MANY ABUSES AT PRESENT

Matson People Issue Circular Letter Telling of Their New Ruling.

All the shipping offices in the city handling passenger business, except the Inter-Island company, have had under consideration a method by which the duplication of bookings can be eradicated, or at least the abuse lessened, but the Matson company has been the first to put a method into effect. The company will hereafter require a ten-dollar booking fee with each name placed on the lists, and has had a form printed which can be sent out to all intending passengers by the Matson route, as follows:

In order to assure our patrons of definite transportation and assignments by steamers of the Matson Navigation Company's line between Honolulu and San Francisco, and to prevent abuses of the privilege of making reservations, we have been compelled to adopt the plan of requiring a booking fee of ten dollars for each person, at the time the intending passenger makes reservation. It is understood that the booking fee covers reservation for one person only on one individual steamer, and applies on transportation charges.

Your name appears on our booking list by the S. S. sailing from Honolulu We shall be pleased to have you call at our office and deposit with us ten dollars on or before March 21, 1910. If we do not hear from you on or before the time stated, we shall consider that you desire your reservation canceled. Very truly yours,

CASTLE & COOKE, LIMITED,
T. H. PETRIE, Secretary,
Agents, Matson Navigation Company.

The Oceanic Steamship Company's local agency and the Pacific Mail company agency have both had the matter under consideration, but have not considered it wise to go to the extent of calling for a booking fee. It is understood that the Hulekai plan is to issue a form which can be sent out to persons listed on their books, calling their attention to the possibility of getting accommodations and to notify the office seven days before scheduled sailing time of vessels whether or not they intend to depart on this or that vessel. If no reply is made seven days ahead of the proposed sailing the name will be erased from the list.

This method is believed to be feasible, as when a person's name is erased the one next below goes up a peg, and if the one whose name was erased later decides to go his name will be placed at the foot of the list.

This method has been under consideration for some time but has not been definitely settled. It is likely that the Oceanic company may follow the same policy.

In the case of the Matson and Oceanic companies, however, the agents know almost to the hour when their boats are to leave and just about how many passengers can be accommodated, as Honolulu is a terminal and starting point. In the case of the Pacific Mail, Honolulu is merely a port of call, and the local agents are unable to state to any intending passenger whether accommodations are available or not, at least until reliable advices are received from Yokohama.

KING PETER TO VISIT CZAR

ST. PETERSBURG, March 1.—The Novoe Vremya announces authoritatively that King Peter of Servia will visit St. Petersburg this spring. This will be his first reception by a foreign sovereign since his accession and probably will lead to a general lifting of the ban by European courts from which King Peter has been excluded because of the circumstances attending his elevation to the throne.

JOURNEY NEARLY ENDS IN DEATH

Keeps Auto From Plunging Over Precipice on the Pali Road.

The strength of the railing and jamming of the brakes prevented the auto from plunging over the Pali road morning to certain destruction six hundred feet below. The auto contained five tourists and the an employee of E. H. Lewis, being driven from Honolulu on the island trip, and when at one turn, the auto drove straight into the fence which is set on the edge of the precipice. The brakes were set before the machine had crashed into the ravine which was shaken shattered. But the fence held and was saved from going over, the tourists it was probably one the narrowest escapes they ever had. There is absolute need of the most driving over the Pali road because of its tortuous windings and hair turns. These can be negotiated if drivers go slow. Only the fault of the driver yesterday prepared a terrible accident.

RAILROAD BILL BRINGS DEBATE

Sharpest Discussion of Session Marks Appearance of the Measure in the Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The administration railroad bill came up in the senate yesterday for discussion. The appearance of the bill precipitated the sharpest debate which has taken place in the senate this session.

In connection with the bill, which is considered one of the President's pet measures, the name of the chief executive was bandied about with a freedom which amounted to recklessness. Senators Aldrich, Bailey, Cummins, Root, Elkins and Bacon figured conspicuously in the debate.

President Mott-Smith, of the board of health, on the occasion of his last visit to the Big Island, urged upon the people of Honokaa and other places in that section the urgent necessity of adopting sanitary measures. At that time he warned them that, unless they followed his advice, they would have plague as a plague rat had been discovered near Honokaa.

Mr. Mott-Smith stated yesterday that, if any more cases developed, he would have to quarantine against the Big Island, and said also that the federal health authorities would undoubtedly take the same action.

