What is Heaven?" I asked a little child, All joy?" and in her innecence she smiled. I asked the aged, with her care oppressed; - All suffering aler, old Heaven at last, is rest asked a maiden, mock and tender-ered;
It coust be love?" She modestly replied I asked the artist, who adored his art; "Heaven is all beauty?" spoke his raptured heart. I asked the post, with his soul afte; "The glory-glory!" and he struck his lyre. I asked the Christian, waiting her release; A halo round her, low she murmured; " Peace So all may look with hopeful eyes above.

"The beauty, glory, joy, rest, peace and love!"

Discretion of speech is more than elo-quence, and to speak agreeably to him with whom we deal is more than to speak in good words, or in good order. Last year's immigration to the United States is less than that of 1883 by over 100,000. Much of the pauper labor of Europe evidently prefers to stay at home. It is a curious fact that the looms used in the manufacture of silk in New Jersey are almost fac-similes of those employed for the same purpose in India and China. "You can't add different things together," said an Austin school teacher; "if you add a sheep and a cow together, it does not make two sheeps or two cows." A little boy, the son of a Texas milkman, held up his hand and said: "That may do with sheep and cows, but if you add a quart of water and a quart of milk, it makes two quarts of milk, I've seen it tread."

Some of the researches lately made by English explorers in regard to deep sea beds have led to the belief that there are no rough ridges, abrupt chasms nor bare rock, and that the sea bottom at great depths is not affected by currents or even by those of the magnitude of the Gulf Stream—its general appear ance rather resembling that of the American prairies, and it is everywhere covered by a kind of mud.

Speaking of the supposed poisonous properties of aniline dyes the British Medical Journal states that since the arsenic acid process of their manufacture has y a kind of mud. such as fuchsine. Hofman's violet, Nichol-son's blue and the marcons and browns have never produced undoubted injurious

A sarcophagus with four face urns habeen recently found at Garxigar, near Koslin (Pomerania), and has been sent to the Antiquarian Museum of the Pomerania Antiquarian Society at Stettin. A similar Antiquarian Society at Stettin. A similar discovery was made last year at Klein Barkow (another Pomeranian village.) Round one of the urns was placed a bronze necklace, consisting of a stout bronze wire supporting eight so-called spectacle-spinals as ornaments. Prof. Berndt has proved in his work on Pomeranian face-turns that they are really of Greek origin, dating from about the year 100 or 200 R.C., when Greek agents or factors went to live on the shores of the Baltic in order to trade with their home country in amber, furs, etc. Prof. Lindenschmidt (Mayence) and Dr. Schliemann indorse this opinion.

"She has suggestion of the brain, mixed up with ammonia," was the description of "case" as given by our washer-woman. Many a poor woman thinks she can do nothing without a husband; and when she gets one, finds she can do nothing with Discretion of speech is more than elo-mence, and to speak agreeably to him with whom we deal is more than to speak in good words, or in good order.

Last year's immigration to the United states is less than that of 1883 by over 100,000. Much of the pauper labor of Europe evidently prefers to stay at home. It is a curious fact that the looms used in the manufacture of silk in New Jersey are almost fac-similes of those employed for the same purpose in India and China In London an electric light has been used to illuminate the interior of an oven. The door was of plate glass, and every part of the process of baking could be

The Duke of Mariborough has sold his Raphael, the pride of his ancestral house, for three hundred thousand dollars, the money to be paid when Parliament meets

If you put soda in the water with which you are to wash windows, you will find that finger-marks, putty-stains, etc., will be much more easily removed than if clean water alone is used.

To make good starch, mix with cold water and add boiling water until it thick-ens; then add a dessert spoonful of sugar and a small piece of butter. This makes a stiff and glossy finish equal to new. Pleasure is a silken cord composed of exquisite cobwebs, and floods of rich sungive it a beautiful hue. Duty is a golden rope, which once thrown over our necks, leads up unwillingly where plea-sure is obliged to follow. While our country is supposed to be nearly free from earthquakes no less than 361 shocks were recorded in the United States and Canada in the twelve years ending with 1883. This is an average of about one in every twelve days. They came very near securing a east schoolma'am to teach a little school Kansas, but when the committee told her that it was on the "bare prairie," she screamed and said she couldn't think of going to such an immodest place. Sir Henry Bessemer has announce that, by the use of a very pure charcoal pig-iron and its treatment by a special method, a Bessemer steel is produced which on analysis is found equal in purity to the highest brands of steel made from distered bars. "Can dogs find their way home from a long distance!" asks an exchange. It's according to the dog. If it's one you want to get rid of, he can find his way back from California. If it's good one, he's apt to get lost if he goes around the Before the Linnean Society, of London Mr. A. Taylor has sought to prove that plants have a dim sort of intelligence, and are able, at lowly-organized animals. One proof of this, is the plant's avoidance of obstacles—placed artificially in their way —by bending aside before touching.

