To gain customers a merchant must call upon the paper which goes into the family

EVENING BULLETIN

LAST

THE BULLETIN IS A HOME-GOING, HOME-STAYING PAPER

EDITION

The great art in trade is to gather customers. It is an old story now with prosperous merchants that it is newspaper advertising which stimulates patronage; but old as it is, there are other merchants who have not learned, and go on struggling in a blindly futile way to get trade by every means but the right one. To spend money in advertising in the EVENING BULLETIN is to plant seed for the harvest.

HONOLULU, TERRITORY OF HAWAII, FRIDAY, MARCH 15, 1907

Gay Los Angelens Shower Hawaiians With Fruit Of Golden Southland

CHEERS, FLOWERS, LEIS AND SONG TELL OF HAWAII'S ALOHA

Her passengers decorated with male leis and petting the people on the wharf with oranges and apples from the Southland, her flags flying from every peak, the steamer Ohio, bearing the Los Angeles excursionists, moored at the naval dock shortly after 8 o'clock this morning.

It was a jolly crowd on shipboard and on the docks. The sight was one that will long be remembered by the visitors, who become increasingly enthusiastic over Hawaii the more they see of it. The singing boys were rendering music on the hurricane deck, and on the wharf the historical Hawaiian Band was dispensing a lively program.

The Los Angelens thought Hilo had gone the limit. But when they came in contact with the enthusiasm of Honolulu, some began to ask what Hawaii intended to do with them—cordiality seemed to grow with each turn.

The Ohio made a very pleasant trip down from Hilo, starting soon after 10 o'clock Thursday forenoon. The weather was perfect, so that the beauties of the sail along the Hamakua coast were enjoyed to the fullest measure and by the entire ship's company.

Secretary Wood of the Promotion

Committee had sent word to Secretary Wiggins that it would be well to arrive after 7 o'clock in the morning. The captain of the ship timed himself accordingly. He followed the regular island steamer course and at about 3 o'clock this morning stopped his engines while the ship was still in the channel. At 5:30 the ship proceeded at half-speed, giving the passengers an excellent view of the island from Diamond Head to the harbor.

The Custom House launch came out with Secretary Wood and the Ellis Quintet Club; also the leis. Mr. Wood surprised Mr. Wiggins while making the final announcements at the breakfast table. When Wiggins announced the arrival of the Honolulu man, once a good Southern Californian, there was a cheer and applause. Mr. Wood was brief in his welcome and immediately set to business, of directing the visitors.

Meanwhile the leis were being distributed until every member of the party was adorned. They had learned to wear them in Hilo. The Quintet Club established itself on the hurricane deck, and soon had the crowd. One song merely whet the appetite for more. Then as the ship approached the dock the home crowd and the band became the center of interest.

"It's great!" said the men. "Perfectly lovely!" responded the women.

As soon as the ship was within throwing distance of the wharf the orange and apple boxes were opened and a shower of fruit was pelted over the side. It livened things, and called forth a general shout.

Once the gang plank was down, members of the local committee, headed by J. A. McCandless of the Promotion Committee and L. Tenney Peck of the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants' Association committee, went on board and were introduced to Mr. Herron, Secretary Wiggins and members of the Los Angeles steering committee. There were no formalities. There was no doubt of Honolulu being glad to see the biggest excursion that ever crossed the Pacific. The excursionists in their joy even forgot those two memorable first days so long ago, when the sea refused to quiet. Secretary Wood had telegraphed the program for the first day to Mr. Farrington in Hilo, who had been requested by L. Tenney Peck of the local committee to represent it on the trip down. Thus they knew what was on hand and were interested principally in obtaining rooms and hotel accommodation. Cars and hacks were in waiting to take the new arrivals to the hotels.

"Why, I have a room as good as I could get in New York," remarked one lady after her house-hunting tour. They had heard of the good hotels of the city but didn't know just what to believe until they had seen. The dissatisfied ones, if such there be, were not in evidence.

The Promotion Committee rooms were a busy headquarters, and all were accommodated with detailed information. At noon a good number went to the Maternity Home luncheon to see how it compared with the big Hilo event and others because they had been at the Volcano and missed the Hilo feast. The full membership attended the reception at Hon. S. M. Damon's Monahua estate this afternoon and it is certain that the Hawaiian Hotel will be crowded to its capacity this evening during the band concert.

"It sizes up better than any excursion crowd of 250 I have ever seen," was the comment of one Honolulu man as he watched them coming off the ship this morning. That was the consensus of opinion. A week of enjoyment is guaranteed for all hands.

Pioneer Excursionists Found Summer Seas As Neared Hawaii

The history of the first two days out of San Pedro is a closed book for the members of the Los Angeles excursion. They try to forget it. The only point for argument is whether the good ship Ohio skirted the edge of a storm or went plumb through the middle.

There were less than ten men, women and children at meals on those days at sea and heavy weather, at that. The Ohio made good account of herself but went somewhat out of her course to escape worse seas.

On the third day it was different. The passengers began to put in an appearance and as the day progressed "getting over it" became contagious. The entertainment committee, with Jolly Fred. Alles at the head, got in its work. Then there were things doing.

