WAIKIKI.

Since the history of the Hawaiian Islands has been pretty well ventilated of late, and nothing said of the beauties or minstrelsy of the country, the following lines from the pen of Rollin M. Daggett, of Nevada, who was United States Minister at Honolulu during President Arthur's time, will be of especial interest, now that there is a full in negotiations. The poem was first published in the Honolulu Advertiser in 1883, shortly after the Kalakaua coronation, and received the following complimentary notice from the editor of that paper: "Amongst all the poetry which has been inspired by Hawaiian scenes or events, we have not met with anything to equal these pleasing lines. Indeed, for its music, its happy expression, and its truly hard-like thought, we must accord to this poem a high rank in the class of minstrelsy to which it belongs."

WAIKIKI.

The cocoa, with its crest of spears,
Stands sentry 'round the crescent shore,
And signposts, (1) bent with years,
Keeps watch beside the lanai (2) door.
The cool winds fan the mango's cheek,
The mynah (3) flits from tree to tree,
And zephyrs to the roses speak
Their sweetest words at Waikiki.
Like truant children of the deep
Escaped behind a coral wall,
The lipping wavelets laugh and leap,
Nor heed old ocean's stern recall.
All day they frolic with the sands,
Kiss pink-lipped shells in wanton glee,
Make winnows with their patting hands,
And, singing, sleep at Waikiki.
The closing curtain of the night
Is shading down the gold to gray,
And on the reef the flaring light
Of brown-armed fisher (4), far away,
Dyes red the waves that thunder by
The sturdy bulwarks of the sea,
And, breaking into ripples, die
Upon the breast of Waikiki.
Now come wild echoes through the air,
And shadow of a rugged face,
With iron limbs and shoulders bare—
The chieftain of a dusky race (5);
Whose hostile front, with lifted lance,
And war-prows flecking all the sea,
Swept through the palms with bold advance
Along the shores of Waikiki.
And all unchecked, in martial course,
By menace or the spear of foe,
The misty columns move in force,
Their chieftain leading as they go.
Up, up! Nuanu's rocky bed—
Till looking down, through clouds they see
The beeting front of Diamond Head,
And silver sands of Waikiki.
On! on! The foe has reached the verge,
And o'er the Pali's (6) awful side!
With shout and stroke, and battle surge,
Is poured a shrieking human tide!
Then all is still—the work is done,
And thus the shadows come to me,
When twilight clouds, kissed by the sun,
Have bronzed the shores of Waikiki.
And then, with tropic murmurs blent,
Come distant voices, half divine,
While mingled with the ylang-ylang's (7) scent
Is breath of sage and mountain pine:
And from Diablo's (8) vine clad feet,
From desert bleak and green Maunee,
Are wafted strains to me as sweet
As e'er were heard at Waikiki.

O, Waikiki! (9) O, scene of peace!
O, home of beauty and of dreams!
No haven in the isles of Greece
Can chord the harp to sweeter themes;
For hours haunt the broad lanais,
While scented zephyrs cool the lea,
And, looked down from sunset skies,
The angels smile on Waikiki.
1. Alagoraba—A species of louse, originally from Africa. The "Elga-rob" of the Arabs. A species of the same called the "Mesquit" in California.

2. Lanai—A Hawaiian word for veranda; now applied to the spacious veranda parlors at Waikiki.
3. Mynah—An Asiatic bird introduced into the Hawaiian Islands about twelve years ago, and now thoroughly domesticated.
4. The Hawaiians fish by night by the light of torches whenever the weather is favorable.
5. Kamehameha I., who, landing at Waikiki with his warriors, engaged the army of the chief then reigning over the Island of Oahu, drove him and his forces up the valley of the Nuuanu, and finally over the precipice of the Pali, and so made himself master of the Island, as mentioned in the 6th stanza.
6. Ylang-ylang—A Persian perfume resembling the delightful scent of fragrant blossoms growing at Waikiki.
7. Mount Diablo, California.
8. Waikiki—Honolulu's favorite summer retreat and seaside resort. —[Am. Ex.]

THE PUBLIC DEBT AND THE PUBLIC CREDIT.

The Provisional Government has advertised for tenders for the first part of the issue of bonds lately provided for by law. These bonds are five-twenty, i. e., they are payable in not less than five nor more than twenty years. They draw six per cent. interest.

