BANANA WINE.

We have always considered ourselves benefactors of humanity generally, but to-day, we are in the humor to teach our readers how to make a very pleasant and very strong beverage at a very small expense.

Our temperance-friends from the Chief Justice, (except when he is in the mountains) to the newly patented druggist who brings suits against us for libel will appreciate our efforts in getting the Hawaiian to exchange
gin, and okolehao for Banana Wine. A correspondent from Africa writes as follows: "The natives of Africa, make a beverage from the banana print, which they drink as wine or beer. Banana beer is chiefly used by the natives of Uganda,
a country bordering on Lake Victoria. (This is for the special edification of the geographical editor of the Star. Ed.) Its manufacture (the beer not the Star) is extensive and is largely used by the natives. There is however distinction between banana beer and banana wine.

"Mulisi" (what a name brother Hall!) is a cooling banana wine
and is manufactured in the following manner. A big hole is dug in the ground, lined with banana leaves, filled with un-ripened bananas kept covered by mats and earth until the print
has become completely ripe.
Then the bananas are slit, mixed with fine hay, and placed into a large boat-like trough, which at one end has an emptying pipe.
After the addition of some water
the whole is thoroughly mixed by the hand, or by short wooden sticks. Thereupon the trough is covered with banana leaves and the mixture is left standing for about one or two hours. Then it is taken out and poured into large calabashes through grass sieves. It is then ready for use and represents a sweet agreeable and not intoxicating beverage.

(So far the W. C. T. U.) But if the "Mulisi" is left standing for three days it undergoes a fermentation and become a slightly acid, refreshing beverage, which is strongly intoxicating. (That's for us A-G.). This wine is then called "Muenze" (what a name brother Al. Co. Hall). If it is filled into bottles and they are kept well corked in a cool place for several months, a sparkling wine is obtained; strongly resembling champagne. All grocers of bananas should try our prescription and we expect that the Marshal will then have his hands full in the future stopping the sale of our patented "Banana Wine."

PROGRESS.

The Life of the Land is Established

HONOLULU, OCT. 31, 1893.

FALSE REPRESENTATIONS

The Star has a remarkable facility in using the editorial scissors so as to suit its readers and its sentiments. A few days ago it published a special paragraph about the adoption of a resolution by the Rochester Chamber of Commerce favoring the immediate annexation of Hawaii. The truth as will be seen in the extract which we print below from the Rochester Advertiser is though that the resolution in question was defeated and laid on the table.

The Star's quotation in fat type from the New York Herald is of the same caliber.

The Rochester Chamber of Commerce did well last evening to lay on the table the resolution favoring the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands. It could have done far better to reject the resolution and thus put itself on record as opposed to such an act of aggression against a friendly potentate and a friendly people. That would have been an act showing that no commercial advantage or any increase of national prestige could obscure plain question of international ethics.

The question of the annexation of the Hawaiian Islands has no relation whatever to either of these considerations, however important they may be. The more important consideration is the right we have to extinguish the sovereignty of an independent people at the request of a small rebellious and mercenary minority of them. That we have no such right, there is not the least doubt. The most enthusiastic advocates of annexation have never contented for a moment that the leaders of the movement resulting in the overthrow of the Queen represented the majority of her subjects. Nor has it been pretended that they would have succeeded without the moral, if not the active, support of Minister Stevens and the United States marines stationed at Honolulu.

Nevertheless, it is proposed that we shall accept the offer of this rebellious minority to take the control of the islands from a friendly sovereign having the loyal support of a majority of her subjects. Is it difficult to appreciate the monstrous character of this proposition? It is nothing less than a proposition to accept stolen goods. Even worse than this it is. It is a proposition to accept stolen goods stolen from friends—goods that some unscrupulous and unworthy Americans helped to steal. Between us and the Hawaiian people there exists a treaty recognizing their sovereign and their independence. As a mark of friendship they incorporated in it trade privileges granted to no other nation. Could ingratitude go farther than the proposal to repudiate both their sovereign and their independence?

But there are other considerations besides the acceptance of stolen goods and the betrayal of friendship that antagonize the annexation of the islands.