It was intended that things should be different, but bad cigars were brought aboard and it became necessary to resort to a mock trial, an old sea custom, and in this instance highly exciting.

Swanfeldt was arrested for the crime of smoking cigars filled with alfalfa in the presence of women. Boobyshell, clad in bath-robe ermine, dispensed justice with a horrible hand. Sheriff Rulow made the arrest and gave a demonstration of what a one-legged sheriff can do when the law calls to duty. He brought the prisoner in bound in shackles. Tom Hampton defended the unhappy criminal and Jack Burke prosecuted. The jury was sentenced to do time.

Musicals were held on four evenings. These were highly enjoyable. On one occasion Miss Marcher, who is studying for the stage, gave recitations. The program for Saturday and Sunday was typical. It follows:

Pele Fired Up And Hilo People Entertained Guests Sumptuously

It fell to the lot of the good people of Hilo to greet the Los Angeles party on its arrival in Hawaii.

Hilo did its part in grand style. The visitors were pleased beyond expression. The Hilo good people worked like Trojans and when they got through with it the heaps of orange rolling in from all sides caused the men of Hilo to know the answer to their query, "Well, how did you like it?"

That luncheon lasted long in Hilo.

history; it was great. It contained everything from royal poi from Maui to a proper hula and a Sunday school cantata. Sheriff Keolanui charmed them with his songs. The small boy who danced the hula, immediately following the cantata, retired with honors and cheers.

But the reception did not begin with the luncheon. That was the crowning glory. The climax. The record breaker.

The Ohio was sighted off the coast early Monday morning and arrived in the harbor about the middle of the forenoon. The Hilo committee, headed by J. A. Kennedy, John Scott, W. A. McKay went out in a launch and gave the new-comers a cordial if not noisy welcome to Hawaii.

Landing was started at once. The Volcano was the objective point. All wanted to go, except a few of the very elderly. It was wonderful to see how the old became young again when the inspiration of the volcano was upon them.

The Volcano House could not accommodate all at once. So it was arranged to go up the mountain in relays. Three lots of eighty each was the plan. Eighty started the first day and twenty more climbed on unexpectedly. Plans sometimes go astray. That is why some thought Demosthenes wanted to keep them over at the crater all night, so that they might not know the limit of the sleeping cots.

The afternoon train sent off for the Volcano, those remaining were taken in hand for the band concert and dance at the open-air pavilion.

Tuesday the first section of Volcano visitors returned and the second lot was sent off. The stories told as the parties met make another story. Those remaining in Hilo spent the day seeing the sights about the place. The homes of leading citizens were thrown open to visitors and every attention shown.

Wednesday, the last day, was the day of days. Work began at the morning early in the morning. The place was decorated as never before. Ferns and trees from the forest and palms and potted plants from homes were used with good effect and flowers in profusion made a beautiful setting for the tables strewn with ferns and flowers and afterwards laden with the typical Hawaiian vi-

and. A committee of ladies worked all day—and it was worth.

The luau was under the direction of Rev. S. L. Desha. He looked after everything, except the beer; he refused to even sign the receipt for the booze.

The guests began arriving about half after five. All the Los Angeles were there. All of Hilo and many from up the road and along the coast were on hand. More than seven hundred sat down to the tables. The committee used excellent judgment by alternating the home people with the visitors.

Then the eating began. They had to use their fingers. All were hungry. It was back to nature, and they enjoyed themselves. Someone said the pig was dog, but Southern Californians didn't care. They are out to see all there is going, and eat everything new. A menu card gave them pointers and what the delicacies were called.

Scott's Welcome

About 8 o'clock, Toastmaster John A. Scott bade the visitors welcome and tried to call the crowd to order. Mr. Scott said:

"Mr. Herron, Members of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and Fellow Visitors from the good ship Ohlo!—On behalf of the Board of Trade of Hilo, and on behalf of my fellow-citizens of Hilo, I wish to express to you a very hearty welcome. Welcome to the city of Hilo, and to the Island of Hawaii.

"This is your first trip to the Paradise of the Pacific, and I trust that it is the forerunner of a close business connection between your prosperous community and these islands.

"I trust that you have taken advantage of your visit and enjoyed yourselves, and that you have all visited the Volcano, one of Nature's greatest wonders, on this island.

"And I wish to thank the committee who have provided this bountiful spread for our benefit."

How It Happened

Mr. Scott then called on Frank Wiggins, secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. Wiggins disclaimed speechmaking ability and said he would merely tell how they came. He said:

"Six months ago, Mr. H. P. Wood, Secretary of the Hawaii Promotion Committee, visited Los Angeles, and spoke of visit to H. I., etc.

"It was Mr. Herron who made it possible for the acceptance of that invitation. Mr. Herron was chairman of the excursion committee. Mr. Herron represents the Board of Directors on this excursion. At the time the invitation of the Hawaii Promotion Committee was accepted, Hilo was not mentioned. The excursion was to have been to the Hawaiian Islands.

"We expected to leave home about the 23rd of February, and in consequence of not being able to secure coal for our ship, we did not leave until the 2nd of March. It was during the intervening time that we heard of Hilo, and to Hilo we came."

