A BIG STRIKE ON PENNSY LINE

Trainmen Fail to Get Concessions and Vote to Quit Their Jobs.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND WILL GO

America's Greatest System May Be Tied Up When Order Takes Effect.

PHILADELPHIA, July 15.—The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is facing one of the biggest strikes in its history. At a conference yesterday of representatives of the trainmen's unions and the officials of the railroad there was a failure of all efforts of the employees to obtain concessions from the company.

Following the announcement that no agreement could be reached the trainmen in a general meeting voted overwhelmingly to strike.

Negotiations for a settlement of the differences have been in progress for several days.

If the order is carried out fifteen thousand men will quit work and leave the rolling stock of the Pennsylvania lines unmanned.

The reason given for the demand for higher wages is that the cost of living has advanced more rapidly during the past few months than have the wages of the workmen.

ALLEGED HORSE THIEF CAPTURED

Now in the Tanks Awaiting Trial
—Says He Needed Stock to Plow His Farm.

Nagasaki, formerly of Japan, may thank the stars under which he was born that he never thought of journeying on to the mainland to take up a residence in some of the big cattle States, for he might now be adorning a limb of a tree with the trademark of the vigilance committee attached to his person. Nagasaki is accused of being a horse thief, and on the strength of that accusation he was brought in from Wailua yesterday by a police officer, having been committed to the court by Judge Malouin.

About June 1 two horses disappeared from Wailua. One was owned by a man named McGowan and the other belonged to a Japanese. Their disappearance was noted and the information sent to different parts of the island.

Deputy Sheriff Oscar Cox of Wailua recently heard of the two horses being used on Japanese pineapple plantations at Wailua. He sent an officer up there with McGowan and they found the two horses in the possession of Otomori, a friend of Nagasaki. Otomori, who had a pineapple plantation adjoining his, Nagasaki, he said, was working in a field at Wailua. Cox went there to arrest Nagasaki, and arrived just as Nagasaki was talking to his friends, who had tried to reach him first to warn him that the police were after him.

The police report that he confessed he stole the horses, and said his reason was that he wanted some horses for his pineapple ranch.

Otomori was paying five cents a day for each horse's rental.

TWO BIG GUN CARRIAGES HAVE ARRIVED

Two big gun carriages arrived on the Wilhelmina, enroute to Captain Falls, depot quartermaster. These are reported to be destined for the Fort Rucker battery of mortars, to replace those found defective after test firing early in the year. When the defects are replaced on all four guns out of commission and the fire control is entirely installed, the coast Artillerymen will probably engage in practice with the big guns and projectiles will be discharged over Diamond Head far out to sea.

IN FLOWER- LINED GRAVE

Remains of George C. Beckley
Are Accorded Full Masonic Honors.

A flower-lined grave received the remains of the late George C. Beckley in Nuuuanu Cemetery yesterday afternoon, the Masonic ritual being said as the last offices of the dead were performed. Daisies and mums were placed to white the casket and to cover the sides and bottom of the grave, so that not a particle of earth was to be seen, and when the casket was lowered and covered with more flowers and turf, the beautiful floral offerings and magnificent set pieces were strewn over the plot until it was a carpet of fragrant blossoms.

As the funeral procession reached the cemetery the Hawaiian band, which had been seen there by Mayor Fien, played soft music, and music was heard all during the funeral ceremony, which was led by L. M. Nielsen, master of Hawaiian Lodge.

There were three ceremonies over the body of the dead. At noon a private service was held for the immediate members of the family, Canon Simpson of St. Andrew's Cathedral officiating. At two o'clock another service was held, when Rev. Stephen L. Desha of Tilo made a funeral address, the service being attended by the family and close friends. The choir of Kawaiahae Church was present, led by Rev. Moses Nakama. Princess Kawianakoa and Princess Kahanamoku were present. Members of Kamehameha Lodge, composed of Hawaiians, were also in attendance, and six high chiefs were the pallbearers. They were the High Chiefs Falekahu, Makalei, David Houmili, and George Beckley. As the casket was borne from the house Aloha Oe was played beautifully as a flute solo by Fred Mahanui Beckley.

On reaching the Masonic Temple, where Hawaiian Lodge officiated, the pallbearers were Colonel Soper and Robert Hare for the Masons; Rev. S. L. Desha and Charles Long for the Kamehameha; Capt. T. K. Clarke and Captain Maunaloa, for the Masters and Palms association; Cecil Brown and Mark Robinson, representing the citizens. At the Masonic Temple there were many beautiful floral set pieces, a large number representing anchors in token of the deceased's almost life-long occupation.

The procession from the Masonic Temple to the cemetery was headed by the Kamehameha Lodge, each member wearing the handsome yellow and red sash of insignia of the order, and the Masons.

John Cummins, who was a close friend of the deceased, has been very

RIOT OF STRIKERS AT PIER IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, July 14.—The strike breakers who have been called in by the American Sugar Refining Company were met at the pier by a band of strikers who at once started a pitched battle and caused a general riot. A large squad of police were sent to the scene and succeeded in restoring order. Many were injured in the fight.

AUTHORITIES TO LEARN AUTHENTICITY OF REMAINS

Professor Brigham, Prince Kuhio and Others
Will See if Bones in Casket Are Those of Conqueror.

Within a few weeks an investigation will be made to determine whether or not certain bones which now repose in a casket in the royal mausoleum in Nuuuanu Valley are those of Kamehameha, the Great.

Of all the caskets containing royal dead that have been taken to the mausoleum plot, only one remains alone, a casket without a place for royal recognition, a casket which is still subject to question as to being the receptacle for the bones of the conqueror of the Pacific.

When Prince Kuhio returns to Honolulu from Washington, he, together with Professor Brigham, curator of the Bishop Museum, and other well-known residents of the Islands who are vested in history and the disposition of the dead of ancient times, will be asked to investigate the lone casket in the mausoleum.

From their findings will depend much for their final disposition. Should they be proven to be those of Kamehameha, who ruled all the Islands of the Hawaiian group, they will be given a fitting burial and they will repose beneath a monument which will be the most pretentious in the Pacific, and it will be erected by Hon. Charles R. Bishop, who married the Princess Pauahi Bishop, and who is now a banker in San Francisco.

Should they not be determined as the bones of Kamehameha, they may, in all probability, be proven as those of Liloa, the first king of Hawaii, who lived and ruled some twenty generations ago, more or less, a time that is shadowed with the complexities of traditions and myths.

Several decades ago, during the time when Governor Kahanouka was a power in the administration of the government of the Islands, a British warship called here to take on board the bones of a captain Cook, the brilliant British navigator, who discovered the Hawaiian Islands and who lost his life on the shore at Kealahou Bay, near where a monument was afterwards erected to his memory. The British ship went to Kealahou Bay, and some Hawaiians, who claimed to know where the bones were hidden, led the British commander and Island officials to a cave where there were a large number of sets containing bones. A net was selected as the one containing those of Captain Cook.

As the Hawaiians went on board the British vessel with the bones, Governor Kahanouka saw them and he instantly exclaimed:

"You have the wrong bones; those are not Captain Cook's. Some one will die for this."

Just then the British naval captain passed by and the old governor said: "And there is the man who will die." The net of bones, however, was kept on board and the ship sailed for Honolulu, and on arrival here the captain dropped dead.

Whether that same netful of bones was discarded as those of Captain Cook is not certain, but it is generally understood that the bones believed to be those of Captain Cook were stated to be those of Liloa, first king of Hawaii. They were placed in a casket.

Later, when Kalakaua was king, he made a trip to Kealahou, and was taken to the same cave of one near by and from there numerous sets of bones, one was chosen as containing those of Kamehameha. They were brought to Honolulu and placed by Kulehau in the casket where also repose the bones said to be those of Liloa. And there is a third set of bones in the same casket, those of Umi.

The bones of Kamehameha were supposed to have been taken from the place where the mourners were preparing them for final interment. They were supposed to have been taken at dead of night from under the guard of soldiers and retainers, by Honolulu and Honolulu ancestors of the late George C. Beckley, who was buried yesterday. These two princes fled with the bones along the shore, and while one skirted the coast in a canoe, the other ran along the beach, killing a native on route, in order that the man would never tell any one that he had seen the prince at night on that coast. According to stories handed down in the families intimately associated with Kamehameha, one of the princes had to dive under the water, swim through an opening in some rocks, and then emerge into a chamber where the bones were finally hidden.

A few years ago a story came from Hawaii that a new cave had been entered and some valuable relics of the ancient days found, including war canoes, numerous collections of bones, valuable tapes, and it was also rumored that certain bones had been sent from this cave to the Bishop Museum and were believed to be those of Kamehameha. No report has ever come from the museum to the public that those bones were those of Kamehameha, nor has the fact been established.

The verdict of the ones chosen to investigate the coffin in the mausoleum will probably end forever a question which has troubled the minds of almost all Hawaiians.

MAN AND HORSES DIE IN $300,000 PORTLAND FIRE

PORTLAND, Oregon, July 14.—Three hundred thousand dollars damage has been done in a fire here today which destroyed the building of the Multnomah Athletic Club, the Portland Exposition Building and a number of other structures.

One man was killed and one hundred and fifty horses were burned to death. Several other persons are missing and it is feared that the loss of life will amount to more than the one known death.

The Portland Exposition Building was a big structure, covering a site eight hundred by four hundred feet. At the time of the fire it was being used as a garage and was recently the headquarters of the Rose Carnival.

DE CASTRIES A BUSY HOST

The Army, Navy, Territorial and Foreign Representatives Pay Respects.

If there had been a real naval battle in Honolulu harbor yesterday there could not have been much more firing of guns by the visiting warships and the battery at the naval station. The big French cruiser Montcalm's presence here was the occasion for the firing of more than two hundred guns. It was the French national holiday, and Rear-Admiral Rees and Acting Governor Mott-Smith, representing the United States Navy and the Territorial Government of Hawaii, and all the foreign consuls called upon Rear-Admiral de la Croix de Castries, commander of the Montcalm.