"If there is a single case of plague discovered in one of the plantation camps," he said, "I will issue quarantine orders against the whole island. I warned them some time ago."

HONOLULANS HEAR OF A WORLD WORK

International Secretary of Y. M. C. A. Speaks at the Central Union.

John F. Moore, of New York city, who is spending ten days with the Honolulu Y. M. C. A., gave a stereopticon lecture on the "World-Wide Y. M. C. A. Movement" before a large audience in the Central Union parish house last night. Mr. Moore took up the different phases of Young Men's Christian Association work, industrial, Army and Navy, railroad, student, city and county.

He also told something of the work in foreign lands where in the short space of twenty years, buildings have been erected and secretaries sent to fourteen different countries. He showed a slide which was a fac-simile of the letter sent by the Mikado to the Y. M. C. A. enclosing a check for $7,000 in recognition of the splendid work done by the association in the war with Russia. This is said to have been the Mikado's best gift to a Christian institution.

The slides shown throughout the lecture gave a new idea to most of those present regarding the remarkable scope of the work now being carried on by the Y. M. C. A. Views of shop, bistro, educational classes containing over 100 students, religious meetings in theaters at which over 2000 men were in attendance, reading and sound rooms at typical Y. M. C. A. buildings, and numerous other interesting slides.

Today Mr. Moore speaks at the Hotel in Town Works at noon, confers with the building committee at four p. m., speaks at the Marine barracks at half past one, in the interest of committee at half past seven, and talks to the Boys' Gymnasium at which an audience of 1000 is expected.

"Sunny" (John G. Glazier) has been used for racing in interscholastic football since 1903. Mr. G. M. Glazier, coach of the Marine corps, has been a member of the class since 1903. The class will be in the gymnasium on Saturday evening. Mr. Moore's visit and a large contribution to the school organization is expected to attract.

President of Board of Health Warned Big Islanders of the Danger.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—Quarantine orders were issued yesterday against all vessels arriving here from Hilo, Hawaii, owing to the discovery of cases of plague in the Hawaiian port.

President Mott-Smith, of the board of health, on the occasion of his last visit to the Big Island, urged upon the people of Honokaa and other places in that section the urgent necessity of adopting sanitary measures. At that time he warned them that, unless they followed his advice, they would have plague as a plague rat had been discovered near Honokaa.

THE NEED OF MORE AND BETTER ISLAND PRODUCTS

No. VI.

With the development of modern business methods the small producer began to feel his weakness and inability to meet the demands of his environment. The cultivator of a small area has only small quantities of produce of whatever kind he raises, and can, therefore, not occupy an important place in the market. He receives no special consideration from buyers or transportation companies and can not deal with them in a satisfactory manner. The only solution of this difficulty has been found in cooperation. The work and the methods which it involves should be familiar to every farmer, but unfortunately, this is not true, particularly for Hawaii. On the mainland, cooperative enterprises among farmers at present number among their members more than 3,000,000 individuals and involve more than half the total number of farms in the United States. The number of cooperative societies on the mainland is nearly 100,000 and these societies are concerned in selling fruit, vegetables, nuts, small berries, cotton, tobacco, wheat, sweet potatoes, flax, oats, eggs, poultry, milk, honey, wool, live stock, etc. There is scarcely any branch of farming which has not been organized on a cooperative plan in some locality. Cooperation extends, not only to the sale of all sorts of agricultural products, but also to the purchase of necessities for farm use. Numerous cooperative stores have been established under the ownership of farmers for purchasing and distributing fertilizer, farm machinery, furniture, seeds and other necessities of the farm. A cooperative wooden mill is in operation in New Mexico where 2,000,000 pounds of wool are annually manufactured into clothing and the clothes are sold to members of the cooperative society at somewhat less than one-half the commercial price for clothes of similar quality. Cooperative banks, insurance companies and telephone companies have been established by farmers and have given excellent satisfaction, together with great economy. There are hundreds of cooperative telephone companies throughout the mainland which furnish unlimited service within a radius of fifty miles for from $2.00 to $10.00 per year to each member.

