jects Were Read and

LABOR PROBLEM A NUT TO CRACK.

ANE MEN have not in ten years assembled as they did for the Planters' Labor
and Supply Company convention of 1894. This was held yesterday. There were morning, afternoon and evening sessions. Nearly forty cane growers and mill men were in attendance. It was a representative gathering. The planters are a lot of active, bright young men, full of business and snap. It takes a man of energy and capacity to handle a plantation.

The success of this annual meeting tells a couple of facts. Last year three adjournments were had before a quorum was secured. This time there was no delay. The country is now in a settled condition and the sugar market is enjoying health of the same sort.

The meeting opened at the large office in the Safe Deposit Building.
The place was too small and after the minutes were read the delegates marched to the Chamber of Commerce room. This made a notable procession down Fort street. The planters are in excellent humor now when they can forget the labor problem.
Otherwise affairs are in a satisfactory condition.

Secretary's Report.

Mr. C. Bolte's report as Secretary

was as follows:
Since the last annual meeting of this company, held January 22d, 1894, the trustees have held twenty-three meetings at which the following objects have received full attention:

LABOR.

The labor question has been the principal object of discussion. The only actual supply of agricultural laborers during this year has come from Japan, and strenuous efforts of the trustees to procure laborers from other countries have so far not led to any definite results, but there are good prospects of the removal of difficulties which are yet in the way.

Of regular Japanese contract laborers
there have arrived since October 23d, 1893—June 27th, 1894, the 26th lot —1190 men and 296 women which have been distributed to the different plantations.

And other steerage passengers have arrived as follows:

	Men	Women
Japanese	2419	604
Chinese	836	95
Portuguese	54	20
	3309	719

A good many of whom no doubt have gone to work on plantations.

The field labor with which we have an intimate acquaintance is that
from Portuguese States, China, Japan
and the islands of the South Pacific.
Unfortunately, however, the supply
of Portuguese and Chinese laborers
has been cut off, as has the supply
from the South Pacific, and for some time we have been obliged to confine ourselves almost exclusively to Japanese. This nationality is, in many respects, very satisfactory labor; but,
with the increase in their numbers,
there has become evident a disposition
on the part of the Japanese to combine on the slightest pretext for the purpose of opposing their employers,
thereby interfering with the welfare
of the estates on which they are located. Under these circumstances, it has been considered desirable to procure some other class of labor, not
with the object of entirely dispensing
with the Japanese, but in order to satisfactorily supplement their labor,
and render planters less dependent on any one nationality. The efforts of the Trustees and of your committee
have been largely directed towards providing some means whereby this absolute dependence on Japanese labor may be avoided, and during the past nine months as many as twenty-four meetings have been held for the discussion of labor topics.

CHINESE.

Early in the year it was suggested that an effort be made to procure more Chinese, and permission from the Government to import a number under the Act of 1892 was obtained.
The terms under which men were to be brought here were approved of by the Chinese officials, and an agent was

	Men	Women

The trustees have tried to reintroduce immigration of laborers from Azores and Madeira (Portuguese) and from China, and they have also tried to procure Lascar laborers. For particulars the secretary begs to refer to the report of the Committee on Labor.

An arrangement has also been made to prevent desertion of contract laborers
by a system of pass books.

EXPERIMENTAL STATION.

The trustees have been in correspondence with Dr. Stubbs of the Louisiana Sugar Experiment Station with the view of procuring the services of an experienced agricultural chemist who might travel among the different plantations giving advice to managers about fertilization and other matters, and who should have a laboratory in Honolulu where a younger chemist would help him to do the analytical work. The trustees desire to mention here that Dr. Stubbs has taken great interest in this matter and shown great interest in our affairs, and that they are much indebted to him for the valuable aid and information he had rendered.

WEATHER.

The temperature during the last twelve months has been favorable and the variations between day and night temperature during last winter have not been as great as during the previous one. Rainfall has been scant and drouth has prevailed in several localities.

Labor Difficulties.

H. P. Baldwin, C. Bolte and F. M.
Swanzy comprise the Labor Committee. The two first named gave Mr. Swanzy credit for compiling this very able and exhaustive report:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE.

The momentous question of labor has, during the past year, engaged much of the attention not only of the Labor Committee, but of the entire Board of Trustees; and, in laying before you the result of the work done in this all-important branch of their duties, the Trustees, through your committee, can only express their regret at this result not being at all commensurate to the time and effort expended in its attainment. Nevertheless it may be safely said that these efforts have not been wasted, for, if no great results have been reached, the foundation, at least, of an improvement in the condition of our labor market has been laid.

In countries such as this, the conditions under which field labor is conducted render it necessary that the laborers should be of a race capable of

sun, and no other class of labor will ever be able to thoroughly assist in the development of the not inconsiderable agricultural resources of these islands. Under normal conditions, the natives of the soil would be its natural cultivators; but the extent to which agricultural operations are being carried on now, together with the natural indisposition of the Hawaiians to engage in field work renders dependence on native labor impossible, and we are forced to look for other nationalities capable of filling the place which the natives would otherwise occupy.

The field labor with which we have an intimate acquaintance is that
from Portuguese States, China, Japan
and the islands of the South Pacific.
Unfortunately, however, the supply
of Portuguese and Chinese laborers
has been cut off, as has the supply
from the South Pacific, and for some time we have been obliged to confine
ourselves almost exclusively to Japanese. This nationality is, in many respects, very satisfactory labor; but,
with the increase in their numbers,
there has become evident a disposition
on the part of the Japanese to combine on the slightest pretext for the purpose of opposing their employers,
thereby interfering with the welfare
of the estates on which they are located. Under these circumstances, it
has been considered desirable to procure some other class of labor, not
with the object of entirely dispensing
with the Japanese, but in order to
satisfactorily supplement their labor,
and render planters less dependent on
any one nationality. The efforts of the Trustees and of your committee
have been largely directed towards
providing some means whereby this
absolute dependence on Japanese labor may be avoided, and during the
past nine months as many as twenty-
four meetings have been held for the discussion of labor topics.

JAPANESE.

Since last year several emigration companies organized under the laws of Japan have entered the field, and have issued prospectuses setting forth the terms under which they are prepared to supply labor, and a number of laborers are now coming forward under the auspices of one of these companies. A number of Japanese have also come into the country recently without engagements, and are laboring on plantations under contracts made on the spot.

The supply of Japanese labor seems to be one on which drafts can be made for a considerable time, and were it not for the circumstances already referred to there would not be engaged to go to China to procure the men. It was, however, learnt in May,

that, under the English emigration law, the only Chinese who are now permitted to leave Hongkong for these islands are previous residents holding return passports issued by the Hawa-ian Government, and no new emigrants can be passed by the Hongkong authorities. We were also informed that the only way to have these restrictions removed would be to have the Hawaiian Government negotiate directly with the British Government and obtain its permission for special lots of men. It was, therefore, useless sending a recruiting agent to China, and TREASURER F. M. SWANZY.

efforts were then directed towards the removal of the "tabu" on free emigration from Hongkong, with which object negotiations are at this time being carried forward.

EAST INDIANS.

