All the buildings belonging to the wharf property have long needed repairs, and the necessary work has already commenced.

The steamers have made several extra trips this week.

One of the Lahaina teachers is camping on the seashore not far from the schoolhouse. A capacious tent affords a good shelter for himself and family. Many persons are eager to learn the plans of the Board of Education in regard to Lahainaluna Seminary.

All the people in this town agree with Senator Baldwin, in thinking that "if any place needs a good wharf it is Lahaina." The steamer arrivals number considerably over 500 annually.

GIRDLES THE EARTH

The Pacific cable is here. The prospects are that a new girdle around the world will be completed some time today. The cable laying steamship Anglia completed her work of laying the deep sea section of cable between Midway and Honolulu last night and arrived off the port at an early hour this morning. After being passed by the Quarantine and Customs officials the vessel steamed to an anchorage off Sans Souci and began without any delay to land the shore end of the cable. There was the utmost dispatch about the movements of the vessel and the work is being strictly carried out according to schedule.

It had been expected that the Anglia would arrive early this morning. Captain Rodman of the Naval Station had figured out that she ought to reach the end of the deep sea section by about 10 o'clock last night. He estimated very correctly, for at 10:30 o'clock last night the vessel had completed that part of her work. The Anglia came to a stop at a point ten miles off Barber's Point and eighteen miles from the landing site at Sans Souci. Without delay the work of buoying the deep sea end was begun. It was a few minutes after midnight when this work was completed and the end dropped from the vessel. There had been laid from Midway to the point of buoying 1315 knots of cable.

THE GLORIOUS FOURTH

Sunrise—Grand Salute, fire crackers, giant crackers, bombs, torpedos, etc., by small boys and others.

8:30—First Regiment, National Guard of Hawaii, will assemble at the Drill Shed under arms, in fatigue uniform, white trousers, leggings and gloves, for the purpose of participating in the Fourth of July Parade.

8:00—Train leaves Oahu station taking Regatta Day officials to Pearl Harbor.

8:45—Train leaves Oahu station taking crowds down to the Peninsula Pearl Harbor, to witness the Tenth Annual Inter-Club Rowing Regatta.

9:30—Busses leave the Kalihi terminus of the Rapid Transit road to take visitors to the picnic given by the Scottish Thistle Club on the grounds of S. M. Damon at Moanalua.

10:00—Exercises commemorative of the day in the court room of the United States District Court, Judge Morris M. Estee presiding. The public is invited to attend.

9:30—Senior race starts, Pearl Harbor; Junior race to follow immediately.

1:30—League baseball at the new baseball park.

3:30—League baseball at the new baseball park.

Evening—Dance at the Waikiki Annex; general private entertainment; fire works.

The distance traveled had been 1221 knots. The percentage of slackage to the cable is therefore about 8 per cent. After buoying the end, the Anglia steamed on to Honolulu, arriving off port in a couple of hours, where she lay at anchor until this morning.

The trip of the Anglia from Midway to this port was accomplished without the slightest hitch or trouble of any character. The cable was paid out easily and at a good speed. The average was a little over 206 knots a day. Although the tests were conducted every instant that the cable was passing from the vessel into the water, not a flaw was discovered in the line and no stoppage of the vessel had to be made.

But gratifying as was this feature of the work, the officials of the cable company and the vessel take particular pride in the manner in which they handled the log wire that records the distance traveled. In order to keep a record of the distance a tiny wire is dragged after the vessel. This wire is kept on reels of 140 miles capacity. Whenever the end of the reel has been reached, it has generally been necessary to either slacken down the speed of the vessel or else come to a full stop in order that a new reel with new section of the wire could replace the old one. No such operation or loss of time was necessary on the Anglia. By a very successful method the new sections were spliced while the previous section was being reeled off. No stoppage was therefore necessary, and the vessel steamed along at her usual rate. This record work beats anything of the kind ever accomplished. The best previous record was made with one of the company's vessels on the Atlantic. That record was 840 knots, while that by the Anglia was 1221 knots.

The Anglia commenced to pay out the deep sea cable from Midway shortly after noon of June 26. Three days previous to that time, she had lain alongside the Colonia receiving sections of cable and some coal. The weather from Midway to port was delightful. The Anglia took a somewhat different route than that of the Oriental steamers. Instead of going to the southward of the chain of islands, lying between Midway and Kauai, she went north of them. She followed a carefully surveyed route, however. She was in possession of the soundings and report of the Nero and had no difficulty in following the same route that the United States Government had planned to follow had it laid a government cable. The bottom was found to be very even. The average depth was about 2600 fathoms.

Instead of passing to the southward of Kauai, the vessel went to the northward and came down between Kauai and Oahu. It was in the Kauai channel that the only uncertainty was experienced. That section of the route had not been surveyed. The cable engineers were in considerable perplexity regarding the ocean's bottom. The bottom previously had been very even but some submarine hills were encountered. However the engineers did not check their work but paid out the cable without and difficulty. The depth in the channel was 1930 fathoms in some places.

At a few minutes before noon today, the lines were sent ashore at Sans Souci and the work of landing the shore end begun. There will be three-fourths of a mile of shore cable, and about one and one-half of smaller grade placed and then the intermediate section of cable will be laid from that section to the deep sea cable. There was a very rough bar at Sans Souci and some fears of trouble in making the landing were expressed. This work was expected to be completed by 2 p. m. The cable will be completed about 7 or 8 o'clock tonight if no acci-

THE DUMB BRUTE AND THE STRONG ARM

JUDGE DAVIS IMPRISONS THE MAN WHO WAS CRUEL TO THE HORSE WHO COULDN'T SPEAK.

"Inomoto is charged with cruelty to animal, to wit, a horse," began Deputy High Sheriff Chillingworth, as Inomoto stood in the police court before Third Magistrate Davis.

"Make it torture," interrupted the Third District Magistrate, "what was he doing to the horse?"

The Deputy High Sheriff explained that he was driving a horse who had a very sore back.

"Well then it's torture," said the magistrate. "See the word torture in the statute that makes the offense."

Inomoto pleaded guilty. "See if it's an aggravated case," said the magistrate, "for the circumstances of each case determine the penalty."

