SOUTH KONA.

It is a curious fact in history that certain localities seem to be specially productive of great ideas. It would appear as if the district named at the head of this writing is destined to be such a place. The fancy legislative enactments demanded by South Kona ought to ensure for its citizens a prominence in the Hawaiian Kingdom that no others can hope to obtain. The Solons, Justinians and Gladstones of ancient and modern times are surely destined to be eclipsed in South Kona. The petitions from that district to the present session of the Legislative Assembly are, (1) that the Hawaiian language be made the medium of official communication; (2) that the Government borrow ten million dollars, that new enterprises be started, by which the revenues of the country would be largely increased; (3) that opium be licensed; (4) that no restriction be placed upon the liquor traffic, but that liquor licenses be issued to retail and jobbing dealers at $1,500 and $1,000 respectively; and (5) that all tailor shops be licensed. Where, outside of South Kona, could such comprehensive schemes of legislation have originated? It is time that Athens, Rome and Westminster be scored off the record of fame, and that on all the space heretofore assigned them, the name of South Kona be imprinted in big letters,—the very largest the Advertiser office can furnish. The proposal to make Hawaiian the official language of the Kingdom is entirely too brilliant an idea to have emanated from any district on which the sunbeams bathing the slopes of South Kona have not been reflected. To make the language in which the principal business of the country is not transacted; the language that is of no service to any person in the wide world, outside of the Hawaiian Islands and not used but by a portion of the population of the Islands themselves; a language that sells none of the products of the Islands in foreign markets, and will buy none of the supplies indispensable to the people to be brought from abroad; a language which is not the language of literature, law, medicine, science or art,—to make this the sole official language of the Kingdom would be an effective turning of the shadow on the dial of Hawaiian civilization fifty years backward. But, what of that? Has not South Kona decided that it is the proper thing to do? And whoever opposes it will be butting his head against the future hub of the Polynesian Empire. How official Hawaiian will adapt itself to commercial English, is a question no one born out of South Kona will pretend to answer. Of course, any fool may baffle the combined wisdom of the South Konaian political philosophers by asking them impertinent questions about how they propose to run the official machinery under Hawaiian steam.

The political economists of South Kona mean to provide, too, for the early extinction of the Hawaiian race. When they succeed in killing off the people with free opium and unlimited gin, it will be a melancholy satisfaction to have their obituaries cast in official Hawaiian by South Konaian poets. That "no restriction" be placed on the liquor traffic, but that "licenses" be issued, will call for the services of not less than two Philadelphia lawyers to draft a bill in accordance with the prayer of the petition. According to the universally received interpretation of "licenses," every license is a "restriction," and is issued as such. However, when the Government imports the Philadelphia lawyers referred to, and sends them to rusticate for three weeks in South Kona, where they may properly whet their legal acumen by contact with the statesmen of the locality, they may be able to concoct a liquor law in official Hawaiian restricting the trade to such persons as pay the $1,500 and $1,000, by removing from it all restrictions! It is unfortunate that the aroma of licensed opium has captivated their senses to the extent indicated in the third petition. It may, too, have been while under the influence of prospective ecstasies that they grasped the idea of enlarging the revenues of the country by borrowed money. We may be permitted to suggest that if enlarged revenues are among the possible results of a $10,000,000 loan, why not borrow $1,000,000,000. This will place the Kingdom, in at least one respect, ahead of the Mistress of the seas.

The discrepancy existing between the dimensions of mind and the quantity of matter in a single locality has often been noted. South Kona, though by no means a continent in extent, is manifestly continental in idea. In fact it is but a small division of a not very large island. But the vast scope of idea embraced in the five petitions enumerated, shows, in the most unmistakable manner that South Konaian mind and South Konaian matter are in inverse ratio as to magnitude. The proposal to license tailors in connection with that of a ten million loan is significant of the far-reaching foresight of the petitioners. It is fit that no man be permitted to clothe the naked without license, under any circumstances, but with $10,000,000 in the treasury, every man will be able to provide himself with good clothes, and no botch tailoring will be tolerated. Every artificer in tweeds and broadcloths will be required to hang his government diploma, written in pure official Hawaiian, over his work bench.