A good deal of consideration was next given to the possibility of introducing labor from the north-west portion of India by way of Beloochistan, and an agent was authorized, under certain conditions, to import a trial lot of these people. It was however found that it would be impracticable to obtain them in the manner proposed by the agent and the project was abandoned; but not before a considerable amount of information additional to that which we already possessed on the subject of East Indian labor, had been acquired.

PORTUGUESE.

As a number of our planters had expressed a strong desire for a further supply of Portuguese laborers, and as it was stated that quite a number of this nationality who had emigrated to California from this country were anxious to return, an effort was made to induce a few hundred families to come back here. This effort was however only partially successful as the majority of the Portuguese in California had gone into land cultivation on a small scale, while others had found occupation of a sufficiently profitable nature to induce them towards migrating again.

The services of Mr. E. Hutchinson were then enlisted to ascertain what the prospects were of getting from the Azores or Madeira a number of immigrants. This gentleman left here in May last for Europe on private business, promising to carry out our commission as soon as he possibly could;
but as he has not been heard from the presumption is that he has found a difficulty in getting the information wished for, or has not yet been sufficiently free from his personal engagements to enable him to make the required investigation.

The departure of Mr. L. A. Thurston for Europe gave the Trustees an opportunity to avail themselves of his services (by the permission of the Government), and it was arranged that he should visit the Azores and Madeira, and if necessary Lisbon, to arrange for the re-opening of Portuguese emigration from those countries if it was possible to do so. In consideration of these services the company paid to Mr. Thurston the sum of $1500 towards defraying his necessary expenses. In the event of Mr. Thurston's mission being attended with success arrangements will be made for the immediate shipment of about 600 men with a proportion of families. The business matters connected with this emigration

any necessity to seek elsewhere for labor. The tendency to strike and desert which their well nigh full possession of the labor market fosters has shown planters the great importance of having a percentage of their laborers of other nationalities.

The disposition to strike is one which it is less difficult to account for than it is to control: the men are well treated and fairly dealt by, but notwithstanding this they never fail to seize on the smallest grievance, of a real or imaginary nature, to revolt and leave work, and it is a matter for regret that the facilities in the shape of free legal defence do much to promote appeals to the law courts on frivolous pretexts. The demagogic element among the laborers kindles and keeps alive an antagonistic sentiment against employers which would be non-existent but for the efforts of the agitators, and when the specially retained counsel of the Japanese government in open Court justifies the most flagrant outrages by laborers—as was done in the course of the trial of some strikers from Ewa plantation in September last—the possibility of controlling the badly disposed among the laborers becomes a work of extreme difficulty. It is needless to state that such lawlessness and tendency to strike as that which is sometimes betrayed by the Japanese would not be tolerated in their own country, and would appear to have been bred of the comparative comfort in which they find themselves in this country. For this tendency to strike the only remedy possible is the introduction of some other class of labor to supplement the Japanese, and it is to be most earnestly hoped that this other class can be procured.

The desertion of contract men has been, to a great extent, checked by the pass-book system brought into use this year with the assistance of the Japanese Consular officials and inspectors, and if the plantation managers will rigidly adhere to the agreements made by them, and to the instructions given them, there is no doubt a stop will be put to the desertions. As in every other matter of a similar nature, community of action is necessary, and it is to be hoped that in the interests of the whole body of planters none may be found who are not in sympathy with the pass-book system.

GENERAL.

Your Committee believes it to be possible in different ways to confine the agricultural laborers specially brought here for field labor to agricultural occupations, but in no way can this better be done than by a universal registration law. Arguments against such a law have been frequently and forcibly made, but they do not alter the fact that the proper and thorough carrying out of such a law would enable the Government to control the occupations of specially imported agricultural laborers, and to confine laborers to the engagements they had contracted. It is easily to be imagined that in isolated cases the enforcement of such a law would inflict hardship; but the same objection exists to many other laws. In a community like ours the injustice it would work would be lost sight of in the amount of benefit to be derived from it.

The suggestion recently made to the Government that we turn to Belgium for our labor supply—or a part of it—is one which should not be lightly acted upon, as Northern Europeans are unsuited, both by constitution and inclination, for general cane field work.

The precise number of agricultural laborers in these islands it is not possible to arrive at accurately, as all statistics of nationalities include traders and mechanics as well as field laborers. The following figures, for which we are indebted to Mr. J. B. Castle, Collector-General of Customs, may prove of interest, as showing the proportion of the nationalities from which the supply of imported labor is mainly drawn.

Population, Chinese, males
January 1, 1894..... 13,905

Departed, Jan. 1 to Oct. 19, 94..... 135

Population Portuguese, males,
October 19, 1894..... 4,700

In response to a circular letter addressed to the managers of sugar plantations on these islands, figures have been received showing the number and nationality of laborers on each plantation. From these figures the following table has been compiled:

MEN.
	Under	Not Under
	Con't	Con't	Total
Hawaiians.....	704	798	1,502
Portuguese.....	220	1,483	1,703
Chinese.....	147	2,099	2,246
Japanese.....	7,468	3,908	11,076
Others.....	95	304	399
Total males.....	8,634	8,592	16,927

WOMEN AND CHILDREN.
	Under Contract	Not Under Contract
Hawaiian.....	27	2
Portuguese.....	166	270
Chinese.....	16
Japanese.....	1,053
Others.....	26	9
Total.....	1,288	281

In comparing the table showing the population of the nationalities supplying our labor with that showing the number and nationality of the laborers engaged on sugar plantations, it must be borne in mind that the former table includes merchants, mechanics and all occupations as well as field laborers, and accounts only for arrivals in and departures from the islands, without taking mortality into consideration at all. It should also be considered that the month of October, when the labor statistics were compiled, is about the quietest month of the year on all sugar plantations, and is one especially in those districts where long spells of dry weather have been frequent, when the minimum of labor is reached. Figures compiled in January or February, when factories are working, would probably show a greatly increased number of employees on sugar estates, and a correspondingly reduced difference between the numbers of the employed and the unemployed.

Coffee and other growing industries account for a large number of Japanese laborers, and the rice fields, of course, give occupation to hundreds of Chinese. Your committee has been unable to ascertain the number and nationality of laborers engaged in agricultural pursuits outside of sugar, that being a task which they had neither the machinery or time to accomplish.

Cultivation.

Mr. Scott, chairman of the Committee on Cultivation, read a report that brought out considerable discussion. He thought that cane should be bought outright from small planters instead of having the share system, though the latter was satisfactory at Ewa. Mr. Scott is rather inclined to favor stripping, though he says there are many places in which it is not necessary. In wet districts, or where there are rats or borers it is imperative.

Mr. Morrison is strongly a non-stripper. It costs $10 an acre and does not contribute to the result. Mr. Lowrey agreed with Mr. Morrison, but said Mr. Scott might be right about wet sections. He had once paid $19 an acre for stripping and found that much more of cane was trampled down.

Mr. Baldwin said it was a local question. In some places stripping is required, but not on plantations like Makawae or Ewa. Mr. Cooke introduced the subject of 5x5, or patch planting, about which Manager Kinney is so enthusiastic. Mr. Goodale said the cane was fine, but the new method yet an experiment. The gentleman praised rose bamboo at the expense of Lahaina cane.