The officer who made the arrest explained that the horse, though not an old one, was thin and weak and on his back unprotected from the leather of the harness was a deep sore, apparently of long standing.

"I think that this kind of torturing animals is something that ought to be put down with a strong hand," said the magistrate. "This defendant has pleaded guilty, but he still ought to be punished for his cruelty to these poor dumb brutes who can't speak English, who can't speak, and complain of their hurts."

"I shall sentence him to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars and be imprisoned for two days. After he had paid the fine he might forget about the torture to his poor beast. But perhaps he won't if he is sent to prison for a couple of days."

HOUSE WINS ON LOAN BILL

CONFERENCE COMMITTEE MEMBERS DISCUSS "COUNTY" ITEMS WITH EXECUTIVE COUNCIL.

As a result of a conference between members of the Executive Council and Senate conferees on the loan bill, the conference committee will probably make a report that will be a victory of the House. The word "county" will remain in the bill, as placed by the House to designate certain items.

The House conferees remain firm on the proposition that they will not consent to taking the word county out of the bill, while the senators contended that leaving the item in jeopardized the bill, in the event of the county bill being knocked out. The House stood pat on the proposition that there must be no recognition of possible failure to secure county government next January.

The matter was brought up, it is stated, in council this morning and now report has it that the senate conferees have decided that the best thing to do is yield to the House. Under the act as it stands, the appropriations may be drawn and used by either Superintendent Cooper or the Board of Territorial Institutions, should the latter be declared valid on appeal, but unless counties are actually formed, the items for "county" buildings cannot be drawn it is claimed.

The next American-Hawaiian vessel direct from San Francisco will therefore, be the Nevada sailing July 31. The Sugar Beet Industry

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

Professor G. E. Shaw of the State University has been inquiring into the condition of the beet sugar industry in this State and has discovered that the value of the output at 4½ cents per pound for granulated sugar amounts in an ordinary season to $6,000,000, and equals that of our prune orchards or our dairies. He finds the average yield of beets to be nearly ten tons per acre, and has doubtless also discovered that the actual product of sugar from the beet averages, one year with another, about 10 per cent of the weight of the beet, which is substantially the result reached by the experienced and skillful sugar beet farmers of Europe. We are the pioneers in the sugar beet industry in the United States, and in no other State have the results, upon the whole, been so profitable, or are they likely to become so. Our average tonnage is less than that of states in which beets are not attempted to be grown without irrigation, but nowhere is the output of our irrigated lands excelled or even equaled. With the general employment of irrigation in producing the beets, Professor Shaw asserts, as the "Chronicle" has frequently pointed out, that California alone could easily produce the entire 2,000,000 tons of sugar which the country imports and hardly miss from other agricultural industries the cultivable area devoted to the crop. And yet Professor Shaw finds that despite all these natural advantages California is not retaining her lead in the industry. Sugar factory building is, in fact, at a dead standstill. No new factory is building or in prospect.

The one overshadowing cause of all this is the progress made by the conspirators who are attempting to monopolize the sugar industry by means of the proposed "reciprocity" treaty with Cuba. Such a treaty would destroy all incentive to any extension of the beet industry, by destroying all expectation of profit. No capitalist will invest money in factories in the State, whose product must compete in Eastern markets with Cuban sugar delivered at less than half freight cost, and with all that part of the duty-remitted which represents profit to the American producer. No farmer will pledge himself to raise beets for a succession of years when he knows in advance that the advent of cheap Cuban sugar would be promptly availed of by the factories as an excuse for reducing the price of beets. They know this would be done, for a reduction has already been made in anticipation of the ratification of the treaty. When owners of beet sugar factories protested against the ruin of their business the conspirators acquired controlling interests in those factories and in their name "consented" to the treaty—and then promptly reduced the price of beets. And it was pretended that "the farmers" had consented. These are the reasons why the sugar beet industry is at a standstill in this State. It is the fear of "Cuban reciprocity" and nothing else. No capitalist will invest a dollar in sugar factories, and no farmer will devote a new acre to sugar beets while the specter of this treaty stands before them. They had put all their faith in the promises of the Republican party, and when they were confronted by the danger of betrayal by the leaders whom they had trusted, all confidence fled. When the Cuban treaty is dead beyond resurrection and not until then, will the sugar beet industry revive in this State. That event is confidently expected in December next. If it does not take place the Republican party will face a crisis.

THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR CONVENTION AWARDS THE PRIZE TO KOHALA UNION LAST NIGHT.

The eighth annual convention of the Hawaiian Christian Endeavor Union was held at Central Union church yesterday. It began with a sunrise prayer meeting led by Richard Trent. There was a business meeting in the morning and a general celebration in the evening. At this meeting, Miss Florence Yarrow as secretary made her annual report. Among other things she said that the year had shown an increase both in the ranks and the work of the organization. There are now thirty-one societies with a total membership of over 1000 which it is hoped to increase to 2000 this year. One of the societies formed during the year, was that at South Kona, which now has 200 members. To work for others seemed the motto of all the societies, which is the true spirit. The badge banner which is awarded to the society which best memorizes and locates the miracles of Christ was won by the Kohala society, which had one hundred per cent. Kawaihau had ninety-five per cent and the Japanese society in Honolulu seventy-one per cent.

The President's report was in Hawaiian and the banner was then presented to the Kohala society by Professor Bristol of Kanehameha schools. This is the third time that Kohala has won the prize.

Rev. D. Scudder addressed the convention on "Christian Endeavor" pointing out the aims and endeavors of the societies and relating instances of Christian Endeavor in China and Japan. "We should make our whole lives one of Christian Endeavor love for Christ," said he. "Put the strength of true Christian Endeavor in every act of your life and when you are gone from this world upon your tombstone can be the inscription 'He was a Christian Endeavorer.'"

Upon motion of M. K. Nakulua, Rev. E. S. Timoteo was elected as delegate at large to visit the different societies of the association.

Upon motion of Mr. Richards the society decided to send greetings by cable to the International Convention which will be held in Denver July 8th. Mr. Richards said that preparations were being made in Denver to entertain 20,000 people. The convention was closed by a five minutes consecration service led by Theodore Richards.

