Hot Arguments from Sugar
Senators Expected When
Discussion on Bill
Begins

[Special Star-Bulletin Cable]

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—The Democratic caucus on the tariff bill as it comes from the senate finance committee will begin tomorrow. The Democratic senators are expected to spend some time in the caucus, which promises to bring out some hot arguments against the bill by senators opposed to the free-sugar provision.

WILSON BREAKS ENGAGEMENT WITH GEORGE R. CARTER

That President Woodrow Wilson, who states that he would hold open house in the White House and his office would be open to all comers, apparently forgot his boasted Jeffersonian simplicity when he made his appointment with former Governor Carter and later "began" to be excused. The following Associated Press report of the occurrence tells the story:

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 11.—An echo of the senate lobby inquiry reached the White House today when it was discovered that former Governor Carter of Hawaii was on the engagement list of the president.

Mr. Carter told the committee yesterday that although the president had made an engagement to see him, Secretary Tumulty had refused to arrange a meeting for Hawaiian sugar producers.

The president today sent word to Mr. Carter that he begged to be excused from the interview, which had been arranged for noon today.

PUNAHOU ALUMNI ANNUAL MEETING

The Punahou Alumni Association holds its annual meeting tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock, in at the Castle hall, Oahu College.

At this time the keys of the Castle Hall will be formally presented to the trustees of the Oahu College. W. F. Dillingham, on behalf of the building committee of the trustees of Oahu College, will outline briefly the work in connection with the construction of the building.

W. R. Castle will make a few remarks on behalf of the donors of the Mary Castle trust and A. F. Judd, on behalf of the trustees, will receive the keys of the building and will give a short address.

Mrs. Walter F. Frear, representing the Alumni Association, will also make some appropriate remarks.

The new Castle Hall is a thoroughly fireproof, three-story structure and is designed for the convenience and comfort of the women teachers and girl students and will be a very pleasant home for them.

It is hoped that a large number of the alumni and their friends will make an effort to be present and to avail themselves of the opportunity of inspecting the building.

'MONEY BACK' IS SYSTEM OF CHINESE

(Specials to the Sun Chung Kwok Bo.)

CANTON, June 18.—Chun Kwun Ming has yielded to Yuan Shih-kai's offer and will succeed Governor Wu on the 21st as governor of Kwangtung province.

CANTON, June 18.—Governor Wu has ordered the provisional treasurer to refund the sum of $1,450,000 to Tung Mun Wu of Dr. Sun's party, which money he declares has been spent to organize the late revolution. He has also ordered the treasurer to refund $2,500,000 to Chinese residents in foreign countries, which money he says was subscribed for the same purpose. He further demands an appropriation of $100,000 to finance his personal friends to foreign countries for educational purposes.

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS FIELD DAY POPULAR, FEATURE ATHLETIC SPORTS ARE HOTLY CONTESTED BY SOLDIERS

WAS LARGEST EVENT EVER
HELD AT THIS POST

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, June 18.—The exercises of the largest garrison field day ever held at Schofield Barracks occupied the entire attention of several thousand soldiers and interested civilian spectators from 9 o'clock until 1 o'clock today. Extensive preparations which have been the order of the day for the past month in all of the regiments of the garrison bore fruit and the largest amount of prize gathering went to the cavalry. All duty except the necessary guard and fatigue duty was suspended and barracks and quarters were emptied at an early hour and the time of starting—announced in orders to be 8:30 o'clock—found the officials, spectators and contestants, on foot, mounted and occupying points of vantage in automobiles and evidently all the light transportation vehicles the quartermaster could furnish. Beat: the usual tardy start of army meets the first event was called but 40 minutes late. The plan of the managing officials was to hold the events within two rings situated side by side.

As an arrangement looking to the comfort of the spectators this was anything but a success. Spectators witnessing one contest could only see another in a different ring by crossing over several hundred feet of intervening space and there was no point

'ROOKIES' BALK AT SMELL OF POWDER

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

FORT SHAFTER, June 19.—The machine gun platoon of the 2nd Infantry was engaged on Tuesday in testing out their guns at the thousand-yard range. Firing was both for rapidity and accuracy and was under the direction of Lieut. J. A. McAndrews, commanding the platoon. During this test-firing a detachment of recruits was on the adjacent range engaged in instruction practice at the 500-yard range and the effect on the new men of the sound of rapid fire of the Benet-Merciers was noticeable until they had grown accustomed to the new conditions.

POLICE ARE INVESTIGATING BOY'S DEATH

Allegations Made That Little
Chinese Lad Was Beaten
Until He Died

What is believed will develop into a case of extreme cruelty and brutality is now receiving a thorough investigation at the hands of Chief of Detectives McDuffie, following the report of the mysterious death of a ten-year-old Chinese boy who had lived with his parents on Beretania street. That the boy was literally beaten to death is the allegation now coming from several neighbors who finally admitted that they heard cries of anguish coming from the premises, upon the day that the little fellow was finally removed to the hospital for treatment.

The story as now gathered by the police is in effect that the child was sent to the hospital for treatment, it being alleged by the mother and father that he had fallen from a tree, and suffered many bruises and internal injuries.

The child is reported to have been removed for medical treatment on June 11th. Five days later death resulted and the remains turned over to the parents for burial.

Inquiry at the hospital today has brought to light the declaration that the Chinese lad was a mass of bruises when received there for medical attention. The hospital staff was also told that the boy had fallen from the top branches of a tree and had struck a number of limbs as he descended to the ground.

Now comes testimony from those who profess to have been witnesses to the cries of distress that the mother, Lum Yip, administered a beating to the child and did not cease her infliction of punishment until his cries had become stilled through exhaustion.

One of the Chinese alleged as implicated in the assault is believed to be associated with one of the city back stands.

CIRCUIT COURT IS NOW UPHELD IN RENTAL CASE

Affirming the judgment of the first circuit court, the supreme court in a decision handed down today rules in favor of Esther N. Pilipo and Elizabeth K. Pilipo in their suit against Nettie L. Scott, for rentals on lands on the island of Hawaii amounting to $1113.

The lower court found against the defendant and ordered judgment entered for the plaintiffs for the amount asked together with interests and costs, aggregating $2026.09. The defendant pleaded the general issue and claimed an eviction from the premises, which she contended relieved her from the obligation to pay the rent. From the decision of the circuit court she carried the suit up on a writ of error. Attorney J. W. Cathcart appeared as counsel for the plaintiff-error and N. W. Aluli and E. K. Aluli for the defendant-in-error.

AUTO TOOTS BREAK REST OF SLEEPERS

Noise of Whistles and Horns
Declared a Nuisance by Early Retirees

Joyriders who insist upon jarring the midnight quietude with discordant blasts of horn and whistle will be given an opportunity to explain to the police authorities their utter disregard for the nerves of persons who prefer to slumber during the proper slumbering hours and, incidentally, to explain their infraction of Section 27, Ordinance 11, which makes such conduct a misdemeanor and punishable by a fine of from $5 to $250, or a term in jail to exceed 90 days, or by both.

Beretania street, from Thomas Square to Punahou street, is a neighborhood that is reported as being infested with those affected with "nightish noisomania" and from this section complaints have reached the police department, with a request that some action be taken to alleviate the suffering of the residents who frequently are rudely awakened from pleasant slumber by the prolonged toot of an automobile horn or by the unearthly blast of a whistle.

It is threatened that unless the police prove able to cope with the disturbers of the peace a special watchman may be employed to secure the names of the nuisances against whom warrants will be issued.

City Treasurer McCarthy, who resides on the route taken by the slumber disturbers is among those who have made complaint and threaten further action.

The law on the question is perfectly clear, Section 7, of the Ordinance reading:

"It shall be unlawful for any person operating a self-propelled vehicle upon the streets to permit the pipes, 'mufflers' or other devices, to emit the sounds of exhaust in a loud and annoying manner; it being the intention of this section to compel the operation of such self-propelled vehicles in as noiseless a manner as possible."

REPUBLICANS CONTINUE TO DRAW SALARIES FROM THE DEMOCRATS

Candidates Grow Weary of Wait in Washington and Turn of the Situation Under the Regime of the Bourbons—Tariff

Measure Holds Up Patronage

By C. S. ALBERT

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7.—All concerned with the distribution or reception of federal patronage in Hawaii have relapsed into a period of sullen irritation and disgust. Despite announcements and predictions the positions remain securely nailed down and Republicans continue to draw the salaries attached. There is no indication that this situation will be improved and a general handing out of pie follows.

It is true that five postmasters were appointed and their names sent to the senate for approval. Nearly three months have slipped away without confirmation. Approval is suspended at the request of Delegate Kalaniana'ole, who insists that he must hear before final action is taken. He advances the contention that postmasters are not political appointments

EVERY POSSIBILITY IS HALED BEFORE SENATORIAL TRIBUNAL

'Insidious' Lobbying Charge Brings Before Overman Committee
All Present in Washington to Work Against Passage of the Unwelcome Wilson-Underwood Tariff Bill

By C. S. ALBERT

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7.—All those who participated in efforts to influence action on the Underwood tariff bill were promptly summoned to appear before the senate committee that has been investigating alleged lobbyists and their methods. Every name suggested by President Wilson, any member of congress or in the newspapers was immediately placed on the list of those to be interrogated. In addition, hundreds of letters poured in upon Senator Overman, heading the committee of inquiry. He added these to the number already available.

