THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1887

VALUE OF SMALL THINGS.

An article in the New Zealand Herald tells of great industries that arose from the showing of then useless products of various countries at the London Exposition of 1851. It says:—

A plant which was a nuisance on the hills of Andalusia, difficult to root out or keep down, suggested to the paper-makers another raw material for their commodity; and esparto grass has since then become a profitable crop in the south of Spain, and every year it is shipped in immense quantities, not only there, but from the opposite coast of Barbary, from Tripoli in particular; the Arabs bringing it down from the hills inland. So, too, when the Crimean war, interrupting trade with Russia, stopped among other things the export of bristles for brushes, a substitute was found in a sort of Mexican grass which had caught somebody's eye at the exhibition, and housewives were able to get their brushes as before, and at half the cost.

Probably if the pulu fern moss of Hawaii had been exhibited at the same place, the trade in that article might have been much larger than the respectable dimensions to which it attained while there was a demand for it. And no doubt there are to-day many unconsidered natural products going to waste on these islands, which keen enterprise might turn to very valuable account as wealth-yielding resources. Proof of this was furnished the other day in the statement of a contemporary that the natives on Hawaii were supplying a wild ramie plant to the decorticating machine recently set up there, and that on a test its fibre was found to be of a superior quality. There are unquestionably a great variety of growths on these islands which are suitable for making paper pulp. This is now a distinct industry from the production of finished paper, having trade secrets that are very jealously guarded. The establishment of a factory here for turning out raw material for the paper-makers on the Coast might be a very remunerative venture for the men enterprising enough to embark in it. These are only given as possible instances of feasible new industries for this country, but doubtless there are scores of products in the country capable of being worked up for profitable export. With the uncertain future of our present main reliance, sugar, it is of the utmost importance that public attention should be kept on the alert for fresh resources of industry and commerce.

TAILORING.

Marshal Kaulukou with that shrewd, practical sense that he has brought to his distinguished office, is about adopting in literality a policy of cutting the coat according to the cloth. The Legislature's allowance for the police bureau is not sufficient to warrant an increase in the pay of the force at its present strength, and the number of men is none too large for the requirements of the city. Therefore any scheme whereby the men's wages will go farther in procuring the comforts of life for themselves and families must be regarded as equivalent to lengthening out their pittance so as to be more in keeping with their long watches. The Marshal having discovered that one of the police force is a tailor has detailed him to make uniforms for the men in future. Mr. Kaulukou told the HERALD this in strict confidence the other day, but an enterprising contemporary having remorselessly "scooped" this paper by divulging the secret there is nothing left for us but to forfeit bail. By this policy of the Marshal the policemen will get cheaper uniforms, while the tailors who used to make them will get "left." The latter may make the loss of custom up, however, in army and navy uniforms, unless, indeed, there are warriors bold of land and sea to be impressed into operating the "goose" for king and country. It is to be hoped, however, that the Marshal's pattern of trimming in the peace force, however praiseworthy there, will not be followed in the war establishment. The most picturesque feature of a regular army and navy is their expensiveness, and to advocate anything militating against that would be treasonable in the eyes of some Hawaiian patriots. Besides, should the war department establish a tailoring corps, there would be danger in case of an alarm that the volunteering would be mostly for that arm of service.

FUN AND FANCY.

Monogram for the United States Senate: $ Senate.—Boston Herald.

The little toe is the smallest on the foot, but it always has the largest corn. Charity begins at home, but it ought not to lie down there and go into a trance.

"Where is the ideal wife?" inquires a lecturer. Out shopping, friend; out shopping.

All Europe is said to be armed to the teeth, which means that war will be by the tongue.

"Electricity," says a contemporary, "is a stimulant." Then there should be a good market for it in Kansas.

Men who want so many eye-openers in the morning should take their eye-closers earlier at night.

The lunatics in almost every asylum are perfectly agreed that all the Superintendent lacks is brain.

Among the politicians it is always some other fellow who is "the average politician." Each one esteems himself.

When a European statesman talks of preserving the peace of Europe he means the piece that belongs to his government.

A Waterloo, N. Y. paper says a cyclone is like three school girls walking abreast—it doesn't turn out for anything.

The greatest German military bill Germany ever had is old Wilhelm himself, and it will be a bad day for the empire, when he is tabled.

There is one thing to be said in favor of the daily newspaper portrait. It shows us what the man, whose name is under it, doesn't look like.

From lengthened observations W. F. Clarke, a Canadian, has come to the conclusion that the most important office of the bee's sting is that which is performed in doing the artistic cell work, capping the comb and infusing the formic acid by means of which honey receives its keeping qualities. The sting is really a skillfully contrived little trowel with which the bee finishes off and caps the cells when they are filled brimful of honey. This explains why honey extracted before it is capped over does not keep well. The formic acid has not been injected into it. This is done in the very act of putting the last touches on the cell-work, when the sting pierces the plastic cell surface and deposits the fluid which preserves the honey.

Sleeping without the head covered is said to be one of the causes for insomnia, which has of late years become a very general malady. Some find a cure by tying a large handkerchief around the temples under the ears in a small knot at the back of the head. The knot may be adopted or not, according to the wearer's comfort or fancy. The bandage gives the required pressure on the outer surface of the head, the lack of which is one cause of sleeplessness. Those who find it necessary to resort to bromide and chloral should try this simple means.

Showery weather last night.

Cash sale by Mr. Levey to-day at ten.

The whaler Josephine put to sea yesterday.

Monthly meeting of the Y. M. C. A., half-past seven this evening.

Kilauea Mill, Kauai, will shut down for two weeks to put in new centrifugals.

School street bridge will be closed to traffic to-morrow while holes in it are being repaired.

The annual meeting of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company is called for March 1st.

The Bulletin reports the dismissal yesterday of Mr. Rosenberg, lately engaged as Custom House appraiser.

Holders of shares of East Maui Stock Company meet at the office of Messrs. C. Brewer & Co. this morning at ten.

The Hawaiian Gazette Company has received the contract for printing the fifth volume of Hawaiian Law Reports.

Mr. J. Gomez, Hotel street, is making handsome red and green gold lace pins, with kukui ornaments, from designs of his own.

The mail despatched per S. S. Australia consisted of 3,011 letters weighing 84 pounds, 1/2 oz., and 1,321 packages papers weighing 246 pounds, 6 oz.

"You might fire a cannon down the middle of Fort street and scarcely hit anything." Thus a business man on that street apostrophized the dullness of yesterday.

A new set of furniture was delivered at Aliolani Hale last evening for Judge Preston's chamber. One of the messengers stationed in the corridors was luxuriating on the old lounge.

The Government locomotive will be taken out in about four or five weeks, to haul road metal on the Beretania street track. In the meantime she will be overhauled by Mr. J. C. White, of the Fire Department.

The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors this afternoon at half-past two o'clock. All the members of the Union are requested to be present and a cordial invitation is extended to the blue ribbon ladies.