Officers for the year were elected as follows: President, M. K. Nakulua; secretary, Florence P. Yarrow; treasurer, Lyle A. Dickey; vice-president for Oahu, Frank Atherton. Maui and Hawaii are also given vice-presidents.

FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1903.

A SOURCE OF PRIDE.

July the Fourth, the natal day of the greatest Republic that the world has even seen, is an important day not only to us but to the world at large. The intellectual giants, the self-sacrificing patriots who laid the foundation of our nation built upon broad lines which have enabled us to reach a pitch of development that the world has never yet seen, and far greater, far more important than even they dreamed of in their wildest imaginings.

It is easy to take statistics and show our enormous material progress, our ever widening commercial influence, our manufactures and industries, agricultural and mechanical. It is easy to point to our enormous population, a population of educated freemen. It is easy to count up our wealth, and to take pride in the fact that among the nations of the earth we are the freest from debt, and to exult in the fact that where other nations are struggling with a deficit, the United States treasury reports a surplus of $50,000,000. We can talk of our growing cities, equipped with every modern appliance for comfort and luxury, cities where a few decades ago the Indian used to eke out a precarious existence by hunting the wild animals of forest and plain, and who was dominated by the simplest forces of nature, forces which we have bent to our will and forced to minister to our wants. We can recapitulate the length of our railroads, the mass of our shipping, the efficiency of our navy. We can demonstrate our success in useful invention, in the application of machinery to all the wants of life. We can take pride in the success of our cable laying which has united the Orient and the Occident by an electric link across the bed of the Pacific. All this and much more can we talk of, show, and take justifiable pride in. Page upon page, column upon column might be filled with the glorious story.

But there is yet something more that was, as Americans can take pride in. It is not the material progress, of the country, not its commerce, its wealth, its teeming millions, its successes in arts and in sciences that should be our greatest pride on this our natal day. Our greatest source of pride should lie in the good name and the good reputation of our country. The United States is one of the mightiest of the world powers. It is destined to be the mightiest. A nation, as an individual, has a power for good or a power for evil. The power of the United States is used for good. The limited states shows an example to the world of how great institutions, a powerful government may be carried on not only for the advantage of the people of the United States, but for the advantage of all mankind. The United States has a mission to the world, a message to give, a lesson to teach. That it is doing this work ably and well should be a source of noble pride to us. Not fussy, puffed up pride, but chastened pride. This is what should make us greet the Fourth of July, our natal day, with joy and gladness. God grant that in the ages to come, when generations after generations of our people have gone to their rest, that the same ideals, the same high standard shall be the watchword of our remote posterity, as they were the watchword of the founders of our nation.

SUGAR.

The Cuban sugar crop is not so large as was expected, though it is certainly an improvement on the crop of last year. On April 30, 1902, the export of sugar was 116,481 tons, and there was retained on hand 492,288 tons. At the same date of this year there had been 342,396 tons exported and 398,442 tons remained on hand. This makes a total of exported and on hand of 658,769 for 1902 as against 700,837 tons for 1903 up to the date given.

The Cuban crop, it is stated, will be considerably less than was figured at the commencement of the grinding season, owing to the unseasonable rains in the months of January and February. It is estimated that the total production, however, will exceed that of last year. On account of the inclement weather in the months mentioned it will be impossible to grind all the cane standing. There is one thing that we may be satisfied about, and that is that we do not have to meet such inclement weather or deal with such unpleasant seasons.

With regard to sugar, some interesting statistics have recently been published as to the production and the consumption by the United States. In 1840 the United States produced 69,246 tons of sugar, which of course all came from the South. In 1860 the production reached 190,000 tons. In 1870 the production ran down to 46,800 tons, and in 1900, the last statistical date, the production had only reached 149,299 tons, somewhat less than it was in 1860, or forty years previously.

On the other hand the consumption of sugar has grown marvellously. The statistics of any value only range over three decades. In 1880 the United States used up 956,784 tons of sugar. Ten years later, in 1890, no less than 1,476,377 tons were consumed. The nineteenth century finished up, that is the year 1900, with a consumption of 2,219,847 tons, or very nearly double what it was ten years before. It is not difficult to calculate at this rate of advance what must be the consumption for the year 1903. As far as the cultivation of sugar is concerned, no portion of the United States territory need fear for its future.

Governor Taft and President Roosevelt will say "howdy" tomorrow upon an all-American line.

Wealth makes wealth. To him that hath much shall be given. Claus Spreckels has added another couple of millions to his fortune.

Davis does not seem a success as a judge. He has too much "ego" in him like Kipling's celebrated chimpanzee in the story of Bertrand and Bini.

It is a pity that the consecration of the Bishop of Zeugma cannot take place in the Roman Catholic Cathedral of Honolulu. The ceremony is most impressive and calls forth the full gorgeousness of the ancient liturgy and ceremonial.

It hardly seems a year since Bishop Restarick landed here. During this period much has been done to strengthen and to enlarge the sphere of influence of the Protestant Episcopal Church. In this work Bishop Restarick has shown himself an able leader and administrator.

Professor Rebec is evidently a man of original views and a clear thinker. From the remarks he made to an interviewer of the Star, it is evident that he does not believe in fads, and that he has shaken himself out of the ruts. His series of lectures, which begin July 14, will be interesting not only to the teachers, but to all who are interested in educational progress.

The Mankichi case cost the Territory $1,500, but the Attorney General points out that it saved us over $3,000,000. The amount paid out for arguing this case is therefore ridiculously small. The legal expenses of the Sumner case were upon a much more liberal scale. If the Territory had had to pay at the same rate as the Sumner estate, it would have swamped its finances, and have left it somewhat worse off than poor old Sumner. The House has seen the force of argument and has not haggled over the expense. In which it has shown unusual good sense.