A bunch of young men from the sergeant-at-arms office was sent out and a formal summons was served on every man who could be located. The utmost secrecy was observed in order that none might escape. The utilization of all means for securing suggested names, resulted in a list where two events, going on at the same time could be seen. First Infantry a Winner.

The first event of the day was the obstacle race, won in very fast time, even with a penalty of 17½ seconds, by the team of the First Infantry. The time, including the penalty, was 2 minutes 14½ seconds. The course of 120 yards had five obstacles: the first, a picket fence 24 feet long and 6 feet in height; two walls of the same length and, respectively, 8 and 12 feet in height; six empty barrels, and, finally, a round log a foot in diameter and 20 feet long and about 10 feet from the ground, approached by another log of similar dimensions. Success in this event was entirely a matter of system and the success of the First Infantry is due to their admirable system. To bring their last men over the high wall, they used the lashed belts of the men on the top who had ample time to replace these before the finish. The Cavalry finished second, within 2 minutes and 10.25 seconds, but their time would have been much faster—though still hardly within the money—but for an accident which happened to one of their men. In some way he lost his hold on the top of the high wall and fell, striking on his head. He made three attempts to walk the plank, only to fall off, and his last try, long after the rest of the team were in ranks beyond the finish line, was made on sheer nerve.

The Twenty-fifth Infantry and the Field Artillery were also rans in the race, the former finishing 4 seconds behind the Cavalry and the latter 5 minutes and 14.15 seconds.

Each team comprised 48 men. The first race in Ring B was the low hurdles, distance 200 yards. The track was about as poor as possible, unrolled, uneven and the hurdles resembled a dilapidated herd of busted sawbucks. Some had the required height of 3 feet 6 inches, but more often they varied an inch or more from the normal, a fatal difference for a fast hurdler. The entries were one representative from each battalion and squadron. There was considerable argument in determining the winner, but the announced finish was: Sergeant Donaldson, Troop C, 4th Cavalry, first; Private Harris, Company I, 25th Infantry, second; Corporal Mills, Company F, 25th Infantry, third. Time, 26.15 seconds. Prizes, first, gold medal; second, silver medal.

The 100 yards dash was claimed for the Cavalry for their fast man some days before and he was touted to be going the dash in ten flat but he was not in the running today. Williamson, the fast man of the Twenty-fifth fell at about the fifty yards' mark ahead of the field. The race went to Corporal Mills, Company F, Twenty-fifth Infantry, in the remarkably fast time of ten and one-fifth. The time-keepers were united

SUGAR PUBLICITY HANDLED BY A. P. MERELY AS NEWS

[Associated Press Cable]

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—Melville E. Stone, general manager of the Associated Press, today, at his own request, was called as a witness in the sugar lobby probe. Stone was questioned regarding the publicity that was given the sugar tariff and questions regarding it through the telegraphic news of the organization. He disclosed correspondence showing that the matter was handled by the Associated Press purely as news and with no other object than to distribute the news to the various papers served by the Associated Press.

LABOR LEADERS GET ANOTHER APPEAL CHANCE

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 19.—Another step was taken today in the noted contempt case involving President Samuel Gompers, Vice-President John Mitchell and Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, when they were granted an appeal to the supreme court of the United States. The hearing will be held on October 16. The original case grew out of articles published during the boycott case of the Buck's Store & Range Company, the defendants being held in contempt because of the appearance of the articles in an official publication of the federation. The case was carried from court to court, the court of appeals finally sustaining the supreme court of the District of Columbia but changing the sentences. The latest sentence was a month in prison for Gompers and fines of $500 each for the other two.

SAMOA INFECTED WITH SMALLPOX

Quarantine Officers at This Port May Take Special Precautions

The United States quarantine medical officials at the port of Honolulu may be called upon to take special precautions in guarding against a possible infection of smallpox from the Samoan islands with the arrival of the Oceanic liner Sonoma, due here on or about July 11.

With the arrival of the Canadian-Australasian liner Marana from Suva came the report that a Chinese immigrant, accompanied by a thousand or more coolie laborers, arrived at Apia, Samoa, with smallpox aboard. The steamer was freighted with Chinese, under contract to labor on Samoan plantations, three members of the party having died of the disease before arrival.

At Apia the authorities promptly put the steamer in quarantine and she had to anchor outside the reef, no communication with the shore being permitted. Several patients who were down with the disease were segregated in a hut, which is lying well off the land in an adjoining bay. It is said that three more have died since arrival.

The Samoan natives are naturally anxious, and a mass gathering attended on Dr. Schultze, the German governor, and requested him to order the ship and her passengers to return to China, and not permit anyone to land.

Armed patrols are guarding the shore to prevent anyone from the ship surreptitiously landing. The American authorities at Pago Pago, Tutuila, are taking no risks and have declared Apia an infected port.

Many Steamers Turn Mauiliward

Mauili is to be the objective point of lovers of sport on July Fourth and with the aid of the Inter-Island S. N. Company the visitors will be able to see the best races Maui can provide at very little cost. The company has planned three different trips, one to include the races only for which a price of nine dollars will be charged. Another will include a visit to Iao Valley the day after the races and the third takes in the ascent of the great Haleakala crater, the cost of which will be thirty-nine dollars as against nineteen dollars for the Iao Valley trip.

Holders of tickets will be carried in automobiles from the steamer to the Maui Hotel where breakfast will be served and provided with picnic lunches to be discussed at the track. Cars will carry them through the valley and to Idoewild where a rest will be had and the trip continued on horseback to the summit from which the grand sunrise will be had. The return to Honolulu will be by the Claudine, for those who make the valley and crater trips, arriving in Honolulu early Sunday morning. The company is booking passengers at the Queen street office.

Claudine Back from Maui

The Inter-Island steamer Claudine was the only coastwise arrival at the port this morning, this vessel returning with a miscellaneous cargo including shipments of boxes, horses, 2 ponies, 60 cans taro, 9 crates chickens and 151 packages sundries.

Furser Kibling reports moderate winds and seas on the voyage.

A small list of cabin and deck passengers arrived from Maui ports.

Weich Will Take Sugar.

The bark Andrew Weich is to be supplied with a full shipment of sugar, destined for Pacific coast refineries. This vessel is expected to sail for San Francisco on or about July 4. The Andrew Weich arrived here with much mainland cargo and supplies for the government. A half dozen passengers have been booked for the coast in the sailing vessel.

The repair to a road leading to the Hackfeld wharf will be much appreciated by a miscellaneous group of pedestrians who are daily required to pass that way in visiting trans-Pacific liners.

Modern Pirates Reap Rich Harvest from Abandoned Schooner Lyman D. Foster

Leaving behind absolutely nothing of value, a band of looters who swarmed over the wrecked and abandoned American schooner Lyman D. Foster, which went ashore in the Pili's, reaped a rich reward, according to predictions made at Honolulu by disreputable seamen from that vessel who passed through the port as passengers in the Canadian-Australasian liner Marana.

A cutter, believed to have been manned by natives is said to have been seen hovering about the vessel, but later made off when the steamer Kilauea approached with a company of Suva salvage corps. The staterooms formerly occupied by the master, his officers and the crew, had been rifled and articles of clothing, personal effects, as well as furnishings, had all been removed at the time the salvagers reached the scene. Such things as the looters were unable to carry away, they endeavored to destroy or render useless.

The stores of provisions were taken away and it is said that very little was left for the party aboard the Ripple.

The legality of the act while questioned has raised a fine point in that the American vessel had been abandoned following the disastrous meeting with a typhoon in the south seas.

The bulk of what was at one time a well known lumber carrier has been towed to Suva. It was estimated at the time the Marana sailed from there that 625,000 feet of lumber would be saved. Negotiations are now in progress with New York and London as to a disposition of the wreck.

Half-Made Ready for Sea.

The Inter-Island steamer W. G. Hall has been discharged of 5000 sacks sugar and a quantity of sundries brought from Kauai ports, and will be dispatched for the Garden Island at 5 o'clock this evening, taking passengers, late mail and general cargo.

[By Latest Mail.]

LONDON.—Why is militancy? Because it is the only way left. This, in brief, is the justification for the present campaign of violence carried on by the radical woman suffrage crusaders comprising the Women's Social and Political Union, as given by George Lansbury, former member of parliament and the most prominent "male suffragette" in England today.

Lansbury is himself a militant. On account of his recent public speeches approving the destruction of property by Mrs. Pankhurst's cohorts and urging the men friends of the movement to go out and do likewise, he was arrested and charged with "inciting to malicious destruction of property" by inflammatory speech, under a centuries-old law passed in the time of King Edward III. He was tried in Bow street police court and sentenced to three months in prison. The court offered Lansbury the alternative of freedom on bail if he would promise good behavior. He at first refused and was cheered by the suffragettes, but later, to their chagrin, he took the pledge and was released on bail signed by Joseph Fels. He gave up his seat in parliament last session as a protest against the insincerity of the labor party, of which he was a member, in its attitude toward the woman suffrage question. He stood for re-election independently on a straight-out vote-for-women platform and was defeated. Since then he has devoted the greater part of his time agitating on behalf of the woman movement generally, and the policies of the W. S. P. U., particularly. Lansbury's family also are militants, one of his sons and one of his daughters having served prison terms for window smashing.

"I think the reason why our American friends cannot understand the development of militancy in this country," he said, "is because they do not understand the British politician. I have never been in America, but from what I have learned of the success of the more peaceful methods over there, I am convinced that you have a different brand of legislators. Evidently they are amenable to verbal argument. But more important, they do not resort to the trickery, treachery and brutality in their dealings with women folk that have characterized the situation that obtains here. I wonder if your women would have limited their methods of persuasion to soft words and street parades if they had been confronted in America with conditions which confronted the women in England."