No other constituency in the Kingdom has presumed to take the initiative in national projects as has South Kona. And possibly no other constituency has the political sagacity to draft a course of legislation, adding the most potent element possible to be devised to those already in operation for the ruin of the Hawaiian, together with a scheme calculated to cripple the finances of the country to such an extent that at no distant day the Kingdom would be handed over to some foreign power to pay its debts and foreclose on its independence. All members of the legislature who are ambitious of getting into the wake of the political economists of South Kona, will, of course, register their votes that the prayer of the petitions be granted. In doing so, they will transmit their names to posterity in pure official Hawaiian, and be distinguished by future historians as the men who decreed ruin to the native race and to the country of their birth or adoption.

THE LEGISLATURE.

ELEVENTH DAY.

WEDNESDAY, May 12th.
AFTERNOON SESSION.

The house on resuming at 1:30 p. m., went into committee of the whole on the Appropriation Bill, Noble Wilder in the chair.

Permanent Settlements: Hon. H. Kulihehane, $1,200. This being only the allowance for one year, according to the statute, the item was increased to $2,400.

Mrs. P. Nahaolelua, $600. Passed. Legislature and Privy Council: Expenses of Legislature of 1886, $30,000.

Rep. Richardson moved it be $35,000, in accordance with the act already passed. Carried.

Secretary of Privy Council, $200. Passed.

Incidentals of Privy Council, $100. Passed.

Department of Foreign Affairs: Salary of Minister, $12,000. Passed.

Salary of Secretary, $6,000. Passed.

Rep. Dole moved, seconded by Rep. Thurston, to reduce to $5,000. The reduction carried by the casting vote of the chairman.

Pay of Extra Clerks, Copyists and Translators, $4,000.

Rep. Kalua thought this was a new item, or a large increase of an old one, and far in excess of what was necessary. The item had been gradually increasing and probably would be $8,000 next session. He moved to amend the item to $2,400.

It had been reported on the street that the Minister was desirous of compensating some friends. The speaker did not come there to vote the public money for people's friends, although he would not withhold necessary appropriations. He characterized the report of the Minister of Foreign Affairs as a lot of rubbish, compiled to proclaim to the world that the Minister was a great man. It was amusing to have an application for a lot of clerks to produce a bundle of rags such as that report, consisting of reports and letters from the South Sea Islands. Perhaps the clerks were wanted to make treaties with the South Sea Islands. The tendency under the present Ministry had been to increase expenditure.

Minister Gibson was surprised that Mr. Kalua should denounce a document which he had not thought worth while, according to his own statement in the House, to peruse; and still further surprised that he should have an objection to the item in question upon rumors in the streets and alley ways rather than come to headquarters and inquire, as to the facts, from the Minister at the Foreign Office. With regard to this item it will be remembered that at a previous session it was strongly urged that the correspondence of the Foreign Office should be in two languages, Hawaiian and English. Since then all important documents, autograph letters of His Majesty's, etc., are prepared in both languages. When Colonel Lankester returned from his foreign mission he stated that much surprise was expressed by dignitaries abroad that the correspondence of the Hawaiian Kingdom with foreign nations was not conveyed in their own language, accompanied by a translation. The Foreign Office is endeavoring to fulfill this expectation of the Hawaiian Legislature, and convey in the diplomatic literature of the Government an illustration of the genius of the Hawaiian people and language. Another important consideration with this item is the accumulation of the archives of the Foreign Office. A great deal of it may be valueless, but much of it is of importance and intact, which should be copied and indexed. The Secretary had taken hold of the work from time to time, but owing to the pressure of his regular duties he could not continue the work. Chance experts had been called in, but they had found other engagements, so the work remained unfinished. Reference has been made to the fact that the appropriation made by the late Assembly for this object has not been expended. During the long session which had engrossed his attention, the work of the office had been somewhat held back, and the item has not been drawn upon for more than three-fourths of the period. In this mass of archives, contained in about forty-six packages, it is impossible to refer readily to any important document that may be required without their being arranged and indexed. The honorable member has drawn attention to correspondence with petty Polynesian chiefs. Was that the main feature of the document, he might be justified in his objections. It contains many important documents. There is the report of the Meridian Conference, in which our honorable Vice-President took part along with an eminent professor. That report, which is part of what has been characterized as trash, sets forth the particulars of an event wherein Hawaii took part with distinguished men of many nations, and has raised the credit of this country; and, furthermore, there is a report of an event in which our honorable Noble (Hon. Samuel Parker) took a distinguished part, being commissioned by His Majesty to represent Hawaii at a great international exhibition of products (New Orleans), and who subsequently was honorably received by the President of the United States. The result of this was that Hawaii received additional value of her good name. Can the honorable gentleman regard the Convention with the great and friendly Power of Japan as unworthy of consideration, when it is recognized by planters that this event has so largely added to their revenue and promoted their general interests? How will he regard the correspondence with His Majesty's Envoy at Washington, wherein are set forth the treatment of matters of highest importance to the nation? He recognized that His Majesty's Envoy has discussed the matters in his hands with ability, and this report is the record of his diplomatic action. One letter contained herein expresses on the part of Secretary Bayard the opinion of the Government of the United States, that Hawaii of right should lead and guide in accordance with the policy that had been laid before him. And shall this expression of opinion, coming from our great and good neighbor, be regarded as unworthy of consideration? One gentleman connected with a foreign Government declares in a letter that Hawaii has raised herself in the estimation of the nations by the course she has pursued. Therein is also to be found a dispatch of the British Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Lord Rosebery, which contains an honorable expression of regard and sympathy in respect to the attitude of Hawaii. (As for his own humble efforts, he could let that pass, and the sneers in reference to his course, while he retained the approval of His Majesty the King, and he hoped, the good opinion of His Majesty's people. In reference to the item under consideration, if the Assembly desires to limit the amount to $2,400 this would be sufficient to provide for a copyist, and the special work referred to would have to be left undone. As regards the accusation that he might want to provide for the employment of some friends, the additional sum of $1,600 asked for would not give much opportunity for doing so. But this is like an accusation made to a recently appointed committee that its object was to provide employment for certain friends.)

