Scraps of Fashion.

Purple and violet gauze veils are the very newest style.
A jewel fastened on the forehead by a gold wire is worn by London society women.

Silver candles with pale green shades and gold candles with white silk shades are some of the waxlight effects.

Girls who dress thoughtfully as well as elaborately are apt nowadays to put rakish or flamboyant hats under taboo for church.

Corsets are as fashionable as ever, and they are made of all kinds of materials—wool, silk, velvet, brocade, embroidery and lace.

A novelty in fire screens is painted on ground glass—hats which have a milky effect, with a design of ferns, dogwood blossoms and sunflowers, framed in bamboo.

The newest forks and spoons are of gold with Dresden China handles.
They are so pretty that the admiring housewife finds an excuse for placing odd ones upon her table in addition to putting one at every plate.

A pretty present for a busy woman is a white slate framed in gold with a pencil suspended to it. This hangs beside her dressing case and upon it each morning she writes what she expects to do during the day.

A high-backed, gilded throne chair, upholstered in scarlet brocade and landed with royal embroidery, is the "roc's egg" of the moment.

The high-class braid dealers cannot unprofitably rest fast enough, orders being far in advance of the supply.

A favorite trimming for Lenten toilets of black armure, faille and Victoria silk is finely watered moire Francaise. These trimmings consist of a single extra wide band or several narrow bands around the bottom of the skirt, with the addition of full sleeves, cuffs, plastron and empire girdle.

Many of the new pocket-books are made large enough to hold a handkerchief, as well as a few cards and money, as few dresses are made with pockets. The most favored are the morocco books of all tints, from cream and pearl white, gray and tan to match the gown, Russian blue, dark blue and very brilliant red.
Card cases come to match the por-tmonnaie, yet it is a convenience to have both in one.

A delightful mixture for perfuming clothes that are packed away, and which is said to keep out moths also, is made as follows: Pound to a powder one ounce each of cloves, caraway seed, nutmeg, mace, cinnamon and Tonquin beans, and as muchorris root as will equal the weight of the foregoing ingredients put together. Little bags of muslin should be filled with this mixture and placed among the garments.

White orchids still make the most fashionable bridal bouquet. Next come lilies of the valley and white roses, unless, as often happens, the bride has some especially tender association with another flower. A recent bride carried a large bunch of white violets, because it was pleasantly whispered about that the first flower the groom gave her was a single white violet they had found on a country stroll in the first days of their acquaintance.

A New Amusement.

"I have invented a new amusement," said a young lady the other day in the Cincinnati Enquirer. "It is nothing more or less than a progressive pie party, and I'll tell you how it goes. I generally have eight couples. Instead of having the game in the parlor I give it in the diningroom. There are four tables spread, simply in white, with a big jug of milk in the center of each, and set with four plates. Everybody being seated, I tap a little bell and a waiter comes marching in with a tray, on which he bears sixteen pieces of pie, each on a separate plate, of course. Each guest is served with a piece. They can have any kind they like best, providing the young man and the young lady composing a couple take the same kind. Then I tap the bell again and everybody eats. The couple that gets through first goes to the head of the table, replacing a couple who take their places. I generally give four rounds for a game, and in case of a tie I let them try it once more. They may drink all the milk they like, of course.
Sometimes it gets very exciting.
Some will eat sparingly at first, but come in like forty in the homestretch. Others will do just the opposite. They all pronounce it a

THE DAILY BULLETIN.

Pledged to neither Sect nor Party, But Established for the Benefit of All.

SATURDAY, MARCH 25, 1893.

There is said to be singing together of a discordant kind already among the journalistic stars booming the new evening paper. A few assessments for expenses will reduce them to a silence that may be felt.

The community will expect the new Marshal to ferret out and put an end to the depredations of the numerous fraternity of vagrants who have begun a fresh campaign of sneak thieving and house entering in Honolulu.

Mr. Emmeluth is one of the leading spirits in the aspirants for journalistic distinction. If his paper prove no more popular than he was when he asked for the people's votes it will be a while before it attracts patronage from business men who require readers for their advertisements. Perhaps, however, the paper is to be distributed in charity.

