

FREAR IS FOR HOMESTEADS AND FAIRCHILD PLAN

"The administration is not hostile to the homesteaders in any way," said Governor Frear this morning, and the visits of D. A. Smith, deputy-attorney general to Kau and Kaiwili were arranged, not for the purpose of seeking out violators of conditions by homesteaders with a view to invalidating their claims to the land, but that several matters which have befogged homesteaders may be settled both for the benefit of present and future homesteaders, and that the homestead atmosphere generally may be clarified. It is true that the attention of the judge of the circuit court may be called to certain apparent violations of agreement but if this is done it will be upon a perfectly friendly basis.

This statement of the Governor discounts the prevalent report that Smith went to Kau and has gone to Kaiwili today in order to gather data as to violation of land agreements in order that action may be taken against the offenders and their land taken away. Agree With Fairchild Plan. Such action would be in consonance with the Fairchild resolution and with the views of Governor Frear on the matter, which were expressed this morning as follows: "The utility of apportioning valuable lands on a right of purchase basis which lends itself to speculative purposes, as compared with allotting them on the homestead lease system, is, as far as the promotion of genuine homesteading is concerned, very apparent. Such lands should be kept for revenue purposes if successful homesteading cannot be conducted on them. We should go about the distribution of public lands reasonably and not as a fad or a matter of sentiment."

D. A. Smith left for Kaiwili by the S. S. Mauna Kea this noon. He will make a similar investigation of homestead conditions there as he did at Kau. Each lot will be specifically reported on.

Asked as to what the tenor of Smith's report on the Kau homesteads was the governor replied that he had nothing to say on the subject at present but intimated that when the two reports had been acted upon there would be something of interest to give out.

INVESTIGATION ON THIS AFTERNOON AT OAHU JAIL

There was a display of diamond, ruby, and emerald rings, Hawaiian quarters, suits of clothes, suits of underwear, socks and handkerchiefs in High Sheriff Henry's office this afternoon, when, before a gathering of fifteen interested people, the trusty, John Lua, now serving a ten years' sentence, was confronted with the evidences of his thefts of the past couple of months.

John knew nothing about anything except the four rings found on his person yesterday; these he admitted he took from the Grossman residence, declaring he found them on the parlor table, but nothing further could be abstracted from him.

Wearing Apparel Identified. His three clothes bags containing articles of wearing apparel were emptied in the center of the room, and as the contents were lifted up and sorted out, Mrs. Howard identified several garments. "They're my husband's socks," she said, as a pair of pale blue hose were lifted up. "And that's my handkerchief," she added as a silken handkerchief fluttered to the floor. "I saw him getting over my back fence," she continued while the articles were being examined. "He took nineteen Hawaiian quarters, one Hawaiian coat-of-arms brooch, and several suits of my husband's underwear. Yes, there's some of the underwear," she exclaimed, as the articles referred to were held up to view. They were marked J. L., the initials of the thief.

From the safe Sheriff Henry brought out half a dozen Hawaiian quarters and the brooch, which Mrs. Howard at once identified with an exclamation of joy. "I guess they're mine," she said.

Only admitted Jewelry Burglar. John Lua stood against the doorpost watching proceedings with an immobile face. He had nothing what-

FORTIETH ANNUAL MEETING OF WOMAN'S BOARD OF MISSIONS

The fortieth annual meeting of the Woman's Board of Missions was held this morning at the Central Union Church. There was a large and representative gathering, presided over by Mrs. Theodore Richards.

Some highly interesting reports of the various societies affiliated were read this morning. Miss Margaretta Linn Sholey, the recording secretary, in her annual report, tells of the increasing work each year, and she bestows unstinted praise upon the ladies concerned in the carrying out of each department. The foreign work is being continued at Mt. Kiloda, Africa, and Ida Ch'ing, China. The latter station is heard from from time to time, but the former has so far been silent. The annual donation to the Indian Mission is continued, and the American Orphans' Relief Association has also benefited by a monetary gift.

Miss Sholey's report is a comprehensive one, indeed, and seems to leave nothing untold of the many ramifications of the Woman's Board. Everything seems to be touched upon by Miss Sholey—from the apparent harmony that exists among the members to the slightest change in the constitution. Touching reference is made to the loss that the board has sustained by death.

The report of the Lima Kokua is submitted by its sponsor, Bertha L. Kemp. This tells that the number of meetings held during the year was eight, all of which had been conducted by officers of the society. These meetings were the subject of interesting addresses by people who had labored in the missionary fields both at home and abroad, and other members who had taken trips to strange lands, or were authorities on Oriental and other races. The sum of $33.99 had been collected during the year.

The report of the Chinese Mission work was submitted by Mary H. Damm. After a eulogy of the appreciation and support accorded to the mission, the writer goes on to state that during the forty years' history of the board, mighty changes have been going forward in China, and in no way more strikingly than among the women. There are plenty of indications that this change is working beautifully in Hawaii. Mrs. Fane has taken a position with the society, and is doing excellent work among the

HIGH SHERIFF HENRY DISCUSSES PROBLEM OF TOUGH CONVICTS, HAS SIX IN OREGON BOOTS

"I have six men in Oregon boots, and twenty men I can't put to work," said High Sheriff Henry this morning, in discussing the case of the burglar who succeeded in burgling while serving time for burglary. "The problem of what to do with prisoners of this class, under our present conditions, is a very hard one, and the problem of getting good guards is equally hard."

"After learning what happened in the case of the convict burglar John Lua, a fired guard as quickly as I knew how. I told him to take his clothes and go, as quickly as he could do it, and he went. This man has been in the service about a year. He was kept in inside work up to about a month ago, and then went out with a gang of only seven convicts to watch, and let one of them get away from the gang long enough to commit burglaries."

New System Needed. "I have made a considerable study of other prison systems with a view to trying to find some way of handling our 'hard' men in a more satisfactory way. There are about twenty men in Oahu prison whom I cannot send out with the gangs that work on streets, etc. It wouldn't be safe. There is nothing for them to do in jail, and of course it is very bad for them to be without employment. Six of them are in Oregon boots—such characters as Anderson Grace, Tin Soon and others. There is no way to handle this sort of convict in our prison. Other institutions have mills, such as the jute mills in California, but we have not enough prisoners to warrant establishing a mill. I have made much search for some sort of employment for men of this class, but no practical suggestion has yet come to hand."

Quarry Needed. "What I think we need is a government quarry, either fenced or properly guarded, in which we could make these men work. There is a great need of rock for our government roads, and if we had a quarry at which it was safe to work these prisoners, we could get some work out of even the tough ones, and it would be to their own benefit."

DETECTIVE LAKE AS COURT NURSE

John Hart's trial for perjury in connection with the trial of "Phoney" Davis for unlawful liquor selling, dragged somewhat before Judge Cooper this morning.

Detective McDuffie and Officer Kelle were not at hand when called, and Bailiff Hopkins reported he was informed the local Pinkerton had gone to Waiolu.

License Inspector Fennell was the subject of a tactical battle between L. M. Straus for the defendant and City and County Attorney J. W. Cathcart. When Fennell was released from the witness stand at the end of his cross-examination, Cathcart asked him to sit beside him for consultation in the examination of other witnesses.

Straus objected, saying Fennell had been notified by him yesterday, while they dined together at noon, that he might be called for the defendant, and Fennell promised him he would leave the courtroom after testifying for the prosecution.

Cathcart stated that he desired the assistance of the officer and cited the rule that witnesses after examination should not leave the courtroom. Unless opposite counsel gave reasons why Fennell should leave, the rule ought to be observed.

Straus argued that a lawyer might have good reasons for a course which he could not divulge, and in this instance he had reasons that he could not state even privately to the judge. Judge Cooper stated the rule as being that discharged witnesses should either remain in the courtroom or leave the building. Accordingly, he ruled that Fennell should remain.

After a short recess to await the arrival of witnesses, Maggie Naopola, who lived in the Davis domicile at the time of the raid, took the stand. It had been necessary to bring her in under a bench warrant. She had a baby in arms, which made the next diversion, not to say sensation.

Contempts of court, the infant proceeded to give evidence of a too willing kind, although not having been sworn. Although it was somewhat of a "wet" case, Detective Lake was impressed as a "dry" nurse for the occasion. Taking the infant tenderly in his arms, he soon quieted its weeping, and its contentment having thus been vicariously purged, its mother was enabled to testify in peace.

"I seen my day and I done it," the famous county clerk repeated under his breath as he continued his testimony.

There was not a dry eye in court. Detective McDuffie arrived from Waiolu, whether by sleight or other way was not asked, and the trial then took on satisfactory progress.

At a quarter to twelve the court adjourned for the day, the prosecution having one more witness to call.

OPPOSES TALK OF RAISING WAGES

"I was very much surprised at Dr. Victor Clark's remarks as quoted in The Star last night regarding plantation wages," said F. L. Waldron, last president of the Merchants' Association. "When conditions here on the plantations are compared with those in other places it seems very strange to hear talk of raising plantation wages."

"There is no place in the world where plantation laborers get as good wages or are treated as well as in Hawaii. I was in Fiji lately and saw appalling conditions there, and in New Guinea, laborers work under contracts that net them about four dollars at the end of three years' work."

"It seems to me it is a mistake for a man in the position of Dr. Clark to hint that our plantations ought to raise wages."

DIVORCE SERVICE ON NAVY MAN

In the divorce suit of Mina Pacheco Balles against Oscar Frank Balles, an order by Judge Robinson sets the cause for hearing on September 2. As it appears that the libellee is in the military service of the United States on board the U. S. S. Saratoga, which is at present in the Orient, it is further ordered that any citizen of the United States of the age of majority may serve the papers on him.

FISHING TABU AT KALIHUKAI

John F. Colburn's fishing party was duly interrupted yesterday by board of health officials who arrested two Japanese who were to provide the snags for the afternoon. The two Japanese prepared their lines and waded into the tidepools of Kalihukai only to be called out, taken to the board of health office and carefully searched. They were then temporarily released, no longer a menace to the health of the community, for they had been freed from all germs by the infectious bath. There was much running about this morning to know if the Board of Health was to take any action, but all that could be learned was that the matter had passed into the hands of the city and county attorneys. A. M. Brown was asked to prepare a complaint and this will no doubt be presented in court tomorrow.

NATION'S BIG MEN GATHER TO HONOR GIBBONS

(Associated Press Cable to The Star.) BALTIMORE, June 6.—This city is having a civic celebration in honor of the anniversary of Cardinal Gibbons' elevation to his office. President Taft, ex-President Roosevelt, Chief Justice White and Ambassador Bryce are among the speakers.

PORTLAND GOES REPUBLICAN. PORTLAND, Ore., June 6.—The Republican municipal ticket has been elected with the exception of three councilmen.

THE WOOL TARIFF BILL. WASHINGTON, June 6.—The wool tariff bill has been introduced in the House. The majority report from the Ways and Means committee scores President Taft and the minority report denounces the bill as a political measure.

WANT ANOTHER CHANCE. WASHINGTON, June 6.—Hagle and Gerbracht are attempting to secure the right of appeal from conviction in the sugar fraud cases.

ACTOR HARRIGAN DEAD. NEW YORK, June 6.—Edward Harrigan, the actor, is dead.

Harrigan was an old-time minstrel and variety artist, formerly with the firm of Harrigan and Hart.

SENATE AND RECIPROCITY. WASHINGTON, June 6.—The Senate finance committee is considering the reciprocity bill and the indications are that it will be amended.

SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS END THEIR SESSION—PRINCIPAL COX RETAINED

The meeting of the commissioners of public instruction, most of which was held behind closed doors, came to an end yesterday afternoon. The work done was as follows:

The school rules and regulations were adopted after some minor amendments by Governor Frear.

The locality of the new girls' industrial school was left to the Oahu commissioners and Superintendent Pope for selection. They will take up the matter with the governor and the commissioner of public lands with a view to making a satisfactory decision on the matter.

The summer school faculty was appointed.

A request from the Hawaiian Board of Missions that the schools of the Territory be allowed to set aside a room for the teaching of Japanese after regular school hours, was summarily turned down.

A request from the residents of the Waiolu district for the establishment of a new school several miles back in the country from Waiolu and in the neighborhood of a large plantation camp was not granted but the matter will be considered when the attitude of the board of supervisors regarding the building of such a school has been ascertained.

BATHING AND SWIMMING RESTRICTIONS ALL DECLARED OFF

At a meeting of the Board of Health this afternoon, on the motion of Dr. Fred Smith, seconded by Attorney-General Lindsay, it was decided to remove all the swimming and fishing restrictions.

Fred Smith thought that swimming in the harbor, which is somewhat of a luxury, should be restricted if there was the slightest chance of danger this afternoon, on the motion of Dr. Fred Smith, seconded by Attorney-General Lindsay, it was decided to remove all the swimming and fishing restrictions.

The Board of Health was the slightest chance of danger this afternoon, on the motion of Dr. Fred Smith, seconded by Attorney-General Lindsay, it was decided to remove all the swimming and fishing restrictions.

Case pending for violations of the restrictions will be prosecuted despite the rescinding of the restrictions at this meeting.

HEALTH BOARD A meeting of the board of health is being held this afternoon. President MacBeth will ask the board as to when the swimming and bathing restrictions are likely to be rescinded. There are matters which are entirely in the discretion of the professional members of the board.

TULLOCH DECLINES. H. F. Tulloch, who was recently appointed a member of the tax appeal court of Hawaii, withdrew therefrom this morning that he could be unable to serve in that capacity.

WRECK OF THE W. H. MARSTON

Private advices just received here give an excellent account of the loss of the schooner W. H. Marston last month, while en route to Pearl Harbor, via Honolulu with cement, dynamite, gasoline and feed.

The advice states: "When the Marston was sighted by the Fenwick, which belongs to A. B. Hammond, and is under charter to Bates & Cheesborough, at eight o'clock on Sunday May 21, she seemed to be just on the point of sinking, and it was afterwards learned that it was only the air at either end of the ship that kept her above water. Had her hatches blown off with the strain, she would have surely sunk immediately."

"The Fenwick immediately put a line on the water-logged vessel, which was at that time six miles north-west of Pt. Buchan, and rapidly driving ashore on to a rocky beach. The decks were level with the sea, and she was apparently ready to sink; in fact her condition was so grave that the master of the Fenwick hesitated about putting his men aboard in order to steer her. Eventually he put the second officer and two men on her, and began to tow her to Port Harford, the nearest port, twenty-six miles away. On arrival there, the derelict was anchored, and the services were secured of the San Francisco Bridge Co.'s derrick lighter, which had a powerful pump on board, and a tug boat. Between the two of them they bailed her out, while fixing the Marston's pumps, which had broken down entirely."

"There is no doubt that the Marston would have been a total loss in a couple of hours, if she had not foundered, for she would have been driven up on the rocky beach. The only survivor of the crew when the Fenwick found her, was a pet Angora cat. She was standing on the fore-cast half starved and crazed with fear. The cat was rescued. The poor brute was taken on board. She was taken on another steamer, but a few days later she died of fear when the boat began to feel the effects of a rather stiff breeze."

"The underwriters took charge of the ship after she had been anchored in Port St. Luis, and a San Francisco tug boat was brought down with two extra gasoline pumps. After an amount of cargo had been jettisoned to facilitate the work of the pumps, the work of towing her up the coast was begun. This was a very slow task, for in forty-eight hours, only ninety miles had been covered."

"The thirty tons of dynamite and caps were practically uninjured. The whole of the hay and feed cargo was spoiled entirely, but, of course, the gasoline was unaffected, as that was contained in drums and tins. It is probable, however, that the major portion of the cement will be destroyed although it is possible that that stowed in the center of the cargo will be saved, but so far nothing definite is available on this point."

"When the W. H. Marston was towed into harbor, not a soul condemned the crew for leaving the vessel, for even the veriest landsman could see that the vessel was in a perilous position. The crew of the Fenwick will have a nice proportion of salvage money coming to them through their picking the distressed vessel up."

Santa Maria With Oil.

The Santa Maria arrived yesterday afternoon from Port Harford with 45,000 barrels of fuel oil consigned to Union Oil Co. Of this quantity 35,000 barrels are for Honolulu, together with 500 drums of gasoline and distillate. The remaining 10,000 barrels are for Hilo.

Captain Curtis this morning stated that the first two days of the trip were characterized by heavy winds, which made the seas pretty heavy, but after that good weather was experienced all the way. He wants to express his appreciation to the Honolulu, April 27.

Pelorous Jack Is Dead.

A New Zealand exchange, dated May 20, has the following: The death of the most famous fish in the world has just taken place off the New Zealand coast. This monster of the deep was known as Pelorous Jack, and had the distinction of being protected by a special act of parliament. For twenty years and more he has met all steamers bound for Wellington, New Zealand, whether they arrived by day or night. He usually took up a position ahead of them in Pelorous Sound, as if with a perfect understanding as to their destination. Thus he earned the name of the "pilot fish," while by some he was known as the Lone Fish of the French Pass.

Sometimes passengers tried to shoot him with their revolvers, but this was stopped, and then the New Zealand legislature passed an act that the fish must on no account be interfered with. His body when found had been partly eaten by sharks. He is supposed to be the last of a race of marine monsters which flourished in French Pass half a century ago.

fashioned, oak-balustraded house," as Carlyle found it, is perhaps most representative of his character and his work.

It is a solid, eighteenth-century building, where Johnson labored for the busiest decade of his life. Hither he came a year after he had begun his dictionary. He had an upper room fitted like a counting-house, and here his several copyists wrote out the illustrative passages from the various authorities, which Johnson himself had marked with lead pencil. At times, but not often, he walked in the garden, "a plot of delved ground no longer than a bed quilt."

But the house has other association than that of the dictionary. Johnson here began both the "Rambler" and the "Idler," and here he was living when his tragedy of "Irene," now little read, was produced by Garrick. There, too, his wife died. In 1755, when Johnson had been in Gough Square seven years, the great dictionary was published and the author delivered that smashing blow to the patronage of literature from which it has never recovered.

"Seven years, my lord," he wrote to Chesterfield, his would-be patron, "have now passed since I waited in your outward rooms or was repulsed from your door. * * * The notice which you have been pleased to take of my labors, had it been early, had been kind; but it has been delayed till I am indifferent and can not enjoy it; till I am solitary, and can not impart it; till I am known, and do not want it." When the house becomes national property, those scathing sentences should be inscribed in letters of gold upon its walls.—Pall Mall Gazette.

THE LEGHORNS.

V. H. Olmstead, the statistician of the Department of Agriculture, said the other day in Washington, apropos of certain crop statistics:

"I deem them wrong—as absolutely wrong as little Willie's remark on chickens.

"Little Willie was taken out into the country on a bright spring day. As he played with his sister in the farmyard a group of Leghorn chickens approached, led by a Leghorn rooster.

"Willie," said the little girl, "why are those chickens called Leghorns?" "Look at their ankles," Willie replied. "Don't you see the little horns on them?"—Washington Star.

WASH THAT ITCH AWAY.

It is said there are certain springs in Europe that give relief and cure to Eczema and other skin diseases. If you knew that by washing in these waters you could be relieved from that awful itch, wouldn't you make an effort to take the trip to Europe at once? Would you not be willing to spend your last cent to find the cure?

But you need not leave home for these distant springs. Relief is right here in your own home town! A simple wash of Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients as compounded only in D. D. D. Prescription will bring instant relief to that terrible burning itch, and leave the skin as smooth and healthy as that of a child.

Best possible wash for pimples and all skin impurities. If you have not already tried it, get a bottle today, $1.00. We assure you instant relief. Benson, Smith & Co.

That patience is a virtue, is exemplified in that so seldom is it found that the possessors will doubtless stand first in line when the distribution of halos takes place.

In the business world it is an invaluable asset, and its cultivation is sought by the more sagacious, if only for diplomatic motives.

In the smaller empire of domesticity it is usually a rare trait, and its weakness is attributable to the innumerable petty annoyances which beset the cradle kingdom.

There is one woman, however, who above all others realizes the value of patience.

And she is the radiant, cheerful improviser, known as a chaperone. Taking an observer's part with smiling wakefulness and unwearied amiability is not an easy or agreeable role to play, and yet usually very little gratitude is given in return for the self-sacrifice.

A mother naturally enjoys more of a sinecure, for her interest in all that concerns her daughter makes hers a labor of love.

The established old world custom of chaperonage is one of the elegances and graces of society, and protestations but belittle that tender respect with which young womanhood is properly regarded.

The natural vivacity of youth is often misunderstood, and when a girl is brotherless, imitations upon her motives are often secretly entertained. In many cases the presence of the duenna is ardently resented by those young girls for whose protection this matron is in evidence, when, realizing the attitude she has inspired, her position becomes a torture.

If a chaperone be what she should be, and fills the requirements that a tactful woman in supposed to fill, no pleasure of her young charges will be checked.

Her innate sympathy will be subtly perceptible, and she will become a beacon of guidance rather than a hindrance to young joys.

Girls should be sympathetic always in return, and should endeavor to make her the happiest of them all, remembering that some day they may be called upon to enact the role of this august personage.

SOCIAL NEWS OF THE DAY.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Du Roi entertained at an elaborate dinner party at the Oahu Country Club on Saturday evening in celebration of their crystal wedding, when forty-six guests were bidden to partake of their hospitality.

The invitations included most of those who had attended the wedding of the host and hostess, and these charming people were the recipients of innumerable gifts of rock crystal and cut glass during the day, and at dinner the motifs for a shower of congratulation.

The lounging room of the artistic club house was decorated with quantities of cut flowers and ferns, the side tables supporting large, graceful baskets of bride's roses and lace maidenhair, and the piano being embanked with these fragrant and appropriate blooms.

From the arch was suspended a section of rustic log-wood, overgrown and caught by festoons and panded and caught by festoons and lover's knots of white satin and tulle.

The stone fireplace loaned itself admirably to a golden hue and was embanked with a profusion of yellow coreopsis flowers and runners of similar lax caught above and drooping from a lover's knot fashioned of the graceful green drapery.

The lights and chandeliers were veiled with soft white tulle, and entwined with asparagus plumosis, creating a dainty effect.

The T-shaped table, at which covers were arranged for forty-six, was resplendent in its dressing of white and green, large baskets, brimful of white La Marque roses and lace maidenhair being supplemented by smaller baskets of white daisies and lace fern which were connected by white satin streamers and bow knots of tulle.

Over the table loose, white roses and daisies had been dropped, with occasional sprays of maidenhair and trailers of asparagus plumosis.

The dinner cards for the ladies were Japanese hand-painted confessions of bamboo bushes and tulle, and for the gentlemen pink cherry blossom lanterns.