"As a matter of fact, Liliuokalani is very charitable, and does support a horde of old kahillas who, unused to hard labor, or considering it loyal to hang around the dismembered throne, wave the kahillas in Washington Place, the former queen's house on Beretania avenue, and make some show of state in her comings and goings. "The queen said some time ago that she had made a will leaving all her belongings to found a home for poor Hawaiians, and though wealth is especially comparative when poverty is concerned, yet the aged lady who owned the Sandwich Islands said firmly, 'I will leave behind her a fortune of several hundred thousand dollars, unless she disposes of her possessions ere her exit.'

Enough experience has been had with cooperation among farmers to demonstrate conclusively that any farm enterprise and any necessity of the farm may be successfully managed in a cooperative way. In succeeding articles I propose to give a few examples of how co-operation has been put in operation

CARUSO IS IN FEAR OF THE BLACK HAND

NEW YORK, March 4.—Enrico Caruso, the tenor, has received two Black Hand letters demanding $15,000 or his life. There is some disposition among his friends to regard the letters as a joke, but Caruso is convinced that his days are numbered and he will not venture out of his room without a bodyguard.

The first letter instructed Caruso to put the money in his pocket, stroll along Broadway and give it to the first man who asked him for a letter. Caruso took the walk, with two detectives behind him. Evidently the writer followed his movements for today came a second letter, saying:

"When you went out yesterday you had two policemen with you. Do not try to fool us again. We mean business."

Instructions followed to leave the money in a bag at a certain spot in Brooklyn and conclude with threats to "get" Caruso on the street or on the stage.

Two Italians, Antonio Cineotti and Antonio Masani, were arrested late to-night suspected of knowing something about the letters. They were arrested near a spot where Caruso was ordered to place the money after a decoy had been set by detectives. Cineotti is a saloonkeeper; Masani an importer of groceries.

last night's roller polo game, the team between the Princess and the team representing the Marines, ended in tie according to the above. The score is given as follows: Princess team won the first half of the game, so that the sides instated at beginning of the game provided a forfeited for score three goals. Captain of the Princess, was feeling so many times that the ball got out of bounds.

There was trouble among the players at first, starting over the umpire, who had been asked to inquire about the rules of Spalding which were printed in the Advertiser yesterday morning.

Freitas, captain of the Princess, was given a chance to get the ball into the cage when he had a clean sweep at it and nobody but the goal keeper in front. He knocked it way off to the side instead.

Owing to the retirement of Forrest from the team change in the lineup was made, the Princess people going on the floor in the following position: First rusher, C. Freitas; captain; second rusher, Heffernan; center, Ben Beckley; half back, Marquam; goal, A. Lucas.

One of O'Lare's men was on the sick list and he also had to rearrange his team.

No decision was reached last night on the deciding game, but it will probably be played off next Wednesday night. Some of the Princess players said they wouldn't play the Marines any more but it was more in fun than anything else and they can't afford to forfeit their last chance to get the series over a group.

As the writer of the communication to the Star yesterday regarding The Advertiser reporter who is charged with the serious crime of printing the roller polo rules from Spalding's Guide Book, was ashamed to sign his name. The Advertiser will do it for him. He is a man by the name of Clark, an employee of the Star, who referred the second game between the Marines and the Princess a week ago last night. Mr. Clark may be unaware that in the dressing room, after the game he referred was over, some of the players made charges of foul that he overlooked. The Advertiser "cub" reporter recorded them and said that there was a disagreement over the rules.

Captain O'Lare of the Marine team came to The Advertiser afterwards and asked that the rules of the game from Spalding's rule book be printed that all the players might become familiar with them. O'Lare said that he had the only book in town and it was so stated.

The "Angry Referee" sulled about the principle rules which were printed last night was one forbidding raising of the stick above the hip. It was objected to at first but agreed to. During the game men on both sides fought frequently and when observed were called by the referee.

Freitas persisted in pushing the stick in such a manner that his stick often raised but he did not heed warnings of Rodriguez. It is claimed by the members of the half-wet team that many of the spectators who saw the boy throw his stick once openly but the act was not caught.

In the exceptions of these quarter game was a good one all round. Most of the players did the best they could to stick to the rules and the game was more and more interesting in consequence.

There were several hard tumbles during the game and a few of the players had scrapes and bruises to show for enthusiasm, but they were taken part. Freitas was responsible for the goal scored by the Marines in first half as he inadvertently helped roll it through.

