

NOTLEY WAS A SPENDER

STATEMENT IS FILED IN THE SECRETARY'S OFFICE AND SHOWS THAT HE SPENT TEN TIMES MORE THAN OTHERS WHO HAVE FILED ACCOUNTS SO FAR—A NUMBER OF OTHER CANDIDATES MAKE STATEMENTS.

According to his own sworn statement, filed this morning in the office of the Secretary of the Territory, Charles K. Notley, the Home Rule candidate for Delegate to Congress found the job of running for political honor an expensive one. He heads the list of those who have filed with the greatest ease as his bill amounts to $898, the nearest approach to this being the account of Carlos Long, which is one for $77.25. Neither Kuhio nor Iaukea have yet filed their accounts so far. The law says that these shall be filed within twenty days after election but as no penalty is imposed for an infraction of the law it is possible that a waiting public will never know how much was spent. Of Notley's expenses, $882 was debited to personal outlay and $16 for printing and advertising. The accounts so far filed are as follows:

Thomas H. Kalawala	$52.00
Sam K. Kamakala	28.00
W. N. Purdy	35.00
A. S. Kalelepu	46.50
Charles A. Rice	23.00

ONLY TRIAL WAS OF INNOCENT MAN

THE STRANGE RECORD OF THE CRIMINAL TERM OF THE FEDERAL COURT—TWENTY-FOUR PLEAS OF GUILTY AND ONE TRIAL AND CONVICTION OF A MAN WHO DECLARED HIS INNOCENCE AND IS NOW THOUGHT INNOCENT.

There were twenty-five convictions at the term of the United States District court which has just closed and of these twenty-five no less than twenty-four were obtained on pleas of guilty entered by the accused. One man entered a plea of not guilty, was tried and convicted by a jury and was sentenced to seven months imprisonment. The odd part of this remarkable record lies in the fact that serious doubt as to the guilt of this one man has now arisen and there is no doubt that if representations were made in the proper quarter his release from imprisonment could be obtained.

The man now doing time for an offense of which he may not be guilty is a Japanese named Kobayakawa, who was charged with another Japanese named M. Jo, with illicit distilling. M. Jo entered a plea of guilty but Kobayakawa, who was caught at the still when the raid was made, protested his innocence saying that he had merely happened to be there as he had brought M. Jo something to eat. M. Jo substantiated this statement but Kobayakawa's record was against him. He had only been out of jail for a short time for having had okolehao in his possession.

Since his conviction and sentence, however, certain matters have come to light which have convinced the authorities that there is at least a reasonable chance that Kobayakawa was telling the truth and the Federal officers themselves admit that justice may have erred.

"When I prosecuted the man and succeeded in obtaining his conviction I was absolutely sure of his guilt," said U. S. District Attorney Breckons this morning, "but since then I have learned something which arouses a doubt in my mind. It does not amount to a complete belief in Kobayakawa's innocence but if he were to present a petition for release I would certainly sign it and would recommend his pardon very strongly."

WAS A CASE OF SANDBAG SAYS HOSPITAL PHYSICIAN

WOUND ON TOEPELMANN'S HEAD NOT SUCH AS WOULD BE CAUSED BY STRIKING A SHARP STONE—A LONG, NARROW CONTUSION SUCH AS IS NATURALLY CAUSED BY A BLOW—PATIENT RECOVERING.

In the opinion of Dr. Sawyer, the physician at the Queen's Hospital, the wound on the head of T. Toepelmann was not such as would have been caused by a fall on the ground. Dr. Sawyer is strongly of the belief that the wound was such as would be inflicted with a sand bag.

"The wound," said Dr. Sawyer, "is quite a peculiar one. It is oval shaped and is a bruise. The skin is not broken as would be apt to have been the case, had he struck against a sharp stone. The wound is such as would have been sustained by a blow from a sand bag. Apoplexy may of course have caused it, but the probabilities are that the wound had something to do with it."

"The wound is a bruise. It starts on the right side of the top of the skull just about the front of the scalp and runs backward a distance of about four or five inches. The wound is from 2 to 2 1/2 inches in width. I have seen people in Mainland hospitals suffering from blows inflicted with a sand bag, and the wound on Toepelmann is similar to those. The patient is semi-conscious this morning, but is not yet out of danger. He has spoken several times but his utterance is so thick that it is difficult to understand anything he says. He is unable to recognize any one as yet."

CONSUMPTION TAKES ITS VICTIM

DEATH OF CHARLES HAPAI IN HILO AFTER A LONG STRUGGLE—WAS 23 YEARS OLD.

HILO, Nov. 17.—Charles Hapai, a well known Hawaiian man, died at the residence of his mother on Pitman street early yesterday morning in the twenty-third year of his age. Deceased had been a sufferer from tuberculosis for a long time and was obliged to resign a position here about a year ago on account of ill health. On the advice of his physician he took a sea voyage and visited San Francisco where he remained several months. His health, however, did not improve and the longing for his Hawaiian home became so strong that he suddenly made up his mind to return. When he arrived in Hilo he showed no signs of benefit from the trip and was put in charge of Dr. Holland for treatment. The doctor saw there was no hope for his recovery and notified his mother to that effect. For more than two months he has been confined to his bed and constantly growing weaker in spite of the excellent care and attention given him. He was a quiet reserved young man with manners that won for him the respect of every one with whom he came in contact. During the time he held a position in a local store he was extremely popular with the public and his courteous manners made it a pleasure to deal with him. He will be buried from

HOME RULER AT THE RATIFICATION

THANKED THE REPUBLICANS OF HILO FOR NOT BREAKING UP HIS PARTY.