July 14 is a great day for all Frenchmen except the Royalists. The Bastille, famous in history as the prison in which thousands of French prisoners were confined for all sorts of real and fancied offenses against the Louis and their favorites, was taken by the revolutionists on July 14, 1789, and all persons held between its grim walls were freed. The event is considered the turning point in French history, at least one of the great events in the struggle of liberty-loving Frenchmen for freedom from tyrannical rule. The old prison was the place where the kings sent prisoners taken by means of lettres de cachet a kind of warrant of arrest which the monarchs granted on the application of favorites who wanted to get rid of their enemies. These prisoners were not granted the right of trial; they were simply held till the kings got ready to turn them loose. The assault upon the prison was, of course, one of the incidents in the rise of the revolutionists and the overthrow of the old regime. Other prisons in France were forced to yield in the same way.

At eight o'clock yesterday morning the Montcalm saluted the triad with twenty-one guns. Two hours later, Rear-Admiral C. P. Rees, U. S. N., called upon Admiral de Castries aboard the cruiser and was accorded a salute of thirteen guns as he left the vessel. At exactly twelve o'clock noon the Montcalm started another 21 gun salute. At the same instant the naval station battery and the forward guns on the American cruisers Cleveland and Chatanooga began barking a similar salute. For a time it looked like a real naval battle. A person unfamiliar with naval customs would have wondered whether the United States and France were at war with each other. Forty-eight guns were fired in a very few minutes. The battery inside the naval station was trained directly upon the bow of the Montcalm. Up in the fighting top of the Montcalm the French sailors barked away with three rapid fires, one trained toward the wireless station, another at the station battery and the third at the commandant's flagstaff. The Chatanooga's gun was trained directly on the broadside of the Montcalm, while the Cleveland's sister fired off a salute toward the transport Sherman over on the oceanic wharf. The discharge (Continued on Page Four.)

AMERICAN KILLS WIFE IN LONDON AND HIDES BODY

LONDON, July 14.—Doctor Hawley Crippen, an American dentist specialist, has been accused of the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, an actress, whose body was discovered in the cellar of a deserted house yesterday. She has been missing since last February.

The body was found to have been buried in quicklime for the purpose of destroying it. It is believed that Crippen has fled to the States in company with Clara Lane, his pretty stenographer. Search for the supposed murderer has been started by the London police and detective service.

VICTIM OF SHOOTING IN FAVORABLE CONDITION

Kamaka Waiwale, the woman who was shot Wednesday evening by her husband who, while partially intoxicated and in a fit of jealousy because his wife had sued him for a divorce, attempted to kill her, was not suffering much last night, and it is believed she will recover.

Waiwale is still in jail, and as yet nothing has been done by either side of the case. The evidence in the case will be made known whenever the accused is given a preliminary trial.

One of the old women whom Waiwale kissed upon telling her he intended committing suicide, said she smelled liquor on his breath.

Deputy Sheriff C. H. Rose last night denied there was a policeman near the scene of the shooting and did not make any attempt to arrest the would-be murderer. He said the officer was several blocks distant.

SEQUEL TO HORRIBLE MURDER

Lawless Crowd Took Antisaloons
Detective From Jail and Killed Him.

NEWARK, O., July 15.—The mayor of this city and the county sheriff resigned yesterday following late developments in the investigation of the lynching of Carl Etherington by a lawless mob who dragged him from the county jail on the night of July 8 and hanged him in a public place. The mayor was ordered to vacate his office last Monday by Governor Harmon, but he held his place until yesterday.

Many arrests have been made since the lynching, and it is believed others will follow during the next few days. Those arrested are accused of participating in the killing of Etherington. The public officials are only charged with having failed to enforce the law and to prevent the lynching.

Strong pressure is being brought to bear against the lynchers by the Governor, Attorney General Cuyler Grant Denman is personally directing the investigation and will appear for the prosecution.

Etherington was employed by the antisaloons league in a raid on low dives in the city, and while on official duty he shot and fatally wounded a saloon-keeper in a row. In spite of his piteous cries for mercy, the mob dragged him out of jail and killed him.

PRESIDENT RESTING ON HIS LAURELS AT SUMMER HOME

The Review of Session's Work Shows That He Snatched Much Out of the General Mix-Up and Tangles.

By Ernest G. Walker.

(Mail Special to The Advertiser.)

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The shutters are up at the White House and the President's offices are closed. The halls of congress are deserted, save for the cleaners and repairmen, who have taken possession of the great building on the hill. When covers are already spread over many of the big, broad desks where cabinet members and other high officials sit during the busy season of the year. And this it is rapidly coming to pass that the government at Washington is reduced to the matter of a few men here and there to sit upon the hill.

The President got away to Beverly in the fashion. Mrs. Taft had preceded him there several days. When the President withdrew through the summer capital in his big automobile Wednesday morning and out upon the well-known Massachusetts highway that leads to his cottage at Burgess Point, he found his wife and children comfortably settled in the large cottage in the midst of the broad lawns.

Earned a Rest.

It is little wonder that President Taft is very anxious to have a few days' respite from politics and government. June has been an exceedingly busy month for him, and he has accomplished enough to warrant a little relaxation. People are still writing him letters and telegrams, expressing admiration for the manner in which he won out with congress. Some of the more enthusiastic persons are wont to declare that he obtained more from congress in the way of general legislation than he wanted than any other President for many years. There is a modicum of truth, however, in the statement, and the wonder grows, as there comes time for reflection, that congress should have done as much for him as it did. It is probably very true that no congress for a long time did as much general legislation at one session. It is also true that this plenitude of measures is due in great part to the President's gentle insistence with the leaders, who had promised him months ago that if he would stand by them they would stand by him.

Chose Right Aids.

In this particular the President's wisdom in cooperating with Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon from the very beginning of his administration, has been justified. His course in that regard was not popular in some sections of the country, but, after all, they were the leaders of the party that elected him to the Presidency and were naturally the men upon whom he should rely to get things done in congress.

His method in that regard was altogether different than President Roosevelt employed. The distinguished resident of Oyster Bay fought the leaders of senate and house and cooperated with other forces to get what he wanted. He paid special attention to public sentiment, which he fostered in vigorous speeches and through newspaper channels. President Taft paid less attention to those forces. He did not have so strong a public sentiment behind senators and representatives in congress, but he dealt directly with the Republicans who had been elected to represent the people in Washington.

Time Test Will Tell.

The people were thus not so well informed about the details of progress. They were left to judge of results. Without doubt the results have been quite as large, even larger than Colonel Roosevelt ever attained in the matter of enactments. The trial of the measures which President Taft has had enacted into law will develop whether these are quite as valuable from the standpoint of the people as what President Roosevelt accomplished in his own unique way.

Anyhow President Taft naturally feels in high feather and there are plenty of people in Washington who think he has plenty of reason for that sort of attitude. The newspapers are full of articles about what he has done and that makes the President feel much more kindly toward the newspapers than has been the case before in many months. On the publicity subject, he had been very sore. He took offense at the constant criticism of himself and his administration in the public press and claimed that the criticisms were not entirely warranted. More than once his friends have urged him not to assume that attitude and assured him that no President has ever had the personal friendship of news paper writers to such an extent as he.

A Smooth Secretary.

The President has come to take a more conciliatory view of the matter and especially so, now that he has won out so handsomely with congress and the fact is being widely chronicled. He has been taking more pains at the White House offices to see that legitimate news is given out for the benefit of the public and in this has been aided by his new secretary, Charles D. Norton. In fact the opinion grows that Mr. Norton was built for that particular job. He shows remarkable tact in meeting the world of writers who swarm to the President's office. There is taken not to send any one away offended but at the same time Mr. Norton has decision and determination and knows what he wants done.

Furthermore the President has been making Mr. Norton something of a personal companion, as well as a confidential official assistant. This is a return to the old practice and enables the secretary to keep better in touch with the President. He is thus better able to ascertain what the President wants and better able to deal intelligently with those who come to the White House offices on a great diversity of errands.

Since Mrs. Taft and the Taft children went away to Beverly, Mr. Norton has been living at the White House part of the time. Whenever the President goes anywhere the secretary is usually with him. The secretary went to Beverly this week with the President and probably will remain there all during the summer. The President loves him immensely.

Era of Better Feeling.

The adjournment of congress came with an era of better feeling all around, so that the occupant of the White House did not by any means monopolize the general satisfaction. The differences between the regulars and the insurgents have not been adjusted, but there was no rancorous ending. The insurgents understand that the President does not agree with them, but there were no eleventh-hour quarrels about it, as some predicted there would be. It was particularly noticeable that the insurgents in the senate and house were not rampant in the closing days. The threats to attempt to depose Speaker Cannon at the last moment did not materialize. These threats were practically forgotten in the rush and hurry to get business disposed of. In the senate the insurgents made no efforts to emphasize their differences with the rest of the party, and nearly everybody quit work there on terms of personal amity with his political brethren.

No Vote of Thanks.

No vote of thanks was moved for Speaker Cannon, and in some quarters there was a disposition to make a lot of that. In the senate such a vote of thanks was given both to Vice-President Sherman and to the president pro tempore, William P. Frye, "for the courtesy, dignity and impartiality" with which each had presided over the sessions of the senate. The motion was made in each case by a Democrat.

It has been such a tempestuous session in the house, and there has been so much contention over the Speaker's course, that no such resolution could appropriately have been offered there. But the Speaker need not feel aggrieved on that account. The same thing has happened to other presiding officers, among them the late Speaker Reed. In the present instance, with prospects that the Speaker's policy will be an issue in the campaign, both on the part of the insurgents and Democrats, none of them entered to move a resolution that he had presided with "courtesy, dignity and impartiality." And such a resolution would have been appropriate, in view of the several times that the house has overruled the Speaker. In fact, if such a resolution had been brought up, it could not have carried by even a unanimous Republican vote, and it was deemed wiser not to offer such a resolution at all.

Its acceptance by insurgents and Democrats, of course, would have amounted to a confession that they were in error last March in voting to depose him. While the resolutions of thanks to presiding officers are simply evidences of personal amity at the end of a session, the support of such a resolution this year would have been against the insurgents and Democrats as an evidence of their insincerity.

Malice Toward None.

