HOW TO MAKE A BIRD.

Take a stick of wood one inch square and eighteen inches long, and point one end. Slit the other end three or four inches, and insert a piece of stiff cardboard six inches wide and a foot long. This will represent the body and tail of the bird.

Fasten on both sides, near the pointed end, a tapering stick two feet long, with the outer ends slightly elevated, and fasten to these and the body a piece of cardboard ten inches wide and two feet long. Have the tail vertical instead of horizontal, as in the bird. Round off the outer rear corners of the wing for three or four inches.

The imitation of the natural bird is now complete. There is no need of exactness, as the air you are to try it in will be an unknown quantity, and it may just suit the shape you make. An indispensable part is now to be added which is to preserve equilibrium, and is not used by the natural bird. A tapering stick, say one and one-half inches wide, three-eighths of an inch thick at the top, three-eighths of an inch square at the other end and eighteen inches long, is used. This piece is to be securely fastened by a small bolt through the upper end to the body-piece, about five inches from the front end. It must be capable of adjustment by allowing the lower end to swing front and back through—say forty degrees. To the lower end is fastened a muslin bag which will hold two pounds of shot.

Expose the effigy to a breeze of from three to twenty miles an hour, from as high a situation as it is possible for you obtain, by holding it by the pendant stick near the body. Adjust the weighted stick forward or back, and add or subtract shot until the effigy has a tendency to spring from your hand against the current of air, when it may be released at a moment of greatest steadiness of breeze.

We have made hundreds of these toys with all kinds of success, but have never yet succeeded in getting one to travel beyond the limits of vision. They have proceeded directly against the breeze for five hundred yards, and obliquely, up or down, or to right or left, within these limits, when they would lose their balance and come down. Sometimes any kind of one that was presented to the air would float creditably, while at other none would succeed.

The pendant weight for maintaining equilibrium, though the best ever devised is far too sluggish for perfect work. The momentum of this weight prevents the best results, for it a succession of puffs upon the same wing should occur quickly together, the weight would swing far enough in obedience to the impulse given to capsize the effigy. Such a succession of puffs is sure to occur sooner or later at each trial.

The coldest place on the earth is Verkhoyansk, Siberia, located at 67½ north latitude on the river Yena. Its lowest mean temperature in winter is 48.6 deg. below zero, centigrade. This is the cold pole of the earth in Asia, the corresponding spot in America being to the northward of the Parry Islands. The line joining these two places does not pass through the North Pole itself, which is thus, in all probability, outside the line of greatest cold.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

STREET ARAB.
The congregating of crowds of young children in the streets at night time cannot help the growth of morality in the rising generation. Almost every night, in certain parts of the city, droves of noisy boys and girls play about the streets to an unreasonable hour. If parents and guardians do not feel it their duty to watch more closely the movements of their youngsters, the police might do well to interpose their authority.

MEXICO BILL.

In accordance to promise favored us with an interview yesterday. He showed us many interesting extracts from newspapers, in which he is described as an enigma. That he certainly is. He is also master of about 25 different languages, including Latin and Greek. He is a graduate of Oxford, England, and was for 4 years a rector of an Episcopal Church in the United States. Were we to go on enumerating his accomplishments we fear it would weary. He has already proved his contempt of conventionalities in this town. His voice is like a silver clarion.

Now for what we think. He tells us to conjecture what we like about him. But that is difficult, as he comes on you like a whirlwind or a desert blizzard. Who he is we know no further than that he says he was born at the Cape of Good Hope, South Africa, and is 49 years of age. He is intelligent, refined, a brilliant conversationalist, an original thinker and very egotistical. In time we may find out more about him, but he says after six months' acquaintance we shall know less of him than we do now. Peutetre?

He is not afraid to do anything however, humiliating for an employment. He is a beautiful peepman, and can do anything from blushing boots to lecturing.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Consuelo will probably leave for San Francisco at the end of the week.

We make a correction in our yesterday's shipping notes. The Ed ward May was stated by the S. F. papers to have arrived at Hongkong on Aug. 27th. As she only sailed from here Aug. 19th it must be Sept. 27th that is meant.

The U.S.S. Alaska will go to Hilo and windward ports to-morrow, and will return in time for the King's birthday.

HAWAIIAN SUGAR.

Washington, October 11th.—The question of assessing duty upon sugar imported from the Hawaiian Islands is again before the Treasury Department, on a report from the Collector of Customs at New York. In the case in point, which is regarded as a test case, the Collector had assessed duty on a cargo of sugar from the Hawaiian Islands. Protests were filed against this assessment on the ground that the sugar was exempt from duty under the provisions of the reciprocity treaty with the Hawaiian Islands. It was contended on the other hand, however, that the sugar in question did not come within the terms of the treaty, as it was of a different class from that made in the Islands at the time the treaty was ratified. In his report on the subject the Collector of Customs states that the case involves questions of fact which he cannot undertake to decide. It is probable that the case will be referred to the Collector at San Francisco, in order to determine whether the sugar in question is of a class to be included within the terms of the treaty.—S.F. Bulletin.

[We were told yesterday that the Collector of Customs at San Francisco, had examined the samples submitted to him and pronounced them to be Sandwich Island sugars. He, however, recommends that the Secretary of the Treasury issue regulations admitting only, No. 13 and under Dutch, Standard, duty free.—Ed.]

LOCAL AND GENERAL ITEMS.

