BUMPS AND JINKS.

Two distinguished characters have recently turned up in the columns of the "Advertiser." They were well known in this city about four years ago, more or less. They then gave occasional exhibitions in the BULLETIN. All of a sudden they disappeared and nobody knew what had become of them. It appears that they shipped and went to sea before the mast, but probably growing tired of "a life on the ocean wave" and thinking that they were entitled to some crumbs from the victorious "reform party," a party whose cause they espoused on the former occasion, they have again made us a visit.

On this occasion they have hired a new hull, and are giving exhibitions at the office of the "P. C. Advertiser." They have already given two shows—one last week and another this. Age and experience have had a marked effect on their style of talk: it smells very loudly of the sea and the ship. The two entertainments already given have been quite enjoyable, and well worth the charge.

Bumps is evidently "hand and glove" with the Government party: he thinks it is "tip-top," and takes special pains to convert Jinks to the same method of thought. Jinks is very much exercised about the BULLETIN, and in the short space of four years seems to have forgotten all about his old prop. Jinks knows how to box the compass and understands how to spin a forecastle yarn, but the principles of navigation are Arabic to him: his education has been sadly neglected in this line. Abstract right and abstract wrong are beyond his comprehension: he has neither the learning nor the mental capacity to grasp them. To draw a line between a person and a principle is a problem that Jinks could never solve. His friend Bumps is unable to assist him. In fact, they are a pair.

With them right is right because it is the work of their friends, and wrong is wrong because it is perpetuated by those outside of their circle. This accounts for Jinks' inability to understand the BULLETIN. He perceives that when a Samaritan gives a quarter to a widow he does a good deed, but he cannot comprehend that if the Samaritan next robs an orphan he commits a wrong act. Was not the Samaritan the actor in each case? It is incomprehensible that the BULLETIN should bless the gift and curse the robbery, when the same person is the author of both.

Perhaps an introduction to our Arabian friend Antishamus might be mutually beneficial to Bumps and Jinks and the Arab. The latter may impart some light to the former by means of parables or nursery fables, and the former may reciprocate by essays on the art of steering on to a reef. At all events, they would make a jolly trinity.

A WORTHY OBJECT.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Allow me a little space for a worthy object. It is the case of Mr. John Voller, who for the last 18 years, barring a few months, has attended to and been responsible for the furnace, the whistle, and the steam boiler that drives the whole machinery of the Honolulu Iron Works. For the period named he was daily the first on duty and the last to leave. Whoever heard of Voller's whistle being far out or neglected? Sundays and holidays ever found him fitting his charge for the following day—cleaning the tubes, scaling the boiler, etc. Humble and unobtrusive he plodded on the even tenor of his way: on duty he ate his frugal meal. A wife and a numerous family of young children absorbed his entire earnings, which at best were small.

Well, faithful Voller is no longer able to be at his old post, and has not been for some time past; for he has become blind—entirely and hopelessly blind. The glare of the furnace for some thirty years gradually dimmed his vision, until the light of his eyes went out. He is unable any longer to work for the support of his wife and little ones, and yet they are dependent upon him.

The people at the foundry were kind and raised a subscription, but this is all gone, and my object in writing these lines is to bring this deserving case to the notice of the charitable public. Can't something be done? LANE.

[We know the above to be a needy and worthy case, and would urgently recommend it to the kind consideration of the humane and charitable.—Ed.]

A REMARKABLE MEMORY.

A remarkable instance of memory has just come to my notice, writes a correspondent to the "Critic" (New York). Its possessor is a lady member of Dr. Howard Crosby's church in New York. Without having taken a single note, she will when she goes home write out every word of her pastor's sermon, and he tells me she never makes a mistake of a "the" or an "and"—that every sentence not only embodies his idea but gives it in his exact language. For twenty-five years this lady has been performing these feats of memory, and during that time she has written out some two thousand sermons. The manuscripts of some of them she has had bound and presented to Dr. Crosby. They make forty large volumes. But this is not all of her devoted labors; she has written out also from memory, all of his lectures, and she has classified his opinions on all the subjects upon which he has spoken during these years, and has made an elaborate series of indexes to them. Not a word is omitted. Even when the preacher drops into Greek, Latin, or Hebrew, she follows him, for she is proficient in each of these languages.

THE CHINESE NAVY.

