In reception which Mrs. Charles T. Mrs. Clifford Kimball, Mrs. J. A. Walker gave on Thursday afternoon at Mr. Mrs. Porter Boyd, Mrs. Ashton, the residence of Mrs. William Wilder on Diamond street in honor of Mrs. G. Smith was attended by several prominent guests and was a most brilliant affair. Mrs. William Wilder greeted guests at the door and conducted them to the receiving party, which consisted of Mrs. Charles F. Wilder, Mrs. G. Smith and Mrs. Frederic Klamp. The hall was artistically decorated with pieces of Chinese shrubs, the rich coloring being most effective. Jars of the yellow shower were much admired in the various rooms and palms, greens and flowering shrubs played an important part in the decorative scheme. Little tables were placed in the library and dining rooms and a number of pretty girls waited upon the guests, consisting of Misses Alice Macfarlane, Fannie Neumann, Elsa Schaefer, Lorna Hall, Lillian Putt, Nellie Alexander, Anna Walker and Mrs. Arthur Wilder and Mrs. Mary Gunn. Mrs. Andrew Miller poured coffee. Mrs. George Boettcher presided at the tea-table and Mrs. Johnson took charge of the punchbowl. Mrs. Smith, who is an aunt of Mrs. Frederic Klamp, was much admired as a handsome woman with snow white hair and beautiful black eyes. Klamp and Mrs. Charles Wilder looked very pretty. Among the guests were Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. Galt, Mrs. James Wilder, Mrs. C. Heidmann, Mr. Wallace Farrington, Mrs. Van Vida, Mrs. Schofield, Mrs. Ingram, Mrs. Jones, Mrs. George Porter, Mrs. F. Humphries, Mrs. W. Dahlberg, Mrs. E. Layard, Mrs. Harry Macfarlane, Henry Dutton, Mrs. A. Lewis, Priscilla Ward, Mrs. A. Lewis, Priscilla Ward, Mrs. W. H. Hodick, Mrs. J. H. Atherton, Mrs. Oliva Davies, Mrs. Mott-Smith, Mrs. Hitchcock, Mrs. Will Kaelane, Miss Foreman, Miss Kaufman, Mrs. Waterhouse, Miss Hoffman.

Mrs. Constable, Misses Travellian, Maid Kinney, C. Restarick, Hart and Stevens.

Miss Gillett is the guest of Mrs. Arthur Berg for a few weeks.

The christening of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Kimball occurred at St. Andrew's this week. He was named George after Mr. Kimball's father.

On Thursday evening Prince and Princess Kawananakoa, who are giving a series of dinners, entertained for Captain and Mrs. Heidmann, Dr. and Mrs. F. H. Humphries, Mrs. Bruceman and Mrs. Fairchild.

Mr. and Mrs. Brooks gave a pretty little dinner on Wednesday evening for several of the officers of the Wisconsin.

The hop at the Seaside on Wednesday was a gay affair—for the many Navy officers from the different ships now in port.

A dance will be given at the Alexander Young this evening for the officers of the U. S. S. Wisconsin, the U. S. N. T. Lawton and J. B. R. Atwater, it will be a most brilliant affair, so they say.

Judge and Mrs. Lindsey have taken a cottage at the Seaside Hotel. Mrs. Lindsey is a charming girl and very much liked.

Mr. Dyer returned from the Orient this week. He is still quite ill.

Mr. Erling Heidmann is recovering from his recent severe illness.

The Dramatic Club of the Wisconsin made a decided hit last evening at the Orpheum. There was an immense audience and at the end of "A

NEW STARS APPEAR IN THE FIRMAMENT

Wisconsin Dramatic Club Polves To Be a Wonder

There is consternation in the Theatrical Trust. Misses Raw and Branger are showing signs of serious perturbation and David Benson has rolled up his typewriter and begun work on a new play.

For a new star has appeared in the theatrical firmament, several days ago. Their discovery was made to New York last night from the roof of the Orpheum. There are so many of them that they make a whole constellation. And the stars are all of the first magnitude.