Mr. Wiggins said R. H. Herron was the man to do the talking. He made the motion in the Chamber of Commerce to start the excursion and was made the chairman of the committee. Mr. Herron spoke briefly:

"Mr. Chairman, Members, and Ladies and Gentlemen of the City of Hilo:—I did not come here to make any remarks, but Brother Wiggins has asked me to do so.

Some Disappointments

"I wish to state that we have not here the representative party of business men that we expected to bring. When I made the motion that we visit the Hawaiian Islands, so that closer commercial relations between your islands and Los Angeles be secured, I supposed, of course, that there would be more business men among the party.

"We have here tonight 250 representatives of Southern California, and while we did not expect to visit Hilo in the start, I must say, on behalf of each and every member of this party, and I think they will stand by me, that we are mighty glad that we came to Hilo.

"I am going to ask Mr. Chairman that he request Judge Haines to respond for the Chamber of Commerce. L. M. Le Blond spoke eloquently for the Hilo Board of Trade. Judge Haines, speaking for the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, paid a high tribute to the island people and extended hearty greetings from the city across the sea.

Desha for Hawaiians

Rev. S. L. Desha charmed the audience with a Hawaiian address and created much pleasure by translating his own speech:

"I have just been requested by the citizens of Hilo to express, on behalf of the native Hawaiians, a few words of thanks towards you who are visiting us."

"It is well known, from time immemorial, that Hawaii is noted for its hospitality, and we sincerely hope that we have not given you any cause to state that the report was incorrect, etc."

Mr. Desha gave the Hawaiian version of the creation. They believed that the universe was created out of a pumpkin. The Deity taking out the various parts and casting them broadcast, thus forming some of the elements.

The pumpkin was supposed to have been cut a little above the center, and the different parts were transformed as follows: Bottom—Earth. Top—Heavens. Seeds—Stars. Fibre—Clouds.

He stated that when the Deity grasped a quantity of the fibre in his hands and squeezed it, it caused rain. The extra heavy rainfall of Hilo is accounted for by the fact that a very large amount of the fibre lodged in the armpit just above the city.

He also told the Hawaiian version of the creation of Adam and Eve, which is the same as any other version. See Bible.

PELE FIRED UP

the main chance called for their rooms. That was where the diplomacy of Demosthenes came in. He had cots for twenty ladies in one cottage. He announced that the men would have to sleep in a separate house, whereupon one thoughtful lady shouted, "Oh, what will that bridal couple do?"

The dining-room had been decorated in a manner that made it very cheery and attractive. Tables were laid so that fifty could be accommodated at a sitting. Say what the will of the places they had to sleep in, the universal comment of the visitors was that they all had enough to eat.

To describe the assembling of that host of ninety-seven persons for the tramp to the pit would require a book and then it would not all be told. Fifteen thousand questions were asked in fifteen minutes. Demosthenes answered them all and in such a way that each felt that his idea of how it should be done was the right one, and if it were not quite right it would all be fixed in a short time to his satisfaction.

Some of the party were prepared and as many more were not. The next time a big crowd goes to the Volcano in such numbers as to overwhelm things someone should give the newcomers a few pointers on what to wear. Happily, most all of the Los Angeles had raincoats. But thin shoes are not the best things with which to tramp over a lava trail, especially when it is raining.

There were twenty lanterns for one hundred people. And the way that crowd lunched was a wonder. How order was ever worked out of the chaos of the start was another wonder. Some of the guests of the hotel went along to assist the guides for, according to all appearances, there was mighty good chance of some one falling in and breaking the record of no accidents for the Volcano trip.

The crowd represented wealth and beauty, old age and extreme youth. It was surprising that some of the old people dared attempt the seven-mile tramp, but they did it and at last accounts no damage was done beyond the loss of a few tempers over the declared fact that the trail to the pit is ten miles long instead of three and a half.

About two hours had passed before the last to leave the Volcano House had arrived at the pit. All warnings to have a care for cracks and the edge of the pit had mighty little effect. The night was dark and although the pit is active the glow was sufficient to light the place only at intervals. Meanwhile they poked around in the dark, and gave those who knew the place nervous prostration, by jostling each other on the very verge of the pit.

Finally they were distributed along the edge of the pit and quieted. The pit acted up in very good shape, notwithstanding some complained that what they saw was not the same as appeared in the published pictures of the world wonder.

Demosthenes was bombarded with questions as to when the pit would boil again and the area with hot cracks showing through become a mass of seething lava. When the famous Greek did not estimate it to a minute, a few thought he was short on knowledge. Then someone began to talk of going home. Demosthenes resorted to oratory. He mounted a lava cake by the edge of the pit and exhorted the backsliders, "Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "you have come here to see the Volcano and I want you to see it. If you leave now you will not be satisfied. What's the use of coming all this distance without seeing anything?"

They saw the forces of it and stayed. They were well repaid.

The curious lava formed every imaginable figure, broke up, boiled over, cooled off, and then broke again. Not till well toward morning did the last of them return to the Volcano House. More than one took about three hours to make the trip back. But they were satisfied despite their tired and bedraggled appearance.