HILO, Nov. 17.—The ratification of the election of the Republican candidates took place on Monday night in the form of a broom procession in which more than two hundred men took part and in a mass meeting where the candidates had an opportunity to thank the people for their votes. The procession was headed by the Hilo band and marched from Waiuanue street around Shipman to Bridge and back to the fishmarket. Speeches were made by Representatives Lewis and Smith and Senator Brown and others. Their remarks brought forth some hearty cheers. Simona, a Home Rule leader, addressed the throng and thanked the Republican party for not trying to break up the Home Rule party during the campaign. The crowd applauded Simona and the band played patriotic airs until every one was ready to shout. The delegation with tin horns made the night hideous and almost shut out the band. There was a great display of fireworks during the evening and this was appreciated by the average small boy.

SUNDAY LAWS TOMORROW

THE HIGH SHERIFF TELLS HOW HE PROPOSES TO ENFORCE THE LAWS—WILL CLOSE UP STORES OF ALL KINDS AND CAUSE RESTAURANTS TO CLOSE AT SEVEN O'CLOCK—NO BASEBALL WILL BE ALLOWED.

When Honolulu rises tomorrow, she will have to don blue stockings and a Puritanical air, for there will be hungry policemen abroad in the land looking for offenders whom they may metaphorically devour. Honolulu is to enjoy a Sabbath Sunday. The Sunday laws are to be enforced tomorrow by the new police regime. According to High Sheriff Henry the day will not be so tedious as a great many people have feared.

"The purpose of enforcing the Sunday laws," said the High Sheriff this morning, "is of course to enforce the laws that are on the statute books and also by so doing, to secure a general observance of a respectable Sunday. The observance of the law will not be nearly so hard a task as many people are inclined to think."

"In the first place I propose to make a special effort to close all stores in the city tomorrow. The Chinese, Japanese, Portuguese and other places are to be closed up tight. Our laws state that barber shops shall be allowed to be open until 9 o'clock in the morning and this will of course be permitted. Tobacco stores will have to close."

"In regard to the marketing, the hours that have formerly been observed will be permitted tomorrow. The vending of such goods is clearly a necessity. The street and steam cars and carriages are also to be permitted to operate during the day throughout the Sunday.

"Restaurants and hotels are to be permitted to keep open until 7 o'clock in the evening. They must close down after that time. In regard to the privilege of people regularly living at an hotel, I will say that they will be permitted to secure liquor the same as if they were in their own private homes. The hotel is their home and if they have secured liquor on week day there is no reason why they should not be allowed to do so on Sunday if they wish the liquor sent to their rooms. People can not go into the hotels however and order register and secure a drink in the strength of having signed the register."

"Bathing at the beach resorts will be permitted as will sailing or canoeing or any amusement that is not such as to interfere with the rights of others to quiet and rest on that day. Baseball will have to stop but golf will be permitted. If any complaints against the golf player are made they will be liable to arrest. The Aquarium will have to close tomorrow. Livery stables will be permitted to keep open and to hire out conveyances."

"The Sunday law about unnecessary labor on the plantations will also be enforced, as will the law generally, against people working on that day."

DISEASED TARO EXPERIMENTS

PLANTS WHICH HAVE BEEN TREATED AND FERTILIZED SHOW SUPERIOR STRENGTH.

The taro experiment begun in the previous year was continued. The first trial crop was harvested in September, 1902, and the plants were found to be almost entirely free from the root-rot disease. The yield on the trial plot was much greater than on any of the other taro patches which had not received treatment to prevent root rot. A new crop was planted on the same land, in October, 1902. The hules being selected from plants which were not diseased, no further application of lime or fertilizers was made. The effect during the present growing season of the fertilizers and lime applied last year has been more marked than during the previous season. While the crop has not been harvested, the general appearance of the plants indicate that they are much healthier than any of the untreated surrounding patches. In the absence of laboratory facilities to study the nature of the disease and determine whether the fungus is infectious, as has been supposed, arrangements were made with Doctor Pierce of the Pacific coast pathological laboratory, of the Bureau of Plant Industry, at Santa Ana, Cal., to study the etiology of the disease. A considerable quantity of diseased taro was sent to Doctor Pierce, who is now carrying on an investigation in regard to the nature of the fungus. The second taro disease, of apparently bacterial origin, has proven very serious around Honolulu during the past season. A microscopic examination of infected roots show the fibro-vascular bundles to be completely clogged with great masses of bacteria. However, in the case of this second root rot, which may be called a brown core rot, no experiments or investigations have been made, because of a lack of proper laboratory equipment.—Jared Smith's Report.

Paine's Celery Compound

Tunbridge, Vt.—"I began taking Paine's Celery Compound in the spring after having spent a year and a half confined to my bed on account of having pneumonia and a bad knee, due to blood trouble. At the time I began taking your medicine I was very nervous and did not want to see any one—only my own folks."

"The doctors all said that there was not anything else they could do for me, and also said they did not think that I would ever be any better, and if I was better I would never be able to walk again."

"A friend of mine was taking Paine's Celery Compound at the time and I thought I would try it. I took several bottles before I saw much improvement. But soon my nervousness left me. I again enjoyed seeing all who called at the house."

"I kept right on gaining until now I call myself VERY WELL AND HEALTHY."

"I had a light attack of the grippe and I took one bottle of Paine's Celery Compound. It helped me to regain my strength. I can truly say your medicine has been of great benefit to me."—Anna C. Ballou.

COMING HOME FROM THE WAR

CORRESPONDENTS ARE GOING TO THE MAINLAND AFTER WINNING BATTLE OF LIAOYANG.