The Speaker occupied the last minute of the session in the house for a little speech, which put everybody in good spirits. "As this session of congress is about to close," said he, "and as we pass from Washington to our homes, as one member of the house and as Speaker of the house, I shall go putting behind me without malice the contests through which the house has passed. (Applause.) I have nothing to apologize for, as a member of the house or as Speaker. I presume each member can say the same."

RUNNING FOR GOVERNOR ON PROHIBITION TICKET

BOWDOINHAM, Maine, July 2.—

"I'm a strong temperance man, a total abstainer, and a third party Prohibitionist because I see the hopeless division of the two dominant parties on this vital issue. Both are hiding for the sake of vote of our country and both are calling for the Christian and temperance men of this nation to come and go with us." Such a condition will always prevent the solution of the problem and I believe it the duty of every true American citizen to vote prohibition regardless of party ties. I believe that all sincere temperance men in our fair land should clasp hands and unite forces under the prohibition party banner to bid defiance to the foe and strike the finishing blow to the enemy of our homes and the destroyer of our children."

Such is the declaration of the Hon. James H. Ames, the Prohibition party's nominee for Governor of Maine.

"While I believe that the liquor question is the burning issue of the day, yet I am not at all unmindful of the economic needs of our State government, and I can see where improvements can be made along many lines," continued Mr. Ames.

Mr. Ames was born in Palermo, Waldo county. When four years of age his parents removed to Unity and located on a large farm bordering on the shores of Lake Umbagog. He graduated from Bowdoin Academy in 1885 with high rank and is president of the class.

For many years Mrs. Helen Lockwood, who is now well past middle life, has devoted herself chiefly to the practice of law and has won a wide reputation as a lawyer. She is a familiar figure before the Supreme Court of the United States, and her sex has apparently been no handicap to her practice. She recently visited in her native Maine for the purpose of settling claims in connection with the distribution of funds granted Cherokee Indians and their descendants in exchange for their lands.

FIGURES CALL FOR BALANCE

The Boardwalk Bureau Will Be Moneymaker—"Prince Bert" Heard From.

While the letters of Secretary H. P. Wood of the promotion committee and chamber of commerce from Atlantic City are not full of big figures indicating heavy receipts from the sale of pineapples and pineapple juice, yet they all bear an optimistic tone, and, after all, the lack of big receipts all along the Boardwalk this year, must be blamed on the bad weather, with weeks of cloudy, muggy weather, rain and a disagreeable condition all along the coast. He has figured it out, however, that the receipts will come as soon as the real warm weather wave hits the Boardwalk, and that when the Hawaiian singing boys are paid, that the receipts will leave a balance on the proper side of the ledger.

The promotion committee yesterday expressed themselves individually and collectively of the opinion that the money would be forthcoming, and that Mr. Wood expected to have the coin fairly rolling into his coffers, long before it should.

However, Mr. Wood believes that the Boardwalk bureau is one of the best schemes hit upon for advertising the Hawaiian Islands and he believes the tide of travel will be largely on the increase.

As to the singing boys, Mr. Wood says they are a big attraction, but that the expense of keeping them there can be dispensed with when the season is over, and when new singing boys are wanted, they can be picked up in New York. There were about twenty-five in the metropolis at the time he wrote, all of whom were out of employment.

The committee discussed briefly the action of the chamber of commerce in turning down the request of the National Editorial Association for financial help for a side trip down here after the convention is over in California. The promotionists were sorry, but as one of the parent bodies had turned its thumb down, there was no more to say.

A letter from Bert Peterson, dated New York, addressed to George Lycurgas was read. "Prince Bert" recommended that several views of Hawaii, including photos of hotels, street scenes, street car service, etc., be sent on to the editor of Atlantis, a Greek paper published in New York for use in advertising the islands. The letterhead of Mr. Peterson shows he is in partnership, the firm name being Peterson and Hanchberg, City of Mexico-New York, and the features of their business are immigration, colonization, agriculture and irrigation. Mr. Peterson is reported to be doing well in both cities.

Most of the business of the session was taken up with routine business, authorizing the payment of bills and the reading of letters.

NATIONAL GUARDSMEN MUST NOT BE KEPT IN

At the instance of the war department, Postmaster-General Hitchcock has addressed a letter to a postmaster who has been charged with discriminating against the National Guard by refusing to allow employees to attend their military duties, warning him against the practice, and calling his attention to a regulation that authorizes leave of absence without pay to postal employees who are members of the National Guard when called upon to perform military duty.

The position of the department is thus stated in the letter: "The department believes that the National Guard should be encouraged in every way that it is feasible for postmasters to arrange the duties of employees so that leaves of absence to perform military duty may be granted without detriment to the service."

OUR OPINION

It is our honest opinion that the better class of California Oil Stocks today selling at anywhere from 50% to 200% below their actual value.

A year ago today 142,000 barrels of oil were sold each day; today 142,000 barrels are being sold, or an increase of 45,000 barrels.

Mark our words, oil stocks will advance during the next twelve months to such an extent that those who are today will be able to double, triple, quadruple their money. We advise you to buy only such oil stocks as we recommend. We highly recommend immediate purchase of stock of the Ventura Oil Development Co. at present low selling price of only 40 cents per share. This stock is advancing rapidly and now is the time to make your purchase and to realize profits by it.

OUR FUTURE RELATIONS WITH JAPAN.

The recent almost unanimous utterances of some of our prominent men about Japanese-American relations have been greeted by the Japanese press either with ridicule or with sarcasm, says the Literary Digest. In this country many papers took them as efforts to rouse sentiment for the Naval Appropriation Bill. Nevertheless, it can not be denied that they have made an impression upon some of the leading minds of Japan, for in the May issue of the Taiyo, perhaps the most influential monthly in Tokyo, we notice an article from the pen of Mr. Nakahashi, president of one of the greatest steamship companies in Japan, expressing decidedly pessimistic views about our future relations with the Mikado's empire. Mr. Nakahashi is noted not only for his remarkable business ability but for his scholarly taste, being the author of numerous articles and several notable books. To him the crux of the American-Japanese question still lies in the immigration problem, which has for the present almost ceased to claim the attention of the public east of the Rockies. He disagrees with some of his compatriots who think the Japanese immigrant will be assimilated here, and frankly admits that the Japanese, like the Chinaman, retains his national traits, patriotism, and traditions wherever he may go. Those, as well as his physical appearance, make him, Mr. Nakahashi asserts, unsuited to commingle and assimilate with the white race, and it is natural that America should decline to receive him. Was not Japan herself, he asks, forced by popular objection to send back three hundred Chinese coolies who had been engaged for the construction work of a railroad? Instead of regarding the unassimilable quality of the Japanese as one of his shortcomings, the writer finds in it the strength of the nation, and he makes the following portentous remarks:

I am of the opinion that to maintain the position of a first-class power a nation must possess at least 80,000,000 to 100,000,000 population, for in case of emergency we may borrow money abroad, but not soldiers. It is therefore desirable that our population should be kept concentrated within the confines of our own country and its immediate vicinities. Thickly populated as they are, our islands are yet capable of harboring 20,000,000 more people, while almost as many can be sent to Korea and Manchuria. In view of this fact it is for the good of Japan, as much as it is to the interest of America, that we should stop the emigration of our people to the United States.

And yet it must be remembered that our population increases at the rate of 500,000 every year, and the time will come before many years when we will be forced to find some new outlet for the surplus population. Some of the South American Republics seem willing to receive our immigrants, but even South America will not favor the unrestricted immigration of people who are unable to assimilate themselves with the native races and institutions. Should diplomatic complications arise between a South American state and Japan on account of popular demonstration against our immigrants such as has occurred in California, it is quite possible that the United States, following the principle of the Monroe doctrine, will interfere with our policy in behalf of the South American country. An American-Japanese conflict seems an inevitable corollary of a policy aiming at the encouragement of the emigration of our population to South America.

Mr. Nakahashi looks upon the completion of the Panama Canal as the pivotal point in American diplomacy in the Far East. He says:

The great canal will be available for navigation within seven years, and we must be prepared to see America assume a more vigorous attitude toward us after 1917 or thereabouts. Indeed, the new diplomacy of America will really begin with the opening of this waterway, and the Far Eastern question, as well as the immigration question, will assume a more serious aspect, if the new American policy manifests itself in proposals and interference in which Japan can not acquiesce without imperiling her own vital interests.

STRONG WORDS FROM GREAT MEN.

One of his [the legislator's] important duties is as guardian of those who for causes susceptible of precise definition can not take care of themselves. Such are infants, maniacs, gamblers, drunkards. The last as much as the maniac requires restrictive measures to save him from the fatal infatuation under which he is destroying his health, his morals, his family and his usefulness to society.—Thomas Jefferson—Memoirs, Vol. X, Page 431.

Liberty, which we so much covet, is not a solitary plant. Always by its side is justice. But justice is nothing but right applied to human affairs. Do not forget that with the highest morality is the highest liberty.—Charles Sumner.

With an executive official the question should not be whether the law is a good law or not, but to enforce it as he finds it. Those interested in having the law violated set up the specious plea that it interferes with personal liberty. It is no more an interference with personal liberty than any law that restricts the acts of men in accordance with the rules of civilized society. If one would like to see men whose personal liberty has been interfered with, he can go to his state penitentiary and there find them in abundance.—Joseph W. Folk.

The liberty of making drunkards and of being drunk is not one of the liberties which the wise and good men who framed our good government contemplated as necessary to be protected. It is the making of drunkards and of being a drunkard that we are trying to arrest.—Senator Reagan, Texas.

The happiness and the security and the progress of the nation depends more upon the solution of the liquor problem than upon the disposition of any other question confronting the people of our country. The government must soon take cognizance of the great evil to society that has grown out of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, and it can not long afford to continue its partnership with the liquor interests by accepting revenues from and issuing licenses to a traffic which is eating at the very vitals of the nation.—John Mitchell, the labor leader.

The liquor traffic is the most degrading and ruinous of all human pursuits.—William McKinley.

A moral issue is never settled until it is settled right.—James A. Garfield.

SHORT, UGLY AND MISDIRECTED.

The Star calls The Advertiser a liar concerning the question of the city's health and the city's health department, but the territorial board of health has started in to build a morgue. This shows pretty effectually what the responsible authorities think and is justification enough for this paper.

