THE Daily Bulletin

Pledged to neither Sect nor Party, But established for the benefit of all.

TUESDAY, SEPT. 16, 1890.

It is strange, but true that those who now cry "spoils" at their political neighbors have been, in recent instances, most successful "spoils" hunters.

From the latest voicing of sentiment which reaches us it seems that on the island of Hawaii private opinions on new railways and railway subsidies are about as widely separated in expression as are the Districts of Hilo and Hamakua in fact.

Noble Burchard made a keen rejoinder to those inclined to apologize for Mr. Rowell's method of keeping public accounts, in declaring that if Rowell's books were right, his vouchers were wrong. It is needless to say neither alternative was accepted, or replied to, by the members opposing the adoption of portions of the Finance Committee's Report.

The present political situation in Hawaii is aptly illustrated by a portion of that famous conversation which took place between Mr. Pickwick and Sam Weller, as they journeyed in a stage coach away from the fog and muck of London. "A delightful prospect, Sam," exclaimed the venerable but enthusiastic Mr. Pickwick, extending his arm toward the usual English landscape unfolding before them. The philosophical Samuel, however, showed himself equal to the occasion and his master's foible by refusing to either become enthusiastic or unimpaired of late experiences, when he truthfully, if somewhat bluntly replied, "Beats the chimney-pots, sir."

Noble J. M. Horner and others were quite right in their opposition on last Friday to the insertion in the Appropriation Bill of an item of $248 for reimbursing a private person for building a road, presumably for private use, and without Government authority. It is conceded the principle involved, not the amount asked, was the basis of objection. While in this instance a private individual has been justly debarred from collecting through the Legislature his claim for unauthorized work, the precedent should be carried further. It would be well for the Legislature to so arrange road work that public funds could not, by either mischance or design, be diverted from their legal course and equitable uses, and expended in building or over-repairing the public roads, at certain points, in the interests of private persons or corporations. Complaints and allegations have heretofore been made that such abusive practice has been at times indulged in to the detriment, if not exclusion, of the benefits accruing to other portions of the same roads, and hence to the general public. Our political parties and even Legislators have been espousing, of late years, the theory of reform without sufficiently following the principle and practice thereof. Neither parties nor party leaders can afford to follow the course further. A little present, practical reform in such small matters, as has been repeatedly asked for by the taxpayers generally and by the labor organizations in particular, would quickly raise public confidence. In fact not many steps need be taken in this direction until a world of good would be accomplished in harmonizing and re-tempering public opinion and conciliating present disputing political factions.

REPORT OF THE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

The Report of the Finance Committee came up for consideration in the House yesterday. Thus far we have not commented on the Report for various reasons. The Report is a unique document in Hawaiian politics, inasmuch as it bases itself on an array of facts and details, which are either printed in full or so referred to as to be easily consulted. It is not strange that such a document should prove an eyesore and obstacle to those who have builded the financial facts therein set forth, which have received a greater or less degree of censure.

From the tenor of the debate in the House yesterday and to-day it does not appear that the facts of the Report have been seriously controverted. Those who have objected to the Report at all seem to have rested their opposition upon the interpretation of certain facts and official acts, which they desire to be placed upon record as viewed from their standpoint, rather than from that taken by the Finance Committee. It is, in other words, the conclusions, naturally and logically following the array of facts set forth, which certain members of the House have shown a disposition to avoid, rather than the facts themselves.

The bulk of the discussion on this important document was held in Committee of the Whole, where the Finance Committee substantiated their position on every point raised until the Report was adopted this morning by the House. Upon this adoption we are of the opinion the House acted too hastily, as a large portion of the Report has now passed without sufficient inquiry into the merits thereof, as originally determined upon in the plan of considering it section by section. The result may have been inevitable, but as the Finance Committee had courted the closest examination into their work it would have been more judicious to have "searched to the end" so that all possible objections would have been laid to rest before the inevitable came. We shall refer to this Report further.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.

The Legislature yesterday, without a word of debate, adopted the following important recommendation of the Finance Committee, regarding the Bureau of Public Instruction:

"We beg to direct the attention of the Legislature to the serious fact and business defect that in this Department large sums of money are collected and disbursed without passing through the Treasury, as all moneys do in all other branches and departments of the Government. We see absolutely no reason for this exception, although it has had the silent assent of previous administrations for half a century, and we therefore condemn the system and recommend that the Legislature take steps to proscribe this pernicious practice. This department, as well as all others, should be compelled to pay its collections into the public Treasury and make its disbursements by draft against its legal appropriation only. The amount of money now expended by the Board of Education, as appears in the report of the Minister of Finance, which, with a small exception, fails to pass through the Government Treasury, aggregates $201,567.27."