The bride was crowned by a wreath of bride's roses, which she wore during the evening, while the groom wore a boutonniere of similar blossoms tied with a small bow of tulle.

During the course of an elaborate dinner, soft music was heard from a Hawaiian Quintette Club screened by palms from view, and afterwards the hosts and their guests indulged in dancing.

Not in a very long while has more enjoyment been afforded than by this delightful occasion, and all the guests are still enthusiastic over the pleasure given them by Mr. and Mrs. Du Roi.

Those present were ex-Governor and Mrs. George R. Carter, Miss Helen Achilles, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. King, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Humburg, Captain and Mrs. William H. Winters, Mr. and Mrs. Ranney Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lange, Pastor and Mrs. Felmy, Mrs. Tietjens, Mr. and Miss Pauline Schaefer and Miss Daphne Damon, who have been attending Mills College during the past term, are expected to return home in the Wilhelmina tomorrow to spend their summer vacation in the islands.

Mr. and Mrs. George R. Carter will leave their town residence during the present week for their Kahala home, "Kaikou," where they will spend the summer.

Their daughter Elizabeth will arrive home on July 10, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Galt, and will spend her summer vacation with her relatives, and friends in Honolulu before returning in the fall to school in Maryland.

Mr. and Mrs. James Dougherty have sold their artistic bungalow on Kinau street and have moved to the Courtland Hotel, where they will reside during the summer months. Their former home has been purchased by Mr. Fairweather.

A very dainty dinner party was that at which Mr. Pollitz, of San Francisco, entertained on Friday evening at the Alexander Young cafe, when covers were arranged for eight.

The table was delicately fragrant with quantities of pink and white sweet peas massed in a basket which was caught with streamers of rose pink satin. Pink shaded candles encircled the basket and the guest cards were hand-painted sweet peas.

After dinner the host and his guests occupied a box at the Orpheum theater.

In the party were Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Shingle, Mrs. St. Goar and Miss Erna St. Goar of San Francisco and Mr. Pollitz.

Mrs. Putnam, the wife of Captain Putnam of Fort de Russy, has sent out cards for a bridge afternoon at her artistic quarters at which she will entertain a number of friends tomorrow afternoon.

DR. JOHNSON'S HOUSE TO BE PRESERVED.

Dr. Johnson's house in Gough Square, on Fleet street, it is reported, has been purchased by Cecil Harmsworth, and in a short time it will be presented by him to the nation. Even Fleet street, which is singularly unemotional, may feel a touch of satisfaction in the fact that the house of the "great lexicographer," where he lived for ten years, is not to go the way of his other residences and fall beneath the hammer of the house breaker. Johnson lived in many places in London, but this "stout, old-

CITY BUILDING ORDINANCES FOR THE FARMS.

A city building ordinance for city limits is the sensible thing, but a city building ordinance for the country districts must work needless hardships.

In a place where many people live, whose habitations threaten others with fire and whose gregariousness exposes other folk to disease, strict building rules are necessary. But in the country, away from compact villages, no such condition exists. If a man puts his home in the middle of a five-acre fruit grove or farm, he has no need of bothering about the buildings of his neighbor nor his neighbor about his buildings unless, perchance, either one permits a public nuisance to exist. In that case sanitary laws define and cover the offence. Neighborhood fires do not menace him nor, if his home should burn, would other rural dwellers necessarily suffer at his hands, nor do either have to solve any of the problems usual to a massed population. No one thinks, in any of the States, to interfere with the building operations of the farmer. He may, in home construction, do practically as he pleases. He may get along with the simplest plumbing and be healthy. He is in a class by himself and the law, if synonymous with justice and common-sense, recognizes the fact.

To require a common building rule for both city and county is as questionable as it would be to require a common curfew law, a common law concerning barking dogs and crowing roosters, or a common law about cesspools or sidewalks, even the speed of automobiles. Conditions differ and laws should adapt themselves to them.

The Star believes that the supervisors should define the limits of close habitation, extending them with the growth of the town and let the homesteader or the small farmer alone. Allow the native or the Chinaman or the white man who is trying to get along, build a shack if it is sanitary. Why not? America began its civilization in log houses and continued it in the sod-houses of Kansas and in the miner's cabins and adobe huts of California. Happily for the pioneers, the legislatures when they came to pass, did not try to compel the farmers of New England, the middle West and the Coast, to build homes like those in Boston, Omaha and San Francisco or go without. If they had possessed such power and used it there would have been a popular revolt.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS FOR HAWAII.

The building of an industrial school in Honolulu will be followed by the construction of others throughout the Territory, thus giving the young people who have their own way to make in the world the sort of instruction that will help them most.

Trades have been taught for many years by the Kamehameha schools and the results have been more satisfactory than those from any other form of instruction, especially that which tries to prepare young Hawaiians for professional careers. Thanks to the Kamehameha schools many native people can earn a living at printing, carpentry, painting, blacksmithing and gardening, but we cannot recall a native who has been able to really earn a livelihood in any learned profession even though he was boosted through a university.

The public industrial schools will extend the influence of those founded by the Princess Bernice and materially aid, as we hope, in making the Hawaiians self-supporting. The Chinese, as was pointed out not long ago, who have done most to keep the native people from living on public charity, cannot be depended on much longer. The older ones are dying or going back to China; the younger ones incline to trade and have less use than their forefathers had for native friendship or affiliation. Then the new white inhabitants will not make allowances for Hawaiians as the old ones did and the native people, while they survive, will have to look out for themselves. They must work out their own salvation as white people do. To this end the industrial schools are going to prove the most valuable adjuncts, especially if they add practical instruction in agriculture to the teaching of trades.

CRIMES OF PRISONERS.

The arrest of John Lua, a prisoner who carried rich loot on his person which he had stolen outside the walls, reminds the public that even a well-managed prison may be a lair of crime as well as a place of punishment for it. Barefoot Bill's exploits when in custody at the police station, to which he returned with his plunder after midnight raids, is a Honolulu tradition as is the thievish activity of the Reform school boys when they raided the town at night from their old barracks on King street, Kalihi, and buried the spoil in the yard, to sell it later through confederates.

One of the famous incidents in the career of Detective Burns is his discovery that the plates of a clever counterfeit national bank note were made in a state penitentiary. Burns found the right men in stripes and the plate they had engraved and used. Today in San Quentin prison, California, there is a constant traffic in opium, knives and tools, and the convicts, on the whole, have much money. It seems to be impossible to prevent these things, however close the surveillance. Even a strong and suspicious military guard did not keep the northern prisoners in Libby, during the Civil War, from getting and using the tools to build a tunnel with.

Here in Hawaii the humane custom of using prisoners in the parks and roads, is one which opens the way for depredations like those of John Lua. The wonder is, not that the crimes occur, but that they are so few. Lua and Barefoot Bill are noteworthy exceptions to what has become the general effect of humane custody and this notwithstanding a system which once permitted convicts to go out and work by the day and which closed the prison gates on them if they came back too late to be put in their cells at a given hour.

THE SATURDAY STAR.

We shall have a statement by and by of the astonishing growth of the Star in public favor both here and on the other islands,—a statement with figures,—but for the present we want to put the stress on the popularity of the twenty-page Saturday Star.

Just watch the newsboys selling it. Just note the number of people on the cars who are reading it and carrying it home for the family to read. Take account of the kind of people who prefer it to any other and look at the special advertising it has.

Some of the Star's friends are partial enough to say that no more completely interesting and readable paper can be found in Honolulu than the Saturday number. However, on that point, judge for yourself! We want to hear from the unbiased persons, too.

A good deal of hard work is put on every Star, day by day, but all the week something is doing for the Saturday paper. People spend a solid hour in reading it; they read every page and are impressed by the variety of its contents. One thing they particularly like is that the paper takes long excursions from home and gives glimpses of the world at large while not neglecting any feature of the local news. Then the twenty-page edition has no mere space-fillers. All its features are worth while.

At least that is what the people say and they back their judgment with their coin.

The supervisors wish to discharge Road Supervisor Wilder whose unfitness for the place is clear. Mr. Wilder pays too much attention to roads and has shown more than once that he could not be trusted to leave them for a day to perform the political duties of his office. We learn that the charge is sustained that he dismissed a clerk who is competent to carry a primary election and who controls a large number

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

The gracious Queen Mary is sensible, very, an ornament, she, to the throne; her recent decision shows unclouded vision, and wisdom surpassing our own. Her majesty sittin' in state in Great Britain, has shoed the freak ladies away; and women who MARY'S wobble in harem or hobble or other outlandish array, must DECREE drink from the chalice of woe, for the palace is closed to the murmuring throng; the noble high butler will swear like a sutler and tell them to mosey along. Says gracious Queen Mary: "These females contrary who dress like the barbarous Turks, are simply a scandal; their tailor's a vandal; they give me a pain in my works. I'm not arbitrary," says kindly Queen Mary, "but while I am Albion's queen, no female carousers in calico trousers around this old shack will be seen. These dress reform smarties can't come to my parties or slide on the royal cellar door; and dames who would crave or would merit my favor will dress in the same way of yore." I wish—it's no fiction—the queen's jurisdiction extended all over the globe, since dames have a passion for crazy-jane fashion, and jeer at the time honored robe.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

J. D. McVEIGH—I am taking over the Johnson-Jeffries fight films for the Kamehameha Day moving picture entertainment at the Settlement.

CHARLES BARRON—It is a shame that the Hilo supervisors are withdrawing their monetary support from the Hilo band. The town will be dead without its band.

DETECTIVE McDUFFIE—"Barefoot Bill" hasn't done a trick for the last six years. He has reformed and is now a hard-working man.

DR. PETERSON—There is nothing harder to find than reliable guards for institutions such as the asylum for insane, and the jail. Dependable men for these jobs are scarce indeed.

PRESIDENT MOTT-SMITH—I firmly believe that with the facilities which are in sight the board of health will, at the end of two years, have Honolulu in the sanitary condition in which it ought to be.

C. S. DESKY—Things are not quite so dull as they were. Conditions are slowly improving, and we shall have good times again soon, in spite of the terrible jolt we got from the cholera outbreak.

BERT LIGHTFOOT—I would like to know what has become of the five Filipinos arrested on Friday last for swimming off the channel wharf. They don't seem to have been charged anywhere.

DR. PRATT—There is no truth in the report that I am going into the automobile business and will hire out my new car. It will be used almost exclusively in connection with board of health work.

PRESIDENT MOTT-SMITH—When all is said and done the best anti-mosquito agent that we have is the mosquito fish. They are always on the job and do very well down here. If anyone wants any I can tell him where he can get any quantity out of Walalae way.

BILL LARSEN—Why isn't something done to protect the homemaker from pests and parasites? Just as soon as a man tries to cultivate a flower garden or grow vegetables, he finds bugs of I don't know how many kinds eating up everything he plants. It seems to me that the high salaried experts in charge of this work ought to make a better job of the war against the Japanese beetle and other pests.

WILLIS T. POPE—I know of no way of getting rid of the Japanese beetle. An experiment was once tried where the beetle was allowed to go through its larval state without food of any kind. It emerged from the pupa, laid its eggs and then died. I find the lilies to be immune from their attack. By the way, I have now in bloom at my Alewa place some eucalyptus grandiflora, sometimes called the Amazon lily. It is a sweet and lovely flower.

