign-born voters larger than it actually is. A comparison of tables published in 1888 and 1892 show that in four years the native born voters have fallen off three and one-half per cent. The Germans have held their own. The Irish have lost, but they still have their grip on the offices. Most of the other nationalities have gained slightly, the most noticeable being Austria, Sweden and Bohemia. The increase of the foreign element in Chicago is shown clearly by the federal census. In 1880 31 per cent of the total population was born outside of the United States. Ten years later the percentage had risen to 41.9. It appears, also, that of 650,000 persons born in this country living in Chicago in 1890, 412,000 were the children of foreign-born parents.

The highest point attained by a railroad in the United States is in the Rocky mountains, 9,027 feet above the sea. Trains on the Callao Oroya line in Peru are now ascending to a height as far above this great elevation as the total height of Mount Washington. In other words, when a train on the Oroya line enters the the Galera tunnel to cross from the western to the eastern slope of the Cordilleras, it is more than a mile higher above the sea than the loftiest bit of railroad track in this country. At present the Galera tunnel is the highest elevation attained by any railroad in the world. It was on September 28th last that the first train from Callao passed through the tunnel to the eastern side of the mountains. Twenty years elapsed after the line was started at the sea before the Cordilleras were conquered; and trains have scarcely a foot of level grade for 106 miles until they pull into the Galera tunnel, 15,638 feet above the sea, and emerge upon the eastern face of the Andes. This tunnel was driven through the rock a distance of 3,855 feet. The melting snow that crowns the mountain summit above it filters through to the excavation. Two channels are cut in the rock to carry the water out of the tunnel. One of them leads to the head stream of the Amazon tributary and the Atlantic; the other to the Rimac River and the Pacific.

MATTERS AND THINGS ON THE BIG ISLAND

The Need of Rain—An Anti-Government Petition—Sugar Men—Road Building, Etc.

Hilo, May 25.—The blinding clouds of dust rolled up these days by a ride through the District of Hamakua indicate that the astonishing spell of dry weather which has held fast for so long a time bids fair to last still longer; and unless rain, and quantities of it, comes before long to gladden the hearts of the planters, it is possible that the crop of 1894 may prove as great a fiasco as the one now nearly harvested. And they have good grounds of alarm, as the following figures will show:

Estimate 1893.	Yield 1893.	Loss.
Kukuihaele.....	4500	2800
Honokaa.....	3500	2300
Paahau.....	3100	2100
Paauilo.....	3800	2000
Totals.....	16,900	10,000

There is now a considerable acreage ready for the planting of seed, but the dry weather prevailing makes planting a dangerous experiment.

The correlation between forests and rainfall is about to find discussion at a council of planters who will assemble for that purpose on the arrival of Mr. W. G. Irwin from Honolulu. It is proposed to devise efficacious means for arresting the gradual denudation and destruction of the forests. That the connection between rainfall and existence or non-existence of forests is an intimate one all are prepared to admit. It is further contended by some that the gradual absorption of the timbers on the homesteads through Hamakua has brought this result, or at least is an inducing factor to the condition, but this argument must appear a ridiculous one when one considers the almost infinitesimal amount of land occupied for such purposes. The rationale lies more in the destructive action of wild cattle and other stock roaming at will through the woods, beating down the undergrowth, and afterward barking the young Koa and other saplings. Then again, they stamp out the moss lying on the ground, which acts both as a sponge and blanket to the soil below, and from which, if left undisturbed, little streams of water, which finally unite to form the larger branches, constantly exude.

The forests between Waimea and Kohala and from the former place to Kukuihaele have all but disappeared, but it is a remarkable and suggestive fact that where tracts of land have been enclosed by substantial fencing strong enough to keep out the cattle, the young shrubbery and trees spring up with a spontaneity that rapidly covers the old decayed timber from view. This fact is beautifully exemplified below the fence line constructed by the Kukuihaele people. The proper remedy therefore would appear to be the construction of a strong fence, extending from East Hamakua to, and enclosing the Kohala mountains. This would prevent the ingress of wild cattle who now as they are harassed, retire deeper and deeper into the forests above the cloud line, with corresponding damage to the remainder.

The mention of S. Kohala calls to mind the fact that now the Road Board of that district is minus its Road Supervisor. As this gentleman was receiving the munificent salary of one dollar per day, which, however, proved insufficient to supply him with bronze dogs, ivory clocks, Haviland ware and other appointments necessary to his cultivated taste, he concluded to skip. Thus the parsimonious policy of this Road Board is in direct contradiction to our own Hilo symposium who appreciate their supervisor to the tune of $80 per month, aggregating about 12 1/2% of the Road Tax funds.

