This, he said, is the only solution of the present problem.

ARTILLERY SCORES FIRST TOUCHDOWN

A very close and exciting game was played between the Maile-Hima and Artillery football teams at the base, all park on Saturday last, the result being a victory for the former by a score of 11 to 6. The Mailes started in as if they were going to pile up a tremendous score for inside of ten minutes they made two touchdowns with one goal kicked. The soldiers braced at this point and the Mailes were kept from again scoring. The soldiers succeeded in making one touchdown. Their team work was bad but brilliant individual plays were made by such men as Bennett and Greenwalt.

There was a very small crowd present. The band played before the game and during the interval.

In the first half, the Mailes took the makal end of the field and kicked off. The ball went about 45 yards, the Artillery team gained 18 and then tried a series of bucks but lost the ball on a quarterback play within the 25-yard line. James made a run around the right end for 25 yards, taking the ball very close to the touchdown line. Then came Heilbron who bucked the line and scored the first touchdown in 2 minutes and 22 seconds. James failed at goal.

Artillery kicked off. Mays caught fair, ran 5 yards and then Wright went down the field 70 yards for a second touchdown made in 4 minutes and 24 seconds. James kicked goal.

Maile kicked off and lost 5 yards on an off-side play. Artillery fumbled but got the ball again. They were forced to kick and James catching the ball, ran back 7 yards. Mailes penalized 20 yards on account of a play by Wright who used his hands. James made a gain of 6 yards and then the ball was kicked, the ball bounding outside.

Artillery took the ball in the center of the field and made 15 yards but Greenwalt ran outside. Good gains were made by bucking the Maile line. Mailes penalized 5 yards for offside play. On two bucks, Bennett made 6 yards and on the first down was pushed over the line for the first touchdown made by the Artillery team during the present season. The score stood 11 to 6 and remained so to the end.

In the second half there was good playing on both sides, the ball going up and down the field, but no scoring was done.

The line-up was as follows: Maile Hima. Artillery.
Hatfield, r. e. I. e. Coval Weacott, r. e. I. t. Woods

A RAPID TRANSIT EPISODE.

This morning about half past ten, a tall lady with a half-sized husband, boarded a King street car, the lady was wearing her husband on her right hand, when they entered the husband looked up, and said to his wife: "You're tall enough to reach a strap, but what can I hold," she said, "If I was as short as you are, I'd hold my tongue," so he took hold of his tongue, the car started and he fell down, whereupon his dutiful spouse holloed, "What's the matter, can't you stand up?" Said hubby, "They both slipped." "Both what," said the wife, "Both my feet and my tongue," said the little husband, but let's get off the car and go and see Bath the plumber and have a look at that new line of Douglas Patent Closets that have just arrived. His telephone is 61 Main.

WANTS A HOLIDAY.

Editor Evening Bulletin:—Will Governor Carter declare that day a public holiday?

What day? Why, next Friday week being Christmas day, who wants to work on the next day, Saturday? I would ask the Governor to make that Saturday a public holiday. I would ask the newspapers not to publish their papers on that day. I would ask all merchants and storekeepers to close Thursday night (for Christmas Eve) and not open till Monday. This is the year that gives us an opportunity to embrace these days without business and without anyone suffering thereby. We shall have no money for the tradespeople on the Saturday, for they will have it safe in their safes by twelve o'clock on Thursday night. Let us all join together, Jew and Gentile, Japanese and Chinese, and close shop and go for pleasure. Next year the opportunity will not be so good for an extra day as Christmas day will then fall on a Saturday.

Yours, etc.,

R. A. JORDAN.
Honolulu, 15th Dec., 1903.

[The Governor can't proclaim a holiday. Whether business goes on as usual the Saturday after Christmas depends entirely on the merchants who can make the day practically a holiday by mutual agreement.—Ed.]

Electricity In the Home AND WHY YOU SHOULD USE IT.