HIGH SHERIFF HENRY—There are certain men serving terms whom it seems useless to try to reform. I know of one who is about to be released regarding whom I feel it safe to make the prediction that he will be in again very soon. In prison experience we learn to classify the convicts and distinguish between the man who is a natural criminal and insists on being one, and the man who may be in jail because of some sudden impulse, or great temptation.

Further suggestions along this line will be gladly and gleefully accepted.

SOME ADVANCES, SOME DECLINES

It was dull at this morning's board of the Honolulu Stock and Bond Exchange, the only sales being 20, 5 and 5 shares of Ewa at $31.25, which is a quarter point decline. A fair amount of business from between sessions was reported, seven different stocks figuring in the transactions. Hawaiian Commercial & Sugar showed an advance of three-quarters in a sale of 45 shares at $38.87 1/2. Olua, after being long stationary in price, though active in movement, went up an eighth in a sale of 40 shares at $4.62 1/2. Brewery appears unchanged in 100 shares at $21.25. Ewa anticipated the decline already noted at the board in a sale of 35 shares at $31.25. Hawaiian Sugar, 15 shares at $41.50, is without change. Paauhau fell off seven-eighths in a sale of 100 at $23.12 1/2. Pahang Rubber, paid, rose a quarter point in a sale of 75 shares at $23.

THIS IS YOUR OPPORTUNITY.

By latest advice from Lakeview No. 2 Oil Company, under date of May 28, No. 2 well is down 2,969 feet and it is expected that the string of 8 1/2 inch casing would be set the following week. The well will then be cemented and thirty days allowed for hardening. Drilling will be resumed about July 1 with the expectation of bringing the well within 300 feet. Everything is progressing smoothly in the field and the management is hoping for big results. I am leaving for the Coast by the Honolulu June 13, direct for the fields, and will be there when the well comes in and will cable The Star size and particulars of the gushers for the benefit of my stockholders. I have received instructions not to sell any more stock but will dispose of a limited number of shares on my own account before I sail. For quick action address J. Oswald Luttet, 1139 Fort street, of telephone 3020.

COTTON IS DOING WELL ON KAUAI

Ephraim C. Smith of Pearl City, a well-known diversified agriculturist, while on Kauai last week, visited the cotton fields of Gay & Robinson and found a promising condition of things. Geo. R. Ewart, Jr., manager of the G. & R. sugar plantation, said he expected the cotton would greatly exceed the estimate.

Instead of 300 pounds of lint to the acre, which was originally estimated, Mr. Ewart thought the fifty acres would yield a bale to the acre. Mr. Smith was not certain whether he meant a standard bale, which is 500 pounds, but certainly there would be 400 or 500 pounds an acre gathered.

The boll worm is less in evidence than last year, due to the careful system of pruning followed. It costs only about one cent a pound to gather the cotton. Japanese women from the sugar plantation camps are mostly employed. They receive forty cents and pick about fifty pounds of cotton a day.

One lot of twenty-five acres is in the third year, and another of the same size in the second year. According to the present expectation as already noted, the fifty acres should produce between 20,000 and 25,000 pounds of cotton this season. Just now the maturing crop looks beautiful. The planting lies between Makaweli and Waiialua and the cotton is grown without irrigation.

GENERAL MACOMB'S ADDRESS ON THURSDAY

Members of the Commercial Club are looking forward with pleasurable interest to the address they are to have from General Macomb at luncheon on Thursday at 12:15 o'clock. It is expected that the commander of the forces here will discuss things military locally in their relation to the business interests of Honolulu. No doubt the attendance of members will be large and punctual.

MEGASS AND BAMBOO PAPER.

The manager of a sugar estate here, after much experimenting, claims to have succeeded in manufacturing paper from megass, and that with further possible development the refuse of the cane, now used only for fuel, may be used in connection with bamboo fiber in the manufacture of a paper which in quality and price can command the market against any wood paper now thereon.

The quality of the paper is obtained by combining the two fibers. Neither the cane fiber nor that of bamboo, used alone, will produce this paper; the proper combination of the two, under conditions in which he has been experimenting, will alone give the desired result. The fiber of the bamboo is long and coarse, while that of the cane is short and soft, and in their combination he thinks he has found the happy medium between. He says he has used no chemicals in making this paper. The difference in color is produced by the addition of a little pigment to give the shade he wants.

The bamboo grows here in large quantity, and the extent of the sugar industry is such that there would be no lack of the raw material. The megass would be of much greater value for paper than for fuel, in comparison with the oil, which in the near future will, without doubt, be produced here in large quantities, while the bamboo at present is of little or no commercial value.

The booklet of the samples transmitted simply shows what has already been made and not the larger variety which may be possible. The first sample in the booklet is what the manager calls the natural color; the others have been shaded in the manner described.—From Consul Hale of Trinidad.

Brigadier General Macomb will be a guest of the Commercial Club at luncheon, 12:15 p. m., Thursday. He has consented to give an informal talk.

JOSEPH P. COOKE VISITS M'BRYDE AND MAKAWELI FINDING EVERYTHING FINE

Joseph P. Cooke, manager of Alexander & Baldwin, Ltd., last week visited the A. & B. estates in Kauai, incidentally taking in general appearances of the sugar industry on the Garden Island.

"All of the plantations on the island are looking well," Mr. Cooke said today. "They have had exceptionally fine weather and the cane is under good cultivation. The prospects of the 1912 crop are very good, I should say, all over the island."

"On McBryde the new manager, Mr. Frank Alexander, from the Maui Agricultural Company, is taking hold remarkably well. He has had thirteen years' experience on Maui under Mr. H. P. Baldwin and Mr. H. A. Baldwin, and is especially well up in cultivation and irrigation."

"Mr. Alexander has the work well in hand, and for the last month they have had a great abundance of water."

"When I left there was nearly 800,000 gallons of water in the reservoirs, which is rather unusual for this time of year, and will give them a fine start into the summer."

"The reservoirs built last year, and which have a capacity of 250,000,000 gallons, have come in very handy on account of this favorable summer weather. June is usually one of the driest, if not the driest, month in the year."

McBryde is running over the estimate and will undoubtedly reach 14,500 tons of sugar.

"On Makaweli the crop is about two-thirds off and is running well over the estimates. It looks as though they will get at least 25,000 tons as the Hawaiian Sugar Co.'s share of the crop, which means nearly 30,000 tons including Gay and Robinson's. This is much more than was ever put through the mill before. The manager is averaging about a ton of sugar an acre over his estimates."

"The cane juices at Makaweli this year are exceptionally good. In the month of March the average purity was over 95 per cent."

"The 1911 crop at Makaweli is of about the same area as the 1911, but is further ahead and in better condition than the 1911 crop was at this time last year. Therefore with good summer weather we ought to get at least as good a crop in 1912 as this year."

WOMAN'S BOARD

Chinese women of this city. The whole of the workers of the society are said to be doing splendid work. The report in conclusion says: "So in many different ways the good work which our board has aided in advancing goes forward with much to cheer and encourage. Let us all press forward with more earnest zeal."

The Losing Hawaiians.

Laura C. Green, in her report, deals with the Hawaiian section. She says that the past year has brought a great deal of anxiety on account of serious sickness among the Hawaiians. The life of one woman was taken, owing to the cruel obstinacy of her husband in insisting that she be removed from the hospital to her home. Had she remained, the report says, there is no doubt she would have recovered. "It was simply murder," writes Miss Green. She also states that occasionally she comes across real old-fashioned Hawaiians. One of these remarked to her one day that the modern Hawaiians failed to make good because they had left the old customs of agriculture, fishing, etc., and had lost their lands chiefly through extravagance, and were too generous for their own good. The sins of the white man usually followed in the wake of money-making; the youth of today squanders what his father left him. At Waikiki two women were encountered who made and sold bed quilts. They were proud of the fact that they owned the cottage they lived in, and another as well, and some rice lands, which they rented to Chinese. A resume of the work of the department is given.

The report of the Beretania Street Mission was submitted by Jessie MacKenzie. She says that the work of the mission during the past year has been limited only by the strength of the workers and by the seating capacity and equipment of the building. The encouragements have so far exceeded the discouragements. The work of the mission has been conducted along the old lines, but with ever-widening influences. The night school has also been a successful venture, and good and willing workers have been secured for it. The Boys' Club increases in popularity as time goes on. Since January 1 last 253 new scholars had been enrolled at the Sunday school, and at the end of the first quarter over 100 had been present each Sunday. Mothers have been interested in the movement since the establishment of the cradle class, and the sewing class is growing so rapidly that it is exercising those in charge to cope with it.

Lila Goo Kim, the secretary of the Kokonau Fui, submitted her report. She says that the year's work has been encouraging, and pays a high tribute to F. W. Damon for the great assistance he has rendered in the conduct of the society. The work has been successful, and the meetings well attended. The studies of the year have been varied, ranging from the nineteenth centuries of missions to magazine articles. The majority of the members are teachers of the afternoon mission Sunday schools, and are also members of the choir. One of the members is now studying in China with a view of becoming a missionary there. The hope is expressed that more will follow in this member's footsteps. The report concludes: "Although the membership is not large and the trials are many, still the members have always been loyal to the society, and have tried to unite in its interests, willing to sacrifice for its good."

The report by the treasurer shows that the balance in open account is $1,398.71, with $903.16 in the savings bank, while the amount in the permanent fund is $6880. The receipts totaled $6759.11.

The board adjourned at 12 o'clock and lunch was served in the hall adjoining the church. It reassembled at half-past one, and the session will be brought to a conclusion at 3 o'clock.

OFFERED OPIUM IN A SALOON

Paul Wissig's trial for opium smuggling was put ahead a month or so on account of the action of his co-defendant, Howard, in throwing down the United States at the trial of Snyder. Howard and Wissig, of the steamer Manchuria, were indicted at the same time. Upon arraignment Howard pleaded guilty and was sentenced to one month's imprisonment and payment of $1000 fine, but Wissig pleaded not guilty and was down for trial by a jury.

It was divulged by Howard to the grand jury, as well as to United States officers, which led to the indictment of Chris Snyder after he had sailed as a tourist for San Francisco in the Manchuria. It was evidence by Howard, to the effect that he alone was responsible for bringing the opium in question ashore, that led to a dicted verdict yesterday restoring Snyder to liberty.

After the Snyder trial ended thus, L. M. Straus, attorney for Wissig, requested an immediate trial for his client. This was granted and a special venire for trial jurors was issued and made returnable at two o'clock this afternoon.

A jury was quickly empaneled, consisting of E. S. Cunha, C. J. Campbell, F. P. McIntyre, A. R. Hatfield, J. F. Chilton, W. R. Clinton, J. G. Spencer, U. Vierra, E. A. McInerney, George E. Bruns, George C. Potter and F. A. Batchelor.

Dick Sullivan, otherwise known as Patrick Corn, owner of the Pacific saloon, was the first witness. He told a straight story about Wissig coming into the saloon and asking if he could be directed to anybody who would buy opium which he had to sell. Howard came in later and was introduced to Wissig by Wissig. Albert L. Howard was next called.

A Family Medicine Without Alcohol

Ayer's Sarsaparilla is a tonic and alterative, free from alcohol. What is a "tonic"? A medicine that imparts strength or tone; a medicine that builds up, gives vigor and power. What is an "alterative"? A medicine that alters or changes unhealthy action to healthy action. Ayer's Sarsaparilla does all this without stimulation. Ask your doctor if a family medicine, like Ayer's Sarsaparilla, is not vastly better without alcohol than with it.