An impertinent letter signed, "Geo. J. Hitchfield," which appeared in yesterday's Advertiser has caused more comment than it was worth. It bore the brand of "vagabond" on its face. The only man named Hitchfield in Honolulu denied the authorship of the letter. The fact is the name was deliberately forged and its author should be behind the bars of a cell. He tried to palm off a reply to Mr. Crowley's letter over forged initials in this office to-day, and when told he could not reply anonymously in abusive terms to a correspondent who had signed his true name, he deliberately forged the name "Hitchfield" to his letter. As his real name is Crick, he was told that the fraud would not work. And this is the kind of cattle let loose on an unsuspecting public through agitation of the spoils policy.

The Nebraska Legislature has refused to offer a bounty to the farmers raising sugar beets for the factories. The State Journal published at Lincoln says this refusal "may or may not be a detriment to the sugar beet industry under the circumstances, in the end, though it will probably defer the building of any beet sugar factories in the State for the present." It also says that, if the new administration and Congress carry out the Chicago tariff plank, it will be necessary, for the purposes of revenue, to reimpose the three-cent tax on sugar. In that case the Journal says there will be no trouble in the matter of securing capital for the establishment of the beet sugar industry in Nebraska. From the foregoing it would seem that the federal bounty on the sugar itself has been sufficient to secure the establishment of the beet sugar industry on a prosperous scale.

HIS TWO TERMS.

An article in the Chicago Tribune compares the different situations when Cleveland took office in 1885 and the beginning of his present administration. The campaign of 1884 was notable for its bitter personalities. That of 1892 was a dignified and impersonal one which left no scars. The Tribune says there is reason to believe that his first victory was due to the counting of votes for him in New York which were actually cast for General Butler. Whereas, in 1892 Mr. Cleveland had a great and undisputed majority of the electoral votes, and he got it chiefly because of his own personal strength. Eight years ago he was a novice. Now he has "four years of experience behind him—years in which he made many blunders, but in which he learned much. He has also learned to know the Democratic party better than he did, as is shown by the superiority of the Cabinet of 1893 over that of 1885." The article refers to the change in Congress, the Democrats having gained control of the Senate as well as the House. It points out that Cleveland is more master of himself now than before. In his first term he forgot his promise not to try for a second. Now, without the ghost of a show for a third term, "whatever errors he may commit will not grow out of subservience to party bossism." On the other hand, Mr. Cleveland's position eight years ago was in many respects more desirable than it is to-day. Neither the currency question nor the tariff question was one of great importance then. Now while these questions are of supreme moment, Cleveland has to act with his party divided on both of them. Eight years ago there were no foreign complications. To-day the Behring Sea and Hawaiian questions have to be faced for decisive and final action. The Tribune concludes, in view of the great issues confronting Cleveland at the outset of his administration, that he would be wise if he called an extra session of Congress. This the latest news intimates he is not going to do. However, the comparison between the two periods drawn by the Tribune is interesting as a standing point from which to take in the procession of American politics moving past, guided by the now experienced hand of President Cleveland.

The strongest recommendation that any article can have is the endorsement of the mothers of the town. When the mothers recommend it you may know that that article has more than ordinary merit. Here is what the Centerville, South Dakota, Citizen says editorially of an article sold in their town: "From personal experience we can say that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has broken up bad colds for our children. We are acquainted with many mothers in Centerville who would not be without it in the house for a good many times its cost, and are recommending it every day." 50-cent bottles for sale by all dealers. B. W. Baldwin, Carnesville, Tenn., writes: "I have used your German Syrup in my family, and find it the best medicine I ever tried for coughs and colds. I recommend it to everyone for these troubles."

R. Schmalhausen, Druggist, of Charleston, Ill., writes: "After trying scores of prescriptions and preparations I had on my files and shelves without relief for a very severe cold, which had settled on my lungs, I tried your German Syrup. It gave me immediate relief and a permanent cure."

Has it ever occurred to you that the Islands are getting a tremendous amount of free advertising? Has it ever occurred to you that it would be better if the representative of one of the foreign newspapers now sojourning here would adhere closer to the truth and to the principle of investigating rumors before publishing them rather than publish first and be called a scorners of the truth afterward? Better for the community and the paper represented. It has to us and we're not alone in the opinion.