It is no exaggeration to say that the money market of the world does not offer an investment which combines better the elements of profit and security than these Hawaiian Government bonds. This may seem to be a very bold statement. To those who view it in this light, we may commend the following statement of Government assets and liabilities:

ASSETS.
Total value of Government property, as shown by Damon's report of 1890 (less cash balance of that date), $5,300,000
Cash in hand May 1st, 1893 (est.)	90,000
New Dredger	75,000
Sundry other additional improvements	50,000
Crown Lands	1,020,000
	$6,515,000
LIABILITIES.
Bonded Debt, April 26th, 1893	$2,492,300
Treasury Notes	51,000
Deposits - Postal Savings Bank	522,666
Postmaster-General's Notes	155,000
New Loan (not yet negotiated)	750,000
	$3,970,966
Excess of Assets over Liabilities	$2,544,034.

The figures given above furnish an ample demonstration of the sound financial condition of the Government. There are 861,800 acres of Government lands, some of which are among the finest in the country. In Mr. Damon's very careful and conservative estimate the value of these lands is set down at $2,186,950, which is only about 25 cents an acre. They are worth much more. The Crown lands are a magnificent domain containing 915,288 acres. They are naturally much more valuable than the Government lands, and the estimate which places their value at $1,000,000 is exceedingly low. The revenue of the Crown lands is already $50,000, and it will reach $80,000 within a year or two. The Government lands are yielding $53,000 a year. This gives a total income of $103,000 a year from the public lands. The present value of the public domain, however, is a mere bagatelle in comparison with what prudent management can make it within ten or twenty years. For purposes of security it is not the present but the prospective value which counts. The taker of the new bonds wants to know, not what the lands are worth now, but what they will be worth when his bonds fall due, twenty years hence. It is safe to say that ten millions or twenty would not overshoot the mark.

It is not necessary, however, for a Government to be able to make such a showing as Hawaii can, in order to establish its credit. It is the taxing power which is really behind every loan. The possession of the power to tax really means that the State has an interest, and a very substantial interest, in all the real and personal property in the country. The wealth of Hawaii per capita is very considerable. Its debt per capita is very small. Its undeveloped resources per capita are enormous. Its revenues could be pledged in London for a loan of eight or ten millions of dollars. In comparison with this sum the actual public indebtedness is a trifle. In view of the foregoing facts it is entirely safe to say that Hawaiian Government bonds, taken at par, drawing six per cent. interest, and backed by nothing but the credit of Hawaii as an independent country, offer an exceptionally secure, attractive and remunerative investment.

The value of Hawaiian bonds does not, however, depend solely upon the credit of Hawaii as an independent country. Annexation to the United States will make them United States Government bonds, and will write across the back of every one of them the name of the richest government on earth. The treaty which Mr. Harrison sent to the Senate provided for the assumption of the entire public debt of Hawaii, and there is not the smallest probability that any future treaty will be drafted without a similar provision. United States four per cents. command a handsome premium, and Hawaiian sixes should easily be worth 115.

The above facts certainly bear out everything which we have claimed for Hawaiian Government bonds. It is a mistake to imagine that the safety of these is involved in the uncertainties of the political situation. At the worst they offer a secure and attractive investment, for small savings as for extensive outlays, and in all probability they will go within a year to a heavy premium. Buy them.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the statements made or opinions expressed by our correspondents.

MR. EDITOR: Kindly allow me space in your valuable journal to make a few remarks on an occurrence which has just been conspicuously brought to my notice, and which I consider should not be allowed to pass unnoticed. There is an old and true maxim that "a silk purse cannot be made out of a sow's ear," and it is just as impossible for refinement or any gentlemanly traits to be found in individuals who have not been brought up in such a manner. The case in question was the dismissal or which led to the resignation of a certain Custom House officer to-day. There appears to have been a shortage of two packages in the tallying of the S. G. Wilder's cargo, in fact the Customs books requires a greater number by two (2), of articles for Waterhouse & Co. than was shown on their own books, and which was inquired into by the officer from that firm's employees, and which so far took the onus of any mistake off the officer's shoulders. The Port Surveyor on inquiring into the matter asked for an explanation, and not being satisfied with what were facts, reported the matter to the Collector. This gentleman's ire did not quite coincide with Mr. Port Surveyor's, so to make matters short, he brought up another plea that the officer was not on duty on a certain day when he was required. Now, on this day, leave was undoubtedly granted in the crude term of "you better take a walk elsewhere."

