LIQUOR IN HONOLULU

The Los Angeles Idea Might Benefit Islands.

Governor Carter had a long conversation yesterday on the liquor question in general with T. E. Gibbon, general counsel of the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railway, who is visiting here from Los Angeles.

Mr. Gibbon some years ago was on a liquor commission in Los Angeles, at a time when the population of that thriving city was not nearly so large as at present. The saloon licenses had run over the two hundred mark, some had been recalled until the number stood at 200.

It struck Mr. Gibbons then that it might be a good idea to make 200 licenses the maximum and he voiced the idea. The liquor men took the matter up and agreed to this, although it was not then made a law.

The plan worked and in time as the population of the city increased, the liquor men began to look upon their licenses as assets in about the same manner as a stock broker does his seat upon the stock exchange. A license became a valuable asset and needed to be guarded. Los Angeles with its 200 saloons, restricted in time by law to that number, has boomed. San Francisco in the same period, with ever-increasing numbers of saloons, has decreased. The Los Angeles people look upon this matter with some satisfaction.

That licenses are jealously guarded is evidenced by the fact that every effort is made to retain the license and pass it on practically from father to son. Licenses are often revoked or withdrawn for cause and put up to the highest bidder. This is a law.

People are ready at all times to give evidence against a holder of a license if he is not living up to the requirements of his license, and if the city fathers find the charges are correct, the holder loses his license. This has resulted in the law being carefully observed.

As to Pasadena, Redlands and Long Beach, Mr. Gibbons told the Governor that these were thriving places, especially Long Beach, and that in none of them was liquor sold. There is not a saloon license in any of these places.

Despite this lack of saloons Long Beach is becoming a prosperous place and property values are on the jump. Town lots that were low in price a few years ago have now jumped to very large figures. And still, according to Mr. Gibbons, the people there do not so far find any necessity for having saloons to help make the city prosperous.

The Governor appears to have been impressed with the Los Angeles way of handling the liquor question, possibly with the idea that in some respects it might prove of value in Honolulu.

The Ewa end of the harbor and around the boathouses, where the Japanese sampans are kept, was gay yesterday with the flags, bunting and decorations of the fishing craft, ready to sail out and greet the Japanese training ship Anegawa-go. All day yesterday the sons of Nippon looked for the visiting vessel, which is almost certain to arrive this morning, and the welcome promises to be even heartier than if there had been no delay.

AMBULANCE HELD BACK ON AN EMERGENCY CALL

Even in cases of emergency, it would appear, the public have little to look for from the police department. Yesterday, when it was urgently necessary that H. Jauen be taken to the hospital without the least delay, after the accident which befell him at E. O. Hall & Son's, and a call was made for the ambulance, the clerk at the police station showed more of a desire to stand on his dignity and demand that the request for the ambulance be humbly made than he did to hurry out the wagon.

The request that the ambulance be sent was telephoned to the police station by E. H. Paris of the firm of E. O. Hall & Son, and under the circumstances Mr. Paris was not in a frame of mind to make any lengthy explanations, such as were demanded. Mr. Paris says:

"I had just returned from the Pacific Hardware Company and was informed that Mr. Jauen had met with a serious accident. Immediately investigating the matter, I found that an emery wheel in our bicycle repairing department had broken and several of the pieces had struck him in the face. Dr. Wayson had already been telephoned for and arrived immediately. We took Mr. Jauen to Dr. Hodgins' office. Upon examination it

SHERIDAN STILL FAST

Reef Still Holds Her in Spite of the Pulling.

No progress was made in the pulling of the stranded transport Sheridan off the reef yesterday, although a continued effort was made by the U. S. R. C. Manning and the steamer Iwalani to haul her into deep water. The Iwalani returned last night from the Sheridan, bringing in the water barge. The Manning is standing by.

Judging from the effect of the pulling yesterday the Sheridan is stuck much faster than the reports of a few days ago led the authorities to believe, when fears were expressed that she would get off the knob of coral before they were ready. Yesterday when the force of the two tows was felt upon the hawsers the transport behaved very much as she did when the first attempts to pull her off were made, twisting and turning upon the rock pivot but refusing to budge an inch in the desired direction.

Another attempt will be made today to pull her off, and unless there is a better showing made it is probable that the arrival of the transport Buford will be awaited before further efforts are put forth.

was discovered that his skull had been fractured, and that the accident was a very serious one. Dr. Wayson immediately phoned for Dr. Judd and we decided to telephone for the police ambulance, it being suggested that quicker attendance might be had on short notice. Upon telephoning to the police station, I was asked innumerable questions as to the nature of the accident and just what was wanted, and in reply stated rather abruptly that it was an emergency case, and that this was no time for politics. I received a reply that we would receive attendance if a proper request were made; I then, without reserve, stated that it was no time for quibbling, and that we should immediately expect the attendance of the police patrol. The receiver was forcibly put up. A minute later, I rang up to ascertain if the ambulance had left, and a reply was received in the affirmative, shortly after the ambulance arrived."

The incident recalls the fact that a young man lay for twenty minutes on the sidewalk the other day with an epileptic fit, before the ambulance, which had been promptly called and only needed to go three blocks, arrived. And yet, since politics started up, an extra driver has been put on the wagon.

AMERICAN MILLIONS INVESTED IN CUBA

Those who have not visited Cuba since the war have no conception of the agricultural and industrial revolution which now is fairly under way. At a conservative estimate more than $120,000,000 of American and Canadian capital is already invested in the island, and this amount will be doubled in the next two years.

Shrewd capitalists are buying land in tracts of from 10,000 to 150,000 acres, vast cane fields and orange groves are being planted, great plains or savannahs are being devoted to the raising of cattle imported from Texas ranges, copper and iron mines are being developed, a network of railroads is spreading out over former wildernesses, modern hotels are taking the place of wretched inns, American banks and business establishments excite the wonder and envy of the natives—a new Cuba is building.—Collier's.

FIRST VISIT HERE IN FORTY-NINE YEARS

For the first time in forty-nine years, Mr. Smith, an elderly white resident of Maui, is visiting Honolulu. One of his sons is with E. O. Hall & Son. During most of his long residence on Maui Mr. Smith has been in few places outside of Wailuku and Waihee. He has been enjoying the up-to-date sights of Honolulu since his arrival and spends much time on the street corners watching the passing show.

The American-Hawaiian S. S. Nevada sailed last night for Hilo and Kahului, being due to return to Honolulu on Sunday. On Monday she will again sail direct for San Francisco.

Stein-Bloch Evening Clothes

If you go out nights to parties, the theaters, the club, the lodge, and the other attractions of the social season, Evening Clothes are a demand you can not side-step. Either full dress or a dinner suit is a stern necessity nowadays.

Evening Clothes require the most telling workmanship. They are unrelieved by pattern and depend solely on cut and tailoring for their effect. If you insist upon patronizing a custom tailor, pocket a sum between $100 and $200 and hunt out the best within a hundred miles. A cheap custom-tailor in such a case is worse than none at all.

In the meantime we can fit you with Stein-Bloch Evening Clothes, made by tailors whose knowledge of their craft is scarcely equaled in America. They are ready-made in the sense that you see the suit on your shoulders all made up, but in point of cut, knack of handling and carefulness of make, they are unapproached by any save the most forcible efforts of the exclusive designers of New York. Each is separately tailored with more than custom care, and possesses character and strong individuality.