John Cathcart also announces that The Advertiser is a liar, and, on several occasions of late, the afternoon organ of the liquor sellers has bleated to the same effect. Under ordinary circumstances the epithet "liar" is to be resented, but not when coming from the source these do. One could as justifiably resent the presence of maggots in a rotten cheese.

There was no liquor behind the attempted murder in Kalihi on Wednesday night, says the organ of the liquor sellers yesterday, but within a few minutes of the crime there was enough liquor on the breath of the man who emptied a revolver into the body of his wife to draw a comment from a neighbor to whom he went to say goodbye before blowing out his own brains. The organ of the liquor sellers have an interest in denying the story; the woman who told it had no interest in telling other than the truth.

Very decorously and with much formality did the sons of France celebrate their annual fête day in Honolulu yesterday. There was a safe and sane publication, although considerable powder was burned nevertheless.

Theodore Roosevelt has an article in the last number of The Outlook on "The Management of Small States That Are Unable to Manage Themselves," but he does not mention the county of Hawaii.

"Does it pay to work for the government?" asks Dr. Francis E. Leupp in an Eastern magazine. If he could do like many others have and strike out the "for" he would not have to ask.

PRACTICAL POLITICS.

Voters who desire a clean ticket this fall for the Republican party can not afford to wait for the nominating convention to voice their views. The effective work for the purging of a party must be done from the inside and not by long distance applications of advice. The various precinct clubs meet tonight for the election of their officers. While there are contests in very few precincts, yet the members of the party in every precinct should attend their particular precinct meetings, acquaint themselves with their fellow Republicans, enroll themselves as club members if they have not already done so and generally put themselves in a position where they can do some good when the necessity arises.

It is generally agreed now that there were many mistakes made by the party two years ago, and it is also generally agreed that these mistakes were preventable ones if sufficient interest in the precinct clubs and the primaries had been taken prior to the nominating convention.

Unless the party members wish to see the mistakes of two years ago repeated and the same consequences follow, let them get busy while there is time.

The first thing to do is to join your precinct club and take an intelligent interest in its affairs. Tonight is the time to start in.

LAW AND LICENSE

SOME FUNDAMENTALS

By John G. Woolley.

(Number V.)

If the danger to the people stopped at the drinker, we might perhaps charge off the loss to the "personal liberty" account, and depend upon the growing health of abstinence, to run away from the disease. But the liquor peril does not stop at the weak and the vicious. The bulk of it, indeed, falls on the innocent and the strong. We stand, or fall, together. My drunken neighbor burdens his wife's heart, or breaks it, leaves a trail of defective children, defaults his obligations as a neighbor and a citizen, or becomes an active agency of vice and crime. But the sober and industrious foot the bills, in money and in misery; and the clean homes suffer with the vile.

We have been told for many years that the license system is a scheme to oppress and weaken the liquor trade. If that be true, the scheme is an outrage, not very different from highway robbery—to hold up with a strong hand, a recognized business and compel it to pay for its own destruction.

But that was never true. The license system was always in effect, an endorsement and an encouragement of the liquor traffic. It found the business in the tap-room of the tavern and the back room of the grocery, with the liquor dealer, as such, commercially, socially and politically insignificant. Centuries of this "oppression" have so highly specialized the liquor seller and so strongly fortified his liquor business, that they have moved up to the street front and to the center of the stage, in politico-economic efficiency. The bar-room, or the cheap deal table that formerly served as a bar, has evolved from the shadows and cobwebs into a gorgeous but tawdry symposium of decoration, and the proprietor, by virtue of his proprietorship, has become the chartered and insolent defier of the law and backer of every corruption, from crooked politics up to the red light district.

Within my own memory, the license "oppression" has been increased ten fold, and in the same time, the political power and the social havoc of the drink have increased in higher ratio.

J. M. Atherton, president of the National Protective Association, the foremost organization of distillers and wholesale liquor dealers says:

"The true plea for the liquor trade to pursue is to advocate as high a license as they can in justice to themselves afford to pay."

Peter E. Hiler, the most prominent distiller in Nebraska, says:

"I believe that high license is one of the grandest laws for the liquor traffic and for the men interested, as well as for people at large, there is."

Henry S. Winkfeldt & Co., distillers of Chicago, say:

"We think the trade in any State should favor high license."

Devereaux & Meserve, wholesale liquor dealers of Boston, gave this advice to their patrons in Nebraska in 1890:

"Advocate high license and reach all the politicians and others of influence. Do not think you can silence the pulpit, but you can induce some of them to advocate high license on moral grounds."

Bowler Bros., brewers of Worcester, Massachusetts, say:

"Your battle cry must be high license versus prohibition."

Metz & Bro., the leading brewery of Nebraska, wrote from Omaha:

"High license bars prohibition. We are positively certain that were it not for our present high license law Nebraska, today, would have prohibition."

During the movement for an increase of the liquor tax in Ohio the liquor men outwardly opposed its adoption but when it became a law the Wine and Spirit News, boasting said:

"It can not be denied that an immense revenue will accrue to the State making the liquor business of Ohio indispensable to the State. It will be more difficult to assail the traffic from a legislative standpoint in the future."

The State will have learned to lean on that revenue and will not be in a position to despoil itself merely to please the whimsical notions of theorists and well-to-do cranks. In this respect at least the $1000 tax will be a benefit."

The liquor traffic is a public enemy and the license system is its friend.

If the safety of the people is the highest law, the license system is the world's masterpiece of legislative treachery.

This fact, at last, is rising like an apocalyptic vision before the people, and they have set about their own deliverance, by laying the axe of prohibition at the root of the organized degradation. The active enemies of the trade have abandoned the license system as a remedy, and the strife over methods of suppression is subsiding. In the rapid increase of prohibited areas, the Beer Belshazzar reads the writing on the wall. It has been a long hard fight, and many of us bear the scars of it in our lives and fortunes.

But the party prohibitionists made no mistake in carrying the case up to the supreme court of national agitation. Prohibition may plant and political parties may water; but the people rule. We have been charged with the foolishness of trying to force prohibition on the majority. But no intelligent prohibitionist has ever sought, or hoped, to drive a law through an unwilling nation. Force is folly in a republic except moral force to make the people think.

Absolutely the whole effort has been and is to drive home the argument to the head and heart and hand of the majority, until it shall desire and demand and obtain and enforce a law that will forbid the wasting and the poisoning, and eventually abolish them.

I am on reflection not disappointed that the final movement has taken the form of progressive local option, although I did what I could for a more summary method.

The general battle has not come in the way that I expected and intended. But it has come. I welcome it gladly and gratefully, as a greater plan than mine, since it carries not only the root and ruin of the liquor traffic, but also breaks the stronghold of the party habit of the people.

True, the liquor plague is not local. It crawls and flies and burrows. But neither is state or county reformation local. The counties are the states, and the states are the union. We are all members, one of another. Real reform may begin anywhere, but it does not stop short of the dome of the national capital.

The reform began a hundred years ago in terms of the individual. Now, it speaks by counties and states; and it almost has its hands upon the halcyons of "old glory."

What we see about us, north, south, east, west and at Washington, is national prohibition marching by army corps, regiments and companies—that is to say—by States, Territories, Counties and towns into the plain of Armageddon, where manhood and womanhood, the king and queen of the earth, and their armies are gathering to make war on the scarlet-colored beast.

The objection that local option concedes to the majority the right to do wrong is mere cant—the whine of a weakling or the swagger of a pharisee. This government is not a pious oligarchy, where absolute moral values are put up in sealed packets and marked, "none other genuine," but a democracy, where right and wrong are always relative terms, and not rarely very vague terms. And local self-government is the American rule of the road for those who seek to arrive at the right and to carry it out successfully in civic forms.

The pronoun of conscience is "I"—not "he," not "we," not "you," not "they."—"I"—one stroke, one letter, high, straight, narrow, aloof, vertical. It does not work; it is. It does not go; it witnesses. It implies absolute independence in the polling booth. It respects all claims of parties and majorities to command; and, like a seed in the earth, abides alone until it dies and bears.

The pronoun of democracy is "we"—"I," and "thou," and "he," and "they" together. It is a syllable. It is a word. It is a crowd. It is a fusion. It is a compromise. It is conscience moving horizontally. It works; it is a business. It goes; it is an engine. It implies full, equal competition for wheat and tares alike until the true law arrives with scythe and flail and power.

I shall stand here, where God put me, and do right as He gives me to see the right. That is the voice of conscience, at rest.

We of this country, we of this Territory, we of this nation, will have a show of hands on this proposal and abide the issue without a snarl or a whine. That is the voice of democracy—conscience on the march.

They, the representatives of the people in office, and them, the people themselves out of office, shall obey the majority, while counties and States work upon each other and work themselves together into a national policy as up-right, patriotic and glorious as the flag. That is the voice of law and order—conscience on guard.

This is our case, in the symbol of the cross—Conscience, the stem, in one dimension, height; democracy, the arms, in the second dimension, breadth; economics, the grip of the soil, in the third dimension, length. It is the true cross of Christ, and in this sign we conquer and shall conquer.

It in the last few days and was unable to go to any of the ceremonies, but he made a final effort and was taken by motor to the cemetery where he witnessed the interment of the remains.

George Beckley comes from a distinguished line of ancestors and on both his father's and mother's side was a descendant of Liliu, the first king of Kamehameha, one of the warrior princes who taught Kamehameha the art of war, and whose effigy is to be seen upon the Hawaiian coat of arms. He was also the grandson of Capt. George Beckley, first commander of the original Honolulu fort and designer of the Hawaiian flag. He was married to Miss Mary Risely in 1875, their wedding being one of the leading social events of that season.

BEER AND PIE.

Mr. Edytur—Dear Sir: Will you kindly help a poor woman out of a twist of yarn by reading the paper Bullytin last night.

It sez itz bad to ate pye, same az drynkyn beer or whysky, now when Myke was alive he nzt to bate me wyth a klub whin he drank wyksy and the chyl-dren wud run and get under the bed whin he kum home drunk.

Pur kids they nivr got much skoolin as Myke spnt all his munny fur whysky and they had no kluse fyt to ware to skool. Now Mystur edytur if yez will till me the truth plaze iz that Bullytin fellow lying or gist rytin a joke whin he sez pye hnts a mon who iz a athlyte loike beer.