A number of war correspondents arrived last night on the S. S. Korea en route from the Manchurian battlefields to America. They are James F. J. Archibald representing Colliers' Weekly, R. S. Dunn representing Outing and W. H. Lewis representing the New York Herald and the San Francisco Call.

Of the trio, Dunn had probably the most disagreeable experience for he was shot in the leg by the Chun Chuses or Red Haired Bandits in northern Korea last July. He was wounded in the left ankle and thought the injury of little consequence but blood poisoning set in, and he had to go back to the hospital at Yokohama where he remained for three months. He saw nothing of the war.

Lewis was with Oku's corps. The Herald man has the highest admiration for Oku and considers him one of the most efficient corps commanders of the Japanese army. Lewis says that the strategic plans of the Japanese had all been thought out before the war but when circumstances arise when a plan has to be changed, the Japs were not apparently, able to promptly adjust themselves to the new conditions. He considers the Japanese infantryman the best of the kind in the world.

Archibald is an experienced campaigner, having served in various wars as correspondent. He was in China when the war broke out and at once went to Newchwang. He was at the battle of Tsushima and then followed the Russian retreat to Liaoyang and witnessed that great battle. At the battle of Liaoyang so Archibald asserts the Japs had 75,000 more men than had Kuropatkin but the Russian was able to beat them back. But for the Fifth Corps giving way, Kuropatkin would have defeated the Japs.

"The day after the two armies rested," continued Archibald, "Kuropatkin paraded the regiment which had been the first to break and in front of it he dismissed the colonel and lieutenant-colonel from the army—not from the regiment merely, but from the army. He told them they were dismissed for life and must not go back to Russia, and the only way they could atone for their disgrace was with their blood. It was a terrible moment for the whole regiment."

"Kuropatkin had intended falling back on Mukden and then retreating further north. But the result of the battle wore out the Japanese and instead of falling back, Kuropatkin remained and entrenched."

"An important thing is that the Russian cavalry is the best in the world. The Japanese have none worthy of the name, but the Russian cavalry up to the present has had no opportunity."

"At Liaoyang the artillery fight was the greatest the world has ever known. I never could conceive of anything like it."

"Russian bravery is real bravery. Japanese bravery is fanaticism. The Russian soldiers recognize the Japanese as fine soldiers and admire them. The stories of Russian cruelty are all a farce."

"I believe that the Russians will fight until they whip the Japanese. They will continue to pour troops into Manchuria until they overwhelm them. They are going to send another army under Grippenburg to Vladivostok. They have laid four tracks across the ice on Lake Baikal and they have been massing troops on the Russian side of the Baikal for a long time. They have also been paralleling their tracks on the land. They will now rush troops into Manchuria. The Russians cannot starve in Manchuria—they are but a few among the 50,000,000 inhabitants there."

"An army that can stand such defeats as the Russians have had and preserve its morale, must be something great."

"The Russian soldier's equipment is too heavy. His boots are too large. An agitation is now on to supply leggings and American shoes, which would be an advantage."

Perhaps the Russian navigators counted in all the time they have been getting started, and thought they had got to Port Arthur. New York Evening Mail.

MINORS JOIN IN DEMURRER

CIRCUIT JUDGE'S AUTHORITY IN CHAMBERS IS AGAIN QUESTIONED.

Acting for the minor defendants, Attorney Frank E. Thompson has filed a demurrer to the petition of John A. Cummins for the cancellation of a deed to Joseph O. Carter of his family and heirs. The minor defendants are: James Merseberg, May Merseberg, Jane Merseberg, Matilda Merseberg, Charles Merseberg, Abigail Merseberg, Ida Merseberg, William Merseberg, Helen Merseberg, Madeline Merseberg, John Adam Cummins, Thomas Cummins, Raplee Cummins, Moseley Cummins, and Wood Cummins.

The demurrer questions the authority of a Circuit Judge in Chambers, a point which was settled in the Parker ranch case.

CATTLE DISEASE PREVALENT

JARED SMITH TELLS HOW TO PREVENT IT BY SUPPLYING FRESH WATER.

According to the report of the president of the Board of Health of Hawaii for 1902, 290 cattle, out of a total of 3,476 slaughtered for the Honolulu market during the six months ended December 31, 1902, were infected with liver fluke. Two hundred and forty-seven, out of a total of 487 calves examined during the same period, also showed infection. The liver fluke is an internal parasite which exists for only a portion of its cycle in the bodies of warm-blooded animals. In the early stages of its development it is parasitic within the bodies of certain freshwater snails. It secures entrance to the bodies of cattle in the drinking water or through the cattle eating the succulent grasses growing round stagnant water holes, on which the snail also feeds. During the stage of the existence of the fluke, when it is parasitic within the body of the snail, it is extremely minute, but when it enters the body of the animal and finds final lodgment in the ducts of the liver it grows into a flat, worm-like body, often 3 inches or more in length. Its presence in the liver of the infected animal, especially when it exists in any considerable number, often causes the death of the animal. An epidemic of losses from this source was reported to the station from the windward side of the island of Oahu. The cattle principally affected were young cows from 2 to 3 years old. An animal which is infested with liver fluke becomes extremely emaciated, and can be distinguished at a distance in the pastures because of its standing alone, with head up, and apparently without inclination to eat or move. Death usually occurs through effusion of the blood serum into the abdominal and lung cavities. This is followed by the formation of dropsical swellings along the under side of the body extending forward to the neck and throat, at which time the animal usually dies from suffocation. A number of post-mortems were made and notes were taken in regard to the symptoms. In every case where the carcasses of cattle which had died were examined, enormous numbers of the fluke were found in the liver and bile ducts and in the gall bladder. The blood becomes almost entirely free from red corpuscles, and the animal dies because of the dropsical condition which ensues. As the liver fluke, to complete its round of existence, must pass a portion of its life in the body of the snail, the drainage of marshes and water holes, where the rank vegetation harbors the snail, will prevent the infection of stock. Liver fluke is worse in the windward districts, where the rainfall is high, and also in the upper mountain pastures. Cattle which are confined throughout their life to pastures on the drier portions of the islands are seldom infected with liver fluke. The remedy in all cases is to see that an abundance of fresh water is supplied the cattle so that they will not be under the necessity to frequent water holes which supply the source of infection.—Jared Smith's Report.