"The sight of a lifetime," "Wouldn't have missed it for twice the trouble," and "I could do better with kerosene oil and a sky rocket," covered the opinions, with favorable comment much in the majority.

The majority of this party breakfasted at 6 o'clock and took the stage at 6:30, to return to Hilo. That was strenuous action, and it is not surprising if some lost their temper until they reached Hilo and had time to think it over.

The blessed sunshine came out early. Snow-capped Mauna Loa and Mauna Kea were in full view. The air was cool and snappy, and the ride back to the railroad station gave the visitors all that could be asked for beauty of scenery.

Night Sweats and Chills Gone Weight Increased 14 Pounds

MR. JOHN BENTLY.

Mr. John Bently of Grand Rapids, Mich., who was so low from lung trouble that the doctor gave him up as incurable, and who had night sweats and chills and weighed only 86 lbs., was miraculously cured by Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

Letters like the following, written by Mr. Bently, unsolicited, should be published so that the world may know what the great medicine is doing for suffering humanity.

"I have taken DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY for three months for lung trouble. When I first commenced I was bedridden, and now I am able to work. Now, the doctor of our town said that nothing would help me, but DUFFY'S MALT WHISKEY did what the doctors could not do. I had night sweats and chills and weighed 86 pounds. I weigh 100 pounds now, the chills have left me, and the sweats are also gone. I am looking for better results.—MR. JOHN BENTLY, Grand Rapids, Mich." Nov. 15, '06.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is an absolutely pure gentle and invigorating stimulant and tonic, it builds up the nerve tissues, tones up the heart, gives power to the brain, strength and elasticity to the muscles, and richness to the blood. It brings into action all the vital forces, it makes digestion perfect, and enables you to get from the food you eat all the nourishment it contains. It is invaluable for overworked men, delicate women and sickly children, as it is a food already digested. It strengthens and sustains the system, is a promoter of good health and longevity, makes the old young and keeps the young strong. Duffy's is recognized as a family medicine everywhere. Skilled chemists, whenever they analyzed it during the past fifty years, have always found it pure and possessing properties of great medicinal value.

BEWARE of dangerous imitations and substitutes. They are positively harmful and are sold for profit only by unscrupulous dealers. Look for the trade-mark, the "Old Chemist," on the label, and be certain the seal over the cork is unbroken. All druggists, grocers, dealers, or direct, $1.00 a bottle. Doctor's advice and illustrated medical booklet free. Duffy Malt Whiskey Co., Rochester, New York.

The second section of eighty people arrived at the Volcano House about noon of Tuesday. They got started in the afternoon and stayed out till after dark. There was the ideal trip. Not a few found the walk more than they bargained for, but no complaints of moment were registered against the pit, the trail or the house. Everybody was satisfied; some so well that they stayed out till morning, arriving home in time for breakfast and the return stage. The weather was also better for the second party—and weather counts.

The third and final section was smaller yet, had horses enough for all needing horses, good weather, good lava action, and a good time.

Taken all in all, the manner in which the Volcano end of the Hawaii trip was managed reflected great credit on the management of Mr. Wright of the Volcano Station and the "only Demosthenes" of the Volcano House. Wright carried the crowd carefully and safely, had teams when needed and enough room for everybody.

Demosthenes solved the problem of putting one hundred people where eighty could be accommodated. He worked day and night, and never failed to crack his usual husky smile. As soon as his waiters finished eating for the people at the tables, they went to the pit as guides, returning in time to begin preparations for breakfast and another day's work of the same kind. Sleep was not for them while Los Angeles were about.

Tourists will find a great many things of interest at E. W. Jordan & Co.'s store on Fort, near King street.

ALOHA LOS ANGELES.

People of Hawaii have already done much to assure visiting citizens of Los Angeles and Southern California that they are glad they are here,
and hope they will enjoy themselves sufficiently to come again.

It does not make so very much difference that the expected representatives of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce members were unable to carry out their plans for coming to the islands. We honestly regret the circumstances that have combined against them, but Hawaii tries to never forget to be cordial in its welcome to any good people who may come to its shores bent on business or pleasure.

It is to be hoped that this first party will enjoy itself so thoroughly and become so impressed with the opportunities for mutual benefit through closer trade relations, that a larger Chamber of Commerce party will soon follow and the Los Angeles-San Pedro-Honolulu route be increasingly popular. Our friends will find that they have much to learn regarding Hawaii. All mainlanders, even our closest friends in friendly California, have a somewhat hazy idea of the exact conditions here. The country is new in many respects, but it must be remembered that people were doing business in Honolulu before Los Angeles was on the map.

This is not said to impress our guests with our extreme age but the fact is worth while bearing in mind.
It helps to a better understanding of why new-comers sometimes think it especially hard to get through the barriers of Hawaii's business. Hawaii's mainland connections have long been established. And no matter how progressive a town may be, breaking away from old friends is not easy, when the friends at times have been friends indeed.

But that does not mean the people of this Territory are so hide-bound that they will not branch out, or that our business men will refuse superior trade advantages when offered.

Los Angeles has found a good portion of the world's population interested in enjoying themselves. Our friends have made a business of offering the best a vigorous people favored by a magnificent climate can summon. It has paid—paid in good cheer and good coin.