I want to marry agin and the mon I luv is a ball plair and he atez lots of pye, now will he bate me wyth a klub and wout the kids hav kluse gud enuf to ware to skool, by gorra ill nivr marry him if thatz so.

Shure i nivr rade about any body dying or killin some one or bying arrist-ed fur ating pye or havin a fyt in a bakery shop over pye i till yez i balyve that edytur rote that fur munny gist to fyt up the paper and skare folkes he daz i doo.

Wile im rittin yes i want to say that piktur in the evening paper some tyme ago that they made over agin out of your paper with myster Wulley running down the trak and an engine with Resterick on it was foine i till yez they nivr told the truth byfore loike that whin they said at the bottom of the piktur "aginst as ar only the gurillas of avil."

Yez sorr these prachers and prysts who hay beer is all rite ar a pak of gurillas and gaffers he daz they git no more of my munny to pray Myke out of purgatory if they say beer is any good. I know they lye shure and are wurkin fur the devil so how kin they git him out of purgatory whin they are in league with the devil to get him in thar so far a pur person kant make enuf to pay fur thair mass bekause Moike left us in det and in poverty.

I see a luthern pracher a pryst and the anglikn church pracher al say beer is al rite, of korse they wud not say itz rong whin they use it thimselves so why dont the Bullytin prynt in the paper what Charley MaecCarthy thinks about beer hez a good irishmon or Moike Pyton they are as honest as these prachers and know a lot more about beer than the klergy.

They wud quit the buzzy in a hurry if thar wuz pur pyn in it, but they kan live nisy by what they make out of uz pur divils and so wud them prachers but they loike an aisy gob and feathered nest too well.

One pracher sez the Lord wuz a wine bibber, but the byble sez the faraseez called him that the byble sez no drunkard shall inherit the kyngdom of God, how much drynk makes a drunkard, I nivr red pye-aters were barred ut.

Wel this iz a long litter and i wud like to ask yuse to prynt me an answer to the pye question and say will yez prynt that piktur of a calf all tangled up in a rope agin, it makes me haf calf are always such mutten heads they twist all up in their own rope, goats for me if irish, calf dont kno beer from pye, as ivir.

of the guns was irregular—sometimes three guns rippling and tearing holes in the atmosphere within fractions of a second of each other.

The air in the neighborhood was laden with smoke for several minutes, and the din was almost deafening.

Earlier in the day Rear-Admiral de Castries called upon Acting-Governor Mott-Smith, as did consul General Marques. Governor Mott-Smith tried to call together several members of his staff and have the Royal Hawaiian Band play the Marseillaise, but he succeeded only in getting Col. J. H. Fisher, the time of notice being too brief for the other members of the staff and the band to reach the executive building soon enough.

Rear-Admiral Rees paid a return call to the French commander at three o'clock in the afternoon, and Acting Governor Mott-Smith was there at three-thirty. As each one departed the usual number of guns were fired.

A little later the consuls of the various other governments represented here, called upon Rear-Admiral de Castries, and each was saluted with seven guns.

The last firing was at six o'clock, when the Montcalm again saluted the French flag on account of the holiday. Many officers and men from the foreign cruiser came ashore yesterday. The local clubs have extended their cour-

The battle was fought in 1759 and the victory of the British meant the loss of Canada to France. The Montcalm's paymaster drew $20,000 from one of the banks yesterday and paid off the crew. The Montcalm, as well as the Cleveland and Chattanooga were decked out in flags and pennants all day.

REPORTER RECEIVED WITH CONSULAR HONORS

Advertiser Man Got Everything,
but the Guns. Aboard Visiting Cruiser Yesterday.

It only takes a motor car or a hack to create the impression one is a consul of some foreign country, when a foreign warship in Honolulu harbor is busy receiving the accredited representatives and according them the full honors of their rank. All consuls do not wear gold lace, but nearly all wear top hats and frock coats when they make their official calls, and when a stream of hacks and autos draws up at the foot of the gangway of the big French cruiser Montcalm, the officers aboard have some difficulty determining whether the newest arrival is a consul or some other official, particularly if he does not wear a uniform.

This was the case when a lone Advertiser reporter passed down the naval wharf behind an ambling hack horse. The officers on deck could not see who was in the hack, except that it carried a man, and as there had been so many consuls coming down the same wharf, the boatswain piped the guard out. There were shrill calls along the decks, orders shouted, and the first gangplank sentry presented arms. There was a rushing of bluejackets along the upper deck and then an officer appeared at the doorway leading directly to the entrance to the wardroom.

As the reporter alighted from the hack, he glanced over to the Chattanooga and saw a petty officer acquaintance grinning broadly. He looked upon the busy scene as a huge joke. The sentry at the foot of the gangway stood at attention and presented arms, the rifle strap snapping as he clasped it tightly. As the reporter passed up the gangway, the sentry's eyebrows elevated, for the reporter did not return the salute.

There was considerable rushing of feet on the various decks as the news-gatherer sped up the gangway, lacking all the usual consular dignity. The officer saluted and the reporter passed into the spacious gun deck of the cruiser where he was confronted by a line of French bluejackets each wearing a hat with a bayonet fixed to the side and each came to attention as an order was shouted, there was a rattle of the drums, the bluejackets presented arms and every tongue on the deck came to attention.

The newsgatherer finally got a word in edgewise, handed his card to the officer in command, and endeavored to persuade his gallant hosts that he was but a common mortal, who only wanted to find out about some snuffing and honors. The officer glanced at the card, his eyes bulged and he turned sharply to the riflemen and gave a command. The bluejackets glanced at the news-gatherer and some of them as they perceived that he had participated in the full honors for a consul of a foreign government which they had accorded to a gatherer of news.

The steamer W. G. Hall, from Makawili, Wednesday afternoon, brought 5000 bags of sugar and 48 packages of sundries. Dursey Logan reported the schooner C. S. Holmes discharging lumber at Honolulu.

The steamer W. G. Hall, whose regular time of departure was yesterday afternoon, will not leave till five o'clock this afternoon. The reason for the postponement is supposed to have been that the vessel's cargo would not be ready on time.

HIGH KICKERS COMING.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 2.—Twelve hundred mules, whose total value is $250,000, will be shipped out of Oakland within the next sixty days. This is undoubtedly the largest single shipment of mules ever made from this country. It will take place from the Moore-Scott shipyard, Oakland, in the British steamer Wairarapa of the Union Steamship company, Australia, which will be remodeled by the ship's carpenters.

The mules will be taken to the California Sugar company's plantation in the Hawaiian Islands, and also to the Fiji Islands. The animals are now at Stockton awaiting transportation.

HOODOO FOLLOWS UNCLE SAM'S MILITARY BOATS

Uncle Sam's vessels in Pacific waters have been subjected to a considerable number of mishaps during the past month or two. Accident has followed accident until nearly all the ships touching this port have been crippled one way or another.

Yesterday there were four of the government's vessel in the harbor more or less ailing. The cruiser Chattanooga was disabled at sea by having one of her propellers broken, and the Cleveland, which helped the Chattanooga into port, was not exactly crippled, but her machinery was considered in two weeks a condition to tow the Chattanooga to the mainland. The Prometheus, the new $2,000,000 auxiliary, is lying at the Alakea wharf with her machinery in bad condition, said to have been due to the fact that she is on her first long voyage.

The transport Sherman, which underwent general repairs and overhauling at Mare Island recently, was delayed a whole day because one of her engines went out of commission Wednesday. The Sherman left at five o'clock in the afternoon for Manila.

Ships owned by private concerns pass in and out of Honolulu and it is seldom one of them has a serious accident. Probably in the case of Uncle Sam's ships it is just a case of mishaps coming in "bunches."

Sierra In This Morning.

The Oceanic liner Sierra, with a fair-sized list of passengers and the usual quantity of mail, will arrive from San Francisco this morning at six o'clock and dock soon afterwards.

The Sierra and the Matson liner Wilhelmina will leave at the same hour next Tuesday, bound for San Francisco. The Sierra is the faster of the two and doubtless will reach the Bay City a few hours ahead of the other ship.

The Sierra has seventy-three cabin passengers and three in the stowage.

A. H. Uses Tomahawk.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—The American-Hawaiian Steamship company has declared war on Bates & Chesbrough by announcing that it will put on two steamers between San Francisco and New York via Strait of Magellan, and take freight to New York at less than sailing ship rates. The two steamers which the American-Hawaiian company announces as additions to its fleet were secured by overbidding Bates & Chesbrough for the charter. The clipper line of sailing ships operated by Bates & Chesbrough independently of the railroads has been taking freight to New York for $7 a ton, against $8 by the Panama Pacific Mail service, and an average of $9 (trading canned goods as a basis) by the American-Hawaiian Tehuantepec service. Bates & Chesbrough tried to secure charters of the steamers J. L. Luckenbach and Lyra, to add to their fleet. They made a bid for the charters, but the American-Hawaiian company spoiled their plans by announcing that the two steamers would be operated on the Magellan route by the American-Hawaiian company and carry freight to New York at $5.50 and $6 a ton.

Fight Returns on Sierra.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 7.—Wireless telegraphy gave the Jeffries-Johnson fight by rounds to the passengers of the steamship Sierra, Captain Houdlette, of the Oceanic Steamship company, which arrived yesterday morning from Honolulu. Almost as soon as the fight returns were received here, the officers of the Sierra say they had the bulletins on board. The Sierra's passengers had a great time on the Fourth, participating in sports of all kinds on the steamer's spacious decks. In the evening a banquet and concert was given in the social hall, the entertainment being supplied by the Royal Hawaiian Club and some of the passengers.

60,000-Ton Steamer.

LONDON, June 29.—The Cunard Steamship company will shortly start building vessels of 60,000 tons. The first steamer will be laid down in a few weeks and it is expected that it will be finished in three years. The builders are not announced.

The decision to build these monster vessels apparently is connected with the Mersey Dock Board's determination to construct a new dock at Liverpool with quay berths suitable for ships 1000 feet long. It is noteworthy that the tonnage proposed by the Cunard company eclipses the White Star steamers Olympic and Titanic, now being built at Belfast, by 15,000 tons. The Olympic and Titanic are nearly 15,000 tons larger than the Lusitania and Mauritania.