It is true that these stellar bodies move in their orbits with a bit of a scandalous roll. And the mate of the spheres is a deep base, pitched about six times below the horizon of the theater. But that makes the discovery only the more remarkable.

If nothing could only have seen little White last night as he struts about the boards of the Orpheum stage, governed in singing white and elevated on four-inch French heels.

It was great—the best yet? If the Wisconsin Dramatic Club had only known how much real amusement they were going to furnish, they would have doubled the price of admission. And if the audience had known in advance how logically they were going to be, they would have been willing to pay it.

There was nothing to it. They were all the candy. F. J. McLean was Gregory Grimes, J. J. Grant as Robert Glenn, the Wall Street hero, and General Mark Lester, a hero of the Cuban ten-year war, C. Rodriguez Pedro Mendez, half-brother of Mark Lester, C. A. Davidson Dr. Garcia, surgeon of the S. S. Majestic, Maria, wife of Pedro, F. J. Sullivan.

Thought It Over

"I went into the Grill the other noon," said a business man this morning, "and I noticed Brown, Vida and Harry Murray sitting at the same table."

"I'm going to vote at the next election and I naturally started thinking of the men who might be put in their place if I voted the other way. I asked, 'J. J. Chaplin and Radcliffe would take their places.'

"I'm going to vote the straight Republican ticket and the more I think it over the more I am determined to see that as many others as I can reach vote the same way."

How Old Is Ann?

The petition of the parents of the Japanese girl, Momt Yonane, who, in her name, asked for the annulment of her marriage on the ground that she was under 14 years of age and therefore under the legal age for marriage, was denied this morning by Judge de Bolt.

The question was as complex as "How old is Ann?" but Judge de Bolt cut the Gordian knot by the decision that the girl herself, being unjudged, was a more competent witness as to the date of her birth than her father and mother. The girl has a baby several months old and the testimony tipped principally on the matter of whether when it is the age given by her parents she could have borne a child.

Registration closes on the 9th of October.

TWO KINDS

Early out an atmosphere of richness. The little upturned sets that adorned the faces of the lovely attendants failed to conceal the beauty that lurked beneath. Mrs. Hosmer made no effort when she said that she had done the most striking and beautiful portions of fashion and the Americans among the patrons to make her Fortune happy!

Then follows the list of the three most popular and elegant McIlvane girls:

Louise, Miss Marion McIlvane, who is a little girl and who uses no ornaments other than diamonds and pearls upon the same sweet grace; and, the comes of a good old Scotch name and when her father died he left her one of his own men, and she is going to have another in Mrs. McIlvane's only son, Tom, who is as popular now than as his charming sister was a child. The family has always been one of the most prominent socials in the evenings of its career, showing by the number of its servants and the luxury of its surroundings, the taste and refinement which are as natural as they themselves are rare in these days when it is too liable to be a sign of wealth that unknown to the date of the day.

The McIlvane girls are in a sumptuous room on the West side and the room is filled with many other their friends, all of the most brilliant and commanding socials, harmony and conversation. They have often been at the McIlvane's however, in this sort of dress, and I know that the memory of their past life and of the charming people who used to go among the most brilliant of their neighbors.

A few days ago we were a witness of a party in Honolulu, and one can hardly believe the beauty of the. President of the United States, Mr. Taft, for whom a room had been the one given by

Mr. and Mrs. George Macfarlane, Mr. and

HATS ON SEA AND LAND

There are a few women who can manage to look a little short of hideous when their hair is wet. I think they must be related to the kind who are attractive with "wind-blown" hair, who have "silvery laughter," and the other kind who, when they weep, are soon to shed "pearly tears."

But the family is a very small one and there aren't many branches. The most of us poor ordinary mortals look anything but attractive after the first wave has dashed over our heads. Even a pretty woman loses half of her charm, and the rest of us—may the fates preserve us till we get our hair dry!