Incandescent electric lighting is indispensable to the comfort of the modern home.

The quality of the light is far superior to any other. The cost is very slightly above kerosene.

The annoyances of broken lamp chimneys, smoke, trimming of wicks, excessive heat, disagreeable odor, refilling of lamps, etc., are entirely removed by use of electricity.

A simple turn of the switch in the wall or chandelier gives instant light and saves groping about for matches.

The light can be left burning without danger of fire while occupants are out of the house.

The quality of light is soft, steady and white—the quantity to suit your needs.

We have numerous devices for saving light and valuable suggestions for old, as well as new subscribers.

The conveniences and desirable features of electricity over all other illuminators are innumerable and we will take pleasure in telling you the cost of house wiring and fixtures.

In other words the morning press promises to be good when it has to.

With two men left on the French Frigate Shoals a rescue expedition will be a necessity even though the wrecking enterprise fails.

Presumably the explanation of the morning press toward the County Law meets the full approval of the citizens movement partner, Birbe.

Russia's promise to protect Korea is very touching. It means that Russia is as willing to add Korea to its domain as it was Manchuria.

Having the date of the National convention before them, the Republicans of Hawaii can occupy their time preparing for the convention to elect our delegates.

Preparations for the entertainment of the war fleet will make this year's Christmas season a particularly pleasant memory for citizens and warriors alike and it is to be hoped that Panama will offer no unfortunate break in the season devoted to "peace on earth, good will to men."

AN INTERESTING CONFESSION.

Confession is good for the soul. The morning paper confesses that it has always been opposed to the County; does not believe in the principle; only gave up active warfare against it when the overwhelming sentiment of the people overwhelmed opposition.

This confession very clearly establishes what the Bulletin has always maintained, that the County Law when dealt with by the morning paper, is not in the hands of its friends. It also shows beyond doubt what was obvious during the town-meeting period, that this declared enemy of the County principle was seeking the undoing of the law. The fact that the confession comes after the people have made further declarations for the preservation of the law properly inspires a continued lack of confidence in the sincerity of further proposals from the morning County opponent.

What the course before the Supreme Court, to test the law, will be has yet to be determined by the Bar Association, which, usually ready to follow Mr. Thurston's lead, has signified its readiness to take up the question.
Hitherto the Supreme Court has been inclined to take up the law item by item. The result of this will be, as pointed out by the Governor, constant war in the courts and consequent distrust, as disastrous as the chaos which may be threatened.

The dangers of uncertainty are indeed the most serious, and the situation is such that action by Congress furnishes the most speedy and most positive means of removing this danger. The only uncertainty in the County law today is the supposed conflict with the Organic Act created by Congress. The law is satisfactory to the people. It requires confirmation from the authority having the power to confirm. This done, the County Law is placed beyond the danger of probable attack. Congressional action will wipe out the element of uncertainty, whereas the approach to stability by way of the Supreme Court and the Legislature opens the way for enemies of the law and the principle to get in their work at two points and continue the wrangle for months. It is well recognized that in hoping for a decision from the Supreme Court sustaining the County Act, the morning press is expressing a desire for what it does not expect.

CORRUPTED INK POTS.

[Mail News]

The Advertiser interestingly recites the petty pilfering by members of the recent legislature of fountain pens and expensive pen knives. The News would join in the condemnation of such practices but for the fact that the ink with which this editorial is being written is dipped from an inkstand which the writer stole from his desk at the end of the session of 1899-90. However all are not like guilty, and the News urges those who have uncorrupted ink and guiltless pencils to properly denounce the petty larceny of Territorial property.

A letter received from Molokai by Saturday's steamer stated that the politicians are getting in their work and that the following have so far been named for county offices: Kane, deputy sheriff; Poaha, judge; D. McCor-riston, road supervisor.