Rep. Dole was not prepared to discuss the foreign policy of the Government, which would hardly be in order on this small item. There was a certain interest attached to those diplomatic papers, which, in the hands of such men as Fomaner and Alexander, would be of value, but manipulated by crude clerks their value would be lost.

Rep. Keau said all he wanted was to see the money expended for the purpose named and nothing else. He spoke at length in Hawaiian, without giving an opportunity to be interpreted.

Rep. Thurston said this was a point at which they should begin cutting down expenses. The Ministry itself should be liberally provided for, but this was not the time for the country to go into such work as the Minister has stated, the searching and compiling of old records. It ought to pay its debts before going into this work. I am very much surprised to find the honorable member for Honolulu advocating this expense when some of his constituents in Makiki Valley are living in miserable huts, on the verge of destitution, because they could not get their just debts due from the Government, for lands taken from them for the reservoir. Those people had been besieging the Minister of the Interior for their money, and were doing so till this day unless it had been paid lately. One of them had come into this very room and sued for his money, which he ought to have got in hard cash, and although judgment was given him, as far as I know that man has not got his money yet. Yet the member for Honolulu comes in here and advocates that expenditure when his own constituents cannot get their just dues from the Government. I think this is a good time to stop off unnecessary expenses.

Rep. Nahale said if the object of this appropriation was simply to gain notoriety for the country, he would not vote for it. He thought it would be better to have this item divided up, so as to show specifically the different services for which it was intended.

Rep. Dickey favored the amendment for $2,400. He thought the work in question could be done under the head, in the appropriations for the Board of Education, "Compiling School History of the Hawaiian Islands and Printing and Binding the same."

Rep. Richardson was sorry the Minister had indulged in reflections that might be applied to the introduction of the resolution to appoint a committee on engrossment.

Rep. Aholo said certain remarks reminded him of the story about the mountain that labored and brought forth a mouse. There has been a great deal of talk that does not apply to the subject at all. In regard to the remarks about the people of Makiki, probably there was no money available to the Minister. He was very sure that if the Minister had gone on and paid money not appropriated this house would have censured him. When the house arrives at the appropriations for the Interior Department, it would be the proper time to make provision for those people. The item for the Board of Education could not be employed for the purpose here required. Japanese and French translators would be needed. The archives are valuable and ought to be preserved. Their preservation is as important as that of the bound volumes of Hawaiian publications provided for by resolution of the member for Molokai the other day.