The polo players went off to Kauai yesterday and will doubtless have a hearty welcome on the Garden Island. These inter-island contests are very inspiring and keep up a healthy rivalry and interest among the athletic section of the community. It is not the mere winning of a game which is of value but it is the healthy conditions under which it is played that give it value. Athletics give both discipline of body and discipline of mind, and it is for this that they receive so much attention in all healthy thinking communities. Further, a man to be a good athlete must be a clean liver, and anything that tends to clean living tends to good.

monstration in Russian waters there is very likely to be an outbreak. The naval battle of Navarino, in which the Turkish fleet was wiped out, was precipitated by the accidental fire of a gun. When two opposing fleets are anxious to fly at one another's throats it does not require very much to set them on. It can be taken for granted that if the Japanese fleet steams into Russian water, the Japanese admiral will not be censured if he commits an act of war. The Japanese, as a nation, are aching for a fight, and the Japanese Government will be swept along with the war spirit or will have to resign.

"GO ASK PAPA."

A correspondent of the Springfield Republican contributes the following to that Journal.

I regret to see an imperfect version of the little epigrammatic poem that is alleged to have emanated from administration circles in Washington printed in your paper as taken from the New York Tribune. This is the version you give:

"Go ask papa," the maiden said,
The young man knew papa was dead;
He knew the life papa had led;
He understood when the maiden said,
"Go ask papa."

That is very nearly correct, not near as bad as this version, printed in a Philadelphia paper, which shows how a master-piece can be garbled and ruined in passing from mouth to ear:

"Go ask papa," the maiden said,
The young man knew that her papa was dead;
He knew the life her papa had led,
He understood when the maiden said
"Go ask papa."

Having had occasion to clip it from an authentic source, I give what appears the political, and probably the original version, that would betray the skilled historical hand of John Hay, did not the pronunciation "papa" demanded by the meter betoken a Boston cult— who but Senator Lodge, now that Long is out and Moody has no standing as a poet? It is variously entitled "Go To" and "The Proposal and Repulse":

"Go ask papa," the maiden said,
He knew that her papa was dead;
He knew the life her father led,
And understood her when she said:
"Go ask papa."

I imagine that the imputing of the authorship to different statesmen, and the trifle itself, is the work of one of the clever humorists of the Gridiron club. And here is still another floating version:

"Go ask papa," the maiden said,
Whereat the suitor hung his head,
Because he knew "papa" was dead,
And also knew the life he led.

CARRARA Mixed Paint

Is not an old paint in the sense that it has been in the market for many years, but the pigments used in its manufacture are believed to be old, because they are supposed to represent the re-discovery of the secret of permanent color, thought to have been lost with Michael Angelo, Leonardo da Vinci, Fra Angelico, Corregio, Murillo, Titian, Guido, Raphael and other Old Masters.

CARRARA has been in the market long enough, however to establish the fact that it gives a BETTER FINISH, lasts LONGER, under the most severe tests, covers more surface, and COSTS LESS than the best Lead, Zinc, and Oil.

If you want the Best Effect and the Best Results, USE CARRARA. Of course some people want what came over in the "Mayflower" and think that pure lead, Zinc and Oil Paint is the thing to use because "Grandpa" used it. "Grandpa" was no doubt an authority in his day, and a man of judgment; but if he were alive today, it goes without saying, that he would use CARRARA.

In passing, we may say, that we still have a balance of the OLD KIND OF PAINT, as good as can be made under the old formulas, which we were selling when our knowledge was in the rudimentary stage.

This we can give you at A BARGAIN.

The Pulse.

The rate of the pulse varies greatly in persons of different ages.

At birth.....	130 to 140
One year.....	115 to 130
Two years.....	100 to 115
Three years.....	95 to 105
Four to Seven years.....	85 to 95
Seven to Fourteen.....	80 to 90
Fourteen to Twenty-one.....	75 to 85
Twenty-one to Sixty.....	70 to 75
Old Age.....	75 to 85

However, it makes no difference in the age of a person, whenever interest is aroused the pulse increases greatly. For instance; when a person purchases the Douglas Patent Casket the pulse increases fully 100 per cent. It's a sign of contentment.

LEBAUDY'S DREAM OF EMPIRE

ALL EUROPE DISQUIETED BY RUMORS OF A GREAT AFRICAN EMPIRE TO BE ESTABLISHED.

LONDON, June 23.—Jacques Lebaudy's mysterious mission on the coast of Northwest Africa threatens to create trouble. It has already been the subject of questions in two parliaments. At Madrid, the Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs declared in the Senate that all he knew of the reported landing of the French expedition on the West coast of Morocco was what he had seen in the French press, and the Westminster Sir Charles Dilke was scarcely more fortunate in extracting information from the front benches.

If you have a small sum of money that you can't find a good investment to "fit," we can "club it" with several other small sums and invest it in guaranteed securities for you—and pay you the interest in cash every six months. Let us tell you about it.

HENRY WATERHOUSE TRUST COMPANY, LTD.

Corner Fort and Merchant Streets.

Sir Charles, however, will return to the charge tomorrow, when he will ask the Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs to inform the House "what view is taken by the Spanish Government, having rights in the neighborhood, of the private French armed expedition, supported by private ships, now operating on the western coast of Morocco?"

Sir Charles Dilke is not the only one confessedly anxious to hear more about the Lebaudy expedition. The dispatches recording the movements of Lebaudy's schooner yacht, the Frasquita, have added to rather than assuaged the general curiosity. Several London papers have published disclaimers on behalf of the French Government of any knowledge of Lebaudy's plans, but it is argued that Lebaudy's landing constitutes a violation of Moorish territory, and two European powers are clearly entitled to protest against the raising of the French flag on this part of the African coast.

The Spanish protectorate of Rio de Oro lies immediately south of the coast on which Lebaudy is reported to have landed, and it is claimed that Great Britain possesses even more definite grounds on which to base objections. Cunningham-Graham, one of the few people in London who have visited the country concerned, goes so far as to call Lebaudy's landing an act of piracy. He said this afternoon that he could not imagine what was the location of Hia, the place which, according to the dispatches from Las Palmas, Lebaudy has selected as the capital of the empire which he is founding in Northwest Africa.

ORATORY IN THE HOUSE

M. K. Kealawaa suddenly broke loose as a Fourth of July patriot in this morning's session of the House. A motion for a recess to two o'clock had been made when Kealawaa rose and called attention to the fact that tomorrow was the glorious American anniversary. "We are all Americans now," he said, "and I move that this House stand adjourned to tomorrow morning, to allow time for celebration of the Fourth."