China had no navy to speak of when the trouble with France broke out in 1883. She had a few men-of-war, so-called, but they were of no size and they were commanded by native officers. They generally ran foul of each other when they tried to maneuver and Admiral Courbet was never able to get a fight out of any of them. The captains preferred running their ships aground to meeting the enemy. At the affair of the Min Faris, the Chinese squadron actually ran down the boom which had been placed to prevent the ascent of the river by the French.

In 1884 Li Hung Chang saw the necessity of providing a fleet against future emergencies and he ordered the construction of men-of-war in England and Germany on the latest approved models. No expense was spared. Every ship was provided with the latest improvements in naval warfare. Simultaneously a large dock-yard was established at Foochow and a smaller one at Shanghai, and European naval architects were engaged to superintend the works. Vessels have been on the stocks at these yards ever since.

At the present time China has five armored vessels. Of these the largest is the Chen Yuen, of 7430 tons displacement, or nearly as large again as the Chicago, and 6200 horse-power, against 5000 estimated horse-power for the Chicago. She carries four 12-inch and two 6-inch breech-loading rifles, besides machine guns and light guns. The heaviest guns on the Chicago are 8-inch. Her speed is reckoned at fourteen and a half knots.

Two sister ships, the King Yuen and the Sar Yuen, are similar in size and equipment to our Atlanta and Boston. A barbed ship, the Ting Yuen, with a displacement of 7430 tons, a battery of 12-inch Krupp rifles, and an estimated speed of fourteen and a half knots, is a more formidable vessel than we possess in our navy. The Chinese have, besides, one armored gunboat of 195 tons displacement, and carrying one 6-inch Krupp rifle. Her speed is estimated at only eleven knots.

The Chinese have no vessels to correspond with our Baltimore, Newark or Charleston, but they have eight unarmored cruisers, with protected decks, with displacements ranging from 2200 to 2600 tons. These vessels are generally calculated to steam fifteen knots, and two of them were built to steam eighteen knots, though they do not seem to have reached that rate. Their heavy battery consists of 8-inch guns, either of the Krupp or the Armstrong type, besides smaller guns of the same patterns and torpedo dischargers. Four smaller cruisers built in England, are supposed to be capable of steaming sixteen knots; two of them 210 feet long, with 2677 horse power, carry 16-inch Armstrong rifles. Four other cruisers are on the stocks.

Besides these the Chinese navy comprises eleven gunboats of 440-horse power, a flotilla of thirteen gunboats for coast service at Canton, and a torpedo fleet of twenty-one first-class and nine second-class torpedo boats. Two of the first-class torpedo-boats are guaranteed to steam over twenty-three knots. The navy of the United States comprises about sixty vessels which are available for service and in case of necessity four monitors could be finished, so as to be suitable for harbor defense. But of the old ships so few are fit to engage in modern warfare that in reality the naval strength of the United States is narrowed down to the cruisers which have been built since 1882. As the case stands at present the naval strength of China is greater than ours. But the development of the science of high explosives and the extension of the torpedo system have rendered it very unsafe to say what kind of craft could be relied upon to carry on maritime warfare at the present day. We have no vessels which could engage in duel with the Admiral Duperre, or the Infexible, or the Duilio; but, as our men-of-war have greater speed and could destroy them from a distance by means of torpedoes, we need have no apprehension.—[S. F. Call.]

Absolutely Pure.

THE TAHITI AERATED WATERS have the greatest possible purity in the method of preparing the gas and the superior quality of the water used. The gas undergoes the purifying process of passing through the water of a 50 gallon tank, before being admitted to the silver-lined retort in which the liquors are confined; and the water is from an artesian well. There is no surface water used in the manufacture; no vegetable decay; no animal matter; no germs of disease; nor any impurity whatever. Absolute purity of gas and water make the liquors rest in the weakest of stomachs at all times; the machinery at the SUNNY SOUTH FACTORY is kept scrupulously clean, and operated by steam power; and the bottles being on the valve principle requiring no corks, the use of corkscrews is avoided. Another important consideration in the use of valve-bottles is that no metal is used in their composition.

POLICE COURT.

THURSDAY, Oct. 11th.
Frank Koach, Harry Clark and Geo. Gathknecht had each to pay the usual amount for drunkenness.
Adolph Bruns charged with vagr-ancy, was sentenced to sixty days imprisonment at hard labor. The prisoner was found at Marshfield asleep under a tree.
Akai, for having opium in possession was fined $50 with 24 hours hard labor.

MILLINERY DISPLAY.