A similar recommendation was made in the biennial Report of the late Minister of Finance. An article in this paper lately showed that there was an element of convenience in the existing system, even if the theory of it is anomalous. To obviate the inconvenience ensuing to the operations of School Agents, by simply leaving the important change to work out itself on the bare legislative decree, there ought to be a bill enacted to define and facilitate those operations. This would have to be done now under suspension of the rules, but that is one of the easiest things in our legislative practice.

THE LEGISLATURE.

SEVENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

MONDAY, Sept. 15.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The House resumed at 1:35.
The President announced the question to be on the motion to adopt the Finance Committee's Report, and the amendment to lay it on the table.

Noble Baldwin believed that the matter should not have come up till to-morrow. However, he had a few words to say. The committee ought to have examined the books of the Superintendent of Public Works.
With regard to the pipe contract, the committee should have got the explanation.

Noble Muller said he had the explanation in his hand.
Noble Macfarlane said Noble Muller would speak on the pipe contract, and Noble McCarthy on the electric lights.

Noble Baldwin was willing to hear all that was to be said, but he noticed a disposition to move the previous question.

Noble Macfarlane said that on their part they would do all they could against any such action. He was in favor of going into committee of the whole so as to have full discussion.

Noble Baldwin resigned the floor in favor of the promised statements.

Noble Muller referred to the reason given for accepting other than the lowest tender for water pipe, saying that it was false and applied equally against the pipes procured.

Noble Burchard was not surprised at the strong language used by the committee. The Superintendent of Public Works complained that the committee did not examine his books: those books differed from the accounts in the Interior Department, which agreed with the vouchers, and if the Superintendent's books were right, the Interior books and the vouchers must be wrong. If the Superintendent of Public Works came forward and said his vouchers were wrong, he was welcome to that explanation. The appropriation for building the Kohala court-house was exceeded by paying for internal fittings out of the appropriation for furniture, although they had made up their appropriation bill in a way that showed such a method was not intended. He would be glad to have the road boards continued, but thought it would be a very difficult thing to do, in face of the way in which the accounts were kept.

Noble McCarthy, as a member of the committee, wanted to see the report adopted.

Rep. Nawahi raised the point of order that the members of committee were rehearsing what was in their report.

Noble McCarthy, proceeding, referred to the waste of money on the electric light water wheel, which was caused by the bureau of public works having failed to lay a foundation for the Lefel wheel adequate to the strain. The matter of removing the hospital buildings, where the Government rejected a bid of $3900 from the Enterprise Mill, and did the work itself at a cost of $8000, was next treated. The speaker then instantiated the case of a firm being allowed to raise its contract price, after its tender was accepted, because it had overlooked one of the specifications. This he characterized as wrong unless new tenders were announced.

Noble Baldwin had not had time to fully consider the report. From his experience with piping on plantations, he could testify to the greater value of steel over iron pipes. It was so much superior as to be profitable at the higher price. The explanation he had heard about the purchase of a fire lot was that part of the expenditure belonged to a previous period. There was only $2000 spent according to the report of the Minister of Finance.

Noble Macfarlane denied the correctness of the explanation. Mr.
S. C. Allen gave the lot on Beretania street, valued at $3300, and $3000 in cash to the Government for the Pierce lot on Queen street. What the committee claimed was that the Government should have turned in $6300 as "Government realizations."

Noble Baldwin was not authorized to present any explanation or defense, but it was only fair that current explanations should be presented. The Superintendent of Public Works might have erred in judgment in removing the hospital buildings, but it was said that while the tenders were asked for nine buildings the Government removed more than twice the number of buildings. Mr.
Thurston was not allowed access to the books but he understood that he (Mr. T.) was preparing an answer.
If the committee was consistent they would not refuse to vote for the matter being deferred till next Monday. There were majority and minority reports on the question of road boards, and of itself this was too important to be hastily despatched.

Noble Macfarlane was replying to Noble Baldwin.

Rep. Brown called him to order.
He had spoken twice.

Noble Macfarlane said he would speak on a question of privilege.