The legislature has only a week more, and the other members didn't take kindly to the suggestion, though Oli added his efforts in the line of patriotism. Oli began to talk fireworks, but was not interpreted, and Kealawaa rose to talk some more, but couldn't get attention. Vice-Speaker Knudsen put the motion for a recess to two o'clock this afternoon and it carried.

The morning was largely spent in a discussion over items for fish and poi inspector at Wailuku and Lahaina in the bill for eighteen months salaries. The Maui delegation had a hard fight to get the item in, but the sum of $900 was finally inserted.

The bill to appropriate $1,000 to pay E. P. Dole for his services in the Osaki Mankichi case was passed on third reading without debate. The bill for band expenses also passed third reading.

The special committee appointed to report on the Vida resolution regarding cement which the government purchased and which was reported to have disappeared, made a report condemning the practice in executive departments of diverting funds appropriated. The report stated that there were 2830 barrels of cement which had been used for the appropriation for roads and bridges, Honolulu and most of which had been used on other work. The sum of $9,750 was paid for the cement. The report states that 825 barrels were taken for the Diamond head reservoir, 530 for the Fort Street, King street and Kukul sewers and 666 barrels for the outfall sewer, leaving only 809 barrels for the purpose designated in the appropriation under which the cement was purchased. The report says that Campbell dis-

WATSON ON THE STAND

SAYS HUMPHREYS, THOMPSON AND HIMSELF WERE FOR THE ELLISES AND THAT THERE WAS AN UNDERSTANDING THAT THE $48,025 SHOULD REMAIN IN TRUST FOR THEM—SUMNER'S PROMISES.

E. M. Watson of the firm of Humphreys, Thompson and Watson was called as a witness in the Sumner disbarment matter just before noon this morning and began his testimony for the defense. Watson was emphatic in his statement that the firm had appeared for the Ellis interests and not for John K. Sumner, in the litigation in which the charge is made that the firm represented both sides. He also stated that it was understood when the settlement was made by which the alleged trust funds were distributed, Thompson, in telling him of the action taken, stated that the understanding was that the rest of the money was to remain in trust.

Mrs. W. S. Ellis was the witness before Watson. She swore that Sumner had frequently stated to her that the money was to go to the Ellises. He had talked of adopting the three Ellises and on one occasion when the old man thought he was under some sort of guardianship, there had been discussion as to how he would have to proceed to adopt the grand nephews and niece. Mrs. Ellis was not questioned as to the various meetings and conferences at which the Ellises met with Sumner, Highton, Humphreys and others, as the attorney general stated that her evidence would be merely cumulative, and he admitted that she would testify the same as the three Ellises and Buf-fendeau. The same admission was made as to Mrs. John S. Ellis.

John S. Ellis was on the stand during a large part of the morning. His testimony was practically the same as that of his brother and sister. As to the letter to Highton which the three signed, stating that Humphreys, Thompson and Watson had been Sumner's attorneys, he denied that he had understood that part of the document. It was read over to all by Highton before they signed, but Ellis said he was looking out of the window and not listening. Andrews asked him if he understood English and he replied "not thoroughly," whereupon Andrews brought out the fact that he was a graduate of St. Louis college. He testified like the others that the fees of $2,500 each to Highton and Humphreys, Thompson and Watson were to be paid by the Ellises.

STINE AND EVANS COMPANY.

Fred W. Duval, the business manager of this combination, is in town making arrangements for the forthcoming visit here. The company consists of twenty people, specially selected from the leading theaters of America by Mr. Duval for a year's tour of the Colonies. Charles J. Stine is universally acknowledged as being one of the cleverest comedians of the present day, while Miss Olive Evans is said to be the brightest soubrette on the American stage, with a voice worthy of grand opera. Mas Margaret Marshall is well known to local playgoers, as an impersonator of old women. She has few equals. Charles Bates is a character comedian who sings comic songs, his special line being irascible old men.

Miss Claire Canfield is a comedian with a magnificent contralto voice. The Bicknells are whirlwind dancers with a big reputation. Alan Dale, America's leading critic, called them "The Dresden China Dancers." Douglas and Ford are sketch artists, and Dancers, who have just returned after a 3 year's tour of the English halls. N. AN UNDISCOVERED REPUBLIC

THE TINY SOVEREIGNTY WHICH HAS LIVED IN UNDISTURBED
SIMPLICITY FOR CENTURIES.

Long ago a peaceful and fruitful little valley country, lying between the Spanish province of Lerida and the French department of Ariège—it amounts in all only to 600 square miles—was made into a state. Some believe that Charlemagne himself was the author of Andorra's being; others attribute the honor to Louis le Debonnaire of France. At all events, in 1278, the suzerainty of the little country was divided between the bishop of Urgel in Spain and the counts of Foix in France. Though the rights of the counts of Foix were later made over to the French government, this system of double suzerainty has existed ever since, and has preserved Andorra from destruction.

The machinery of government that has served for so many centuries to keep the Andorrans in order is very simple. The country is divided into 12 parishes, each headed by two consuls and several councillors. As the law of primogeniture still operates in full force in Andorra, these officers are chosen by the heads of families, rather than by popular vote. The 12 consuls form the General Council of Andorra, which meets twice a year and whose function it is to elect the president and the vice-president of the republic. The relations of Andorra with its co-princes, French and Spanish, is a little complicated. France sends a permanent delegate to Andorra and each of the princes has a representative in the republic.

The most agreeable feature of the local administration is that there is so little of it. There are, however, two judges of appeals, alternately appointed by the princes' lieutenants. Equity, rather than any exact system of law, is followed in the court proceedings which occur but twice yearly and which are short and simple by reason of the high standard of virtue among the 6000 inhabitants of Andorra. It has never been considered necessary to have a prison in the republic, such sentences as are meted out to criminals are served in France, but only twice in 20 years has Andorra sent a delinquent to the French penitential colonies.

As for the national features, there practically is none. The president's salary is $12 a year and the councillors receive much less. As there is absolutely no other outlay, and the parishes have a good revenue from their pasture lands, the average individual tax is 5 cents a year. In some years there is a surplus of revenue, and in that case the excess is divided among the citizens. Thus fiscal problems are unknown. So are Crokers and Deverys. They would not thrive in Andorra.