REV. KINGAID URGES

LESS PHARASEISM

AMONG ALL PEOPLE

Rev. W. M. Kincaid preached a sermon on "The Perishing Classes" at the morning service yesterday which was especially interesting and has caused general comment. Mr. Kincaid said in part:

There are those in every community whom we have come to regard as belonging to what are called "The perishing classes," and the problem of reaching these classes is one of the gravest problems of our times. It is not my purpose, this morning, to discuss who the perishing classes are, nor to make any fine distinctions between the high and the low, the fortunate and the unfortunate in our midst. But I do desire, if I may, to speak some words by which all our hearts may be stirred within us, and by which we may be encouraged to do what we can to make the conditions of life better, and the lives better, of those who are not so fortunate as some of us are, whether they belong to what are called the "Perishing Classes" or not.

I take as my text the words of Christ which you will find in the Gospel according to St. Matthew, the 18th chapter and the 14th verse: "It is not the will of your Father in heaven that one of these little ones should perish."

Now, I believe that in order to reach and uplift men, a fourfold faith is necessary.

First, faith in God; faith that the order of things is good, that it is meant to be good for all the sons and daughters of men. So long as you believe the infamous doctrine that there are certain ones who are destined by God to be poor; and certain others who are destined to be wicked; and certain others who are destined to perish, just so long will you fail to have power by which you may minister helpfully to the needs of society.

It is when a man believes in God that he is able to give himself mightily to the work of uplifting men, and remedying the evil conditions of their lives.

The second kind of faith which I believe is necessary in order to reach and uplift men, is faith in men, and by that I mean faith in individual men, every individual; faith that not one human being has been made in vain, that there is an infinite significance to the lowest human life.

I have had some experience in trying to help men to a life of righteousness, and I give you as my judgment that what they need is some one to believe in them. If I believed as some do that certain races were radically different from certain other races, and were incapable of being brought by the grace of God into the dignity and holiness of divine sonship, I would lose my faith in an infinite goodness, and my work for the uplifting of men would be smitten with barrenness.

When I hear some people talk about their brother man whose skin happens to be yellow or black, the words of Shylock about his countrymen comes to my mind: "I am a Jew. Hath not a few eyes? hath not a few hands, organs, dimensions, senses, affections, passions? fed with the same food, hurt with the same weapons, subject to the same diseases, healed by the same means, warmed and cooled by the same winter and summer, as a Christian is? If you prick him, does he not bleed? If you tickle him, does he not laugh? If you poison him, does he not die? and if you wrong him, shall he not revenge? If we are like you in the rest, we shall resemble you in that. . . . The villainy you teach us, we will execute; and it shall go hard but we will better the instruction."

Substitute for the word "Jew," the word Hawaiian, Polynesian, Asiatic, African—I care not what, is he not just as capable of becoming a son of God and an heir of eternal life, as the Anglo-Saxon? If not, then let us close the Book that teaches us that the one God has made of the one blood, yes, and of the one human and divine nature all nations for to dwell on all the face of the earth. Was not Shakespeare right when he said: "Men might be better if we better deemed of them?"

I wish you and I who are very apt to sneer at every kind of Phariseism except our own kind—I wish we could get the idea into our heads that any man who stands up and says, "O God!
I thank thee that I am not as other men are," does not have much idea how other men are. I do not believe there is a human being on the face of the earth so low down in the moral scale but the power of the grace of God united with the power of a loving, human sympathy and faith righteously applied may not be lifted up until he shall be worthy to be numbered with the holiest in the world.