Fountain Pens Make Writing Easy

Goose quills held place as pens for many, many years, and some excellent and permanent good work was done with them.

Steel pens were driving the quills from the field a half century ago. Then came gold pens—for those who could afford them. Later, the fountain pen was evolved, to carry writing materials conveniently in the pocket, and to avoid the trouble of dipping in the inkwell every few seconds.

American fountain pens are best, for efficiency, economy and convenience.

Courtesies Now Between The Foes

"Stoessel praises the bravery and kindness of the Japanese, who take great care of the Russian wounded. He feels proud of fighting such foes." This statement of a press correspondent who saw the Russian commander in Port Arthur is a sample of many others recently made by Russians, showing a very great and significant change in their sentiments since the days before the war, when they applied only the most contemptuous epithets to the Japanese. In his famous order of the day before the advance at Shakh, an order which is said in London, by the way, to have been forced upon Kuropatkin by Alexieff, Kuropatkin referred to the "brave and gallant" enemy. Six months ago such words from a Russian would have sounded extraordinary, but now they are only one of many testimonials by Russians to the virtues of their foes. The charges of killing wounded, of savage violation of the rules of war, seem to have dropped out of sight. Kuropatkin was recently quoted as praising the Japanese for their fair observance of the rules of warfare and as making the somewhat incongruous comment that in this respect the present war is the most "pleasant" he has ever engaged in. On the other hand the Japanese also pay tribute to their foes. In his birthday address, just after the recent great battle caused by Kuropatkin's attempt to take the aggressive, Emperor Mutsuhito spoke his regrets not only for the thousands of Japanese killed, but also for the thousands dead on the other side. The fighting in the war so far, in which each side has found that the other can show bravery as well as strategy equal to its own, has given the Russ and the Jap new ideas of each other. The Jap has found that his early impressions, made by comparatively easy attacks upon ill organized forces not in positions to do the fighting that was in them, were very wrong. Perhaps the early stages of the war made the Japanese think, as many press correspondents appeared to think, that Japanese were invincible, that all that were necessary for them to succeed in taking a position were the men and the order to advance. But they know better now. Liaoyang and Shakh have taught them that their own men can retire before Russians, leaving guns behind, and have taught the world that the Japanese after all are, as was all the time insisted by some, human and capable of being driven like other human fighters. To have carried out the rather absurd ideas of some of the eulogists, they should have died to the man in every position they won, being more happy to perish for the emperor than not to. But they didn't. They retired, as other soldiers retire, when positions became too hot, and sometimes they left guns behind. In the last battle the same positions were taken and retaken over half a dozen times. It has all been a lesson, perhaps a good deal needed, which will correct the impression of the world and of Japan herself possibly, that her soldiers are something mysteriously superior to those of other races—a wondrous force against which the white man cannot hope to stand. As for the Russian, he has had a much severer lesson. The Russian who knows the Japanese is ready now to recognize him as a fellowman. The survivors of the war will take back to Russia a different idea from that with which most soldiers appeared to leave home, as shown by correspondence sent back. This idea was seen to be in many cases that the Japanese were a lot of impudent little barbarians who were about to be given a needed thrashing by Russians, and that they would kill and torture any prisoners or wounded who came into their possession. Thousands of Russians in the ranks and thousands more in hospitals and prisons know better now. When peace comes, if it comes with anything like a just settlement of the issues at stake, it will bring a better feeling between Russ and Jap than has ever existed before.

As a sample of the many reported courtesies which have succeeded the earlier bitterness, the following, by a correspondent from the front, whether true or not, makes a very pretty story: "During the preliminary fighting in Korea, the Governor of Wiju, wishing to stand well with both combatants, sent General Mistschenko, for delivery to General Kuropatkin, two enormous Chinese vases of thirteenth century workmanship. General Mistschenko handed them over to General Sassulich, after whose retreat from Feng-wang-cheng they were found by the Japanese. General Kuroki promptly despatched them to the Russian outposts with a floweringly-polite note, ending, 'May the flowers of friendship blossom high in these vases.' In Kuropatkin's reply he referred to the Japanese as 'a people of generous friends whom I visited in peace, of magnanimous foes in war, at whose hands even defeat is no disgrace.'"

A Curiosity Of Lawmaking

Section 312 of the penal code, quoted yesterday in The Star, has attracted a good deal of attention. Not many people knew that there was such a section on the statute books. It is a very absurd section and is one of the first which should be repealed or amended in the coming session of the legislature. It was designed to prevent prizefights—and heaven knows that there have been prizefights here which should have been prevented by its application,—but under the terms of the law a public debate is an affray. If two highly respected citizens should hire a hall to argue over the immortality of the soul they might be sent to jail for six months' hard labor under this amazing bit of law. An affray, according to its terms, is any "premeditated contention where no weapons are used." It is obvious that this includes handball and marbles, and as the statute does not limit its application to physical contention, perhaps the members of the Chess Club are guilty of affray whenever they sit in silence on opposite sides of a table and indulge in a premeditated weaponless contention on the chess board. As the spectators, promoters and all others are in the same class criminally with the principles, we have here a most far reaching statute. Certainly football is a "premeditated contention where no weapons are used" and is therefore an affray within the meaning of the law.