Rep. Brown again called him to order. There was nothing personal to be settled under privilege.

Rep. Paehale objected to the time consumed by members of the committee. Other members of the House had some rights. He moved the House go into committee of the whole on the subject.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE.

The House resolved itself into committee of the whole, Noble Marsden in the chair, for consideration of the Report of the Committee of Finance.

Noble Macfarlane raised a question of privilege, to reply to Noble Baldwin's statement that Mr. Thurston had been refused access to the books. The finance committee agreed with the Minister of the Interior that Mr. Thurston should have access to the books, only asking that a member of the finance committee should accompany him in his researches. Mr. Thurston had two days in which to prosecute his investigations, but instead of doing so he went yachting.

The sections of the report on the Judiciary Department, the Bureau of Public Instruction, and the Foreign Office were, on motion in each case, adopted.

Rep. Brown, on the section regarding the Interior Department, gave his reasons for having said that the report was largely the opinions of members of the committee.
He thought the committee had misunderstood the fire lot transaction.
The Minister had explained it in his report. In the matter of courthouses he considered that the Government acted within the law. He had been instrumental in getting the appropriation for the Koolaula court house, and knew that there was enough over the contract price to pay for the furnishings. With regard to Kohala and other places, he believed that members moving for the items did so without having procured estimates, so that the amounts were only sufficient to pay for the buildings without the furniture.
The committee seemed to show spite against the late Minister of the Interior, by the smallness of many of the matters brought against him.
Respecting the $13,000 borrowed for the Volcano road, he considered that the Minister did wrong, as the transaction was in the nature of a pledging of the country's credit without authority of law. He had opposed the road board bill last session, believing it would be a failure, but if all the boards did as well as some on Oahu the system would have proved far otherwise. The committee were too severe on the Postmaster-General for selling stamps. The stamps were useless, out of date, stuck together, and, moreover, were cancelled before selling. He could vote for the adoption of the finding about the Volcano road, but not for the rest of the report on the Interior Department.

Noble Widemann said the Minister was granted $2000 to buy the fire lot, and he paid $2647 for it.
Did he pledge the Government credit for that $647? If so, he came under the censure of Judge Dole's decision on the Bowler claim. And if he exchanged a piece of public property for another lot, turning $2000 into the treasury as "realization," without authority of law, it was a shady transaction.

Noble McCarthy replied to the charge of spitefulness. As to the postage stamps, the 200,000 ordered from the American Bank Note Co., to be sold for $2000, were not old or moth-eaten. They only went into the Post Office to count the cash, but on counting that of the savings bank they were suddenly stopped with a "Hold on!" and $665 in gold was added. Nobody said where it came from, but afterward the Postmaster-General took them upstairs and gave an explanation.
Everything that had been stated by the committee could have been tested before this time by any member of the House who doubted any statement.

Nep. Nawahi wanted the discussion and decisions to proceed subject by subject. The first to be settled should be the fire lot.

Noble J. M. Horner would leave the law point alone, and take up the business phase of the land-building on the market site. The appropriation for dredging the harbor was all exhausted, but material had to be got for filling up the market site.
The Minister found that it would be as cheap to dig the material out of the harbor, thus killing two birds with one stone. The Auditor-General, however, would not audit the bill, because the Minister should have dug rock out of the base of Punchbowl, instead of the cheaper plan adopted of improving the harbor while getting material for the other work! Noble Macfarlane showed he was not a practical road builder by his remark about $600 or $700 spent on the Punchbowl road just after the contractor had turned it over. From the speaker's own experience on the road board he showed how it was impossible to render vouchers in strict fashion.
The system, he was glad to know, had been improved.

Noble Muller said that the abuses of authority in connection with the road boards described in the report were not the only instances. If they had utilized all such coming before them the size of the report would have been greatly increased. There was the charging of $1 a day for Chinese labor from the plantations.
Noble Horner explained that $1 was the regular day's pay of natives on his plantation.

Noble Muller said there was $90 for 90 days' work of Japanese from Kukalau plantation.

Noble Horner said it must be remembered that these laborers had to be housed and fed.

Noble Widemann denounced the mismanagement connected with the tenders for the market. What could they think of a Minister who advertised for gray hats, and when the bids were all in, to accept the tender of Messrs. Davies & Co. for a white hat?

The committee rose, Noble Marsden presented its report, which was accepted, and the House adjourned at 3:45.