I have said that it required faith in God in order to help men; that it required faith in men as individuals.
There is another thing wanted, and that is faith in men. I mean faith in the race; that it is a good race I mean what has come to be known as the social consciousness. There was a time when the holiest impulse that came to men was the desire to be saved from sin and hell and vanishment, and to be good because there was something personal to be gained by it. It is better for a man to be good at all reasons than not to be good at all.
But we no longer appeal to be good in order to be happy. There is a larger and broader appeal than that, an appeal that says to a man be good because you are a part of the race, and the race is dependent for its progress and uplifting upon you. No man can be saved alone; while one man remains base, no man can be altogether great and noble. We are all bound together as my hands are bound to my arms, and my arms to my body.
The fact is you cannot "lift the top story." Man is not built in stories.
There are not layers and strata of humanity. We are built as my body is built; "we are all members one of another," and you might as well try to lift the top story of your body as to lift the top story of humanity without lifting the rest. I was reading the other day a story about a brakeman who was learning his duties. When the train started, the conductor said, "I will help you, and teach you what to do. When you come to a station be on the lookout. I will open the door at one end of the car, and call out the name of the station, and you open the other door and call the same at that end." They went on until the train began slowing up, and the conductor opened the car door and called out, "Springfield! Springfield!" and the brakeman opened the other door and called out, "Same at this end; same at this end!" We are learning socially that when one end of the car stops the other stops also. There is not a man living in a beautiful home who is not conditioned more than he thinks by the way that the poorest man or woman is living in the city.

And this brings me to my last thought, that in order to reach men and uplift them, there is required faith in the power of the Gospel. What does the Gospel claim to do? What does it claim to have done? It confronts the most tyrannous and galling of all bondage, the bondage of sin in a spirit of exulting hope. It announces itself as the emancipator, giving "liberty to them that are bruised," and "opening the prison to them that are bound." It addresses itself equally to those who are imprisoned in sheer animalism, and to those whose servitude is gilded. I am not sure that I ought to make even this distinction. After all, it makes very little difference whether a man's chains be made of iron or of gold. Some men seem to be bound with a vulgar carriage; others, with multitudinous cords of vanity. What does the Gospel do for these bound ones? It breaks their fetters as nothing else does. The record of the triumphs of the Gospel is a marvelous story of spiritual emanipation. It tells of houses that were once little better than sties converted into clean and beautiful homes, once occupied by men and women little better than beasts, now tenanted by purified saints of God. My own faith in the regenerating power of the Gospel, when back of it there is faith in God, and faith in man, is steadily deepened by the stories that come to me continually of its conquests. It is the wisdom and the power of God into salvation for all that believe."

mans. Scattered throughout the community are Portuguese, Filipinos, Kan-cans, Parsees and representatives of many other nationalities.

"Notwithstanding the glowing accounts about Shanghai that have been published from my extended residence in that place I would say to any and all that it is folly to go there unless there is some definite promise of work ahead. The town is full of Chinese and Portuguese who speak English fluently and are perfectly willing to work in clerical positions for $40 a month Mexican. Where is the chance for anyone to work there under such conditions?"

"Then again, there is the climate.
Last summer for a space of several days, the thermometer stood 102 degrees in the shade, with the air perfectly saturated with moisture. In the winter it is bitterly cold, with the same moist condition of the atmosphere. Such a state of affairs is trying on the regular residents of the place, let alone the new arrivals.

"The last person I saw as I left Shanghai was Phil. Dankey, waving me a farewell. He stood head and shoulders above the great crowd and looked tremendous. He is very well count of the ability he showed in the

Mm. Vannatta, second baseman, was chosen captain for the coming season, both on account of his position and the excellent judgment he showed during the games of the past season. This choice of a new captain is by no means a reflection on captain Lemon but the boys have always believed in giving worthy men a chance to show what they are made of and since Mr.
Lemon has held the position for two years it was thought no more than right that Vannatta should have a chance.

CHAPTER VIII.

LADY ELIZABETH DOES NOT KNOW THE MARQUIS DE RICHMONT.

Before he could answer an order came for the prisoner to be brought forward. After ascending a flight of worn stone steps and going through a long, dark passage, a great door was thrown open at the end and he was confronted by a blaze of light which dazzled him at first, until his eyes becoming accustomed to the illumination, realized that he stood on the threshold of a splendid hall in the old keep, which had possibly once been the banquet hall of the castle. Long lancet windows upon one side, their leaded panes filled with rich painted glass, looked out upon the sea, whose waves beating ceaselessly upon the bluff below filled the room with a subdued murmur like a strain of hushed and vibrant music, such was the elevation of the tower.