Machinery.

There was much interest in Mr. Alexander Young's report on machinery. He spoke of the new Ewa mill and endorsed it. Mr. Baldwin said the Louisiana and Cuban planters were abandoning the two-roller mills. He said the planters here required more powerful machinery. Mr. Scott reiterated Mr. Young's favorable mention of the shredder or crusher. Mr. Marsden spoke instructively of clarifying.

Mr. Frank P. Hastings.

In a few words each, Messrs. Jones, Atherton, Young, Armstrong and C. M. Cooke spoke of the efficient and valuable services of Mr. Frank P. Hastings in preserving the reciprocity treaty. The trustees were authorized to direct a testimonial to the Hawaiian Charge d'Affaires at Washington.

In the Mill

On the subject of manufacturing, Mr. Morrison presented a paper bristling with facts and figures. A number of tables which will be published were included.

A long report on forestry was made by Andrew Moore. He handled the subject in a manner that evidenced study and observation. Mr. Moore's conclusion was that unless the forests were saved cultivation of the soil must inevitably cease. Everywhere, when the timber is removed, the water supply is cut off.

Mr. Marsden said the continued drought in the Hamakua district was caused by destruction of the forests. He urged the planters to move in the matter. Trees must be grown and preserved. Messrs. Cooke, Irwin and Baldwin spoke to the subject. All were very much in earnest about it. J. W. Colville gave some formulae on fertilizers.

The Coffee Industry.

John W. Horner and E. Bernard made a trip around Hawaii to gather material for a report on coffee. They give the most encouraging details, and speak glowingly of the condition and prospects of the industry. They speak of the successful cultivation of tea. Mr. Hall told of a recent visit to Kona, and gave some points on the berry trees. W. Y. Horner returns an account of coffee growing near Lahaina.

W. G. Irwin has planted coffee extensively near Waimanalo, and it is doing well. He has Kona, Liberian and Peruvian trees. Both he and C. M. Cooke mentioned the great value of the blight-droppers. Mr. Irwin told how the lady-bug had saved a valley of trees for him.

Mr. Marsden, who is complimented by the planters for his energy and sound judgment, exhibited samples of native tobacco, sisal and sansevieria. He has great faith in the fiber industry. Canagery was also shown. This is the tanning material that grows without water.

Finances.

F. M. Swanzy, treasurer, reported a balance on hand of $170.07. The expenditures of the year were $6,264.00. To this statement Mr. Swanzy added the subjoined comment:

"In presenting this statement I am pleased to be able to report that all the sugar plantations on the islands, with the exception of two, are now subscribers to the funds of this company. Of our personal subscribers, four have resigned during the past year and no new names have been added to take their places."

"All subscriptions have been paid to October, '94, with one exception. The balance of $170.07 remaining in the treasury, is insufficient to meet the requirements of the ensuing year, and the company is asked to provide means for the defraying of the necessary expenses. The regular amount of these expenses is about $3500, to which should be added a sum sufficient to meet incidental and unforeseen demands which are liable to arise at any time."

"The Planters' Labor and Supply Company has for some years been working for the benefit, not only of sugar planters, but the entire agricultural community of these islands, but up to the present it has been supported almost entirely by the subscriptions and contributions of sugar planters."

At this day, when the coffee and fruit industries are benefiting to so great an extent by the work and the expenditure of this company, it would seem but right that they should have an opportunity to contribute to its funds, especially as the company has undertaken to pay half the salary and expenses of Mr. Koebele (the other half being paid by the Government), who is doing so much to discover the enemies of the many pests and blights which afflict our coffee and fruit trees. The company is also negotiating for the services of the best agricultural chemist obtainable, with a view of having at hand the services of a capable scientist to determine all questions requiring scientific elucidation. These services, like those of Mr. Koebele and of the trustees of the Planters' Labor and Supply Company, will be at the disposal of the agriculturists of these islands, and an effort should be made to induce all such agriculturists to become members of this company and subscribers to its funds."

New Board.

These gentlemen were unanimously elected as trustees of the company for the ensuing year: Messrs. Irwin, Bolte, Swanzy, J. F. Hackfeld, Jones, Schaefer, Young, Baldwin and Atherton. The Board will meet at 10 this morning to elect officers, and will report to the company half an hour later. Among those attending the sessions yesterday were: H. M. Whitney, P. C. Jones, W. R. Castle, V. Knudsen, A. Young, Henry Deacon, C. M. Cooke, T. S. Kay, J. A. Scott, E. D. Baldwin, H. P. Baldwin, Jos. Marsden, L. Ahlborn, E. Suhr, W. J. Lowrie, W. W. Goodale, W. Essie, E. E. National Cane Shredder

(PATENTED UNDER THE LAWS OF THE HAWAIIAN ISLANDS.)

Mr. John A. Scott, Manager of the Hilo Sugar Company gives the following wonderful record of the working of the NATIONAL CANE SHREDDER, which was erected by their works at the commencement of the crop just harvested:

"During the past week the Hilo Sugar Company's mill exceeded any of its former records by closing the 125 hours grinding with an output of 300 tons. This is fully 10 per cent. more than the best work of former years."

"The three roller mill being 26 in. by 54 in. and the two roller mill 30 in. by 60 in. The first mill doing this amount of work in an efficient manner and with great ease, compared with work on whole cane, owing to thorough preparation of the cane by the National Cane Shredder, recently erected by the Company. And by its use the extraction has been increased from 3 per cent. to 5 per cent. on all kinds of cane, and in some cases 80 per cent. has been reached; the average being 75 to 78 per cent., according to quality."

"I continue to find the messag from shredded cane better fuel than from whole cane."

"The shredder has been working day and night for seven months and has given me entire satisfaction, having shredded during that time about seventy thousand tons of cane, and a large part of it being hard ratoons."

"The shredder and engine require very little care or attention."

"Plans and specifications of these shredders may be seen at the office of Agent for the Hawaiian Islands of the Richard's Lock Nut, which is an ordinary hexagon nut constructed so that it is impossible for the nut to become loose or slack, and fall off the bolt. It costs no more than the ordinary cold pressed iron nut and dispenses with the use of the lock washers, keys and split pins. This nut is now exclusively used on all the principal railroads and street cars lines in the United States. Samples and pamphlets furnished on application to the undersigned.

Agent for the Siphon Water Elevator, which is automatic, for irrigation, city supply, farms, etc. This invention as its name indicates is based upon the principle of the siphon known to the Ancients but it is devised in such a manner as to greatly enlarge the field of application. Used until today only for the drawing off of liquids to a lower level, the siphon now becomes an Automatic Water Elevator, which under favorable conditions is endowed with great powers. In many instances, land situated higher than the irrigation ditch can be irrigated at a nominal expense. The Siphon Elevator is especially adapted for such conditions, as it can elevate the water from the main irrigation ditch to a higher one, while the waste is available for irrigating the lower levels. The siphon elevators are made of brass and iron in sizes ranging in capacity of from two hundred to three million gallons per day.

SOLDIERS AND "STRIKES."

A military commission has recently made its report to the Governor of California, on the action of the State troops in meeting the strikers at Sacramento on July last.