These suits are silk lined, and are made up from the finest English unfinished worsteds and West of England twills, very soft and pliable, and specially woven for Stein-Bloch's use. The coats are interchangeable, trousers and waistcoat going with both full dress and dinner coat.

These clothes will fit you, for the tailors who made them know the Alpha and Omega of their trade.

Will you try on one of these Evening Suits? You need not buy.

VENIRE WAS IGNORED

Kalakiela Raked Over Coals by Judge De Bolt.

Because of too intense interest in the political game, "Jack" Kalakiela, Deputy Sheriff under Sheriff Brown, failed to serve a special venire for talesman issued from Judge De Bolt's court on Monday afternoon at 3:50, and the court lost half a day yesterday. When he finally reported, Judge De Bolt scored the Deputy, charging him with gross neglect of duty, and had he had the power to commit for contempt the Judge would have done so.

Just after the court convened at 2 o'clock Judge De Bolt said:

"I regret to observe that the Deputy Sheriff has been neglectful of his duty. Not only did he fail absolutely to serve the venire yesterday, which was received at the police station at 3:50 p. m. but he allowed it to remain there overnight until this morning and absolutely not a juror served.

"The court learns that the venire was placed in his hands this morning for service, but he stood on a street corner for an hour afterwards, presumably talking politics. If that is true that explains why we have only a few jurors present out of the twenty-six needed.

"The Deputy Sheriff has been grossly and willfully negligent in this matter. I don't know whether, under the circumstances, I can commit him for contempt of court. My impression yesterday was that the court had no power but that may be unfounded.

"It seems to me the Deputy Sheriff should be characterized as having been grossly negligent of his duty. It comes through a weakness in the County Act. The law was amended almost out of existence. This is a duty which should devolve upon the Sheriff who should have the power to appoint his deputies, for they would be entirely responsible to him then. Now they say, 'The people elected us and we look to the people.' I think the Deputy Sheriff should be an appointee of the Sheriff and should look to the latter for his powers."

Deputy Attorney General Prosser prosecuting in the case of the Territory vs. Wainee, charged with murder, and in which case the Deputy Sheriff failed to serve the venire, arose at this stage of the proceedings and said:

"In view of the facts that we already know it seems to me the Deputy Sheriff should be placed on the stand and made to state under oath why he failed to serve the venire."

Judge De Bolt replied that if he had the power to commit for contempt he would do so, but he was not sure even that he could require the officer to make a statement under oath under the circumstances.

"Of course he will have to look to the voters for approval of his acts," was the court's final comment.

At the morning session Sheriff Brown was called before the Judge to make a statement regarding the failure of his deputy to serve the venire. No jurors had responded to the venire and Judge De Bolt wanted to know the reason why. "There was some argument between Mr. Prosser for the prosecution and Mr. Kingsbury for the defense as to what procedure should be followed, and this was finally stopped by the court ordering the venire recalled and a new one issued."

Judge De Bolt made the statement that nothing had been done about the venire except politics. Court Officer Hubbell stated that the venire had been delivered at the police station to Clerk Kaleiopi before 4 p. m. Monday.

The court stated that as far as he understood the matter the venire had never left the office.

On the arrival of Sheriff Brown at the courtroom he was requested to make a statement. He replied that he had known nothing of the matter until half an hour previous. He left the station at 6 p. m. Monday and had heard nothing of it then. It was a matter left entirely in the hands of the Deputy Sheriff. He said that Kalakiela was too busy Monday night doing politics to serve venires. If the clerk couldn't find Kalakiela he should have turned it over to him (Brown).

Following the Kalakiela roast the court got down to business and the polling of a jury continued. The panel was exhausted and a new venire issued. Wainee is charged with having murdered a woman at Kalihi detention camp a few months ago by beating her.

DENIES LEPROSY IS CONTAGIOUS

WASHINGTON, September 13.—After displaying rare heroism by the devotion of a lifetime to the study of leprosy, Eugene H. Plumacher, American Consul at Maracaibo, Venezuela, has decided that the dread malady is not contagious, but is hereditary to a degree not reached in any other disease. He has made an exhaustive report to the State Department, telling of his personal attendance upon lepers afflicted in the most revolting form. His report indicates that leprosy is curable, but that there is little hope in Venezuela or other Latin American countries, where nutritious food is expensive and drugs are rarely provided.

Dr. Plumacher was appointed to Maracaibo in 1884, where in jointure with his duties as Consul he has constantly observed leper cases and their treatment, and where he has experimented in no small way. He was allowed to visit secretly many lepers in Maracaibo concealed by their families to avoid their being sent in perpetual banishment to the island. Using a secret medicine which he obtained through Dr. S. C. Bothwell, now marshal of the Supreme Court of Porto Rico, he experimented with it on these private cases. Ten lepers were given into his special charge. His reports point out that the treatment produced much good results, but that the lack of proper food made absolute cure impossible.

Dr. Plumacher concludes his report by saying: "What leprosy is we do not yet know, but our people at home should be enlightened through the press that it is cruel to shun and abandon a poor, suffering human creature because he is a 'Lazarus.' Smallpox is much more contagious. I will cheerfully attend to any class of leprosy, but smallpox makes me shudder. I would, if allowed, make the selection of storming a battery rather than go to examine a smallpox patient."

HERE'S A GANS MAN

Ringsider Writes to a Friend in This City.

That all who saw the Gans-Nelson battle are not of the opinion that the negro won in a walk, is demonstrated by the following extracts from a letter written by a ringsider to a friend in Honolulu:

Goldfield, Nev., Sept. 8, '06.

You will doubtless have read all the details of the Gans-Nelson fight by this time. It is Gans everything and Nelson nothing. There is not the least doubt that Gans can land on Nelson anywhere he wants, in fact Nelson never tries to get out of the way. To say, however, that the fight was all Gans', is not.

I had a splendid view of the whole fight and there were times when Gans was as white as any man in the whole crowd, and if ever you see the moving pictures you will notice that Gans' right, blocking Nelson's body blows, always tried to force the blows down so that they would land low and the negro have grounds for a claim of foul. This is, I think, what happened in the forty-second round.

Nelson didn't fight a clean fight. Neither did Gans, though the papers don't say so. Nelson butted, so did Gans. Nelson struck after the gong sounded to stop but Gans did the same thing rounds before and there was nothing said about it.

The papers will tell you how Nelson bled about the face and ears but they don't tell you that every time Gans went to his corner he vomited blood which his seconds tried to hide by copious use of water.

Then reports went out that Nelson was expected to die from his injuries. I saw both men when they came from their dressing-rooms. Gans could hardly walk, with two men supporting him. Nelson came out with a frightful face but looking as if he could go through another forty rounds. I saw them again the day after the fight and if anyone looked like a subject for the undertaker, it was my colored friend and not the man from Copenhagen.

Had Gans fought as much as Nelson the fight would have been finished inside of twenty-five rounds. The last half of the fight may be summed up like this:

At the start of the round Gans would lead off with a straight left, then they would clinch, Nelson doing all the fighting while Gans with his head on Nelson's shoulder, would rest all the round 'till the last thirty seconds when he would break loose nice and fresh and put in a few smart lefts and rights, getting all the credit while Nelson got none.

They say that Gans was the freshest at the end of the fight. This is very doubtful, but he had all the chance in the world to be so, for I believe he rested two out of every three minutes after the twentieth round. When Nelson tried to rest a little, the crowd would yell "fight," but when Joe Gans stalled it was all right.