The room was massively and splendidly furnished with heavy antique furniture. The stone walls were covered with hangings of rich old tapestry from the famous looms of Arras. Here and there were portraits of distinguished members of the Westbrooke family, women renowned for their lustrous beauty or men, who, holding the castle at different times, had made their names famous by their bravery and skill. The prisoner's feet sank into a thick, soft, luxurious carpet stretched upon the stone flags of the old floor.

Writing at a large table standing near the corner of the room and covered with candelabra sat a bearded old man of commanding presence dressed in a naval uniform covered with orders and stars bespeaking high rank. Farther away, with her back turned to the light and to the door by which he had entered, a young woman sat, apparently reading intently. One glance at the graceful curve of her neck and the exquisite poise of her head told him it was she. Forgetful of everything else, he would have stepped forward had it not been for the restraining hand of the sergeant.

"The prisoner, my lord," said the latter, saluting.

The admiral continued his writing a moment and then, looking up, fixed his eyes keenly upon the young man. His first glance told him that he had to deal with no ordinary prisoner. He rose at once and bowed with the courtesy of a finished gentleman.

"Have the goodness to step forward, sir, and be seated," he said, pointing to the chair. "Sergeant, remain on guard where you are."

With an equally low bow to the older man, O'Neill took a few steps in his direction and sat down on the indicated chair in front of the admiral, facing him and the woman beyond, who, still intent upon her book or lost in thought had not yet noticed his entrance. Prisoners, in fact, being everyday occurrences at the castle in these troublous times, had ceased to interest her. Still the unusual complaisance of the old man as expressed by his voice and manner attracted her attention. She looked up from the book without turning her head and listened.

"I am sorry to subject you to any annoyance, sir," continued the admiral, "but the rules are very strict, and I must abide by my own regulations. We apprehend a descent upon our coast by the notorious pirate, John Paul Jones—O'Neill started violently and bit his lip, but said nothing—"and it is my duty to take unusual precautions," added the speaker. "I must ask your name, your station and business here."

"I am the"—said O'Neill quietly, but with his glance fixed on the powdered head showing over the chair back opposite him.

There was a commotion at the other side of the table. Lady Elizabeth sprang to her feet with a hurried exclamation, dropped her book to the floor and then turned quickly and stepped toward the other two. O'Neill and the admiral both rose at the same time.

She was on grander terms, her hair rolled high and powdered, jewels sparkling about the snowy throat, which rose from the pale blue silk of her corage.

"Daddy," she cried.

"The Marquis de Richmond, at your service, mademoiselle," O'Neill interrupted quickly, bowing low before her, feeling lest in her surprise she would betray him.

"Good heavens, Elizabeth, what is the meaning of this? Do you know this man?" asked the admiral in great astonishment.

"Every traveler," smilingly interrupted O'Neill, striving to give Elizabeth time to collect herself, with the appearance of the greatest sangfroid himself, though his heart was beating so rapidly he could scarce maintain his composure. "On these islands has heard of the beauty of Lady Elizabeth Howard. Her reputation as a woman of charm has even extended to the continent whence I come. It was in the hope of having the privilege of seeing her that I walked up toward the castle this evening. I have not the honor of her acquaintance, monsieur."

"Do you know this man, Elizabeth?" persisted the admiral sternly, his suspicions aroused by her actions.

There was evidently some mystery about his coming, and the girl was quick to see that to proclaim O'Neill's name and occupation would probably place him in an embarrassing position, to say the least. She recovered herself by a great effort and, turning languidly away, remarked with well assumed carelessness:

"I? Certainly not, sir. I have never heard of the Marquis de Richmond before in my life." The statement was absolutely correct, the Irishman's rank having been kept strictly in abeyance. O'Neill shrugged his shoulders and extended his hands in confirmation of her words.