It censures the officers, who failed to furnish food for the troops, the commanding officers, for not obeying General Dimond's orders, for not making the proper military movements, for not understanding the situation, and, generally, for want of sense in discharging their duties. It also censures General Dimond, for not acting with energy in the matter, and for not commanding in person, and for hesitancy at a critical moment. General Dimond frankly accepted the responsibility of any blame, but the commission decidedly refused to put all of it on him.

The difficulties in the way are inherent in the militia system, and for which General Dimond is not responsible. It cannot act promptly in emergencies, from lack of experience and training. Officers, who are suddenly called to deal with conditions with which they are unfamiliar, cannot "think on their legs," any better than a mechanic can readily work with tools which he has never handled, but which he has carefully read about.

This is the general experience, wherever citizen soldiers are confronted with large masses of hostile men. Moreover, citizen officers and generals, usually take into account the political effect of firing into a crowd. They do not care to hurt their friends, and the shedding of some blood may destroy their "prospects" in the next election.

This condition of things, so marked in the late "strikes" in the United States, is arousing public opinion to the necessity of increasing the regular force, which is trained to act promptly, obeys orders and is commanded by officers, who have a thorough education, in the details of conducting campaigns, have had experience, and, above all things, have the confidence of their men. The European States are well policed by regular forces. The people of the United States are now confronted with the ugly question of local insurrections. A few years ago, the press would have howled at the use of Federal forces in putting down local disturbance. Now good people are quite thankful that they are used for that purpose.

COMFORTING WORDS ABOUT BOYS.

"It is remarkable that there is nothing less promising than, in early youth, a certain full formed, settled, and, it may be called, adult character. A lad who has, to a degree that excites wonder and admiration, the character and demeanor of an intelligent man of mature age, will probably be that, and nothing more, all of life, and will cease accordingly to be anything remarkable, because it was the precocity alone that ever made him so. It is remarkable by greyhound fanciers that a well-formed, compactly-shaped puppy never makes a fleet dog. They see more promise in the loose-jointed, awkward, clumsy ones. And even so, there is a kind of crudity and unsettledness in the minds of those young persons who turn out ultimately the most eminent."—Whately.

These words of a great man are certainly cheering and consoling to those of us whose children are rather "backward." To some of us who believe that our children are, in truth, quite equal in cleverness to other people's children, but are confronted with the cruel reports of teachers that they are not up to the mark, either in recitation or conduct, these words are letters of gold in pictures of silver. Many fond, but stupid, mothers secretly mourn over the fact that Johnny is not making any progress, excepting on extra-territorial lines of playing "hokey," and marbles, when, if the great Dr. Whately is correct, the youngster is only exercising an "unsettled mind." The average parent has great and foolish admiration for "precocity," and likes to see his children marked up, because he has himself never studied up mental evolution, and he never, of course, takes the pains to look around, and find out what has ever become of the precocious boys of his own youthful days. It is not necessary that our teachers should now instantly parade the stupid children at the front, and make them the hope of the nation, but, whenever a child shows unusual backwardness, and his conduct is not altogether lovely, the comforting words of Whately will serve as a "Balm for the Souls of Despondent Parents."

ONE of the proposed amendments to the Constitution of the State of New York, abolishes prison labor, when it competes with private labor. No solution is suggested of the very important question of employing their prisoners, in order to keep them in a wholesome condition. The labor unions have insisted that this form of industry should not compete with other labor, and the politicians yield to it. The significant fact is, that the labor unions will not trust the legislature to regulate the matter, but intend to settle the question by the fundamental law. What, then, will be done with the prison labor? It was once proposed that all articles, made by prisoners, should be sent to foreign markets, without regard to price, but the objection was made that the articles would be imperfect, because the prisoners were constantly changing. The problem is not solved.

REV. S. B. L. PENROSE has accepted the presidency of Whitman College, State of Washington. His intention is to secure an endowment fund for the College of $200,000 within two years. It will be no easy task, but Mr. Penrose is a "healthy" man; one of those who has singularly tolerant and, therefore, broad views of life. He acknowledges himself to be a follower of the new school of religious thought; a school which believes that the more critical and searching the reason is, the more correctly it defines, accepts and glorifies the divine order of things. He will find, in the growing territory of Washington, grand opportunities for fine work. In abandoning the pulpit, he merely enlarges the scope of his work.

THE attendance at the meeting, yesterday, of the Planters' Labor and Supply Company, was unusually large. Several valuable papers were read. The services of Mr. Hastings, Charge d'Affaires in Washington were highly commended, and the matter of making some public recognition of them, was referred to the Trustees of the Company for action.

ELECTIONS for State offices and for the National House of Representatives take place today in nearly all of the Northern and Western States. Maine has led off with a Republican victory, and it is believed that the Republican ticket will be generally elected.

If the United States government should place no obstacles in the way of the cable scheme from Vancouver to the Colonies via Honolulu, Hawaii nei will, within the next two years take on a new lease of life. Instead of a couple of third-rate steamers on the Canadian line, there will be five of the first-class. Emigrants will learn more about our country and the lands will be settled by the small farmer. Houchins' Water Filters at a dollar apiece will be in demand by thousands instead of hundreds as it is today. The islands will be joined by a local cable line and the country in general will be in the swim instead of the soup. The advent of a cable will bring to our shores men with progressive ideas, men who by their acts will better themselves, at the same time improve the condition of the country. Hawaii is all right; it has the finest climate in the world and the people would wax rich on it if climate was a commercial commodity—the trouble is with the people. Compared with the United States, we are living in the era of pantaloons instead of bloomers. We want new blood, something that will make us shake off the lethargy that the people have lived in since the time of whaleships. Give us a cable and we will have new blood. The newspapers, instead of publishing boiler plate will give the news of the world for breakfast. You will learn, probably, that the metallic refrigerator we are selling is the greatest ice saver of the age and that it is economy, money in your purse to buy one. We put thirty pounds of ice in one of the boxes on Friday evening and it was not all melted until Monday afternoon, keeping the lower portion of the box at a temperature of 58° all the time. If you can get a wooden refrigerator or ice box that will do better than that you ought to buy one. We've never seen them.

Incidentally we have mentioned Houchins' Tap Water Filter; now we will tell you what it is. An arrangement that fits on to the faucet and filters the muddy water as clear as crystal. Talk about microbes; they're not to be found in filtered water, and where can you find anything to equal the Houchin filter for a dollar. We have them for the regular 3/4 hose pipe, the size generally used here and we expect a big demand for them. The very unique Electric table bells so much used in the United States have a place with us. You can have one for two and a half.

Rain gauges that will tell you to a drop how much rain falls in your locality during the night or all day for that matter, reached us by the Monowai, together with a complete assortment of pocket knives from Wostenholms factory. The celebrated "Fred Archer" racing glass, used almost exclusively at the Derby by London's swaggers set may be obtained from us.

ANGIER'S PETROLEUM EMULSION.

A preparation of purified petroleum combined with the hypophosphites. Cures consumption if taken in time.—

Not unpleasant to take.—Testimonial of Mr. Walton.

Ancient Use of Petroleum.

As a remedial agent petroleum was known to the ancients by whom it was considered a sovereign remedy.

Literature on the Subject.