Rep. Kalua said that if the Minister had asked for lock and key for the forty-six chests of papers they would have voted the appropriation without question. Here are these archives in forty-six chests all safe and can be found at any time. A great amount of what the Minister said was airing his vanity and showing himself off. What does all this talk amount to if the country has not money enough to carry on its business? The Minister's remarks have evidently affected the member for Honolulu, who has tried to shoot at the sun but has come far short of his mark. What does he know about the Foreign Office? The subject of this item seems to be merely to increase the expenses of Government. The limit has not been able to tell us how much these extra clerks will want. I notice in one of the letters that His Majesty is addressed as "King of Kings." I have always understood that that title only applies to one being, so that its application to His Majesty simply shows the ignorance of the writer of the letter. Perhaps it is on account of that letter addressing His Majesty as "King of Kings" that these extra clerks should be required. The Minister has asked us to state our wants for appropriations, but we have done that before and the money has been appropriated but the Ministry has never expended it. I believe in sustaining proper relations with foreign countries, but only the items that suit Ministers are carried out. As I said before, it is very easy for members to sit in this house and vote appropriations, but how are they going to get money to carry them out?

Noble Bush said one thing was very important in this house. The Ministers submit what they want and it is for the house to say whether it is possible for the country to afford the amount. I believe fictitious figures have been inserted just to make things fit. I think our actions should be governed by our revenue. It seems we are increasing work that we should not.

Rep. Kaunamano said this was only a small item and would not occasion so much talk were it not for members desiring to air their eloquence and show themselves off before the spectators. There is just a choice between two items which could be easily made. I confess I do not know much about the Foreign Office, but I often see in the newspapers accounts of treaties and messages from foreign countries, and no doubt these documents require to be translated.

Rep. Keau moves an amendment to insert after the item, "not to be used for any other purpose."

Rep. Thurston said the amendment was covered by a clause in the bill.

The amendment to insert $2,400 carried.

On motion of Rep. Thurston the committee rose, reported progress and asked leave to sit again.

Rep. Aholo moved the Assembly adopt the report. Carried.

On motion of Rep. Keau the Assembly adjourned at 3:30 till 10 o'clock to-morrow.

TWELFTH DAY.

THURSDAY, May 13th.

The Legislative Assembly met at 10 o'clock, the President, Hon. J. S. Walker, in the chair. After prayer by Rev. J. Waimanu, Chaplain, the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mr. Pierce, Secretary, and declared approved.

REPORTS.

Minister Gulick presented a report of the Printing Committee, with printed copies of certain bills.

Minister Gulick asked for more time for the special committee on the bill to define the fire limits of Honolulu, as another bill had been given them for consideration. Granted.

RESOLUTIONS.

Rep. Castle moved for leave to introduce a bill of which he had given notice. As the bill was a long one, he moved a suspension of the rules to have it read by its title. The rules were suspended and the bill was read by title, as an act to amend and consolidate the law relating to commissioners of private ways and water rights.

Rep. Kalua, by leave, introduced an act to regulate the descent of property to next of kin.

Rep. Kalua called for the answer of the Minister of Interior to the resolution of yesterday, asking whether Z. K. Meyers, clerk of the waterworks, had taken the oath of allegiance.

Minister Gulick, in answer to the resolution, would say that the law had been complied with in that case.

Rep. Kalua said the answer was short and to the point, but he would like to ask when the law was complied with.

Minister Gulick said it was since Meyers had received his appointment, together with other arrangements, such as signing a bond.

Rep. Kalua wanted dates.

Minister Neumann (smiling) moved for a select committee to investigate this matter, but not being seconded withdrew his motion.

Minister Neumann read a first time an act to amend sec. 847, Civil Code, relating to the Chancellor of this kingdom. He explained that the bill was nothing more than to confer powers in equity and chancery on both the Associate Justices, who were to be Vice Chancellors, those powers being now, without any reason in the world, held by the Chief Justice only. He moved the rules be suspended, to have the bill read a second time by its title.

Rep. Castle said he did not like to object to any proposal from the Attorney-General, as head of the bar, but he did not see any necessity for pushing forward this bill. Unless some special urgency for it were shown, he did not see any necessity for departing from the usual course.

Minister Neumann was proceeding to explain the nature of the bill, when the President told him he was out of order.