Barron Arranges a Race For June 12

Despite the fact that Con Hubbenette did not arrive on the Honolulu on Saturday Charles Barron has decided to go ahead with the proposed foot-race slated for June 12th, even in the event of Hubbenette not arriving in time to compete.

Last night Barron had an idea that the two boxers who arrived from the coast on Saturday might be able to run and he put it up to them, with the result that both agreed to join with Nigel Jackson in a team to race King. Soldier King will race ten miles against nine by the three men mentioned, Jackson to run four, George and McKenna two and a half

JOY SECOND IN THE BATTING TABLE

Barney Joy no longer leads the individual batting averages, for his work with the stick on Sunday put him back to second place, Soares taking the lead again. There were several very important changes in the averages as the result of these games, for Souza and Akana made great leaps up from way down the list. Souza went to fourth from twenty-first, and Akana to eighth from twentieth. Brito dropped to sixth from third, but Sumner and Kan Yen did tumbles of greater distance, the former being now in thirteenth place instead of fifth and the latter in sixteenth instead of sixth. The table below gives the averages of those who have played in four or more games:

BOXERS SIGN AND START TRAINING

Patsy McKenna and Kid George lost no time in fixing up with Dick Sullivan for the boxing match scheduled for the 17th inst. for the articles were duly signed last night. The two men have already started training George at the Park Theater and McKenna at Fort Shafter.

George will commence his stunts at three o'clock this afternoon and interested fans are invited to drop in and see him at work. It is anticipated that George will not lack sparring partners as many of the local lads want to have a bout with him.

Out at Fort Shafter McKenna will have plenty of material to choose from and no doubt the soldier pugs will be benefited by the points they will pick up from McKenna.

START TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

Though Theo. Richards and Miss Ruth Richards won the first set in the mixed doubles tennis match yesterday against W. Roth and Mrs. Richard Ivers, the last mentioned pair came through with two sets in succession and won the match. The match was well contested, though the final set was taken rather easily by Roth and his partner. The scores were: 4-6, 6-3, 6-1.

This afternoon the three pairs who received byes in the first round will play on the Beretania courts, together with Roth and Mrs. Ivers. The matches arranged are:

W. Roth and Mrs. Ivers vs. Al. Castle and Mrs. Sutton.
A. M. Nowell and Mrs. Graham vs. D. W. Anderson and Miss Kelly.
Play will commence at 4:30 and the final will probably be played tomorrow between the winners of this afternoon's matches.

Watches promptly and properly repaired by Redhouse, Masonic building, Alakea and Hotel streets.

PRESIDENTS' HOME IN MIDDLE WEST

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Following a conversation with President Taft this morning, Representative Nye of Minnesota decided to introduce a bill in Congress providing that the government erect a summer home for the Presidents of the United States on the shores of Lake Minnetonka, Minn.

When Senator Kenyon, several weeks ago, suggested that Mr. Taft spend a part of his vacation this summer in the middle west, in the Lake Minnetonka region, the President was impressed with the idea and said he would consider it.

Again today Mr. Taft informed Mr. Nye that Senator Kenyon's suggestion was a good one, and that he would like to take advantage of the opportunity to get acquainted with the people of the middle west.

Summer Home at Beverly.

Although President Taft and his family have arranged to make Beverly their home again this summer, it is probable that the President will spend some time in the Lake Minnetonka region.

Maj. Archibald Butt will go to Beverly this evening to make arrangements for the opening of the summer White House, and Secretary Hilles will go there next week to see that the executive offices are put in shape.

That the people of the middle west are anxious to have the President in their midst for the summer was evidenced several days ago when the village of Wazata, Minn., through its executive head, wrote to the President offering him a tract of land, free, on the shores of Lake Minnetonka, if he would make his summer home there.

Will Go To Baltimore.

President Taft has definitely accepted the invitation to go to Baltimore during the first week in June to participate in the celebration to be held in honor of Cardinal Gibbons, who will on June 6 observe his twenty-fifth anniversary as a cardinal and his fiftieth anniversary as a priest. Elaborate preparations have been made by the people of Baltimore to honor the prelate. Former President Roosevelt has also accepted an invitation to participate in the festivities.

The President also accepted the invitation of the New York State Bankers' Association to go to Manhattan Beach June 22. He will address the bankers that afternoon.

Mr. Taft today also completed arrangements for his trip to New Haven to attend the commencement of Yale University. On June 8 he will go to Brooklyn to review the parade of the Sunday School Union, in which 20,000 children will march. On the same evening he will attend the banquet of the Cotton Seed Crushers' Association.

Thinks South for Taft.

Gen. Powell Clayton, who is the republican national committeeman for Arkansas, and one of the staunch party leaders of the south, visited the President today and informed him of political conditions in that section.

Gen. Clayton is convinced that there is no member of the republican party more popular in the south than Mr. Taft. "Republicans in my section of the country are strong for President Taft; and, in fact, there are many democrats who will support him in the next campaign," said the general. "I am certain the south will be solid for Mr. Taft at the next national convention."

Naval Program in Air.

Representative Padgett of Tennessee, chairman of the House committee on naval affairs, was another White House caller this morning. He announced as he was leaving that his committee is not pledged to the program for one battleship a session, as has been reported.

"We have not even discussed the battleship program," said Mr. Padgett. "And of course no one can tell what the final agreement of the House will be."

In the President's mail this morning was a long envelope, which attracted the attention of Secretary Hilles. It was mailed at Oklahoma City and contained the following letter:

"President Taft: Inclosed find twenty-dollar bill, ten-dollar bill, two-dollar bill and one-dollar bill, making $33 in all. I came from Mexico a few months ago with goods dutiable and evaded customs officers. Now I have sold the good. Under the new tariff act the duty was 40 per cent. This makes $33. I hope, Mr. President, you are not inconvenienced by the delay."

There was no name signed to the missive. The President turned the $33 over to the conscience fund of the Treasury Department.

President Sits on Ice.

Congressmen who get in to see President Taft these days are not surprised to learn that he isn't worrying about the date of adjournment. While all Washington is warm, the President's office shows a temperature of about 80. The President sits over a ton of ice each day, for the White House refrigerating plant is just beneath his desk. The cooled air is forced into the room by fans, and statesmen who wend their perspiring way to the executive office find Mr. Taft smiling and comfortable.

If it comes to a struggle between Congress and the President, Mr. Taft will have an aid in the hot weather. The Capitol is a hot spot, and even the aid of lemonade and iced carbonated water doesn't offset the advantage of twenty degrees difference in temperature.

THE THEATERS

In Marjorie Linbrooke the Empire theater has an artist. She made her debut yesterday evening, and although the gallery was a little non-plussed at first, they were among the first to break into applause, for her songs were catchy and her stage work effective. As a singer she departs from the general methods of singers. When the curtain rises she is seated at a piano, but moves to a doorway to accept a bouquet of flowers, and with these for her topic, she sings. She was an instant success. Her second effort was "Comin' Thro' the Rye," and this called for an encore, to which she responded with a catchy song, using a telephone to carry out the theme. She wears stunning gowns. Miss Van Ness was in good voice last night. There is an exceptionally good film, telling a story of early pioneer and Indian days.

Gilson and Tolon, the clever sketch team, made their first appearance at the Bijou last night and were pronounced a success by the large audience. They sang and danced well and will shortly put on a more ambitious sketch, using their own stage scenery. Miss Pulliam has a splendid series of songs which were well suited to her voice.

The Savoy is still running with moving pictures only. The innovation is well patronized. The pictures have been well selected and all were popular last evening.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others you may publish my letter."—MRS. NATHAN B. GILSON, 21 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case, write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

PACKS ORPHEUM

The Orpheum Theater was again packed last night and the Great Jansen and his fine company gave one of the most pleasing and artistic performances ever presented here. Jansen is without a doubt the cleverest and most finished magician yet seen here. His work is new and while he carries a beautiful stage setting he depends largely upon his digital dexterity to entertain his audience. There is no question that he is able to do this, as he has been packing the Orpheum Theater to its utmost seating capacity at every performance. He is a wonderful man, that big blond man, with the pleasing smile. He causes a myriad of gay colors to appear from an apparently empty bottle, cunning rabbits, ducks, pigeons and doves to spring into being from sure enough nothing. Trunk mysteries, slight of hand work, and card manipulation are all included in his splendid program, but the chief attraction last night was The Autoist's Surprise, a melo-dramatic pantomime in which Jansen assumes several different characters. The Prisoner, by far the most daring and sensational attempt in which Jansen places a young lady into an iron cage, calling a committee of gentlemen from the audience upon the stage to examine the cage, and locking same with several padlocks and iron chains, then standing all around the cage, after which a curtain is placed around the cage and a few moments later the lady has vanished and a man has appeared in her place, after reappears. De Hollis and Valora again drawn and in the cage the young lady reappears. De Hollis and Valora again had the audience laughing during the thirty minutes of their act. Miss Daisy Thorne certainly made a hit last night with her songs, receiving several encores, and Mr. Nelson Story added several new selections to his musical act, making a pronounced hit with his rendition of Aloha Oe on the xylophone.

ever to say, except in reply to the questions fired at him by the sheriff, but even the sheriff's persuasiveness had no effect on him.

"I don't know about nothing except the rings," he said.
He would not admit that he had entered the Howard house, or that he had stolen the stick-pins or the bracelets or the clothes. He declared that the several suits of cloths which he had in his boxes were passed into the jail from the outside, by whom he knew not. He didn't steal them.

Another trusty was in the room at the time, having brought in John Lua's effects, and on hearing Mrs. Howard mention a plain gold buckle ring, this trusty said to John: "You had that ring. Didn't you bring it to me to have it opened? It was all bent up," explained the trusty, speaking for the benefit of all, "just as if it had been run over by a street car. I put a cold chisel in it and it broke in pieces. He asked me if it was gold, but I couldn't say."

But even this substantiation of the charges did not shake John's composure. He would not admit he knew anything about aught but the rings.

The Tantalus Search.

Though John Lua had had the laugh on the detective force during the past couple of months and has carried out his nefarious plans under the protection of the prison guard, he was run to earth yesterday by Chief Detective McDuffie, who has had the entire detective force on the trail for the past couple of days. Since the thief was captured, and then lost again by Officer Fred Wright on Tuesday last, the chase narrowed down to Tantalus, at the foot of which a prison gang was working, but none, least of all the detectives, suspected and member of that gang of being the culprit.

The police dog demonstrated its utility by leading the detectives to the gang at first, but it was generally considered that the dog was at fault, as the animal sniffed around in an uncertain manner. However, John Lua was not with the gang at that moment, being "further down the road," according to the prison guard. Detective Sergeant Kellett actually saw John Lua that day, but as he was garbed in regulation prison garments no attention was paid to him beyond a casual glance. But the search was kept up.

A Portuguese working near Mrs. Howard's place fell under suspicion, but he soon dissipated it, and gave detective a further clue by remarking that he had seen a well-set up Hawaiian dressed like a runner round about Mrs. Howard's premises on the day of the theft. And from several sources came reports that the "Marathon runner" was abroad. Lua, dressed in a singlet and under-pants, was the Marathon runner, but at night he sought the seclusion afforded by the jail on the reef and thus was placed out of harm's way, where neither the police dog nor the detectives could trail him.