Mr. Jas. C. White, survey engineer of the Fire Department, has about completed the overhauling of the steam roller. Steam will be got up to-morrow, when the machine will be taken up Nuuanu avenue, to be put to work there smoothing down new patches in the road.

Seventh Day Adventist Meetings.

Elder Will D. Curtis, of Topeka, Kansas, will begin a series of meetings this evening at 7:30, in the lecture room of the International Missionary Society, Fort street. A card of invitation issued to everybody states that special attention will be given to the subject of experimental and practical religion, while a list of special subjects includes prophetic themes, the nature and destiny of man, etc.

Sailing of the Steamer.

There was a brilliant scene on the Oceanic wharf at the departure of the steamship Australia yesterday noon. Till the gong sounded for all not passengers to go ashore, it was almost impossible for anybody to move through the dense throng on deck. Parting greetings grave and gay were heard on every hand, while both smiles and tears were profuse. Floral compliments were heaped upon many passengers, making them look like walking flower stands. As the steamer moved off, the usual exchange of handkerchief salutes between ship and shore was kept up with animation by scores on ship and on shore till the majestic vessel got well under way out the channel.

New Application of Photography.

An ingenious application of photography has been made at the Chancelade quarries, near Perigueux, where an accident occurred, caused by the caving of the walls. Five persons were imprisoned in the rocks, and no means were at hand to rescue them. To find out where they were a shaft twelve inches in diameter was bored, and down this was slid a tube, near the end of which was a small photographic camera, surrounded by a battery of electric lights. The camera moved on a pivot, so that it could be pointed up or down by pulling a cord. With this apparatus a number of good negatives were taken. The effects of the disaster were located, and excellent pictures of the faces of two corpses were obtained, showing that it was useless to proceed further in the excavations.

SUPREME COURT.

AT CHAMBERS.
 Before Judge Bickerton, Wednesday, February 16th. In re estate of J. H. Wicke of Honolulu, deceased, continued from the 14th inst. The Court heard the application of Mrs. Johanne Wicke the widow, praying for the admission to probate of her husband's will. The Court after satisfactory proofs of its execution admitted the will to probate and ordered that letters testamentary issue to the petitioner under $500 bond. The subscribing witnesses were Drs. Brodie and Trousseau who both agreed that testator was of sound mind. Deceased left as heirs seven children, all but one residing in Honolulu. The will devised solely to the widow, the heirs having no objection to its admission to probate. The property of the estate consists of a house lot on Alakea street, furniture and cabinet maker's tools, the probable value of which exceeds the sum of $5,000. Hon. S. B. Dole appeared for the application.

In re estate of Kawai (w.), of Honolulu, deceased. Petition of Keaweolona the husband, for probate of will, continued from 14th inst. No objection being offered and satisfactory proofs being adduced the will was admitted to probate. Deceased was an old and respected woman, and owned in her own right a piece of real estate on Emma street, the estimated value of which is $500. As there is no personal property to administer on, the Court deemed it unnecessary to issue letters testamentary. Hon. A. Rosa for the petitioner.

A Churchman's Objection.

To the Editor of the Herald:

SIR,—In the order of the procession for the funeral of H. R. H. the Princess Likelike, deceased, to take place on the 27th inst., published in the Government Gazette and also in your issue of to-day, a place is assigned to "The Clergy of the Hawaiian Reformed Catholic Church."

It will be news to those abroad as to many here that there is such a body of Christians. If by the title is meant the Anglican Church in Hawaii, or the Episcopal Church, would it not be better for the authorities who have published the order to make the correction?

The two or three clergymen who are expected to occupy the designated place in the procession, I am sure, do not make a claim which could place them in a most ridiculous attitude. The name which has been good enough for the grand old Church of England from the planting of Christianity in Britain is certainly good enough for her adherents in Hawaii, while ought else is an assumption, as feeble as it is audacious.

CHURCHMAN.
 Honolulu, February 16th, 1887.

Police Court.

In the Police Court yesterday Lewis Soland was fined $6 for drunkenness. O. W. Yee, mentally imbecile, pleaded guilty to stealing a bag of coal worth 50 cents from the Iron Works, and was remanded till to-day.

On the civil docket the case of Kukulihima vs. Goo Kim, for replevin of a dog, was tried. Two families of dogs were produced in Court, to each of which it was claimed on either side the dog in dispute belonged. Apparently it was a case of mistaken canine identity. The pup was valued at $5 by plaintiff, and costs of the case footed up $8.90, which he had to pay, judgment being given for defendant.

Karamatsee J. Ichi admitted the charge of deserting contract service of the Waianae Co., and was ordered to return to duty and pay costs of $3.

Several cases were continued.

Carriage Accident.

Mr. George Lucas met with a painful though not serious accident near Brewer's wharf on Tuesday afternoon. He and Mr. John Riley were in a buggy in the midst of a throng of drays, when the usual careless management of a Chinese teamster caused Mr. Lucas' horse to back. In so doing it ran the buggy over a pile of some odd material, throwing the occupants out. Mr. Lucas struck his face on something rough, cutting and bruising it in the region of the left eye. He was about again the same evening, but now wears a plaster over the wound. It is fortunate that the accident was no worse. Mr. Riley was not hurt.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Sympathy with a Priest.

The removal of Father McGlynn from the pastorate of St. Stephen's Church, New York, for his support of Henry George's land doctrines, has caused remarkable manifestations of popular sympathy with that clergyman. About two hundred women forced themselves into the church on Thursday night, January 27th, and surrounded Dr. McGlynn's confessional. Dr. Donnelly went down stairs and asked them to leave. He was driven out, and called in the police, who finally succeeded in clearing the place. The women hissed Dr. Donnelly and made fun of the officers.

All priests who were associated with Father McGlynn at St. Stephen's have been transferred to other parishes. Resolutions passed by the parishioners declare that no contributions in support of the parish would be made during the absence from it of Dr. McGlynn.

Emigration Among the Negroes.

The Chicago Times' New Orleans special of January 27th says: The movement in Mississippi against labor emigration agents persuading negroes to go to the swamp country has broken out fiercely in Rankin county. At a meeting of citizens held at the court house in Brandon to-day the labor agents were warned to leave the country in twelve hours and keep out of it. If any of these agents should defy this order they will undoubtedly repent their visit. The negroes are pouring into the Yazoo delta, and on other lands, deserting their employers. The emigration of negroes from Greene county, Ala., is said to be the largest in any portion of the South. There is actual destitution there among the negroes, who have had bad crops, and who are, in many instances, on the verge of starvation.

Resisting Eviction.

A Dublin despatch of January 28th says: The people of Achill, an island off county Mayo, are preparing to repel the sheriff, who is on his way there to execute fifty ejection writs. The people are watching day and night for his advent, and have arranged to give notice of his approach, if at night, by means of fires and rockets. The fifty ejections, if executed, will put in the road about all the islanders who at present have decent shelter. The people of the island are extremely poor, and nearly all were supported during the whole of last winter and spring through charitable contributions raised and distributed by the New York Sun. The last series of evictions at Glenbeigh county commences to-day.

A Steamer for Pacific Coast Waters.