The biggest mistake Nelson made was fighting too much. There were times when he could have sent Gans to kingdom come if he had only had a little more strength and not over-exerted himself at the start of the round.

Another thing—I don't think Nelson had a good trainer or good men at his back. This report about Gans breaking his hand has as much of truth as most of the other stuff that was foisted upon the public by the Gans' people. If ever you see the pictures you will notice that Gans used his right hand very often after the round in which he claims to have broken it. A man with a broken hand has as much use for it in a prize-fight as has a man for a broken leg in a foot race.

Comparing the Britt-Nelson fight with the Gans-Nelson scrap, I prefer the former for the simple reason that both men fought all the time while in the latter one man did all the fighting and the other man all the resting. There was only once that the men had a right, good mix-up and I tell you it was something to make your blood thrill. Mr. Negro didn't know at the finish whether he had fallen down a mine-shaft or if he had been hit with a pile of bricks and he certainly took all the care in the world not to try another of the same kind.

LIFE IN GOLDFELD.

There is big money in this country but no work. The going wages are fifty cents an hour or $4.00 for an eight-hour day. If a man had a steady job he could do well but as it is, it is almost impossible to make your grub. A man is pretty lucky if he gets a day and a half's work a week.

There are so many who come here broke, with the idea that they can make a pile and who are unable to get away again that the town is chock-a-block with unemployed.

There is lots of sport here. I saw one fellow come down the street the other night with a couple of six-shooters, driving the crowd in front of him. That same night I saw a dozen guns pulled on another man but he never flinched. There is little done in the first line here, it is all gun work, and as there is as much chance of the onlookers getting hit as there is of the fighters being plugged there is generally a lively scramble for shelter when anything occurs in which there is the shadow of an excuse for drawing a gun.

FIGHTERS MAY LEAVE HERE

With the passing of the fistie game in Honolulu its exponents will pass on, also, to climes where the anti-boxing law is not so severe.

"Gentleman Jack" McFadden will go coastward by the next Alameda. He may engage in professional boxing on the Coast or may assist in the training of his brother, who is no small potatoes with the gloves at the Coast.

Jack McFadden has made good here, both as a boxer and a sterling good fellow, and his many friends will be loth to see him go.

"Honolulu" Dick Sullivan may go to San Francisco in a month. Dick is undecided whether to seek a match in San Francisco or at the Antipodes.

COLONIALS BEAT A CRAP GAME

The old fishmarket crap game did a roaring business on Monday.

The S. S. Sonoma was in from the Colonies and a number of sporty sons of Britain wended their way on exploration bent, down Alakea street.

On passing the fishmarket site they saw the game and it appealed to them.

One and all of the party tried conclusions with fortune which was so good to them that the fat native who was game-master lost over $200 before the Colonials broke away, declaring as they did so, that they'd give the sportive kanaka a chance to get even when they came this way again.

SOCKER MEN WILL MEET

A meeting of the Y. M. C. A. footballers will be held at 7:30 tonight to organize a team for the coming season. Association football will be played and the Y. M. C. A. expects to put in a pretty good line-up. There will also be an election of officers tonight for the ensuing year.

WHEN MACLAREN FOZZLED OUT.

The links were bright and bonny with the tartan and the plaid. When the pride of Skibo village met the best St. Andrews had;

The play was fast and furious, and sair the ball was thwacked. And in the final test of skill one point MacLaren lacked.

The caddies stood with bated breath, and every face was set.

For not a man was in the crowd but had his siller bet;

And one had cried, as with his stick MacLaren loomed up tall:

"Hoot mon! now show 'em hoo Old Skibo kills the ball!"

The gowfifer lookit at the sky, and then down at the dirt,

And cannily he weighed his stock and loosed his plaided shirt;

He slowly planted both his feet, and then replanted each,

And dinna doot he swung his arms as high as he could reach.

Grim death at just that moment would have been MacLaren's wish.

For the atmosphere resounded to that mighty empty swish,

His stick flew like a rocket, but, alas! the wo decreed!

The ball rolled two feet sickly, when it just lay down and dead.

Oh, somewhere in our bonny land the pipes skirl all the day.

And somewhere lads and lassies shout, and men are passing gay;

But we are dour in Skibo, and no joy is hereabout.

Since the day when, like one Casey, our MacLaren fozzled out.

CRIME UNDETECTED AND UNPUNISHED.

The dozen or more robberies lately reported have resulted in only one arrest save those of vagrants "held for examination." The one instance was that where Japanese caught a burglar of their own race, seized and bound him and held him until the police came. So far as the officers of the law are alone concerned, burglars have enjoyed free commons.

It is the familiar excuse, though the poorest kind of one at best, that the police are so busy with politics that they have no time to watch criminals or ferret out crimes. But politics don't last the year around, and the condition we speak of is the normal one. Put your memory at work and recall a robbery, not subject to a police "plant," where the robber was caught. We recall none of late years but will concede one justified arrest for ten such crimes. Honolulu is a town where a burglar with a dray has been known to operate in the daytime over a period of six months, removing household goods in the owners' absence without detection until a young girl saw him and gave the alarm. This occurred about three years ago. The robbery of Japanese quarters and the stealing of chickens in this town is a settled industry, rarely interrupted by the police or followed up by the detectives. Of crimes of greater magnitude, involving housebreaking, the news is kept from the public as much as possible. The police do not take the press into their confidence in such matters and they tell those who have been robbed to say nothing "lest they interfere with the work of our detectives." The object, of course, is to keep the record of unpunished crime from exposure. Enough of these cases are heard of by the press, long after they happened, to warrant the opinion that housebreaking is very prevalent indeed—that it is safer here than it is anywhere else among the cities of the United States.

Viewing all these facts as they stand—remembering, if you please, the evidence which led the Board of Supervisors to denounce the police management of Oahu County as "indifferent, incompetent or corrupt,"—and does it not strike you as a person of common sense that it is time to have a change in the police department? Is anything better to be expected of the old crowd—the men who have grown careless and slothful, to say no worse of them, in the enjoyment of office? Is the man who could not catch a rascal this year, nor last year, nor for years before, to be depended on to catch a rascal next year? Assuming that you would like to have the city so well policed as to make housebreaking perilous and have it supplied with detectives who can detect, is it not your duty to vote for a new deal in police administration? What is there in the old status worth saving for its own sake? Why should it be continued? Is not the immunity which burglars and housebreakers enjoy at the hands of the police reason enough to put the present regime out of office?

CUBAN INTERVENTION.

If the United States intervenes in Cuba it will be under the authority conferred upon it by Section III of the Platt Amendment:

That the government of Cuba consents that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Cuban independence, the maintenance of a government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty, and for discharging the obligations with respect to Cuba imposed by the Treaty of Paris on the United States, now to be assumed and undertaken by the government of Cuba.

American intervention is preparing now. But intervention does not necessarily mean annexation. The conditions precedent to that policy would be the expressed wish of representative Cubans and the favorable action of the President and Senate, in case of a treaty, or of the President and both houses of Congress, in case of a joint resolution. There would be ample time before anything permanent were done, for public opinion to assert itself.