With all these lame accusations, this officer might have yet held his position, but he preferred resigning than to be daily the recipient of gross and insulting language better suited to a fore-castle than to men who are supposed to be gentlemen. I wish to bring this prominently before the public in order to show how inefficient and incompetent some men are who have the good luck of falling into situations which they are not qualified to fill. Would it not be more creditable to let such men keep to their old jobs, and not to "cog the wheels" of decency and throw slurs on positions of trust and uprightness? "A Lion will be a lion still; but a pigmy will be a pigmy, though perched upon a hill."

H. F. WICHMAN

The vacancy in my Watch Repairing Department caused by the death of my old Watch-maker, has been filled by a competent man of experience from the States.

We are now in a position as of old, to do any and all work in this line, and to guarantee satisfaction.

No work too intricate. No watch too complicated for us.

The excellent reputation gained in the past for fine work and only such will be maintained at all hazards.

My OPTICAL BUSINESS is now an established institution, and hardly needs mention. Yet as I am making this a FEATURE and a LARGE ONE of my regular business, I want to keep it constantly before you. The many flattering testimonials I have received from my patients the past two months, and the daily increasing business convince me that you appreciate my knowledge, and are willing to profit thereby.

A failure to correct any trouble which glasses can correct IMPOSSIBLE.

My system of testing is so simple and yet so perfect, that the whole thing becomes a pleasure to you, instead of a tedious and painful operation. Will you bear it in mind? No charge for testing.

While W. Scott, a member of the mounted patrol, was riding on Fort street yesterday afternoon, he accidentally dropped his pistol. The hammer of the weapon struck the sidewalk, discharging it. The ball entered the neck of his horse. Unless inflammation sets in, the animal will recover.

The steamer Mokolihi arrived last evening at 12 o'clock from Molokai, and sailed out of the harbor shortly afterward for Koolau, this island, for a load of sheep. She is expected back this afternoon. ## KALAKAUA'S CROWN.

Some of the Decorative Material Found at the Palace.

Some weeks ago the inhabitants of this quiet city were informed by the ADVERTISER that the crown which was worn by the late King Kalakaua at his coronation had been robbed of its jewels. The robbery was supposed to have taken place in the Chamberlain's office. Although the police and others made an investigation the guilty ones have not been captured. The only development regarding this case came to the surface the other day, when some native men were removing some bags of black sand from the cellar of the Palace. One of the natives found a few worthless stones and some filigree work which had been taken from the crown. The decorative material was given to Samuel Nowlin by a native, who in turn handed it to the Marshal.

What One Woman Can Do in Upsetting Wall Street.

The extraordinary commotion one woman can cause in a crowd, and that woman a quiet, self-contained, lady-like woman going about her own business, is occasionally witnessed down in Wall street or some similarly crowded neighborhood given over to males of money getting. It is one of the amusing things of the metropolitan streets.

There are women in nearly all of the big office buildings down town. Men grow accustomed to female clerks, stenographers and typewriters and the latter accustomed to male business society. One would naturally suppose that this familiar relation would tend to deaden the shock of sudden contact with anything in skirts or trousers. But it doesn't.

A swell woman of swaggar attire who turns down Wall street any business afternoon will be assured of more attention than she ever before in her life received. If she be dressed as I saw one last week it will be an ovation. This young woman wore a red dress, red wrap, red hat, red shoes, red stockings, red gloves—everything in sight was red, save only her hair and eyes, and these were black as a raven's wing. She had a lovely figure and her springy step and the spirited poise of her head proclaimed the thoroughbred.

Men turned around to look at her and bumped against each other and turned and got banged this way and that in the crowd because of this rare vision and smiled and apologized only to run into somebody else. Her course down Wall street from Broadway was productive of more collisions than were seen since the last financial panic.

The whole stock market fell off and things looked feverish—just for a few brief minutes—then the Federal building swallowed her up and Wall street relaxed into its customary apathy for all external things—N. Y. Herald.

AN INTERESTING WOMAN.

The Brilliant Society Editor of a Cincinnati Paper.

Mrs. C. A. R. Devereux, the brilliant society editor of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, lives on West Fourth street, where, until recently, when three weddings of her children followed in quick succession, she was surrounded by an interesting family. Only one, dainty Marion, who is yet a bud, remains in this home of refinement.

MRS. C. A. R. DEVEREUX.

Born in Boston, brought up in an atmosphere of culture, invited to read at morning symposiums papers that found their way into print, it is hard to say when Mrs. Devereux first began to write for the newspapers. But the first real work, about five years ago, was her marriage to General Devereux in the seventies, was for the Boston Advertiser. Her next work was for The Courier of that city.