Discussions as to the relative merits of the Rose Bamboo variety vs. Lahaina cane are now the order of the day between planters. They enunciate in favor of the former that the cane is more thrifty and hardy, that it will pan out better on the shallow soils of the higher benches than the Lahaina variety, and that whereas ratooning of the latter has been more or less satisfactory of late years, the ratooning yield from Rose Bamboo is very prolific; and, furthermore, that it contains a greater volume of juice. A number of plantations have just purchased Rose Bamboo wherever available, so that in the near future we may see the Lahaina entirely displaced by its new rival.

While the talk among sugar men is on this and kindred matters, the subject of annexation is the all-absorbing topic throughout the length and breadth of this island, and if, as is reported, Von Boss has sent circular instructions to oppose, or at least take no active stand on the matter, such assumption of power is ridiculously comical, considering the lilliputian second fiddle which any Von Boss or his retainers can exert on this question. In a trip just concluded through the four important districts of the island it has been my good fortune to meet a number of prominent Hawaiians, whose opinions and remarks reveal a state of sentiment over which Annexationists have no cause to feel discouraged.

There are, as all know who have studied the Hawaiians, two distinct classes, between whom the line of demarcation is sharply drawn. The one is represented by the men who never think for themselves, and who in all matters of political moment have been under the domination and control of certain political leaders. It is composed of the majority of middle-aged Hawaiians, the most indolent, good natured, inoffensive people on the face of the earth, who care not for the morrow and have long since forgotten yesterday; who as long as they have something to eat are happy, who put rice into their coffee and tea and who revel in the possession of gaudy nightgowns of gorgeous design. Usually he is penniless, but he reads the Holomua and Ka Leo o Ka Lahui religiously and imbibes his notions of government and its personnel by the fallacious arguments and misleading articles often found in the columns of those papers. Such is the makeup of one element, who, whatever may be said to the contrary, have a strong feeling of aloha for their country, are ready at any time to embrace the genius of the American idea, and are only restrained from listening favorably to our proposals by the bug-bear of being forced to the wall, which their leaders are ceaselessly instilling into their minds.

Then again, there is the class of influential educated Hawaiians, among whom can be found the equals, and in not a few instances the intellectual superiors over their white brethren. Some among them are prominent as Government officials, their whole past record in respect to labor performed honestly and faithfully, is as creditable as that of any other nationality; but who questions the sincerity of purpose of a wing of the party, and who fears that the pressure of unscrupulous office-seekers may lose them their positions? None appreciate better than they the causes that led to the final overthrow of the monarchy, and to a man almost they look forward to the regeneration of their countrymen under a happier destiny; but what work they can do in that direction, to be accomplished successfully, must be done discreetly and judiciously. They owe all they possess to-day, their emoluments and social position to the old order of things. Would they benefit the cause among Hawaiians by open advocacy on the house tops?

The delay in a successful issue thus far need dishearten no one. It gives us time to placate the Hawaiian and make him feel that "he is in it." But it is poor politics that holds him at arm's length one moment and then expects him to come back into the deal the next. What the Hawaiian asks for to-day is not, constitutions of the United States; history of the Revolution of January, 1893, and what somebody then said, or wrote, though all are very good in their way, but a clear, explicit, unmistakable and unequivocal statement by the Government as a Government in respect to its attitude towards the Hawaiian and what it demands for or from the Hawaiian.

Typewritten English copies of a petition to the Government are being circulated secretly through the several districts. They must have been sent up from Honolulu. The petition states that: "We the undersigned, duly qualified electors of representatives," and then goes on to state that whereas a small number in the country are anxious to bring about annexation, without consulting the wishes of the remainder, an election be held no later than June 23, 1893, to ascertain the wishes of the people. One ballot box for Hawaiian voters, one for foreign. The list your correspondent was fortunate in getting a glimpse of was being circulated in a prominent center and already bore two signatures. But it was a few miles further on that he was accorded the privilege of dismounting from his bronco to gaze through the portals of a court house at an Aloha Aina meeting of beauteous Vestals, that was in full blast. The "this is my own native land" part of it was desecrated upon with great veneration and clashing of tongues and your Perseus looked in vain for Venuses, either Milesian, Ephesian or Polynesian, but encountered instead the stony gaze of the Gorgon who presided, at sight of whom his flesh nearly froze in horror, and on the wild bronco he hurriedly fled from the gruesome sight.