Hawaii has become convinced that it has a future in this particular line.
Co-operation with Los Angeles will aid both. Once started along this course, the "business" will take care of itself.

The future of the Pacific is full of certainties of growth. There is room enough for all. Hawaii can still hold its connections with San Francisco and in the future of time build up equally close and financially favorable associations with the great city of the South.

If our business men of Hawaii and Los Angeles can get together, if our ladies can become acquainted and interested in each other, if we, by such excursions as Mr. Herron and Secretary Wiggins have headed, can begin to feel and realize that we are indeed neighbors, then there will be results comforting to our souls and beneficial to our pocketbooks. We shall forget whether it was brought about by competition or pure brotherly love.

Whatever the future may have in store—and we are certain of the best—Hawaii extends its cordial Aloha to the ladies and gentlemen of Los Angeles. Once they have learned what Aloha means we hope they will not forget. We know Hawaii will be slow to forget them.
Enjoy yourselves.

COMMITTEE WORKERS

Some people think it is great to be a committeeman. Sometimes it is and then again it isn't. Herron and Wiggins can tell all kinds of stories on that, but that will be forgotten under the soothing influence of the Hawaiian climate. Ask Specht. The Excursion Committee of the trip consists of R.
H. Herron chairman, W. J. Washburn,
Lee A. Connell, Frank Wiggins, G. G.
Johnson.

Entertainment Committee for the trip—Fred D. Allen chairman, Mrs.
Fred D. Allen, Mrs. Percy Clark, Miss
Lulu Hahn and Mr. H. Chilson.
Special committees were organized to take care of things after arriving at Honolulu. The main business men's committee, which is composed of members of the Chamber of Commerce, is as follows: R. H. Herron, chairman, Lee A. McConnell, Frank Wiggins, G.
G. Johnson, R. D. List, L. Kimble, P.
C. Clark, Dr. J. E. Cowles, Dr. George
D. Cole, Dr. R. W. Hill, E. P. Bosby-shell, W. G. Hutchinson, Philip Froye, Milo Baker, A. Bernheim, A. Haines,
G. W. Randall, A. E. McConnell, M.
N. Newmark, F. D. Owen, A. W. Swan-
dell, George H. Pike.

In addition to these is the special
Reception Committee for Honolulu:
Mrs. F. D. Owens, chairman, Mrs. R.
H. Herron, Mrs. Frank Wiggins, Mrs.
Percy Clark, Mrs. F. M. Wilson,
Mrs. F. L. Moore, Mrs. W. G. Hutchinson, Mrs. Simon Maier, Mrs. E. C.
Armour, Mrs. F. L. Cowles, Dr. Emma Carson, Mrs. Lee A. McConnell, Mrs.
Fred L. Allen, Mrs. W. V. Ambrose,
Mrs. V. Ponet, Mrs. H. G. Chilson,

lund, Messrs. R. H. Herron, Frank L.
Wiggins, Captain Brown, G. G. Johnson, Percy H. Clark, Dr. George Cole, E. P. Bosbyshell, R. H. Fulton, T. J.
Hampton, Fred L. Allen.

Mrs. Puahi, president of the "Kao-noli o ka la" pa-u riding club, will give an ancient Hawaiian dance this evening at 7:30 o'clock at St. Antonio hall on Vineyard street. The occasion is to celebrate the first anniversary of the club. The dance will be shown by the Moanua dancers, who are especially noted for their exactness in movements. It was reported this morning that Queen Liliuokalani will honor the occasion by her presence and a large number of tourists will undoubtedly avail themselves of this rare opportunity.

HAWAII HOSPITALITY WINS THEIR HEARTS

"My stay of three days in and about Hilo has been a revelation to me," said Mr. Herron, representing the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. "The business men of Southern California and the Pacific Coast in general have no conception of the wonderful commercial possibilities which lie within your boundaries. You can be assured that the business men in our party will not be long in spreading the glad tidings of the good things we have seen on our return home to Los Angeles.

"We are all overjoyed at what we have seen in Hilo and the hearty reception given us will be long remembered with a thrill of delight. Now that we have left one of your cities behind us we are equally as anxious to see your beautiful Honolulu.

"We have already learned of the hospitality of the residents of the Hawaiian Islands and when we leave Honolulu seven days
hence I believe that I can safely say that you will send back to Los Angeles the greatest ship load of advertising matter for the Haw-aian Islands that has ever sailed the Pacific."

Barney Joy reached San Francisco
on March 7 and left the same evening for Bakersfield to join the San Francisco team which is to get its spring practice in that city.

WAYSIDE POINTERS

Captain Brown, who commands the Ohio, is an old timer in Hawaii, although he does not look the part. He was here in the whaling days and later commanded ships of the Brewer line at one time being in charge of the Amy Turner. His last trip here was in the Hunter in 1882. He knows old Honolulu like a book and regaled the passengers this morning off port with stories of Stuttering Smith, one of the characters of the whaling days. His passengers have only words of highest praise for the commander. He is as young as the most sprightly of them and bears the distinction of having been years at sea and never touched tobacco or took a drink of liquor. It would have been impossible to have safely stored in the Ohio's hold to be sent to the captain who never takes a chance if it risks the welfare of his passengers.