What is the secret of it all? Simply, that the Andorrans have never eaten of the tree of modern civilization. It is difficult to believe that there is a race whose customs have not changed in six centuries, but such is the case. Shut in as they are by Pyrenean snow-peaks the Andorrans have barely any communication with the rest of Europe. There is no way of getting into this ideal republic save by a mule path, and during six months of the year, it is unapproachable from the French side. The country is as innocent of carriage roads as it is of railroads. Of public sanitation and sewerage it has doubtless never heard. Public instruction exists in theory; in fact, it is of the most occasional nature and 80 per cent of the healthy and happy inhabitants are illiterate. Of letters, music and art they are cheerfully ignorant and are conscious of no lack. Thus there are no pretensions to "culture" in Andorra. Nominally there is a postal service, but this is as unreliable as its administrators are nonchalant. New and then a messenger is despatched from the capital of the state to deliver letters to their proper destination; but it is only now and then. But what need have the Andorrans of correspondence? They have no business relations with the world or railroads, automobiles, newspapers, stock exchanges and trusts. And as for their pleasures, they are all confined within the limits of Andorra.

In spite of the many things they do not do, the Andorrans are a busy people. They are a healthy, hardy race, Spanish in appearance, even as their speech is the Catalan dialect of Spain. Their fondness for outdoors perhaps accounts for their two main pursuits, which are sheep-raising and smuggling. Because of their geographical and political situation, the Andorrans are relieved of customs duties toward both the Spanish and French governments. Thriftily taking advantage of this fact they have used it as the basis of their commercial life. Horses and mules, for instance, they buy in large numbers on the French frontier and taking them through their own country into Spain, sell them at a comfortable profit. A still more daring trade was that of purchasing large quantities of French tobacco and then reselling it at a profit on French soil. When this was checked a few years ago, the discouraged natives bet thought themselves of raising tobacco of their own, which they have since done with remarkable success. It is now Andorran tobacco, therefore, sometimes made into Andorran cigars and cigarettes, that is sold to French purchasers.

Notwithstanding their fondness for smuggling, the Andorrans are not to be regarded as a nation of brigands. They see nothing iniquitous in smuggling and can slyly enjoy their shrewd bargains while preserving a clear conscience. They are simple, industrious and sober and their morals are beyond reproach. Drunkenness simply does not exist in Andorra, partly because of the virtue of the inhabitants, partly because it is extremely difficult to import alcoholic liquors. The vices that are attributable to poverty and to wealth are alike unknown in Andorra. No individual citizen ever builds up a private fortune of more than $10,000. They know nothing of millionaires.

For the 6000 inhabitants and they lead a fairly enviable life. When April comes, you may always see them stretched out in the spring sunshine, their round faces shaded by their large hats, like those of the Spanish Jesuits, and a cigarette always held in their lips.

An idea of the standard of luxury that prevails in Andorra may be gained from an inspection of the national "palace" which is in old Andorra, the state capital—a poorly built little village of 600 inhabitants with very narrow streets and no sewerage. The palace is a square building, looking very much like any ordinary insignificant dwelling, its sole ornament being a free-stone gable-end. Its 16th century entrance is surmounted by an escutcheon. On the first floor are the stables where the councillors' horses are sheltered—for this is, it must be remembered, the seat of government. On the floor above is a small, ill-lighted school-room and the councillors' refectory where these able statesmen cook their own dishes in great kettles hung on cranes.

Above this is the council chamber, which is quite bare, almost its only piece of furniture being the president's table, covered with red cloth. All about the walls are hung the official hats and cloaks of the councillors. These are interesting garments, the great hats of black felt being in an advanced stage of dilapidation, while the long cloaks of gray druggel have been in use for centuries. Within the walls of this room are locked the state archives, to which each parish has a key, but which may be opened only in the presence of delegates from six parishes.

And, finally there is the national chapel, containing the only art work in the country, a copy of the painting of the Louvre, the gift of President Felix Faure. Within the chapel is also stored the old instrument for strangling criminals, unused since France undertook the execution of Andorra's criminal sentences. What there is of conventionality in Andorra centers naturally in this state building.

To see the Andorrans at their ease a visit should be paid to one of their inns, which are far more interesting than they are comfortable. If it were not for the proverbial honesty of the people the cut-throat aspect of these hostleries would be very formidable. It is in the main room of one of these inns that the Andorrans delight to pass their leisure. The great open fireplace in this room is indeed the center of their social life, and all about it hangs a large, miscellany of drying shoes, while stockings feet are also extended to catch the cheerful warmth of the flames, the proprietress busies herself with her cooking, waives is accomplished by the use of many long-handled vessels held over the fire and containing ingredients of whatever may be prepared. Meanwhile the smoke from the fire and the tobacco mingle and form a thick, sour-smelling atmosphere which the firelight can barely penetrate.

When the meal is ready it is served on a rough table and a great clattering of plates and spoons follows. Wine poured slowly from slender carafes is drunk so temperately that inebriety seems the danger least to be feared in this mild-mannered country.

How long is Andorra likely to remain the undiscovered republic? Just as long as equilibrium is maintained between its co-princes of France and Spain. There is one possibility, however, that may destroy forever the primitive peace of this out-of-the-way Utopia. France is considering the building of a road through its own frontiers to the capital of Andorra, and what is more serious, a railroad that would shorten the Barcelona route by several hours. This would be generally patronized, and—Andorra would be directly on the route! What would happen then has been badly conjectured. Some believe that it would become a gaming center and that fortunes would be staked nightly perhaps in that very council chamber where the standards of republican simplicity have been maintained for centuries. Or, "cures" might easily be established; for the country is rich in hot springs, and has one sulphur spring in particular from which a speculator might derive a fortune. Moreover, there is a large supply of mineral wealth, and mines as yet unexplored bursting with silver and copper and lead. But every lover of unspiced simplicity and curious tradition must hope that the day is yet far distant when Andorra will be "discovered."—Boston Transcript.

ANOTHER BILL IS PASSED

THE HOUSE FINISHES WORK ON THE EIGHTEEN MONTHS GEN-ERAL EXPENSES.