Grehant and Quinquand say that sub-utaneous injections of increasing doses of aqueous solutions of pure urea invaria-bly terminated in tetanic convulsions and death. The convulsions resembled those produced by strychnine, and were followed by death in the course of from one to ten

A vain man's motto is: "Win gold and wear it;" a generous man's: "Win gold wear it;" a generous man's: "Win gold and share it;" a miser's: "Win gold and and share it; a miser's: "Win gold and spare it;" a profligate's: "Win gold and spend it;" a broker's: "Win gold and lend it;" a fool's: "Win gold and end it;" a gambler's: "Win gold and lose it;" a wise man's: "Win gold and use it."

"You can't add different things together," said an Austin school teacher; "if you add a sheep and a cow together, it does not make two sheeps or two cows." A little boy, the son of a Texas milkman, held up his hand and said: "That may do with sheep and cows, but if you add a quart of water and a quart of milk, i makes two quarts of milk; I've seen

Some of the researches lately made by English explorers in regard to deep-sea beds have led to the belief that there are no rough ridges abrupt chasms nor bare rock, and that the sea bottom at great depths is not affected by currents or streams—even by those of the magnitude of the Gulf Stream—its general appearance rather resembling that of the American prairies, and it is everywhere covered by a kind of mud.

Speaking of the supposed poisanous properties of aniline dyes the British Medical Journal states that since the arsenic acid process of their manufacture has been suspended the ordinary anilines, been suspended the ordinary anilines, been suspended the ordinary anilines, such as fuchsine, Hofman's violet, Richolson's blue and the maroons and browns have never produced undoubted injurious effects. The injury caused by hosiery dyed with aniline has been traceable to the use of metallic mechanis.

Form-blindness, or an inability to clearly present forms and outlines.

by perceive forms and outlines, is a new defect that has been discovered by a New York artist, who says he has sometimes placed objects in the shape of hexagons, or octagons, or decagons or even so conmore a shape as a pentagon or five pointed star before certain pupils as a test, and al-most invariably they were unable to dis-tinguish one form from another, even when with careful distinction the differ-ences were explained to them.

A sarcophagus with four face urns has een recently found at Garzigar, near Kos lin (Pemerania), and has been sent to the Antsquarian Museum of the Pomeranian Antiquarian Society at Statin. A similar discovery was made last year at Klein Barkow (another Pomeranian village.) Bound one of the urns was placed a bronze necklace, consisting of a stout bronze wire supporting eight so-called specialcie-spinals as ornaments. Prof. Berndt has proved in his work on Pomeranian face urns that they are really of Greek or yin, dating from about the year 100 or 200 KC, when Grock agents or factors went to live on the shores of the Baltic in order to trade with their home country in amber, furs, etc. Prof. Lindenschmidt (Mayence) and Dr. Schliemann indorse this opinion. in (Pomerania), and has been sent to the SHIPPING AND COMMISSION MERCHANTS Dealers in Ceneral Merchandise The Kohala Sugar Co.

If the partisans, "political" editors, the Chamber of Commerce, Planters' Comsany, lawyers, all in fact who now clamo for gold, or are consiving with those who do so, were banished from the realm and enced to transportation for life by this trip of the Maripess, the "equilibrium" would be as far off as ever. It would do no good to make it a penal offense to say that there is too much silver, and too little gold for the currency law. Even the pas-sage of Resolutions of confidence, and the publishing of Ministerial Declarations will ment will meet its obligations, and pay its gold certificates in gold, because the Treas ury has placed silver coin and 16 per cent over on special deposit to meet these pay ments, why not as well begin to-day to pay out? We venture the prediction that there would be patriotism enough to take ever ten per cent over in silver coin, and so re lieve the Government of all further anxiety ve its willingness to redeem those certificates.

When it is demonstrated that a country gave an outline of the life and achieve ments of Maj. Gen Charles Gordon, C. B. of the Royal Engineers, that little remains to be added, but of the last few months of his career. It may be remembered that the Khedive of Egypt, Ismail Pasha was removed by the joint action of Western Europe and Tewfik put in his place, it thus became incumbent on the same powers to uphold the authority of their neminee. This being assailed by a military rebellion under Arabi Bey, England alone, the other powers having refused to act, put down the rebellion and at the same time required Tewfik, to withdraw his troops and officials from the Sondan and hand over the country to its own chosen rulers. It was believed that Gordon alone, if present in person, would effect this. He undertook the task at a few hours notice and with one comrade, Col. see rulers. It was believed that Gordon alone, if present in person, would effect this. He undertook the task at a few hours notice and with one comrade. Col. Stewart, murdered, made his way to Khartoum, where he at once put down the crucilty and injustice of the Egyptian officials and succeeded in withdrawing a few thousand civilians, women and children. He was soon, however, besieged by the forces of the Mahdi. Against enemies without and traitors within he held his own until January 27th, then almost within reach of a British rescaing expedition when the crowning act of treachery delivered the city and its defenders, and remaining non-combatants to the Mahdi, by whose officers they were butchered. In his, latest dispatches Gordon resents the idea that he was the object of the relieving force, but that it was the garrison and traders left in the territory to be abandoned. He and they have perished together, betrayed, it is said, by a man whom Gordon had released from a drove of slaves and had gradually raised to a position of trust. The final acts in this terrible dramn have yet to be developed.

