CORRESPONDENCE.

We do not hold ourselves responsible for the statements made, or opinions expressed by our correspondents.

MR. EDITOR: When a writer of vigorous English gets "on the war-path," he does not always resist successfully his temptation to use his vigorous English at the expense of common justice. In reading this morning an article in one of your contemporaries concerning a recently solemnized marriage ceremony, it seems to me that no good, but possibly harm would result from the writer's setting up his theological opinion of its impropriety, knowing, as some of the persons concerned may unfortunately not know, that the marriage in question was and is perfectly legal by Hawaiian law.

Of what mortal use was it, to make the attack on those personally concerned? Certainly we have no Church theory which invalidates or affects our statutory enactments on the subject. I venture the hope that the discussion will not injuriously affect the prospects and interests of the parties to that ceremony, or of their relations and friends.

ALFRED S. HARTWELL.

MR. EDITOR: We hear about Christians, Christian communities, Christian governments, etc. Allow me to ask a few questions. Can one be a Christian who wilfully sins every day or who encourages practices that make others sin by laying temptations before them which they cannot resist, or who helps to sustain a system of rum license which causes more evil and suffering in communities than all other sources combined? Will a Christian willingly assist Satan to multiply sin in the world? Yet all know that licensing the rum shop does that very thing.

Will a Christian community sustain a system of license that produces this mountain of evil? Can a Christian government do such an unchristian act as licensing the rum shop that corrupts the people and menaces even its own existence? In that great day of accounts, will a gospel minister that has voted for the rum shop hear the welcome sound of "come ye blessed of my father," or that other sound of "depart from me ye workers of iniquity." Workers of iniquity, is just what everyone is that votes for the rum shop. Of all the agents of Satan none render such effective service as sustainers of this rum curse; disprove this who can.

Does not every individual, all communities, and all governments sin and commit crimes daily that license and uphold rum shops? The government that issues the license and participates in the profits, and all individuals that vote for licenses, are equally guilty before God and man with the keeper and patron of the den, for all sin and crime committed by its votaries while crazed with rum. They are all participants criminis in the moral turpitude of the deed. Those that set the traps or dig the pits are as guilty as those that keep them, or those that are ruined by them.

Let us all weigh ourselves before Eternal Justice comes with her scales and we be found wanting. She will weigh governments that corrupt her people for pelf, communities that sustain these plague spots in their midst, and gospel ministers who vote for rum dens, as well as those that keep them and their patrons who do the mischief when crazed with rum. She is perfectly blind, and will see no difference between the kid-gloved minister that voted for the license and the rum bloater that drank at the den. All will be weighed for the same offense.

The gold that has been piled up in the traffic, will serve only as a witness against the holders. The deeds of corruption that originate in these dens will bear witness against all, and the suffering groans of the doomed victims will ascend as prayers to God for vengeance on those who lend themselves willing servants for Satan to keep alive this abominable traffic. SQUARED.

Barrington and Campion are Discharged from Custody.

The charge of assault with a deadly weapon against James Barrington and James Campion was dismissed yesterday in the Police Court, owing to insufficient evidence. On the morning of March 20th, Paddy Ryan had a fight with defendants in a vacant lot situated between the Pantheon and Club stables. During the melee Ryan received three knife wounds in his left side, one of which almost cost him his life. The affair was kept secret for over thirty hours when an ADVERTISER reporter discovered the facts, which were published in this journal causing the arrest of the two men. The trial has been postponed from time to time and finally came up yesterday with the above result.

The prosecution placed four witnesses on the stand that were evidently made to order for the defense. They did not know anything about the stabbing affray and were not aware that Ryan was injured. They admitted that a crowd was present, but could not identify anybody who was there. Two of them gave testimony that would make a professional perjurer blush with shame, and went through their roles in a manner that gave evidence that they had rehearsed their parts before taking the witness stand.