The steamer formerly known as the City of Palatka, but now called the Eastern Oregon, is on the dry-dock in New York having her bottom painted, twin screws placed under each counter and receiving the finishing touches to the general alteration and repairs previous to going round to the Pacific Coast waters, where she will hereafter be employed. The Eastern Oregon is one of the finest steamers ever turned out by the late John Roach. She is 200 feet in length, thirty-four feet depth of hold. Her engines are compound direct-acting, and her hull is divided into four water-tight bulkheads.

A Biblical Relic.

The only piece of gold plate ever found in Egypt, now on its way to the Museum of Fine Arts, is the massive handle to a tray used in the royal service of Pharaoh Hophra, at the Biblical Tabernacles (Jeremiah x, 3), to which place came Jeremiah, who doubtless here wrote his "Lamentations," with the fugitive princesses of Judah. The plate is among the gifts of the Egypt Exploration fund, which discloses Nebuchadnezzar burned the palace or castle because Hophra had received the fugitives.

It will be of bronze on a pedestal of polished red granite.

A novel sort of protective duty is being advocated in England, and it is stated that it may possibly be adopted. It is proposed to impose a tax of $25 a year upon all foreigners working in England. It is estimated that the tax would yield about $2,500,000 a year and would fall principally upon Germans.

Shipping Intelligence.

The barkentine W. H. Dimond, Captain Swift, arrived yesterday, 15 days from San Francisco. She had a general cargo, including 20,000 brick for W. G. Irwin & Co., also 250 bogs for G. J. Waller. Reports western gales after leaving San Francisco, then regular trades to port.

The S. S. Australia took to San Francisco yesterday 15,800 bags sugar, 1,210 bunches bananas, 687 bags rice, 537 bundles hides and skins and a variety of other goods, aggregating a value of $92,597. The shippers of sugar were W. G. Irwin & Co., 12,488 bags; H. A. Widemann, 2,072 bags, and M. Phillips & Co., 1,249 bags.

The steamer C. R. Bishop brought from Kauai two deck passengers, 2,710 bags sugar from the Mahee Sugar Co., for W. G. Irwin & Co., and 44 packages sundries.

Hereafter the I. L. S. N. Co.'s steamer Waialeale will make regular trips on her present route to Waianae, Kilauea and Hanalei, leaving here on Thursdays at noon, and returning on Tuesdays will leave Waianae at 6 o'clock in the morning.

The sailing of the Waialeale was postponed yesterday till noon to-day, and the C. R. Bishop will sail at five this afternoon for Hanamaulu and Kapa, Kauai.

The steamer W. G. Hall will sail at ten to-morrow for Maui and Hawaii.

After Donelson's Surrender.
I mingled very freely with the Confederate prisoners immediately after the surrender. They were, save in their officers, a rather scaly lot, dressed in their every day clothes, and looking as if just from the farm or the workshop. At the outset of the surrender they were possessed with the idea that they would be massacred. I was talking with a group of them in the streets of Dover when a gun in the hands of some Federals in the vicinity was discharged, and instantly there was consternation and anxiety on every face.

"They're commencing to shoot the prisoners," ejaculated a slender young fellow, with suddenly blanched features, close to me. I undeceived him, and told him that the Yankees were not savages and that they would all be cared for as prisoners of war. Many of the prisoners were mere boys who should have been at home under the cover of the mothers' aprons. It was savagely cold, and they were without proper covering. They were eager to know when they would be permitted to go south. I assured them that they would probably be soon exchanged or paroled, but I was mistaken. They were needed to grace the triumph of a conqueror, and were sent mainly to Chicago, where they stimulated an apathetic patriotism, and thousands of them left their bones in an indistinguishable grave near the site of Camp Douglas. I saw two steamers laden with these prisoners land at Cairo. The lower decks, the cabins and hurricane decks were thronged with them like clusters of bees. The wind swept down on them from the north, and froze the very marrow in their bones. The lines, spars and rigging were covered with ice and frozen snow; it was a terrible change; they were without blankets or any protection against the cold; and in their hunger, exposure and semi-nakedness they must have infinitely missed the "sunny south."—"Polluto" in Chicago Times.

Surprising Change in Tony.
When A. Usins left for New York a few weeks since he purchased a round trip ticket via the Charleston line, but after getting to the metropolis he took a notion to come back by rail, and disposed of his ticket to a scalper. The scalper in order to make things work straight required Tony to leave his business card, so that it could be given to whoever might purchase the ticket. It was not long before a little short, red headed man walked into the scalper's and asked him for a ticket to Palatka, when Tony's was sold him. The fellow got along all right until after he left Charleston. When he presented Tony's ticket to Purser Morgan, of the steamship City of Monticello, who happened to be an acquaintance of Tony's, that officer asked:

"Is your name A. Usins?"
"Yes, sir," replied the tourist.
"Where do you live?" asked the purser.
"At Palatka."
"What do you do there?"
"Well, I'm in business down there. Here's my card," at the same time producing the card of our well known crockery dealer.

Purser Morgan read it over and carefully eyed the stranger, when Capt. McKee happened along, and on being informed of the above conversation looked at the little fellow and said:
"Well, Tony, you must have had a 'hades' of a time in New York to have shortened you about a foot, and to have your hair turn from an ink blackness to a fiery red."—Palatka (Fla.) News.

Paul Bert's Scientific Courage.
A striking anecdote of M. Paul Bert's intrepidity as a savant is related by one who, owing to his connection with the hospital at the time, is in a position to vouch for its authenticity in every particular. Some years ago he visited Havre while a severe epidemic of smallpox was raging in that port. Noticing on his return to Paris that the mortality was daily on the increase he began to entertain doubts as to the efficacy of vaccination as a prophylactic, and resolved to solve the problem to his own satisfaction by experiments on his own person. He accordingly got himself vaccinated and, going a fortnight afterward to the Charité hospital, he courageously had himself inoculated with the virus of a man who was dying of the smallpox. No ill effects having resulted from this terrible experiment M. Paul Bert was completely won over to the cause of vaccination, which throughout the remainder of his life had no warmer supporter. It is characteristic of the savant that he never breathed a word about this to any one, evidently regarding the trial to which he had subjected himself and the fearful risk which he had run as a commonplace episode in the career of a votary of science.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

A New York Lodging House.
Mr. Solomons, president of the committee on lodging house, which was founded over a year ago at 9 Doyers street as a model lodging house has become self supporting. Every lodger is required to take a bath and wear a night shirt provided by the Sanitary Aid society. A clerk has been added to the establishment, and he cries "Front!" to bell boys, just as they do in a hotel. A bed costs 10 cents. Attached to the lodging house is a restaurant, where a bowl of coffee, a Hamburger steak and bread may be had for 10 cents. The lodging house was established by the society with the hope of persuading charitable societies in the city to establish them in all of the thickly settled wards. An auxiliary committee of ladies is now organizing under the auspices of the Sanitary Aid society with the view of providing one or more similar lodging houses for women.—New York Sun.