"Traits in Scottish Character." It was remarkably entertaining, as well as in-structive. Now why did that large audience listen with such interest, and rise after the address was over, with a satisfied condition of giving some $55,000 to her counsel to pay them for abusing him, and $2,500 a month to the woman to solace her for her misplaced affections.

The artificial scarcity of silver is one move, but there is a threat abroad that if this community be not subservient another move wiff be resorted to; the Legislature may be called together and the gold law abolished. This is what, in their innost hearts, the men now in power think is their strong card; they mean to try and terrorize the community.

It is but a very poor move.

Our people are not quite fools. A man would come in to buy: if he tendered gold he would get what he wanted for say $5, if silver for $6. You cannot make a comformal property of the mean of the ment of the manual come. The lepers were discharged. Why were they discharged. There is a mice point of honor about this matter, apart from its terrible significance. Who has told the true story. "The King and on the would get what he wanted for say $5, if silver for $6. nity By laying aside such denominations of By laying aside such denominations of money as dollars, pounds and francs, and using in their place a uniform system of weights of gold and silver of uniform fine-ness, a clearer understanding may be reached concerning the nature and functions of coined money. Instead of expressing values as we now do, we should then speak of grains, pennyweights, ounces and pounds of gold or silver of a certain fine silver can always and everywhere be ex-changed for 412 grains of silver, if in the same form. But such exchanges would never be made, for the absence of motive for making them. If the same weight of silver were made into plates, it would be exchangeable for a larger amount of bar silver, or (if the silver were coined at pubhic expense) of coined silver.

An ounce of gold of 18 carats fine if made at some expense into jewelry can be exchanged for more than an ounce of gold oined at no expense to its owner. In each ase however, the idea of actual value exists as much as if does in ordinary barter or interchange of things. People barter or trade from reasons of mutual convenence and preference. A yoke of oxen is given in exchange for one hundred dollars, because the owner of the oxen prefers, or needs a horse perhaps, which he can get for the dollars. The coin may be said to meas are or in one sense represent the value of the oxen and the horse, but it must have the oxen and the horse, but it must have actual intrinsic value, as well as a measuring quality. If it were not for this, paper money would be as good as gold, a certificate that the oxen weigh one thousand pounds each, for which paper the signer is always ready to give a fresh certificate to the same effect, would be as good as anything, if the world could be brought to place any value on such papers. Money must either have value in itself, like coined gold and silver, or else (like some bills and notes) be certainly exchangeable at a fixed time for things of value. As promises are sometimes broken, and those who make them die, coined money after all is usually preferred. Gold and silver have a gener lly and a uniformly understood and ac pted value, are obtainable from the earth with neither too great nor too little difficulty, in sufficient quantities, and there-fore have thus far proved to be the most onvenient medium with which to trade or

Why is silver required to be used at all then, even for a subsidiary coin? We know no reason for this, except for the purpose of utilizing the silver mine products of the country which legalizes silver coin, and because it is more convenient than gold for small change.

In this country we have no silver mines if they could be made to depend on pertowork off, and there is no reason for have the same purchasing power with gold, and gold will freely circulate. All that is needed is to start right. It is the first step which costs, but the sconer it is taken, the less it costs, and the less will be the depression in business.

It is foolish to discuss such matters as if they could be made to depend on personal or partizan likes or dislikes. They

But the real reason why gold is by some deemed to be expensive, is that people send it away, or do not put it in circulation, (which is practically the same thing as sending it away) while they circulate. Such being of our, people in future is something I need not stop to prove. It is self-evident almost as an axion in mathematics. could deny so plain and obvious proposition, argument would be wasted.

Such being the case, we turn naturally to the figures of the recent census to see what measure of encouragement or the reverse may be derived therefrom. Having given the matter somewhat serful and I trust candid consideration, I find syself unable to draw from the statistics in question quite as much encouragement as our genial and optimistic Postmaster-General expresses in the last number of the Planter's Manthly. It is pleasant to prophesy smooth things, but with every disposition to look on the bright side, I cannot, after comparing the present figures with those of zix years ago, share his hopeful conclusions. The whole thing so far as the census is concerned, lies in a nut-shell. The pertinent question is not how many families there are in the country, but what ratio they bear to the whole population; not how much their number has increased in a given time, but how that increase seing in this country any legitimate good of have cheap silver; it would do no one may possible harm if a gold currency were in full circulation. Instead of the latter seing undesirable on account of its value or expense, it is the most to be desired, for all reasons. Its value is permanent and world wide.

When it is demonstrated that a country can prosper better by having clipped corns because they are of less value, are less expensive than unclipped coins—then it can be admitted that a gold currency is can be admitted that a gold currency is country. but what ratio they bear to the whote opportunities, and they bear to the whote opportunities, and they bear to the whote population; not how much their number of the expensive in the other sex. If the existing disparity is an svil, then only according as the statistics show that disparity to be diminishing can they be regarded as affording any ground or encouragement. Now what are the facts?