The prosecution could not get any direct information out of them, although a good attempt was made. The police evidently attempted to make a showing in this case, but through carelessness or bad management they erred. One of the most important witnesses was allowed to leave the city on the pretence of going to work. The individual is surnamed "Nick, the Painter," and is supposed to be an eye-witness of the affair. At present he is on Hawaii. Another man that knew something about the affair was not called. He is the official who was summoned to arrest the men. He would have given some evidence perhaps that might have thrown some light on the case. At any rate he could relate the manner in which he was knocked out by one of the defendants.

The doctor who attended the victim stated that the wounds were made with a knife.

The last act of this miscarriage of justice took place when Paddy Ryan was put on the stand. He made a remark on Wednesday that he would tell the true story of the affair when he was placed on the stand. Whether he forgot to do so yesterday or not we cannot say, but he gave testimony that could not fail to shield the guilty man. According to his story, there was no fight at all, but merely a wrestling match with both men, and he did not know he was wounded until the police were called. His story was received with great incredulity by all who knew the facts of the case.

After Ryan told his story, the counsel for the defense moved that the defendants be discharged on the ground that there was not enough evidence to convict. Judge Foster took the same view of the case, and discharged both men.

He Did Not Like It.

A rather good story has come out on a certain Englishman in town who went to see the amateur company in the farce "A Box of Monkeys," a week ago. It seems that in the first act, Mrs. Ondo-gre-Jones (Miss McGrew) has just received a note from Lady Guinevere Llandpoor, saying that she will accept her invitation to spend the winter with her. Mrs. Ondo-gre-Jones, who is a great admirer of English rank, is telling her niece how much her friends will envy her the possession of a "real live Lord's daughter." Of course the scene is made ridiculous, and is making fun of the Anglomaniacs so prevalent in the United States, but this sensitive being thought that his dignity as a Briton was being hurt, and, saying to his neighbor that he "Would not stay to have his country and himself insulted and disgraced by a party of ignorant Yankees," he stalked up the aisle, and not waiting to have his four shillings refunded, went home, and probably worried all night on the possibilities of war between America and England, stirred into action by "A Box of Monkeys."

The ADVERTISER is the recognized peoples' paper.

President Hosmer of Oahu College has invited all the members of the college to be present at a "sunrise picnic" on Panchowai at 5 o'clock to-morrow morning. The pupils appreciate this kind invitation. After thirteen weeks of hard study, a sunrise picnic is really very necessary. The motto adopted for the occasion is: "The early bird catches the worm."

BLACK SHEEP.

Interesting Narrative of Sheep Hunting in the Forests of Haw i-Desperate Struggle With a Rain Coat.

A southerly wind and a cloudy sky proclaimed a hunting morning.

The wind was southerly and the sky was cloudy enough for favorable indications as we started from the Punahoa Ranch house for an expedition against the wild sheep that frequent the seaward slopes of the country between Mahukona and Kaiwaha.

The ranch house is 1700 or 1800 feet above the sea, and as we rode forth we looked down on broken masses of dark cloud driven over the surface of the reef by the kona wind. As the clouds reached the land they rose heavily, as if overburdened, and advanced up the slope trailing their lower surfaces so near the ground that every hummock or hill in their way was momentarily veiled with their misty draperies. If it looked promising for a successful hunt, it looked equally so for rain; but that was a matter of secondary importance, and I was prepared for such an emergency in the possession of a new rain-coat well rolled up and tied to the front of my saddle. This rain-coat was not an unimportant factor in the day's experience, and as it contributed somewhat disagreeably to the annals of the trip, I shall be compelled, however reluctantly, to refer to it again.

We passed along the trail to Kaiwaha until we were well within the territory frequented by the sheep, and then, not having seen any signs of them, we left the road and reconnoitered up the slope.

The surface of the ground through all this region is rough and irregular, being well covered with loose stones with an occasional ledge of rock, and is diversified with low hills and ridges and shallow ravines, through which, in times of heavy rains, the water escapes to the ocean.

The sheep which are found in this locality are all black, except as to an occasional deserter from the herded sheep of neighboring ranches. They are said to be descended from a flock which a generation ago belonged to the late John H. and are at the present time wild enough to make shooting them a very satisfactory achievement to a sportsman, and fat enough to make their acquisition desirable from a culinary standpoint.