But, fortunately, there is an alternative. There usually is. In this case it takes the form of the bathing cap, and whether it be of silk-like rubber in patine design or clear carnation red, or ocean blue, it is really quite fetching when properly worn, and it quite frequently—every once in a while—really does fulfill its mission in life and keeps the hair dry—partially. The Woman's Home Companion has this to say of a new style bathing cap, which may be of interest to the feminine devotees of the bath at Waikiki:

"A bathing cap which actually improves the appearance of the wearer is certainly a novelty well worth describing. It is out this year, and no longer does the summer girl dream of adding a waterproof cap to her bathing costume, for this new one is really good looking. It is made in a very clever way, being really a bathing cap and hand-watched all in one."

It is made of waterproof material, and comes in a variety of colors and designs. The inside of this novel bathing headgear is in the form of a band-ring, the ends of which are drawn up to the front of the cap, and are there tied in a pretty bow; the ends are kept in place by a strap which is just large enough to hold them so that they do not slip off again.

Louise Batterwate, writing in the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph, has been moved to speak words of warning apropo of the lingerie-hat craze. She says:

"Hawtions is the only word to apply to some of the elbows which now proudly walk along the streets of the city. Which is another painful instance of the lady who tries pretty things, for themselves alone."

Such a woman sees an immense lingerie hat with rose pick satin ribbons. It is very pretty, a sweet and dainty hat, suggestive of love's young dreams in the merry month of May. The longer she looks at it the more she loves it, finally buys it, has it sent home, and wears it. When I mention the fact that she is thirty-five, swarthy, and quite quid scruffy, you can judge for yourself the effect of that headgear.

"Every now and then a new style will loom on fashion's horizon, which the wary one will at once recognize as dangerous. It will probably be an insidiously pleasing thing, appealing to the heart of every woman. Except 'ole Miss Fox,' who will examine it from side and reverse to come nearer. But it will take, be a tremendous success and in a few months every mother's daughter who has succumbed to it will be wishing she hadn't."

Mrs. W. T. Rawlins, Captain and Mrs. Hattery, Dr. and Mrs. Murray, Mrs. F. Swanzy, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ivers, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Benson, Judge and Mrs. Lainay, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Berg, Mr. and Mrs. Ranney Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Galt, Mr. and Mrs. B. Lanai Tea. Mrs. Gerrit P. Wilder, one of the most prominent of Honolulu hostesses, gave a charming tea on her broad lanai on Monday in honor of Mrs. Henry Dutton. A large round table was set in the diningroom off the lanai, prettily arranged with flowers, fine linen, delicate china and gleaming silver. At this table Mrs. Francis Swanzy presided over the coffee urn. Mrs. George Carter poured tea and Mrs. Richard Ivers looked after the punchbowl. The daintily tiled tables on the lanai were in charge of Mrs. Clifford Kimball, Mrs. Charles Wilder, Mrs. George Potter and Mrs. J. S. Walker. Mrs. Gerrit Wilder received her guests informally and looked sweet and dainty in a white lace frock of pink and looked charming. Among the guests present and invited were Mrs. Harry Macfarlane, Mrs. Francis Swanzy, Mrs. George Carter, Mrs. Walter Brinkerhoff, Mrs. Chas. Cooper, Mrs. Edward Tenney, Mrs. E. Faxon Bishop, Mrs. Arthur Brown, Mrs. Cushman, Mrs. J. S. ### Complimentary Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Ward and their daughter, Mrs. Hough, who arrived in the Restorer on Wednesday morning were given a dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Gaines at their bungalow in College Hills. The table was set on the lanai and the effect was most artistic, for the lanai and table were elaborately decorated. Red table, asparagus plumbos, mats and a silver centerpiece filled with crimson carnations in conjunction with cut glass bowls containing the same vivid blossoms at either end of the table made a fine effect. A log of ferns inclosing electric lights daintily shaded by Oriental lanterns, was hung directly over the table. The American, Hawaiian and English flags were also used in an effective way, and directly behind Mrs. Gaines was the cabin steamer's "C. P. C. C. Bag." Luscious fruits were displayed in a red frieze, and the mantel was banked with plumbos blossoms. In the drawing-room a large jar of red ribbon was much admired. A quintet club played and sang delightfully throughout the dinner. Mrs. Gaines, a distinguished looking woman, was prettily dressed in white satin chiffon over white Liberty. Mrs. Ward, who is very charming, gave a graphic description of the sojourn on Midway. Mrs. Hough, who is the wife of Lieutenant Hough, U. S. N., is also a great friend of our only Hugh Rodman, who is now Col. Rodman, by the by. The dinner was served in the library. Those who enjoyed Mrs. Castile's hospitality were Mrs. Shipman, Mrs. Thurston, Miles Hazeldorn and Miss Tower.