It is interesting to hear, as we do by way of the Manchester Guardian, that Siam is in danger from Japanese ascendancy. Already the schools in that kingdom, such as they are, are almost entirely staffed by Japanese teachers, both male and female, who are both cheaper and more adaptable than their European predecessors. In trade the Japanese merchants are underbidding everybody, and at the same time pushing their interests with a skill that may well astonish and dismay their competitors. At Bangkok, for instance, there is a large "commercial museum" for the exhibition of every kind of Japanese product and manufacture. You may go in at any time of the day, and though you will not be asked to buy anything, polite attendants will give you every possible information as to price, names of importers, quality, and other details of the exhibits. The political side of the question is being carefully developed, and the Guardian thinks that it could only be a matter of a few years before the ascendancy of Japan in Siam would cause serious heartburnings to France. Great Britain has little to lose, for she has never recovered the ground lost some few years ago, and for once may enjoy the progress of the game as a spectator.

Despite the Consul's invocation to modesty, we think the Honolulu Japanese have good reason to make the most of their chance to greet the naval training ship Anegawa-go. Any white nationality here would turn out, after a war in which its flag had triumphed and royally honor any ship and crew that were identified with the glorious struggle or in any way represented it. Why should patriotic Japanese not do the same? If they choose to let themselves loose when their valiant countrymen come, bringing with them a captured Russian ship, why not? Americans who turned out here in 1898 to welcome General Anderson's troops en route to the Philippines will not be the ones to say them nay.

While Mr. Bryan did not quite say that he wanted the Democratic party to commit itself to the government ownership of railroads, he went far enough that way in his Madison Square Garden speech to seriously alarm his friends. Indeed they warned him in advance to keep clear of the railroad question, just as they did, in 1900, to keep clear of the sixteen to one issue. In the latter case he refused and lost the election. Perhaps, as respects the railroad issue, the parallel will be carried out. At any rate it looks as though Mr. Bryan had rather talk than be President; rather be known as a radical of radicals than to lead his party to an electoral triumph.

The longer the band stays in the East the more likely it will be to improve. It certainly needs improvement, for the military whangbanging that prevailed in Prussia during the war of 1870 and which our band still emphasizes, has suffered eclipse and the modern band makes music instead of noise. One could wish that the Hawaiian band would return with more reed instruments and less of the jam-jam brass, stirring us, withal, by concord of sweet sounds and inducing the attentive ear without making that organ deaf for its pains.

The name of Dalny, Russia's former port on the Liaotung peninsula, has been changed to Tairen. Japan has made the port free, thus counterchecking Russia, which, by compelling the Chinese to give free access to goods entering Manchuria by the Siberian railroad, hoped to control the trade of that great province. Japan, having a nearby commercial base and an open port at Tairen, can easily undersell Russia and everybody else, for that matter.

The Manase subscription began yesterday with $5 from Mr. Schaefer. One hundred and forty-five dollars more are wanted to give young Manase, who is in jail at Sacramento under conviction of murder, whatever chance of life may lie in an appeal. It is believed by his lawyer that the theory of self-defense may be established. The Advertiser or Mr. George Castle, would be glad to get further subscriptions.

Think of merchants being asked to put money into the hands of a County committee headed by Harry Murray and run by Jimmy Boyd, Charley Clark and the police, to be used in electing Brown and Vida! The cheek of that request would throw a shadow on the sky.

The Republicans need not be alarmed. No one is going to be knifed in the canvass who has any valid claim on the support of reputable citizens.

Nobody ever made any serious charge against Curtis Iaukea but himself and he couldn't prove it.

PROPOSED CONSTITUTION

Revenue, who is at the head of the opposition to the proposed changes.

The same journal remarks that there is no doubt, from news received from the Capital, that His Majesty the Emperor is thoroughly in sympathy with the question of a Constitutional Government, but, like the Empress Dowager, recognizes the unfitness of the people under present circumstances to undertake self-government. His Majesty's insistence upon the importance of beginning this era of reform by the reorganization of the official system has no meaning in it other than the cleansing in earnest of the Augean stables of the Mandarinate. This, as every student of Chinese history must recognize, contains the key of the whole situation.

In view of the great importance of the Chinese Imperial Edict regarding the proposed grant of a Constitution, we supplement the version already given in our columns by the following full translation from the North China Daily News:

"In obedience to the instructions of her Imperial Majesty the Empress Dowager, the Emperor issues the following decree: Ever since our Imperial House began to rule this Empire we have ever had the best interests of the people in our hearts and have always taken up anything that at the time seems advantageous to our subjects. At the present day we hold relations with the various nations of the earth and learn that there is amongst them a mutual interdependence on and with each other and this leads us to consider our own position, which seems pressing and fraught with danger, unless we seek for wise and experienced men to assist us in the government of the Empire. For this reason we sent a special mission of high officials to visit various parts of the world to enquire into the system of government in them. Our High Commissioners, Duke Tsai Tsen and his colleagues, have now returned from their travels, and in all their reports to us they are unanimous in the declaration that the main cause of the backward condition of this Empire is due to the lack of confidence between the throne and ministers and the masses. Indeed, officials know not how to protect the people, whilst, on the other hand, it follows that the people are ignorant of how to guard the safety of their country. Foreign countries really become wealthy and powerful by granting a Constitution to the masses and allowing universal suffrage to all. Hence sovereign and commonality are interrelated as to their common interests and what affects the one will surely also affect the other. The people of foreign countries elect their elders to rule over them. The power of each is clearly defined, the methods of obtaining funds for government expenses properly regulated. Everything is controlled under a proper system and aims at the welfare of the masses. As for ourselves, it is necessary at present to make a careful investigation into the matter and prepare ourselves to imitate this government by constitution in which the supreme control must be in the hands of the throne, while the interest of the masses shall be given to the elect, advanced to such position by the suffrages of the masses. This, it is to be hoped, will be the means of strengthening the foundations of an everlasting Empire. But at this time of the day no method of procedure has as yet been drawn up, whilst the understanding of the masses is very limited. Any impetuosity shown in introducing these reforms will at the end be so much labor lost. How can we then face our subjects under such circumstances and faith in us? It is incumbent upon us as a beginning, therefore, to reform the official system, next to revise carefully the laws in their most minute details, promote and encourage universal education, regulate the finances and sources of revenues, reorganize the army and establish a strong gendarmerie throughout the Empire. The gentry and people will then understand the kind of government needed for the country and be prepared to start the foundations of a Constitutional Government, whilst the officials, high and low, in Peking and elsewhere, will use their best endeavors to bring our desires to a triumphant completion. In a few years' time, when it be found that there is a rough outline of what is needed, then will the time come for appointing a day for the inauguration de facto of a Constitutional Government. The whole Empire will then be notified of the fact. We would, therefore, earnestly exhort our viceroys and governors of provinces to issue proclamations to their people, to show an enthusiastic desire for education, to be loyal and patriotic, to sacrifice for the good of all, and to refrain from destroying a grand structure through petty strife and private quarrels. Let all observe law and order and prepare themselves to enjoy the solid advantages of a Constitutional Government. This is our sincere hope and desire. Let this be made known to the whole Empire."

The sale of donated goods, which marked the close of the harvest festival of the Salvation Army, was held in the barracks last night and resulted in a considerable addition to the Army's fund. Many of the goods sold were made at the rescue home and were both attractive and useful. There was a large number present and at times the bidding was lively. Bandmaster Cannon acted as auctioneer and his persuasive eloquence helped considerably in boosting up the prices realized.

"No, Tommy," said his mother. "You can't have any more cake. You've had enough." "What a fine little fellow he is," replied the guest. "And when you're a man, Tommy, what are you going to do?" "I'm goin' ter buy too much of everything I like to eat," replied Tommy, sulkily.—Philadelphia Press.