In about half an hour after leaving the trail, we discovered a flock of sheep about a mile above us, feeding in a little hollow. We rode up towards them for about half the distance, keeping ourselves well covered by intervening hills, and then dismounting, we worked our way up to ward them through the bed of a ravine. The south wind was blowing directly toward the sheep from our position, which was unfavorable, as they are quick to take the alarm from their acute sense of smell. The circumstances were otherwise favorable to us, from our being below the sheep, as they prefer, on being alarmed, to run down hill, or around an ascent to going up hill. We at length reached the last rise that hid us from their notice, and on looking over, low discovered that they were already on the move, having probably detected our presence. We returned under cover and arranged that I should begin firing as soon as he should get into position around the rise on the left, to be ready for them when they should appear over the crest of the hill towards which they were then going. As he disappeared, I made a cautious reconnaissance, and found that the flock, numbering about sixty, were in a low place surrounded by high ground about 150 yards off, and were moving diagonally away toward the crest of a low hill, and that on passing that they would be protected by the intervening ground. The distance they had to go to get out of view was fifty or sixty yards. My gun was a 40 calibre Winchester, carrying a long-range cartridge made up of 62 grains of powder and a bullet weighing 210 grains. I opened fire and dropped a young ewe at once, and then after several stray shots which probably wounded one or more, I succeeded in knocking over a big ram just as the flock disappeared over the rise; then I could hear Low's rifle blazing away, and ran across until I came in sight of the flock again, and found that Low had bagged one more; the sheep were now much scattered and well ahead of us and running almost with the speed of deer. We gave them a few parting shots and then followed up a group of two or three sheep which were evidently wounded and separated from the rest of the flock; we secured all of these and then heard a halloo from Manka, and on looking up saw a sheep bounding along toward us, panic-stricken at a dog which was with Palmer Woods who had reached the scene of action by a different road from ours. The sheep upon seeing us stopped short at about eighty yards distant, making a fine mark, we both fired and missed her but she still stood and finally Low tumbled her down with a bullet among her ribs. This ended our hunt and we had seven sheep, four of which were fat ewes.

After we had lunched and rested and were preparing to start for home with our spoils, a furious shower suddenly approached; I felt pleased at being prepared for this emergency, and calmly took my rain coat from the saddle where it was tied up in a roll, and proceeded to unfold it. I found much to my surprise that I had a very big contract on my hands. The coat was of the oil cloth variety and on the outside was sticky past belief; the rain was fast approaching with a roar but I needed at least a quarter of an hour in which to unroll the garment sufficiently to get into it. I worked with the cheerful alacrity of one in the presence of impending disaster. I pulled at the adhering folds, but they yielded far too slowly. I tugged at them; I got into one athletic position after another in order to find the one which would give me some advantage over my enemy; I attacked that coat with the fury of a gladiator, but it still defied me. In the midst of this struggle the rain squall struck me and wet me through immediately on my windward side; with my zeal somewhat dampened, I still worked on hoping eventually to protect my leeward side. My efforts had now resulted in a partial unrolling of the rain-coat, and in the fierce blast of the wind and in the shrouding rain, it assumed an activity and shape that were truly diabolical; it waved its sleeves and flapped its skirts, and rattled and snapped until in the uncertain light it seemed as if the fight between St. George and the dragon was being re-enacted. At this juncture Palmer, who had been some distance off, began to notice that something was the matter, and, upon a closer scrutiny, it naturally struck him that I needed assistance; this he promptly afforded, laughing in the meantime so riotously as to endanger the value of his help. However, by our united efforts, the monster was at last conquered, and for the first time began to assume the subdued and unromantic form of a rain coat, and I proudly prepared, with Palmer's assistance, to get into it; but as my mind gradually became sufficiently disengaged from the exciting experiences narrated above, to observe other matters, I noticed with a feeling "akin to pain," that the shower had passed, and there was now no pressing need of a rain coat; I put it on, however, and wore it doggedly all the way home, feeling that it looked consistent to do so, and that the thing couldn't be trusted to be rolled up again.