The existence of such laws, like some of our Sunday laws, makes the doctrine of which much is heard lately,—of stern enforcement of laws as they are until they are repealed or changed,—an impossibility. The sheriff must use some discretion in such matters.

Would Americans Have Fired Too?

If the Russians succeeded in winning their case, before the commission which is investigating the North Sea affair, to the extent of securing a decision that they were justified in firing on the trawlers, though responsible in damages for the consequences, it will be by establishing a new principle which will make the nations of earth more than ever anxious to avoid war when naval activity is one of the features. The contention, which is finding some voice even in American journals, is that the danger to the Russians is so imminent that they are justified in firing at once when approached by any unknown craft within a distance which would be short enough to make sudden attack effective. An American naval officer has stated that if the American squadron which was on guard at Santiago during the Spanish war had suddenly discovered a fleet of fishing boats, it would in all probability have fired on them just as did the Russians in the North Sea. For weeks the tension was extreme, in the constant danger of a torpedo attack, says this officer, who without giving his name says he was one of those present. It is evident that the nervous strain among the Russians must be much greater after the lessons their navy has recently had in the Far East. All these considerations will be placed before the commission as a justification for Rozhdestvensky. That the Czar approves his conduct seems to be shown by the fact that the admiral has just been promoted and imperial thanks have been sent to the Baltic fleet for "brilliant service." As their only service, aside from sailing their vessels without running into each other or anything else, has been the attack on trawlers, it is to be presumed that the Czar means to congratulate them for a showing of vigilance.

Though the world is generally ridiculing the Russian admiral with the unspeakable name, there are two sides to his case. It is quite well known that a small, innocent-looking craft might contain an engine of destruction capable of sending a big battleship to the bottom. What is the unfortunate battleship to do? To approach close enough to find out whether there is danger is to risk destruction. It is claimed that Rozhdestvensky was far out of his course and need not have encountered the fishermen. On the other hand he claims to have been warned against possible Japanese attack in the North Sea and may have gone out of his course to avoid it, only to encounter a fleet of unknown steamers which he appears to have decided were a source of danger. The unfortunate Alexieff has cost his country grave disaster and has been a target of ridicule the world over for lack of vigilance. The other admiral went to the other extreme and nearly cost his country a great deal more. All the same he will probably ask the commission to which his case is referred, "What was I to do?" Imagine the case if his suspicions had been real and a battleship had received a vital wound from some disguised Japanese enemy. This is the Russian argument of the case, and while it does not absolve the Russians from the charge of recklessness, it is not wholly unreasonable.

The result of the argument is simply that naval warfare is more dangerous now to the commerce of the entire world than ever before. An additional reason why this is so is in the floating mines now and then found adrift in the Far East. As the Baltic fleet proceeds its peril increases. How about the next time the Russians sight something that looks suspicious? According to the North Sea action, and, it must be admitted, according to common sense, the safest way is to fire first and then out afterwards. So a hostile fleet on its way to an enemy seems to have a sort of self-preserving right to blaze away with a good deal of freedom at anything that may seem to be suspicious. This is a new and dangerous feature of warfare, but it may yet prove to be a very real one. As the American naval officer already quoted said, the Russians should not be so roundly condemned when Santiago is recalled.

The article published elsewhere regarding a danger of killing trees by escaping gas from pipes, is a warning in time to prevent local trouble of the kind. Doubtless the gas company which is about to operate here will profit by the experiences of other cities and see that its pipes are such as will not leak.

CELEBRATED LAST NIGHT.

The passengers on the S. S. Korea did not learn of the result of the national election until last night. The vessel left Yokohama November 8 the day of the election, so did not hear of the result. There was a general celebration aboard the vessel off the harbor last night, when the news of the Republican victory was learned. R. S. Dunn of Oahu was the only passenger who seemed to have any idea that Parker stood a chance. Dunn offered to provide wine for everybody in the cabin if Parker were elected. It was a safe offer.

HIGH SCHOOL BEATS MILLS.

Six to nothing was the score by which the High School football team won from Mills yesterday afternoon though the play was really much closer than the score would indicate. DANGER OF GAS PIPES

LEAKS FROM THEM KNOWN TO CAUSE THE DEATH OF TREES IN THE VICINITY OF SUCH LEAKS—ATTENTION CALLED TO THE NEED OF PRECAUTION IN LAYING THE PIPES OF THE COMPANY HERE.

Attention has been called to the danger of killing trees near the streets by leaking gas from pipes, and it is said that the matter may be taken up by the Board of Agriculture and Forestry with a view to having regulations adopted. The following article in "American Gardening" gives an account of pilikia experienced in other cities where gas is used.

"The killing of trees from illuminating gas is increasing at a far greater ratio than the increase in the extent of pipe lines, or in the use of gas. There is scarcely a town or hamlet where a pipe line is installed but what has lost some valuable trees from leaky gas mains.