Shipping Notes.

The Hall will leave this afternoon at five o'clock for Kama.

The liner Wilhelmina will carry 5000 tons of sugar to San Francisco next week.

The Makura, leaving here next week for Vancouver, will have berths for about fifty passengers in the first and second saloons and stowage.

The schooner Mary E. Foster will be ready on Saturday to sail for Puget Sound. She has almost finished discharging her cargo of lumber.

Frank C. Poor, who was recently promoted from the clerkship at the Makawili wharf to a position in the latter island office, is enjoying a vacation.

The steamer Neuma, returning from Hawaii ports yesterday, brought 1222 bags of sugar and 290 bags of rice. Parson Sims reported strong northeast winds and rough seas.

The W. G. Hall reported the following sugar awaiting shipment: K. S. M. 3100, M. A. K. 4000, K. B. 4100, M. B. 5000, K. 1 4500, M. L. 7000, K. 1 1700, L. 215, H. M. 6000.

The steamer W. G. Hall, from Makawili, Wednesday afternoon, brought 5000 bags of sugar and 48 packages of sundries. Dursey Logan reported the schooner C. S. Holmes discharging lumber at Honolulu.

The steamer W. G. Hall, whose regular time of departure was yesterday afternoon, will not leave till five o'clock this afternoon. The reason for the postponement is supposed to have been that the vessel's cargo would not be ready on time.

CONNECTIONS IN

Drive Line

The Stevens-Duryea, square, taper square and flange design of uniting each section in the drive line from fly wheel to rear hubs and the forging of pinion gear integral with shaft, is as fine an example of engineering skill as is exemplified in the manufacture of motor cars.

This construction eliminates the use of round, taper round or key design of coupling and overcomes the one weak point in transmitting the power to the rear wheels.

The ease with which a section can be removed is the crowning point in its favor, and the accuracy of its running will be absolutely perfect when replaced, owing to the fact that only a slight pressure is required to make positive its connection.

With the round taper and key, an excessive pressure is required to unite, and if this is not applied, all rotating strains are placed on the key and keyway which cannot be designed to adequately carry the load.

The adoption of squares in drive line entails the highest cost of production and is only one of the exclusive, distinctive, and proven good Stevens-Duryea points, which, when given the most critical examination in regard to design, material, and sound, accurate workmanship, are found to be mechanically correct.

This exclusive drive line feature characterizes all Stevens-Duryea motor cars, and, with its other points of merit, still further enhances their value.

GOOD MUSIC, GOOD SONGS, AND

GOOD SHOW AT THE ORPHEUM

"The General's Dilemma," as put on at the Orpheum last evening is the best thing the members of the Casino Musical Comedy Company have yet offered in this city. There are some ridiculous situations and they are cleverly acted, and the musical numbers seemed to be interpolated in just the right spots, for they do not at any time interfere with the run of the comedy.

Harry Garrity and Laurel Atkins were congenially cast in two Irish character parts, and they created a good deal of fun and laughter. Miss Atkins made a hit with "Make a Noise Like a Hoop and Roll Away," and Harry Garrity sang a military march song and a waltz duet, entitled "Only a Hundred Girls," in which he did a neat little act with two of the girls which called forth a hearty encore.

Both Miss Rockwell and Miss Campbell were forced to contribute their three encores each. Miss Rockwell sang as her third encore one of her previous song hits and Miss Campbell playing the Swing Song by request.

For her solo Miss Olga Stock selected that popular old song, "Beautiful Eyes," but did it as well that she took two encores. In a last act with Carleton Chase, Miss Olga's voice shined with graceful advantage.

The best individual specialties introduced in the performance were contributed by Miss Elise Schuyler, who did August Summer, Sr., from Spring Hill, and Harry Stuart.

SALVATION LEADER TO VISIT THE ISLANDS

Arrangements have been completed for the visit of Colonel Charles Miles, who is in charge of the Salvation Army work for the Pacific Coast province, which includes Hawaii.

The colonel is due to arrive here on the S. S. Sierra this morning, and will leave this evening on the steamer Lunda for Waikiki, where he will conduct services in the army hall and in the different churches on the island. From there he proceeds to Honolulu, then to Hilo, Kona and Waimea, holding meetings in each place and inspecting the condition of the army work on the different islands.

In Honolulu the colonel will conduct a series of meetings in connection with the celebration of the fifteenth anniversary of the Salvation Army's advent on the islands, commencing on Saturday, August 6th, when a great reception will be given him in the army hall, King and Nuuanu avenues, at which all the officers from the various posts on the islands will be present.

On Sunday morning, August 7th, he will speak in the Methodist Church; in the afternoon he will address the children of the army Sunday schools, and in the evening will preach in the Christian Church. Monday he will hold a service for sons of officers' comrades and on Tuesday evening will conduct a great public wedding ceremony of two prominent army officers in the army hall.

The colonel is a fluent speaker, and has had a wide experience in salvation Army work in different parts of the world. During his visit he will go minutely into all details of the army operations on the islands.

HAWAIIAN SINGING BOYS MAKE HIT IN EAST

ASBURY PARK, June 25.—The Hawaiian exhibit, Asbury Park's new summer feature, will open tonight in the building at Ocean and Third avenues, formerly known as Dragon's Pass and toboggan chute. High-class Hawaiian vocal concerts, similar to the big success given at the Arcade Saturday night, will be an afternoon and evening feature all summer. Pineapple will be served in its most delicious form, pictures exhibited and a trans-Pacific information bureau conducted.

Last night the Hawaiian singers took another trip over Deal Lake in a Wortman line launch, delighting large audiences of bungalow dwellers and canoeists with their splendid songs. Deal Lake has become a very fascinating spot for the Hawaiian boys, and they are planning frequent excursions there this summer, as well as a big night on Wesley Lake when the carnival is held. Yesterday morning the Hawaiians were given a forty mile ride in one of Crown's large autos, and expressed great delight with the beauties of the north Jersey coast, particularly Rumson road. In the afternoon they attended the opening concert by Prevost's band at the Avenue and assisted in giving the popular bandmaster a great ovation.

OFFICIAL CALLS ARE MADE AND RETURNED

Admiral Cassin of the French cruiser Montcalm called officially on Acting Governor Mott-Smith yesterday morning and the Acting Governor returned that call at three thirty o'clock in the afternoon.

The Admiral invited Acting Governor and Mrs. Mott-Smith to dine with him on next Wednesday evening and Mr. Mott-Smith accepted the invitation and such others as the latter may designate to take a trip around the island with him next Wednesday.

WHAT THE PRESS AGENTS SAY

HARRIS MCGUIRE.

Character comedian, at the New Orpheum.

Coming Orpheum Bill.

"The Rehearsal" which will follow "The General's Dilemma" at the New Orpheum next Monday night is nothing more than the musical adaptation of Nat Goodwin's former success "Hobbies," a farce comedy of renown. When it was first played by Goodwin it sprang into immediate popularity on account of its aptly consistent, its ingenious plot, its clever lines and its subject matter. The present version of the piece, while it retains the same general scheme, is said to be a distinctive improvement in several particulars. A number of screamingly funny features will be introduced and the various talk-fests indulged in by the principals promise to make it enjoyable with fresh and hearty nonsense.

Several of the new features are to be found in the songs and specialties which have been arranged for it. All the members of the Casino Musical Comedy Company have made good with Honolulu theatergoers. Harry Garrity is a success in anything he does, while Harris McGuire easily carries off honors as a character comedian and eccentric dancer. All of Harry Stuart's contributions have pleased, while Miss Schuyler and Miss Canfield have become prime favorites. By special request Miss Canfield is repeating her first week's success in Schubert's "Serenade," in "The General's Dilemma."

Then there is Olga Stock, she of the earnest smile, the big voice and the little body. She is as decorative as a cannoneer and by no means tame when it comes to acting. The present New Orpheum chorus are sprightly, agile, well modeled and well trained, and they seem to be as individually pretty as any ever seen out this way. It is hard for a stage director to keep pretty girls in a state of single blessedness.

Miss Rockwell may count among her other assets—not one of those gliding, yellow voices that hit you square in the face, but a pleasing, well-balanced strain of melody that rises clear and sweet to her lips.

At the Novelty.

There will be an entire change of pictures at the Novelty tonight. Orton and Lucia will be seen in an entirely new comedy, of late the portions of the Novelty have been complaining of the heat of the house, but excellent ventilation has been made, and no more hot houses crowded the house any more, it will always remain cool. With Orton and Lucia, and the latest pictures, the management promises a very interesting entertainment.

TALES OF A TRAVELER.

Hartford (Connecticut Daily Times)—This S. S. San Antonio comedy will publish next week a volume by a local writer which has the title of "As Far as the East Is From the West," and is descriptive of a voyage on the steamship "Oceania" of the Hawaiian American company from New York to the East, through the Mediterranean and the Indian and Pacific oceans to San Francisco. The book abounds in interesting tales of travel and in sea stories and yarns, and also contains much solid information about out-of-the-way nooks in Oceania and the seas of the far East. Little visited except by sailors and some rare children of Wanderlust.

The picture is a member of the Times staff, Daniel D. B. B. who took the trip and made up his own manuscript. Mr. B. B. made a study of the Japanese question in the three weeks which he spent in the island empire, and some of his views and conclusions are given in the volume.

In a chapter devoted to Hawaii considerable information is given which was obtained from officials while he was in Honolulu, and the volume is made from books now out of print or difficult to obtain.

The volume is well illustrated, partly from drawings especially made for it and partly from photographs taken in the course of the trip.

CANE-LOADER WORKS WELL IN PRACTICAL TEST

CROZIER'S CANE-LOADING MACHINE IN OPERATION ON AN OAHU SUGAR ESTATE.

Crozier's cane-loading machine, which has already been given a practical test on Waipahu plantation, is soon to be given a test under the scrutiny of a committee of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association on labor saving devices. The Crozier machine appears to be more nearly practicable as a mechanical device for taking cane from the field and dumping it in cars than any heretofore tested. The results of the test made last week have been gratifying to all interested.