It is only within recent years that the properties of petroleum have been discussed through the medical journals. Articles have appeared and given, in very positive language, the most gratifying results from its use, both as medicine and as a reconstructive. Great value is attributed to petroleum in the treatment of consumption, bronchitis, la grippe, catarrh, asthma, diseases of the digestive apparatus and of the kidneys, as well as in wasting diseases. It appears to have especial value in all pulmonary complaints.

Former Drawbacks to Its Use.

The reason why petroleum has not been more general in use is due to the fact that, in its unpurified state, it has nauseating and irritating properties. After exhaustive experiments Angier's Petroleum Emulsion was secured. It is deprived of all objectionable features while retaining the valuable medicinal qualities, and is acceptable to both palate and stomach.

Petroleum Emulsion vs. Cod Liver Oil.

All who have ever tried Cod Liver Oil know what a nauseating dose it is. It is impossible to disguise the disagreeable taste and odor of the Oil. The palate and stomach revolt against it.

Every Mother Loves

To see her children strong and healthy. If the little ones are troubled with coughs, croup, or are thin and puny, or have any wasting disease, they can be brought back to health by Angier's Emulsion. Children will take it readily who resist taking Cod Liver Oil.

It Saved My Life.

"Six months ago, I was told by three physicians that I had quick consumption. I was coughing badly, had hemorrhages and profuse night sweats. I was rapidly wasting away. I tried Cod Liver Oil, but could not retain it. Angier's Petroleum Emulsion was then prescribed. It agreed with me perfectly. I then weighed 102 pounds. Now after taking it 6 months I weigh 161 pounds. I consider myself cured and attribute it all to Angier's Petroleum Emulsion."
B. H. WALTON,
Bedford, Mass."

Tell Your Sick Friends.

It is worth your while to give Angier's Petroleum Emulsion a trial. Have you any friends with colds or consumption? Tell them about it.

A MERRY HEART.

Clear day or cloudy day,
Summer heat or cold,
A happy heart keeps holiday,
A merry heart is bold.
Though the wind of fortune blow
Out of wintry skies,
Face it smiling as you go—
A merry heart is wise.
By and by the sun will shine,
Day must follow night;
Darkest hour is the sign
Of returning light.
God is in his heaven still,
Though the world denies,
And cheery courage waits on will—
A merry heart is wise.
Over rugged things we climb
To our best estate;
We shall stumble many a time,
But we conquer fate.
And we choose the better part
So that evil flies,
When we keep the dauntless heart,
The merry heart that's wise.
—Mary Bradley.

THE THREAD OF FATE

He was a little man—one of sarcastic speech might have called him a toy man. He strolled into a down town broker's office two minutes after the door was opened.

"Any money for me?" he asked languidly of the head clerk.

"No, but we shall want a little if we are to carry yesterday's purchases for you any longer, sir."

The clerk handed out a slip. The little man took it, glanced at it and then, putting the paper down, drew out his checkbook.

"The stock is bound to rise before the day is over?" he asked as he pushed the check through the clerk's wicket.

"Can't say, sir."

"But what do you think?"

"I don't think, sir. It's one of the rules of the house that none but the partners may give advice or information to the customers."

"Either partner about?"

"Not just at present, sir."

"Please have me notified as soon as it touches the figure I mentioned. I will sell out promptly when it reaches the right figure. I need the money by this afternoon."

"Mr. Wheaton has your instructions, sir, and he will follow them faithfully."

The little man sauntered out, entered a nearby cafe that is famous among Wall street men, ordered a champagne cocktail and a light breakfast and leisurely disposed of it. Then he lighted a cigar and smoked it reflectively for awhile.

"Bless me, it's 10:30 already!" he murmured, coming to himself and pulling out his watch. "I must get back to the broker. Dare say he's sold my little investment for me. In that case I'll have the money all right before noon."

The same clerk was still at the little window.

"Well?" asked the little man.

"More margins," said the clerk.

"That stock is going down."

"Why, yes, indeed!" murmured the plunger. "This is really a heavier margin than I paid an hour or two ago."

But he took out his checkbook. There was not the sign of a cloud on his face as he wrote the figures—$3,000.

"Here you are," he said, passing in the check. "I wish you'd ask Mr. Wheaton if he can't hurry up the deal—I believe he called it that—for this affair is getting decidedly expensive. A few more such drafts upon me will exhaust me."

The clerk paid little attention to this remark. He was accustomed to such phrases. They were a part of his daily life.

The little man went out again. On the sidewalk he paused, looking irresolutely about him.

"Wonder what I can do to kill time?" he thought. "People who spend all their time around Wall street must find it terribly hard to kill time day in and day out. It's kind of monotonous to pass all the time in that cafe, but I don't see any way out of it. I'm very sure that I couldn't become a habitue of Wall street. I should die of ennui. However, I haven't time to go up town. I must be on hand to receive the money that this investment is going to bring me."

So he wandered back to the cafe. It was too hot to eat, and besides he wasn't hungry. He ordered a small bottle and tried to drink it, but met with only indifferent success.

Yet he managed to put in an hour at the cafe. Then he rose and went back to the office.

As he entered his eye brightened and he hastened his step, for he saw Mr. Wheaton in his private office.

"Well, what news?" he asked.

"Have you sold out for me?"

"The clerk has something for you," Wheaton replied.

"Not another assessment, I hope?"

"I'm sorry to say it is." The little man walked rather hurriedly out to the clerk's desk, drawing out his checkbook as he went.

He merely glanced at the slip and then wrote out the check, but there was a cloud on his face.

"I hope the tide'll turn soon," he said. "I've only got $3,100 left, and then!"

"And then?" the clerk repeated.

"Well, perhaps you don't know what it means to me."

The clerk didn't even take the trouble to ask. Hard hearted? Well, brokers' clerks don't attempt to shoulder the troubles of the world.

"When things get to this pitch," murmured the little man to himself, "I suppose it's the proper thing to watch the stock ticker. I'll be blessed, though, if I know how to do it."

He confided his difficulty to the clerk, who obligingly explained to the neophyte what the seemingly cabalistic characters on the tape were really intended to show.

"I think I understand now," said the little man. "If you don't mind, I'll stay right here beside it."

"The tape is for the convenience of our customers," replied the clerk and went back to his absorbing task over the books.

For the next hour the little man stood by the ticker reading the occasional quotations of his stock.

"It's going down gradually," he murmured. "There'll be another assessment soon. Why can't the wretched stock go up?"

Even while he was propounding this conundrum to himself the clerk approached with another of those fateful slips.

"Nine hundred? Certainly," responded the little man, and the checkbook came out once more.

There was a look of decided annoyance on his face as he returned to the instrument that was slowly, relentlessly grinding out the serial story of fortunes won and lost.

Dr. Darcy, a friend of Wheaton's, was in the office with the broker.

"I've been studying that little fellow out there," said the medical man. "He is a good illustration of the crying evils of your line of business."

The broker smiled carelessly, then yawned as if either the heat of the day or the turn of the conversation rendered him sleepy.

"The little fellow hasn't dropped all of his pile yet," he remarked. "He's pretty near the bottom, though—of his pile, I mean—and he's on a losing stock too."

"Then, why not warn him in time?" queried the doctor.