"In many instances trees succumb to gas poisoning without any one suspecting them, and often when it is known that trees die from escaping gas little attempt is made to recover damages. The poisoning of trees has become so common, and the attitude of gas companies is so indifferent, that it is time municipalities and towns should take some measure to better matters. Some States have already passed stringent laws relating to the protection and care of shade trees, and when such laws are not in the statute it would seem to be necessary for city and town governments to regulate the franchises of gas companies. In some cities, where the trees are looked after by intelligent foresters, a policy has been adopted which will make the gas company responsible for injury and death to the trees by gas poisoning. I am informed that some cities require a bond to be given by the gas company as a measure to protect it from the damages to shade trees from the gas which may escape from leaking mains. This measure is in the right direction, as it is believed that indifferent and careless gas companies would be more careful in laying mains if they were subject to restrictions of this character. At the present time many companies appear to have little concern in regard to the manner in which their lines are laid. There appears to be much less leakage from mains laid many years ago than from those laid at the present time, and there appears to be no reason why joints should not be made as tight now as formerly. There are some instances, however, where leakage occurs from the result of electrolysis of the pipes by ground electrical currents, and in such instances the gas companies are not wholly to blame.

"In Springfield, Massachusetts, a 16 in. gas main, about 1-8 of a mile long, which was put in two years ago with Portland cement and rope caulked joints, has leaked sufficiently to injure and kill fifteen large trees during the first year. At the present time, or two years after, the line was laid, twenty-three trees were either completely dead or beyond recovery, and others showed symptoms of gas poison. The street has recently been dug up the second time within two years for the purpose of inspecting the joints, and a number of new leaks were discovered. Such wholesale slaughter of shade trees is nothing short of criminal, and it is no more than fair to shunters that those responsible for such trouble should be made to pay for it.

"A few years ago the writer investigated a place where about 2½ miles of gas pipe was laid and found over one hundred shade trees that had been killed by gas, and four hundred others which showed more or less injury. Some of the injured ones have since succumbed and the life of all is shortened materially. In this case, probably about 80 per cent or more of the joints leaked at the start and the amount of gas that escaped into the soil, during the period of a few months, can only be estimated by hundreds of thousands of cubic feet. The writer has given considerable attention to gas poisoning for a number of years, and innumerable experiments have been conducted for the purpose of throwing some light on this problem.

"The problems connected with gas poisoning both in America and Europe have been greatly overlooked by investigators. There are many more trees injured by gas than persons are aware of. Where large leaks occur the characteristics symptoms make their appearance tolerably soon, and such cases are not difficult to diagnose by one more or less familiar with the pathology of trees. There are, however, a large number of incipient or mild cases, the result of very slow poisoning, caused by small and constant leaks. Such cases are very readily overlooked. These trees may linger along for years in a state of malaise before they succumb to a premature death.

"Where trees have been subject to gas to such an extent that the symptoms of poisoning are pronounced, there is little or no likelihood of recovery, although in cases where only part of the living zone is affected, severe pruning might tend to restore them. It is not advisable to set out new trees in soil where gas leaks are possible. Local injuries to the root and trunk may occur and the tree survive.

"One of the characteristic symptoms of gas poisoning is discernible in the extremely rapid decomposition of the cambium layer and bark. Various species of fungi early make their appearance on the tree, the tree sometimes becoming quite profusely covered with the same, and the inner bark and wood presents a sour disagreeable odor.

PACIFIC CLUB READY TO PAY

WILL BUY A LIQUOR LICENSE FOR $1,000 IF ANDREWS SAYS SO.

Members of the Pacific Club are wondering whether Hatter might be snooping around tomorrow to see just what drinks they might be absorbing.

A deputation of club members, consisting of Judge Stanley, W. A. Whitling, Arthur Wilder and R. W. Breckons waited on Governor Carter this morning and had a consultation with him and Attorney General Andrews. The position taken by the club is that in dispensing liquors to its members it is not selling in the ordinary sense of the term but that it is merely supplying a convenience to the members as individuals.

The matter was discussed in a friendly manner and it was decided that the legal points involved in the question should be examined into by the legal department of the government.

"It is like this," said one of the delegation after the interview, "the Pacific club does not wish to break the law. It does not believe that it is breaking the law but if it is decided against the club, the regular license will be paid."

MASTER OF THE STEAMSHIP
OPTIC.

YOKOHAMA, Nov. 4.—The interment of Capt. F. H. Armstrong, formerly commander of the S. S. Optic, took place at the Yokohama Cemetery this morning the Rev. W. F. Austen reading the service at the graveside.

There was a large attendance of naval men and of gentlemen connected with various shipping firms of the town, whilst the numerous wreaths bestowed the respect in which the deceased gentleman was held.

Mr. B. C. Howard, agent of the P. M. S. S. Co. and O. & O. S. S. Co. was chief mourner and the pall-bearers were Fleet Surgeon J. A. Moon, R. N., British Naval Hospital; Pay-Inspector Mitchell McDonald, U. S. N.; Lieut. Ruseh, S. Austrian M. S. Kaiserin Elisabeth; Lieut. W. H. Colegrove, R. N. R. P. & O. S. S. Pera; Sub-Lieutenant Halvayja S. Austrian M. S. Kaiserin Elisabeth, Commander E. Davies, R. N. R.

Among the mourners and friends were: Capt. Ekstrand (Nippon Yusen Kaisha S. S. Co.); Mr. Montague Beart (Sassers, Butterfield & Swine); Capt. Walker (former commander S. S. Belgic); Mr. C. F. CLUB STABLES HAS NO GLANDERS

Charles H. Bellina, manager of the Club Stables said this morning: "There is a report around town that there is glanders in our city stables and our stables have been mentioned in connection with these reports.