The House got through with the eighteen months' appropriation bill yesterday afternoon, passing it on third reading, the votes of Ohi, Paele, Pulaa and Beckley being registered against it. There was considerable discussion over a proposal by Kanio to insert an item of $500 for the removal of the Kamehameha statue in Kohala
from its present location to the court house yard. Kellinor moved an amendment to remove it to Lahaina. The item was finally voted down altogether by 12 to 13.

The item of $15,000 for advertising was cut out to $3,000. Greenwell moved to reconsider it and make it $5,000, and Kumalea proposed $3,000. Beckley strongly opposed appropriating anything at all for advertising, but the item as reduced carried by 17 to 3.
The item of $2,500 for a subsidy to the Paradise of the Pacific was cut out.
Vida, Chillingworth and others supported it and Fernandez an dKumalea opposed. The vote against it was 13 to 10. Kellinor proposed a new item for advertising, under the head of Treasury Department, $15,000, but this was also defeated by 13 yeas to 12 nays.

Lewis proposed $5,000 for the salary and expenses of a coffee commissioner.
Kellinor's point of order that salaries could not be considered under the expenses bill was sustained.

LEARNS SECRETS OF THIBETANS

RUSSIAN SPENDS A YEAR IN THE SACRED MONASTERIES IN THE CITY OF LHASA.

A Russian subject, G. Z. Zoubikov, has just returned to St. Petersburg from Thibet, where he spent a year in Lhasa visiting the sacred monasteries. M. Zoubikov is a member of the Buddhist sect known as Bouliats and being familiar with the Thibetan language, found no difficulty in passing for a Lama. He brought back many photographs illustrating the life of the country and will publish a book.

In the summer of 1900 M. Zoubikov entered Thibet from the north as a member of a caravan of seventy pilgrims, including many Lamas. He approached Central Thibet by the Boumza mountain road, which led through a treeless alpine landscape with snow-capped mountains extending east to west in parallel chains. A thin nomad population was found. Only within sixty or seventy miles of Lhasa was an agricultural community reached.
The climate is harsh and dry. Snow falls occasionally from December to March; rain from May to August;
April, September, October and November are dry. The mean annual temperature is 42, 67 and 50 degrees Fahrenheit for morning, noon and night, respectively; for December 17, 34 and 27 degrees; for July 60, 67 and 65 degrees.

The population which has at times
been estimated at 33,000,000, is probably one-tenth that number. It is decreas-ing through disease, especially small-pox, and on account of the large number of celibate priests.

The sons of Chinese soldiers and merchants temporarily resident in Thibet are counted Chinese, the daughters Thibetans. Other foreign residents are Indians, from Cashmere, Mongolians and Nepalese, the latter being skilled artisans, architects, sculptors and jewelers. The Cashmere Mohammedans are traders. They usually convert their Thibetan wives.

Almost all the land in Central Thibet belongs to the Dalai Lama. Only high officials in Lhasa have hereditary homes. The Thibetan houses are of brick and stone, but have chimneys only in the kitchen. The other rooms have holes to let the smoke escape and are cheerlessly cold.

The common people wear white, the wealthy red, officials yellow and soldiers blue clothing of homespun. Jewels are worn in great abundance by the women. Barley, meal, soup, the raw flesh of the yak and of sheep, butter, sour milk and vegetables are the principal articles of food. Wheat spirits sell for a cent a bottle. The men smoke tobacco and the priests take snuff.

The people of Central Thibet are passionately attached to their religious observances, which are purely formal.
Prayers are regarded as of magic potency and figure in all ordinary and extraordinary affairs of life. Medicine is in small popular favor. Morals are primitive and marriage ties are loose.
Both polygamy and polyandry are common.

Agriculture and stock raising are the principal employments. Wheat, barley, peas, beans, cattle, sheep, yaks, horses,
asses and mules are the main products.
Labor is cheap, men being paid 2 or 3 cents a day, while women usually labor for their "keep." Even a Lama receives only 10 cents for a whole day's prayers.

Lhasa is small, having at most only 10,000 regular inhabitants. It is, however, an important trade center. The native traders are all women.

M. Zoubikov minutely describes various monasteries and temples, including three near Lhasa, where 15,000 monks are mainly engaged in learned pursuits. At one of these, Brabun, nearly 6000 boys, young men and even gray-bearded patriarchs, are studying theology, the total number of resident monks being 8,000.

Since the fifteenth century all power civil and spiritual, has been nominally in the hands of the Dalai Lama, but China maintains a Manchu resident and an army. The Lama is elected by the Manchu residents, who with a staff picks the name of one boy from three placed in an urn. The boy is educated by a council of learned men and assumes power when he reaches the age of 22 years. The present Dalai Lama is 27 years old.

The Dalai Lama's council in whose hands the actual authority mainly rests, embraces four "galdons" appointed by the Emperor of China.

The administration is in the hands of a closed aristocracy and bribery and corruption are nearly universal. Among the common penalties are drowning, torture, flogging, banishment and fines.
The Thibetan army of 4000 men is poorly disciplined and is armed with bows and old fashioned guns. Robbery flourishes.

$50,000 FOR OAHU.

The trustees of Oahu College received word from Charles R. Bishop in San Francisco yesterday that he had made a donation of fifty thousand dollars to the College. The money will not be used at present to establish any new departments, or a new professorship, but the interest will be used in the general school fund. The money comes at a most opportune time and will be a great help in the work to be carried on next year.

THE GOSPEL AND TEMPERANCE.

At the session of the Hawaiian Evangelical Association held yesterday the committee on temperance reported that it was their feeling that the excuse of lows: On July 15, Immigration Inspechas been pressed beyond propriety, that it had been used to cover other and inadmissible reasons for using liquor and that misfortune and disaster had come upon certain persons who had made this an excuse for their tippling.

The Association was asked by the Ministerial Union to appoint a committee of five to confer with their committee with regard a plan for evangelistic effort to be started in this city and carried to all parts of the group.
The committee appointed consists of Henry Waterhouse, Rev. O. P. Emerson, Rev. O. H. Gulick, Rev. E. S. Timoteo and Rev. J. M. Ezera.