It is true that since 1878 there has been an increase of 17,436 in the total number of females, but it is also true that in the same time there has been an increase of 17,436 in the total number of females, but it is also true that in the same time there has been an increase of 17,436 in the total number of females, but it is also true that in the same time there has been an increase of 17,436 in the total number of females, but it is also true that in the same time there has been an increase of 17,436 in the total number of females, but it is also true that in the same time there has been an increase of 17,436 in the total number of females, but it is also true that in the same time there has been an increase of 17,436 in the total number of females, but it is also true that in the same time there has been an increase of 17,436 in the total number of females, but it is also true that in the same time there has been an increase of 17,436 in the total number of females, but it is also true that in the same time the population; and the contraction of the other sex. Under the head of other fereigners are included the Hawaiian born children of pure foreign parentage. These in 1876 numbered 947 and have since increased to 2,000, but as the sexes in this class are almost evenly divided, they do not materially affect the matter how under consideration. Reducing the above figures to purcentages we obtain the following results. The natives have decreased 9,24 per cent, the proportion of decrease among the females being a fittle greater than among the males, viz 10,05 per cent, of the former and 8,05 per cent, of the former and 8,05 per cent, of the former against the matter, viz 24,05 per cent, of the former against 22,53 per cent of the latter. The half-states have increased 23,33 per cent, to find former against 22,53 per cent of the latter. Although the half-castes have given the mattives have lost, their total numbers are so much less that the net result of the changes in both chasses is an actual loss of 3,276, being equal to 6,80 per cent, on the combined native and half-castes remains very nearly wint it was six years ago, what little change has taken place being in the wrong direction, the excess of males over females having increased from 5,74 per cent, to 6,80 per cent. Turning now from the Hawaiians to the Chinese, we find this element to have grown in six years from 5,916 to 17,389, being an increase of no less than 28,22 per cent, of which increase only 6,32 per cent were females. Of short eighteen thousand Chinese who are reported by the census as being in the country at the present time, over 25 per cent are males, and the significance of this fact will be still better understood when it is remembered that these are nearly all adults and montly in the prime of life. If the facts concerning the natives and half-castes afford us but slight ground for congratulation, what shall we say of the influr in sin years of a number of Chinese who are reported by the census as being in the sation for the last six years of the government. The Census of 1884

Entron Garrize:—As the taking of a census of a nation involves quite a considerable outlay of money it is but just that we should have something valuable in the way of statistics for the expenditure. The census of Great Britain and Ireland of 1871, cost the Government nearly 3% cents per capits of oppulation. The census of the Hawnian Islands for 1884, showing but a population of 89,578, could not be laken for so low a rate, but we arpect it will not cost more than 5 cents per capita or $4,534.63. That of Great Britain and Ireland athibited an amount of information valuable for reference for all future ages. This will show merely the names, age, set, birthplace, occupation, religion and education. That was taken by a corps of competent men, selected for their attainments and reliability. This was done principally by those "in accord with the Government," or without the slightest regard for their reliability or situess, or conversancy with numbers. That was a consument in the archieves of the nation and which will be quoted in all the coming ages. This has already shown its arroneousness and worse than valuelessness.

A census is one of those structures from which if a part be withdrawn the whole superstructure falls. There are many flaws in this census of 1884, but we have not room nor time to expose them all, but will note some of its peculiarities.

The census by efection districts has a huge flaw.

falls. There are many flaws in this census of 1881 but we have not room nor time to expose them all but will note some of its peculiarities.

The census by effection districts has a huge flaw in it, in that the entire election district of Kannapall is left out. Keloa and Lihue are but on election district, we we find it split in two in the census by election districts.

The most glaring fault we find in the census any given to the public is that it portends to show that 50 per cent of souls on the Islands over 6 years of agare capable of reading and writing. It is a sham such a statement should go abroad when we know the contrary to be the truth. But a small per centage of the Chinese cannot rend and write. O the Portuguess there is a larger percentage but i would not amount to 50 per cent. Then from whence comes this great histars? Judging by the Kona Districts on Hawaii where the proportion on affives is largest we find that 66 per cent of all inhabitants over six years of age are capable of writing and reading so it cannot be amongs the native population that this grand lifteracy if ound. In glancing over the figures we find that the district of Mau with a total population of 3.03 there are reported. Most only who are irreficious in reading and writing. So Makawao "takes the hakery" for illiterates and the Honorable Kannaket was the census takes of that district. He renort $12 Chinese in the district who are accomplished it those branches.

With its population of 500 it is onght to hay hose branches.
With its population of 5703 it ought with its population of 500 it ought to hav more representatives than one as Lahaina with it 2500 has two, but judging from its illiteracy it has representatives enough and sent a representative enough and sent a representative man. Let us passa hat and raise funds for school for Makawao. We will guarantee that Haiku Hamakuspoko, Paia and Grove Ranch can produce more than 145 men who can read and writ without going over the balance of that large district. Surely all your readers are convinced tha here is a grand error. If one is so quickly pointe out how many could be found by scanning the figures from each district. Then of what value can such a statement of errors be for future reference? This district we know to be one that he been particularly neglected by the President at the Board of Education as we have seen childre and teacher crosping into the basement of a saturdoned sugar mill amongst cock-roaches at molasses in their great desire to acquire it above mentioned accomplishments, the Board haing failed, to provide a house for a school althout frequently solicited to do so.