"What would be the use?" counter queried the broker. "It wouldn't do any good, and it's no business of mine, anyway."

"Wheaton, surely you are not utterly heartless!" cried the doctor. He was an enthusiastic man when he got started on some pet idea. "I repeat, why not warn this young man in time? I tell you, Wheaton, that he has neither much mental nor bodily stamina, and if you permit him to be ruined he is likely to go insane—perhaps commit some violent crime—for which you, Wheaton, who permitted him to go to his ruin, would be responsible in the eye of heaven, even if not in the minds of men. Remedy your terrible work, I say, or you may have to answer to your own conscience for a crime that I would not have on mine."

Wheaton smiled again and repeated his query, "What would be the use of it?"

"Then I will go to him myself," exclaimed the man of medicine. "I will warn him before it is too late."

"And get yourself kicked, perhaps, for meddling in another man's affairs."

"I shall speak to him, anyway, and at once."

"Darcy, you will do nothing of the sort. You are always welcome in my office, but you must not feel called upon to interfere."

Dr. Darcy arose and began to pace up and down the little private office, keeping his sympathetic gaze riveted all the time upon the hapless speculator.

Finally he exclaimed:

"There's the poor little chap signing another check."

"I dare say," replied the imperturbable broker. "His stock has been falling down stairs all day long, and I am confident that tomorrow it will go down another flight of stairs."

Dr. Darcy gazed contemptuously at the cold hearted broker who would knowingly permit such an idiotic squandering of a fortune.

At last the closing came. The little man took a look at the last quotation.

Then he bounded into the private office, shouting:

"Wheaton, it almost closed me out. But it has stopped going down for today, and I've got $300 left."

"And sense enough into the bargain to let it alone and keep hold of your balance, I hope," roared Dr. Darcy. "That stock is one of the biggest swindles in the market."

Wheaton smiled. He had been filling out a document, which he now signed and handed to the little man.

"Thanks," said the latter, pocketing the paper, with a look of supreme satisfaction. "It's a nice little profit—enough to keep me in Europe for a year or more."

With these words he was gone. Dr. Darcy turned upon the broker and demanded:

"Wheaton, what the deuce does that little snip mean? Here he has been squandering money on margins all day long, and now he says that the profits will keep him in Europe for a year."

"It means," replied the broker, "that this little fellow belongs to one of the wealthiest families in New York. He and another very rich young fellow made a bet last night as to whether 1,000 shares of that stock would eat up more than $15,000 in margins today. Each put up half of the money to be used and besides that a wager of $50,000 a side. Our young friend who has just left won by a balance of $300. So, you see, it was a very lucky investment for him."

The doctor looked as if he didn't feel well. At last he blurted out:

"Wheaton, you made a fool of me in the most approved fashion. Of course you'll dine with me tonight, and we'll wipe out this score in the best wine I can buy."—New York Journal.

The Human Voice.

One's surprise at the fact that no two persons' voices are perfectly alike ceases when one is informed by an authority on the subject that, though there are only nine perfect tones in the human voice, there are the astounding number of 17,592,186,044,415 different sounds. Of these, 14 direct muscles produce 16,283, and 30 indirect muscles produce 173,741,823, while all in co-operation produce the total given above.

Good Advice.

Ladies' Column.

The demand for white cotton Dress Goods during the last week has induced us to continue the sale of those on hand until they are all sold. Remember this means that you BUY THEM AT JUST WHAT THEY COST US, not one cent more or one cent less. We ain't making any money on these kind of sales, but it gives us room for the immense stock of new goods that have arrived by the "Australia."

We want to move of our Hosiery at our Quick Sales and Small Profit Prices, so the LADIES' BLACK STOCKINGS will go again this week at last week's prices, or the $3 per dozen ones at $2.25 per dozen, while the $5 per dozen ones will go at $4 per dozen. The same with MEN'S SOCKS: the $3 per dozen ones are now $2.25 per dozen. We also want to call Special Attention to the magnificent White Cotton Embroidered Handkerchiefs offered this week. They are not cheap ones, its the price of them that is cheap.

The interest also increases in our Volcano trip and it is quite evident from late reports that Madame Pele is making great preparations to do her part for she has been throwing up fountains of fire fifty feet high during the last week and every indication goes to show that by the time you are ready to go she will be in her glory.

Remember and save every check, if you do not have enough you can give them to friends who are making up clubs. This week is a great week for buyers.

The Steamship Miowera and Her Two Unlucky Accidents.

ASHORE HERE AND THEN ON NORWAY.

A Passenger's Account of Her Latest Mishap—The Handsome Steamer has Been Thoroughly Overhauled, and Now Looks as Smart as a Ship Can.

Strangers who saw the steamship Miowera at the Mail wharf on Saturday night could not realize that the handsome steamer was ashore on one of the dangerous reefs enclosing the Honolulu harbor. This happened a little over a year ago, and the particulars are still fresh in the minds of the public. The fine vessel rested for weeks on the reef with a big hole in her hull, and defied all attempts to move her until the arrival of Captain Metcalfe, an experienced wrecker, who soon found a way to float her into deep water. The vessel was patched up and finally steamed for San Francisco for repairs. On his arrival there Captain Stott, who was, as he is now, commander of the vessel, decided that the charges at that port were excessive, so he continued his voyage to Victoria,

THE "JONAH" STEAMER MIOWERA.

B. C., where the vessel received some temporary repairs, enough at any rate, to enable her to steam around Cape Horn and home to Newcastle-on-Tyne, where her builders, Messrs. C. Swan and Hunter overhauled her. On July 25th last, under charter to Messrs. Cook & Son, the European excursion agents, she sailed from the Tyne with 120 passengers on board, gathered from all parts of England and Scotland, for a cruise along the western coast of Norway. This was another unlucky trip for the vessel, as she struck on a rock and for a time it was believed she was a total loss. In speaking of this accident, a passenger said:

"Captain Stott and a pilot were on the bridge at the time, and, it becoming apparent that the vessel had grounded badly, instructions were given to the deck officer to immediately warn and assemble the passengers, while the crew generally turned their attention to preparing the boats in order to take the tourists off in the event of the situation being regarded as dangerous. Very few minutes sufficed to ascertain the bearing of the steamer. She was on a ledge of submerged rocks, and every moment's delay was calculated to increase the danger of her position. A general instruction was therefore given by the captain for all on board to make ready with all speed for the boats, which had by this time been swung over and lowered. The passengers manifested the utmost reliance on the coolness and judgment of the officers of the Miowera, and no panic occurred. The weather was calm, and within half an hour every passenger had been landed on the island. Later the passengers and crew, to their great relief, descried a Norwegian steamer approaching, and to this vessel all were transferred and taken to Bergen."

The steamer was rescued a second time through the efforts of a salvage association, and shortly after left for Sydney to take her old place on the Vancouver route. The vessel belongs to the Canadian-Australian Steamship Company, of which James Huddart is managing owner, and was built in 1892.

She is supplied with every comfort, including social, ladies' music and smoking rooms. The dining saloon is a magnificent apartment, extending the full width of the ship. The staterooms are exceptionally large and well ventilated, all being on the upper deck.