One is that we enjoy already all advantages with none of the disadvantages accruing from annexation. The treaty just mentioned taken with the various declarations of the state department relative to the maintenance of the independence of the Hawaiian Islands against foreign aggression gives us a virtual protectorate. Thus we escape the heavy responsibility of government and the islands are assured against the possible establishment of a French or English protectorate. At the same time, we have the right to carry on unimpeded trade. The exercise of this right has enabled us to monopolize Hawaiian trade.

The chief consideration is, however, the evil involved in the establishment of a colonial policy. We should never assume as the European powers have done, any responsibility for territory beyond the shores of this continent. It would involve us as in the case of those powers, in enormous expenditures, the maintenance of a large navy and the cultivation of the militant spirit so destructive to the growth of those gentle and human sentiments characterizing the highest civilization.—(Rochester Advertiser.)

THE INVESTOR AND HIS RIGHTS.

II.

Our readers will please bear in mind that the Star assumption that we wish to combat, is the following: That because Mr. T. G. Thrum published a Statistical Table in which the values of sugar and mercantile corporations are swollen up to 36 millions of dollars,—out of which Hawaiians are represented as owning only $657,132, while the Americans figure for $21,700,689, therefore the ownership of the Kingdom belongs to the American investors in sugar, without any regard for the "rights" of property of other kinds; in other words with the Star, it is not even that capital in general must rule, but only American capital invested in one special industry. In our previous issue we only considered the ludicrous injustice of the pretention; now we shall go into figures.

As previously said, Thrum's Table we take to be in reality, a correct, or incorrect, evolution of sugar and mercantile corporations only, without any reference to the values of all other properties outside of these special interests. But the first striking fact is that the sum total of value attributed to those said corporations is 36 millions and a fraction; now that same figure of 36 millions and a somewhat different fraction is also the official value of all real and personal property as assessed for taxation. Therefore an outside observer would conclude that the 36 millions of corporations are the only properties paying taxes here, sugar and commerce thus standing the whole of the fiscal burden—Happy little kingdom in which bananas, taro, rice, coffee, cattle lands and industries, and even personal property do not pay a cent of taxes! sugar, like the gambling Monaco, sees that nobody but itself is burdened in that respect!

But alas! we all know that everything, outside of sugar, does pay taxation and very often for more than real value. Consequently, either Thrum's figures are false, if sugar is positively taxed to its value on equal footing with all other properties, or else if correct, sugar for some unacceptable reason, is not taxed in the same proportion; may be again that sugar estates have one value for political, and another one for fiscal purposes, or finally the official assessments may be wrong in every way? The only ready manner to solve the question might be if Mr. Thrum would kindly submit to the interested public another, a companion table, in which the values and ownership of all other tax-paying properties and industries (outside of sugar corporations and mercantile firms) should be conveniently enumerated. But, as it is very unlikely that Mr. Thrum would consent to let his political cat out of the bag by deferring to our request, we shall be forced to work out the problem on such meager data as published by our official red tape.

Turning then to the official figures of paid taxes, we find in the Census, that the sugar and mercantile corporations, (as represented by those paying over $100 taxes, the inferior ones not being sugar and agricultural, are not included in Thrum's 36 millions, according to his own admission in the Star) paid $161,000 out of a total of $547,000, or 30 per cent. of their category of taxes. Thus we are compelled to say that the investors in sugar and mercantile corporations must represent only 30 per cent. of the total value of properties and industries in the Kingdom, as against 70 per cent. of other kinds of property. Therefore, if according to Thrum, corporations are worth 36 millions, the other properties must be worth at least 84 millions; if on the contrary, the whole of real and personal properties and industries, sugar and commercial firms included, are correctly assessed at 36 millions, then the sugar and mercantile corporations alone must be worth only 30 per cent. of that amount, or about 11 millions; instead of Thrum's figures. Whatever may be the case, it is irrefutable that sugar is only a fraction of the property interests here, and therefore we shall ask, in reply to another of the Star's lucubrations on the same subject; who is best entitled to own the country, the tail of 30 per cent. sugar investors, or the dog of 70 per cent. of other proprietors? all the more so as a large proportion of the aforesaid 30 per cent. do not intend to wag their tails at the Star's caprice.