PROF. HOSMER'S CAREER IN HAWAII AND ELSEWHERE

Springfield Republican: Prof. Frank A. Hosmer, of Amherst, who was from 1890 to 1900, president of Oahu College, Honolulu, the oldest collegiate institution in the Pacific, still retains his interests in the affairs of the territory of Hawaii and has repeatedly represented the islands in Washington. D. C., the Lake Mohonk conference and elsewhere. During the last three years he has sent many young men and young women as instructors to the Hawaiian college and the preparatory school connected with it. Trustees of other institutions in the islands have also from time to time availed themselves of his services in securing teachers—among them the trustees of the Kamehameha schools, large and heavily endowed and conducted in the interests of Hawaiian youths of both sexes. To this latter institution Prof. Hosmer has sent out from this town, Waldo D. Barlow and Sumner K. Parker of the Massachusetts agricultural college and several from other New England colleges. On Wednesday Miss Ethel D. Shaw and Miss Sarah N. Ward left town for the passage across the continent and ocean to act as instructors in the college. Miss Charlotte P. Dodge of the last graduating class at Smith, who was called by President Seelye to be instructor in physics at Smith, has accepted the appointment of instructor in physics at Oahu college and has already sailed. Frederick G. Hastings of the New England conservatory of music in Boston, through Prof. Hosmer, has been elected director of the department of music in Oahu college and sails today. Several others sail the 6th. All these appointments are from New England institutions and most of them from this state.

Frank A. Hosmer was born in Woburn, November 14, 1853, the son of Alvan and Octavia Emerson Hosmer. He received his early education in the public schools of Woburn and entered Amherst college in 1871, graduating four years later. Among his classmates were Prof. Todd and Elwell of Amherst college, Prof. R. Mayo-Smith and Hamlin of Columbia and Judge N. C. Sears of Illinois. The next year after graduating he accepted a position in the grammar school in his native town and the following year he was elected a teacher in the Hitchcock free academy of Brimfield. After a year of study and research in history and political science he received the degree of M. A. from Amherst college in 1878. During this year of graduate study he was intimately associated with President J. H. Seelye and this association with so prominent a man proved of great value to Mr. Hosmer. He was called from the Palmer high school, where he had been teaching a short time, to assume the principalship of the Great Barrington high school and to act as superintendent of schools in town. For 10 years he served in this position with distinction and became recognized throughout Western Massachusetts as an educator. He was elected president of the teachers' association of Berkshire county and published several monographs entitled "How to Teach Geography," "Practical Studies in the High School," "Noblesse Oblige" and "Manners Make a Man." He also wrote the history of Great Barrington. He married August 14, 1878, Miss Esther Mayo, the daughter of William M. Kellogg of Amherst. He became editor of the Berkshire Courier of Great Barrington and showed exceptional ability in journalism. From 1888 to 1890 the New York Herald employed him as a special correspondent to report the Johnstown flood in Pennsylvania and other events of moment.

In 1890 Mr. Hosmer was made president of Oahu college in Honolulu and he administered the affairs of that institution in a most satisfactory manner, laying the foundation of its present prosperity. Queen Liliuokalani caused the American residents to rebel upon her nerves that governing children involved; it is impossible for her to do anything calmly. The ill of women act like a firebrand upon the nerves, consequently nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous dependency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

Do you experience fits of depression with restlessness, alternating with extreme irritability? Are your spirits easily affected, so that one minute you laugh, and the next minute you feel like crying?

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the abdominal region, and between the shoulders; bearing-down pains; nervous dyspepsia and almost continually cross and snappy?

Tired, Nervous Mothers

Make Unhappy Homes—Their Condition Irritates Both Husband and Children—How Thousands of Mothers Have Been Saved From Nervous Prostration and Made Strong and Well.

Mrs. Chas. F. Brown

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysterics, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. The trouble between children and their mothers too often is due to the fact that the mother has some female weakness, and she is entirely unfit to bear the strain upon her nerves that governing children involves; it is impossible for her to do anything calmly.

The ill of women act like a firebrand upon the nerves, consequently nine-tenths of the nervous prostration, nervous dependency, "the blues," sleeplessness, and nervous irritability of women arise from some derangement of the female organism.

Do you feel something like a ball rising in your throat and threatening to choke you; all the senses perverted, morbidly sensitive to light and sound; pain in the abdominal region, and between the shoulders; bearing-down pains; nervous dyspepsia and almost continually cross and snappy?

If so, your nerves are in a shattered condition, and you are threatened with nervous prostration.

Proof is monumental that nothing in the world is better for nervous prostration than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; thousands and thousands of women can testify to this fact.

PAST HAWAIIAN POLITICS AS SEEN FROM NEW YORK

Stories of the Lady Dog Legislature and What Followed--The Passing of the Home Rule Banderlogs.

Here we sit in a crooked row thinking of people, who have the dough;

Dreaming of people we mean to do All complete in a session or two. Now we are going to—never mind— Brother, your hand sticks out behind.

At a session of an early Hawaiian Territorial Legislature—a session full of rumors of graft—a newspaper man took advantage of a lull in the proceedings to scrawl the above and pass it across the press table to a friend equally idle. In a few minutes he received the following reply:

Col. Mazuma comes charging down; His bright gold eagles flood the town. And we stand in for a share of pelf, Each dusky brother here for himself, And the De'il take the hindmost—never mind— Brother, your hand sticks out behind!

The honorable members were reading, interpreting and wrangling over a lengthy bill, so the original despoiler of Kipling had another chance, which he utilized to reply with this:

All the funds that can ever be found, Shiners heavy and yellow and round— Rich man, poor man, beggar man, thief— They can all chip in if they'd just as lief.

Let's pretend we've—never mind— Brother, your hand sticks out behind!

The politics of Hawaii are full of entertainment, and of square face, pig and pol. Square face, be it known, is the Hawaiian term for a large, square bottle of gin. In a district on Hawaii Island the other day a precinct club got together to nominate a deputy sheriff. The man of their choice showed his appreciation in a very practical way. Eleven of those who favored him with the high honor of their selection were arrested for disturbing the peace, and the generous nominee landed in jail for the larceny of the pig with which the nominators regaled themselves.

Politics in Hawaii are also full of strange misunderstandings. "In closing," shouted a well known Hawaiian orator during a campaign meeting of the last Bryan effort. "I ask your support for the party that is led by that peerless American, William Cullen Bryant."

In the midst of another speaker's address some one shouted for an explanation of the meaning of "sixteen to one." The speaker admitted that he couldn't explain it and then, by way of covering up his embarrassment, he added, "I don't believe there's any speaker in America that can explain just what it means."

"Ladies and Gentlemen," began a white speaker who was new to the game and was a candidate for assessor. [Loud cries from the rear of "maikai" (good) "welakabao" (hot stuff), and "good haole" (white).] Ladies and

DONE BY TRYING.