Portrait of Jefferson.
Mr. Andrews, the artist, who has given pictures hanging in the White House, has just returned to Washington from Paris. Congress will probably purchase this winter Mr. Andrews' picture of President Jefferson. The face for this excellent portrait was taken partly from Stuart's picture and partly from a medallion in the possession of Jefferson's granddaughter, Mrs. McKelham. The costume was designed by a noted costumeur of this city.—New York World.

Jack's Hour of Leisure.

Reckless of their money as sailors are known to be when on a spree, they are models of economy when at sea on a long voyage. Several hours are devoted to mending their clothing, the sole object being to get a patch that will stand as much wear as possible. Dungaree trousers patched with a piece of a jib or topsail that has been blown to pieces are not uncommon. The pipe which Jack brings on board, if of clay, may be broken but the pieces are carefully saved and doweled together ingeniously with bits of wire. If the pipe be of wood a piece of an old tin can that has held cabin grub is obtained from the steward, and with it a neat fitting lining is made for the pipe that prolongs the existence of the wooden bowl until it has a strength that would make a longshoreman turn pale. The sailor's sheath knife cuts the tin to the right size and a marine spike helps to round it into form.

Now and then a sailor is found forehanded enough to carry material along in his clothes bag with which he can while away hours below more profitably than in making the ordinary half model pictures or engraving a sea lion's tusks. Twine for making fish nets is a favorable article for Jack to work with. The price of nets is so small in these days, however, that he does not make so much at that work as he used to do. Not long ago a sailor came ashore here after a round voyage to Portland, Ore., carrying two shot tennis rackets in his hand. He had got the materials in Oregon. Not unfrequently a sailor can be found who can so manipulate a gold coin that a ring nicely polished on the outside and yet showing the name and date of the coin on the inside is produced. A marine spike and a hammer with a piece of leather for a polisher are the only tools used.

Mat making is another favorite occupation of the sailor man. He usually works with fine materials, such as silks and worsteds, and the care and skill and taste with which these materials are wrought together are wonderful. Many a cabin in the vessels that enter this port is ornamented with no end of banners and mottoes for the bulkheads and mats for the table, sideboards and floors that were made by the men in their off hours, and if purchased at a fancy store would cost hundreds of dollars.—New York Sun.

Remedies for Seasickness.
Nothing can be more unreasonable than continuous seasickness. The absolute remedies are so many, the many voiced witnesses are so grave that any one who persists in being sick after the third day is simply obdurate, and I above all men. Capt. Knight was something of a doctor and he could bring round in a day or two by water cure treatment. He succeeded on the first day that I put my feet on shore! Remedies:

Go on board with a full stomach of plain but nourishing food; do not have anything on your stomach when you embark. Keep on deck. Do not go out of your stateroom but lie quietly on your back. Take champagne or claret or brandy or whisky or gruel or oat meal porridge or bits of salt codfish scorching upon living coals.

Then have an iceberg along your spine; a light belt should be worn below the waist; use homoeopathic remedies freely; it makes little difference of what kind; blue pills and Congress water are as good as anything. But the best of all things is to kick the doctor out of your state room, lie still in your berth and wait for land. This is a sure cure!

There are many alleviations of this condition—the small of bilge water, if on ship; of grease, if on a steamer; the smell of dinner, if your stateroom opens on the dining saloon; the rattle of the knives and the jolly roar of merry men at their abhorrent meals. For variety a friend will visit you and narrates his experience and recommends new tortments.—Henry Ward Beecher in New York World.

The Old Street Car Horse.
The driver of a Madison street car was jogging his team down town when he was somewhat startled to see a horse wholly devoid of harness come dashing down Throop street. As he put on the brakes and pulled up his team the conductor rang the bell once as a signal to stop. The effect on the runaway animal was instantaneous; he came to a halt and stood puffing and blowing beside one of the car horses. The driver started violently at the new equine arrival until the conductor aroused him by ringing two bells as a signal to start. As he mechanically let the brake go and loosened his hold on the reins the wild horse glanced at the driver and then jogged along with the team. By this time nearly all the passengers were watching the antics of the strange horse. A few blocks further down the conductor rang the bell for the car to stop, at which the wild horse stopped also, keeping pace with the car team. The conductor rang the bell as often as he got a chance, while all the passengers stood up and watched the performance of the horse. At a lively stable near Union street the knowing animal suddenly swung off, gazed wistfully at the car as if undecided what to do, and then walked into the barn. "Well, I'll be darned!" ejaculated the driver. "I've seen horses afore now what was street car crazy, but that fellow beats 'em all. He takes the condition powders. That horse is an old street car rounder. I don't remember him myself, but I'll bet there is men up to the barn what knows him. Street car horses is like fire engine horses—no matter where you put 'em they are always ready to go back to the business."—Chicago News.

The Naabab Tree in Africa.
One marked feature of the Lowlands district is the prevalence of the baob tree, that vegetable Falstaff which every one who has campaigned in the eastern Soudan will remember to have been dotted by hundreds over the burning plains of Darfur and Kordofan. A strange looking object it is, with its huge bulging barrel of a trunk and its outspread branches, irresistibly suggesting an enormously fat man who has wedged himself into a tight suit of black and is flinging his arms wildly about him in an agony of suffocation. On the uplands one meets at every turn the stiff, wiry, ponglike shoots of the "milky euphorbia," so called from the white sap which oozes from it whenever a twig is broken. But of other vegetation, thanks to the prevalent want of rain, there is little if any in the immediate neighborhood of the town.—Africa Cor. New York Times.

Wendell Phillips' Estate.
William I. Bowditch, of Boston, the administrator of Wendell Phillips' estate, has a little book with leather back and corners in which "Ann and Wendell Phillips" recorded the money they gave away. The grand total, inclusive of large and small sums, from 1845 to 1875 was $84,710. And yet neither of them was wealthy in the modern acceptation of the word.—Chicago Herald.

VALUE OF SMALL THINGS.

An article in the New Zealand Herald tells of great industries that arose from the showing of then useless products of various countries at the London Exposition of 1851. It says:—

A plant which was a nuisance on the hills of Andalusia, difficult to root out or keep down, suggested to the paper-makers another raw material for their commodity; and esparto grass has since then become a profitable crop in the south of Spain, and every year it is shipped in immense quantities, not only there, but from the opposite coast of Barbary, from Tripoli in particular; the Arabs bringing it down from the hills inland. So, too, when the Crimean war, interrupting trade with Russia, stopped among other things the export of bristles for brushes, a substitute was found in a sort of Mexican grass which had caught somebody's eye at the exhibition, and housewives were able to get their brushes as before, and at half the cost.