Again in Makawao, we note the peculiarity the of all males over 15 years of age there are melanics, agriculturalists, contract laborers at those of other occupations 1812 and there are 7 not accounted for or who are ilders supported the workers. Makawao, you have indeed a hereof, and either you or your Honorable cens taker needs a thorough reform. If the census we true and we are glad to say it is not even an a proximation to the truth we could draw an ingures as the following from its statistics: of a habitants under 15 years years of age to a care females, but of over 15 years 31 per cent. on Testimony to Iron Filter Presses Imported by H. Hackfeld & Co.

It is the second season this Press has been in us onnection with the Labaina Mill, and is proving real success. I estimate the saving at about 5 per ent, of the crop. The many advantages the Press-are over the wooden ones in use on these labands are a follows: They are much stronger, being able to and a pressure of 100 pounds of steam, the skill therefore fureed through much aniches and a ame has a separate outlet, it is not necessary to a orking the Press altogether should one Press be leaking, it is sufficient to stop the overflow of the leaking frame. The Presseloths can be change much quicker, as no senting is required. The Prewill last forever, it can pewer get out of order Lahaina, Mauf, February, 1885. E. MOELLER, 1961 1 to

The whole prosperity of the sugar industry on these islands de-pends upon what the policy of the new pends upon what the policy of the new Cabinet may be. This will probably be learned during the next month. It appears clear that the interests of the Louisiana planters and those of Hawaii were identical. The fear they have and this we must share with them, is that a reduction will be made on the duty of rear sugars only. This is the refiner's idea

One of the moves on the board is to make silver scarce. This will not be difficult if the provisions of the unsigned Declaration (was it of Independence?) come to be carried out. Lock up tightly in the Treasury the bulk of the silver, and the belance that can be handled by the public will cause a seeming dearth of silver. The research that can be handled by the public will cause a seeming dearth of silver. The research that can be handled, will make the people of Health had ordered their employee to do what he did, or a stronger power than the Board had been brought to bear to let the silver question. A clear swindle has been perpetrated upon them already, and they have had to pay dearly enough for it, a further swindle is intended and it rests with them whether they will bear being swindled of infinite.

Church Business

Church Business

The Halletin of the 5th inst, supplies the information that the regular monthly concert of the Beilhel Union Church took place on the swining of the 4th inst. Essays were read on the subject of Japan and the Japanese." Afterwards a business mesting was held and new rules for the government of the congregation members were read, discussed and adopted. The following were elected offiders:—Trustees for one year, H. M. Whitney, H. A. Parmeise, B. F. Dillingham. Two years, J. O. Carter, S. M. Damon, T. G. Thrum. Bare years, S. E. Bishop, Robt, Lewers, D. B. Prissison, Standling committee, W. Babecck, G. C. Lees, Treasurer, E. C. Damon; Clerk, S. E. Bishop, Descous, T. M. Henderson, Robt, Lewers, D. H. Peterson, D. Beconesses, Mrs. Julia Damon, Mrs. S. E. Bishop.

The same paper states that on the creating of the 4th, inst., the annual business meeting of the members of the Fort Street Church was held in the vestry of that edifice. After the minutes of the last meeting had been read the statistical report for the year ending March 4th, 1855, was presented. It showed that there were 369 members in good standing. The paster had baptized during the year twenty-live infants and one adult, The report of the Tronsurer showed the receipts of the year as $2,137.25, which, with a balance from last year, makes a total of $2,228.70. The expenses have been $1,245.55, leaving a balance of $22.55 an hand. The election officers was then proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—Deacons, A. F. Judd and W. W. The enemy is receiving guns and reinforcements from Khurtons, and the Mahdi has ordered all the tribes in the vicinity to assemble immediately and attack the British forces at that point. General Gordon's trusted messenger has arrived at Kles. He says that almost all the matrive accounts agree that General Gordon, finding himself betrayed, made a rush for the magazine near the Catholic Mission building. Finding the rebels already in possession, he returned to the Government House, and was killed trying to resurse. The rebels were admitted to Khartonm at 10 o'clock at night on the 28th of January.

Another secount says that General Gordon rushed loward the magazine intending to explode it, and thus prevent the ammunition, of which there was several tons, falling into the hands of the enemy. The Arabs quickly realized his intention and shot him dead.

London, Feb. 20.—Later details of the night attack on Gen. Buller's forces while on the retreat from Gubai to Korti, say the sittack was made by a party of Arab sharpshooters estimated to number about 4,000. As previously stated, the Arabs fired at long range, and the British soldiers shielded themselves as well as they could behind their hastily constructed infrenchments. No serious attempt was made to return the enemy's fire, owing to the necessity of husbanding ammonition. On the British aide two men were killed and sloven wounded. Among the latter is Charles Williams, a correspondent of the London Chronicle, shot in the leg, not scriously wounded. Gen. Buller has erected three new forts and is preparing for a siege. He has dispatched a messenger to Gen. Welseley describing the situation as cratical, and stating that El Mahdi is advancing upon his nosition with an intuence force. The only correspondents now left with Gen. Buller are Mr. Williams and Col. Burleigh of the London Daily Releaveys, wounded in the action near Gubat in which Gen. Stewart was shot.