"Don't think for a moment that our women have not tried these means. They have been extraordinarily patient. For sixty years the agitation for woman's emancipation has gone on in England. The lack of sincerity of the government leaders toward the movement was manifested as long ago as 1885. When Gladstone introduced his bill to give agricultural laborers the vote, the women were led to believe that they too would be included in the measure. But at the very last moment Gladstone let it be known that if a woman suffragette amendment were brought in it would wreck the bill, despite the fact that he himself declared he saw no reason why women should not have the vote. It was Gladstone, by the way, who once said, 'No great reform has ever been brought about in this country without violence.'"

"The women were grievously disappointed, but they continued their agitation along peaceful lines, holding parlor meetings and all that sort of thing. No notice was taken of them. Then, seven years ago, Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, a great social writer, organized the Women's Political and Social Union with the avowed object of introducing militant methods. At that time the militancy consisted of 'heckling' speakers, including cabinet members, something done since earliest times throughout England. For doing the same thing the men did they were cruelly maltreated and thrown out into the streets. This resulted in increased membership."

"As a part of our new militant campaign the women began to send deputations to parliament, another 'constitutional method' which had never been denied to the men. The premier and cabinet members refused to see them and generally the police were called to throw them out and later even to prevent them from entering the building. When they persisted in their constitutional rights they were brutally assaulted and hundreds imprisoned. But still they were patient. Not until after four instances of this kind did the women, as a protest, begin to break windows. Then the government opened up negotiations. A truce was declared and the so-called conciliation bill, granting limited franchise introduced. It passed its second reading by a majority of 160. But the women were deceived, government leaders preventing its third reading. Next session the same membership defeated it by a majority of 14. The campaign against it had been sinister and surreptitious. The defeat was in the face of absolute pledges held by the women of 398 out of 670 members of the commons. Again came honeyed words and promises which again were broken. Would your women put up with such treatment?"

"Put, after all, what have the women done but destroy a few thousand dollars worth of property? No lives have been taken, no one injured physically. They haven't incited to civil war as Sir Edward Carson and Bonar Law have done in Ulster. Yet Carson and Law go free and Mrs. Pankhurst and her lieutenants are thrown into jail! The women haven't organized rebellion or revolution. It has been only guerilla fighting—so far."

MARCELLO QUIROS CONVICTED IN HILO

News of the conviction of Marcello Quiros, the Filipino policeman of Hilo on the charge of criminally assaulting an eight-year-old Spanish girl in that city, was received here yesterday by Attorney R. W. Breckons. Conviction of this crime carries a maximum penalty of a $1000 fine or five years' imprisonment.

When the charge against the police officer was first made Judge Wise of Hilo discharged the accused man. Later the mother came to Honolulu and pressed her case, carrying her plea up to Attorney General Thayer. When Breckons was employed to undertake the Maguire investigation he was also instructed to take up the police matter. The result of this was that Quiros was indicted by the grand jury at Hilo last April. At the attorney general's request Judge Parsons also took up the matter. The case eventually went to trial, with the result as learned here yesterday.

THE GRADUATE

By Minna Irving
You ought to have been our Commencement—

It was perfectly splendid this year. My gown was of chiffon and satin, with fringes all tinky and clear. Dad gave me a bracelet of diamonds! Who stood at the head of the class? Why, Nell, in a made-over muslin. In which she looked greener than grass.

My essay was a corker, entitled "What a Poodle Should Have for His Lunch." My brother came up in the mbot, with Bob and the whole of the bunch. My diploma was tied with blue ribbon—

I was lucky to get one, they say. The rest carried off

LIQUOR LICENSES GRANTED AND DENIED LAETI CLUB TAKES 'CLASS NIGHT' AT REPUBLICANS OAHU COLLEGE TONIGHT STILL ON THE SALARY LIST

Twenty-five liquor licenses for the coming fiscal year were granted, one was denied and three deferred by the liquor license commission at the first of its annual sessions yesterday afternoon. Formal protests, by petition and verbally, were presented by representatives of the Anti-Saloon League against the two saloons on Alakea street, Kojima's place near the fish market and those applications for liquor selling privileges on windward Oahu.

George W. Paty, the Anti-Saloon League's agent, Rev. David C. Peters and John Martin appeared against these applications. The application of Kojima for a renewal was denied on the ground that he is a non-resident of the territory. Ah Choa, who at present has a saloon at Heala, will not learn the fate of his business until the next meeting, scheduled for June 26, when the applications from Waihole and other places on the windward side will be considered.

In dealing with the applicants for wholesale licenses the commissioners yesterday indicated a new policy. They sought information concerning the extent of the business handled by these companies, and indicated that hereafter wholesalers with licenses on Oahu cannot solicit business in other counties except through agents licensed specifically by those counties. The applications on which action was deferred are those of Bertha Klemme, restaurant; Ah Choa, saloon; R. MacFarlane and Theodore Bollman, retail.

Those granted yesterday were Paddy Ryan, saloon; Jack Roberts, saloon; Joel C. Cohen, general liquor agent; C. A. Peacock, Criterion; Seattle Brewing and Malting Co., wholesale; W. C. Peacock & Co., wholesale; S. P. Medeiros, Waiolu, wholesale; S. Ozaki, wholesale; K. Ono and Takaki, Banzai; K. Nakatani and Kojima, Aala; Y. Kimura, Sunrise; Joseph Silva, Pantheon; S. J. Shaw, Merchants, Exchange; K. Kura & Co., wholesale; Hon Hing, wholesale; F. A. Sheffer, wholesale; George Wood, Aiea; M. G. Silva, Kamehameha; Charles Lynch, Pacific; Charles Lambert, Anchor; Lovejoy & Co., wholesale; John Gonzales, Mint; Joseph Quintal, Services; Miles & Macey, Kilo-hana; MacFarlane & Co., wholesale.

She (angrily).—Then, I shall sue you for breach of promise. He—Go ahead! I shall sue you for slander for saying that I proposed to you.

Hobo.—I've eaten nothing but snowballs for three days. Lady.—You poor man! What would you have done had it been summer time? "Is he lazy?" "He is. He'll go in to a revolving door and then wait for somebody to come along and turn it around."

The members of the popular Laeti club entertained a number of their friends at a moonlight tramping party (minus the moon) to the Pali last evening. The party started early from the end of the Nuuanu street car line and, after reaching the Pali, partook of refreshments provided by the ladies of the club. When about to return, the party was overtaken by a rather heavy rainstorm, but escaped a wetting by pressing into service a covered express wagon which had been along at the time. With much hilarity and jollification, the crowd proceeded toward by this dry but otherwise uncomfortable means of travel until finally the end of the car line was reached, where they continued the journey by means of the cars.

Those who attended were Miss Abbie Bromley, Miss Evelyn de la Nux, Miss Hazel Gear, Miss Margaret Collins, Miss Garta Everton, Miss Dorothy Podmore, Miss Adele Wicke, Mrs. Fred Bailey, Mrs. Lotts, George Jurgenson, Max Bolte, Bryan Girdler, Will Raseman, George Bromley, Merlon Evans, George Cassidy, Fred Bailey, Cyril Tinker and Alfred Tinker.

MUSIC AND 'HOP' FURNISHED WITH PIPE

Employing a phonograph to assist in wooing slumber, Hun Yow, a Chinese, who was brought within the meshes of the police drag net during a raid at Waihiwa Saturday, was convicted this morning with operating an opium joint.

Upon a table placed in front of the district court tribunal was a complete layout used by smokers of the seductive drug. The paraphernalia was brought into the city by Deputy Kellett and several officers who descended upon the suburb with the result that one or more such places were closed.

It came out in the testimony given this morning that the proprietor resorted to the swinging ragtime melody and late comic songs, as produced from a phonograph, as an added inducement for patronage of those addicted to the pipe.

Drug to the value of $200 was confiscated. Hun Yow was called upon to settle a fine of $100 and costs.

Members of the class of 1913 of Oahu College, together with their parents and friends and officials of the institution, will gather at Pauahi Hall, Punahou, at a quarter before eight o'clock this evening in celebration of "Class Night," one of the many exercises which mark the close of the school year at the college.

The exercises will be held on the steps of the building, weather permitting, while seats for the visitors will be arranged on the lawn. An interesting musical and literary program has been arranged, the first number on which will be the singing of the "Gipsy Song" by the girls' chorus. This will be followed by the class song by the members of the class of 1913, after which Miss Helen McLean will deliver the class prophecy, in which the future success of the members of the class will be set forth. The last will and testament of the class of 1913 will be read by Miss Elizabeth Woods, while the presentation of the glass gifts will be made by Miss M. Ruth Anderson. Leslie Wishard, who for the past year has been president of the outgoing class, will present to Elbert Tuttle, president of the junior class, the gavel which has been handed down from class to class.

Following the farewell song by the members of the class, the exercises will come to a close with the planting of the class tree, after which refreshments will be served. Alumni Day will be celebrated tomorrow, at which time the old grads will assemble on the campus for a day of merry-making. The graduation exercises will be held in the Charles R. Bishop Hall Saturday evening at eight o'clock and the class dance at the Moana hotel Monday evening.

DID ROSS SMOKE 'HOP' OR JUST CIGARETTE?