Yesterday the police were out scouring the hills, but without avail, and it was not until he was informed that one man had remarked that he had seen a prisoner who looked like the suspect that the attention of the chief was directed to the prison gang. Then it was recalled that the dog had taken the detectives to the prison gang, and McDuffie reached for the Rogues' photo-gallery. With the chief at that time was Officer Wright, who had seen the man, and as the pages were turned over Wright suddenly stopped the chief and pointed to John Lua's picture.

Search in the Jail.

"That's the man," said Wright. And he was right.

McDuffie and Wright went over to the jail and interviewed High Sheriff Henry, who had Lua produced. There could be no mistake; that was the man. First of all, a watch was found on him, the watch taken from a Japanese employed by Mrs. Andrew Brown on Tantalus.

"Where did you get that?" queried the high sheriff, adding as an afterthought, "I expect to see prisoners wearing diamonds next." Little he thought how near to the truth he was, for after Lua had been divested of all raiment, McDuffie reached down and took a handkerchief from between Lua's legs in which four valuable rings were found. Lua was suffering from a boil on his back and this was bandaged. To this bandage the handkerchief was tied. Henry looked aghast at the diamonds, too thunderstruck to speak.

Then Lua's cell was searched and in it was found a stick-pin box, which was this morning identified by Mrs. Gertrude Porter. In this box, when it was stolen, were two stick-pins which have not been recovered.

Convict Had a Purse.

Lua was found to possess a purse containing $10, and his explanation of how he came by that money was that he had sold a suit of clothes. This remark may elucidate another mysterious theft, for the Japanese at Mrs. Brown's residence on Tantalus also reported the theft of a suit of clothes.

Quite a number of robberies are laid at Lua's door. He is held to be responsible for the thefts from Mrs. Howard on the 30th ult., the theft of rings from Mrs. Grossman on May 24, a theft from Charles S. Crane, a theft of bracelets and stick-pins from Mrs. Porter, and the thefts from the Japanese on Tantalus. All these crimes, it is expected, will be shown to have been committed by Lua while he was in the safe custody of the territorial jail.

A minute search failed to reveal anything more, but Lua had an explanation to give for all the articles he had the rings, he said, he bought from Monkey Fragas, the chicken thief, but "Monkey" was in the other jail at the time of the robbery and could hardly have been in communication with the convict-thief.

SATURDAY TO MONDAY.

The Oahu Railway will make a special two dollar rate, Honolulu to Haleiwa and return good from next Saturday morning until Monday night. The Yacht Club is to have its regatta there and there will be a Yacht Club dance Saturday night that should attract many visitors to this well known hotel. On Monday there will be golf and tennis and there will be no objection from the manager if the sport is indulged in on Sunday.

This is an opportunity to spend the three days holiday at small expense. The gain in health will be great.

small wage will probably be paid. The idea is to keep boys who have left school and who have failed to secure work away from the deleterious influence of the streets and questionable resorts.

Not only will boys who have passed the school age be admitted but boys whose backwardness would make further attendance at an ordinary school futile.

Teachers' Assignments.

The teachers' appointments for the ensuing school year were made but are not yet ready for publication. They will not be given out until the salaries of the teachers appointed have been determined according to the new schedule which requires their standing, qualifications in the way of certificates, the reports of the supervising principals on their work, and their time allowance for work in the service.

In the matter of the Kalihiwaena school scandal it was decided to allow Principal Cox to retain his position and to put things at the school on a more satisfactory basis. The department will take special pains to see that this is done.

In the matter of Hilo High School a new principal will in all probability be obtained from the mainland. There will be an entire set of new teachers at the school with the exception of several grade teachers who have been there in previous years.

JUST WHAT ITS NAME IMPLIES.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that its name implies. There has never been a case reported of cramp colic, cholera morbus or dysentery where this remedy was used that it did not give prompt relief. It is as good for the child as for the adult and all danger from cholera infantum will be avoided if this medicine is promptly administered. HUGHES RECEIVES AND REJECTS A PROPOSAL THAT HE BE THE REPUBLICAN CHOICE FOR PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Casting about for a candidate to pit against President Taft in the republican national convention in 1912, the radical progressive republicans hit upon Justice Hughes of the United States Supreme Court. He is considered to combine all of the qualities necessary to make a fine run for the nomination.

But they reckoned without their host. Justice Hughes turned the proposition down flatly and promptly. He would have none of it; indeed, he would hardly listen to the suggestion. Not only would he refuse to be a candidate against the man who appointed him to his present position, but he discouraged the efforts of the progressives to stir up trouble for President Taft.

This occurred about six weeks ago and since that time the progressive republicans have been rather at sea as to their candidate, although, of course, they have Senator La Follette in reserve all the time. The progressive republicans would dearly love to prevent the renomination of President Taft.

Would Head Bolting Ticket.

They do not really believe that Senator La Follette could go into the republican convention and wrest the nomination from Mr. Taft. If Senator La Follette is nominated for the presidency he will probably be at the head of a bolting republican ticket, it is thought by politicians.

But the progressive republicans, it is declared by politicians here, would sacrifice all personal ambition if they could find a man of a progressive type of their definition who could go into that convention and take the nomination away from Mr. Taft. They thought they had the right man for this undertaking in Justice Hughes, and their hearts beat high with hope until he said "nay" so emphatically as to leave no doubt of his sincerity. Senator Cummins, according to friends who are close to him, will not be a candidate for the presidential nomination in 1912. He has been talked about from time to time, his position at the head of the progressive movement giving prominence to his availability, but Senator Cummins does not see it that way at this time.

THREE BILLS TO MEET HARLAN'S VIEWS IN STANDARD OIL CASE

WASHINGTON, May 18.—In the Senate yesterday interest in the Standard Oil decision crystallized in the introduction of three bills designed to make more effective the anti-trust law. Senator Jones of Washington, Senator Culberson of Texas, and Senator Reed of Missouri each introduced bills dealing with the subject. The measures were referred to the committee on judiciary, which will decide whether to report them at this session or not.

Mr. Reed's bill proposes to add to section 1 of the Sherman act the following:

"Every such contract, combination or conspiracy is hereby declared to be unreasonable and illegal, and shall be so considered, taken and held, in all proceedings at law and in equity."

To the second section there is proposed to be added these words: "All monopolies or attempts to monopolize, and all combinations or conspiracies are hereby declared to be unreasonable and illegal, and shall be so considered, taken and held, in all proceedings at law and in equity."

Mr. Jones' bill would add to the Sherman act these words: "Every contract, combination in the form of a trust, or otherwise, or conspiracy in restraint of trade or commerce among the several states or with foreign nations, whether such restraint be reasonable or unreasonable, is hereby declared to be illegal."

Senator Culberson's bill adds to sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman act so as to define the combination therein mentioned or "combinations in restraint of trade of whatever character."

Opinions in the House.

There is a practically unanimous belief among leading democrats of the House of Representatives that in the end there will have to be additional anti-trust legislation to meet the condition created by the Supreme Court's decision in the Standard Oil case, but that action is not imminent at this session.

Chairman Clayton of the House committee on judiciary, before whom would come a bill of such a character, expressed the opinion today that Congress probably would withhold action to see how the trusts act under the Standard Oil decision and the expected tobacco decision, to let the trusts make the first move under the new ruling, and Congress take the cue therefrom for its further action.

"I wish the court had put the Standard Oil Company into the hands of a receiver," said Mr. Clayton, speaking of the matter, "and then the country would know whether the corporation is really dissolved or not. The company may claim to be dissolved and all the time be doing virtually the same things it has done in the past, under guise of a new organization."

Mr. Clayton's remark was by the way of bearing out the suggestion previously made by him that a waiting policy probably will be adopted by Congress, for the present at least.

The House democratic leaders expect the trust question to be a prominent campaign feature for 1912, and to come along opportunely after the revision of the tariff by the democratic party.

MORMON ENGRAVINGS ON GIFT TO BATTLESHIP UTAH CAUSE A ROW

WASHINGTON, May 20.—An attack on Mormonism was made public today by the House committee on naval affairs, which is trying to find out whether it has the authority to refuse to accept from the state of Utah for the battleship of that name a silver service adorned with engraving depicting Brigham Young and the mormon temple. The hearing was by long odds the liveliest held at the Capitol this year.

For instance, Miss Jannett E. Richards of this city, representing the Daughters of the American Revolution declared that "we consider Brigham Young the most undesirable type of American citizen to be chosen to decorate the silverware of any battleship in the United States to go around the world under the American flag."

Miss Richards told the committee that the Mormons were determined to have their religious symbols appear upon the silver service of the battleship Utah.

"If," she said, "the Catholics were to present a silver service to a battleship and the pieces contained a picture of the Pope of Rome, with the Vatican in the background, it would raise a furore in our country. No such design would be accepted. Yet the Pope is guilty of neither treason, murder nor polygamy."

"Then why must we have this 'so-called' Mormon prophet and the Mormon temple thrust upon us when we know that Brigham Young stood for that which was discreditable and undesirable. We appeal to this committee to have another design selected for this service."

Rev. R. M. Stephenson Emphatic.

Rev. Robert M. Stephenson, president of Westminster College, in Salt Lake City, was equally emphatic.

"When Arizona and New Mexico are admitted to the Union," he said, "I am confident that there will be sixteen United States Senators under the control of the Mormon Church. Up to the time of Brigham Young polygamy had been secretly practiced, but under Brigham Young it became an open tenet of the church, and the expression 'Live your religion' from that day to this has meant plural wives."

Representative Foss of Illinois, ranking republican member of the naval committee, of which he was chairman until the democrats won the House, asked Dr. Stephenson if this was the case now.

"Indeed it is," the witness replied. "I could show you some evidence that would prove my statement. This is a movement to take advantage of the United States government and to propagate a sectarian religion by the use of the navy. I am opposed to the design on this silver service."

Called It Political Matter.

Mr. Owens, who told the committee she represented the non-Mormon party of Utah, said she had protested to Secretary of the Navy Meyer, who had replied: "You seem to think this is a very small matter; it is a political matter, and demands a great deal of care in deciding."

The Navy Department, Mrs. Owen says, had never made any promise in the matter. Protests made to President Taft, she declared, had been turned over by the White House to Secretary Meyer.

In her remarks, Mrs. Owen spoke of Brigham Young as a murderer, traitor and polygamist.

Mrs. A. V. Waghams, who said she represented the interdenominational Council of Women, also filed a protest against Brigham Young's picture on the silver service, on the ground that Mormon missionaries would use it in their labor of distributing the propaganda of the church as encouragement of this government.

Rev. George A. Miller, vice president of the Ministerial Federation of Washington and Rev. Frank J. Goodwin, pastor of the Mount Vernon Congregational Church of this city, spoke along the same lines.

No decision has been reached by the committee.

ARMY AND NAVY

New Commissary Soon.

A regimental commissary for the Fifth Cavalry at the Lihueh reservation will not be appointed until all of the captains have been assigned. This regiment has been struck heavily in the past two months by the delightful weight of promotions. Almost half a dozen captains of the Fifth Horse have reached their majority, and most of them are assigned to other regiments.

Major Willard Ames Holbrook, Eighth Cavalry, was in command of Troop L when captain in the Fifth Cavalry. The major has been the regimental commissary also of his former regiment at Schofield Barracks, relinquishing his double duties only when duty called him to attend the War College at Washington, D. C. Colonel Wilber E. Wilder, commanding the Fifth Cavalry, at the Lihueh reservation, will wait until his list of troop commanders are completed before naming a successor in the commissary to Major Holbrook.

Macomb Visits Lihueh.