Nobody can tell what he can do till he tries. When a thing ought to be done the modern spirit moves us to keep working away at it until it is done. In the face of this idea the "impossible" vanishes. Where there's a will, there's a way. "If we could but rob cod liver oil of its sickening taste and smell and then combine it with two or three other ingredients we should possess the best remedy in the world for certain diseases that are now practically incurable." So said a famous English physician twenty-five years ago. "But it will never be done," he added. "You can no more turn cod liver oil into a palatable medicine, than you can turn the Codfish itself into a Bird of Paradise." Yet he lived to admit that in WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION the "impossible" had been accomplished. It is palatable as honey and contains all the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. This remedy is freed from the bad peculiarities Dr. Frothingham so detested, and it is precisely the splendid medicine he wished for. Use it freely and confidently for Hysteria, Wasting Complaints, Anemia, Blood Impurities, Asthma, and Throat and Lung Troubles. Dr. W. H. B. Aikins, Physician to Toronto General Hospital, says: "I am much pleased to state that the results from using Wampole's Preparation of Cod Liver Oil have been uniformly satisfactory; it appealed to me as being prepared according to correct scientific principles." It increases the appetite and influences the digestion of food; it is delicious to take, will not disappoint you, and is effective from the first dose. One bottle convinces. At all chemists.

gentlemen—the speaker halted in more or less pleased embarrassment, glad over the applause but lacking a good platform presence. Heaven knew he did not need the presence, for far back in the rear was a happy gang boss, who in some mysterious way was able to cause a large section of the audience to indulge in outbursts of utterly irrepressible enthusiasm.

"I am the regular party nominee for assessor," continued the speaker, "and I ask your support for the whole ticket." This was in English and the speaker paused while it was interpreted by the Hawaiian who stood by him for the purpose of interpreting. There were more wild bursts of applause. "As a candidate for assessor I pledge myself to a fair and honest and impartial administration of the office. My personal interests are here and here I hope to live and die. I shall treat the poor and rich alike. There will be no favoritism while I am in office."

Every one has heard such speeches but thunders of applause were aroused. The interpreter was better than his principal. In a wild flow of Hawaiian he informed the listeners of the candidate's pledge to see that Hawaiians were not taxed. The candidate does not know to this day what he promised.

The first Territorial election Hawaii had resulted in a sweeping Home Rule, or native, victory. One native introduced an act to repeal certain Federal laws. Then there was the optimistic Hawaiian who introduced an act to provide that the price of fish "shall be 10 cents a pound," the man who gravely and vehemently attacked the Territorial board of health for compelling or allowing post-mortems, and, in the course of his eloquent address, insisted that there was no known case in which a deceased had been benefited thereby. As a sort of climax a white legislator sarcastically expressed his view of the session by giving notice of an act to prevent a recurrence of high tides at Lahaina.

This Legislature was a distinct failure. Its speeches in the Hawaiian language were interminable. With a terrible severity of criticism under which all the members winced a Honolulu newspaper compared the members to Kipling's Banderlogs and then followed a cartoon in a contemporary, picturing them as monkeys in a tree and beneath it a paraphrase of the Kipling rhymes with the ending: "Now we are going to—never mind, brother, your tail hangs down behind!" Finally when the end was near an evening paper headed its account of the day's work in the House with the words "Passing of the Simians," and there was trouble. The House rose in its wrath and threatened to expel the press, but no action was taken.

A contrast to this was Hawaii's last legislative assemblage. Its record will certainly challenge comparison with the American average. It accomplished a vast amount of needed lawmaking, notably the passing of a county government act which has stood legal testing. It was a legislature practically without a scandal. While Hawaii's nearest neighbor, California, was sending Senators to jail, while from many States came reports of graft and the accounts of freak bills Hawaii's little Legislature of mixed Hawaiians and whites spent its days in orderly procedure, finished its work and adjourned. True, it had fights with the Governor and it had its "investigations" that savored of personal animus and perhaps of holdups, but it made a record that will not suffer in comparison with America's average.

The reform was undoubtedly worked in large part by the criticism and ridicule heaped upon the first Legislature and by the organization of a Republican party, or machine, which routed Home Rule on every island. The oratory in the first House was made so much fun of that the succeeding statesmen curbed their natural powers of eloquence and tried to stick to business. Every Hawaiian is an orator, every longshoreman on a Honolulu waterfront can mount a soap box and make a speech with a flow of language that would be the despair of a stenographer and with a wealth of gesture to match it. The machine saw to the choices of men. In a Legislature of forty-five members forty-three were members of the Republican party.

There is no doubt that government patronage was used to build up the machine. There is no man in it of whom it is being used to-day to keep it up. But the Republicans are divided, and an election is coming on in which they seem likely to engage in a family row that will delight Home Rule. A lot of intelligent Americans look with distrust upon the machine. They don't like the idea of simply being voted. A lot would like to turn to the Democratic party, but they fear that this party is so weak that it cannot win and that votes for it may only help the common enemy, Home Rule.

Hawaii's delegate to Congress, Kalaiananaloa, will be returned. Though he is nominally a Republican, neither the Home Rule nor the Democratic party will earnestly run a candidate against him. "The haoles (white) have the Governorship and Secretaryship," as the saying goes, "and it is only right that the Hawaiians should have the seat in Congress."

POLICE SENSITIVE ABOUT TSI SANG

"The liquor law is being violated every day," said Judge Whitney yesterday, in summing up the evidence in the case of the Territory of Hawaii vs. Tsi Sang, the holder of a fifth-class license charged with selling a bottle of claret improperly sealed. "This case seems to me to be a prosecution to the limit. When the liquor law is being broken every day to the extent that it is, when this court has seen a record of 110 cases where liquor has been sold to persons twice convicted of drunkenness, as it has, it seems the limit to go clear across the island to secure a case against this man for a technical violation of the law."

The evidence produced by the prosecution was that the Chinaman, through an agent, had sold a bottle of claret on which the seal had only been loosely placed. Judgment will be rendered this afternoon.

McELROY RETURNS.

A. B. McElroy, who left Honolulu a short time ago on the S. S. Sonoma at the request of the police court judge, was a returning passenger per Sonoma on Monday. McElroy was not allowed to land at the Australian ports, his fame having preceded him, but he states that he had no inclination to remain there at any rate, Honolulu is good enough for him and he here proposes to stay as long as free board and lodging can be secured on the reef. As yet he has only visited his friends at the police station informally.

INFANT MORTALITY.

The attention of the Town Council at Johannesburg, Transvaal, was last year directed to the fact that out of eighty-four infants who died in December, forty-four of them had died of dysentery. An investigation with a view of tracing the source of the disease was authorized. Under the best of conditions attacks of dysentery are very prevalent among children in warm weather, but in a large majority of cases the lives of the little ones can be saved by the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. This remedy always brings prompt relief, and has never been known to fail. For sale by Benson, Smith & Co., Ltd., agents for Hawaii.

"Alas!" confessed the penitent man, "in a moment of weakness I stole a carload of brass fittings." "In a moment of weakness?" exclaimed the judge. "Goodness, man! what would you have taken if you had yielded in a moment when you felt strong?"—Judge.

A BROKEN DOWN SYSTEM.

This is a condition (or disease) to which doctors give many names, but which few of them really understand. It is simply weakness—a broken-down, as it were, of the vital forces that sustain the system. No matter what may be its causes (for they are almost numberless), its symptoms are much the same; the more prominent being sleeplessness, sense of prostration or weariness, depression of spirits and want of energy for all the ordinary affairs of life. Now, what alone is absolutely essential in all such cases is INCREASED VITALITY—vigour—VITAL STRENGTH AND ENERGY to grove that as night succeeds the day this may throw off these morbid feelings, and experience be more certainly secured by a course of the celebrated life-reviving tonic.