Lasnos, Feb. 18.—Reports from Abou Klea, dated the evening of the 13th, state that Colonel Buller has amounted his intention to evacate his position near Kubat and withdraw his whole force to Abos Klea, which is a better strategic point. After rendering Gordon's two steamers useless by receiving the machinery, the whole force started on the morning of the 14th inst. across the disease, and arrived at Abou Klea the next day without firing a shot. The men are cheerful. They prefer walking to camel riding. The reason for the abandonment of Kubat was the advance made by the Mahdi with 9000 men from Omdurman toward Kubat, and a retreat was ordered when the main body of Arabs was thirty miles off, but an advance guard of 5000, with five cannon, was within seven miles of the British line. Colonel Buller had less than 2000 men all told. The Arabs massed in and around Metennach did not notice this movement for several hours after Kubat had been descried. The British will retire to Gakdal Wells and may possibly continue the retreat to Korti in order to concentrate a force there under the command of General Wolseley for a fresh advance. Lord Charles Beresford displaced the machinery in such a way as to make it impossible for El Mahdi's troops to use them, although leaving them capable of being repaired when the British return. The total force at Abou Klea, including Egyptians and Soudanese, now amounts to 19,000 men, with 150 camels. The water supply developed in the Nile between Berber and Shendy, which is likely to provent navigation of the river until July.

The Mahdi secured all of General Gordon's papers and paper money and is eashing the latter to obtain needful funds to continue the warfare. The British officers and men are eagerly buying up these notes and also the leaden medals struck off at Khartoum, which fetch their weight in gold, as mementoes of General Gordon.

Quassrown, Feb. 18.—The Canadian voyageurs speak disparagingly of the boats used by Lord Wolseley's expedition in journeying up the Nile, and declare that they were decidedly too frail for such service. In pulling them over the cataracts it frequently happened that their stems would be torn out. Buring the ascent of the river thirty boats were damaged so they were no longer fit for use. Ten voyageurs of the party were drowned in the Nile, two died of fever and two were killed midway in Egypt. The Canadians complain of the severe heat of the climate of the Soudan, and say they suffered a great deal with sore eyes and blisters. They speak in greatful terms of the manner in which they were treated by the British officers.

GORDON'S DISPATCHES.

LONDON, Feb. 23.—A number of the dispatches from Gen. Gordon to the Home Government in regard to the situation of affairs at Khartoum, previous to the surrender of that city, are published to-day. In one written on November 4tn, Gen. Gordon declined to agree with the Home authorities that the expedition under Lord Wolseley was for the purpose of rescaing him, but was, he says, designed to resoue the garrison at Khartoum. On September 18th, he wrote as follows: "How many times have I written, asking for reinforcements, but my letters were never answered. The hearts of my gallant men are weary with this long waiting for assistance and failure to receive any word of encouragement which would lead them to expect help shortly. While yone at, drink and rest in good beds, we are always fighting." any word of encouragement which would lead them to expect help shortly. While you eat, drink and rest in good beds, we are always fighting." It appears from a letter dated December 18th, that Gordon newer said: "I can hold out for years," as hat been published, but on the contrary he declared that food was scarce and relief should be sent to him at once. The Egyptian blue took is said to him at once. The Egyptian blue took is said to day contains a letter sont by Gen. Gordon to Gen. Lord Wolseley in December. This says: "I have five steamers and nine gams at Metemneh awaiting your orders. I can hold out forly days longer with case. After that it will be difficult. The loss of Col. Stewart is terrible. I told him to give you all the information possible. He had my journal from January 3rd, to September 10th. The Mahdi is eight miles from Khartonm. Sennar is all right. The garrison there is aware that you are coming. My journal from September 10th, to date is on board one of the steamers which you will find at Metemneh. I continue to have occasional fights with the Arabs. Lapton Bey has surrendered. I have sent out scores of messages in all directions during the tast eight months. Do not sent private letters to me. The risk is too great. Do not write me in eigher. Thave no key, and it is no use, the Mahdi knows everything. Tale the road from Abullot to Metemneh. I do not fear the Mahdi. Both the Greek Consul and the Austrian Consul are safe. The Mahdi has explured a letter from the King of Abysainia to me. Your expedition, as I understand, is for the relief of the garrison at Khartoum, which I failed to accomplish. I decline to admit that it is for a rescue for me personally."

A letter from Gas. Gordon dated September Oth, contains the following statement: "We have sufficient money and provisions here at Khartoum to last four months. At the expiration of that period we shall be much embarrassed."

Although we write you that it was impossible to senal Col. Slewart to Berker on account of many sufficient monsy and provisions here at Khartoum to last four months. At the expiration of that period we shall be much embarrassed."