Captain Clifton C. Carter, chief of staff to the commanding general of this military district, accompanied General Montgomery M. Macomb on a general looking around trip to the Lihueh reservation yesterday. General Macomb is the officer in command of the military forces here. Each day he unofficially looks after some part of the government's reservations, keeping in intimate and close touch with what is being done and what is likely to be needed at each and all of the army posts within his military district. There is a great deal of ground to be covered and it requires energy to keep the fences all up.

The New Quarters.

Work is still being pushed on the quarters and stables, both being almost completed now, for the use of the additional batteries of field artillery that are due to come over from the Coast next month for station at Schofield Barracks. Major Nathaniel E. McClure, Fifth Cavalry, is constructing quarters. He attends to the immediate needs of the constructing parties at the Lihueh reservation. Captain Frank B. Edwards has charge of all construction in this military district. He is on General Montgomery M. Macomb's official staff.

Sold His Automobile.

Major Willard Ames Holbrook, who has been one of the few officers stationed at the Lihueh reservation to own an automobile, sold his fine machine on Friday just the day previous to his sailing with Mrs. Holbrook on the Sherman for the Coast. In Washington, Major and Mrs. Holbrook will secure a late automobile and have drives along Woodley Lane, instead of driving along the winding road to Schofield Barracks, Oahu. The scenery and road, for the most part, however, of this island cannot be surpassed, even in the District of Columbia.

More Promotions.

Dr. George D. Graham has been promoted from a contract dental surgeon in the army to be a dental surgeon. His nomination, with a number of other well-known dentists who have served for years in the army mouths, was sent to the U. S. Senate on May 18. The entire list includes: Doctors John S. Marshall, who has written books on dentistry and has many friends among his profession in Honolulu; Selbert D. Boak, Franklin F. Wing, Frank H. Wolven, Hugh G. Voorhies, Alden Carpenter, Edwin P. Tignor, George H. Cassaday (Dr. Cassaday has served a tour of duty at Honolulu and will be pleasantly remembered), Rex H. Rhoades, George K. Gunckel, Raymond E. Ingalls, John K. Ames, Robert H. Mills, Frank L. K. Laffamme, Robert F. Patterson, Doctors Robert T. Oliver, Clarence E. Landerdale, George L. Mason, John H. Hess, William H. Chambers, Charles J. Long, Frank A. McAllister, Julien R. Bernheim, George E. Stallman, Frank P. Stone, Harold O. Scott, Edward P. R. Ryan, Minot E. Scott, George D. Graham, and Samuel H. Leslie.

ACREAGE IN COTTON HERE HAS MUCH INCREASED AND WILL BE FURTHER EXTENDED THIS YEAR

The annual report of the Hawaii Agricultural Experiment Station, by Dr. E. V. Wilcox, has the following regarding cotton:

Experiments with cotton were begun by the station three years ago and have yielded striking results in certain localities in which commercial plantings, to the extent of about 500 acres, have been made. During the coming year these plantings will be greatly increased. A number of points have been quite clearly demonstrated during these experiments. It has been shown that cotton will thrive under a wide range of rainfall—from 25 to 100 inches per year—and at a considerable variation of altitude, from sea level to 1,600 feet. The most favorable locations, however, are low-lying lands near the seashore and protected by algaroba, or other windbreaks, from the winds which occur during the winter. Although at elevations below 300 feet a temperature as low as 59 deg. F. is very rare in Hawaii, nevertheless, at such a temperature cotton shows the effect in a marked degree. The leaves even may turn brown, as if they had been frosted. With regard to rainfall, a moderate amount per year is decidedly more favorable for the growth of cotton than a higher or lower rate of precipitation.

Excessive Yield.

One difficulty which has been experienced in growing Sea Island cotton in Hawaii is that of excessive yield, which results in a too prostrate form of growth. In one locality on the windward side of Oahu, where the rainfall is about 70 inches per year, two acres of Sea Island cotton required about 5,000 props in order to keep the branches from lying upon the ground and causing the bolls to rot. In this respect the Caravonica cotton is superior to Sea Island, since it invariably has an upright habit of growth. The difficulty experienced with the prostrate habit of the Sea Island can be appreciated from a consideration of the fact that in the two-acre field just mentioned and in another one-acre field, on the leeward side of Oahu, the average number of bolls per plant was 700, and on one tree 1,200 bolls were counted at one time. This produces the weight under the slender branches of the Sea Island can not support themselves in an upright position. An elaborate series of pruning experiments is now under way with the idea of learning a method by which an upright growth can be induced in the Sea Island cotton at least for the second and subsequent years of the crop. Some promise is already held out by these experiments. A strain of Sea Island, secured from one of the best plantations on James Island, S. C., shows a more upright habit of growth than any other strain of Sea Island which has thus far been secured.

The Caravonica cotton continues to give promising results. During the first year of its growth the yield appears to be normally low, but in the second year a heavy yield is obtained, which, in conjunction with the greater ease of picking and the higher percentage of lint, makes a choice between Sea Island and Caravonica somewhat doubtful. Egyptian cotton has given results as satisfactory as those obtained with Sea Island. The strains of Egyptian cotton with which the station is experimenting grow rather more vigorously than the Sea Island, and the yield is perhaps slightly larger. The place which Egyptian cotton should take in the agriculture of Hawaii will largely be determined by the future demands of the market for the three chief types of cotton now grown in the Territory. In addition to Sea Island, Caravonica, and Egyptian cotton, experiments are being made with Chinese upland, a number of varieties of upland from the Southern States, and a cotton with red lint, from Cuba. It is proposed to make a reciprocal cross between Sea Island and Kidney cottons in order to determine whether Caravonica cotton was originated in this manner and whether an improvement upon the ordinary type of Caravonica can thus be secured. Several plants have been found in different localities in the Territory where a natural cross between a pure Sea Island and a pure Kidney cotton could have taken place, and these plants strikingly resemble, in habit of growth and quality of lint, the ordinary type of Caravonica cotton.

It has been found that pure strains can be propagated by means of cotton cuttings, and a number of cuttings will come into bearing during the present season. In addition to this method of propagation budding has been tried on a large scale. Propagation is an easy matter by the method of budding, but the economy of the method on a commercial scale has not yet been determined. According to the present outlook it seems an economic proposition to bud over large areas with bud wood from the best plants, and thus secure a uniform cotton over the whole field. This method would, of course, have no value except where cotton is cultivated as a perennial crop.

MONEY IN THE CAMPHOR TREE

Washington Star. Experiments that have been conducted for several years by the Department of Agriculture have progressed to a point where it seems likely there is a new industry open to the south, and one that will make the United States independent of a foreign camphor supply. In a paper that has just been issued by Prof. Rodney True and S. C. Hood the results in Florida are discussed and the conclusion is reached that camphor production in this country is practical, and can be made profitable.

Japan now furnishes the bulk of the camphor in the world's trade. The most of it comes from Formosa, but a small quantity is brought from the mainland of China. The history of the tree and the drug is interesting, and is gone into by the authors of the paper.

Total Annual Amount.

The practical point is that the camphor monopoly produces about 8,000,000 pounds of camphor annually. Of this there are imported into the United States from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 pounds. Owing to the operations of the camphor monopoly, the price is subject to violent fluctuations. In the past three years it has varied between $1.17 and 50 cents a pound.

The camphor now produced comes from the forest trees which are cut down to supply the gum. There is no attempt to replant the trees and if the native supply gives out the world will be faced with scarcity and high prices.

The description of the Japanese distillation of camphor shows that it is crude in the extreme. Bamboo tubes and wooden boxes are used as the condensers and the whole process is primitive and wasteful.

Successful Growth in Florida.

It has been found that camphor trees can be grown in Florida and the Gulf States and that the tree is hardy to 15 degrees Fahrenheit. Even if the trees are killed to the ground by frost, they will come up from the roots and there is enough camphor in the frost-killed wood to keep a distillery running over the time it would take the trees to grow back to producing size.

In the experiments that have been made so far in the south the trees have not been cut down, but have been planted in hedge rows and trimmed, the trimmings being used to produce gum camphor and oil. There were cuttings utilized last year from 1,000 trees.

The paper goes at length into the methods of cultivating the trees and the distillation of the camphor. It is said that it is not an industry that can be successfully handled by a small farmer. Two hundred acres is the minimum size of a grove that would

RUSSIA'S GREAT RAILWAY.

"It is reported that the Russian Government contemplates the improvement of the existing Siberian Railway and creating duplicate approaches both in European Russia and the Far East," Consul Maynard writes from Vladivostok. "When these works are completed in 1915 the imperial treasury will have expended on the Siberian Railway somewhat over $1,000,000,000, which includes both cost of construction and loss on exploitation. In exchange for this Russia will have a complete double-track system from the Urals to the Pacific, with double approaches, of a total length of 6844 miles.

"During 1910 the Ministry of Communications introduced into the Duma three bills providing for parts of this vast work. The first is to double the Balkal-Kulchuk section of the Circumbalkal Railway, the second is concerned with the eastern part of the new Amur Railway, and the third is for double-tracking the existing Transbaikalian Railway. The most important work strategically is the Amur Railway, which will supply Russia with communication with the Far East, running through Russian territory alone, as against the existing Chinese Eastern line. The new Amur line will be 1344 miles long, and, as officially estimated, will cost $121,050,000; but including rolling stock, guarding during construction and the usual percentage of estimated expenditure, the cost is put at $149,244,000. With the completion of this work, which has been two years in hand, Russia will for the first time have railway communication with the Far East lying entirely in native territory."

"The second great work under way is connecting St. Petersburg and the European Northern Railway system with the main Siberian line, the chief approach to which has hitherto been through Moscow and Central Russia. This new line runs through the towns of Perm, Ekaterinburg and Tyumen, and joins the Siberian Railway at Omsk. The section from Perm to Ekaterinburg is finished. The total cost of this new approach and incidental improvements will cost $43,243,000.

"Doubling and improving the existing track of the Siberian Railway is the next work. This was begun in 1907. For three sections of doubling work and for reconstruction the hilly part of the Eastern Siberian Railway (between Atchinsk and Irkutsk) the Ministry of Communications has asked for $82,309,000; but in addition there are sections for which no estimates have yet been prepared, also the needed improvements of the Ussuri Railway from Vladivostok to Habarovsk, and rebuilding of stations. Adding these costs, calculating on the basis of past outlays, the Russian engineer, Mikhailovsky, puts the cost of reconstructing the existing Siberian line at $97,966,000. This makes a total cost of new works undertaken during the last three years of $290,453,000.

"Engineering defects in the line will remain in steep gradients in the Transbaikalian Railway which require double traction, a large number of short curves and wooden bridges over the narrow rivers, which are constantly destroyed by fire. The correction of these defects will bring the total of $302,210,000.

"The statistical department of the Ministry of Communications puts the construction outlay up to 1907 on the Siberian and Manchurian railways at $422,412,000. The losses on exploitation during the fourteen years which have elapsed since 1896, when the western section of the Siberian line was opened, are given at $211,693,300. The exploitation losses for the six years which will elapse before the present schemes are finished will amount to about $60,831,000. This makes the total cost of the completed Siberian Railway $937,146,000, or about $146,827 a mile, notwithstanding that practically no compensation had to be paid for land and that more than half the line runs through flat territory.

LOUD AND PROLONGED APPLAUSE.