THERAPION NO. 1

than by any other known combination. So surely as it is taken in accordance with the printed directions accompanying it, will the shattered health be restored, the EXPIRING LAMP OF LIFE LIGHTED UP AFRESH, and a new existence imparted in place of what had so lately seemed worn-out, "used up" and "broken down." This wonderful medicine is purely vegetable and innocuous, is agreeable to the taste—suitable for all constitutions and conditions, in either sex; and it is difficult to imagine a case of disease or derangement, whose main features are those of debility, that will not be speedily and permanently benefited by this never-failing recuperative essence, which is destined to cast into oblivion everything that had preceded it for this widespread and numerous class of human ailments.

WORLD'S NEWS DAILY.

CURRENTS OF THE PACIFIC

Ceaseless Drift of the Streams Found in Midocean.

A few years since, at our request, Professor George Davidson gave to our readers an explicit account of the movement of the currents of the North Pacific. He showed that the present current was the north equatorial, moving ceaselessly from the eastward to the westward across the broadest part of the ocean; thence northward past the Philippines, Formosa, Liu Chiu and Japan; across the northern part of the Pacific under the Aleutian chain, and thence southward as the Pacific or California current to reach the point of starting. That when it leaves this coast near the Santa Barbara channel and swings to the southward, the western edge becomes the northwestern edge and by the time it reaches the Hawaiian Islands, it is moving to the westward. Professor Davidson now says: "The proofs of this have been growing in number since the time of Vancouver, who relates his meeting a great canoe of sixty-two feet in length in the Kalele Oahu channel between the islands of Oahu and Kauai; that this canoe was made of Oregon fir; and further that King Kamehameha informed him that there was a double canoe made from two trees of the same wood. We know that such trees are yet picked up. Professor Davidson has the records of trees seen floating westward on the northern sides of the islands, and that all of them come from the northern coast forests. Moreover, the clincher is in one of the coast buoys, broken adrift from its station, drifting to the Hawaiian Islands and now doing duty off the entrance to Honolulu harbor. Also, of a lifebuoy lost from a Japanese man-of-war finding its home on the north side of the islands. Japanese derelicts have also been cast upon their shores. The proofs are so numerous that the most skeptical have no ground upon which to disprove them.

If there were no atmospheric disturbances there would be regularity of movement of this great circular current, but in the tropics we have the typhoons in the southwest region, the northeast gales to the northeast of the Philippines, the northern and northwestern, and variable winds and storms off Japan, the variable and stormy winds under the Aleutian Islands; the strong northwest, and west northwest winds along the Pacific Coast, varied by the southeasters. Across the Pacific, from about the latitude of twenty-nine degrees, southward to the doldrums, there blow the trade winds from the northeastward. These and the westerly winds of the higher latitudes are those through which all vessels pass in their route between the coast and Hawaii. They are not constant as to direction or strength; they may die away almost to calms and a smooth sea, or blow heavily and kick up a heavy swell. They may be so gentle as to cause no surface drift, or they may accelerate the current, and also give a heaving power to the swell.

That is the general effect, but what the character of the currents through the different channels and passages among the islands, and around the capes and points, and along the lines of coral reefs that fringe most of the shores, no man knows and no man can predict save that they must be irregular in direction and in velocity.

In clear weather the navigator can make his landfall from a distance of fifty even to more than one hundred miles, and then govern his course by well-known landmarks.

In unfavorable weather all the elements of danger may conspire against the most skillful and vigilant navigator. He is blindfolded, his judgment is supremely taxed, and his nerve strained.

In favorable weather, out of sight of land, two navigators of equal skill may reach different conclusions as to positions, because their observations for the determination of the latitude and longitude of the vessel are necessarily imperfect. When the morning or afternoon observations are made for longitude, the latitude is assumed from the previous observations; and when the latitude is observed there must be instrumental errors, because low power is necessarily used with the sextant. And in beautifully fine weather there are errors of refraction at the horizon that no man may suspect or can detect by ordinary methods.

From these considerations, and some years of experience, Professor Davidson put the probable error of a sea position at not less than two miles. Now these errors naturally go into the determination of the velocity of the current, and hence if they are not constant, no commander can determine that fact by any means short of divination.

Every commander on this coast caught in a fog after leaving Cape Flattery, or the Columbia River, and getting no sights southward, has had his anxious hours, when his time was up, to get hold of the Point Reyes, and very few have even made it when expected. We have been on a steamship that was twenty-five miles southwest of the Southeast Farallon when her master thought he was off Point Reyes.

But even barring all currents there is another source of error that has rarely been studied. The compass, as a rule, is not over a foot in length, and the vessel is from three to five hundred feet, or even more in length,

MAJOR GENERAL WOOD GOVERNOR OF MOROS

MAJOR GENERAL LEONARD WOOD, U. S. ARMY.

First American Governor of the Moro Province, Philippine Islands, whose Progressive Administration of Civil Affairs has opened up that Country to Immigration, and Industrial, Commercial and Agricultural Development.

The above cut is said to be the only true likeness of General Wood yet published. It represents the general as he appears today. Most all pictures published of him since his meteoric rise after the commencement of the Spanish War show him to be at least twenty years younger. In such pictures he looks to be a mild-mannered physician, as such he was before the outbreak of the Spanish War. In appearance nowadays, General Wood is described as a man of strong facial expression, and his whole appearance suggests one capable of dealing with weighty questions.

and it is extremely probable that the lubberline of the compass, distant only half the length of the compass, is exactly in line with the keel or middle of the ship. If that adjustment is not perfect, then there is constant error in the course steered. Suppose this error of adjustment is one degree, then at the end of one hundred miles the error of position from this cause alone will be one and three-quarter miles. At 1000 miles, seventeen and one-half miles. In good weather a check to control this apparent current error is made once a day by astronomical observation; in foggy or cloudy weather no check is possible.

There is then nothing left the navigator but deep sounding by the Kelvin apparatus, and that would be only available when the vessel is close to the wall-like coasts of California, Japan or the Hawaiian Islands. And around the latter the deep sea soundings made for selecting a cable course prove an extremely irregular bottom, up to the coral reef sub-surface wall.

DEATH FROM BURSTING WHEEL

H. Jauen, a gunsmith employed in the workshop of E. O. Hall & Son, died at the Queen's Hospital at half-past one o'clock this morning. The accident from which death resulted is told in the following, which was written some hours previous to his death:

A distressing accident, the results of which may prove fatal, occurred yesterday afternoon in the workshop of E. O. Hall & Son, H. Jauen being struck in the head by pieces of a bursting emery wheel. Jauen was sharpening a tool on the wheel at the time and received the full force of the flying pieces, his skull being smashed in and his face lacerated.

He was taken to the Queen's Hospital, where at a late hour last night his condition was said to be very serious. Dr. Wayson is attending him.

The injured man is the gunsmith in the big hardware store. He is married and resides on Randall lane.

MARINE

ROBERT LEWERS ARRIVES.

The schooner Robert Lewers arrived in port yesterday morning after an uneventful voyage of 28 days from Port Gamble. She brings a big lumber cargo, consisting of 250,000 feet. The schooner looks as spry and span as possible, her woodwork glistening under a coat of fresh paint and everything about her neat and shipshape. She is lying at the Bishop slip.

PIPE LINE COMPLETED.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., September 12.—The Union Oil Company of this city has just completed its pipe line across the Panama, and within forty-five days it will be supplying the Atlantic seaboard cities with California fuel oil. The pipe line is to be operated in connection with the tank steamers on both the Atlantic and Pacific side. In length, the pipe line is fifty miles. Oil will be pumped over the Culebra grade at the rate of 25,000 barrels a day.

CARGO TURNED SOLID.