Two goals were scored in the first half but were equally exciting. When the ball rolled up to the goal men would come together in a jamb and the ball would ramble among them until it wandered in the goal almost of its own accord. Several long

A marine missed one elegant chance to get the ball into the cage when he had a clean sweep at it and nobody but the goal keeper in front. He knocked it way off to the side instead.

Owing to the retirement of Forrest from the team change in the lineup was made, the Princess people going on the floor in the following position: First rusher, C. Freitas; captain; second rusher, Heffernan; center, Ben Beckley; half back, Marquam; goal, A. Lucas.

One of O'Lare's men was on the sick list and he also had to rearrange his team.

No decision was reached last night on the deciding game, but it will probably be played off next Wednesday night. Some of the Princess players said they wouldn't play the Marines any more but it was more in fun than anything else and they can't afford to forfeit their last chance to get the series over a group.

As the writer of the communication to the Star yesterday regarding The Advertiser reporter who is charged with the serious crime of printing the roller polo rules from Spalding's Guide Book, was ashamed to sign his name. The Advertiser will do it for him. He is a man by the name of Clark, an employee of the Star, who referred the second game between the Marines and the Princess a week ago last night. Mr. Clark may be unaware that in the dressing room, after the game he referred was over, some of the players made charges of foul that he overlooked. The Advertiser "cub" reporter recorded them and said that there was a disagreement over the rules.

Captain O'Lare of the Marine team came to The Advertiser afterwards and asked that the rules of the game from Spalding's rule book be printed that all the players might become familiar with them. O'Lare said that he had the only book in town and it was so stated.

The "Angry Referee" sulled about the principle rules which were printed last night was one forbidding raising of the stick above the hip.

It was objected to at first but agreed to. During the game men on both sides fought frequently and when observed were called by the referee.

Freitas persisted in pushing the stick in such a manner that his stick often raised but he did not heed warnings of Rodriguez. It is claimed by the members of the half-wet team that many of the spectators who saw the boy throw his stick once openly but the act was not caught.

In the exceptions of these quarter game was a good one all round. Most of the players did the best they could to stick to the rules and the game was more and more interesting in consequence.

There were several hard tumbles during the game and a few of the players had scrapes and bruises to show for enthusiasm, but they were taken part. Freitas was responsible for the goal scored by the Marines in first half as he inadvertently helped roll it through.

Two goals were scored in the first half but were equally exciting. When the ball rolled up to the goal men would come together in a jamb and the ball would ramble among them until it wandered in the goal almost of its own accord. Several long plays were made by each side across the surface, but all of them failed to pass the goal keeper.

The first half lasted twenty minutes although it was supposed to last only ten. The rules calling for a deduction of the time spent in changing positions after a goal from the actual playing time of the half were confusing. A second half was played off and the players were warmed up to their work and the ball was kept fairly well in the middle of the floor. A marine missed one elegant chance to get the ball into the cage when he had a clean sweep at it and nobody but the goal keeper in front. He knocked it way off to the side instead.

TIME FOR ACTION.

Now is the time for Honolulu's citizens to turn out and impress on the board of supervisors that they want respectable streets in the downtown districts. The time is ripe for the paving of the business streets in a manner which will be a credit to the city, and the superiors should be given to understand that the citizens want what paving done.

A reasonable bid has been received from a responsible company for the paving of Leilehua Street from Queen to Beretania. Supervisor Quinn is anxious to have the work done, and he will do his best to secure the appropriation of the money needed. There is considerable opposition on the board, however, and progressive citizens should not sit back. There is bound to be some opposition to any improvement plan. There are in every community citizens who can not see a mouthful ahead and who oppose on general principles any improvement which means the expenditure of money. Honolulu is no exception.

Under the law, Honolulu can not issue bonds for street improvement work, but the chairman of the road committee has said that it will be possible to find the money for this stretch of street, and the work should be done.

The condition of upper Fort Street is a disgrace. There are chuckholes in places which make riding over them in a vehicle anything but comfortable. To make continued and petty repairs is but a waste of money, for hardly is the street patched in one place when another hole makes its appearance a few inches farther along. It is the old, old story of pouring water into a sieve.

A few thousand dollars expended at this time in laying a permanent pavement will prove economy in the end. Not only will the street present far better appearance and be much more serviceable, but in the end a saving will result. Patching up worn-out pavement, particularly when that pavement was unsatisfactory in the beginning, is poor business policy. No successful merchant runs his business along any such lines, and it is about time that Home Lulu turned over a new leaf.