THE FIRE BOARD.

The Regular Monthly Meeting Held Last Evening.

The Board of Representatives of the Honolulu Fire Department met last evening at the Bell Tower. The committee appointed to wait on the Minister of the Interior, regarding the erection of a temporary building on the Mossman lot, was discharged. The Minister expects that the next Legislature will appropriate enough money to make the desired improvements at the Bell Tower. The Board passed a resolution authorizing Mr. Viggo Jacobsen to engross a letter of condolence to be presented to the family of the late George Lucas. The condition of No. 4 Engine House was called to the attention of the representatives. This house has been in a very shaky condition for some time, and a committee of two was appointed to inspect the building and make a report to the chief engineer. J. C. White and T. R. Lucas were appointed as the committee. It is expected that the old engine house will be condemned.

The lease for the Fire Police meeting house was read. It will be placed before the Minister of the Interior for his approval, and will then be signed by the Chief Engineer. The lease is for two years. The expense of the hall, including rent and janitor, will be about $50 a month. There are fifty men on the Fire Police roll, and Captain Krouse and many others think that "this fine body of men" are worth that much to the taxpayers and the Government.

The Board granted $50 to a member of No. 1 Engine Company and adjourned.

THE TRAMWAYS.

The Band Boys Have a Half Fare Reception Last Evening.

Mr. Pain, not of fireworks fame, but of the tramways, has lately opened his large heart and allowed the band boys to ride on his freight cars at half fare. It is said that he did not do this of his own free will, but at the instigation of a business man who proved that a concert at Waikiki would throw a few nickels into the street cars' treasury that they would not otherwise receive. It is not known whether Pain believes the story or not for he gazed often on the many people mounted on horseback last evening. At any rate he allowed the band half fare when any other railroad man would have been glad to carry them free of charge. That freak of a water-cart still parades Fort Street. Where are the police?

They Held a Meeting in the Armory.

Mr. Bush Comments on Bolabola—He Discourages Revolution—Remarks of Nawahi and Bipikane.

There were very few people present at the Liberal party's meeting at the Old Armory last night.

Hon. J. E. Bush: Hon. C. W. Ashford will not speak to night on annexation. He is waiting until the decision of our Noble contest case is given, which will probably be next week, after which he will discuss annexation, republicanism, and monarchical government. There is trouble ahead. Mr. Wilcox is feared. For myself, I have no connection with these so called revolutions. But if our Queen continues to follow the idle advice of a few moneyed men, trouble might follow. I prefer quiet; I do not wish to revolutionize the government. We have done our best in the last election campaign, but still we are in a minority. Some desire to gain power by force. I do not want to do that. But if you people want to follow the others you may do so. But I am certain we would lose our independence in that way, and would come out worse off than ever. We lack the capacity of the Kamehamehas. We are under a strange Government to-day. Our Queen is influenced by a native of the South Sea Islands, and that, gentlemen, has baffled the policy of the Cabinet. We have plenty of influential Hawaiians, but still a southern foreigner gains the upper hand of our Sovereign. The Board Board law is very satisfactory to us. We have elected good Hawaiians, and they are benefiting our Hawaiians by giving them work. Has our Queen done a single thing beneficial to you Hawaiians? [Audience: No.] It is said that our Queen has refused to sign the Treaty. She did that because she knows she would not be benefited by it. She did that not because of her love for her people, but because of love for self. The Queen has not appointed good Hawaiians on the Board of Health. She appointed John Ena, but he does not sympathize with Hawaiians. When Mr. Ena resigned, another good Hawaiian (John F. Colburn) was appointed. But Mr. Colburn does not know the needs of Hawaiians. He is a foreigner in sentiment. Why cannot leprosy be doctored in Honolulu? The Bishop of Honolulu requested the Board of Health to apply his remedy to a few cases, but he was told by the Board to go and reside at Kalawao. What is the Minister of Foreign Affairs doing? I think he is the greatest idler under the sun. I believe the Queen will have him again to form a new Cabinet, if the present one resigns. Should this continue, and bags will not soothe the heart aches of the people. If the Queen were to invite me to come to her, I would decline, because I know she is not candid, for I have heard hard sayings against me from her lips. I have heard that sometimes she wanted to consult with me, but the "Bolabola" won't have it. Is that Tahitian on the Throne? The Queen said these words: "Ua ola no an i kuu Polopola" (My Bolabola is giving me sound advice). We are justified in expressing publicly our grievances against our Queen. That is better than conspiring against her. We cannot gain anything by desiring human flesh. If people come to tempt you to join in a revolution, regard them as your bitterest enemy. Can we retain our government if we continue diminishing in number? We expect grave news by to-morrow's steamer. The Maoris are increasing in numbers. The English laws are stringent; the natives are not allowed to sell their lands to foreigners. England is highly praised for this policy. The people of India respect Queen Victoria. They have not seen her. Who is protecting Hawaii? Foreigners. If so, our independence is already gone. What is the use of our laboring under such heavy burdens. We must strain every nerve to regain our lost advantages. Under the feudal system, Hawaiians enjoyed life better than they do at the present day. We are a suffering people. Maybe the American Indians have greater advantages to-day than the down-trodden Hawaiians. Wilcox says that we can't have a new constitution without bloodshed. I think otherwise. I believe if the people in Hawaii hold conventions from Hawaii to Niihau and ask the next Legislature for a new constitution, the Legislature would grant our petition. Foreign powers are concentrating their attention upon you to-day. You must do something to show them that you still prize your rights.