The new stock of millinery at the Popular Millinery House, N. S.
Sachs' proprietor, has attracted the attention of a large number of ladies. Many handsome bonnets have been sold, and as there are only a few more left, ladies should avail themselves of the opportunity of calling early to avoid disappointment. This department is in charge of Miss Kelley, a lady who gives entire satisfaction and turns out the most stylish work. Visitors to this store receive the politest attention.

AN OPIUM SMOKER'S PLEA.

Akai, a Chinaman, was up before the Court this morning for having opium in possession. On being arraigned he pleaded guilty. His counsel, Hon. W. R. Castle, asked for a mitigation of sentence, as the defendant who was in ill health, had been ordered a course of treatment which included the use of opium.
He had held a certificate under the old law, and it was his first appearance before the Court. The outfit used by Akai was produced in court. Judge Dayton fined the defendant $50, with twenty-four hours imprisonment at hard labor.

A MUTUAL UNDERSTANDING.

The Police Court room was crowded with Chinese this morning, expecting to hear the case of the tea Chinese charged with being common nuisances. The arrest was made a day or two ago at the Chinese theatre. Six other Chinamen were also charged with assault and battery. A nolle pros. was entered against the sixteen defendants, it being stated that a mutual understanding had been arrived at.

THE BATHHOUSE CASE.

The case of Charles Molteni, selling spirituous liquors in Honolulu within the three months of and preceding August 25th, 1888, and more particularly on that date, came up for trial in the Supreme Court this morning before Mr. Justice Mc-Cully and a Hawaiian jury. This is Molteni's second offence, and an appeal from the Police Court, when on September 5th he was found guilty and sentenced to four months' imprisonment at hard labor and fine of $500, with $6.00 costs. At noon two witnesses for the prosecution had been examined. Deputy Attorney-General Peterson appears for the Crown, and J. L. Kaulukou for the defendant.

KEEPING OF ACCOUNTS.

A TEST CASE UNDER THE NEW LAW.
A Chinaman, Lau Kin, was charged in the Police Court this morning with not keeping his books in the English, Hawaiian or some European language, he being licensed on October 24, 1888, to sell goods at retail in Honolulu, contrary to chapter 11 Session Laws of 1888, the same being "An Act to regulate the keeping of books of accounts by wholesale and retail licensees." This law it will be remembered was passed at the last session of the Legislature, and this is the first arrest under it.

Deputy-Marshal Hopkins said that in company with Hang Sam he visited the defendant's store on Hotel street and asked him how he kept his books. He said he kept them in Chinese, as he knew no other language.

Quong Seang See was employed by defendant and knew all his books. Defendant was sole owner and proprietor of the store, and the books are not kept in the English, Hawaiian or any European language.
The case was continued to the 12th for judgment, the defendant being allowed to be at large on his own recognizance.

SOME NOTABLE PICTURES.

A representative of this paper had an opportunity of viewing the numerous pictures which are being unpacked and arranged at G. W. Macfarlane & Co.'s store preparatory to a grand exhibition. The invoice arrived a short time ago on the ship Cockermouth from London, and judging from the various subjects depicted and the numerous marines, figure, historical and genre pictures here displayed, they were very judicially selected.

Arriving at the head of the stairs one comes upon a veritable picture gallery; the effect is like a transformation scene. The long counters have been removed and handsome rugs are on the floor, and small tables covered with costly bric-a-brac are placed here and there. At the end of the hall, between the beautifully draped windows hangs a large matted-mirror whose golden shelves hold sevens vases and dainty Dresden ware, the whole being set off effectively with huge jars of potted plants.

On each wall hang pictures of all sizes, ranging from the larger stately historical subjects in oils suitable for a richly furnished family mansion, to tiny dainty water colors, just the thing for my lady's boudoir, and all subjects from sublime, sentimental, picturesque and frivolous.
They have been hung and arranged with painstaking discrimination and show evidences of the supervision of exquisite taste.

Enumerating so many would take too much space but one must remark a few of the most attractive.
Two large original subjects in oils by George Read are "Gypsy Girl" and "Lady and Bagpipes." In the first a tall southern beauty leans against a marble pillar and gazes with dreamy eyes out of the picture.
The color is rich and low in tone full of the drowsy splendor of southern skies, and a girl of companion to the other which represents a girl holding bag-pipes; a beautiful creature of generous curves, while the distant effect presents a view of the city of Capri with long shimmering reflections in the water. These are both framed in heavy mouldings of unique design.

In the matter of frames there are two that are particularly attractive.
They are wide and flat, containing in bas-relief the stems and leaves of the Scotch thistle, the real article being attached to the stem and gilded to make the effect more natural; these pretty frames contain pictures equally attractive.