"Why that cry, then, and your surprise, madam? questioned the still unconvinced admiral.

"I know not, sir. I must have been dreaming, and the sound of a strange voice startled me."

"Beg pardon, my lord," said the sergeant, saluting. "Yer worship, he axed if Lady Elizabeth Howard lived 'ere wen he was down in the courtyard."

"Silence, sirrah!" thundered the old admiral, who allowed no one to enter his doubts of his ward but himself. "Do you mean to imply that Lady Elizabeth has knowledge of this gentleman?"

"Oh, sergeant!" said the girl, clasping her hands and looking at the old veteran with all the fascination of which she was capable.

"No, yer ludship, no, sir. O' course not; certainly not, yer honor," returned the man in great confusion. "I spoke by way o' showin' that's wot he come for."

"It was in pursuance of my desire to see so great a beauty that I asked the question, monsieur."

"Sir, your admiration does me too much honor," said Elizabeth, courteously.

"I make up for the fact that your reputation does your ladyship too little, then, mademoiselle," he answered.

"Enough of this," said the admiral impatiently. "The girl is well enough, but you didn't come here to look at her, did you?"

"On my honor as a gentleman, monsieur, for no other purpose."

"Well, give some account of yourself otherwise, and perhaps if it be satisfactory, as you have accomplished that purpose, I may send you on your way rejoicing," said the admiral, amused at the extravagance of the young man.

"No man could leave the presence of Lady Elizabeth Howard rejoicing, sir."

"Damnation, sir!" cried the Governor testily. "Are you going to stand here and bandy compliments about all day like a French dancing master?"

"I have nothing further to urge for my words, my lord, when my excuse stands in your very presence."

The governor looked at the two young people in great perplexity.

"I fear, my dear Marquis de Richmond," said he ironically, "unless you can give some more coherent account of yourself I shall be under the painful necessity of having you locked up, in which case the only divinity you will be allowed to gaze upon will be the lovely face and figure of your sergeant."

"Yes, yer ludship, I"—exclaimed the sergeant, grinning.

"Silence, sirrah!" thundered the admiral.

"My lord," answered O'Neill, smiling, "it is very simple, I am an officer in the navy of the king of France, making a tour of England for pleasure. I came here to this town this evening, I hear of the great admiral, Lord Westbrooke, in his great wealth and the beauty of his ward, Lady Elizabeth Howard. I am a lover of the beautiful. I stand on the causeway gazing at the castle. Your soldiers arrest me and bring me here. I rejoice to find Lady Elizabeth more beautiful than I have dreamed. A year and a half have only intensified her charms."

"A year and a half? Dreams, sir! What mean you by that, pray? What have the years to do with the matter? Did you see her a year and a half since?" cried the admiral suspiciously again.

O'Neill started; it was a fatal slip, but he hastened to repair it as best he could.

"I have seen her picture, sir."

"And where, pray, have you seen her picture?"

"In the possession of an English officer, a friend of mine whom I met at Liverpool a year and a half ago," answered O'Neill audaciously.

"And who was this English officer, pray, who displayed my picture?" interrupted Elizabeth, with an appearance of great agitation.

"Major Edward Coventry, mademoiselle."

"Oh, Edward! Why, God bless me," said the admiral genially, "he is my son. Do you mean to tell me you are a friend of his? Why didn't you say so before?"

"I had the honor of his acquaintance," said O'Neill, bowing gravely, "on one very interesting and memorable occasion indeed, when he was on duty at the Chateau Birkenhead, I believe."

"Yes, that would be about a year and a half ago. Sir, in that case you are very welcome to this castle," said the admiral. "And now I beg leave to present you in due and proper form to my ward, Lady Elizabeth Howard, permit me to introduce to you the Marquis de Richmond."

"It is"—she cried.