"Bill" Ross, colored, may have consumed cigarettes, and again he may have puffed the smoke from an opium pipe into the ambient air as Chief of Detectives McDuffie forced his way into an apartment in a River street tenement the other night.

At any rate, Ross, defended by Attorney Straus, is out on bail pending a hearing of his case in the higher court.

Ross was arraigned at district court this morning charged with using opium and having the same in his possession. He denied the allegation made by the police and proceeded to

The selection of a United States attorney for Hawaii is about the same distance up in the air as the governorship. Department of Justice officials agree that there is nothing doing in the matter of selecting a successor for Mr. Breckons. At the beginning of this administration it appeared that J. L. Coke would walk right off with the plum. He was strongly endorsed. It now seems that if Edward M. Watson is named for governor Mr. Coke's chances of securing the attorneyship will be materially lessened. Mr. Watson, come chiefly from South-ern senators and representatives. It would not look well to hand the two most important offices out to the same people.

The real fact is that Hawaii is suffering from the holding up of patronage caused by the pending tariff bill. The president desires to see how certain senators vote on sugar and wool before giving them their share. This has created a general stagnation. If senators and representatives of great sovereign states cannot pull down a piece of pie, how much less a poor territory with nobody at court but those who have no voice in framing the new tariff act.

When the deluge of state patronage is turned loose Hawaii will not have long to wait for the settlement of all the pending patronage problems.

Edward Hore has been reappointed district magistrate at Waiolu, Oahu, and Joseph A. Akina district magistrate for Waiwae, Kauai, by Chief Justice A. G. M. Robertson of the supreme court. Each reappointment is for a two-years term, the first taking effect June 13 and the second June 16. The supreme court also approved twenty-three new rules of procedure for the circuit court of Kauai, drawn by Judge Dickey in conformance with changes made in the rules for circuit court procedure by the last legislature.

fight the case. In the array of evidence that confronted District Magistrate Monsarrat this morning was a package which at one time contained two dozen cigarettes. The tray also held a small lamp, a tin of opium, a pipe and a needle which was discolored from the drug. This paraphernalia was found in the room occupied by Ross and several Chinese companions and, according to McDuffie, the pipe was still hot when he placed Ross under arrest. A wreath of smoke is alleged to have enricled the head of Ross when the officers forced their way into the room. The defendant insists that it came from the burning cigarettes, while the police are equally confident that the fumes of cooking opium filled the apartment.

used to affect tariff rates. Ex-Governor Carter at once issued a statement replying to that imputation.

At the same time all those here on behalf of the Louisiana cane growers were summoned, along with those from Hawaii.

Frank C. Lowry, and all the innumerable throng employed by the Sugar Trust to work for free sugar, were included.

Those representing Hawaii did not deny their activities or their usefulness when on the witness stand. All explained that the sugar industry of Hawaii was threatened with certain destruction by placing sugar on the free list. Those having large fortunes invested in the industry legitimately employed representatives and sent them here to watch over their interests.

It was emphatically denied that any money had been improperly expended, or any influence brought to bear upon senators or representatives which was not strictly honorable and honest. Men facing ruin merely attempted to save themselves, just as all business men would do under similar circumstances.

JOHN F. COWES FILES DIVORCE PETITION

Alleging extreme cruelty and misconduct John F. Cowes, the dentist, has filed a petition in circuit court asking for a decree of divorce from Caroline Cowes and also the custody of the two minor children. The petition was filed this morning and notice of the suit will be served on Mrs. Cowes at San Francisco, where she is now residing.

In the petition the plaintiff alleges misconduct on the wife's part with a certain man on the Coast, the name of the correspondent not being given. He also avers that she formed the habit of spending her evenings away from home, leaving the husband and father to care for the children and returning in the small hours of the morning. Douthitt & Coke appear as counsel for the plaintiff.

PLAN SCHOOL TO CARE FOR DEAF AND DUMB

A list of twenty-one names of deaf and dumb children residing in and about Honolulu was yesterday submitted to the members of the Women's Co-operative League at a meeting held in the assembly hall of the Library of Hawaii. It is with a view to establishing in Honolulu a school for the education of these afflicted children that the league is taking a census of the cases existing on the island of Oahu, and although the number of names submitted yesterday is large, it is expected that more than fifty could be benefited by such a school.

The work of taking the census was commenced some three months ago, and as yet is not more than half completed. There are no facilities in Honolulu at this time for the education of deaf and dumb children, and many such cases have in the past been sent to institutions on the mainland. It will be endeavored by the league to take the matter before Superintendent Gibson, of the board of public instruction, with a view to securing in Honolulu some means to provide education for these children.

During a discussion by the members relative to the two indictments recently made by the grand jury on white slavery charges, it was emphasized that there is in Honolulu today the great need of a home for feeble-minded women and girls. Statistics, it is claimed, show that more than ninety per cent of the girls in the local industrial school are weak-minded.

Thomas Due Here Thursday. The United States army transport Thomas, from San Francisco, is due to arrive here on next Thursday, according to advices received at the local quartermaster department today. The troopship, with officers and enlisted men of the army, is reported to have sailed from San Francisco for Honolulu, Guam and Manila today.

A board to consist of Major Bailey K. Ashford is appointed for the purpose of studying tropical diseases in Porto Rico.

Cretone covered shirtwaist boxes about 30 inches long and half as wide and deep have been reduced to $4.25. There is a variety of colors shown, blue, pink, yellow, lavender, tan, etc., and each box is lined with saten to match. On the under side of the cover are three baglike compartments for shoes.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

Work is progressing rapidly on the repaving of King street near Pitkin. Judge Whitney this morning granted a divorce to Higa Majasaka, on her plea of desertion and non-support by Ikero Majasaka.

The weekly meeting of the territorial board of health will be held at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon, at which the semi-annual tenders for departmental supplies will be considered.

Chief Sanitary Inspector C. Sharlock, accompanied by two inspectors, is at Waihole today attending to a sanitary cleanup of the labor camps at that place.

Maria Conesica Rodriguez has filed a petition in the circuit court asking that her husband, Isaac S. Rodriguez, be appointed guardian of Manuel Machado, an insane person.

Miss Gladys Mason, a young lady of New York, who proposes to walk from that city to the Pacific Coast, received over five hundred offers from men in answer to her advertisement asking for a man to accompany her across the continent.

The final accounts of Ella Louise Rowland, executrix of the estate of Ezra Augustus Rowland, were approved and the executrix discharged from her duties by Circuit Judge Whitney today. The accounts show receipts amounting to $3,916.94 and disbursements, $164.50.

The session laws of 1913 are due from the Printer, in bound form ready for sale and distribution in fifteen days. Secretary Mott-Smith stated today that the final proof had been read and that the volumes should be out within that length of time. The books will contain 313 pages of the laws alone, with an index of seventy-six pages, prepared by Assistant Attorney General A. G. Smith. Mott-Smith says the books will sell at about $2 to $2.50 each.

Mayor Joseph Fern has appointed Miss A. Magnard, formerly the local truant officer, to succeed Miss Rose Davison, who recently died, as humane officer. Friends of the young woman are very much pleased with the appointment, and they say she will make as capable a humane officer as she did a truant officer.

Delegate Kalaniana'ole introduced in congress on June 3 a bill (H. R. 5851) for the franchise asked for electric light and power at Lihue and in the Koloa district of Kauai. The bill passed the last legislature and then, as required by the organic act, went to congress for approval. It was referred to the committee on territories.

A writ of execution was served yesterday on Customs Collector E. R. Stackable, demanding $101.50 for costs in the case against Manuel Ferreira, who was sentenced to six months' imprisonment the other day for opium smuggling. When Ferreira was arrested the sum of $185 was taken from him by Stackable, and remained in the latter's possession until payment on the execution was made yesterday.

J. Hopp & Company have been awarded the contract to supply the canopy for the supreme court, the price being $385. The Coyne Furniture Company has received the contract to supply the carpets for the various offices in the judicial building, for $689. The public works department will readvertise for bids on rugs for that building, defining more clearly the kind of material desired.

The question of the division of the moneys in the territorial treasury, received from the special income tax, will not be decided until E. H. Wodehouse, president of the board of immigration, returns from Hawaii. The conservation committee, which met with the governor yesterday afternoon, decided to defer definite action until a conference can be held with Wodehouse to find whether he agrees with the committee's interpretation of the amended special income tax law.

The students of the Valley School, Kuakini street, participated in a very pretty presentation of J. M. Barrie's "Peter Pan" on the campus of that institution at 10:30 o'clock this morning, as a part of the program of exercises which marks the close of the 1912-1913 school year. The students have been working hard, under the direction of their teachers, in preparation for the play, and their efforts were rewarded by a large attendance of parents and friends.

A slip in the rush of the supervisors to put through the budget carrying appropriations for the expenses of the city and county government for the ensuing six months has left the board of associated charities without its $100 allowance, a monthly sum which the city fathers had agreed to give the body. The mistake was not discovered until after the budget had passed its first reading, and consequently it is planned to pass a special appropriation measure giving the charity organization is $100 a month.

Sanitary maps for the labor camps at Waihole are in preparation by the sanitary department of the board of health, and Superintendent H. K. Bishop, in charge of the Waihole tunnel project, has assured the officials that any system suggested by them will be adopted, the company also employing inspectors at its own expense to enforce the regulations. This action results from the discovery of five cases of typhoid fever at Camp Three last week. The patients were removed to the Queen's Hospital. This camp is to be demolished shortly and the place thoroughly renovated under the health board's direction.