Hon. J. W. BIPIKANE: I have been to all our meetings since election, but this is the first time I have been asked to speak to you. You have heard what our president has said. I do not agree with all of it. I am always independent. He has advised us to remain silent, even if we are down-trodden. I don't believe in that; that is hoopilinea. We have always been obedient. We are suffering under the present Constitution. We must not continue so. If we do, our children will suffer also; we must be armed. I'd rather die fighting against unjust oppression than remain silent. I cannot bear any longer these arrogant Government officials; they reign over us. When are we going to be enlightened? I will speak again before the Legislature meets.

Hon. JOS. NAWAHI: As Hon. C. W. Ashford does not speak to night on annexation, I shall postpone my discussion on the same subject until after his. If Mr. Ashford will not speak, I shall then discuss it. The important questions of to-day are:

(1) A new Constitution. We must send a petition of 12,000 names to our Queen. The Legislature is a humbug; we cannot get what we want there. (2) The health of the nation. Our health is in the hands of foreigners. We ought to have educated young Hawaiians. (3) The commercial crisis. The Cabinet ought to use their brains to avert the present crisis. We ought to issue national bank bills. The merchants will oppose this measure. America has to day $800,000,000 worth in paper money. The wealth of the world is fifteen billion dollars in gold, silver, and paper money. If I come into power, I shall issue $10,000,000 in paper money, and loan them to you at 2 per cent. interest. If we issue money at 2 per cent. interest, money lenders now charging usurious rates will come down in their interest, because they will not find people who want to borrow from them.

HAWAIIAN HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Holds its Second Regular Meeting
Last Night.

J. S. Emerson Reads a Valuable Paper
—18 Corresponding and 76 Regular Members Added to the Society—The Organizational Flourishes.

The second regular meeting of this society was held last evening in the hall of the Y. M. C. A., President C. R. Bishop occupying the chair. A large and appreciative audience, composed of members of the Society and its friends, were present. After the reading and approval of the minutes of the last meeting, Chaplain Hoes, the Librarian of the Society, stated that since the last meeting the library had received by donation about 150 bound books and over 600 pamphlets, all relating to the Hawaiian Islands. He referred especially to the gift of the Rev. Dr. Hyde to the Society of his large collection of Hawaiian books, pamphlets and newspapers, and also to the donations of A. S. Cartwright, Esq., Hon. S. N. Castle, and George P. Castle, Esq., the latter of whom had presented fifty-two volumes relating to this country. In view of the various items of business to be transacted, and the length of the lecture to be read, Mr. Hoes was excused from reading his report in full and instructed to have it printed in the public press. This report we shall present to our readers in a few days. Judge Dole, as chairman of a special committee, appointed at the last meeting of the society to report a basis of co-operation with the Honolulu Library Association, made the following report:—

To the President of the Hawaiian Historical Society, Hon. CHARLES H. BISHOP:

We report the following proposition towards the creation of such relations with the Honolulu Library and Reading Room Association, as shall be mutually beneficial and helpful:

1. That the Honolulu Library and Reading Room Association grant to the Hawaiian Historical Society the permanent use and control of the front room of the Library building.