To be sure there are many calls on the county treasury, but none is more pressing than the demand for better streets in the business district. Laudable progress has been made in improving the avenues in the residence districts and the roads through the country, but comparatively little has been done with the downtown streets. What has been done in the business section has not been satisfactory, for the simple reason that a penny wise and pound foolish plan has been adopted.

A careful investigation of the paving methods which Quinn proposes to try has been made. Letters have been written to large mainland cities where pavement of this variety is in use, and in each case the most flattering reports have been received. Honolulu should heed the experience of other cities and stop trying to get along with business streets which would disgrace a country village.

Tourists arriving here can not but be impressed with the poor condition of Fort street. Much depends upon first impressions, and when a man, alighting from an ocean vessel, is driven to the hotel over a bumpy old thoroughfare, full of chuckholes, he is likely to arrive at the conclusion that Honoluluans are not very progressive.

In no other city of like business importance in America would such streets be tolerated as Honolulu is forced to put up with. A moderate rainstorm makes travel through the business section disagreeable to say the least. A start must be made somewhere and sometime. Why not turn to and secure the paving of Fort street before any more money is paid out on repairs that amount to little or nothing?

A SOURCE OF DANGER.

Unless some chauffeurs exercise more care in driving over the Pali road, a catastrophe will be reported one of these days. The road is not dangerous in fact, it is quite the opposite, but no sensible person thinks of driving a machine down a mountain road at a high rate of speed.

By rare good luck fatalities have been escaped heretofore, but some day the god of luck will look the other way and the fool killer will get in his work. And, unfortunately, not only the needless driver will suffer, but his innocent passengers also.

There is a speed limit on the road approaching the Pali from this side, but over beyond the question of speed is left to the common sense of the users of the road. Yesterday a machine was kept from going over the brink only by the frail fence which runs along the road. A short time ago an accident of much the same nature was recorded. In either case a few more feet and the motor car and its occupants would have been precipitated to an awful death on the rocks hundreds of feet below.

If no other means of reducing the danger of accidents can be devised, the restricted speed limits should be extended to the foot of the Pali road on the Koolau side, and where chauffeurs are detected exceeding the limits their licenses should be revoked.

An alleged "communication" printed in last night's Venid a Tin sounds wonderfully like a bleat from the calf.

Letters From The People

BOOKING DEPOSITS.

Editor Advertiser.—The decision of Captain Matson that a deposit must be paid before reservations are made, for all passengers booking on the Matson Navigation Company steamers, appeals to all business men and travelers as the proper stand to take. This company has been exceedingly courteous, to its pecuniary loss, in holding reservations to the last moment, and turning down bona fide applicants for passage. As an example, when the writer was in San Francisco last October and was returning on the S. S. Hawaiian, several parties wanted passage on the same vessel, but as she was booked full, with a dozen or more on the waiting list, they were turned down, yet when the steamer sailed there were only eight or ten cabin passengers on hand. This is only an example of many similar cases known to the writer.

Yours truly,
R. J. LILLIE.

MATSON WANTS THE BULK OF THE SUGAR

In just what way Captain Matson expects to handle an increased tonnage, which is stated to be a pile of about 27,000 tons in sugar to the Atlantic Coast, is one of the captain's state secrets. It is necessary to handle that amount of sugar, and even the fleet of 22 American Hawaiian freighters is now taxed to clean up the warehouse holdings, although a quiet schedule is being maintained this season than last.

HAWAIIAN SINGERS MAKE BIG HIT ON BROADWAY

New York Dramatic Papers Give the Finest Kind of a Send-Off.

July Kealoha Paku and his wife, known upon the stage as "Toots" Paku, have sprung into theatrical prominence in New York because of the hit they made in The Young Turk. July Kealoha is a Hawaiian, born in Manoa Valley, and his wife is an American, whom he married three or four years ago. They were in Honolulu last year spending a few months vacation here in order that "Toots" Paku could learn something of the Hawaiian music and dances at first-hand. She studied the music carefully, and acquired an intimate knowledge of the hula, and became an accomplished dancer.

When they left Honolulu for New York July's mother, Walaauka, "The Hawaiian Nightingale," accompanied them, it being their plan to include her in their Hawaiian trio or quartet, whenever they decided to put on the vaudeville circuit. July had contracts with the Proctor and Keith circuit for most of the winter season.