Many cargoes are not particularly damaged and others only partly damaged if soaked with seawater, but some articles are not only destroyed by such wetting, but cause material damage to the vessel herself, says New York Shipping. There is a long list of little schooners burned while carrying lime from Maine ports, the fires having been generated through the lime becoming wet. On a par with such experiences, but more serious, is the disaster to the big French ship Socoa, which was badly stranded, off the Lizard, on August 1, while bound from Stettin, via Cherbourg, for San Francisco with a cargo of cement for the rebuilding of the city at the Golden Gate. It is said that the inrush of water rendered the cement perfectly solid, so that it may necessitate blasting to remove it from the hold of the ship, while for practical purposes the cargo is wholly lost. A cablegram dated London, August 28, states, however, that the Socoa was floated from her dangerous position and beached at Cadgwith Cove, where the crew had been landed after she went ashore. What will be done with her is yet undecided. The Socoa is a steel ship of 273 tons gross, built at St. Nazaire in 1901, and owned by the Societe Bayonnaise de Navigation, of Bayonne, France.

NAVY TESTS OF FUEL OIL.

VALLEJO, September 11.—Although the monitor Wyoming is still out of commission at Mare Island, the yard officials are already making preparations for a series of oil tests on that vessel in the near future.

These oil tests are to be made on the Wyoming to determine the value of oil for a fuel for Uncle Sam's warships. These tests will be watched with more than usual interest. A number of tanks are now being built for the ship. It is probable that the work in connection therewith and the subsequent tests will cover a period of several months.

Recently tests of a similar nature were made on one of the torpedo boats on the Eastern coast. The board which had charge of the experiment on the torpedo boat rendered an unfavorable report. While this report will probably have no effect on the proposed trial of the Wyoming, it is thought at the yard that if oil does not prove satisfactory for use on such vessels as torpedo boats it will hardly be an improvement on those of the monitor type.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The steamer Hanalei sailed from San Francisco on Monday for this port.

On Monday the American schooner Defender cleared from Honolulu for San Francisco.

The bark St. Katherine, seventeen days out from the Coast, arrived at Hilo on Monday.

The arrival of the cable ship Restorer at Midway was cabled to Honolulu yesterday. The Restorer arrived at noon, making the run in just three and a half days. It is not probable that she will remain more than a few days at Midway and should be back in the harbor early next week.

The S. S. Mongolia and her convoy, the transport Buford, are expected to arrive from Midway on Thursday, as it is unlikely that any better time will be made. The Mongolia, even if it were deemed wise to send her along at her usual speed or near it, is ordered to sail with the Buford, and the transport's limit is around eleven knots.

The steamer Mauna Loa brought in a big freight cargo yesterday from Maui and Hawaii, the main item of which was 5000 bags of Diamond H sugar. Other agricultural products were 200 bags of coffee, 112 bags of beans, 20 bags of taro, 31 bags of awa, 18 kegs of butter, 47 bunches of bananas, 27 bunches of hides, 90 pieces of koa lumber and 32 head of cattle. Sundry packages to the number of 261 were on the manifest.

Last evening a number of prominent Koreans of this city and the islands gave a farewell banquet at the Alexander Young Hotel in honor of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Heber Jones. Covers were laid for fifteen. Rev. C. H. Min was toastmaster and speeches were made by W. K. Ahn, J. S. Park, Y. S. Park, N. S. Yi, J. H. Kim and P. K. Yoon. The banquet was beautifully set and served. In response to the toast to the Emperor and Government of Korea, Rev. Dr. Jones made an eloquent address on the new Korea.

DON'T EXPERIMENT.

YOU WILL MAKE NO MISTAKE IF YOU FOLLOW THIS HONOLULU CITIZEN'S ADVICE.

Never neglect your health. If you have pain in the back, urinary disorders, dizziness and nervousness. It's time to act and no time to experiment. These are all symptoms of kidney trouble and you should use a remedy which is known to cure those troubles safely and surely.

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills is that remedy, and if you wish to be cured of kidney disease without experimenting, do not fail to use it. Others have been cured and cured permanently. Why not follow the advice of a Honolulu citizen and be cured yourself?

J. D. Conn, of this city, is a carpenter by trade, and is employed at the Oahu railroad. "I was troubled," says Mr. Conn, "with an aching back. The attacks occurred periodically for years, and especially if I happened to catch cold. There was also other symptoms which plainly showed that my kidneys were out of order. A short time ago, I heard about Doan's Backache Kidney Pills and the wonderful things they were doing.

"Proceeding, then, to Hollister & Co.'s drug store, I obtained some of these. Since taking these pills there is a great improvement in me. I always keep some of the pills on hand now so as to be provided for any emergency. I feel sure if anyone troubled as I was should give Doan's Backache Kidney Pills a fair trial they will not fail to be benefited by them."

Doan's Backache Kidney Pills are sold by all druggists and storekeepers at 50 cents per box (six boxes $2.50) or will be mailed on receipt of price by the Hollister Drug Co., Honolulu, wholesale agents for the Hawaiian Islands.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitute.

A waggish occupant of the gallery shouted the other night to a pretty but indistinct lady artist: "Don't be nervous, my dear; it's only me!" At another theater one of the "gods" called down an actor who had just finished making rather a long speech: "Will you say that again, please? I didn't hear it."—New Idea.

FOOD OR STIMULANT.

Ask your doctor if when he orders a patient to drink lots of pure milk he advises the addition of a large quantity of whiskey. He'll tell you "no" very emphatically. Yet there are people who, when ordered to get Scott's Emulsion, will accept some wine, cordial or extract of cod liver oil and think it is the same thing or better. If you want and need cod liver oil in its best, purest and most easily digested form, get Scott's Emulsion. If you want whiskey, that's another matter, but don't look for the same results.

NEWLY MADE CITIZENS.

Citizens are being turned out by Judge Dole from the United States courtroom in numbers sufficient to satisfy the most exacting politician. Yesterday forenoon and afternoon were devoted by Judge Dole to examining applicants for the honor of being made into American citizens with the privilege of casting a ballot. During the forenoon there were nine applicants and only five passed the required examination. Those rejected were Portuguese.

The successful ones were R. W. Cathcart, J. W. Waldron and D. B. Macdonachie, British; Jos Gregel and A. Andrade, Portuguese.

The afternoon session was devoted almost exclusively to Portuguese applicants. The majority of reasons for desiring naturalization were that having lived so long under the American flag and having no intention of returning to Portugal, they desired to become American citizens. Some came here as boys and knew little of their mother country. Some knew little of either the United States or Portugal. When Judge Dole asked the question about the difference in the two governments few could make answer. The judge then asked who were the respective rulers of the two countries. Some managed to say that a President "ruled" the United States and a king ruled Portugal. They were pretty well up on the proposition that the "people" also ruled the United States. When asked how it was that Portugal got a new ruler when the King died, several replied that his oldest son "got the position," while some were at a loss to say just how the succession came.

SUPERSTITION

It may be that there is virtue in the left hind foot of a rabbit killed on a dark night at the time of the full moon, but it would probably serve better to ward away rheumatism than it would to protect you against loss of home or furniture by fire. Property owners with foresight assure themselves of safety by taking out policies on their property. After the fire it is too late.

HOLLY FLOUR

Makes More Bread

Gluten absorbs much more water in bread-making than the starchy part of flour. A quart of Holly Flour will make much more dough than any other flour because it contains more gluten. For this reason bakeries always use Holly Flour.