The generous and general advertising the country has received during the past two months will help us in many ways and injure certain individuals in others. It will bring capital to the country and tourists to our shores. It will create a demand for Kodaks and bring globe trotters here to view, what the representative of one San Francisco paper has made them believe, is the most available spot on earth for Parkhursting cranks and the hotbed of intrigue and deception. The Bureau of Annexation has proven itself a better advertising channel than did the Bureau of Information, but then the latter dealt mostly in climate and scenery. The tourists now here proclaim this a veritable eden, a paradise, the condensation of everything necessary to make life pleasant and bearable, and the society feature hits them hard. Instead of the "half naked native" who carts treasures from the Palace they found an intelligent well-dressed people. Instead of native women running the streets regardless of dress they found them costumed in dresses by Worth and hats by Virot. Instead of the "two an' ha'penny" shops in whose windows they expected to see curios and tapa they find in our store the embodiment of everything new and ornamental. They find in it a larger and better displayed assortment of house furnishing goods than they ever saw in a city of three times the size in the United States. We don't like to boast but when such decayed substance as lately appeared in a San Francisco paper is placed under our olfactory organ we are forced to do it and to murmur a gentle protest.

Does anyone suppose that the people who read the articles referred to believe they would find in far off Hawaii a plow half so good as the Hendry Breaker? Did any of them expect to find in this reputed slow going community a firm with snap and ginger enough in its composition to take hold of a new fangled thing like the Aermotor and drive every other windmill out of the market? We throw not!

We like advertising whether it be free or paid but give us a bit of truth in it. Let it be known that the country abounds in milk and honey; that the land in some parts of the Islands produces coffee that will cause the South American article to blush. Let them know that our establishment contains a complete stock of implements necessary to the proper cultivation of the soil and that we compete with the manufacturers in price. Tell them that there is a hardware company in Honolulu with ideas just a few weeks ahead of the times, and the people who come here to stay and control politics can get their outfit cheaper in Honolulu than they could back home. All they need bring is a paid-up subscription to their home paper and a celluloid collar; and if newspaper correspondents come to Hawaii and find they left a reticule full of truth back home will call on us—we will give them a supply. "Now is the time to subscribe."

The following choice bit of word painting occurs in Hawthorne's Marble Faun:
"The woman's eye, that has discovered they may, however gifted with intellect or genius, or endowed with awful beauty, have always some little handiwork ready to fill the tiny gap of every vacant moment. A needle is familiar to the fingers of them all.
A queen, no doubt, plies it on occasion; the woman poet can use it as adroitly as her pen; the woman's eye, that has discovered a new star, turns from its glory to send the polished little instrument gleaming along the hem of her kerchief, or to darn a casual fray in her dress. And they have greatly the advantage of us in this respect. The slender thread of silk or cotton keeps them united with the small, familiar, gentle interests of life, the continually operating influences of which do so much for the health of the character, and carry off what would otherwise be a dangerous accumulation of morbid sensibility. A vast deal of human sympathy runs along this electric line, stretching from the throne to the wicker chair of the humblest seamstress, and keeping high and low in a species of communion with their kindred beings." Housewives, when you ply the needle, have you ever reflected on the vicissitudes of life? See to it that your husbands provide for the future welfare of their families by at once applying for a Policy in the EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SO-CIETY of the United States. No more suitable gift could be offered to you.

Unpardonable Offenses.
Certain sins of omission and commission there are for which there is neither forgiveness nor absolution.
A woman will forgive the man she loves for squandering her fortune, destroying her peace of mind, dishonoring the name he has given her, but woe be unto him if he forgets to kiss her good-bye when he goes down town in the morning, says the New York Sun. He may take off his coat, roll up his shirt sleeves, take a week off for it, buy flowers, bonbons, theater tickets, be so good and penitent that he doesn't know himself and has to be introduced to his mirror every morning—he can't make that right until the crack of doom.
She never forgives and forgets that, even if she says she does.

Another unpardonable sin is to spell a man's name wrong. You may tread on his toes, steal his umbrella, cheat him, give him the wrong points on the races, but don't spell his name wrong if you desire him for a friend.