Recently they joined "The Young Turk" company. They appear in the second act, in the palace of the Sultan, and sing and dance. The audience went wild over their act, and they, and not the musical comedy, became the hit at the New York theater. The Dramatic Mirror, the authority on theatrical matters, says of July and his wife:

"An electrical effect in which a steamer seemed to be plowing through the water was a most effective finale to the first act. An automobile song, accompanied by electrical displays, and a divertissement of Hawaiian music and dancing were the only novelties of the second act. The music on the Hawaiian instruments was the sweetest that could be imagined. This was well worth hearing. A whole evening of such music could be enjoyed without fatigue."

A girl, billed as Toots Paku, did a Hawaiian dance to Hawaiian music, which was only a slight variation of the hoochee-koochee. A number of well-dressed "show" and dancing girls and too many chorus men, such as they were, completed the picture of "The Young Turk."

Variety, another theatrical publication says of them:

"What doth it profit a manager if he have a laboriously constructed book, much music, a star of first magnitude, and expensive production and girls until the audience is dizzy—what doth it profit him if a vaudeville act come in toward the end of his piece and take away all the honors?"

The which interrogation is suggested by witnessing "The Young Turk" at the New York theater. The Max Rogers piece is there now, but next Monday it gives place to a successor, "Bright Eyes."

To carry out the comparison further the New York audience hadn't even the sense to stop applauding the Hawaiian trio, who took all the honors of the evening, until they were halfway through with their encore number, the first half being lost to those who were demanding it. Did you ever see a vaudeville audience do such an asinine thing?

The Toots Paku Hawaiian Trio (extended into a quarter) take up about fifteen minutes toward the end of the second act, set in the palace of the Turkish Sultan. It fits in nicely there and the odd, melting "harmonies" on the guitar, together with the bizarre dance of Toots was a revelation of novelty to the audience. The turn was a tumultuous riot in a performance strikingly quiet as to enthusiasm on the part of the spectators. In vaudeville it was an "act," in musical comedy the specialty goes by the drossy program name of a "divertissement." It is one large-sized hit in both places."

MR. AND MRS. IMANISHI WILL BE HERE NEXT WEEK

Former Manager of Yokohama Specie Bank Branch Is on Way to Japan.

Y. Imanishi, at present manager of the Yokohama Specie Bank at New York, and formerly manager of the branch in Honolulu, will pass through Honolulu next week on the Tenyo Maru, with Mrs. Imanishi. The Imanishis have not been here for several years and they will undoubtedly be given a royal greeting on arrival by both Japanese and foreign friends, as they were exceedingly popular in local social circles. Mrs. Imanishi has been identified in New York with a number of charitable enterprises. Mrs. Imanishi is practically a Honolulu girl, having been born here. She attended the public schools and was a schoolmate of many of the leading society matrons of the present day. Her command of the English language is not only excellent, but fluent. She is a sister of A. K. Ozawa.

ONE INDICTMENT RETURNED

The territorial grand jury yesterday returned an indictment against Kuan Pao Sung, charging him with assault with a weapon imminently and obviously dangerous to life. The weapon was a stick and the victim, it is alleged in the indictment, was C. A. Hering. The assault was committed at Waipahu. Hering, convicted in the district court of larceny in the second degree, withdrew his appeal before Judge Whitney.

TABLEAUX TONIGHT OF ANCIENT HAWAII

Tourists Will Have Rare Chance to See Oldtime Customs of Royalty.

Tourists, who wish to gain a little insight into the picturesque life of the ancient Hawaiians, will have an unusual opportunity this evening at the Hawaiian Operahouse, where the Kaahumanu Society will present a large number of historical tableaux dealing with the kings and queens of oldtime Hawaii.

These tableaux have been given many times before, and they are excellent, and according to the older Hawaiians are quite true to the life they picture. Replicas of the ancient feather helmets and cloaks are worn by kings, chiefs and warriors. The tableaux represent many incidents well known in Hawaiian history and are all presented by Hawaiians.