The statistician got to work on the trip down of the Ohio and began to figure up how much wealth is represented aboard the ship. A rough estimate shows that the known wealth of those on board amounts to sixty millions of dollars. That's going some,
and the representation of actual Chamber of Commerce members is small.

Hawaiian mahogany will be on display when the Los Angeles party gets home. While in Hilo J. M. Carpenter bought 2000 feet of lumber, all there was on hand at the time, and it is now
safely stored in the Ohio's hold to be brought out when the ship gets to the home port.

In the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce excursion party aboard the S.
S. Ohio are the following members of the Masonic Fraternity: Fred L. Al-
les, Capt. W. G. Brown, E. P. Bosbyshell, Percy H. Booth, A. Bernheim, J. M.
Carpenter, John Abner Crandall, John
Cochran, R. E. Dolley, W. P. Fishburn,

Hill, W. G. Hutchinson, Jas. Irving,
L. Kimble, Lee A. McConnell, J. R.
McAvoy, M. N. Newmark, H. E. Oson,

ur G. Sharp, D. C. Teague, W. G. Teet-zel, A. Vignola, Geo. W. Van Syke, H.
L. Wineman, W. A. Woodburn.

Among these are fifteen members of the Shrine, 12 members of the Scottish Rite, 12 members of the Commandery.
The Elks aboard the Ohio are as follows: A. F. McKesson, J. C. Floyd, G.
G. Johnson, Thos. J. Hampton, John
Burk, Lee McConnell, J. Frank Bower, Fred Allen, W. G. Hutchinson, all of Los Angeles No. 99; Wm. Ridge, Kansas City 26; D. C. T. Teague, Pomona 789;
D. H. Thomas, Minneapolis, 44.

SENATE TURNS DOWN COUNTY SUPPLY ACT

SENATE.

20th Day—Forenoon Session.

House Bill 42, the primary law, passed first reading.
The Judiciary Committee reported on House Bill 47, which sets aside Lincoln's birthday, February 12, as a holiday, making no special recommendation, but expressing the view that if some additional holiday be chosen, one should be selected commemorating some noted Hawaiian, and one which would distribute the holidays more evenly.

The same committee reported on Senate Bill 59, providing for the appointment of assistant clerks in the Circuit Courts, who shall be ex-officio bailiffs, recommending its passage.

The Judiciary Committee also reported on House Bill 29, providing that the counties must purchase supplies and materials from citizens only, recommending that it be tabled.

All these reports were tabled to be considered with the bills.

Chillingworth reported for the Nunnally dam committee that it had been deemed wise to postpone further work until Expert Schuyler arrived.

Smith offered a concurrent resolution. It provided that an appropriation of twenty thousand dollars be inserted in the appropriation bill for the expenses of interesting the remains of some of the kings and high chiefs, now in the royal mausoleum at Mauna Ala, under the direction and supervision of ex-Queen Liliuokalani with the cooperation of the Superintendent of Public Works.

Referred to the Expenditures Committee.

Senate Bill 56, providing for the refunding of the bonded indebtedness of the Territory, Senate Bill 58, relating to marriage licenses, and House Bill 96, exempting tobacco planters from the payment of tobacco licenses, passed third reading.

House Bill 29, providing that the counties can purchase supplies from citizens only, was tabled on motion by Chillingworth.

Senate Bill 62, making special appropriations for the use of the Territory for the fiscal period ending June 1909, came up for second reading. Knudsen called attention to the fact that the bill set aside $883,500 for Oahu and $15,500 for the other islands. He moved to refer the bill to a special joint committee of five members from each house, one from each island. Carried. The President said he would announce the Committee later.

The Lands Committee reported on House Bill 89, changing the boundaries of the Punchbowl Park reserve, which was set aside by the 1905 legislature, recommending that it be tabled. The report was adopted.

Lane introduced a bill to pay to the counties the fines imposed by the district courts. Passed first reading.

The President said he thought that the County Committee should have a member from each county, and he would like to add two more members to it, making a total of five. Dowsett moved that this be done, and the President stated that he would announce his appointments later.

HOUSE OVER-RIDES GOVERNOR'S VETOES

HOUSE.

20th Day—Forenoon Session.
The House this morning by unanimous vote passed two acts over the Governor's veto. The vote was sustained on a third measure which the Governor had refused to sign, but by a margin of only one vote.

In reference to Senate Bill 4, providing for fire departments in outside districts, Rawlins stated that he was unable to agree with the Governor in the Executive's reasons for refusing to sign the bill. "We're not out on a fishing excursion, looking for law suits. The counties do not want to acquire any Government property for the purpose of selling or trading it off."

Quinn moved that the House override the Governor's veto. The motion carried on roll call without a dissenting vote. Most of the Representatives as they answered "aye" smiled gleefully and looked as if they enjoyed it.

The second vetoed bill to come up was that relating to the rights of married women. The Governor had indicated in his message of refusal to sign the bill that, although its provisions in general were good, it went too far and was liable to increase litigation between husband and wife.