Sad, likewise, would have been the fate of the returning volcano tourists, had not a teamster who was luckily passing along the road in front of the Waieka plantation caught sight of a Japanese woman endeavoring to expedite herself to a better world by hanging. This weary mortal failing to bring about that state of affairs of two souls with but one thought with her connubial partner, and weary of domestic infelicity, sought to wing her soul Heavenward, but its upward flight was duly checked by the aforesaid teamster, and now she once more takes up the burden, sadly humming "It might have been."

This is but one of the many social relaxations that have taken place in Hilo lately. They started the ball a rolling with their married men's dinner, that was broken up by the women's coup d'état and tragic entrance on the scene, and this was followed by select picnics, and picnics that were not select. There are reading societies of the ladies, while the gentlemen are supposed to cook their own dinners or mend their own clothes. The town is bliss, and the latest invention of the social fiend has been to the grandmother and grandfather fete champetre, so that it is by no means the realms of probability, that, before long, we may witness, say, a good feed of mothers-in-law, to be followed by a grand reception to sons-in-law returning from lodge at 1 A. M.

Or possibly we may behold a grand tea-drinking match between maiden ladies, to be followed by a petition to President Dole that all storekeepers and physicians of Hilo be deported on pain of instant death.

Waimea welcomes back Mr. and Mrs. Janet after a lengthened sojourn in Honolulu, and it must be news for them to hear that their horses and cattle are dying by the score; such, at least, is the news just telephoned to Hilo, but from all your correspondent could observe while he was there, it appeared that the horses were pretty lively for dead horses, while the cattle browsed on the plain shook their fists at him.

Hon. C. P. Iaukea, who arrived at the same time, found the natives and others extremely solicitous to avail themselves of the privileges of the 100-acre reservation on Puukapu, so that in time we may look upon Waimea as an important agricultural centre.

This brings to our mind the strenuous efforts being made by the Japanese to find small holdings here and there. They appear a restless sort of people, migrating from place to place and their rattan bundles and red blankets are often distinguished a longways off on the Government roads. Frequently they take up their abode for a time with the natives, and though there is little of an assimilating tendency between the races, the native likes to do his work vicariously and the Japanese hoe and weed the taro, cook and pound it.

They are great gamblers as a rule, though it by no means follows that all not employed steadily on plantations are inclined to the habits of vagrancy. There are numerous colonies here and there doing good work tilling the soil and raising small produce for market, notably on the Volcano road and through Hilo and Hamakua.

Near Laupahoehoe a number are engaged on Mr. Barnard's coffee plantation, on terms which it is to be hoped may prove mutually advantageous. The Japs agree to take care of the coffee until it arrives at maturity, at the end of which they are to receive payment, being allowed in the interim to raise kitchen truck for market on their own account.

Some of the finest potatoes your correspondent has ever seen are being raised there, the locality being in the Laupahoehoe gulch, distant about two miles mauka of the landing and at an elevation of about 1200 feet.

Within the radius also of a few miles from the landing is some of the finest coffee land in the Islands, all Government land, out of which certain tracts have already been sold which are now in a fair way to prosper.

Mr. Brown, Superintendent of the Honolulu Water Works, is in town on Hilo Water and Fire Department matters. The members of the latter held a special meeting to consider whether the remainder of the appropriation should be expended on the purchase of fire plugs or the erection of an engine shed. The latter proposition finally prevailed, and it is now proposed to obtain the Government's sanction to the occupancy of the north angle of the Court House yard, which is a very desirable and central location.

Our Town Hall Association is now in a fair way of becoming an established fact. The Hilo public owes a debt of gratitude to the Commissioners of Crown Lands for the readiness with which they have acted in assigning to the Association when formed, the lot on the corner of Bridge and Waianuene streets, known in the past as the Gilman premises. This kind action on the part of the Commissioners helps out the whole scheme on a business basis, and there is enough public spirit and enterprise in the town to push the matter to a successful consummation. And so the $500 piano will not ruminate sadly much longer on its wasted mission in an obscure corner of the Court House.

The Duke of Wellington marching his men up the hill and then marching them down again is having his strategy imitated on the Volcano road. It is reported that over one and one-half feet of hard blue pahoehoe were blasted down from a stretch over 100 feet in length and a corresponding amount of filling done further on. Now the filling has had to be uncovered and the cut of eighteen inches, which was blasted away at considerable expense, refilled. Will they ever cease making mistakes on this road?

A car filled with road ballast ran off the track the other day and one man was seriously injured. At last accounts, the unfortunate, a Chinaman, who had his foot crushed and sustained other injuries, is being attended to by Dr. Williams, who has hopes of pulling him through.