After a long and eventful career in the navy, Rear-Admiral Albert B. Willets, just retired, has selected California as his place of residence. Accompanied by his wife and daughter, Jessie, Admiral Willets, who held the post of director of navy yards for the past twelve years, arrived in San Francisco recently from New York on the Pacific Mail steamer San Juan.

MARTEL FACING A SERIOUS CHARGE

After a wide detour of the city, which constituted the greater part of yesterday, Detective Harry Lake succeeded in rounding up at 3 o'clock in the afternoon Manuel Martin Martel, a Portuguese charged with the carnal abuse of a Portuguese girl 12 years old. The assault is said to have taken place at Kakaako yesterday morning, and upon the complaint of the child to her parents, Lake took up the search for the man and finally located him at the Honolulu Iron Works.

It is understood that Martel offered to make amends for his crime by marrying his victim, but the parents of the child would hear nothing of it and will commence prosecution. On account of the fact that the child is over 12 years old, the penalty in a case of this kind is not more than ten years. The case is scheduled to come up before the grand jury some time next week.

A MURDER LABORATORY

A laboratory for the study of murder cases and criminology in general is the departure that Cook county—Chicago—is making. Cook county now has the only officially designated chemical laboratory for the scientific study of the causes of murder connected with the coroner's office in the United States. Duncan McNally has been appointed chief chemist for the coroner's laboratory.

"The establishment of a 'crime laboratory' in connection with the coroner's office, while a new thing in America, has been a necessity for several years," said the coroner. "In former years, as I pointed out to the county board, murderers were equipped only with weapons of violence, and the pursuit of a criminal was non-scientific work. But in recent years murder is worked by scientific means—by new and subtle poisons, by disease germs and by the use of the most modern energies and chemicals discovered. Old-time methods of crime-detection and analysis are no longer capable of coping with the brains of modern criminals. No one knows how many murders are covered by physicians' certificates of death, honestly given."

DUKE AND PROFESSIONALISM

Simple-minded persons who are talking of the "fortune" that Duke Kahanamoku can make on the vaudeville stage are clearly unfitted to advise him against remaining an amateur. In the first place, Duke says he has no big offers to go on the stage; in the second place, there is no assurance that his "act" would "go" in vaudeville. The mere fact that he would be billed as the world's champion swimmer would not continue to draw crowds—and please the management—unless he could develop an act that would go for fifteen to twenty-five minutes in a small tank. Champion swimmers before now have failed ridiculously when they tried vaudeville. Speed exhibitions are not practicable and Duke is not a champion diver or water-acrobat. Furthermore, Duke is no more than a youth; he has before him years of improvement, if he wishes to improve and continues to lead a clean and wholesome life. During all his years as an amateur he can travel widely, competing in aquatic events. In 1916 he will doubtless be called on for the American Olympic team that will go to Germany.

As a professional swimmer, his matches will be few and poorly paid. His success on the vaudeville stage is at least uncertain. Why should he give up his amateur standing and his opportunities to represent Hawaii against the best swimmers in the world, on the doubtful chance of making a few thousand dollars in vaudeville? He can take that chance several years from now if he wishes to. Meanwhile, Hawaii hopes that he will continue to uphold her amateur laurels as worthily as he has in the past.

Anyway, let Duke himself decide the question. We understand he wishes to remain an amateur. That ought to settle it.

THE POINT OF VIEW

When you go to the legislature or to Washington working for a cause in which you happen to be interested, you are a public-spirited citizen fighting for the common weal.

When the other fellow goes to the legislature or to Washington, working for a cause to which you object, he is an insidious lobbyist.

That's about the size of the present situation at the national capital. President Wilson, journeying to New Jersey to exert pressure on the legislature there in the hope—afterward proved vain—of passing his jury-reform bill, was a statesman and a gentleman engaged in high and beneficent duty. George Carter, R. D. Mead and the other men from Hawaii who protest against the passage of an inequitable and unfair tariff bill, are first dogged with Burns detectives and next called before a senate committee to tell of their pernicious activities.

That the attempt of certain Democratic leaders has been to stigmatize the sugar-producers in the eyes of the people seems clearly apparent. When President Wilson made his now-famous charges of "insidious lobbying", it was a Republican, Cummins of Iowa, who first arose in the senate and called for a committee of investigation. But the Democratic majority did not pass the Cummins resolution. It passed a Democratic resolution framed largely by Senator Kern, the majority leader. Thus the probe of the lobby has from the first been made a party measure, a measure by the party that is passing the free-sugar bill.

The accounts of the senate proceedings on this point are illuminative:

When the matter of investigating lobbyists came up Senator Cummins emphatically disavowed being influenced by any partisan motive. He said the charge had been made but there was nothing whatever ulterior in his action. It was immaterial, he said, what party made the investigation, or what party it may hurt. He did not care what persons may fall under it or be vindicated by it.

Mr. Cummins hoped the investigating committee would define the word "lobbyist" for the use of the American people, so that men who come hereafter may not be unjustly criticised.

"As the charge has been made," said Mr. Cummins, "that lobbyists are illegitimately seeking to influence senators and change the tariff bill, the senate should determine whether these hundreds of people who come here to protect their interests should be included."

"The word lobbyist does not sound good to the American people. No man likes to be called a lobbyist. It sounds as if something sinister or improper was attached to it. The most effective and corrupt lobbyist I ever knew never went within a half-mile of the capitol building where his plans were carried out."

The definition given of a lobbyist by Webster was read, as was the statement of President Wilson regarding the horde of lobbyists here.

"This is the time to learn the facts," said Mr. Cummins, "and make it impossible for such a body to gather in the future. Never again should a president of the United States be impelled to warn the country that a great measure was in danger of being amended through the causes indicated. There is nothing like publicity to destroy the lobbyist. Such a man could not live in the full light of exposure that would follow this investigation."

Senator Cummins' words are significant. Has it come to pass that citizens cannot go to Washington to protest against legislation they consider unjust without being branded, by the president of the United States, as members of a "numerous, industrious and insidious lobby"? Is this the characteristic attitude of Mr. Wilson?

The people of the country would regret to learn that Wilson cannot calmly and dispassionately meet opposition. Yet already he is said—and by no less an authority than the New York Journal of Commerce—to be "easily nettled by opposition to any course determined upon by him". Is he a statesmanlike leader or one petulant whenever his opinion is questioned?

Minneapolis (Minn.) Journal: "Who, then, benefits by free sugar? Not the consumer to any appreciable extent. Not the grower of beet sugar evidently. Not Louisiana, which must find a new crop to replace the unprofitable cane. Not Hawaii, which faces ruin. Not the government, which loses sixty million dollars of annual revenue, which must be made up by direct taxation on incomes. Well, the sugar trust will do pretty well, since it will get its raw material cheaper and will maintain its present prices for refining."

An English critic says the American polo team played so fast it was brutal. Possibly our English friend couldn't see the points.

L. L. McCandless may be pardoned for believing that there is plenty of good gubernatorial timber right here in the territory.

The "extensive publicity campaign" of the sugar interests is getting more publicity in 1913 than in 1912.

Turkey has a new ministry but there is no rush of life-insurance agents in that direction.

A light course in summer reading is now offered from the letter files of the sugar-men.

Our Republican federal office-holders appear to have taken a fresh grip on their jobs.

It looks as if some Democratic candidates are going to be disappointed.

Since Wilson is so fond of free sugar, what about free silver?

Delegate Kuhio has consented to stay where he belongs!

After the Panama Canal is well-locked it will be opened.

At least, Guthrie goes to work with a full stomach.

LITTLE INTERVIEWS

JOHNNY MARTIN—I wonder why Theo. Bauman did not appear yesterday to back up his application for a liquor license before the license commission? There were a number of us there to oppose it but he failed to show up.

ED TOWSE—Following out the idea so successfully inaugurated on New Year's Eve, the Fourth of July committee is thinking of having a sidewalk ball. What does the city think of it?

JOHN GRUBE—The billboards certainly keep me busy and though we don't hear any more about boycotting them, the merchants do hear a good deal about me trying to get them to give me a thousand-year contract for billboard space.

"SUNNY JIM" McCANDLESS—Distribute a barrel of leis in Dallas? Well, I should say we did. Just add another dozen to that and you have the correct figure. Thirteen barrels was the number, and still some folks say that thirteen is an unlucky number.

WILL MILES—I tell you it is a lie. I am true to my laughing jackasses, and shall continue my investigations to show that these Australian birds are great destroyers of pests. They are great birds and I am for them, now and forever. I would not think of importing other fowls to displace them.

ARMY AND NAVY NOTES

WEST POINT—the last day of the "June week" exercises was one of bustle and bustle for the cadets. The principal event was the arrival of Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison, who is here to deliver an address and present diplomas to the class of 1913.

After the reception to the secretary the battalion marched out for graduation parade.

In the evening five hundred cadets, with almost double that number of pretty girls, enjoyed the big graduation ball in the gymnasium.

Francis K. Newcomer will be graduated at the head of his class at the academy tomorrow, as his father, Lieutenant-Colonel Henry S. Newcomer, was, was 27 years ago. There is no other record at the academy of father and son heading their respective classes.

Cadet Newcomer will be assigned to the engineer branch of the service, in which his father has spent more than a quarter of a century.

While the navy department consistently has been reticent concerning its submarines, it became known recently that the plans for the three vessels of this kind authorized by the last session of congress contemplate vessels much larger than any now in commission.