Under another point of view, if Thrum's figures are correct, 36 millions worth of sugar and mercantile corporations, at one per cent. legal rate of taxation, ought to bring the Treasury $368,000, instead of $161,000. The Provisional Government, who are under such difficulties to raise money to pay their invincible army, will now know where to get a couple of hundred thousand more, which will come in very handy; we therefore give the hint to the Tax-Assessors free of charge, and do not doubt that they will duly attend to the matter.

But we are not yet nearly through with Thrum's figures; so again.

AL REVON.

"RESTORATION" AND THE "STAR."

"The restoration of the Queen to the throne Mr. Blount never contemplated by anything he said in his report, and the administration would not favor such a course, even if he did."—New York Herald.

The Hawaiian Star has published the above with great "elation," in its three last issues.

For the benefit of our readers, and in answer to the prevaricating principles of the annexation sheet, the ENTIRE DESPATCH—from which the above paragraph is quoted—is presented.

IT WILL BE NOTICED, that the Star, HAS LEFT OUT the words "I am answered." IT WILL ALSO BE NOTICED, that the paragraph as published in the Herald, is SOMEWHAT DISCONNECTED.

Washington, Oct. 5, 1893.

There was an important conference on the Hawaiian question to-day between President Cleveland, Secretary of State Gresham and Mr. Willis, the new Minister to Hawaii. Mr. Willis did not leave the city last night, as he had intended, but remained over at the request of the President to receive a little personal advice from Mr. Cleveland as to the course he should pursue pending the settlement of Hawaiian matters. He had previously received written instructions from Secretary Gresham.

Mr. Willis will sail from San Francisco October 10 for Honolulu. He goes with full knowledge of what the attitude of the administration is to be, but cautioned not to make known what he has learned until he has heard that the message has been sent to the Senate.

It is reported to-day that ex-Minister Blount's report on the situation in Hawaii recommends that no action should be taken by the United States to annex the islands or establish a protectorate over them without the full consent of all the natives, and that all questions involved in annexation and the establishment of a protectorate well should be submitted to a vote of all native, as well as foreigners, and upon their decision should rest the policy of the United States respecting Hawaii.

The question of the restoration of the Queen to the throne. I am assured, Mr. Blount never contemplated by anything he has said in his report, and the administration would not favor such a course even if he did.

It is not secret that the President deplores the underhand methods pursued by the last administration in aiding in the Queen's overthrow, and, I am informed, he will say as much in his message; but the authorities believe a republican form of government is the more desirable, and will take no hand in any effort looking to the restoration of the Queen.

What the administration wants most is to see a permanent form of government established by an election. A protectorate, mild in its terms as to internal affairs, but very rigid against outside interference, is what the administration will propose. With a permanent government established by a vote of Hawaiians, the United States will even go further and guarantee it against overthrow by revolution.

Pending the election to bring about the new form of government the United States will stand by the provisional government to the extent of guaranteeing it protection until the result of the election is announced and until the permanent government is established.

In return for this protection the administration will expect the exclusive and unreserved right to Pearl Harbor as a coaling station and such other military advantages on the islands as may be desired.

In short, the administration favors maximum control, as far as foreign supremacy in Hawaii is concerned, at minimum expense. It does not wish to interfere with the internal affairs of the islands, because it is believed the people are capable of self-government when protected against outside influences.

With certain restrictions as to the class of voters, administration officials and Mr. Blount, I am assured, are confident that a permanent government, capable of taking care of itself financially and politically, can be established.

This, I understand, will be the substance of the information the new Minister will convey to the Provisional Government.

In anticipation of an election this autumn the Navy Department, it is said, is contemplating an augmentation of the naval forces in Hawaiian waters. The Charleston, Yorktown, Boston (when overhauled), Mohican and Ranger will be available for this purpose, and these, with the Philadelphia, now enroute, and the Adams, already at Honolulu, will make a fleet of seven vessels. The moral effect of the presence of these vessels, together with the avowed purpose of the United States to protect the new government will, it is believed, be sufficient to guarantee a peaceful and fair election.