A speech by Representative Adam Littlepage of West Virginia on the farmers' free list bill, which was delivered in the House on May 5 and held for "revision," appears in today's Congressional Record. Mr. Littlepage is the new Democratic member who, in his autobiography in the Congressional Directory frankly tells the public a few of the complimentary things that he thinks of himself. Mr. Littlepage's speech on the farmers' free list bill fills about six columns of the Record. In it there appear forty-four parenthetical comments in regard to the manner in which the speech was received in the House.

Usually the official stenographers of the House, even in the case of speeches by Uncle Joe Cannon, Champ Clark and other favorites, confine themselves to such interpolations as "Applause," "Loud applause," "Continued applause" or "Applause on the Democratic or Republican side."

In Mr. Littlepage's speech the phrase "Applause on the Democratic side" occurs fourteen times; "Loud applause," three times; "Loud and prolonged applause," three times; "Laughter and applause on the Democratic side" three times, "Great applause on the Democratic side," twice.

Other enthusiastic interjections are: "Loud applause on the Democratic side and among the insurgents," "Loud and spontaneous applause," "Prolonged applause," "Long applause," "Great applause and continued laughter," "Long and tumultuous applause," this one being the finale.

Impartial critics contend that the stenographers must have been unusually kind to Mr. Littlepage, especially in view of the fact that on May 5, as many recall it, the attendance on the floor of the House ranged from about eight to a maximum of about twenty-five.—Washington Dispatch in New York Sun.

A GOOD FRIEND.

No one can have a better friend than troubled with colic or diarrhoea Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Ever since the middle aged man of today was a child it has been going about doing good until its fame has spread to nearly all parts of the civilized world and stands unrivalled for its prompt cures. It never fails to give relief. For sale by all dealers, Benson, Smith & Co., agents for Hawaii.

NEARING THE END.

School days are drawing to a close and the time for play day approaches. In the selection of a place to spend the vacation care should be used. There is a matter of good food and sanitation. Facilities and convenience for such exercise as will build up the body and brain and have the student in a condition of preparedness for the fall term. Haleiwa complies with all of the requirements in this respect. The bathing, the golf links and tennis courts and the hill trails in the vicinity supply all demands. Arrangements may be made now for accommodations for a portion or all of the season.

geon for this military district since September last, when he was assigned to day at the Kahauiki and Lihoua reservations from the United States. In fact, he has divided his time between the different army posts of Hawaii, visiting Fort Ruger and Fort De Russay, as well as spending some time at Fort Shafter and at Schofield Barracks.

Captain Hirsch Coming.

Captain Harry J. Hirsch, Twentieth Infantry, who has been serving a detail in the quartermaster's department, with station at Columbus Barracks, Ohio, has been relieved from duty in the quartermaster's department and ordered to join the Second battalion of his regiment in this military district. It is expected that Captain Hirsch will travel on the U. S. A. T. Buford, which was scheduled to leave San Francisco yesterday.

Captain Hirsch will become a member of the Fort Shafter post, and will be a welcome addition to the official line, as the number of officers serving with this battalion just go around once. There is not a single officer now at Fort Shafter that could be spared, even on sick report.

Companies G and H of the Twentieth Infantry have not an officer, except by detail from other companies, to command them.

Coming on Buford.

When the transport Buford arrives next week there will be several army officers destined for station in this military district.

Captain Benjamin H. Watkins, Second Infantry, who took a two months' leave of absence in April, when the two battalions of his regiment left Fort Thomas, Kentucky, for a tour of duty in Oahu, is journeying on the Buford for station at Schofield Barracks. Captain Watkins is accompanied by his wife and young daughter. Captain Watkins has been regimental quartermaster for the past few years and has an excellent record made in that office. Captain Edward A. Shut-tleworth, Second Infantry, has been acting quartermaster of the Second Infantry during the absence of Captain Watkins.

THERE IS NO BRITISH EMPIRE.

"There is no document of any kind regulating the relations between the mother country and the daughter countries. There is no definite understanding even. So that it is impossible to say with any confidence what are the relations between either the daughter countries and the mother country, or between the daughter countries themselves. When the present Constitution of the United States was adopted it laid down that the power of entering into treaties with foreign countries should be vested in the President, and must be confirmed by the Senate. The several states which previously had been independent commonwealths thus gave up one of the most important sovereign rights. Similarly when the German empire was founded the right to negotiate was vested in the imperial government. The same principle holds in the case of Switzerland. Whether, therefore, we take the United States or Germany or Switzerland as the exemplar of a federation, we see that the British empire is not a federation. For although the sole right of making treaties had always previously been vested in the British sovereign and his ministers, Canada, when she demanded the denunciation of the commercial treaties with Germany and Belgium, repudiated the doctrine. Since then she has gone farther still, and has successfully asserted her right to negotiate with foreign states without consulting the government of the United Kingdom. Again, when the United States framed its present Constitution it decided that there should be no customs barriers between the several states, and the example set then has been followed by all succeeding federations. But the self-governing colonists erect customs barriers, not only against outsiders but also against the mother country and one another. Over and above this, when the United States adopted its present Constitution it decided that every citizen should be free to pass without let or hindrance from one state to another. But the self-governing colonies have passed laws which require citizens of the British empire, when entering any of them, to pass certain examinations, while the South African colonies exclude all colored people, whether British subjects or aliens. It is unnecessary to add more to show that the British empire is neither an empire nor a federation. It may, however, be worth while to point out that it is not even one political unit. For, as has already been demonstrated, there is no central sovereign authority with power to call out the armed forces of the crown in every portion of the empire. Neither the British war office nor the British admiralty can give orders to the military and naval forces of Canada, Australia or South Africa. Each of these—we would add New Zealand—is free to order out its troops and its ships, or to refrain from ordering them out, at its own good will. Furthermore, the several colonies have passed acts forbidding the entrance of British subjects under certain conditions. Lastly, Australia has passed laws excluding ships of the mother country from Australian ports under certain contingencies. Thus we arrive at the conclusion that the British empire is neither an empire nor a federation, nor even a single political unit. In other words, there is not at present, and, so far as we are aware, there never has been, a political entity quite like what is called the British empire. We may be reminded of the Hapsburg monarchy. No doubt it will be said that all parts of the British empire are connected by the link of the crown, just as are Austria and Hungary. But the alleged analogy will not stand examination. Austria and Hungary have a common army and navy, a common diplomatic service, a common postoffice, a common banking law. The British empire has none of these. The practice survives that when a self-governing colony enters into negotiations with a foreign state the British ambassador at the capital of that state introduces the colonial delegates. But it is a mere form."—London Statist.

EMPRESS EUGENIE'S BRIDAL PEARLS.

Various are the superstitions attached to precious stones, and the prognostication of the lady who commented on the Empress Eugenie's bridal pearls had certainly ample justification in later years.

"It was a Spanish lady," says Jane T. Stodart in her biography, "who as she admired the pearl necklace worn by the youthful sovereign, quoted with melancholy foreboding that proverb of her country, 'The pearls which women wear on their wedding day are a symbol of the tears which they will shed.'"

"I think it is Maeterlinck who says somewhere that luck really means the possession of a sixth sense, which warns one of coming disaster or danger. The Empress Eugenie must surely have been possessed of the faculty, though alas! she did not profit by it.

"Strangely enough the Empress' first act after her marriage showed that her mind was brooding on images of death and sorrow. At the beginning of her honeymoon at St. Cloud she asked Napoleon to drive her to Versailles, and there she inspected with mournful interest the rooms of Marie Antoinette in the Little Trianon.

"On returning to Paris the Imperial pair visited the Archives Nationales and read Marie Antoinette's last letter, written from the conciergerie on the morning of her execution. Eugenie in later years made a collection of relics belonging to the hapless Queen."—The Gentleman.

Average Yield Per Acre.

The experiments have not gone far enough to show just what yield could be expected per acre, but from the trees that have so far been utilized it probably would be from 175 to 200 pounds of camphor per acre.

One advantage of the prospective camphor farm is that the trees will grow well on soil that is too poor and sandy to be fit for much else, and the mere matter of getting land for a grove would be a comparatively small expense.

INSURANCE GAMBLING IN EN- GLAND.

The financial umbrella invented by the British insurance companies was hailed as a beneficent piece of business enterprise when it first appeared several years ago. But since its recent organization into a routine form of insurance open to the general public at fixed rates some question has arisen as to its economic desirability and moral propriety. Says one British scientific critic:

"As there is no necessity laid on the assured to prove damage or even to go near the place where the rain is to be measured it is apparent that a question may arise as to whether the transaction in certain cases is legitimate insurance or mere gambling."

In other words, the scheme readily lends itself to purely speculative use. A London clerk can go into an insurance office, as he would into a pool room here (last year), and lay a bet with the company as to the weather in Brighton or in any other of some sixty odd towns. He may not intend to visit any of them, so that his only interest in the local meteorology is of a purely sporting character. A policy of this type differs in no essential way from a lottery ticket or a horse race bet.

Since the business of "breeding horses" has been put out of commission around here this new method of "trying one's luck" seems worth a trial. It looks like a very good sort of game, and, as insurance, sounds eminently legal and respectable. The only possible difficulty which occurs to us is that arising from the opportunity thus given Willis L. Moore and his weather sharps to accumulate fabulous fortunes.

Knowing the weather for a week ahead with scientific certainty, as they do, access to such a game would make multimillionaires of all of them in no time, break the rain insurer's bank and put the whole scheme "on the bum." But as they would be betting on a sure thing, and there ought to be a law against such wagers if there isn't, all weather prophets, high and low, could be excluded from participation on good and sufficient if not on statutory grounds. With these future piercers eliminated the new game has distinct elements of attractiveness.—New York Globe.

BOOKS FOR LOVERS OF BOOKS.

When Edmond de Goncourt wrote his will he directed that his books, his pictures, and his art objects should be dispersed at public sale. He said that he did not want the things he loved to be placed in a museum to be stared at by the eye of indifferent curiosity, but preferred them to go to the inheritors of his artistic tastes, in the hope that such would derive from them a pleasure comparable to his own.

In the same spirit the late Robert Hoe directed that the books and manuscripts he had devoted a lifetime to accumulating should pass under the hammer. Visiting some of the great public libraries, rich in the masterpieces of the early printers, volume after volume was brought to him covered with dust, with leaves stained and bindings broken. "This," he said,
"confirms me in the conviction that those who love books should have them in custody, and will take the best care of them." He acknowledged his obligations to others who had been willing to sell. "If the great collections of the past had not been sold, where would I have found my books?"
he asked. So putting aside the temptation to build a monument to his memory, he decreed that the darlings of his affection should go to those who should testify to their desire to possess by their dollar offers. In view of the prices brought, there is little likelihood of many of the Hoe books being allowed to rot and perish through lack of care.

The roundness of a million dollars at the sale was missed by less than $2000, and a new record established for book auctions. The newest of the great countries of the world, thousands of Americans have developed an extraordinary love for the antique. It is a curious national manifestation, and social philosophers would do well to trace its source. The first Europeans came to America to find gold;

the last Americans go to Europe to exchange their gold for articles that Europe little valued when Columbus set out, and which they value today largely as a reflex of the American demand. All of this may be folly, but it is a folly that has an attractive side.

CRUEL.

"Pa, the young man that called last night is a marine artist," ventured the pretty girl at breakfast.

"Hm!" grunted the old man over his buckwheat cakes. "What have I to do with that?"

"Why—er—he said possibly you could tell him where to go for inspiration."

"He did, eh? Well, tell him to go down and paint a picture of the River Styx."—Ledger Library.