Books, Bookish People and Things

We get no good by being ungenerous even to a book.

E. B. Browning.

THE OPEN ROAD PROVES TO BE A NEW AND PLEASANT ROAD

The July issue has a frontispiece of Clarence S. Barlow, whose book, "Farmington," we reviewed in these columns some months ago. Mr. Barlow will have a paper on "Conduct and Profession" in the August number.

W. D. Eaton, on "Heretical Education," strikes a true note when he says:

"The primary mistake lies back of the first active steps. The capacity to be educated should be undertaken before education is undertaken at all; and there has been no selective process employed with that view."

Mr. Creelman, well known as a forcible writer, has a well-illustrated contribution in the September "Pearson's Magazine," entitled "The Real Mr. Hearst."

"Mr. Hearst is not a force in prospect," he says, "but a force in being; and whether we regard him or not, whether we regard him as the honest and unselfish spokesman of oppressed and discontented millions, or a shallow and indecent demagogue playing upon the passions of the people for the mere gratification of a low, vulgar instinct for notoriety; it is not to be denied that he has come to play a tremendous part in the affairs of the American people."

The history of Mr. Hearst's newspaper experiences are interesting and creditable to him. Perhaps he is as sincerely honest in his advocacy of the people's rights as he ought to be; certainly he has done some things which deserve high praise.

"Get all the money you can honestly got. The man who says he loves to be poor is a liar, and he takes you and me for tools if he wouldn't try to make us credit it. No same man can undervalue the importance of fame, wealth, or of position, but the man who wins these things by paying for them with his health, his happiness or the sweetness of living, has made a sorry bargain, and is poor indeed."

"Our stock in life is that amount of thought we have had. The fields we have thus created are forever pasture for our thoughts."

"Nothing is more pitiable than for a man to have more property than he has manhood."

The September number, now in press, will have a paper by the "Bulletin Bookman," entitled "The Summer School of the Woods," which was read by request before the North Kona Teachers' Association at its last meeting. Mrs. G. F. Maydwell, president.

MUMMIES AND CONSUMPTION

In the "Literary Digest" for Aug. 11 is the rather sensational reference to Dr. Borgnae's theory which he advances in his monograph on "Egyptology Versus Health."

Dr. R. Borgnae is a lecturer on bacteriology in Paris. He believes that the bacilli of tuberculosis did not die when the ancient Egyptians did, but that the germs of this terrible disease have lived on to spread tuberculosis all over the world.

"The great spread of tuberculosis and consumption throughout Europe and America in the past 100 years and its causation in the disinterment and shipment abroad over the land of the mummies which had reposed for thousands of years in the tombs of the Pharaohs."

This may be romantic, but, if true, is no doubt that we ought to leave some things alone.

With our herculean and subterranean excursions; with our excavations and submarine explorations, we may yet come across something even worse than tuberculosis.

"The Regeneration of Minneapolis," by James Lynn Nash, and "The Separation of Church and State in France," by Abbie Felix Klein, are most excellent and readable articles says the Wisconsin boys were disappointed in not finding the Camp McKinley men on the ball field. "We know nothing of any intended game," said Lieutenant Hannanah, "and therefore they could not have been disappointed by any responsible person. Some of the men may have talked down town of a game but no plans were on foot at the camp, and that is the only place for plans to be carried out."