"As soon as I heard of the rumors, I caused our stock to be examined, and it was found that so far as we are concerned, the disease has not attacked the Club stables, as is shown by the following letter:

Honolulu, T. H. Nov. 18, 1904.

To whom it may concern:
This is to certify that I have this day examined the horses of the Club Stables Ltd.

After a careful and complete examination of these animals, it is my opinion that they are free from any disease of an infectious or contagious nature.

Respectfully,

A. R. HOWAT, D. V. S.

"It is well known that there is a penalty against the concealment of such a disease, and few men in the livery business would like to take the risk; but, aside from this, it is clearly to every man's interest to protect his stables from general infection by taking notice of the very first appearance of glanders and jumping down on it with both feet.

"Of course, it is useless to deny that there is glanders in town, and I believe that a rigid system of inspection should be maintained over all stables and shoeing shops, where horses are generally brought together; and all places should be thoroughly disinfected from time to time."

Bad Blood

Have confidence in Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It has been curing people in all parts of the world for over 30 years. It is the greatest family medicine in the world. It purifies, strengthens, enriches, builds up.

Mr. George Fountain, of Mt. Torrens, Australia, sends his photograph and this interesting letter:

"I had a very bad case of eczema. Medical men had told me nothing more could be done. I tried several blood remedies, but without relief. The eruption was over the whole of my body and arms. My friends told me I must try Ayer's Sarsaparilla. To please them, I did so. To tell the truth, I did not have much confidence in it, I had tried so many medicines. To my great surprise, I found that after only one bottle the scales were beginning to disappear. It took just five bottles to make a complete cure. My skin is now perfectly smooth, and not a trace do I have of my former trouble."

ADMISSION, - - - 25 CENTS.

The Panama regular army, who is a little cuss, weighing about 110 pounds, will probably capitulate when he gets a look at Secretary Taft.—Washington Post.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION

It has pleased Almighty God in bringing the American people in safety and honor through another year, and in accordance with the long unbroken custom handed down to us by our forefathers, the time has come when a special day shall be set apart in which to thank Him who holds all nations in the hollow of His hand for the mercies thus vouchsafed to us. During the century and a quarter of our national life we as a people have been blessed beyond all others, and for this we owe humble and heartfelt thanks to the Author of all blessings.

This year that has closed has been one of peace within our borders as well as between us and all other nations. The harvests have been abundant and those who work, whether with hand or brain, are prospering greatly. Reward has waited upon honest effort. We have been enabled to do our duty to ourselves and to others.

Never has there been a time when religious and charitable effort has been more evident. Much has been given to us and much will be expected from us. We speak of what has been done by this nation in no spirit of boastfulness or vainglory, but with full and reverent realization that our strength is as nothing unless we are helped from above. Hitherto we have been given the heartiest strength to do the tasks allotted to us as they severally arose.

We are thankful for all that has been done for us in the past, and we pray that in the future we may be strengthened in the unending struggle to do our duty fearlessly and honestly, with charity and good will, with respect for ourselves and with love toward our fellow men.

In this great republic the effort to combine national strength with personal freedom is being tried on a scale more gigantic than ever before in the world's history. Our success will mean much not only for ourselves, but for the future of all mankind and every man or woman in our land should feel the grave responsibility resting upon him or her, for in the last analysis, this success must depend upon the high average of our individual citizenship, upon the way in which each of us does his duty by himself and his neighborhood.

Now, therefore, I, Theodore Roosevelt, president of the United States, do hereby appoint and set apart Thursday, the 24th of this November, to be observed as a day of festival and thanksgiving by all the people of the United States at home or abroad and do recommend that on that day they cease from their ordinary occupations and gather in their several places of worship or in their homes, devoutly to give thanks to Almighty God for the benefits He has conferred upon us as individuals and as a nation, and to beseech Him that in the future His divine favor may be continued to us.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this first day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and four and of the independence of the United States the one hundred and twenty-ninth.

(Signed) THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.—The United States and France are to begin the negotiation on an arbitration treaty at Washington soon after the presidential election while one between this country and Great Britain is already under way. The former will be known as the "Hay-Jusserand arbitration treaty" and will follow closely the lines of the British-French arbitration treaty.

Widespread interest has been aroused throughout the diplomatic corps by the announcement of Secretary Hay in his recent New York speech that the government hoped soon to begin the preparation of arbitration treaties with all countries willing to sign them. There is already evident among European diplomats a keen desire to take the lead in this movement.

It is believed that Italy will be found favorable to negotiations for an arbitration treaty with this country.

The President today told Dr. W. Frank Darby of London that an arbitration treaty with Great Britain is now being negotiated and probably will be sent to the Senate next winter. Dr. Darby is president of the Peace society of London and called on the president to present him with a memorial urging the adoption of such a treaty.

Mr. Van Swin-eren, the Netherlands Minister, told Secretary Hay today that he has no doubt the peace congress will be welcomed at The Hague, though he has not yet received any formal assurances from his government.

FULLER WILL RESIGN OFFICE

THE ONLY UNITED STATES CHIEF JUSTICE WHO EVER DID SO.

WASHINGTON, November 4.—Chief Justice Fuller of the United States Supreme Court will be seventy-two years old next February, and will then be entitled to resign. There is a revival of the rumor that he will do so shortly after this. He will be entitled to a yearly salary of $10,500 off the bench, and it is stated that since the death of his wife he is not inclined to continue participation in the social affairs of the capital. The gossip fixes next March as the time for the resignation and there is a revival of the talk that his successor will be William H. Taft, Secretary of War. There is little question that Mr. Taft will be offered the position in case it is made vacant. Mr. Fuller was appointed as a democrat, April 30, 1888, and four times administered the oath of office to Presidents—Harrison, Cleveland and McKinley twice. No chief justice of the Supreme Court has ever resigned from office.