"I am charmed to have the pleasure of meeting the marquis," responded the girl, smiling and courtesying deeply.

"The pleasure and the honor are mine, mademoiselle," responded O'Neill fully entering upon the comedy of the moment.

"And," continued the admiral, "as my son, Major Edward Coventry, has sent me word he will be here shortly, you can renew your acquaintance with him."

It was as if he had exploded a bomb-shell in the room.

"Edward! Coming here?" cried Elizabeth, her voice filled with terror at the unfortunate event, which she vainly endeavored to conceal. "What for? Why did you not tell me?"

"He desired to surprise you, my dear," answered the admiral, wondering again at her agitation. "You know your wedding takes place next week."

"Ah, a wedding!" said O'Neill, starting and looking at Elizabeth. "Mademoiselle is then to marry?"

"Yes, your friend Major Coventry," replied the old man, "an old engagement."

Macfarlane, executrix, of the Last Will and Testament of E. C. Macfarlane, deceased, will offer for sale and will sell as a whole, at public auction, through James F. Morgan, auctioneer, hereby chosen and designated for that purpose, at the auction sales rooms of said James F. Morgan, Nos. 847-857 Kaahumanu street, in the city of Honolulu, Island of Oahu, Territory of Hawaii, on Saturday, January 9th, 1904, at the hour of 12 o'clock M., of that day, to the highest bidder, beyond or for the sum of twenty thousand dollars, the entire property, assets, and goodwill of the said Puuloa Sheep and Stock Ranch Company.

DESCRIPTION OF PROPERTY. List of Freehold and Leasehold Lands and Improvements, Sheep and other Live Stock and Property owned by the Puuloa Sheep and Stock Ranch Company, viz:

LAND OF OULU Ahupuaa, containing 4,000 acres, more or less, and extending from the sea, near Kawaihala, to the top of the Kohala range of mountains, with a stream of water running through same, said stream having its origin in those mountains.

LAND AT LIHUE, in Waimea, the former homestead of James Luzada and Frank Spencer, and formerly the headquarters of the Lihue Cattle Ranch, and Beef Packing Establishment, adjoining the land of Oulu and containing 50 acres. This also has a stream of water running through it, and is a beautiful block of land.

LAND OF AHULI, in Waimea, the former homestead of Edward Sparke, and formerly the headquarters of the Sparke Sheep Ranch. This is probably the finest residence site in the District of Waimea, and is a magnificent block of land having an area of 22 acres, through which there is also a running stream of pure water.

There are valuable stone fences and pens on the above properties.

The two last mentioned fine blocks of land are very advantageously situated, and are almost in conjunction with the fine residence property of the late Hon. John P. Parker, the headquarters of the Parker Cattle Ranch.

These lands are covered with fine Maunaloa Grass, ornamental trees, &c., and the climate of this locality has no rival anywhere else in the Islands, being at an elevation of 2700 feet and at the base of snow-capped Mauna Kea, where the average temperature is from 50° to 60°.

LEASED LANDS.

LEASE OF THE LAND OF HOLO-UKAWAI, near Waimea, from the Hawaiian Government, containing 1055 acres, and expiring January 1st, 1909. Rent, $225 per annum. There are two streams of water from Mauna Kea running through this land.

LEASE OF LAND AT WAIMEA

from Crown Commissioners, containing 258 acres, expiring June 1st, 1908. Rent $250 per annum. The boundary of this land on one side is on the Waikoloa stream.

LEASE OR MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT between the Puuloa Sheep and Stock Ranch Company and John P. and Samuel Parker, for running sheep on a portion of the large Ahupuaa of Waikoloa, in exchange for the privilege granted to the Parker Ranch of running cattle on the Sheep Co's lands. This agreement expires in 1909.

There is also a lease, just expired, of Crown lands in Waimea, which the Puuloa Sheep and Stock Ranch Co. and its assigns, have held for 50 years, containing 679 acres, of which they are now in possession; and they have made application to the Territorial Government for a renewal of the lease. This application has not yet been acted upon.