Rev. O. P. Emerson was reelected Secretary of the Association and Theodore Richards, treasurer.

DIED.

AMME.—At his residence, Cottage
Grove, Honolulu, Hawaii, July 2, 1903, at 8:45 o'clock in the evening, of ptomaine poisoning, J. H. Amme, aged 56 years. A widow survives him.
About two weeks ago Mr. Amme was taken suddenly ill after eating a very hearty meal of potato salad and canned sardines. Physicians were called and he was getting along very nicely until Wednesday when hopes for his recovery were abandoned. He was one of the best violinists in the city and has been here for many years.
He was for many years prior to his coming to Honolulu concertmaster of the Cleveland, Ohio, Philharmonic Orchestra and had an enviable reputation as a musician in the States.
He has appeared often in concerts and recitals and had as well a large class of pupils. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and the funeral will be under the auspices of that order. The funeral will take place from the Masonic Temple at 3:30 p. m. today. Members of Lodge Le Progress are requested to assemble at the lodge room at 3 p. m.

TO CLEAN UP SUBROGATION

SUIT BROUGHT TO UNTANGLE ONE OF THE LAST KINKS IN THE FIRE CLAIMS.

United States Attorney Breckons has brought an action in behalf of Treasury Agent MacLennan to determine the question of conflicting interests in fire claim awards. The suit is against the Yee Wo Chan Company, the Transatlantic Insurance Company and the Royal Insurance Company and is on account of an award of $23,000 to the Chinese firm, in which award the insurance companies claim an interest. The award was made with the following qualifications:

"Transatlantic Fire Insurance Company policy No. 1158, for $5,366.70
"Hamburg-Bremen Fire Insurance Co., policy No. 9411, $2,099.50
Hamburg Insurance Company policy No. 9338, $3,144.00
Hamburg Insurance Company policy No. 9758, $2,099.50
"This award is made subject to above subrogations.

"By order of the Fire Claims Commission,
"J. M. RIGGS, Clerk."

The petition sets forth that petitioner was employed by the federal government to disburse the million dollars appropriated for the claimants, and adds:

"That by reason of the passage of said act of Congress the appointment of your said orator as disbursing agent, and the placing in his hands of said sum of $1,000,000, there is now in the possession of your said orator, for the purpose of paying in part the said judgment issued on the 24th day of May A. D. 1902, a copy of which record is hereinbefore set forth, the sum of $15,989.81.

"That the said sum of $15,989.81 is now in the hands of your said orator, and is due from your said orator to the person or persons entitled to the same under the said judgment so as aforesaid rendered on the 24th day of May, A. D. 1902; and your orator has always been ready and willing and now is ready and willing and hereby offers to pay the said sum of $15,989.81 in such manner and to such person or persons as your Honor shall direct."

The Yee Wo Chan Company and the two insurance companies each insist on their right to the money, says MacLennan and threaten to bring several actions at law against him for the payment of the same."

THE GAMBLING LAW AND THE KIND PAKE

YUM LUN WHO WENT INTO A GAMBLING HOUSE WITH A SUBSCRIPTION PAPER ESCAPES.

"That is the most remarkable piece of legislation I ever read," said Third District Magistrate Davis this morning when ten Chinese were arraigned in the police court, charged with being present where gambling was going on.

"That a man who is present at a gambling game and without aiding or abetting or any other showing of guilty intent shall be declared guilty is most remarkable. Has there ever been any construction of this statute, Mr. Chillingworth?"

"No your honor," replied Chillingworth, "there have been a good many threats of carrying cases up but they never have been."

"Well, as I said this seems to me a most remarkable statute. I suppose I shall be censured for saying this, but I shall pay no attention to censure. I suppose in the absence of the question being raised it is not in my province to raise it. And yet I must be convinced that a misdemeanor has been committed before I can impose a penalty. It is very remarkable that a person who is merely present can be held to have guilty intent. It is as if in the case we just had where the man was driving a horse with a sore back, that every person who rode on the wagon and knew that the horse's back was sore should be held equally guilty."

"However, in the absence of any construction of the statute, I suppose I shall leave the matter where I find it. I speak of it because this is the first time my attention has been called to this statute."

Six of the defendants pleaded guilty. "Now as to the penalty. I don't think that playing cards or dominoes, in itself is very wrong. But it may lead to disorder and crime. And if any disorder or crime does follow from any of these games and I am convinced beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendants are guilty—something that must be proved in every case coming before me—I shall send them to Oahu convict prison."

"Is this an aggravated case Mr. Chillingworth, and what has been the usual penalty in such cases imposed by my predecessors?"

"Judge Wilcox imposed a fine of from five, to ten or fifteen dollars. Judge Dickey imposed a penalty of from two to five days imprisonment at hard labor," replied Chillingworth.

"Well, I'll not sentence anyone to imprisonment at hard labor."

The six who pleaded guilty were fined $25 and costs. The four who pleaded not guilty were put on trial. One of them claimed that he went into this gambling place to secure subscriptions to send a friend back to China. Another one said he went in looking for a Chinaman who lives at Punahoa to whom he wanted to give a letter to give to his brother who also lived at Punahoa.

"I think we'll have to construe this statute to mean that where a person is present on some legitimate errand which negates the presumption of his having gone there for the purpose of gambling or from an idle curiosity and a desire to mingle with gamblers he is not present within the meaning of the statute. Perhaps I oughtn't to say this much for I shall be censured for it. I did not intend to make any expressions concerning possible criticism. I shall make none."

Yum Lun, who claimed to have gone in with the subscription paper to assist a worthy countryman to get back to China was recalled to the stand by the Third District Magistrate and examined as to the subscription paper he claimed to have. He produced it, and it was indeed found to be a subscription paper to raise money to send back to China a "very worthy woman."

"In criminal cases even the defendant is presumed to be telling the truth," said the Third District Magistrate. "unless he is contradicted or there is reason to disbelieve his testimony. This man Yum Lun shows that he was there for a legitimate, even a laudable purpose. I find him not guilty and he is discharged. The other man with the letter, was too halting and vacillating and uncertain in his testimony to be believed. I find him and the others guilty and sentence them to imprisonment at hard labor for thirty days."