$5000 Kahuku Plant. Co. bonds, $100.....5,000
$5000 Oahu Sugar Pl. Co. bonds, $100.....5,000

$15,000 Pula Plant. Co. bonds, $100.....15,000
Notes—
John Mott Smith Estate.....$5,000
J. F. Humburg.....$253,309

One-fifth of said amount, viz., 1-5 of $243,308, or $48,661.60, representing the interest of the late S. A. Carter, is to be taken out and divided among the heirs

Also, accrued interest and dividends on notes, dividends, stocks and bonds (excepting O. R. & L. Co. bonds whose coupons are not payable until January 1, 1905.) From September 1, 1904, to October 1, 1904, $577.62; from October 1, 1904, to November 17, 1904 $2,414.33.....$2,991.95

All of accrued interest and dividends in hands of trustees on account S. A. Carter, since 9. 1. '04, the date of the death of S. A. Carter, goes to the heirs.

"The same being 1-5 distributive share of all shares, notes and bonds, or their equivalent, together with accrued interest and dividends thereon, said accrued interest and dividends having accumulated since September 1, 1904, the date of the death of Sybil Augusta Carter. The amount given, of said accrued interest and dividends, is the net amount, after deducting commissions and expenses, of said accrued interest and dividends, collected from September 1, 1904, up to November 17, 1904.

"The trustees have under their control certain property of this estate, located in Seattle, State of Washington, in Stockton, State of California. For business reasons, said property has not yet been brought to the Territory of Hawaii. Until it has been brought here, the distributive share of the late S. A. Carter, of the Seattle and Stockton property, cannot be taken out and divided among the heirs.

"The beneficiaries receipt to the trustees for the one-sixth distributive share of Charles L. Carter, deceased, filed in court May 3, 1897, indicates that the heirs of Charles L. Carter received their share of all the estate's property located in Seattle, Washington, and Stockton, California. This is not so. A portion of the Seattle property was realized on, the proceeds brought here, and distributed to the Charles L. Carter heirs; but there is still property both in Seattle and Stockton in which the Charles L. Carter heirs have an interest; and this Seattle and Stockton property will be properly divided and distributed among the heirs of Charles L. Carter S. A. Carter at a later period.

The long-awaited German fair opened at noon today, at the residence of the German consul, H. A. Isenberg, at the corner of Wilder avenue and Puna-hou street, and it is in full swing this afternoon. A fine German lunch was served at noon, by ladies dressed in German costumes and the large number of visitors who were present were well served. A German band, also in costume, added to the pleasure of the occasion.

The early attendance at the fair gave promise of a big success and very large attendance is expected this evening. As a precaution against rain the whole fair space has been enclosed, so that those present will continue to enjoy themselves no matter what the weather is. After the luncheon today there was a sale of pretty Christmas novelties, ranging from Christmas tree toys just from Germany, beautiful fancy work, tea-cloths, children's clothing, housewives' kitchen clothing, flowers, candies, with many amusements for children, among which are grab-bags, etc. There will be music all afternoon and dancing in the evening.

The bazaar is given as a benefit for the German Lutheran church, and all German ladies in the city, as well as people from other denominations, are assisting to make it popular and a financial success. Mrs. H. A. Isenberg is in general charge of the fair. Admission to the grounds is 25 cents.

KOREA FEARED FLOATING MINES

HOPE TO 16 HOURS IN YELLOW SEA—MET ROUGH WEATHER COMING FROM YOKOHAMA.

Heavy weather and the fear of floating mines in the Yellow Sea caused the S. S. Korea to be late arriving here from the Orient. The vessel was off the port about 9 o'clock last night when she ordinarily would have arrived in the morning. She did not enter the harbor as none of the big steamers of the Pacific Mail go into any port after dark. She entered the port early this morning and went to the Hackfeld wharf and began to discharge as promptly as possible, as it was desired to get her dispatched by 5 o'clock this afternoon for San Francisco.

In the Yellow Sea the vessel was hope to for ten hours during the darkness as Captain Seabury did not care to run any risk of striking floating mines in the dark. From Yokohama to this port, miserable weather was experienced, causing a further delay of the vessel. The weather was thick so the vessel did not go near Midway.

The vessel brought six cabin passengers for this port and has a large crowd of through passengers. She brought 1,000 tons of cargo for Honolulu. Messrs. Archibald, Dunn and Lewis are war correspondents who have been following the various forces in Manchuria.

A. B. Stewart is a Seattle man who has been touring the Orient on business and pleasure, accompanied by his wife and daughter.

Lieut. Col. P. St. C. Murphy has been stationed with the American marine corps at Cavite and is going home.

Dr. Paul C. Frear is a government official at Manila. He is going home on a vacation.

Alfred C. Gale is a British government official at Madras.

AMERICA MARU GET NEW MASTER

CAPTAIN PHILLIP GOING HER REGULAR COMMANDER RELIEVED BY CAPTAIN BENT.

Changes are being made in the personnel of the officers of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha. Captain Phillip Going the master of the S. S. America Maru has been again transferred from that vessel to another branch of the service. His place has been taken by Captain Bent formerly first officer in the service of the company.

Captain Bent brought one of the Maru boats from Japan about a year ago when the regular captain laid off.

The news of the transfer was brought today by the S. S. Korea. The America Maru was in Yokohama outward bound when the Korea was at Yokohama. Whether Captain Bent will take the America to San Francisco on the inward trip was not learned.