Probably if the pulu fern moss of Hawaii had been exhibited at the same place, the trade in that article might have been much larger than the respectable dimensions to which it attained while there was a demand for it. And no doubt there are to-day many unconsidered natural products going to waste on these islands, which keen enterprise might turn to very valuable account as wealth-yielding resources. Proof of this was furnished the other day in the statement of a contemporary that the natives on Hawaii were supplying a wild ramie plant to the decorticating machine recently set up there, and that on a test its fibre was found to be of a superior quality. There are unquestionably a great variety of growths on these islands which are suitable for making paper pulp. This is now a distinct industry from the production of finished paper, having trade secrets that are very jealously guarded. The establishment of a factory here for turning out raw material for the paper-makers on the Coast might be a very remunerative venture for the men enterprising enough to embark in it. These are only given as possible instances of feasible new industries for this country, but doubtless there are scores of products in the country capable of being worked up for profitable export. With the uncertain future of our present main reliance, sugar, it is of the utmost importance that public attention should be kept on the alert for fresh resources of industry and commerce.

TAILORING.

Marshal Kaulukou with that shrewd, practical sense that he has brought to his distinguished office, is about adopting in literality a policy of cutting the coat according to the cloth. The Legislature's allowance for the police bureau is not sufficient to warrant an increase in the pay of the force at its present strength, and the number of men is none too large for the requirements of the city. Therefore any scheme whereby the men's wages will go farther in procuring the comforts of life for themselves and families must be regarded as equivalent to lengthening out their pittance so as to be more in keeping with their long watches.

The Marshal having discovered that one of the police force is a tailor has detailed him to make uniforms for the men in future. Mr. Kaulukou told the HERALD this in strict confidence the other day, but an enterprising contemporary having remorselessly "scooped" this paper by divulging the secret there is nothing left for us but to forfeit bail. By this policy of the Marshal the policemen will get cheaper uniforms, while the tailors who used to make them will get "left." The latter may make the loss of custom up, however, in army and navy uniforms, unless, indeed, there are warriors bold of land and sea to be impressed into operating the "goose" for king and country. It is to be hoped, however, that the Marshal's pattern of trimming in the peace force, however praiseworthy there, will not be followed in the war establishment. The most picturesque feature of a regular army and navy is their expensiveness, and to advocate anything militating against that would be treasonable in the eyes of some Hawaiian patriots. Besides, should the war department establish a tailoring corps, there would be danger in case of an alarm that the volunteering would be mostly for that arm of service.

FUN AND FANCY.

All Europe is said to be armed to the teeth, which means that war will be by the tongue.

"Electricity," says a contemporary, "is a stimulant." Then there should be a good market for it in Kansas.

Men who want so many eye-openers in the morning should take their eye-closers earlier at night.

The lunatics in almost every asylum are perfectly agreed that all the Superintendent lacks is brain.

Among the politicians it is always some other fellow who is "the average politician." Each one esteems himself.

A Waterloo, N. Y. paper says a cyclone is like three school girls walking abreast—it doesn't turn out for anything.

The greatest German military bill Germany ever had is old Wilhelm himself, and it will be a bad day for the empire, when he is tabled.

There is one thing to be said in favor of the daily newspaper portrait. It shows us what the man, whose name is under it, doesn't look like.

From lengthened observations W. F. Clarke, a Canadian, has come to the conclusion that the most important office of the bee's sting is that which is performed in doing the artistic cell work, capping the comb and infusing the formic acid by means of which honey receives its keeping qualities. The sting is really a skillfully contrived little trowel with which the bee finishes off and caps the cells when they are filled with honey. This explains why honey extracted before it is capped over does not keep well. The formic acid has not been injected into it. This is done in the very act of putting the last touches on the cell-work, when the sting pierces the plastic cell surface and deposits the fluid which preserves the honey.

Sleeping without the head covered is said to be one of the causes for insomnia, which has of late years become a very general malady. Some find a cure by tying a large handkerchief around the temples under the ears in a small knot at the back of the head. The knot may be adopted or not, according to the wearer's comfort or fancy. The bandage gives the required pressure on the outer surface of the head, the lack of which is one cause of sleeplessness. Those who find it necessary to resort to bromide and chloral should try this simple means.

The British Government has leased the Burmese ruby mines, which have just been occupied by troops, to Streeter, the jeweler of Bond street, London, at a rental of $150,000. One of his representatives accompanies the troops. The question of the proprietorship of Burmese individuals will probably be raised.

LOCAL NEWS.

Showery weather last night.

Cash sale by Mr. Levey to-day at ten.

The whaler Josephine put to sea yesterday.

Monthly meeting of the Y. M. C. A., half-past seven this evening.

Kilauea Mill, Kauai, will shut down for two weeks to put in new centrifugals.

School street bridge will be closed to traffic to-morrow while holes in it are being repaired.

The annual meeting of the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Company is called for March 1st.

The Bulletin reports the dismissal yesterday of Mr. Rosenberg, lately engaged as Custom House appraiser.

Holders of shares of East Maui Stock Company meet at the office of Messrs. C. Brewer & Co. this morning at ten.

The Hawaiian Gazette Company has received the contract for printing the fifth volume of Hawaiian Law Reports.

Mr. J. Gomez, Hotel street, is making handsome red and green gold lace pins, with kukui ornaments, from designs of his own.

The mail despatched per S. S. Australia consisted of 3,011 letters weighing 84 pounds, 1/2 oz., and 1,321 packages weighing 246 pounds, 6 oz.

"You might fire a cannon down the middle of Fort street and scarcely hit anything." Thus a business man on that street apostrophized the dullness of yesterday.

A new set of furniture was delivered at Aliolani Hale last evening for Judge Preston's chamber. One of the messengers stationed in the corridors was luxuriating on the old lounge.

The Government locomotive will be taken out in about four or five weeks, to haul road metal on the Beretania street track. In the meantime she will be overhauled by Mr. J. C. White, of the Fire Department.

The monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the Y. M. C. A. parlors this afternoon at half-past two o'clock. All the members of the Union are requested to be present and a cordial invitation is extended to the blue ribbon ladies.

Mr. Jas. C. White, survey engineer of the Fire Department, has about completed the overhauling of the steam roller. Steam will be got up to-morrow, when the machine will be taken up Nuuanu avenue, to be put to work there smoothing down new patches in the road.

Seventh Day Adventist Meetings.

Elder Will D. Curtis, of Topeka, Kansas, will begin a series of meetings this evening at 7:30, in the lecture room of the International Missionary Society, Fort street. A card of invitation issued to everybody states that special attention will be given to the subject of experimental and practical religion, while a list of special subjects includes prophetic themes, the nature and destiny of man, etc.

Sailing of the Steamer.

There was a brilliant scene on the Oceanic wharf at the departure of the steamship Australia yesterday noon. Till the gong sounded for all not passengers to go ashore, it was almost impossible for anybody to move through the dense throng on deck. Parting greetings grave and gay were heard on every hand, while both smiles and tears were profuse. Floral compliments were heaped upon many passengers, making them look like walking flower stands. As the steamer moved off, the usual exchange of handkerchief salutes between ship and shore was kept up with animation by scores on ship and on shore till the majestic vessel got well under way out the channel.

New Application of Photography.

An ingenious application of photography has been made at the Chancelade quarries, near Perigueux, where an accident occurred, caused by the caving of the walls. Five persons were imprisoned in the rocks, and no means were at hand to rescue them. To find out where they were a shaft twelve inches in diameter was bored, and down this was slid a tube, near the end of which was a small photographic camera, surrounded by a battery of electric lights. The camera moved on a pivot, so that it could be pointed up or down by pulling a cord. With this apparatus a number of good negatives were taken. The effects of the disaster were located, and excellent pictures of the faces of two corpses were obtained, showing that it was useless to proceed further in the excavations.