It has been only a few years since women began to be appreciated as journalists, and on the removal of General Devereux to Cincinnati in 1876 she began to write feature articles for The Gazette, using the nom de plume of Clara de Vere, and for The Commercial, where her initials, D'Arc, reversed, were used. Soon after her advent in Cincinnati journalism she was given the art assignments and then society work. The Sunday paper had grown, and with it the society column, and on the consolidation of The Commercial Gazette Mrs. Devereux was made society editor, and she enjoys the distinction of being the first woman employed in any capacity on the Cincinnati papers. To define in what particular Mrs. Devereux attracts you is an impossibility, but as you enter her door something in the sincere hospitable greeting makes you feel you are really welcome to this retreat, with its quaint furnishings, all in such artistic confusion.

In appearance Mrs. Devereux is of medium height, rather stout, but her carriage is so dignified it gives you the impression she is quite tall. The expression of her face is forceful, and in her profile the angle of intellect is clearly defined. She is bright and witty in conversation, is well versed in all branches of newspaper work and wields a ready, trenchant pen. Mrs. Devereux is a fine linguist. Her fads? Ah, yes, women all have fads nowadays, but to see her in her home one need not ask that question. It is one any woman ought to be proud to own—her home and the comforts of her family.

A Novel Recipe Book.

A small book is easily made of Watson's heavy water color paper by drawing a design of a fish, as shown in the illustration, or of an orange, a lemon, potato, apple or any fruit or vegetable in frequent use for the table. When well drawn, color this design with water color paint, directly from the object or from a good copy. A dozen or more leaves may be cut of smooth white letter paper, without lines, to fit the cover and inserted as leaves to the book by means of two holes pierced through the whole with a penknife, after which daisy ribbon is to be drawn through these and tied in a jaunty little bowknot on top.

The little book is now in readiness to receive its contents, which should be well tried and thoroughly tested recipes for the use of the fruit or vegetable designated by the cover. These may be written on the inside leaves attractively in gilt or silver lettering with a stub pen. A fish book should contain recipes for baked fish, boiled and fried fish, fish cakes, fish balls and the like.

A dozen or more of these little books representing the articles used daily in the household fare, arranged together with long hoops of daisy ribbon, will call to mind a bunch of market garden vegetables cleverly bunched, of the greens in season, to tempt the eye and palate and to aid in suggesting variety to the menu that is likely to grow monotonous in the weary round of recurring meals.

FLORENCE TYNG ELLIS.

A Girl of Pluck.

One of the successful real estate dealers of New York is a girl of 30, Miss Agnes K. Murphy. Her pluck, perseverance and shrewdness enabled her last year to negotiate among her sales two very large ones, one of $90,000, the other of $100,000. She operates in the upper, growing part of the great city. Her father was in the business before her, but died three years ago, leaving this girl of 17 with his family to support. She considered the load bravely and at once ventured out more daringly and successfully than her father had ever done. Immediately at the conclusion of the $90,000 sale Miss Murphy was proposed as a member of the New York Real Estate Exchange.

The first prize for dairy butter at the Maine state fair was won by Mrs. Mary L. Robbins of Winthrop.

The popular work, "The Tourists' Guide Through the Hawaiian Islands," is meeting with a steady sale both at home and abroad. Tourists and others visiting these islands should be in possession of a copy of it. It is a perfect mine of information relating to the scenes and attractions to be met with here. Copies in wrappers can be had at the publication office, 46 Merchant street, and at the News Dealers. Price 90 cents.

Naval officers of high and low rank are on the anxious bench as to details after the naval review. It is conceded that there will be a general change of commands of many of the ships and reliefs ordered to them promptly.—Ex.

The phonograph is now located in the Thomas block, on King street. Mr. Stoeckle has a big collection of new records which cannot fail to please the general public.

WOMAN'S WORLD IN PARAGRAPHS.

"The Cosmopolis Club"—Fatal Flaw in an Otherwise Perfect Picture.