LOCAL NEWS.

The steamer Miike Maru returns to Yokohama to-morrow.

The Warrimoo sails at 8 o'clock to-morrow morning.

Send the HOLOMUA to your friends by the out-going mail to-morrow. They will be pleased to hear from you.

The C. A. S. S. Co's Steamer Warrimoo, arrived this forenoon from Sydney, en route to Vancouver and Victoria. The following passengers are booked at the office of the agents: Mrs Scarth, Miss Scarth, Mrs J. G. Rothwell and 2 children, T. R. Robertson, and R. Callender.

Mr. Julian Monserrat left for his home in Hawaii this morning by the W. G. Hall. Mr. Monserrat has been staying in Honolulu for a few weeks consulting his physician. We are glad to report that Mr. Monserrat leaves the town much improved in health, and that he will soon be able to respond to all demands on any loyal citizen of Hawaii.

"GROUND ARMS!"

Mr. Editor of the HOLOMUA:—
In your issue of the 26th of last month, you have the "big heart" to publish an article entitled "Is Hawaii under the Protection of the United States to-day?" I think you will have the same good humor to kindly treat this in the same way as you did the other, for the two are of the same parentage.

Having asserted to my own satisfaction, without of course being sensitive as to what next neighbor may entertain, whether pro or con, that Hawaii is yet and still under the Protection of the United States, I now take the opportunity to step out, and prove that the P. G. or Provisional Government is under the wings of the American Eagle, and that the Government of the United States of America stands relatively to Hawaii or more particularly the Provisional Government as the Guardian to his Ward. The Provisional Government by its open acts created and established this relationship, and it cannot be honestly denied or repudiated. Let us see what the past history says in support of this assertion:

(Ex) Minister John L. Stevens' Proclamation.

"TO THE HAWAIIAN PEOPLE!"

At the request of the Provisional Government of the Hawaiian Islands, I hereby, in the name of the United States of America assume protection of the Hawaiian Islands for the protection of life and property, and occupation of Public Buildings and Hawaiian soil, so far as may be necessary for the purpose specified, but not interfering with the administration of public affairs by the Provisional Government.

This action is taken pending, and subject to, negotiations at Washington.

JOHN L. STEVENS,

Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States.

United States Legation, Feb. 1 1893.

Approved and Executed by
G. C. WILTSSE,
Captain U. S. N.,

Commanding the United States Ship "Boston."

(Copied from the Hawaiian Gazette, February 7, 1893. Vol. XXVIII. No. 6. Whole No. 1465.)

Can we hesitate for a moment to say that this Extraordinary "Proclamation" by Minister Plenipotentiary Stevens "in the name of the United States of America," does not establish an American Protectorate over Hawaii, more particularly over the Provisional Government, at whose request "His Action is taken, pending and subject to, negotiations at Washington," says Ex Minister Stevens? In order to invalidate or annul the binding force or authority of this "Proclamation," it takes a higher power to undo it, and it must be done by official Proclamation. Has that been done yet?

It is true that the United States Commissioner Blount had the American Flag, which had the honor to wave over Aliiolani Hale for a period of over two months, to be replaced by the Hawaiian Flag, but that action does not by the way annul or invalidate Mr. Stevens' Proclamation for American Protectorate over the Provisional Government. The only act which Commissioner Blount did on that memorable day (April 1st. 1893) that, I think, has any "cut at all" in Mr. Stevens' Proclamation, was the order requiring the American guards, who were at that time guarding the Government Building, to vacate it and the Hawaiian soil, and yet that does not of its annul the Proclamation.

Having clearly proved that the Provisional Government is a Ward of the United States of America, I will take a step further forward and say, that the Provisional Government cannot relind this relationship at its own pleasure, and neither it lay disobey all lawful directions and orders coming from the United States, whether to shoulder arms present arms, and last not least, "Ground Arms!" or "Ilalo Pu!"