SUPREME COURT.

AT CHAMBERS.

Before Judge Bickerton, Wednesday, February 16th. In re estate of J. H. Wicke of Honolulu, deceased, continued from the 14th inst. The Court heard the application of Mrs. Johanne Wicke the widow, praying for the admission to probate of her husband's will. The Court after satisfactory proofs of its execution admitted the will to probate and ordered that letters testamentary issue to the petitioner under $500 bond. The subscribing witnesses were Drs. Brodie and Trouseau who both agreed that testator was of sound mind. Deceased left as heirs seven children, all but one residing in Honolulu. The will devised solely to the widow, the heirs having no objection to its admission to probate. The property of the estate consists of a house lot on Alakea street, furniture and cabinet maker's tools, the probable value of which exceeds the sum of $5,000. Hon. S. B. Dole appeared for the application.

In re estate of Kawai (w.), of Honolulu, deceased. Petition of Keawekolona the husband, for probate of will, continued from 14th inst. No objection being offered and satisfactory proofs being adduced the will was admitted to probate. Deceased was an old and respected woman, and owned in her own right a piece of real estate on Emma street, the estimated value of which is $500. As there is no personal property to administer on, the Court deemed it unnecessary to issue letters testamentary. Hon. A. Rosa for the petitioner.

A Churchman's Objection.

To the Editor of the Herald:

Sir,—In the order of the procession for the funeral of H. R. H. the Princess Likelike, deceased, to take place on the 27th inst., published in the Government Gazette and also in your issue of to-day, a place is assigned to "The Clergy of the Hawaiian Reformed Catholic Church."

It will be news to those abroad as to many here that there is such a body of Christians. If by the title is meant the Anglican Church in Hawaii, or the Episcopal Church, would it not be better for the authorities who have published the order to make the correction?

The two or three clergymen who are expected to occupy the designated place in the procession, I am sure, do not make a claim which could place them in a most ridiculous attitude. The name which has been good enough for the grand old Church of England in Britain is certainly good enough for her adherents in Hawaii, while ought else is an assumption, as feeble as it is audacious.

CHURCHMAN.
Honolulu, February 16th, 1887.

Police Court.

In the Police Court yesterday Lewis Soland was fined $6 for drunkenness. O. W. Yee, mentally imbecile, pleaded guilty to stealing a bag of coal worth 50 cents from the Iron Works, and was remanded till to-day.

On the civil docket the case of Kukulihima vs. Goo Kim, for replevin of a dog, was tried. Two families of dogs were produced in Court, to each of which it was claimed on either side the dog in dispute belonged. Apparently it was a case of mistaken canine identity. The pup was valued at $5 by plaintiff, and costs of the case footed up $8.90, which he had to pay, judgment being given for defendant.

Karamatsee J. Ichi admitted the charge of deserting contract service of the Waianae Co., and was ordered to return to duty and pay costs of $3. Several cases were continued.

Carriage Accident.

Mr. George Lucas met with a painful though not serious accident near Brewer's wharf on Tuesday afternoon. He and Mr. John Riley were in a buggy in the midst of a throng of drays, when the usual careless management of a Chinese teamster caused Mr. Lucas' horse to back. In so doing it ran the buggy over a pile of some odd material, throwing the occupants out. Mr. Lucas struck his face on something rough, cutting and bruising it in the region of the left eye. He was about again the same evening, but now wears a plaster over the wound. It is fortunate that the accident was no worse. Mr. Riley was not hurt.

For sale—two parrots, one speaking English, Spanish and Hawaiian perfectly; the other, same breed but younger, a very good English talker. Also, a monkey, very playful and tractable. Apply at Fort-street Shooting Gallery.

BUSINESS ITEMS.

No hand-book excels the Hawaiian Almanac and Annual for reliable statistical and general information relating to these Islands. Price 50 cents.

If you want a good smoke for your money, patronize home industry and call at J. W. Hingley's, Crystal Soda Works, 69 Hotel street, next door to Horn's Bakery. Island orders solicited and promptly filled. There is no license required to sell these cigars.

FOREIGN NEWS.

Sympathy with a Priest.

The removal of Father McGlynn from the pastorate of St. Stephen's Church, New York, for his support of Henry George's land doctrines, has caused remarkable manifestations of popular sympathy with that clergyman. About two hundred women forced themselves into the church on Thursday night, January 27th, and surrounded Dr. McGlynn's confessional. Dr. Donnelly went down stairs and asked them to leave. He was driven out, and called in the police, who finally succeeded in clearing the place. The women hissed Dr. Donnelly and made fun of the officers.

All priests who were associated with Father McGlynn at St. Stephen's have been transferred to other parishes. Resolutions passed by the parishioners declare that no contributions in support of the parish would be made during the absence from it of Dr. McGlynn.

Emigration Among the Negroes.

The Chicago Times' New Orleans special of January 27th says: The movement in Mississippi against labor emigration agents persuading negroes to go to the swamp country has broken out fiercely in Rankin county. At a meeting of citizens held at the court house in Brandon to-day the labor agents were warned to leave the country in twelve hours and keep out of it. If any of these agents should defy this order they will undoubtedly repeat their visit. The negroes are pouring into the Yazoo delta, and on other lands, deserting their employers. The emigration of negroes from Greene county, Ala., is said to be the largest in any portion of the South. There is actual destitution there among the negroes, who have had bad crops, and who are, in many instances, on the verge of starvation.

Resisting Eviction.

A Dublin despatch of January 28th says: The people of Achill, an island off county Mayo, are preparing to resist the sheriff, who is on his way there to execute fifty ejectment writs. The people are watching day and night for his advent, and have arranged to give notice of his approach, if at night, by means of fires and rockets. The fifty ejectments, if executed, will put in the road about all the islanders who at present have decent shelter. The people of the island are extremely poor, and nearly all were supported during the whole of last winter and spring through charitable contributions raised and distributed by the New York Sun. The last series of evictions at Glenbeigh county commences to-day.

A Steamer for Pacific Coast Waters.

The steamer formerly known as the City of Palatka, but now called the Eastern Oregon, is on the dry-dock in New York having her bottom painted, twin screws placed under each counter and receiving the finishing touches to the general alteration and repairs previous to going round to the Pacific Coast waters, where she will hereafter be employed. The Eastern Oregon is one of the finest steamers ever turned out by the late John Roach. She is 200 feet in length, thirty-four feet depth of hold. Her engines are compound direct-acting, and her hull is divided into four water-tight bulkheads.

A Biblical Relic.

The only piece of gold plate ever found in Egypt, now on its way to the Museum of Fine Arts, is the massive handle to a tray used in the royal service of Pharaoh Hophra, at which place came Jeremiah, who doubtless here wrote his "Lamentations," with the fugitive princesses of Judah. The plate is among the gifts of the Egypt Exploration fund, which discloses this most interesting site where Nebuchadnezzar burned the palace or castle because Hophra had received the fugitives.