The latest advices from the Coast state that the Manila basis has gone up to $6.81 per 100. This is good news for sugar growers.

The roads in the Ewa and Wainae districts are better, than any others in the islands, except those of Kauai.

THERE will be no postponement in the great raffle for the celebrated horse "Livermore Pet" and outfit. It takes place positively this evening. See notice.

Who is building that dam across Kalihii stream near Mrs. Beckley's, and thus endeavoring to deprive the people who own land below, of their water right?

The Likelike sailed at 4 p.m. yesterday. Several visitors did not heed the third whistle and were carried out into the stream. They were brought on shore in a boat.

A FRIEND prophesied yesterday that the Zealandia had arrived off the foghorn buoy S.F. at 12:30 p.m. Sunday, and was alongside the wharf at 6:45 a.m. Monday.

It has been extensively rumored that one of our city clerks had skipped without a passport. We heard yesterday he had gone up to the other islands on a visit.

We notice the gate post of the Government House on Queen street is disfigured by somebody having posted up a badly drawn caricature of the effects of the liquor bill. It ought to be taken down.

We want to know why the docks are not lighted up at night—especially since the finding of the Coroner's Jury. Passengers from the steamer on Sunday night had to pick their way with sticks.

On Sunday night about 7 o'clock a cry of police was heard on the steamer wharf. None came. Why couldn't one be detailed to be there all the time the steamer is at the wharf?

Mr. A. F. Cooke put up a splendid and suitable sign yesterday. On the top of his office is a weather vane surmounted by a beautiful model of a gilt schooner, with the initials "A. F. C. & Co." on the sails in red. It forms a marked feature in the wharf view.

The fans in Ehler's windows are too gorgeous for anything. They are meant to ruin hapless fathers and husbands. When a lady gets one of them she will want to live up it, and everything will have to be re-furnished to be in style.

The building of the Honolulu Athletic Association is progressing. The roof will be put on this week, all that is needed is money. Subscribers can find the Hon. Treasurer pro tem. Mr. Bolte at Hackfeld & Co.'s.

On Thursday evening, November 2d, the remains of the late Right Reverend Bishop Louis Maigret will be transferred from the cemetery to the Catholic Cathedral, on Friday, after a solemn mass at 9 a.m., the body will be deposited into its final resting place in the church.

Just look at the difference between those parts of the streets which have been scraped and those that haven't, and then say whether we shouldn't get a regular road-scraper and use it every spell of wet weather.

We regret to report a cowardly outrage on the property of some young men of this town. They own one of the fastest four-oared boats here, "The Red, White and Blue." They keep it suspended and out of the water. Some little time ago, when one of them got into it and began to lower it, the boat was suddenly dashed on to the rocks, and the after thwart broke. On examination it was seen that the falls had been cut. Thinking it might be in some one's road they removed it. On Monday morning they found a hole stove in it, which had been done during the night. We trust the dastardly individuals will be caught and punished as they deserve.

Those interested in buildings should go out and see the large stones now lying on the ground at the Lunalilo Home, Makiki. They weigh about 3,000 pounds, and are to be hoisted to the top of the building this week. Mr. Thomas, the contractor, apparently, is going to make the building unique in this Kingdom.

A gentleman in this city has informed us that he has received a letter from New York, which states that the Captain of the Amy Turner reports that on the second day after leaving this port, a stowaway was discovered. His name is John Kaula, and his age is about 11 years. Perhaps this notice will dispel the fears of some anxious parent.

Last Sunday morning the fire under the furnace of Mr. Hopper's Mill on Fort street was found to be lighted. The boiler was charged and the steam up to 30 lbs. Mr. Hopper was telephoned for, and when he arrived the fire was put out. Doors ought to be put to the furnace building to prevent a repetition of this mischievous trick which might have caused serious damage to life and property.

Volatile Friend—"Hullo! What's the matter, old man? Tut-t-t! Has he it out! If it was mine, I'd have—" Sufferer—"If it was yours! Yes, so would I!" (Exit, groaning).—[London Punch.]

The Daily Bulletin.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 1, 1882.

"SEE OURSELVES AS OTHERS SEE US"

The London correspondent of the Belfast (Ireland) News Letter, of Sept. 4, says:—His dusky Majesty, Kalakaua, monarch of all the Sandwich Islands, defender of the faith, &c., &c., has decided to show his loving subjects that he was not unmindful of their welfare during his recent visit to Europe, and determined that Honolulu, the Sandwichian metropolis, shall be illuminated with electricity. This is not, however, the only advantage which Honoluluans are to enjoy—they are to have tramways. The city which but a few years ago was entirely without any modern facilities whatever, is to jump at one bound to the top of the tree of civilization, and the scantily clothed Sandwichians will now be able to ride in the luxurious tramcar, under the somewhat ghostly rays of the carboniferous candle. His Majesty has shown more discrimination than another visitor of ours, the Shah of Persia. The sole improvement which that somewhat festive & capricious Prince introduced into his country on his return from Europe was the pillar-box. This brilliant occupant of the street corner is undoubtedly of immense service, when some arrangement is made for the occasional clearance of its accumulated contents. But this little duty the Persian monarch, unfortunately, overlooked, and when the boxes got so full that they were unable to contain any more letters, His Majesty decided that they were an ignominious failure, and ordered their immediate removal as useless obstructions of the thoroughfare.