This bill caused much discussion. Rice moved to over-ride, stating that he did not think the Governor's arguments against it were good. Correa made two or three excited speeches in favor of sustaining the Governor's veto, stating that he thought married women have enough rights now.

There was at first an evident intention on the part of the House of over-riding the veto, but Kalelopu made a rather lengthy speech in which he stated that he had intended to vote to over-ride the veto, but since the speech-making began he had become so muddled that he didn't know what he thought. Others appeared to have become equally confused by the fog of words, for many of the "aye" and "noes" on the vote were faint and doubtful. The final vote was 17 to 10 on the motion to over-ride, one less than the required two-thirds majority.

There was practically no discussion and no opposition to the motion to over-ride the Governor's veto of House Bill 30, limiting hours of labor. The Senate has still to act on this measure.

Senate Bill 27, making the pay of road laborers not less than $1.50 a day came up on third reading in the House, and after considerable discussion passed by unanimous vote of the 27 members present.

MRS. CORA B. MILLER MAKES A FORTUNE

Started a Few Years Ago with No Capital, and Now Employs Nearly One Hundred Clerks and Stenographers.

Until a few years ago Mrs. Cora B. Miller lived in a manner similar to that of thousands of other very poor women of the average small town and village. She now resides in her own palatial brown-stone residence, and is considered one of the most successful business women in the United States.

Mrs. Miller's New Residence, Earned In Less Than One Year.

Several years ago Mrs. Miller learned of a mild and simple preparation that cured herself and several friends of female weakness and piles. She was besieged by so many women needing treatment that she decided to furnish it to those who might call for it. She started with only a few dollars' capital, and the remedy, possessing true and wonderful merit, producing many cures when doctors and other remedies failed, the demand grew so rapidly she was several times compelled to seek larger quarters. She now occupies one of the city's largest office buildings, which she owns, and almost one hundred clerks and stenographers are required to assist in this great business.

Million Women Use It.
More than a million women have used Mrs. Miller's remedy, and no matter where you live, she can refer you to ladies in your own locality who can and will tell any sufferer that this marvelous remedy really cures women. Despite the fact that Mrs. Miller's business is very extensive, she is always willing to give aid and advice to every suffering woman who writes to her. She is a generous, good woman and has decided to give away to women who have never used her medicine $10,000.00 worth absolutely FREE. Every woman suffering with pains in the head, back and bowels, bearing-down feelings, nervousness, creeping sensations up the spine, melancholy, desire to cry, hot flashes, weariness, or piles from any cause, should sit right down and send her name and address to Mrs. Cora B. Miller, Box 8324, Koko, Ind., and receive by mail (free of charge in plain wrapper) a 50-cent box of her marvelous medicine; also her valuable book, which every woman should have.

Remember, this offer will not last long, for thousands and thousands of women who are suffering will take advantage of this generous means of getting cured. So if you are ailing, do not suffer another day, but send your name and address to Mrs. Miller for the book and medicine before the $10,000.00 worth is all gone.

The Marathon Mystery

A Story of Manhattan

By BURTON E. STEVENSON
Author of "The Holliday Case"

Copyright, 1934, by Henry Holt and Company

"Godfrey," I said, "there seems to me to be one great objection to your theory that Tremaine killed Thompson. If Miss Croydon saw him do it, would she consent to associate with him? Wouldn't her very knowledge of his crime give her a greater hold on him than he has on her sister?"

He paused to turn this over. "Yes," he admitted at last: "it would; but a woman might not think of that." "A desperate woman would think of everything," I said, "and if your theory is right, both she and her sister must be very desperate."

He nodded without answering, and sat staring before him, his brows knitted in perplexity.

There was one conclusive objection I might have urged, had I known of it—but I was not so possessed of the story of the house party. If Tremaine was the husband of Mrs. Delroy, how could he propose marriage to her sister? That was a rock, as yet unseen by us, which loomed ahead—which we could not avoid—upon which our theory must inevitably be dashed to pieces.

"Here's Babylon," said Godfrey, rousing himself from the profound reverie into which my question had thrown him. We'll look in upon the prisoner first and cheer him up a bit."

The jail was only a short distance from the station, and a five minutes' walk brought us to it.

"We're here in behalf of Mr. Drysdale," Godfrey explained to the jailer. "This is Mr. Lester of Graham & Royce of New York, who have been retained to defend him. I suppose we may see him?"

"I'll take in your cards," he said, after looking us over. "If Mr. Drysdale wants to see you, it's all right, but you'll be the first ones."

He disappeared into an inner room; we heard the rattling of keys and the clanging of an iron door. He was back again in a moment.

"Step this way, gentlemen," he said. Drysdale was sitting on the bunk in his little cell. He came forward with hand outstretched as soon as he saw Godfrey.

"This is mighty kind of you, Jim," he said.

"I'll have to look you in, gentlemen," broke in the jailer. "How soon must I come for you?"

"Say twenty minutes," answered Godfrey, looking at his watch. Then he turned back to us as the jailer's steps died away down the corridor.

"Jack," he said, "this is Mr. Lester of Graham & Royce, who've been retained to look after your case."