The entertainments given by the society are always well patronized because the numbers are well rendered and the tableaux artistically and truthfully arranged. Those for tonight will include many events in the reign of Kaahumanu, queen regent. The chiefs and chieftesses of her court will appear and the Hawaiian life of a century ago will be graphically portrayed. Boki and Liliu will be seen in living pictures as will Kiwalao and Kamehameha. The following program should tempt many strangers, whose knowledge of Hawaiian customs is vague, to attend the concert. It will be an excellent opportunity for obtaining information that will be of value to them in recounting their experience on Hawaiian soil.

The tableau representing Queen Kaahumanu, the regent, shows her surrounded by the high chieftesses of her court, a chief of lower rank, warriors, servants and commoners. The court of Queen Keopuolani, wife of Kamehameha I, is exceedingly picturesque. Her retinue consists of the usual kahilis, spittoon-bearer, carrier of the water container, a massage performer, a hair dresser and the person to light the royal pipe, all of whom are chiefs of high rank. The program follows:

POACHERS HELD AS WITNESSES

The Twenty-Three Japanese Are Wanted in Case Against Max Schlemmer.

As foretold by The Advertiser yesterday, the twenty-three Japanese who were sentenced to twenty-four hours' imprisonment by Judge Robertson for poaching on the United States Bird preserve, have been held by the United States district attorney as witnesses against Max Schlemmer and perhaps other higher-ups, whose tools it is believed the sons of Nippon were. On motion of Brooks' Judge Robertson yesterday ordered the twenty-three held.

But the Japanese don't care. They will get one dollar and a half a day for every day they are detained as witnesses, and they couldn't get one dollar and a half a day killing birds on Laysan and Laysians, not to speak of not being able on those rocky islets to occupy such comfortable quarters as will be offered them by High Sheriff Henry.

So far as is known, no indictment has yet been found against Schlemmer, but there is little doubt that a serious charge will be laid against him and that he will have to fight in the courts for his liberty.

Smuggling Case Still On.

Before Commissioner Judd had the hearing of the smuggling case in which Leong Ning is the defendant was continued, T. M. Harrison and Willie Sims are still appearing as attorneys for the defendant.

ART LEAGUE EXHIBIT OPEN

Gems Hanging on Kilohana Walls
Make Visit to Galleries Well Worth While.

The spring exhibition at the Kilohana Art League galleries which opened yesterday is one of the best ever held here. Hitchcock's work predominates and there are several pictures which will repay not only one but several visits.

The finest thing in the exhibition is a small canvas entitled "Nummu Pudi." This picture is numbered 24 and hangs at the middle end of the Wailuku wall. It is the most distinctive thing in the exhibition and will bear considerable study. Countless trials at painting the Fall have been made, but heretofore in each case the painter has failed to catch the feeling of intensity and distance. No. 24 is a notable exception.

In a few minor points the picture might possibly be improved somewhat, but there is something so satisfying in the canvas that one feels a hunting about finding faults. The coloring of the distant mountains is beautiful. The pale blue shades off into a silver gray in a way that preserves the men of distance to a remarkable extent. The eye is led from the promontory in the foreground through the cleft in the rocks out to the sea beyond. Each visit brings out some new attraction which makes the picture more interesting. In fact, it is impossible to stay in the room for any length of time without drifting back to No. 24. The picture fairly breathes strength.

The main fault with the picture is its size. The canvas should be viewed from a distance to get the best effect and the confined area of the little gem makes long range inspection a bit trying to the eyes. No. 24 alone is sufficient to make a visit to the exhibition more than worth while.

There are several other delightful pieces from the brush of Hitchcock. In all of them Hawaiian atmosphere is portrayed as only Hitchcock can portray it. It is to be hoped that some of the canvases can be secured and placed in a gallery where Honolulu folk can have access to them for all time to come.

In the photographic section the most noteworthy exhibit is "The Picture Hunt," by Caroline Hustace-Gurney. This is one of the best things that Mrs. Gurney has turned out. Some of Mrs. Gurney's more recent work which is included in the collection shows too plainly an effort to cater to popular demand, but this does not apply to "The Picture Hunt." This print would be in the award class at any salon.

A. E. Gitter, also a photographer who exhibits on the same floor, has the best thing shown by him, a second negative showing Dr. Howard Hitchcock's work in the studio. There are some technical shortcomings in this picture, but the whole is very satisfactory.

There is a good deal of good work in the various sections of the exhibition, but the best is to be found in the painting and sculpture.

These summer evenings things in the galleries will be well worth a visit, and the pictures will be made later.