Rep. Kalua objected to the ruling of the chair, and was making a speech, when Rep. Dickey called him to order, whereupon the former appealed from the decision of the chair.

Noble Rhodes gave his view of the point, holding that only a motion to adjourn, simply, was not debatable, and that, therefore, the member for Kalua was entirely in order.

On the question being put the chair was sustained.

The motion to suspend the rules carried and the bill was read a second time by its title.

Minister Gibson gave notice of an act to provide for a national loan and define its objects. In addition to what he had formerly given notice of, this act would provide for funding the national debt.

Rep. Castle gave notice of an act to add a new section to the Civil Code, to be called 128 A, to restrict the granting of licenses in Honolulu. Also, of an act to amend chap. 18, laws of 1884, relating to the Second Judicial Circuit.

Rep. Brown gave notice of an act to repeal an act entitled an act to re-enact an act entitled an act to prohibit natives from leaving the Hawaiian Islands, passed the 2nd July, 1850.

Rep. Baker read a first time an act to make a permanent settlement on Thomas W. Verrett. The preamble sets forth the long and faithful services rendered to the country by Mr. Everett, and the first section

Rep. Keau presented a resolution that the Minister of Interior be ordered to have Lihua street repaired immediately, because it is now one of the worst streets in the city, and that he give orders to the Road Supervisor to begin repairs immediately. He moved the resolution be referred to the Minister of Interior.

Rep. Aholo said he would like to inquire how much money the Minister would be authorized to spend on this street. It would be better to name a sum in the resolution.

Rep. Keau said he had noticed that streets on which foreigners lived were kept in good repair, while those inhabited by natives were neglected.

Rep. Richardson moved the resolution be laid on the table to be considered with the Appropriation Bill. The Minister could not take the money till the Assembly makes an appropriation.

Rep. Keau said if there was no money available he saw streets still being repaired. Why could not part of the money be expended out there?

The amendment to lay resolution on table carried.

Rep. Dole asked about the resolution calling on the Finance Minister to furnish the house with copies of the Collector-General's report.

Minister Gulick, on behalf of the Finance Minister, confessed to an oversight in not obeying the resolution. (Shortly afterward he presented the house with the document in question, explaining that it was printed in English only, but the report itself was translated into native in the Finance Minister's report.)

HAWAIIAN LIME.

LANA'IA, May 11, 1886.
MESSRS. ALLEN & ROBINSON,
Honolulu.

DEAR SIRS:—In reply to your favor of last week I beg to state that we tested lately both the Hawaiian and the California Lime in our Sugar Mill and I am decidedly of the opinion that the Hawaiian Lime stands higher in every respect for the reason that it is much stronger, thus causing a considerable saving. It furthermore does not coat our pipes and drum so much as the California Lime and should therefore be used in every Sugar Mill. I remain, dear sirs, yours respectfully,
JAS. CAMPBELL.

The Hawaiian Lime has to be slacked in hot juice in order to use it to advantage.

MICRONESIA.

JOURNAL LETTER FROM REV. R. W. LOGAN, OCTOBER 2, 1885, TO MARCH 8, 1886, EX-MORNING STAR.

December 2nd.—Time flies rapidly. I did not realize it had been so long since I had written. Wednesday, October 28, we organized a church at Kuku. Eighteen were baptized. The chief of the place has been a famous warrior. It was he who killed a white man named Hartman, a few years ago. Hartman richly deserved his fate, no doubt, as he had killed quite a number of natives and was in all ways a bad man. I hesitated about baptizing the chief, but could see no reason for refusing him. He takes the name of Saul. I went to Kuku Tuesday, found Moses already there. We spent some time examining the candidates and were much pleased by their answers and the spirit which they manifested. Wednesday morning Mr. Worth brought over Mary and the children in the boat. This time the sea was calm and the boat-ride pleasant. We filled in the boat with services until about 3 p. m. when we started for home. We had just heard that a son of the Hartman mentioned above had gone with a fleet of canoes to the western islands of the group (Utet and Tol), and that there had been a fight in which several men had been killed; so we came home by way of Sopoara, the place where Hartman's five sons (half-white) live, that I might talk to them. The boy said he did not fire until his party was attacked, and then only to "fraid" the other party; and that none were killed, only two wounded. I warned him faithfully that he would be punished if he shot people, and he promised to abstain. We reached home about an hour after dark, thoroughly tired but well-satisfied with the day's work.