The Miowera has undergone a thorough overhauling during her absence from this port, and many improvements have been introduced especially in the second class accommodations, where a comfortable saloon and spacious cabins have been erected; bath rooms have also been added; so this section of the vessel is all that can be desired. Extensive freezing chambers have also been constructed with space to hold 11,000 carcasses of mutton besides other perishable goods. The Warrimoo is now being fitted in a similar manner; it is expected that she will start from Sydney on the 18th inst. in place of the Arawa.

THE CIRCUIT COURT.

The Hawaiian Jury Bring in a "Not Guilty" Verdict.

The November term of the Circuit Court opened yesterday morning with Judge Cooper on the bench. After the criminal and divorce cases were read off a Hawaiian jury was selected to try the case of Keameomahi, charged with burglary. A verdict of not guilty was brought in. In the following cases the charges were dismissed by the Government: Kaanahan, a native woman, charged with illicit liquor selling; Kalua, charged with keeping a disorderly house; Antone Cloys, charged with receiving stolen goods, and the charge of malicious injury against Charles Hammer.

In the assault and battery case of Ioela, the appeal was withdrawn and the fine paid. There are eighteen cases to be tried before the Hawaiian jury and it is thought that it will take the present week to dispose of them.

Judge Whiting is presiding Judge in Chambers this week. Yesterday he heard the argument in the Aldrich guardianship case and took the matter under advisement.

In the matter of James G. Hayselden, petition for approval of the accounts submitted by the late J. S. Walker's executors, the accounts were referred to a master for verification.

BEFORE JUDGE WILCOX.

A Young Man With an Untamed Steed Comes to Grief.

A well-filled prisoner's dock and every seat occupied by people other than prisoners, greeted Judge Luther Wilcox yesterday morning when he took his seat in the District Court.

There was a large calendar to dispose of, but the Court was equal to the task, and a great many cases were handled during the day. The array of drunks was a fair to good one. The Judge appeared to be in good humor, so the inebriates escaped with light fines.

A native named Kukuki was fined $25 for fast driving. He claimed that he was innocent but, unfortunately for him, two witnesses took the stand and told a different story. They said that he was mounted on a fiery untamed steed, with a goodsized load of saki on board, and while he was giving an exhibition of his horsemanship he ran into and fractured a buggy in several places.

Captain Davis, the owner of the steamer Waimanalo, was in Court on a charge of assault and battery. It is alleged that he and one of his engineers had a dispute which ended in blows. The case was remanded, owing to the captain's attorney being engaged elsewhere.

Dr. Lucy Hall-Brown.

Dr. Lucy Hall-Brown, now practicing in Brooklyn, is an excellent example of the spirit of progress in modern women. Born in Vermont, her education was obtained in Wisconsin and Illinois. Upon being graduated from the Dearborn seminary in Chicago she began teaching, but after a few years relinquished that profession for the purpose of studying medicine. In 1878 Dr. Hall was graduated with distinction from the medical department of the University of Michigan, and after enlarging her experience by observations in the hospitals and clinics of New York and London she went to Germany, where she filled the position of house physician in one of the government hospitals of Dresden. She was recalled to America to become physician to the State Reformatory for Women in Sherborn, Mass., and after five years' service there was appointed superintendent, but declined the position because it would interfere with her medical work. She soon entered into partnership with Dr. Eliza M. Mosher and began practice in Brooklyn, but in 1884 both were appointed physicians to Vassar college, where they remained three years, finally resigning for the purpose of resuming general practice. In 1891 Dr. Hall became the wife of Robert George Brown of New York. Dr. Hall-Brown now practices alone, the partnership with Dr. Mosher having been dissolved a short time ago.

A Case of Had To.

"I had a funny experience in a little town on the lower Mississippi," said R. C. Blackley, a traveling man. "The place had but one hotel, the landlord of which conducted everything except the cooking and housecleaning, which his wife attended to. I was the only guest, and when I told him that I wanted to go up the river on a packet due anywhere between midnight and 3 o'clock in the morning I was shown to a room immediately over the office and was going to sleep when I heard a shrill feminine voice call, 'John, you come to bed.' 'Sallie, you know I can't go to bed. Got to wake that blamed drummer.' I enjoyed the situation and laughed my self wide awake, not getting sleepy again for two hours."

Then the feminine voice called again, 'John, I say, come to bed.' 'I can't go to bed.' 'Tain't no way to run a hotel,' and there was silence again. Finally I went to sleep again and was soon awakened by a most unearthly racket. The old man was pounding on the office ceiling with a broom handle. 'I'm awake,' I answered. 'I don't believe I'll go on that boat. I'm too tired. I'll wait until tomorrow.' 'I reckon you won't. You be down hyar in two minutes, or I'll be arter you. I ain't goin to set up fer nuthin.' I caught the boat. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

Booth and Girls' Letters.

Even Edwin Booth, most matter of fact, respectable and unapproachable of men, got any quantity of this sort of letters. Strangely enough, too, it is of record that, contrary to the usual custom of popular actors, he answered, indirectly, several of his undesired love letters, for some of those received by him during his career were written by silly girls, daughters of men known and respected by Mr. Booth, who appended their true names to their effusions. Two or three of these were of such a nature that Mr. Booth felt it his duty, as a parent, to inclose them to the fathers of the writers, with a statement as to how they came into his possession. The result, it may be imagined, was hardly of a nature to encourage the stricken damsels in their devotion. —Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

ANOTHER ON THE LINE.

Some Talk of Running the Steamer Zealandia to Honolulu.

The Agents of the Company Know Nothing About the Matter, but the Story Finds Favor About Town.

A story was going the rounds yesterday to the effect that the Oceanic Company would place the steamship Zealandia on the Honolulu route, commencing early in January. According to the story the owners intended to compete with sailing vessels of the sugar fleet for both freight and passenger traffic by making great reductions in rates in both cases. The first-class fare to Honolulu would be $40 or $75 for the round-trip, while steerage passage would be supplied for $20. The regular rates on the Oceanic steamers now are $75 first-class one way, $125 for the round trip, and $25 for steerage tickets.

It is said that the Zealandia would occupy ten days in making the distance from port to port.

An officer of Wm. G. Irwin & Co., Ltd., the local agents of the Oceanic Steamship Company, was seen yesterday about the foregoing. He stated that he knew nothing about the matter, and did not think there was anything in it. At any rate he had not heard officially of it.

An officer on the Austarlia stated that previous to the departure of his vessel from San Francisco, the Zealandia had been surveyed, for what reason he did not know. The supposition was that outside parties were anxious to purchase the vessel. She has been laid up for several years in the San Francisco harbor, as the company has had no work for her.

It was learned yesterday that Captain Howard, the Spreckels port superintendent at San Francisco, was anxious to put the Zealandia on the Honolulu route, and made a proposition similar to the one mentioned above, but John D. Spreckels did not favor the scheme at the time. Perhaps he has changed his mind.

How about it?

Have you one of those patented collar Buttons, which does its own swearing, as it rolls under the dresser?

Or do you do your own swearing, as you tear your finger nails in a vain endeavor to push a refractory collar button through the button hole of a highly starched and stiffened dress shirt?

Who has not experienced the delights of such a dilemma?