"My case? Who retained them?" "I did. I scarcely supposed you were going to let yourself be convicted without lifting a finger."

Drysdale smiled bitterly. "They won't convict me. Just the same, I'm glad to see you, Mr. Lester," and he held out his hand. "I shall, of course, need some legal advice."

"I'm glad you admit that much," retorted Godfrey, with sarcasm. "I understand that you haven't condescended as yet to prove an alibi?"

"No," answered the prisoner quietly. "The fact is, I can't prove an alibi."

"You can't?" and Godfrey's face paled a little.

"No; when I left the house that night I went down to the pier and had a little talk with Graham; then I—I wandered around the grounds until the storm came up, when I went back to the house and up to my room. Nobody saw me. I spoke to nobody after I left Graham until I returned to the house. There's only my own word for it. What was the use of telling the police a story like that?"

"No use at all," agreed Godfrey hastily. "I'm glad you didn't tell it. But what on earth possessed you to behave in such a crazy fashion?"

"That," answered Drysdale, still more quietly, "is one question which I must absolutely refuse to answer."

"I know one thing, Godfrey," returned Drysdale, with a forced smile, "and that is that I didn't kill Graham nor steal the necklace. So I know they can't convict me."

"I wouldn't be too sure of it. Things like that happen occasionally. How did Graham get hold of that button of your raincoat?"

"I'm sure I don't know."

"You wore the coat that evening?" "Yes."

"And the button was on it?" "Yes, I'd have missed it if it hadn't been. Besides, I buttoned the coat up when I started back to the house."

Godfrey's face flushed, and his eyes began to glisten.

"You're sure, then, that it was on the coat when you returned to the house?"

"Either you killed Graham or Tremaine did."

"Why, yes," answered Drysdale, looking at him in some astonishment, "reasonably sure."

Godfrey felt a moment silent; then he shook his head impatiently.

"There's another thing," he said. "How did your pistol get out there in that boat?"

"That's another puzzle."

"Now, see here, Jack," continued Godfrey seriously, "there's one thing certain, either you killed Graham or Tremaine did."

"Tremaine!" repeated the prisoner, with tightening lips.

"Yes. Do you know of any evidence against him?"

Drysdale paused a moment, his brows knitted.

"No," he answered positively at last. "I don't see how Tremaine could possibly have done it."

"Why not?"

"Because he didn't leave the house, so Delroy says. I know he was there when I went out, and when I came back I saw him sitting by his lighted window, writing apparently."

"Ah!" Then after a moment, "Did you keep that journal you promised to keep?"

"Yes. You'll find it in my room. That is—"

He stopped suddenly and colored. "Well? Out with it."

"I just happened to think that perhaps that fool of a corner's got it. See here, Jim, if you find it I want you to promise me one thing—that you won't read it—not yet—it won't help you a bit."

"I'm not so sure of that," retorted Godfrey grimly. "Why don't you want me to read it?"

"The fact is," Drysdale answered, coloring still more, "that after I got started I—I forgot I was writing it for you."

"I see," said Godfrey dryly as the other paused. "I'll promise you this, Jack—I won't read it unless I find that I can't clear you any other way."

Drysdale heaved a sigh of relief. "That's all I want," he said. "Afterward perhaps I won't mind, but just now—"

His voice trailed off, his lips trembled.

"And you've nothing more to tell us?"

"Not a thing."

"Very well; we'll go out and have a look about the place. We'll come in again this afternoon. We're going to clear you," he added confidently.

We heard the jailer's footsteps approaching along the corridor.

"I don't doubt it," said Drysdale, with a puzzling listlessness. "It's very good of you both to take all this trouble."

The jailer opened the door, and we passed out.

"Do you know when the inquest will be?" Godfrey asked as we stepped through together into the outer room.

"Yes, sir; tomorrow morning. They'd have had it today, but Coroner Hefflower hopes to find the necklace by tomorrow."

"Oh, so they haven't found it, then?"

"No, sir; they searched Drysdale's room, but it wasn't there. Now they're trying to dig out where he hid it."

"Well," observed Godfrey, "they'll have to figure a long time, because he didn't hide it anywhere."

"Maybe not, sir," retorted the jailer, with a skeptical smile. "But appearances are dead again him. Why, even his girl thinks he did it."

"How do you know that?" demanded Godfrey quickly.

"When Hefflower was bringing him out of the house, they met her in the hall and she asked Drysdale what he wanted to do for, why he couldn't wait awhile. That's pretty good evidence, I think."

Delicate Wash Goods

The thin delicate ladies' Wash-goods, such as Shirts, Skirts, Negligees and Underclothing, is not worn out on your person. It is the continual washing. It is the laundry. It is not so much the way your clothing is handled, but it is the soaps, bluing and starches that work ruin. Now because we launder hundreds of these garments weekly we naturally know the best materials to use to give the best satisfaction to the patrons. We would not think of using soap containing a bit of lye on ladies' clothes. We would never dream of using the common bluing of commerce. We know by analysis starches that contain acids, and we do not buy them. We keep studying and experimenting all the time, in a scientific manner, how to launder. Don't you think it would be safe to entrust us with your work?