Judge and Mrs. Austin, with Mr. and Mrs. Furnace, were among the few intimate friends, other than the family, who met at the residence of H. N. D. H. Hitchcock on Wednesday, May 24th, to witness the pretty ceremony, performed by the Rev. E. P. Baker, which united in the bonds of matrimony Miss Almene E. Hitchcock and Dr. W. L. Moore of Ann Arbor, Mich. To the STAR's readers the lady has been long and favorably known, and as to the groom, who is attached to the faculty of the University of Michigan, the professional success achieved by him so far gives promise of a brilliant future.

On the same evening the Coney House, much illuminated from basement to attic, told the tale of festive enjoyment within. The Masons, who accorded this banquet to the W. M., Mr. A. Brown, from Honolulu—never do things by halves, so in all probability the affair went off with eclat.

The bark Harvester has had quick despatch. She sailed May 24 for San Francisco with 26,555 bags sugar.

The bark Harvester arrived on the 21st inst. from San Francisco with 450 tons freight and will probably leave in eight or ten days with 1,000 tons of sugar. The Lurline is also expected next week, while the Geneva is now twenty-eight days from the Mexican coast.

So far this month not a night has passed without some rain, and I just hear from Hamakua that torrents have fallen during the last twelve hours, thus relieving the tension and worry over the drought that has held sway there for so long. A. B. L.

THE ROYALISTS WILL HOWL.

Programme for Another Malcontent Pow-wow Monday Night.

Royalists and other soreheads announced that they will hold a meeting on Emma Square next Monday evening to protest against the negotiation of a new treaty without first submitting it to a vote of the Hawaiians—or at least the Royalist faction of Hawaiians.

One of the speakers will be Colonel Ashford, of refugee fame, and another will be that protean statesman-soldier R. W. Wilcox, who, it is understood, is willing to speak from a gas tank and purge himself of every sentiment that he was willing to shed his heart's blood for when the Annexation club was formed.

Other orators who were accustomed to talk until their audience were far out of the reach of their voices are expected to make their welkin weary.

It will be a big time for the holy cause.

Taro is selling for 40¢ to 50¢ cents per cwt., which is lower than it has been for some time.

The Annexation Club sent a lot of pamphlets to the other islands by the Hail yesterday.

The college boys at Berkeley and other points in California recently had a debate at San Francisco on Hawaiian matters which created much interest.

Rumors are very active once more of a Royalist uprising to occur next week. The event will probably be deferred, as usual, until the robins nest again.

A New York life insurance company exhibits the policy of the late King Kalakaua which is covered all over with his assignments for debt, one being for a gambling obligation of $50.

Charles Nottley Sr. recently rode in a carriage from Paauilo to the Kohala plantation and prides himself on being the first man who ever crossed the Kohala mountains in a wheeled vehicle.

There was a meeting of the Board of Education yesterday at which it was determined to erect new school and teachers' buildings at Kilauea, Kauai. Permission was granted teachers on all the islands to hold monthly conventions where practicable and desired.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

New York is now not only on speaking terms with Chicago over the telephone, but also on singing terms. A concert given recently in the former city was distinctly heard and applauded in Chicago, and a cornet solo given in that city met with as favorable a reception in the metropolis.

The Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City is the most perfect whispering gallery in the world. It beats the domes of St. Paul's and the Washington Capitol. The dropping of a pin into a silk hat at one end of the huge structure is distinctly heard by persons at the other end.

German dentists now make false teeth of paper. They are said to be a very natural imitation of the real article and last for years.

A quaint illustration of French prudence and delicacy and of prevailing or approaching French fashions is contained in the notice recently issued to the police, who patrol the bathing place at Dieppe, for their guidance in the coming season. It reads: "The bathing police are requested, when a lady is in danger of drowning, to seize her by the dress, and not by the hair, which oftentimes remains in their grasp."

At one of the famous Lamoureux Concerts in Paris the other day, the audience did something that is said to have had no parallel since the war with Germany, in insisting for full twenty minutes upon a repetition of a lied from "Die Meistersinger," sung by Van Dyck. It has been the inevitable rule at these concerts never to give encores, but M. Lamoureux was this time compelled to break it.

A "dealer in art" in Great Britain is advertising portraits of the Queen, done in colors, for half a crown and five shillings apiece, and sending to his dupes postage stamps, which are printed with the Queen's head. It is thought he may not be within the reach of the law, as the stamps fill the description. An earlier genius sold pennies at a crown apiece, advertising them as "bronze medallions, with portrait of the sovereign in bas relief."