All ready for the party—everything on but the cuffs, and they won't go worth a cent. You tug; pull; push and soil them but its no go. But one relief: you hie yourself to the one room in the house specially set aside for those catastrophes and that is heavily charged with sulphur—suffering; man. Let me suggest a relief; get and use "the Benedict" Collar Button. They are wedge shaped, push right through a board fence, turn around because they can't help it, and hold the article firmly until you are ready to remove it.

"The Benedict" is perfect. Millions swear by them, not at them. Made in Gold, Rolled Gold and Silver. Saves your temper, saves your linen. All gentlemen wear "the Benedict."

It's easy, cheap, time-saving, business-like, to use a "Caligraph" type-writer.

Who will think you are wideawake and progressive if you stick to the way your grandfather wrote? Steel pens instead of quill pens; you're ahead there. Take another step. Use a Caligraph.

You can do more work on a Caligraph than with a pen. It's more comfortable to use a Caligraph than a pen.

The Caligraph

is better than any other type-writer, because it is simpler, lasts longer and does cleaner work than any other.

It's easier to learn than any other, too.

You can buy one on easy terms. It helps pay for itself while you're buying it. Let me sell you one.

A Rhyme for the Times!

And why have annexation,
Why not have something new,
With it we'll get vexation,
And taxes extra too!

Let us a grand example be,
A Republic true and great;
Let nations in Hawaii see,
No party strife or hate!

Let freedom be our battle cry,
Freedom in word and thought,
And in Providence the world defy,
The devil set at naught!

May statesmen of the future say,
And point to his fair lay:
"In honor their foundation land,
On truth they firmly stand!"

"They rested well on WOVEN WIRE,
For be it of them said:
If freedom was their hearts desire,
All slept on BAILEY'S BED!"

WHARF AND WAVE.

DIAMOND HEAD, Nov. 5, 10 P.M. —Weather, hazy; wind, light west.

The S. N. Castle will leave for San Francisco on the 20th inst.

The French warship will take about 400 tons of coal on at this port.

The appearances are that the Sailors' Union troubles are spreading from San Francisco to Nanaimo, B. C.

The schooner Robert Lewers will not get away until next Saturday.

The Hawaiian bark Leahi arrived at Sydney on the 9th ult., 55 days from Eureka, Cal. She was lumber laden.

The barkentine Mary Winkelman, well known here arrived at Melbourne on the 24th ult., from San Francisco.

The steamer Waimanalo got away from Waialua on Friday and is now at Kauai somewhere. She is expected to return to port tonight.

The steamers leaving today are the Kinan at 2 p. m., the Kilanea at 4 p. m., and the Mikahala for Kauai at 5 p. m.

The gunboat Yorktown will leave San Francisco on the 10th inst., bound for the China station. In all probability she will stop here for a few days to take on coal.

The Japanese steamer Nanshan is shipping a white crew to take the place of the mutinous Japanese. The latter will probably be sent home on the China, due here next Monday.

The British steamer Enskar, from Philadelphia October 4th for London, for the safety of which some fears were felt, was towed to Queenstown on Oct. 20th with its shaft broken, by the steamer McCarel from Norfolk.

A fire broke out in the fore-castle of the Mararoa while the vessel was in dock at Auckland undergoing her periodical overhauling. The damage is estimated at $2500. The fire is believed to have originated in one of the bunks, and circumstances point strongly to incendiarism.

On October the 25th, the schooner Viking, Captain Peterson, left San Francisco for Kahului. Just as the vessel reached the outer edge of the bar the schooner shipped two very heavy seas. The deckload was sprung and the cabin flooded. Captain Peterson put back to port.

Captain Seabury, who has been for many years in the employ of the Pacific Mail Company, has been made Port Captain at San Francisco. He will leave the Peking and will have headquarters on the Mail dock in that city. Captain Ward will be promoted from the command of the China to the command of the Peking. Captain Seabury will be transferred from the City of Sydney to the China. Captain Johnson, who was in charge of the ill-fated New York, will take charge of the Sydney.

This season's patrolling of the Behring sea against pelagic sealing has cost the Government over $400,000, while not a single legal seizure has been made. The only vessels captured were the sealers Wanderer and Favorite, both of which have been discharged. At the same time every vessel returning has her hold full of skins. The American fleet has been doing all the work this season, Great Britain having but one vessel in the sea, while the U. S. had nine. If a private letter from Washington is correct, Secretary Herbert has expressed his determination next season to send only the same number of revenue cutters as Great Britain, whose officers, moreover, it is claimed, put in their time fishing and hunting, leaving the patrol work to be done by the Americans.

The new American liner St. Louis, is the largest vessel up to the present date ever built in the United States and the first American built vessel to contest with the famous ocean racers of the day will be launched at Cramps' shipyard this month. Hundreds of skilled workmen are working on the St. Louis and St. Paul. The vessels are magnificent types of the great ocean liners and many prominent guests from various cities will be present at the launching. Work on the Government vessels is going on rapidly, and the hulls of the armored cruiser Brooklyn and the sea-going battleship Iowa have assumed their formidable shape lines. As big as these war vessels are they look somewhat reduced in size as their hulls loom up against the giant liners. The Minneapolis is nearly ready to be commissioned and the battleship Indiana is receiving the long delayed armor for her sides, and she will soon undergo the official trial.—Ex.

FOUND THEM GUILTY.

The Naval Court of Inquiry Gives Its Decision.

After sitting three days the naval court of inquiry, held on board of the Japanese steamer Nanshan, gave its decision yesterday, and found the eight members of the crew guilty of mutiny. The punishment of the men will be imprisonment, the sentences varying from three months to a year. Yasuda, the quartermaster and leader of the men, received the heaviest sentence.

The members of the court evidently did not place much credence in the testimony of the defendants, nearly all of whom denied their guilt. Captain Brown, of the bark Oimaru, who is a member of the board, expected to go to sea yesterday, but the examination lasted until 5 o'clock, so his vessel did not get away. She will sail today.

Captain King, the master of the Nanshan, has the eight prisoners on his hands, and he has not decided whether he will take the men back in irons in his own vessel or ship them on the steamer China.

A HYACINTH DIVER.

While at Work He Was Attacked by a Sea Monster.

H. M. S. HYACINTH, Nov. 5, 1894.

A thrilling experience was had by our divers while employed in the operation of cleaning the Hyacinth's bottom on Saturday last. When working in the vicinity of the propeller, they were suddenly assailed by a terrible sea monster, and were driven to the surface, but not before one of them had lost his knife, and the other had his finger bitten. This was promptly attended to by the ship's surgeon, who brought all his medical skill to aid the sufferer. Again on Monday morning the men, nothing daunted renewed the attack. Knives being useless they armed themselves with impromptu weapons such as cook's tormentors, harpoons, boarding pikes, etc. After an hour's hard struggle the daring submarine explorers brought their victim in triumph to the surface. It turned out to be a huge conger eel, measuring twelve feet in length. One of the divers, Mr. T. Menhennett, gunnery instructor and trained electrician, has been a diver for upwards of ten years and has practiced the art in nearly all the waters of the globe. He states that he has been in company of sharks and other ugly things but has never been attacked before. ONE INTERESTED.