A Normande scene painted by J.
C. Stone looks refreshingly cool these hot days, with its fog and wet, and sturdy simple fisher folk.

That well known "The Favorite" has here an excellent copy in oils by J. Deket. The engraving is familiar to all—the tall graceful girl extending a shapely arm to a white cockatoo.

There are four small but exquisitely finished hunting pictures full of dash and spirit of the field that will reward careful inspection.

There are only two chromes in the exhibition, but their piquancy must be their excuse, and also the fact that they are artist's proofs.
They are simple love scenes "the old, old story," but told in a way that will win a sympathetic smile from every observer.

One gay little corner is devoted to water colors. "The Maid and the Magpie" bewitchingly suggests the old song, "The Maid and the Magpie kept talking all day."

The saucy little person leaning back upon a garden seat is glancing roughly at the raven who struts solemnly in the foreground. All the accessories, door-way, flowers, etc., are delightfully dashed in.

Another water color—and there are several exquisite ones—5 by 2, Levis. In the foreground the waves dash up against over-hanging cliffs, a few ships float upon the waters, or the distance merges into purple shadow.

A few of Mr. Strong's smaller pictures occupy a space to the right, and his frank honest work from nature has the real out-of-doors flavor.
They are just the pictures to send home across the seas to our friends, for no photograph can give the effect of some of his mono-chromes of island scenery. He also has two small oils of the Volcano and Diamond Head. The former, an exquisite picture with all the suggestive honor of Madame Pele and yet no garish contrasts. The Diamond Head is fresh as nature, glinting with sunlight and sparkling with sea-foam. They are the best small pictures we have seen by this artist since he came here.

By all odds the gem of the collection is a heliotype after the celebrated original of Gabriel Max. The subject is one of the most touching incidents of the New Testament, where the Saviour stops by the wayside to heal a child. The mother raises appealing eyes full of mute misery to His face, clasping her pale dying boy in her arms. The personification of Christ in this figure is complete—the grace of the attitude, the noble sweep of the drapery, and the serene beauty of the head are all, with consummate feeling, subordinated to the expression of divine tenderness and sympathy.

PROBATE MATTERS.

THE WILLS OF S. G. WILDER AND Z.
Y. SQUIRES BEFORE THE COURT.

In the matter of the estate of Samuel G. Wilder, before Dole, J.
The taking of testimony of the subscribing witnesses to the will and codicil was begun on the 2nd inst., and concluded on the 8th. The Court this morning ordered that said will and codicil be admitted to probate and that letters issue to Hons.
A. F. Judd and W. F. Allen as administrators with the will annexed under bond of $50,000.

A renunciation of their appointment under the will, was filed by the following named executors: W.
C. Wilder, C. L. Wight, G. P.
Wilder, Samuel G. Wilder and A.
F. Judd. Hence the appointment of the above named administrators with the will annexed. The will dated March 10, 1886, was witnessed by Samuel B. Rose, Wm. G.
Brash and W. R. Sims. The codicil dated November 1, 1887, was witnessed by Samuel G. Wilder, Jr., Charles A. Kibling and Wm. G.
Brash. All these witnesses not being in Honolulu on the first day of hearing, necessitated the continuance from day to day.

The estate consists of stock in lumber business, shares in the Wilder Steamship Company, Kahului Railroad Company, Hawaiian Railroad Company, Honolulu Ice Works, money and effects, the estimated value of the whole of which is put down in the application for probate at $200,000. Besides this valuation the life of deceased was insured in various companies for about $65,- 000. The administrators were ordered to advertise notice to creditors in the English, Hawaiian and Portuguese languages and within sixty days to file their inventory of the property of the deceased. There are several devisees mentioned in the will. Mr. A. S. Hartwell appeared for the proponents of the will. No opposition was made.

In re estate Z. Y. Squires, of Wailua, Oahu, deceased, before Judd C. J. The application of the widow Mrs. Harriet Squires, for probate of the will was heard and granted. The widow and Gaspar Silva, were the executors named in the will, but they renouncing, the Court appointed Hon. W. O. Smith as administrator with the will annexed to act under bond of $10,000.
The estate consists of a house lot, pasture land, horses and cattle in Wailua, on this island, valued at $4,000. The will devises all personal property to the widow absolute, and the real estate to her for life, and after her death to go to one Mrs. Frances E. Jackson, sister of the deceased. Hon. W. O.
Smith appeared for the widow; W.
A. Whiting for the said Mrs. Jackson. The deceased left no children living.