Our school has been going on prosperously. Mr. Worth is now able to take the heavier part of the work, so I am relieved for other duties. The days are very busy. I am sometimes reminded of working with a threshing machine at home. When the machine has started one must push on his work, no let up until the machine stops. Arthur's lessons take considerable time, and on the other hand he relieves me of many duties I should otherwise have to look after. He seems thoroughly content here.

Solomon, our teacher on Losap, has come over in a canoe bringing his wife who has lost her mind; softening of the brain probably. She was one of our best women and her case is very sad. They will go to Ponape if she lives until the Morning Star goes again. We cannot tell when he will get back into the work again and we seem to need him so much. We try to make a trip to some other point once a week. We go in the boat, sometimes all going, sometimes only Mr. Worth and I. We usually send word beforehand so the people may gather together to meet us. We have frequently the opportunity to "tell the story" to those who have never heard. In my talks at such times I begin at the foundation, telling that there is a God, who has all power, who made all things, who is our Father, who hates wickedness and loves righteousness, and will call all men to account for their deeds. The life after death, the mission of Christ, etc., also come in, and also that the revelation of these things and of God's will, is written down in a book, hence our knowledge of them.

Last week we went to Sopoak at the east end of Uela, about ten miles from home. We all went, taking along a lunch. We started after breakfast. The wind was northerly, so we ran around the south side of the island, and thus had calm water much of the way. Moses had been to Sopoak once or twice, but white people were a strange spectacle. We went to a large canoe house belonging to the high chief. It is simply a huge roof, the eaves only a few feet from the ground. In one corner there was a frail enclosure, entered by a hole about two feet square near the ground, out of which the chief crawled. The people gazed at us with the same wonder with which backwoods people gaze at a circus, or wild animals in a menagerie. I talked a while with the chief, and people who were present, and then asked them to send and gather the people generally, and especially the women, not one of whom could be seen. As it was now noon we ate our lunch, and this to the spectators was quite equal to the second act at the circus. After lunch, Mrs. Logan with the help of the children, Mr. Worth, and the boat's crew, sang several native hymns. The old chief could not persuade a single woman to come near us. Some children, many of them naked, came peeping about with curious eyes, but ready for flight at the least sign of motion on our part. Perhaps thirty men gathered together, to whom I talked for a half hour, about God, duty, and the life after death. They listened very attentively, especially the old chief. Then Joni, our Morlock boy, talked awhile; some time was spent in asking and answering questions, and then we got ready for the trip home. Two-thirds of the way home we were under the lee of the islands, but the rest of the way the sea was quite rough, and both Mary and I were quite seasick.

There is a district named Metitu, about five miles distant on the north side of this island. Esaiam has relatives there, so we thought he might make a beginning in missionary work there. We went there, talked to the people about the new religion, and asked them if they wanted it. One old chief said he did not; he did not dislike us, but he did not like the new way. But the people generally, and the highest chief, said they liked the "lamalam," and would be glad of a teacher. I told them that if they wanted to be taught they must set apart a piece of land for the use of a teacher and to build a church upon, and then set to work to build a church. They said they would, but I wanted to see how much they cared about it, so I told them to talk it over among themselves, and then come to Anapau, and tell us. This was Friday. The next Monday, Uitep, the principal chief, came saying that they would give the land and build the church. The next Friday we went to Metitu, and they gave a piece of land, quite large and well-situated. A few days later they came to borrow an axe to cut timber with. Esaiam will go and stay with them part of the time, preach and teach school, and we hope ultimately settle with them.

about a Marvellous Cure.

Living Six Years Without

Going to Bed.

MR. EDITOR:—While spending a few days at the pleasant seaside town of Aberystwyth, Cardiganshire, Wales, I heard related what seemed to me either a fabulous story or a marvellous cure.

The story was that a poor sufferer who had not been able to lie down in bed for six long years, given up to die by all the Doctors, had been speedily cured by some Patent Medicine. It was related with the more implicit confidence from the circumstance, as was said, that the Vicar of Llanrystyd was familiar with the facts, and could vouch for the truth of the report.