Various Items.

Great Britain's naval outlay this year will be about $66,000,000.

The new Russian magazine rifle now being tried is stated to be capable of twenty shots a minute.

The barb-wire pool at Chicago has advanced the prices ten per cent.

The Emperor William's fetes in March will last seven days. Besides the Czar, the Emperor of Austria will be in attendance.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin announces the receipt of $10 from a New Yorker, which sum, the sender said, was to be applied "in any way that will annoy Great Britain."

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union, in session at Alexandria, Va., has passed a vote of thanks to Mrs. Cleveland for the position she has taken as a total abstainer from intoxicating drinks.

It is reported in Berlin that Prince Bismarck will publish a document from the Pope favoring the Government in the present contest. It is expected that this will induce the Catholics not to oppose the Government candidates.

The income tax returns for the past year show that Krupp, the gun manufacturer, pays taxes on $1,250,000, the highest income of any individual in Germany. Rothschild and Bleichroder rank next, with about $625,000 each.

A Boston dispatch says: The Knights of Labor in Boston are very glad, as all the operative tailors in the city, including machine operators, basters, pressers and all others engaged in the manufacture of readymade clothing have decided to leave the order.

Thomas of Illinois, a member of the Naval Affairs Committee, proposes to introduce a bill appropriating $50,000,000 for the construction of a new navy and will urge its immediate adoption just as soon as the Canadian Fishery Retaliation bill passes the House.

The statue of Queen Victoria, which is to be erected at Windsor, will represent her Majesty clad in her royal robes, wearing a small crown and lace veil, and her sash and insignia of the Garter, and holding in her right hand a sceptre and in her left an orb. It will be of bronze on a pedestal of polished red granite.

A novel sort of protective duty is being advocated in England, and it is stated that it may possibly be adopted. It is proposed to impose a tax of $25 a year upon all foreigners working in England. It is estimated that the tax would yield about $2,500,000 a year and would fall principally upon Germans.

Shipping Intelligence.

The barkentine W. H. Dimond, Captain Swift, arrived yesterday, 15 days from San Francisco. She had a general cargo, including 20,000 brick for W. G. Irwin & Co., also 250 hogs for G. J. Waller. Reports westerly gales after leaving San Francisco, then regular trades to port.

The S. S. Australia took to San Francisco yesterday 15,809 bags sugar, 1,210 bunches bananas, 687 bags rice, 537 bundles hides and skins and a variety of other goods, aggregating a value of $92,597. The shippers of sugar were W. G. Irwin & Co., 12,488 bags; H. A. Widemann, 2,072 bags, and M. Phillips & Co., 1,249 bags.

The steamer C. R. Bishop brought from Kauai two deck passengers, 2,710 bags sugar from the Makee Sugar Co., for W. G. Irwin & Co., and 44 packages sundries.

Hereafter the I. I. S. N. Co.'s steamer Waialeale will make regular trips on her present route to Waianae, Kilauea and Hanalei, leaving here on Thursdays at noon, and returning on Tuesdays will leave Waianae at 6 o'clock in the morning.

The sailing of the Waialeale was postponed yesterday till noon to-day, and the C. R. Bishop will sail at five this afternoon for Hanamaula and Kapaa, Kauai.

The steamer W. G. Hall will sail at ten to-morrow for Maui and Hawaii.

All signs fail in dry times except the legend "No trust" in the saloons.

And in her eyes he read confusion true,
That all her myriad victories combined
Less sweet to her than was her Waterloo.
—Sandra Knox in the Current.

They who love best need friendship most,
Hearts only thrive on varied good,
And he who gathers from a host
Of friendly hearts his daily food
Is the best friend that we can boast.
—J. G. Holland.

After Donelson's Surrender.

I mingled very freely with the Confederate prisoners immediately after the surrender. They were, save in their officers, a rather seamy lot, dressed in their every day clothes, and looking as if just from the farm or the workshop. At the outset of the surrender they were possessed with the idea that they would be massacred. I was talking with a group of them in the streets of Dover when a gun in the hands of some Federals in the vicinity was discharged, and instantly there was consternation and anxiety on every face.

"They're commencing to shoot the prisoners," ejaculated a slender young fellow, with suddenly blanched features, close to me. I unobtrusively told him that the Yankees were not savages and that they would all be cared for as prisoners of war. Many of the prisoners were mere boys who should have been at home under the cover of the mothers' aprons. It was savagely cold, and they were without proper covering. They were eager to know when they would be permitted to go south. I assured them that they would probably be soon exchanged or paroled, but I was mistaken. They were needed to grace the triumph of a conqueror, and were sent mainly to Chicago, where they stimulated an apathetic patriotism, and thousands of them left their homes in an indistinguishable grave near the site of Camp Douglas. I saw two steamers laden with these prisoners land at Cairo. The lower decks, the cabins and hurricane decks were thronged with them like clusters of bees. The wind swept down on them from the north, and froze the very marrow in their bones. The lines, spars and rigging were covered with ice and frozen snow; it was a terrible change; they were without blankets or any protection against the cold; and in their hunger, exposure and semi-nakedness they must have infinitely missed the "sunny south."—"Polluto" in Chicago Times.

Surprising Change in Tony.

When A. Usins left for New York a few weeks since he purchased a round trip ticket via the Charleston line, but after getting to the metropolis he took a notion to come back by rail, and disposed of his ticket to a scalper. The scalper in order to make things work straight required Tony to leave his business card, so that it could be given to whoever might purchase the ticket. It was not long before a little short, red headed man walked into the scalper's and asked him for a ticket to Palatka, when Tony's was sold him. The fellow got along all right until after he left Charleston. When he presented Tony's ticket to Purser Morgan, of the steamship City of Monticello, who happened to be an acquaintance of Tony's, that officer asked:

"Is your name A. Usins?"
"Yes, sir," replied the tourist.
"Where do you live?" asked the purser.
"At Palatka."
"What do you do there?"
"Well, I'm in business down there. Here's my card," at the same time producing the card of our well known crockery dealer.
Purser Morgan read it over and carefully eyed the stranger, when Capt. McKee happened along, and on being informed of the above conversation looked at the little fellow and said:
"Well, Tony, you must have had a 'hades' of a time in New York to have shortened you about a foot, and to have your hair turn from an ink blackness to a fiery red."—Palatka (Fla.) News.

Paul Bert's Scientific Courage.

A striking anecdote of M. Paul Bert's intrepidity as a savant is related by one who, owing to his connection with the hospital at the time, is in a position to vouch for its authenticity in every particular. Some years ago he visited Havre while a severe epidemic of smallpox was raging in that port. Noticing on his return to Paris that the mortality was daily on the increase he began to entertain doubts as to the efficacy of vaccination as a prophylactic, and resolved to solve the problem to his own satisfaction by experiments on his own person. He accordingly got himself vaccinated, and, going a fortnight afterward to the Charité hospital, he courageously had himself inoculated with the virus of a man who was dying of the smallpox. No ill effects having resulted from this terrible experiment M. Paul Bert was completely won over to the cause of vaccination, which throughout the remainder of his life had no warmer supporter. It is characteristic of the savant that he never breathed a word about this to any one, evidently regarding the trial to which he had subjected himself and the fearful risk which he had run as a commonplace episode in the career of a votary of science.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

A New York Lodging House.