Navy department designers now are planning much larger and more formidable vessels of this type, and some of them prophesy the development of the submarine into a giant battleship that will replace the dreadnoughts in the first line of defense. They even contend that these vessels would be able to disappear beneath the surface of the sea to escape a return fire after discharging their twelve-inch rifles at an enemy.

Increasing difficulty in securing enlistments for the army is becoming so grave that an appeal may be made to congress by the secretary of war to amend the existing enlistment laws. The reports indicate an unwillingness among young men to contract away their time for seven years, even after it is explained that only four of these years must be spent with the colors.

With growing demands for troops for garrison duty in Hawaii and the canal zone and for the recruitment of the existing regiments up to the full strength, this failure of the recruiting service is giving serious concern to Army officers.

Lieutenant-Colonel Chase W. Kennedy, Infantry, President of San Francisco, one of the most popular officers at that post, has been detailed by Major-General Arthur Murray, commanding the Western Department, as senior instructor and in command of regular troops at the camp for instruction of organized militia of California, to be held at Santa Cruz from July 6th to 16th. Colonel Rudolph G. Ebert, medical corps, is detailed as senior instructor of the medical officers of the organized militia to be held between the same dates.

The following members of the Cavalry branch are instructed to report for duty at the camp for cavalry instruction near Winchester, Va., about July 20th, to be held for experimental purposes in handling cavalry in various units to include the brigade and the brigade in conjunction with horse artillery: Brigadier-General Edward J. McClelland, United States army, retired; Colonel Cumliffe J. Murray, 12th cavalry; Lieutenant-Colonel Joseph T. Dickman, cavalry; Lieutenant-Colonel Frederick S. Foltz, cavalry, and Major Jesse McI. Carter, cavalry.

WASHINGTON—Two hundred representatives of Atlantic coast navy yard employees found a sympathetic hearer in Secretary Daniels when they appeared at the navy department to submit various grievances.

The men complained about so-called "scientific" management systems, and the lack of uniformity in wage scales, and insisted that they should have representation on the wage boards of the various yards. The secretary promised to give careful consideration to all of the propositions presented.

The Pacific Branch of the United States military prison, at Alcatraz, has a new commanding officer in the person of Colonel C. M. Truitt, infantry, who has reached San Francisco from Fort Porter, New York, to relieve Colonel Robert C. Van Vliet, who, for several years, has been in command at Alcatraz. Colonel Van Vliet will at once go east to assume his new duties.

Leave of absence for one month, granted Captain G. de Grasse Catlin, is extended another month, and Captain Catlin will leave for Hawaii to join the Twenty-fifth infantry, sailing from San Francisco, August 5th.

Colonel William A. Nichols, chief of staff for the western department, who has been seriously ill for the last two weeks, is much better and is expected back at his desk within another fortnight.

The favors and place cards were carried out in the same color scheme, even to the bonbons and candies. Mrs. Appel is a newcomer in local service circles and promises to be a wonderful addition to society—both military and civilian. NEW COURSES ARE SCHOOLS OF CITY PLANNED AT PUNAHOU WILL CLOSE JUNE 27

Two new departments have been established at Punahou by plans which were last week adopted by the trustees at their regular meeting. Mrs. Agnes P. Driver has been engaged to teach physical culture in all the grades of the preparatory school and to selected classes from the college students. Mrs. Driver has had special training for this work at the Boston Physical Normal Training School, one of the best-known schools of the kind in the United States. She has been director of girls' sports at Punahou for years and in this position has aroused much interest in swimming and tennis.

President Griffiths has been considering this plan for a long time, for the need of physical instruction is plain, especially among girls. It is certain that its introduction at Punahou will meet with universal approval among parents, for the course will give training especially in breathing, posture and coordination, and will do much to correct bad physical faults which children so readily form. By beginning this instruction early and by continuing it through a period of years, it is certain that a marked improvement can be effected in the appearance and health of a large number of children.

In quite another field but of scarcely less interest to parents is the employment of a specially trained children's teacher of piano. Not a few parents desire their children to begin systems in the same way as a child might get in school by going first to kindergarten. In Miss Lillian G. Bowden, such a teacher has been engaged who, besides her general musical training at the Northwestern Conservatory and at the American Conservatory in Chicago, has especially prepared herself for this children's work. Classes will be formed in the fall when school opens as a part of the course of the college music department.

ENTERTAINMENT MOST ELABORATE AFFAIR

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
WAILUKU, Maui, June 18.—The Maunaloa Seminary entertainment of last Saturday evening was a musical event that was very greatly enjoyed by the large company of people present. The grounds were brilliantly lighted by the new electric system, and the house was also beautifully prepared with decorations for the festive occasion. The ladies of Paia, Haiku and Makawao sent in large donations of cakes and candy for the sale, and the girls had made a large quantity of beautiful lauhala work. The various tables netted handsomely. The ice cream and cake were liberally patronized, so that the sum realized was about $400.

The concert was all that could be desired. The girls did splendidly in their various parts, including the novel folk dances that were much appreciated. Miss Mills has had a great deal of praise for the excellent work her pupils did. The singing by Mrs. Jones and the cornet solo by Mr. Luf-

SCIENCE WILL BE USED ON THE OLA

The Olaa plantation will be managed upon a scientific basis under the supervision of C. F. Eckart, who has succeeded John Watt as manager of the plantation. This statement was made at the office of the Olaa plantation this morning, bearing out the prediction made at the time the services of Mr. Eckart were secured.
Mr. Watt is still at the plantation and will remain there for the balance of the month assisting Mr. Eckart. The plantation is said to be in excellent physical condition at this time. Fertilization, selection of cane, etc., are two of the points to which Mr. Eckart will devote a great deal of his time. A fertilizer is being used with a high percentage of nitrogen which is said to have produced good results.
Mr. Eckart, who was formerly at the head of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' experimental station, assumed the management of Olaa June 7.

Morning on Change

The drop of Hawaiian Pineapples two points since the last sale was the feature of the stock market this morning. Ten shares of it were sold, in two lots, at 38, with it being offered at 38.50 when the market closed. The bid was 37.50.

Between sessions Waialua was sold at a sharp decline, ten shares of it changing hands at 65, four points below its former sale price. In the other stocks traded the prices remained unchanged this morning, with the exception of Ewa which went at a point below Monday's sale, fifteen shares of it changing hands today, during the session, at 16.
Hawaiian Commercial and Oahu were the other two stocks sold, the latter between boards, at 14, the former during the session at 24.

MAUI NEWS

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
WAILUKU, Maui, June 18.—Captain O. J. Whitehead, who has been on Maui for over three years as agent of the Singer Sewing Machine, has been promoted to the Honolulu office, and from now on will have full charge of all the work concerning that company in these islands. Mrs. Whitehead and the two daughters, Alice and Sadie, left last week Wednesday for Honolulu. Mr. Whitehead will go down as soon as he can fully arrange the details of his business here.

Miss Clara Blanche Townsend, the popular kindergarten of Lahaina, whose engagement to William Lowrie Decoto was recently announced, was the recipient last Saturday afternoon of many beautiful pieces of linen at a linen shower given in her honor at the home of Mrs. John E. Gannon. The occasion was most delightful but came as a complete surprise to Miss Townsend. Fourteen ladies were present.

Mrs. H. B. Penhallow and Mrs. Captain D. P. R. Penhallow entertained the ladies of Wailuku at the manager's residence on Saturday afternoon, June 7. Nearly sixty ladies were present. The fun of the afternoon was the proper dressing of bottles and pipes into dolls. The cleverest dolls imaginable developed, much to the interest of their makers and all the guests. Miss Carrie E. Short and Mrs. Charles E. Copeland won first and second prizes. Miss Lurena Merriam won the prize for the most originality as she created a very winsome little Japanese lady out of her material.

SAYS AUSTRALIAN MEAT IMPORTATION A SUCCESS

When the liner Niagara sailed from here for Australia yesterday, it carried large orders for additional supplies of meat for C. Q. Yee Hop & Company, who announced in the Star-Bulletin yesterday that hereafter the company would import beef and mutton from the Antipodes. It is understood that slaughter houses of New Zealand as well as Australia will ship meats here to Yee Hop.

The article appearing in yesterday's Star-Bulletin relating to the independent buying in progress was confirmed this morning by George V. Jakins, to whom a representative of the Star-Bulletin was referred by Yee Hop, for an authoritative statement. The former is optimistic as to the success of the importation scheme, and expressed his pleasure at the good condition in which the meat arrived here. Within a short time, he said, with the opening of the new steamship lines, there can be no doubt but that the entire islands can receive fresh Australian and New Zealand meats.

REPORT CARRIES GREAT DEAL OF VERY VALUABLE INFORMATION

One of the most interesting reports issued lately is that of the Hawaii Agricultural Experiment Station, of which Dr. E. V. Wilcox is the special agent. The report covers the fiscal year of 1912, and in addition to detailing the work being done there, many interesting papers on subjects of interest to the sugar, fruit and vegetable growers are given, such as on the life of the fruit fly, the harm of the mosquito, a review of the pineapple industry.

It is quite a complete little book and will undoubtedly be read with interest by many persons here. Dr. Wilcox is the author of the first article, which is a summary of the investigations conducted by the station during the year, and in it he outlines the work planned by the station for the coming year as well as reviews that of the past.

In addition to his review, there is the report of the entomologist, horticulturist and assistant and chemist of the agronomist, report of the superintendent of the substations at Aiea and Glenwood, and of the rubber stations.