THE IMPROVEMENTS. Consist of a Dwelling House of Manager at Koomuku, Men's Quarters, Large Shearing Shed, Yards, Pens, Wire Fences, Stone and Cement Cisterns, &c., and the following appurtenances, viz: Wool Press, Iron Water Tanks, Redwood Water Tanks, Harness, Furniture, Scales, Sheep Shears, Wool Packing, &c., &c., and the following:

LIVE STOCK. 7,000 Sheep, more or less, including Ewes, Rams and Lambs; 25 Work Horses; 40 Mares and Unbroken Foals; 8 Team Horses and Hauling Wagons.

The whole comprising a complete Sheep and Stock Ranch.

The sheep are principally of the Merino breed, crossed with Southdown and Shropshire, and the wool produced by the Ranch has always commanded the highest price in the Hawaiian Wool Market.

TERMS OF SALE. No bid for less than twenty thousand dollars, in gold coin of the United States, will be received.

Cash, in gold coin of the United States, payable as follows:

1. Ten per centum of the purchase price, at the time of sale, upon the fall of the hammer, to be paid either in gold coin of the United States to the survivors above named, George W. Macfarlane and Henry R. Macfarlane, or in a certified check or certified checks, payable to their order.

2. The remainder of the purchase price, within ten days after confirmation of the sale by the Judge of said First Circuit Court, before whom the said Estate of E. C. Macfarlane, deceased, may then be pending, and, upon the execution and acknowledgment by the undersigned, survivors, executors and executrix as aforesaid, and by each of them individually, of all conveyances, deeds, bills of sale, and other instruments, necessary to the full consummation of said sale and to the vesting of the title to the said property, real and personal, and of the good will of the copartnership aforesaid, in the purchaser, and concurrently with the delivery of the same and of possession of the said property to the purchaser.

All deeds, bills of sale, and other papers at the expense of the purchaser.

Further particulars can be obtained at the law office of Henry E. Highton, corner of Fort and King Streets, at the law office of Hatch & Ballou, Stangenwald Building, Honolulu, or from the undersigned, George W. Macfarlane or Henry R. Macfarlane.

Dated, Honolulu, H. T., December 1st, A. D., 1903.

TO PLEASE THE SAILORS

Barrie's popular play of the Little Minister with all its beauty of Bonny Scotland's atmosphere and the vividly drawn characterization Barrie is so famous for, will be presented tomorrow evening by the Neills at the Opera House at the reduced prices arranged by the management as then share the entertainment of the fleet. The play will also be repeated on Wednesday.

The plot of the Little Minister carries much dramatic action in the tale of the strike of the waters of Thyrna and the unconscious involving of the Little Minister upon their side.

"Scotch Marriage" so often used by dramatists as a medium for the unhappiness of the heroine, in the Little Minister solves a different problem and makes two hearts happy. Mr. Neill takes the title role in Gavin Doherty while Edythe Chapman plays "Babbie" the character which helped Claude Adams to popularity.

A queer accident happened on one of the electric cars some time ago. You will find the full account of same under heading "A Rapid Transit Episode."

DR. SUN SPEAKS.

Dr. Sun, the Chinese reformer and agitator, spoke at a mass meeting of his people in the Chinese theatre on Hotel street yesterday afternoon, his subject being the reform of China. He showed how absolutely impossible it is for China to make any strides in the direction of development and prosperity as long as the present Manchu dynasty is in power and counseled the Chinese of Hawaii to join in a movement the object of which is to overthrow the present rulers of the country and make a republic out of China. The Manchu dynasty was responsible for the present condition of China and not until that dynasty is crushed forever, could there be any chance of the Chinese people taking their place among the nations.

The address of the young Chinese reformer was very attentively listened to by a crowded house and he was applauded time and again.