The women of Mississippi, who are patriotically endeavoring to have their State creditably represented at the World's Fair, will build a fortification of cotton bales on the grounds, representing Vicksburg during the siege. One hundred bales of cotton will be used in building the fort, and on the inside will be exhibited all the products of the great staple. The women will ornament their cotton fort with numbers of historic cannon, flags and other relics of the war. This exhibit will not be complete without a life-size wax figure of Ben Butler storming the works or holding the fort.

The company that controls private telephones in London propose to reduce the price from $100 to $50 a year, subject to the condition of a five years' contract. That will be a fine thing for the company. Before that time almost anyone can make telephones as good as the ones now in use, for all the principal patents will have expired.

While perpetual motion is ever the fad of the ignorant and unscientific, the flying machine continues to interest the wealthy, the intelligent and the votaries of science. Professor Samuel Pierpont Langley, of the Smithsonian Institution, announces the development of a machine that will fly, though he stipulated that it is not intended to revolutionize the passenger traffic of the world. Indeed, from the detailed description of the wonderful little machine, which it is confidently claimed will fly "as long as the power holds out," it does not seem to fill any long-felt want in the world, it being entirely too small and too light to do anything but fly, rivaling in this particular the old-fashioned kite. It is, however, fearfully and wonderfully made, closely resembling an overgrown mackerel, and is withal a marvel of the patience and ingenuity of the human mind. As such it will command the respectful attention of the curious and enlist the interest of scientists, for it may be the true genius of the much-desired aerial sailboat.

Colonel Elliot T. Shepard had many amiable qualities, and, since his death, tributes to his kindness of heart have been many. Here is one from the Milwaukee Wisconsin:

"Major Bundy, who was editor of the New York Mail and Express at the time it was sold to the colonel, was a capable and graceful writer, and as industrious as man could wish. But he was not a pious man. Mr. Shepard was known for his rigid adherence to the Presbyterian church, and desired to make the Mail and Express a religious and secular paper combined. Colonel Shepard conceived the bright idea of converting Major Bundy, and plucking him, as it were, a brand from the burning. With such good effect did Colonel Shepard hammer in this theology and dogma that Major Bundy became a good Presbyterian and joined Dr. Parkhurst's church. So delighted was the colonel with his new convert that he raised his salary to $100 per week, and to crown his liberality he sent him on a furlough to travel through Europe, which enjoyment Major Bundy had long coveted, but which his limited means would not permit him to undertake. He was so scholarly in his tastes that a journey to the Old World, rich in artistic treasures was to be the joy of his life. But he did not get any further than Paris, where he died. His remains were sent to New York, Colonel Shepard bearing all the funeral expenses, and lamenting his decease in the Mail and Express so markedly that his loss seemed irreparable."

They Have Come!

Those Razor Straps you have been waiting for several weeks, are here. They are so good that it has been said of them, that if you lay your razor, and one of these straps down together on your washstand, the razor will keep a fine edge; still, we recommend following the directions printed on each strap.

Anti-Rattlers.—We have a new kind which you can put on to the shafts of your buggy, without breaking four fingers and a thumb. They prevent two things—rattling and swearing.

Boardman's Pat. Wrench.—4 sizes, just the kind of combination wrench to have about the house.

Try the new Keystone Egg Beater, if you want a beater that will do quick, clean work.

Hose, 1/2-in. to 2-in., 3 and 4-ply plain or wired, just received; cheap and good quality; also carbolized. We have a large stock of "Hubbuck's," "Pioneer," and cheaper brands of White Leads and Zinc. Also, Oil, Turpentine, and all painters' supplies, and you will do well to see our Stock and get our Prices before you paint your house.

American Flags, 6 to 18 feet long, came by the last steamer to us. They are a fine lot, sewed bunting.

Fire Arms and Ammunition.—A new lot of Sporting and Target Rifles, Colt's new Navy, Smith and Wesson, and cheaper Revolvers, came last week and can now be seen. We carry the most complete assortment of Cartridges in town, from 22 to 50 cal., and always have plenty of them.

Leather.—We have received within the past sixty days, by steamer and sail, 66 Rolls of Leather, containing 9088 lbs., and 5347 ft.; also, 3 bales containing 142 doz. sheep skins, so it looks as if we meant to keep our Stock of Leather up, although by getting it in large lots, we are able to keep the prices down.

Salt.—We are headquarters for Hawaiian Salt, as we make it. That the quality is good, and Price Low, is easily shown by the large quantity we sell every week.

Blight Compound.—Five gallons will make 65 gallons of wash. You spray your Lime and Orange Trees with this wash, and the Blight will do the rest, die and drop off the trees. We have the compound at our store, or can give you an order on the Gov't. Nursery for it, but don't forget to bring a 5-gallon can to put it in. We sell spraying outfits.