Having a little curiosity to know how such stories grow in travelling, I took the liberty while at the village of Llanrystyd to call upon the Vicar, the Rev. T. Evans, and to enquire about this wonderful cure. Through a total stranger to him, both he and his wife most graciously entertained me in a half hour's conversation, principally touching the case of Mr. Pugh, in which they seemed to take a deep and sympathetic interest, having been familiar with his sufferings, and now rejoiced in what seemed to them a most remarkable cure.

The Vicar remarked that he presumed his name had been connected with the report from having mentioned the case to Mr. John Thomas, a chemist of Llanon. He said Mr. Pugh was formerly a resident of their parish, but was now living in a most remarkable cure. He strongly vouched for Mr. Pugh's character as a respectable farmer and worthy of credit. I left the venerable Vicar with a livelier sense of the happy relation of a pastor and people, feeling that he was one who truly sympathized with who are afflicted in mind, body, or estate.

On my return to Aberystwyth, I was impressed with a desire to see Mr. Pugh, whose reputation stood so high. His farm is called Pannom Mawr, signifying "above the dingy," situated near the summit of a smooth, rounded hill, where looking a beautiful valley in which is situated the lovely rymandul Church of Llanedol. I found Mr. Pugh, apparently about 40 years old, of medium height, rather slight, with a pleasant and intelligent face. I told him I had heard of his great affliction and of his remarkable and almost miraculous relief, and that I had come to learn from his own lips, what there was of truth in the reports.

Mr. Pugh remarked that his neighbors had taken a kindly and sympathetic interest in his case for many years, but of late their interest had been greatly awakened by a happy change in his condition. What you report as having heard abroad, said he, is substantially true, with one exception. I never understood that my case was ever given up as hopeless by any Physician. I have been treated by several Doctors hereabouts, as good as any in Wales, but unfortunately no prescription of theirs ever brought the desired relief.

Fifteen years ago, he said, I first became conscious of a sour and deranged stomach and loss of appetite, which the Doctors told me was Dyspepsia. What food I could hold in my stomach seemed to do me no good and was often thrown up with painful retchings. This was followed after a time with a hoarseness and a raw soreness of the throat which the Doctors called bronchitis, and I was treated for that, but with little success. The same shortness of breath, and a sense of suffocation, especially nights, with clammy sweat, and I would have to get out of bed and sometimes open a door or window in winter weather to fill my lungs with the cold air.

About six years ago I became so bad that I could not sleep in bed, but had to take my quiet rest and dreamy sleep sitting in an armchair. My affliction seemed to be working downward into my bowels as well as upwards into my lungs and throat. In the violent coughing spasms which grew more frequent, my abdomen would expand and collapse, and at times it would seem that I should suffocate. All this time I was reduced in strength so that I could perform no hard labor and my spirits were consequently much depressed.

Early in this last spring I had a still more severe spasmodic attack, and my family and neighbors became alarmed, believing that certainly I would not survive, when a neighbor, who had some knowledge, or had heard of the medicine, sent to Aberystwyth by the driver of the Omnibus Post, some seven miles distant, and fetched a bottle of Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup.

This medicine they administered to me according to the directions, when to their surprise and delight no less than my own, the spasms ceased. I became at ease, and my stomach was calmed. My bowels were moved as by a gentle cathartic, and I felt a sense of quiet comfort all through such as I had not before realized in many years. I could walk around the house and breathe comfortably in a few hours after I had taken the medicine. I have continued to take the medicine daily now for something over two months, and I can lie down and sleep sweetly at nights and have not since had a recurrence of those terrible spasms and sweatings. I have been so long broken down and reduced in my whole system that I have not tried to perform any very hard outdoor labor, deeming it best to be prudent lest by over-exertion I may do myself injury before my strength is fully restored. I feel that my stomach and bowels have been and are being thoroughly renovated and renewed by the medicine. In fact I feel like a new man.

I have been much gratified by my neighbors, especially by the good Vicar of Llanrystyd, who with his sympathetic wife have come three miles to shed tears of joy on my recovery.

I bade Mr. Pugh good-bye, happy that even one at least among thousands had found a remedy for an aggravating disease. Believing this remarkable case of Dyspeptic Asthma should be known to the public, I beg to submit the above facts as they are related to me. 299 1y] F. T. W.