A woman never forgives a man for criticising her perfume; a man hates the fellow that runs down the brand of cigars he likes.

A woman may forgive the man who puts his umbrella down where it will drip all over her in the car; she never forgives the woman that sits down next to her with a dress that spoils hers.

A little woman rather likes to be called a pussy or a chicken by a big, goodnatured man, but she never forgives him if he calls her a cat or an old hen.

She never forgives the woman that coaxes her servants away by offering them better wages, or the woman who knows her age and tells it, or the woman the man she likes adores and praises, or the woman who always looks a little finer, dresses a bit handsomer, does things a shade better than she can herself.
We all know that woman and hate her, while we smile into her eyes and kiss her good-bye, acknowledging ourselves her inferior. No woman sits down and bewails her inability to wear the Astor diamonds or to rival the famous beauties of the world, but it is the woman who buys one more gown than we can afford, who keeps two servants when we have only one, who fades our pinks with her roses and dulls our charms with her graces whom it is hard to forgive as we would be forgiven.

It Greatly Relieved Him.
That he was deeply pained was evidenced by the puff of his face and the heaving of his bosom.
With one hand he pressed his brow while with the other he clutch-ed the arm of the chair. His breathing was labored and tumultuous and in less than three seconds his neck-tie had worked itself above his collar.

He was obviously distraught.
"Yes," the girl repeated gently,
"I am going to marry another."
He groaned.
"Will you?"
He bent an appealing, moving glance upon her.
"Tell me who he is?"
"Yes."
She bent forward and whispered a name.
"Thank!"
The anxious foreboding in his face instantly gave place to an exultant joy.

"Heaven, I feared he might be a friend of mine. I congratulate you with all my heart!"
And when he left the house his step was light and elastic.—Atlanta Constitution.

It Is Just That Way.
When Mrs. Simpkins remarked that she must go to the dressmaker, Mr. Simpkins said:
"I should think you would keep away from dressmakers, my dear."
"That's just like you, Mr. Simpkins. Why shouldn't I go to the dressmaker's if I wish to, I should like to know?"
"Because, my love, they all have designs on you."
And she didn't know whether to laugh or cry.—Buffalo Express.

Decidedly a Back Number.
First Chapter—What character does Miss Budd represent to-night?
Second Chapter—Why, she's dressed as a page.
First Chapter—And Miss Passee?
Second Chapter—Oh, she's a page, too.
First Chapter—Page two? She looks more like the last leaf.—Judge.

More Senses Than Five.
Teacher—How many senses are there?
Tommy Tucker—Five.
Teacher—That is right. What is your hand raised for, Benny Bloomington?
Benny—Please, ma'am, there have been eleven censuses taken so far.— Judge.

Grover and David.
"What do you think of Senator Hill now?" asked State Senator Bill Brown of Grover Cleveland.
"Oh, he's a good fellow," said the President-elect. "I wouldn't say a word against him, for formerly, you know, we belonged to the same political party."—Mt. Vernon News.

A Chance for Keeley.
"My, oh, my!"
"What's the matter?"
"Cleveland's Cabinet is full."— of bilious colic can almost invariably tell by their feelings, when to expect an attack. If Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is pear, they can ward off the disease.

Such persons should always keep the Remedy at hand, ready for im-will save them much suffering. For The Shirt Maker's Revenge.

Hold your orders for Johnson is coming.
The shirt maker is on the way.
Look out for his whiskers for they are leaking.
Till you hear what he has to say.

Respect to Johnson the bluffer justly paid And noble shirt maker honored his joblots shade
But whence this being? that a name so mean Should join with Johnson the shirt man, on a tomb be seen.

This Johnson would better far proclaim,
To future ages humble his job lots name.
Johnson and shirt maker had been well paid
The city collector and the city bard.

Now import all your so called shirt makers To take my honest living away if you can I came to these Islands to work like a man Here will I stay in spite of your teeth.
For all kinds of shirt will I make to look neat.

"LAST BUT NOT LEAST."
I do all the shirt cutting that is done at my place of business and in case the shirts don't give entire satisfaction I will alter them, make new shirts or refund the money. All shirts that I make will be kept in repair for 2 years free of charge.