Mr. Solomons, president of the committee on lodging house, which was founded over a year ago at 9 Doyers street as a model lodging house, has become self supporting. Every lodger is required to take a bath and wear a night shirt provided by the Sanitary Aid society. A clerk has been added to the establishment, and he cries "Front" to bell boys, just as they do in a hotel. A bed costs 10 cents. Attached to the lodging house is a restaurant, where a bowl of coffee, a Hamburger steak and bread may be had for 10 cents. The lodging house was established by the society with the hope of persuading charitable societies in the city to establish them in all of the thickly settled wards. An auxiliary committee of ladies is now organizing under the auspices of the Sanitary Aid society with the view of providing one or more similar lodging houses for women.—New York Sun.

Portrait of Jefferson.

Mr. Andrews, the artist, who has seven pictures hanging in the White House, has just returned to Washington from Paris. Congress will probably purchase this winter Mr. Andrews' picture of President Jefferson. The face for this excellent portrait was taken partly from Stuart's picture and partly from a medallion in the possession of Jefferson's granddaughter, Mrs. McKimham. The costume was designed by a noted costumer of this city.—New York World.

Jack's Hour of Leisure.

Reckless of their money as sailors are known to be when on a spree, they are models of economy when at sea on a long voyage. Spare hours are devoted to mending their clothing, the sole object in selecting a patch where one is needed being to get a patch that will stand as much wear as possible. Dungaree trousers patched with a piece of a jib or topsail that has been blown to pieces are not uncommon. The pipe which Jack brings on board, if of clay, may be broken but the pieces are carefully saved and dove-tailed together ingeniously with bits of wire. If the pipe be of wood a piece of an old tin can that has held cabin grub is obtained from the steward, and with it a most fitting lining is made for the pipe that prolongs the existence of the wooden bowl until it has a strength that would make a longshoreman turn pale. The sailor's sheath knife cuts the tin to the right size and a marine spike helps to round it into form.

Now and then a sailor is found fond enough to carry material along in his clothes bag with which he can while away hours below more profitably than making the ordinary half model pictures or engraving a sea lion's tusks. Twine for making fish nets is a favorite article for Jack to work with. The price of twine is so small in these days, however, that he does not make so much at that work as he used to do. Not long ago a sailor came ashore here after a round voyage to Portland, Ore., carrying two good tennis rackets in his hand. He had got the materials in Oregon. Not unfrequently a sailor can be found who can so manipulate a gold coin that a ring nicely polished on the outside and yet showing the name and date of the coin on the inside is produced. A marine spike and a hammer with a piece of leather for a polisher are the only tools used.

Mat making is another favorite occupation of the sailor man. He usually works with fine materials, such as silks and worsted, and the care and skill and taste with which these materials are wrought together are wonderful. Many a cabin in the vessels that enter this port is ornamented with no end of banners and mottoes for the bulkheads and mats for the table, sideboards and floors that were made by the men in their off hours, and if purchased at a fancy store would cost hundreds of dollars.—New York Sun.

Remedies for Seasickness.

Nothing can be more unreasonable than continuous seasickness. The absolute remedies are so many, the many voiced witnesses are so grave that any one who persists in being sick after the third day is simply obdurate, and I advise all men. Capt. Knight was something of a doctor and he could bring round in a day or two by water cure treatment. He succeeded on the first day that I put my feet on shore! Remedies:
Go on board with a full stomach of plain, but nourishing food; do not have anything on your stomach when you embark. Keep on deck. Do not go out of your stateroom but lie quietly on your back. Take champagne or claret or brandy or whiskey or gruel or oat meal porridge or bits of salt codfish scorching upon living coals.

Then have an iceberg along your spine. A light belt should be worn below the waist; use homopathic remedies freely; it makes little difference of what kind; blut pills and Congress water are as good as anything.

But the best of all things is to kick the doctor out of your state room, lie still in your berth and wait for land. This is a sure cure!
There are many alleviations of this condition—the smell of bilge water, if on ship; of grease, if on a steamer; the smell of dinner, if your stateroom opens on the dining saloon; the rattle of the knives and the jolly roar of merry men at their abhorrent meals. For variety a friend will visit you and narrates his experience and recommends new tortments.—Henry Ward Beecher in New York World.

The Old Street Car Horse.

The driver of a Madison street car was jogging his team down town when he was somewhat startled to see a horse wholly devoid of harness coming dashing down Throop street. As he put on the brakes and pulled up his team the conductor rang the bell once as a signal to stop. The effect on the runaway animal was instantaneous; he came to a halt and stood puffing and blowing beside one of the car horses. The driver stared vacantly at the new equine arrival until the conductor aroused him by ringing two bells as a signal to start. As he mechanically let the brake go and loosened his hold on the reins the wild horse glanced at the driver and then jogged along with the team. By this time nearly all the passengers were watching the antics of the strange horse. A few blocks further down the conductor rang the bell for the car to stop, at which the wild horse stopped also, keeping pace with the car team. The conductor rang the bell as often as he got a chance, while all the passengers stood up and watched the performance of the horse. At a lively stable near Union street the knowing animal suddenly swung off, gazed wistfully at the car as if undecided what to do, and then walked into the barn. "Well, I'll be durned!" ejaculated the driver. "I've seen horses afore now what was street car crazy, but that fellow beats 'em all. He takes the condition powders. That horse is an old street car rider. I don't remember him myself, but I'll bet there is men up to the barn what knows him. Street car horses is like fire engine horses—no matter where you put 'em they are always ready to go back to the business."—Chicago News.

The Baobab Tree in Africa.

One marked feature of the Lowland district is the prevalence of the baob tree, that vegetable Falstaff which every one who has campaigned in the eastern Sudan will remember to have been dotted by hundreds over the burning plains of Darfur and Kordofan. A strange looking object it is, with its huge bulging barrel of a trunk and its outspread branches, irresistibly suggesting an enormously fat man who has wedged himself into a tight suit of black and is flinging his arms wildly about him in an agony of suffocation. On the uplands one meets at every turn the stiff, wiry, ponglike shoots of the "milky euphorbia," so called from the white sap which oozes from it whenever a twig is broken. But of other vegetation, thanks to the prevalent want of rain, there is little if any in the immediate neighborhood of the town.—Africa Cor. New York Times.

Wendell Phillips' Estate.

William E. Bowditch, of Boston, the administrator of Wendell Phillips' estate, has a little book with leather back and corners in which "Ann and Wendell Phillips" recorded the money they gave away. The grand total, inclusive of large and small sums, from 1845 to 1875 was $14,712. And yet neither of them was wealthy in the modern acceptation of the world.—Chicago Herald.