Although we wrote you that it was impossible to send Col. Siewart to Berber on account of many things which occurred here, we afterwards saw fit to send him, together with the French and English Consuls, in a small steamer to Dongola, to communicate with the Hirtish commander there concerning the Soudan. We detailed two larges expenses to accompany them to Berber to keep the way clear for them to puss by Berber toward Dongola. How many times have we written asking for re-enforcements and calling your serious attention to Soudan, and no answer came?

Gen. Gordon also instructed the messenger sent from Khartoum December 14th, to deliver the following message to Lord Wolseley: "Don't scatter your troops. Bring plenty troops. The mahdi's lines are beyond Moncho. One was a line of their guns. Fighting was renewed on the south side three days later, and the rebels wore again repulsed. Come quickly. Don't leave Herber: in the rear. Keep the enemy is the front. Don't let the rumors of your approach spread."

Information was received in this city on the early morning of the 6th inst, of the death of William Adams, (a well known person), at the age of 53, at Nin. The deceased had been a sufferer for many years from asthma and this disease, combined with liver complaint, was the cause of death. Soon after the deceased had breathed his last, preparations were made and the hody was conveyed by a score of friends, from his late residence to that of his brother: n-law William Anid Esq., situated at Kappama, the entire journey thither with the mortal remains being made by the mourning bearers, on foot. The funeral took place at 1 p. 20. on the 7th inst, the surroundings of the heavily plated too coffin displaying many beautiful floral tributes of saddened friends, while from the engine houses and Bell Tower the half-masted flags tokened the mourning of his brother firenen, deceased being a charter member of Mechanic Engine Co. No. 2. The funeral cortage was quite lengthy and in the ranks of the mourners were seen members of various lodges, noticeable the Mechanics Benefit Union, and also representatives from the Honoluin Fire Department. The body of deceased was deposited in Nouanu Centetery in close preasinity to that of his father the former well known pilot Alexander Adams.

Entron Gazerra:—The Son-in-law was arrested at Labaina on a warrant for breaking the Sabbath laws last week. He was moving his parent-in-law's furniture on board the Nettic Mercell to take them to Lanat. On trial before the police judge he was discharged on some technicality. At Wallaka a little while ago some Chinainen were arrested for carrying some parcels on the Sabbath. They were reprinameded by the judge, with the exception of one who was carrying a case of gin which was declared forfeited to the government.

That the Minister of Foreign Affairs should allow his furniture to be moved on the Sabbath shows what respect he pays to that day and to the laws of the land. However it is on a par with the manner he has treated other laws. Strange to say, after the furniture was on board and the schooner, put to soe she was almost drifted on to breakers and had to be anchored to save her. The natives say it was not in consonance with Divine laws that she should leave port on Sanday.

One Weo Knows.

A New Appointment. Eprron Gazerre:-The following is ellipsed for a Norwegian paper recently to hand: The paragraph is headed; "For the Sandwich Islands." graph is headed; "For the Sandwich Islands." It says: Some time ago it created quite a sansation in Stockholm, that a young officer of the Svea artillery regiment, after having worn his epaulets for only a few day, resigned his position in the army. The cause was a trick played upon a night patrol, in festive mood and youthful wantonness. His career in the Sweedish army was terminated, but the young man did not lose courage; after having taken a complete course at the Gymnastic Central Institute in Stockholm, he is now engaged by the Havalian Government as Instructor of Gymnastics for the Havalian Army. His salary is $5,000, and he will take charge on the 15th of May. The young man's name is Baron Nils Pause.

This is news indeed but it appears a long story.

te Court of the Hawaiian Islands January, Term 1885. In Bance-AH CHU VS. SUNG KWONG WO CO. the Court by Austin J. J. Op

A verdict against the defendants was re A verdet against the detendants was red-dered by the jury at the October term, 1884. Exception was duly noted at the time, and an informal motion for a new trial was made be-fore Mr. Justice McCully, and his decision denying the motion was filed December 24th, 1885. On December 26, 1884, notice of appeal 1885. On December 26, 1884, notice of appeal from that decision was noted, and on January 16, 1885, the defendant tenders to Justice McCully for settlement a proposed bill of exceptions which he refused to sign. The exceptions are objected to as not presented in time.

In Kamalu vs. Lovell, 4 Hawn. 601-4, we held that the informal motion above referred to might be made without a bill of exceptions allowed but if the party beaten on that motion might be made without a bill of exceptions allowed but if the party beaten on that motion sought to go farther he must draft and present a bill of exceptions. The opinion fails to say when this should be done. Sections 834 to 839 and $1155 and $1156 of the Civil Code which are the only ones which can effect the question fail directly to speak of this second motion now sought to be made.

This defect ought to have been remedied by a direct rule of the Court. In the absence of such a rule we feel obliged to hold upon the statute that the exceptions were presented in Honolulu February 26th, 1885. A Talk with El Mahdi.