Probably the two articles of the most general interest are found in Dr. Wilcox's report, one being a review of the work of the entomologist, the other of the horticulturists. Below the given the two reports:

The chief efforts of the entomologist during the year were devoted to a study of the Mediterranean fruit fly, the cotton bollworm, the alfalfa beetle, and scale insects. The practical work in combating the Mediterranean fruit fly has been carried on under the auspices of the territorial government. The entomologist and the special agent in charge of this station, however, have been consulted and have taken part in all of the active measures which have been adopted. According to the present plan of the campaign the parasites of the Mediterranean fruit fly, and cotton bollworm, which it is hoped to obtain in Africa will be handled, bred, and distributed by the entomologist of this station. In addition to the usual breeding experiments to determine the variety of fruits affected by the Mediterranean fruit fly, considerable attention has been given to trapping and to the use of a poisoned spray in combating the fruit fly. A number of trips were also made to the Kona coffee district to ascertain the extent of infestation of coffee with fruit fly, the amount of damage actually done by the fly, and to initiate practical measures for controlling the prevalence of the pests in the coffee orchards.

Some attention was given to the study of the life histories and habits of the three species of mosquitoes which are known to occur in the territory. The immediate occasion for taking up this work was the fear of a possible outbreak of yellow fever on account of the occurrence of the yellow fever mosquito. It was soon found that the yellow fever mosquito was much less common than (Stegomyia) Aedes scutellaris, although the latter species was apparently introduced into Hawaii later than the yellow mosquito. Much useful information was collected regarding the habits of all three species of mosquitoes, particularly with reference to the situation under which the larvae breed.

The energies of the horticultural department have been devoted largely to the study of pineapples and methods of propagating the avocado, mango, papaya and hibiscus. The importance of the pineapple industry of Hawaii is growing greater day by day. The output of canned pineapples, which it was feared two years ago had almost reached the limit of the market for this product, has been greatly increased, and arrangements are now being made to nearly double the area devoted to pineapples. The demand for canned pineapples has taken all of the product which could be supplied and seems to warrant this great extension of the industry. Pineapples are second only to sugar cane in commercial importance in Hawaii. The quality of the product has remained uniform, owing to the fact that there are only two commercial varieties of pineapples in Hawaii and that these varieties are of quite similar nature. Recent observations, however, indicate that these varieties have become mixed on nearly all of the plantations and that one of them is decidedly inferior to the other. The inferior variety apparently came from Queensland, while the superior one is apparently the true Smooth Cayenne. The growers are gradually eliminating the less desirable variety. A press bulletin covering the various cultural and marketing features of pineapples was published during the year. Continuation of experiments in methods of propagating the avocado and mango has developed the fact that these fruits may be inarched or budded almost with as much facility as is known to be the case with fruits of temperate climates.

The difficulties which had hitherto made the propagation of superior varieties of avocados and mangoes uncertain are rapidly disappearing. Similarly with papayas there is a good prospect now that strains of seed may be obtained which will show almost a complete uniformity in product. Hitherto this has been far from the actual state of affairs. Much seed obtained by the method of crossing male and female flowers showed a variation which was difficult to control and the products of which could not in any case be predicted. On account of the restrictions placed on bananas by the recent California quarantine law, it has been found necessary to take up in a systematic manner the methods of packing which promise to make possible the shipment of bananas to California without danger from scale insects and without injury to the bananas. At present it is hoped that the cooperation of the steamship companies can be obtained in furnishing facilities for shipping bananas without any packing around the bunches.

NORMAL TRAINING SYSTEMS ARE EXHIBITED

A graphic presentation of notable normal training systems of the United States and abroad was given this morning at the Territorial Normal School as a feature of the school's annual commencement exercises. With many visitors present and showing a deep interest, teachers, cadets and pupils took part in an informal but striking exemplification of various systems used to train the cadets for their future profession.

Each room in the building showed either some system of variation, or else part of the local normal work. For instance, in the first grade room the regular year of work of the Normal school here was shown. In the second grade room the plan of the Bridgewater (Mass.) school showed two teachers, each giving instruction to her half of the room. In the third grade room the plan of the Lausanne (Switzerland) school was shown. Here the monitorial system is used, the pupils being divided into groups with a cadet teaching each group.

Various other systems were shown and each proved of much interest to the visitors, who went from one room to another under the guidance of Principal Edgar Wood and the teachers.

The school kitchen was in full blast, and Miss J. M. Waite's domestic science department was one that attracted much favorable comment, the girls being shown preparing the regular school luncheon, which is served at a price that hits a direct blow at the high cost of living. The manual department was shown, with boys and girls at work on pieces of furniture that will be sold. Both of these departments are more than self-sustaining. The dressmaking and millinery department was another revelation, articles of wearing apparel being made at a surprisingly low cost. The familiar but always-faded story of Umi was told graphically in Miss L. G. Marshall's room illustrated by school students who drew on the blackboard as the story progressed.

Thirty-seven pupils will be graduated from the Normal school this year and the success of the school in training for teaching is attested by the fact that all of the graduates found employment in the department myia) Aedes scutellaris, although the latter species was apparently introduced into Hawaii later than the yellow mosquito. Much useful information was collected regarding the habits of all three species of mosquitoes, particularly with reference to the situation under which the larvae breed.

The energies of the horticultural department have been devoted largely to the study of pineapples and methods of propagating the avocado, mango, papaya and hibiscus. The importance of the pineapple industry of Hawaii is growing greater day by day. The output of canned pineapples, which it was feared two years ago had almost reached the limit of the market for this product, has been greatly increased, and arrangements are now being made to nearly double the area devoted to pineapples. The demand for canned pineapples has taken all of the product which could be supplied and seems to warrant this great extension of the industry. Pineapples are second only to sugar cane in commercial importance in Hawaii. The quality of the product has remained uniform, owing to the fact that there are only two commercial varieties of pineapples in Hawaii and that these varieties are of quite similar nature. Recent observations, however, indicate that these varieties have become mixed on nearly all of the plantations and that one of them is decidedly inferior to the other. The inferior variety apparently came from Queensland, while the superior one is apparently the true Smooth Cayenne. The growers are gradually eliminating the less desirable variety. A press bulletin covering the various cultural and marketing features of pineapples was published during the year. Continuation of experiments in methods of propagating the avocado and mango has developed the fact that these fruits may be inarched or budded almost with as much facility as is known to be the case with fruits of temperate climates.

The difficulties which had hitherto made the propagation of superior varieties of avocados and mangoes uncertain are rapidly disappearing. Similarly with papayas there is a good prospect now that strains of seed may be obtained which will show almost a complete uniformity in product. Hitherto this has been far from the actual state of affairs. Much seed obtained by the method of crossing male and female flowers showed a variation which was difficult to control and the products of which could not in any case be predicted. On account of the restrictions placed on bananas by the recent California quarantine law, it has been found necessary to take up in a systematic manner the methods of packing which promise to make possible the shipment of bananas to California without danger from scale insects and without injury to the bananas. At present it is hoped that the cooperation of the steamship companies can be obtained in furnishing facilities for shipping bananas without any packing around the bunches.

MILNE WILL MAKE RESTITUTION OF SEWING MACHINE

H. A. Milne was placed under arrest yesterday charged with having disposed of a sewing machine, alleged as the property of another. Milne was represented by Attorney Quinn when arraigned at district court this morning. The defendant has promised the police that he will take steps to recover the machine, and with that end in view, he was released on bond while the case has been postponed until tomorrow. The machine is said to have been the property of a widow who endeavored to gain a livelihood by its use for herself and family.

GOES TO HOSPITAL WITH BROKEN LEG

Lum Kum, a Chinese employed at the railway wharf in the loading of cars with lumber, was sent to the hospital today, suffering from a broken leg and other injuries. The man is reported to have been knocked from a car by a passing train. In pulling the lumber the Chinese leaned too far over the side and was violently thrown to the wharf in the collision.

LIEUTENANT O'HARA WILL RETURN HERE WITH BRIDE

Bridesmaid Steals a March

When Lieut. Edward J. O'Hara, coast artillery corps, returns to Oahu on the July transport, after a month's leave, he will be accompanied by his bride, who was Miss Gladys Cronan, of San Francisco, Lieutenant O'Hara, who is attached to the 10th company, stationed at Fort De Russy, is to be married in San Francisco, June 23, and his flying trip to the Coast to claim his fiancée has been made the ground-work for quite a romantic tale in the California metropolis.

To begin with Miss Marie Irene Smith, who was to have been one of the bridesmaids, stole a march on the bride by eloping the day that Lieut. O'Hara arrived. This brought the military wedding more than ever into general notice.

The San Francisco Bulletin of June 10 says:

"Where the happiness of two young people is at stake a little thing like an army regulation can hardly be expected to serve as a barrier."

This was proved this morning when the U. S. transport Thomas arrived from Honolulu bearing Lieut. Edw. Joseph O'Hara, whose wedding to Miss Gladys Cronan of this city is set for June 23. The young officer had to secure special permission to cross the sea to claim his bride and must return on the first transport leaving here in July.

Lieutenant O'Hara was first assigned to the Presidio in San Francisco several months ago, but he had effect that no leaves of absence were granted before an order came that necessitated his departure for Fort De Russy, Honolulu.

Miss Gladys Cronan, who will be claimed as bride by Lieutenant Edward J. O'Hara.