2. That the said Association transfer to this Society all printed and manuscript matter in its possession relating in whole or in part to Polynesia and the Pacific Ocean in general and the Hawaiian Islands in particular.

3. That the members of the Hawaiian Library and Reading Room Association may consult the books belonging to the said Historical Society, subject to the same rules that now regulate the use of the reference department of the said Library Association, and such others as may be made in relation thereto by the Historical Society.

4. That the Hawaiian Historical Society shall not call upon the Library Association, as such, for any financial aid in building up its Hawaiian and Polynesian Library.

5. That in the possible event of the dissolution of the Hawaiian Historical Society, its whole library shall become the property of the Library Association.

Your committee have consulted the trustees of the Library Association in relation to this proposition, and they at their last regular meeting unanimously approved of it.

If the Historical Society should adopt this proposition, the further matter of the business status of the Society becomes much simplified, for with such an alliance with an established corporation, in possession of real estate and buildings, the incorporation of our Society is of less consequence than if we were without such favorable conditions; and in any case your committee do not see any present necessity for incorporating the society, but recommend that the President be made the trustee of the Society to hold its property to the use of the Society and according to their instructions; or, if it should be deemed desirable, the Directors might be made trustees to hold the property as aforesaid.

SANFORD B. DOLE,
FORWARD READING HOES,
M. M. SCOTT.

This report was unanimously accepted and adopted, and it was voted that President C. R. Bishop be made Trustee to hold as owner in trust all the property of the Historical Society. After the reading and acceptance of the report of the Treasurer, T. G. Thrum, Esq., the following resolution, made by Hon. W. F. Allen and seconded by Hon. S. B. Dole, was offered and, by a standing vote, unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That Her Majesty Liliuokalani, Queen of the Hawaiian Kingdom, be elected the patron of this society, and that the President and Corresponding Secretary be appointed a committee to wait upon Her Majesty and request her acceptance.

The following gentlemen were elected corresponding members: Rear-Admiral Brown, U. S. N.; Medical Inspector Wood, U. S. N.; Chief Engineer Inch, U. S. N.; J. W. Austin, E. P. Pond and J. F. Hunnewell, of Boston; Capt. C. E. Dutton, Ots T. Mason and J. W. Powell, of Washington, D. C.; General S. C. Armstrong, of Hampton, Va.; Hon. W. N. Armstrong, of New York; M. M. Gower, of New Haven, Conn.; T. H. Davies, of Southport, England; S. Percy Smith, H. G. S. Smith, Edward Tregear and F. D. Denton, of New Zealand; and Rev. J. S. Whitmee, of Samoa. Seventy-six citizens of Honolulu, who had expressed their desire to become members of the society, were then elected. The present membership is 208.

The paper of the evening was then read by J. S. Emerson, Esq., on "The Lesser Hawaiian Gods." It was listened to throughout with rapt attention, and at its close the speaker was loudly applauded. His lecture furnishes valuable information, the result of years of research, which can scarcely be obtained from other sources, and is an invaluable contribution to our knowledge of the early history and mythology of this country. In a future issue we shall print an outline of this lecture, but as the Society, in voting its thanks to Mr. Emerson, also ordered the lecture to be published in full, as No. 2 of its "Papers," the public will soon have it in its entirety. The Historical Society seems to have taken fast hold upon the affection and confidence of our citizens, and doubtless has a brilliant and useful future before it. There is important work for it to accomplish, and we wish it large success in its efforts to accomplish the ends for which it was formed.