HEAVY-WEIGHT PROBLEM

The complex heavyweight mixture of bunt fighters and otherwise who laid claim to the heavyweight title after Jeff took his ease and made his exit from the ring has been filtered and re-filtered until it has at last resolved itself into a definite compound. The only two elements of the present championship compound are Philadelphia Jack O'Brien and Tommy Burns. They are now the only two active fighters who have any right to lay claim to the abandoned championship chair. Burns shares this right by virtue of his defeat of Martin Hart, who, although a very poor excuse for a champion, advanced himself as such the world over. O'Brien claims the supremacy on account of his defeat of old Bob Fitzsimmons, who stepped out of ancient history to put the gloves on with Real Estate John and got an unexpected attack of old age at the end of the thirteenth round.

True, the claim of these two fighters to the title is anything but substantial, but who else is there in the heavyweight game that has even a right to claim that he had a right to the title? Nobody. Sam Berger may have made a very creditable showing against O'Brien in their six-round fight in Philadelphia, but champions do not usually change hands in a six-round contest, where the decision is left to a thousand or less newspapermen, who all see the fight from a different viewpoint. Jack Johnson may be as good a man as either Burns or O'Brien, but there is nothing in his record that can be doped along technical lines to land him in the supreme council of the heavies.

The winner of the O'Brien-Burns match, whenever and wherever it comes off, will have as clear a title to the heavyweight championship as it is possible under the circumstances. The $20,000 talk that has been wafted up here from the sunny south during the last few days seems to consist principally of ozone. O'Brien has received an official offer from the south club and knows no more about the affair than what the little birdie vouchsafe to tell him through the press or along the line. The Baldwin has exploded, and it is not expected that McCarey will offer any Goldfield figures for the Burns-O'Brien match.

Meanwhile, Sam Berger is waiting some place between here and New York for somebody to offer him $20,000 to put on a pair of boxing gloves. If Berger and O'Brien fight, the winter claims the title, then Burns will raise a howl that will smite the skies. A Burns-O'Brien match would be the most satisfactory to decide which of the two has the best right to claim the title.

BRYAN ON ROOSEVELT

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 19.—W. J. Bryan spoke today to 3000 people on the campus of the South Carolina University. Bryan expressed great satisfaction that this meeting had been opened with prayer.

He declared that he had no objection to President Roosevelt using his platform, but he did object to electing a Republican when a Democrat could be chosen on the same platform and be consistent. Roosevelt, he said, had been elected as a "god of war," and he would go down in history as a peacemaker.

The Republicans, Bryan charged, had refused to put a rate bill clause in their platform, but the Democrats at Kansas City had done so. He made his usual anti-trust argument, and explained that he had been misunderstood in the matter of public ownership of railroads.

In the course of the address he claimed that had the Democrats won in 1900 the money saved from subsequent Philippine campaigns would have dug the Panama Canal.

After the speaking Mr. Bryan was given a public reception at the State Capital and luncheon at the home of Captain W. E. Gonzales.

The London general postoffice recently successfully delivered a letter addressed "Corner House, Two Stone Dogs in Front."

WHEN DAN PATCH SEEMED HUMAN

Minneapolis, Sept. 7.—Dan Patch has once more proved an indisputable claim to the title of the king of pacers. Yesterday afternoon on the state fair track the great stallion sent the world's record down another notch and drove a crowd of at least 30,000 spectators into a frenzy of delight and appreciation.

The crowd had watched the record trial in silence. After the horses had gone under the wire the silence remained unbroken. The official announcer raised his megaphone and shouted:

"Dan Patch has paced the mile out in 1:55 flat, breaking the world's—"

But he got no further. The vast throng rose to its feet in the great stand and pandemonium reigned. Hats were thrown in the air and tramped. Women waved handkerchiefs and Minnesota literally stood up and paid homage to her adopted son.

It was a great day for Minnesota. A horse owned by a Minneapolis man had not only shattered the state record for the mile, but the world's mark as well, and on the state fair track Dan's other record marks had been made in the south, far away from friendly crowds and the details had always been telegraphically meager. Here Dan had crowned his great career by his premier performance in the eyes of his friends. It is small wonder that they were ready to apotheosize him as they were to apotheosize him as they drivers added a new life, transforming the panorama into a living spectacle. The runners were raised out by their drivers for the supreme effort. They responded nobly. Hersey sat immovable upon the white "bible" of the pacer and did not by any motion betray that he was calling upon his charge for an increased effort. Dan Patch was going as easily and as freely as when scoring in the preliminary trials. His stride was as true and his reach as time-consuming as when he had started the great trial.