Have you read Rev. Washington Gladden's "Cosmopolis Club" in The Century Magazine? He draws a beautiful picture of how the best people in every town and city of the Union can reform the municipal government if they will. A doctor, a lawyer, a preacher, a mechanic and various others interested in good city government form the Cosmopolis club. They hold meetings and appoint committees whose work it is to visit the city departments, among other things, see how the money is spent and what the municipal officials are doing to earn their salaries. An excellent part of the scheme is that when they find dens of unlawful trade and resort flourishing they do not prosecute the keepers of the unlawful places, but the officials whose business it is to suppress such nests of iniquity. Of course it is all a story in a magazine, but in time the Cosmopolitans suppress the bad places and get the city government honestly administered, and all ends beautifully. There is one fatal flaw in this fine scheme. There are no women citizens in it. I am surprised at that, for Rev. Washington Gladden is generally known as a good woman's rights man. But certain it is that his plan could never succeed till women had part in it and helped. Business men, doctors, lawyers and carpenters are too busy earning a living to attend night after night such meetings as he describes, and quite too busy to go around municipal buildings, fire departments, waterworks offices, health bureaus and street cleaning headquarters to ascertain the facts necessary to inaugurate reforms. The fact that they have been too busy for such investigation is exactly the reason that city governments have fallen so low. No, no, Mr. Gladden! It won't do. You can set this one fact down and ponder on it: City governments will never be reformed, the community will never have clean, well lighted, safe streets, first class public schools, a public sentiment in favor of morality, beauty and purity, till women take hold of municipal matters, knowing that the future of their children depends on these things. Wake up the women in our towns and cities!

The New York city board of education—Tammany—does not want any women on the school board. The members gave a vote to this effect in answer to a request from Mayor Gilroy for an expression of opinion on the subject. In 1893 the lady mayor of New York city will send a communication to the members of the school board asking whether, in their judgment, it is wise to permit men to serve on it. In answer the board—not Tammanyites—will reply that the school board is not a fit place for men because they will not take time from their business duties to attend to its requirements properly. Then the board of education will continue, as before, to be made up of women.

Both the senate and house of the Pennsylvania legislature have passed an act making women eligible to serve as notaries public.

It is said that the reason the faculty of the Columbian university, Washington, decided to close the doors of the medical department to women was that they did not like the conduct of one of the women students. How would it do to close the doors of our medical colleges to men every time a young man student misbehaved himself? How many colleges would open next fall?

The Thirty-eighth Street Working Girls' club of New York city lately discussed the question, "How to Tell a Real Lady." Some club ought also to discuss the question, "How to Tell a Real Gentleman." The first sign of a real gentleman would be that he does not spit.

If Mary Lease, president of the Kansas state board of charities, has her noble way during her term of service, there will not be in the state a rotten charity supply contract or a spoils politician in a public charity office, neither a brutal or callous official, nor a fraudulent or able-bodied pauper. Hers is one of the offices that wise women are especially fitted to fill.

I have often wondered that more women do not go into dairying and butter making. I have known in towns of a few hundred inhabitants industrious German women that supported their families off the milk of two or three cows. With 10 cows a full set of machinery for butter making and a cream separator can be kept. The work is moderately hard, but much easier than sewing 12 hours a day, much more healthful than schoolteaching, and when the business is well managed it pays better than either of these. In neighborhoods where creameries are established and the owners will pay fair prices for the cream to make into butter the labor of churning is avoided and enough received for the cream to pay good returns, with the skim milk left over to raise chickens on. Milk so rich that 84 quarts of it will yield from three-quarters of a pound to a pound of butter will pay well to make butter from, even if the cream is disposed of at a butter factory. A milk test is necessary to find out the richness of the milk.

Harriet Hosmer is 61 years of age, but intellectual woman never grows old. Miss Hosmer never did better work than she does now. She receives $15,000 for her statue of Queen Isabella, which is to be unveiled at the opening of the World's fair.

I expect to hear that the women of New York state are leaving the Presbyterian church by the hundred. The presbytery of that state has recently voted against the appointment of women as deaconesses; also against their appointment as church officers in religious and charitable work among their own sex. No self respecting woman in New York can of course belong to a church which denies her the privilege of doing religious and charitable church work, even among her own sex, except under the direction of a man. Heaven save us!

The Yost WRITING MACHINE.

Years ago, Mrs. Yost built a typewriter, the Remington No. 2 and Caligraph which were good enough then. But the family has increased by thousands. Other folks have hitched on extensions to hold 'em. But it's the same old typewriter, same ribbon, same scales, same rickety print. We want something modern, and we get it in the NEW Yost, which rises superior to the difficulties of any ribbon machine. The ribbon blurs print, wears full of holes, clogs type, takes power to pull it along, weakens manifold and costs $8 or $10 a year. Our ink pad outlasts twenty ribbons. Can be changed in ten seconds, and costs less than $2 a year. And as to permanent alignment the Yost is the only machine which accomplishes this much desired feat.