"Before his leave-taking the officer proposed and was accepted by Miss Cronan and the formal announcement of their engagement was made while the transport was on its way to the islands. By cable the wedding day was set for June 23.

"Then the Japanese agitation occurred and the government began issuing new orders to the commanders at Honolulu. One of these was to the effect that no leaves of absence were to be granted.

"The ruling was received in silence by Lieut. O'Hara, but at the same time he determined upon heroic measures.

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS FIELD DAY PROVES MOST POPULAR EVENT

about the time and considering the ground this man's speed will do stunts for him on a cinder track. Private Mitchell, Company B, Twenty-fifth Infantry, and Private Hummel of the Third Battalion, First Infantry, finished one-fifth and two-fifths better the winner.

The tug of war, first heat between the Cavalry and Artillery went to the Cavalry in an easy pull. The Cavalry had a particularly husky bunch of men and all of them man for man heavier than the wagon-soldier team. The second heat between the two infantry regiments was won by the First Infantry with ridiculous ease. The Twenty-fifth were all to the good size but the First took to the event with a pull and the event lasted perhaps fifteen seconds. In the final of the tug of war, the First dropped on the Cavalry and held them about six inches beyond the stake for the time limit. The Infantry team showed great form and careful training was evident from the crack of the pistol. The prize for this event was a silver cup.

The retreating sharpshooters' race requiring each contestant to advance fifty yards and there to assemble the bolt of his rifle, to load and retire to the rear, to fire a shot at five firing points, was won by Private Roberts of F Troop, Fourth Cavalry, in forty-six seconds. Private Therbault, Company I, First Infantry, and Private Booker, Company F, Twenty-fifth Infantry, were second and third with forty-eight and fifty-one seconds.

He reasoned that there must be some kind-hearted superior who would come to his rescue. Upon his representation that he would make a hurried trip to the Coast and then return, he finally secured the consent of the officer in charge at Honolulu.

"It was about this time that the Thomas was dispatched on a special trip to Hawaii, and so arrangements were completed for O'Hara's passage.

Upon the troopship's arrival work of unloading was rushed so that the steamer might depart two days later.

"O'Hara boarded the transport a few minutes before its departure, and was at the rail to greet his fiancée at the army docks when the big white steamer swung alongside at 9 o'clock.

"A happy reunion followed when Miss Cronan and a party of friends surrounded the officer on the wharf.

"The marriage will take place at the Holy Cross Church and the couple will make a short honeymoon trip to Southern California."

Mule Gets Stage Fright

The machine gun contest between gun squads from each of the platoons of the two infantry and the cavalry regiments won by the Twenty-fifth in twenty-seven and two-fifths seconds. The First Infantry squad were first to get away on the one hundred yards run but unfortunately it halted about twenty yards short of the firing line and was obliged to pack the gun to the line to load and fire and then to cover the same distance in returning. The Twenty-fifth Infantry had hitched fortune to a gray mule reputed to be faster than the little bay mule that ran such a pretty race last February in Honolulu during the carnival but he had a bad attack of stage fright and was so bashful on the return to the start that he delayed the game so long that the First Infantry nearly recovered their handicap and the gray mule reluctantly won by a bare three-fourths of a second. The Cavalry experienced considerable trouble in closing the gun boot and trailed thirty-six seconds.

The mounted fencing between five mounted men of the Cavalry and three of the Artillery in three heats was one of the prettiest events of the day and the fencing was conducted with far more skill than is usually found among soldier contestants. The heats finally brought together for the finals, best three out of five points, Corporal Bloom, F. Battery, First Artillery, and First Sergeant Latimer, Troop I, Fourth Cavalry, and the bout was won by the latter.

The shot put brought out about all the huskies of the garrison, showing varying degrees of skill. After elimination the contest stood between Sergeant Kidd, Company I, First Infantry, Battalion, Sergeant Major Broadus, Twenty-fifth Infantry, and Sergeant Morgan, Company F, Twenty-fifth Infantry. They finished in this order—Kidd making forty feet and six and one-half inches, Sergeant Major Broadus putting thirty-eight feet nine and one-half inches, while Sergeant Morgan contented himself with thirty-seven feet.

Among the entries for the rescue race, a mounted event, was a team from the regimental detachment of the First Infantry and if the Twenty-fifth had mounts they would have entered a team. This marks an invasion of events heretofore considered as the sole possession of mounted organizations. The Infantry team was far from the money today. The winning Cavalry team consisted of Sergeant Ruffy and Private Wyatt, both of Troop B, Fourth Cavalry, who won in thirty-one and four-fifths seconds. Pushing this team closely was the Troop team, Sergeant Wend, mounted, with Trumpeter Harris for team mate. It finished a fifth of a second behind. The Artillery made third place, the team from E Battery—Corporal Leone and Private Jensen—finishing close on the heels of the leaders.

Some Skillful Driving

The Carrying Wounded Contest for teams of three from the hospital corps was won by Privates (1st class) Bailey and Murray and Private Koch, in 1 minute 6 seconds. The prizes were three gold medals.

The stake-driving contest, a time event, for a gun team from each of the three batteries of artillery, was won in fast time by F Battery in 59.1-5 seconds. D Battery followed in 53 seconds and E Battery trailed with 59.1-5 plus 2 penalties of 5 seconds each, bringing their time up to 65.1-5 seconds. The conditions of this driving contest require that a gun team of four horses be driven through three squares marked off on the ground by pegs, the diagonals of the squares being ten feet long and the squares being 50 yards apart. The team is driven through the center square, is turned to the right to cross through one of the end squares, a circle made to bring the team across the other two sides of the same square and back through the center square and continued through the other end of the course, finishing at the center square.

The bare margin of space between wheels makes the driving a matter of considerable skill. The winning team made the circuit without touching a peg and with no wheels without the squares. Prize for this race is a silver cup, to be won three times to obtain permanent possession.

The wall-scaling contest over a wall 12 feet high, by teams of forty-eight men and two officers from each regiment was won by the cavalry team in the very fast time of 1 minute 8.3-5 seconds. The First Infantry was in second, the second money and the Twenty-fifth trailed. Time for these teams being 1 minute and 14 seconds and 2 minutes flat respectively. The prize is a silver cup.

Main Event of Day

The main event of the day was the flag relay race, an event entirely new in its present form or even under the conditions under which the Twenty-fifth have run it for several years past. The contestants were the several battalions of the garrison, each organization entering as many men as it chose and electing also the distance each should run. An immense amount of preparation was entailed by the decision of the managing officials deciding that the number of participants from each battalion should be decided before the race and the distance to be covered by each and the position of each marked in lime on the track. It is understood that as run by the Twenty-fifth Infantry formerly there were no conditions determining where the flag should be passed or how. Today's race required that the flag be passed within the marked quadrangle of five yards by ten yards. The

SAM MUST HAVE LEARNED ENGLISH FROM A PARROT

Sam Lang has a terrible kick. Everything has gone wrong for Sam, it seems, and his aloha for Mayor Fern has vanished. It would be inconceivable not to let Sam tell his trouble in his own words, as contained in a letter to the chief executive just received. Says the letter written in Lang's wrathful hand:

"Dear Mayor: You got lot nerve not tell road man fix my street. Damn it."

"Sincerely yours,"

strength of the teams varied from 33 men of the artillery team with each man down to cover 220 yards, to the team of the second battalion of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, which won the race with 64 men, each man required to run the distance best suited to him, determined after careful study. The race gets its name not only from the marking flag which is carried throughout the race, changing hands as the race progresses, as the buck is passed in any relay race over smaller distances, and also because each contestant carries a flag of the color of his battalion to guide the runner coming toward him. The scene when 500 or more contestants had taken their places was certainly pretty. The cavalry carried small yellow flags, the First Infantry flags of white, the Twenty-fifth Infantry blue and the Artillery battalion red. The number of each battalion or squadron was stamped on the flag. The race was won in 10 minutes 45.2-5 seconds. The Twenty-fifth officers say that this battalion drew an unusually large number of very speedy recruits in the bunch that came the first of the month and that the team was to a great extent a recruit team. Whatever its composition it was undoubtedly speedy.

The third battalion of this regiment crossed the finish second in 11 minutes 10 seconds, but was disqualified when it was found that one of the runners had run twice in the race. Scott, the well-known ball-player, made this blunder, but it is said in his defense that running twice or more times has been allowed in prior flag relay races of his regiment. The second place went to the first battalion.

That's all right. I forget. Charley tell me you not going to run again. So you needn't read this damn letter.

"That's all right. I forget. Charley tell me you not going to run again. So you needn't read this damn letter."

The events were under the immediate supervision of Major Frazier, First Infantry, and the success of the meet was due to his efforts.

There seems to be a general regret throughout the garrison that there were so few bona fide athletic events and it is believed that pressure will be brought to bear to provide more of these at the next meet.

The Sequoia and the General Grant national parks are to have a new superintendent in the person of First Lieutenant Hugh S. Johnson, 1st cavalry, President of San Francisco, effective July 1st. Lieutenant Johnson will relieve from such duty Captain Douglas McCaskey, 1st cavalry. Captain McCaskey is under orders to proceed to Hawaii for duty with the cavalry in the Hawaiian department.

SEATTLE—The armored cruiser Maryland sailed for Alaska June 10 to complete the tests of Alaska coast begun last year and interrupted when the vessel was hurried south under rush orders to take Secretary of State Knox to Japan to attend the Emperor's funeral. Eight hundred tons of Bering river coal have been mined and transported to Controller bay for use in the tests.