YOU, OR SOMEONE

of your family are, no doubt, troubled with headaches.

If you are in doubt what to use to relieve it, possibly some one of the following remedies might be of benefit to the sufferer:

MEGRIMINE CAPSULES consist of a combination of several of the best known medicines obtained from the vegetable kingdom.

WAMPOLE'S BROMO-PYRINE, a combination of bromides with antipyrine is, no doubt, an excellent remedy. It resembles the Granulated Citrate of Magnesia, the well known laxative. It is administered in the same manner. It has an agreeable taste; and is considered especially useful in case of headache—attended with mental exhaustion and nervous depression.

PHENACETINE TABLETS AND ANTIPYRINE TABLETS are well known remedies and are considered safe and efficient in most cases.

BROMO-CAFFEINE AND BROMO-SODA are remedies which have a very large sale. They are particularly good in nervous complaints and have been found useful as preventatives in seasickness.

There is only one way of using these remedies for latter trouble and that is to commence a day or two before going to sea.

EYE GLASSES OR SPECTACLES are sometimes found to be in many instances, the remedy for headache, poor eyesight being the cause of that trouble. Call at the new Drug Store for any one of these articles should you need them.

THEY FOUGHT WELL.

THREE VENERABLE VETERANS OF TWO FAMOUS WARS.

Murphy and Kerns Helped to Free Texas and Williams Shouldered a Gun to Fight the British—Their Green Old Age.

Although fifty-six years very nearly have passed since the battle of San Jacinto, which practically secured the independence of Texas, there are still a few survivors of that conflict. General Houston's forces numbered but 800, but there was an unusually large proportion of very young and vigorous men among them, and as each successive death is recorded the journals announce it as that of the "last survivor of San Jacinto."

William H. Murphy, who recently died at Columbia, Pa., was announced as the last, but now William C. Murphy, of Philadelphia, claims that honor. He lives with his granddaughter at 1821 Rosewood street, and at the age of eighty-two thinks he has a clear recollection of the Texan war, but when he talks of it he speaks of himself as "one of the only eight men who got out of the Alamo alive," and of Santa Anna as "a Frenchman who became a citizen of Mexico to get property left by a relative," all of which shows that he has things mixed.

He was, however, in the battle of San Jacinto, and was one of the squad who guarded Santa Anna and Almonte after they were captured. John R. Kerns, aged seventy-seven, living with his wife and a married son at 2,440 Grant avenue, St. Louis, is also a survivor of Houston's army, and his recollections are much clearer than those of Mr. Murphy. He was in the little Texan navy most of the time and took part in the action in front of Galveston which resulted in driving off the Mexican navy. Mr. Kerns and his son, aged seventeen, enlisted in the Twenty-sixth Pennsylvania Volunteers in 1861 and served three years, and afterward served eighteen years as a policeman.

Although active campaigning lasted but five months the loss of life in the Texan war was frightful—greater probably in proportion to the number engaged than in any other war of modern times. At the Alamo all the Texans, 173, were killed, and at least 900 Mexicans. At Goliad 330 Texans were massacred, and at Refugio and other minor battles just before Goliad at least 100 more were killed. At San Jacinto 830 Mexicans were killed, 208 wounded and 780 taken prisoner, only a few escaping. Add deaths by wounds and disease, and it appears that of all those engaged on both sides at least one-third perished.

The oldest veteran in the United States probably is David J. Williams, of Saratoga, who was born Jan. 12, 1790. He carries his 102 years remarkably well, reads with ease and talks in a clear and pleasant tone. He served in the war of 1812, and the company record says that he was then 6 feet 2 inches in height and weighed 190 pounds. He has since shrunk considerably and weighs but 140. His father lived to the age of 118. Mr. Williams has a very clear recollection of the events of his boyhood and of the war, as well as of the part he took in constructing the Erie canal. He has chewed and smoked tobacco since boyhood and cannot remember the time when he did not drink cider brandy. He has also taken whisky in moderation. Incidentally he remarks that he has invariably voted the Democratic ticket.