There was an instant of craning of necks, of riveted attention, and the quartet had whirled beneath the finishing wire. The work was done. The official watches stopped at 1:55 flat.

Watches in the stands in the hands of experienced horsemen had caught him at 1:55.

Dan Patch had paced the fastest mile in the history of harness racing. He had brought the record to his Minnesota home. It is small wonder that he was acclaimed with regal honor by his

LAST NIGHT OF VASCO

Vasco and his company will close their season at the Orpheum Theater tonight. Arrangements have been made with the electric company to have a stronger light for the moving-picture machine and the pictures will be one of the strong features of the program.

If you have not seen Vasco you should make it a point not to miss him tonight and his great musical act.

At the Needles lighthouse, Isle of Wight, there has been placed a set of reed trumpets which give a blast that can be heard ten miles — treble the distance of the old fog-bell signal.

VATCHSMEN WON'T RAGE ON SUNDAY

Lyle Dickey's Crusade Has Far-Reaching Result

The effects of the crusade against prize-fighting by Lyle Dickey seems to be having far-reaching effects. The last ripple in the circle seems to have been reached when the owners of two of the largest yachts in the harbor, Tom Hobson of the Gladys and Robert Scott of the Kamachameha I, refuse to enter the race for the Beckley cup on account of religious scruples against racing on Sunday.

The announcement of the determination of these two gentlemen has created a ripple of excitement throughout yachting circles and it is rumored that if certain clergymen can be persuaded to sail on the yachts in question and to deliver divine services during the race that a compromise may possibly be effected. The gentlemen in question have been very delicate in defining just what is proper and fitting as far as yachting goes on the Sabbath. According to their newly enlightened ideas it is not wrong to cruise on Sunday. Nor is it wrong to start a yacht race on Saturday night and finish the same on Sunday, but to start a race on Sunday and finish the same day is again which it is far from the way of the enlightened to commit.

But in spite of the determination of the two owners mentioned, the Kapoel, Helene and Hawaii will be ready for the race for the Beckley cup tomorrow and there will be a large number of those interested in yachting ready to see them off and wish them all manner of good luck when they start on the 40-mile contest.

The only holiday on which the race could be sailed is Thanksgiving Day, when there is almost invariably bad weather, and as the cup is for a series of races it might be well along in 1920 before it was awarded if the race should be postponed from hold-day to hold-day in order to accommodate the yachting men who will no doubt tomorrow.

CUBAN INSURGENTS BURNED SOME SUGAR

Some idea of the injury done sugar plantations of certain sections of Cuba is given in the following excerpt from a dispatch to the New York World:

Mr. Sleeper reports that there is considerable suffering around the vicinity of Cienfuegos owing to the destruction of supplies by successive raiding parties which have attacked the plantations.

The Navy Department was informed today that the rebels have cut the cable connecting Cienfuegos with Bermuda, which was the last connecting link, as the Havana cable was cut Saturday. In the neighborhood of Cienfuegos are the great sugar plantations of Constanza, Solidad, Homiguer, Huerty and others, in which American capital is largely interested. Owing to raids of these plantations and carrying away of these plantations and carrying away by the rebels of cattle and horses an armed force from the gunboat Marlin was landed.

Private despatches to persons interested represent conditions in the southern part of Santa Clara province as desperate. The Atkins sugar factory, on the Solidad estate, is protected by marines from the Marietta. About 2000 people are employed on that estate, one of the largest in Cuba controlled by an American. It was partly because of warnings of danger made by Mr. Atkins that the State Department that the Marietta was sent to Cienfuegos.

A demand was made upon the Constantia plantation for 1500 rounds of ammunition and the rebels threatened the place if their demands were not complied with. A plantation next to the Constantia was burned.

The Dixie, which left Havana last night, is expected to arrive at Cienfuegos tomorrow afternoon, the distance being 540 miles.