The cut herewith shows the loader, which consists of an incline tramway about sixty feet in length extending back into the field, with a traveler or car which is capable of carrying from three to five hundred pounds of cane, the load on the traveler, as shown in the cut, being 350 pounds. The car is operated by one man by means of a light wire rope and hand windlass, the car returning by gravity. The object of this trial was to test the machine under actual field operations.

A test of two cars, one loaded by the Crozier machine, and the other by hand, was in favor of the Crozier machine. From a test of various loaded cars it has been found that the actual average load of cane in fifteen hand-loaded cars was 4400 pounds each, and in eleven machine-loaded cars 5500 pounds each.

As regards the cost of loading with the machine, while, of course, the whole of this work was of an experimental nature, the results were exceedingly gratifying and particularly close to the present contract price for hand-loading.

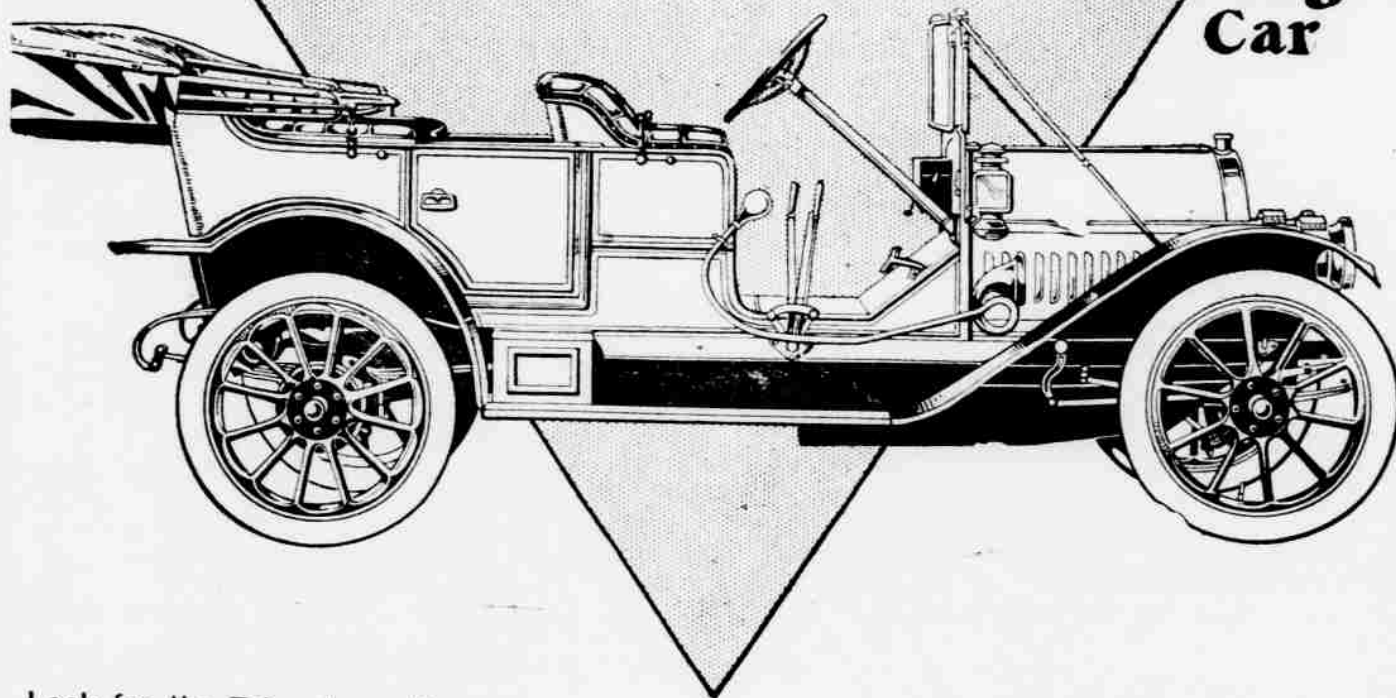

Mr. Crozier is now remodeling his machine to suit the actual working conditions, particularly as regards handling cane in the fields, and he is strongly of the opinion that the cost of loading the cane can be greatly reduced.

The principal points aimed at in the operation of this machine are that there is no mechanism connected with the same such as gas engines or other appliances, and that a man's whole effort is utilized in transporting the load from the field to the car, instead of two-thirds of his energy being wasted in lifting his own weight, as in the case of hand loading, one-third only remaining to carry the load.

When the remodeled machine is sent out to a plantation the committee on labor saving devices of the planters' association, will look it over.

MARINE RAILWAY DEAL A CERTAINTY

The Inter-Island Will Then Have a Necessary Adjunct to Its System.

The consummation of the deal between the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company and Sorenson & Lyle, whereby the company will purchase the lease on the land held by the marine railway is only a matter of a short time. Negotiations have been in progress for several days, and yesterday a prominent official of the Inter-Island company stated that about the only thing lacking at the present time is the signing of the legal papers transferring the property from one to the other.

The property is considered a logical adjunct of the Inter-Island, as that company is one of the principal patrons of the marine railway.

The property was originally leased from the government, and since then it has been turned over to several firms. Sorenson & Lyle hold the lease now. It was learned yesterday that, barring the unexpected, the Inter-Island would take possession in a very short time. Two years ago the chamber of commerce, in its annual, printed a report which recommended that the railway be removed or reconstructed so as not to interfere with the movement of vessels in the harbor. It was claimed the railway extended too far out into the harbor. Pilots and other seafaring men have frequently recommended that the marine railway be shifted to some other section of the harbor.

STOCK ABOUT SOLD OUT.

J. D. Dale, president of the Hawaiian Pineapple Company, reported yesterday that the greater part of the stock of the subsidiary company for the manufacture and bottling of pineapple juice had been placed, leaving little available for other local buyers. According to the advertisements of the company, today is the last day on which this stock is available at the $18 figure, while there will be little, if any, to be had later at first hand at any figure.

Charlotte Pardee, the twelve-year-old daughter of Major and Mrs. William James Pardee, returned from Europe a few days ago to prepare herself for school in the fall. She has traveled over 100,000 miles, having placed her foot on the soil of nearly every country of the globe this side of the equator. Her father is a retired army officer, and her home is North Adams, Massachusetts.

MORGAN'S POWER IS ALMOST LIMITLESS

Has Now Returned From Europe and Stirring Things May Be Expected.

J. Pierpont Morgan has returned from Europe and it is not unlikely that there will be further developments in the Morgan plan for the consolidation of the banks and trust companies of New York under the Morgan banner.

The vast power already possessed by J. P. Morgan & Co. among New York's financial institutions can be gathered from the subjoined table, which shows that the trust companies the firm dominates have aggregate deposits of $375,408,400, while the four national banks controlled by the same group have $309,519,800 deposits, a grand total of $744,928,200, exclusive of the Morgan connection with the New York Life and Equitable insurance companies, with assets of fully $1,000,000,000.

There is another factor in the New York banking situation which is growing stronger. It is headed by the great international banking firms of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Speyer & Co. A few years ago these two influential houses were not to be found forming joint syndicates, but since J. P. Morgan & Co. began to reach out aggressively for greater and still greater financial power, other leading interests have felt it necessary to readjust their position.

It is the general opinion in high financial circles that ultimately practically all the big banks and trust companies will be compelled to ally themselves with one or the other of these groups and a battle royal for the dominance of American finances will be fought out.

ON THE UPPER LEVELS.

First Aviator—How did you find the roads this morning on your flight from Chicago to New York?
Second Aviator—Not very good. Lots of wind ruts here and there and in some places along the road the fog was a half-mile deep.

Henryk Sienkiewicz, the Polish novelist, is best known in this country for his romance, "Quo Vadis," which was published in 1896. He was born in 1845 and is a leader of the nationalists in Poland today. Sienkiewicz visited the United States in 1877, when he came to California with a party that included Mme. Modjeska in the vain hope of starting an idealistic communal life on the lines of Brook Farm.

Seeing the World Over the Right Shoulder

Robert J. Burdette, in Los Angeles Times.

OBAMA, Japan.—Obama is a village of hotels about five hours from Nagasaki. Its chalybeate waters are the knee-knocks drops for rheumatism. The natural temperature of the springs is 160 deg. Fahrenheit, and still going. In the baths at the hotels it is tempered to a degree just short of floating off your corns, bunions and ingrowing nails, the rest of the nail going with the accretions. Not a great way from the hotels are a number of solfataras and fumaroles that boil and bubble and smoke in rather infantile imitation of Yellowstone Park.

There is one of these springs, with a tropical temperature of 204 deg., that registers itself on the great record of hot springs as Chuto Jigoku, which is to say, "Second-class Hell." What a comfort it must be to some of our "best people" to know that if they should die in Japan, and go where their eminently respectable meanness and littleness ought to condemn them, they may at least go first-class and have red-hot seats at the captain's table, while the hot polloi wallow around in Chuto Jigoku. Or some such name, only shorter.

But that end of a man's life isn't by any means the most important. I have an idea that a man who tries to get to heaven merely because he doesn't want to go to hell may be a good enough sort of neighbor in the next world—although a few years of purgatorial fumigation might improve him; but he isn't much of a comrade nor a very helpful yoke-fellow in this one—the one in which we live and toil, sweat and suffer, fight and triumph. We can get along with any one whom the dear Lord accounts to be worthy of a place in heaven—in fact, if they let me in, I don't see how they are going to keep any one else out. And if I don't get in I'll be a little the most astonished and the worst-disappointed man that ever made the mistake of dying.

But just now we need good men and women, brave, strong, generous, sympathetic, affectionate, helpful, unselfish people with whom to live and work. So that, being well "tried out" in this land of probation, they may be able to endure up in heaven, if we don't live too near to them. Wherefore I think it is a much better thing to see the world over the right shoulder than it is to see the new moon at the fortunate angle of vision. For we do live in the world, and we never will live in the moon.

Of all the people on earth, then, the Japanese should have the best start, according to this theory. For the Japanese baby sees the world from one of the best and most exalted points of view—over his mother's shoulder.

And the rest of the time over his sister's shoulder. Or over his brother's. Anyhow, I have never seen a Japanese baby alone. I have almost always seen him perched upon some one's back. And in some very young instances I have followed him around, as he drove slowly from little place to little place, to see if the baby horse and infant rider wouldn't change places once in a while, following our own old "ride and tie" methods of transportation in the former days in Illinois, when miles were more numerous than horses.

The baby pillow is a very simple contrivance. A square bit of cloth about a foot square—a long band of the stuff extending from each corner; the baby is squatted in the square, with his fat little legs—all Japanese babies are fat—hanging out at the lower corners; the long ends are brought around the mother's waist and over her shoulders tucked in as a sailor ties a knot without knotting it, and there the "littlest" is, safe and happy for all day, save at such intervals when dinner is announced at the fountain of life. And the mother's arms are free for her work. If the little fellow sags a trifle, a bunch of the shoulders brings him up to an easier position. And the mother goes on eating the steamer, handling freight, transplanting rice, helping the bull haul the cart or truck of freight; doing all her own work and half of the man's.

"Votes for women!" Not in Japan, dear antisuffrage sister. The argument that "going to the polls would take a woman away from her work" has some weight in Japan. A thousandfold more than it has in the United States. It would do worse than that. It would take her away from her husband's work. There's no question of that. But it would not take her away from her baby. It would be far easier to enter the laub away from Mary. Wherever the mother goes, there also goes the baby.

But the first thing you know, "ah-wa-ah-wa!" Another rider is clamoring for the saddle. Now the first baby comes to the bat, and he never again gets back to his comfortable seat on the bench. For now he must learn to walk. And just about the time he can toddle safely and comfortably on his little legs the third rider is up, and the second is transferred to the back of little brother, or, oftener, sister. And his back is never again a free back. Baby after baby is boosted upon it. All day long she wears her burden, uncomplaining, happy, cheerful in little woman fashion. She plays the quiet little games the Japanese children play; and the tiny burden takes his cooling part.

Little American boy of 10 or 12 or 14

—you are a good ball tosser; you are pitcher for your school team; you are clever with your hands, and you have a healthy boy's contempt for a girl's "throwing"—you practise this little stunt with your baby brother tied on your back, and let me see how badly you can't do it a little bit when I come home.

The little children are very fond of their baby charges; they always, so far as I have seen, act very lovingly toward them, although there is no such extravagance of caresses among these people as there often is between our own grownups and the babies—a demonstrative outburst of snatches and huggings and kissings, most emphatic from people who really do not like babies and have to put on show of much affection to conceal its real absence—demonstrations which frequently so terrify the child that the mother has to take it out of the room.

Which sometimes is the object of the "devouring alive" process. Any mother knows that.

The little girls prepare for this "little maternity" phase of their lives with all happy seriousness. We meet little girls playing with their dolls. Cuddled in their arms? Certainly not. Strapped to their backs, and one day we laughed when we met a tiny motherette at play. Her big brother had sent or brought her a dolly from the United States. And lo! She had her little brown Teddy bear strapped on her little back as carefully as one day she would fasten her little brother.

When the baby girl begins to walk she is arrayed in long gowns that come down quite low, hiding her feet—gowns in such resplendent colors as American looms, I think, cannot produce in one piece. Reds and blues, and yellows and greens—all the brightest of the bright—cotton or silk or crepe.

And they are the most graceful, dignified, best-mannered little children in the world. One day Mrs. Burdette and her husband were walking along one of the pleasant ways about Miyamoshita. We met a mother with her little girl, a tiny Queen of Sheba in Solomonian splendor of color, a little girl maybe five years old. As they passed a group of playing children one of them ran out and bowed very low and with growing decorum to the child, evidently an acquaintance. And "the littlest" bowed with deep gravity and most graceful dignity. Once, twice, thrice these unsmiling babies bowed very profoundly to each other, and then the little friend went back to her play.

Mrs. Burdette and her husband were charmed with the tableau. And as we met the mother we also bowed low to the tiny maid. And she responded with far more grace and dignity than the padre could imitate, although "my lady" carried herself most graciously through the ceremony. We accomplished the required number of genuflections and retired, carrying away with us one of the sweetest pictures we have of beautiful Japan—the tiny, unsmiling little Empress, receiving us as graciously as though we were really her equals. Our babies can't do that.

Henry Willard Denison occupies a position in Japan not unlike that which Sir Robert Hart held so many years in China when he was Inspector General of the Chinese Customs. Ever since 1880 this American jurist has been legal adviser to the Foreign Office at Tokio and in that capacity he has been behind the scenes of Japanese policy for thirty years. Neither England nor America has ever got any particular advantage out of the fact that they had friends at the courts of Tokio and Peking.

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Paw Paw, Mich.—"I suffered terribly from female ills, including inflammation and congestion, for several years. My doctor said there was no hope for me but an operation. I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I can now say I am a well woman."

EMMA DRAPER.

Another Operation Avoided.
Chicago, Ill.—"I want women to know what that wonderful medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has done for me. Two of the best doctors in Chicago said I would die if I did not have an operation, and I never thought of seeing a well day again. I had a small tumor and female troubles so that I suffered day and night. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it made me a well woman."

Mrs. ALVENA SPERLING, 11 Langdon St., Chicago, Ill.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to many suffering women.

ORIENTAL VESSELS BRING PLAGUE

Two More Suspicious Cases Are Discovered by Board of Health.

For the preservation of the health of the community the steamer from the Orient are to be required to put up rat guards when they dock at Honolulu, and they must also watch their gangways at night.

This is the conclusion that has virtually been reached by President Mott-Smith of the board of health as a result of two additional "suspicious cases" that have been discovered.

Last Wednesday the board learned that a little Chinese girl, living near the iron bridge that spans Nuuanu Stream, had died under circumstances that rendered the case extremely suspicious. Her sister had a day or two before died of what was diagnosed as a combination of measles and pneumonia. When the second sister died, the parents, taking their third child, who was also ill, disappeared from their habitation.

But the board of health had learned of the case, and President Mott-Smith, Doctor Pratt and a number of their assistants set out to find the father and mother and the third child. They were located on Kukui street and sent at once to quarantine, where they are being carefully watched.

Wednesday morning a man at work on the vessel Kuku was suddenly taken ill. Doctor Sinclair became suspicious and had him removed to the hospital for examination. Although no direct evidence of plague was discovered, it is still considered that the case will bear watching.

These two cases, coming on top of the genuine case of bubonic plague discovered last week, have rendered the health officials extremely suspicious, and the health of the community is being carefully watched.

The three cases are widely scattered, and it is evident that they do not emanate from the same source of infection. Mr. Mott-Smith believes, therefore, that they are caused by rats which have escaped either from vessels from the Orient or from inter-island steamers from Hilo, where there has been plague.

It is the belief of Mr. Mott-Smith that the only way properly to safeguard the health of the community is to insist upon the oriental steamers and the steamers from Hilo installing rat guards and watching their gangplanks carefully at night, and he is seriously considering issuing an order to that effect.

Meantime, the town is undergoing a vigorous cleaning up, and no suspicious cases are being intrusted to the city and county officials, who recently let one case slip through their hands.

COURT NOTES.

The fork case has reached the circuit court through a suit for divorce filed yesterday by Mary Rawlins, by her attorneys, Douthitt & Coke, against her husband, Manuel Rawlins. Mrs. Rawlins charges nonsupport and extreme cruelty, alleging that Manuel tried to stick a fork into her. She cites the fact that Manuel was on Wednesday sentenced by Judge Andrade to sixty days for the fork episode. She also charges that he has used vile language to her and that he is in the habit of getting drunk and generally abusing her.

Miriam Kamali has filed suit for divorce from William Kamali on the grounds of nonsupport and desertion. Rosie Enos charges nonsupport as the grounds for her libel for divorce from Frank Enos.

James Iwa wants to get rid of his wife, Kaiwa Iwa, who he claims, deserted him in 1894 and has ever since refused to live with him.

Nonsupport and desertion are the grounds for the suit for divorce filed by Asanomi Suido against Asanomi Kinsaku.

William Klein, a native of Germany, and William Evans, English-born, applied yesterday to Clerk Murphy for their first naturalization papers.

Quickly—By the by, have you got $10 about you that you don't need for a few days? Smack—I have—but I might need it some time.—Chicago Daily News.

EIGHT YEARS OF SUFFERING

CURED BY DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

A Washington Woman Relates an Experience That Will Be of Value to All Pain Burdened Women Everywhere.

If you are approaching the fortieth year in a run-down condition, you will be interested in reading of the benefit that Mrs. John Utter, of Luyallup, Wash., received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after other treatments had failed to help her. She says:

"I suffered for eight years from all the pains and aches that women of my age are subject to. I was able to work only part of the time and often could just drag around. Most people would have given up and gone to bed. I was so nervous that I could not get much sleep and was subject to headaches and dizzy spells. My stomach was out of order all of the time and I was troubled with gas forming on it. I would often have smothering spells when I could not raise myself up.

"I took a great many kinds of medicines but found no relief until I followed a friend's advice and tried Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They helped me right away. I could sleep better, was not so nervous and became stronger. I used the pills for some time and was entirely cured.

"Since then I have always had Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the house. My husband had a severe case of inflammatory rheumatism which settled in his hands and feet. A few boxes of the pills cured him and he has never had a return of the disease.

"Assured of the diseases from which women suffer are directly caused by a lack of blood, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been found unequalled in the treatment of anemia, green sickness, delayed development, after-effects of childbirth and leucorrhea. Our free booklet, 'Plain Talks to Women,' will be sent to any suffering woman upon request.

"If you have failed to get more than temporary relief from your suffering, the treatment is most likely not a blood builder. Do not neglect then to remove the cause of your trouble but give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a good trial.

"Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or will be sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

By Authority

The Board of License Commissioners for the City and County of Honolulu will hold a meeting at the Executive building on Friday, July 29, 1910, at four p. m., to consider the application of Alfred O. Rosa, J. G. Correa and J. G. Pregill for a first-class wholesale license to sell intoxicating liquors at makai-walkiki corner of Queen and Alakea streets, Honolulu, under the provisions of Act 119, Session Laws of 1907.

All protests or objections against the issuance of a license under said application should be filed with the secretary of the board not later than the time set for said hearing.