El Mahdi is a man of plans, as the English forces in Egypthave long ago learned, and every pit of news from the Soudan concerning the False Prophet is of interest. The following nes from an Arab source, and is in the form comes from an Arac source, and paper, pub-lished in Paris for several years, and bearing the strange name of Abou Naddaro or The Man with Speciacies. A merchant of Khar-

Mas with Speciais. A merchant of Khartoum reports his interview with Mohammed Abmed, El Mahdi. It will be noticed that in order to quiet the jealousies raised against him by those of the Mussulmen who feared that his assumed religious mission and title of Mahdi or Prophet might injure the elerical authority of the Sultan, Mohammed Ahmed declares that he is only a patriot fighting for his country's independence, surrendered to the British by Tewfik the present Khediye or British by Tewfik, the present Khedive or Viceroy of Egypt. The Khartoum merchant rites as follows:

A Visit to the Chavaller Blondin. In 1851 Jean François Gravele was perfort ing in a French provincial town, when his agility, grace, suppleness and intrepidity were remarked by a certain Ravel, himself a famous gymnast of his day. "Join us," he said to the young fellow, "and come to New York." The young fellow, "and come to New York."
"Done," replied Jean François. "But how art thou called?" "Gravele." "Sacre Dieu! we cannot bill such a name.', Then they fixed upon Blondin, from the color of his hair. Triumph after triumph followed, until his career was crowned at last on the 20th of June, 1859, be is almost as active as over, and quite ready to chat about both the present and the future. The affectionate regard felt by the Chevalier for the Falls which made him famous is shown by the name which he has given to his home. The visitor rings the bell at the gate and reads the learned inscribed is large letter. the legend inscribed in large letters "Ningara Villa, "M. Blondin at home?" "I am M. Blondin." The intrepid one stands before me, short and stout. He has evidently been a me, short and atout. He has evidently been a model of muscular compactness and symetry, a Frenchman to the bone, with small, twinkling eyes, hair thin, and slightly streaked with gray, a moustache and thick imperial.

The Chevalier is a very Ulysses. He and his ropes are known to the ends of the earth-India, Australia, North America, South America. Other Blondins have stolen his thunder, imining have sizes, but there is no Blondins

On one side, a short distance from and overlooking the factory on rising ground, is the Manager's house with stables, overseer's quarters, etc., in close proximity; while a short distance off are the coolie barracks, hospital, etc. About 4,000 acres are under cultivation in the district surrounding the Usine, from which the requisite supply of cane is ob-tained. Some of the land belongs to the Colonial Company, and the remainder is owned by planters, who grow cane and sell it. A railway, four feet eight and a half inches gauge, intersects the surround-ing country. The farmers cut their own cane and deliver it upon railway trucks. Locomotives convey the trucks to the mill buildings, each truck going over a weigh-bridge at the entrance to the buildings, the farmer being paid for the net weight of cane delivered at per ton. A company own a wharf a few miles from the Usine, to which the railway is laid. Vessels can lie alongside and discharge coals, etc., direct to the trucks while the sugar and rum made at the Usine is trucked directly from the factory to the ship's side. A World Without Sugar.

Besides the natural sweets we have taken to producing artificial ones. Has any house-wife ever realized the alarming condition of cookery in the benighted generations before the invention of sugar? It is really almost too appalling to think about. So many things that we now look upon as all but necessaries—cakes, pud dings, made dishes, confectionery, pre-serves, sweet biscuits, jellies, cooked serves, sweet biscuits, jellies, cooked fruits, tarts, etc.—were then practically quite impossible. Fancy attempting nowadays to live a single day without sugar; no tea, no coffee, no jam, no pudding, no cake, no sweets, no hot toddy before one goes to bed; the bare idea of it is too terrible. And yet what was really the abject condition of all the civilized world up to the middle of the Middle Ages. Horace's punch was sugarless and lemonless; the centle Virgil payer tasted the was crowned at fast on the 20th of June, 1859, when he orosaed Niagara.

"Why, I thought Bloodin had gons to heaven long ago," said some one in a railway carriage the other day, as he conned an advertisement in his paper which announced that the hero of Niagara was walking the light rope at the Britannia Theater, in far away Hoxton. To most of us Blondin is now merely a name, but the is almost as active as yee, and only to read their weekly obolus, is a profound mystery. To be sure people had honey: but tery. tery. To be sure people had honey: but honey is rare, dear and scanty; it can never have filled one quarter the place that sugar fills in our modern affections. Try for a moment to realize drinking honey with one's which oney with one's whisky and water, or doing the year's preserving with a pot of the best Narborine, and you get at once a common measure of the difference be-Nowadays we get sugar from cane and beet-root in abundance, while sugar maples and palm trees of various sorts afford a considerable supply to remoter countries. But the childhood of the little Greeks and Romans must have been ab solutely unlighted by a single ray of jofrom chocolate creams or Everton toffer imitators have arisen, but there is no Blondin like this one. We shall never look upon his like again. As we enter be points with pride to a well stocked aviary, and passing along one notices a dozen photographs showing some of the many evolutions which he perferemain mid air. Here he is—on the rope, of course—clad in a suit of midi armor, there with a "masher" of the perfed on his back, here crossing a dirzy height on a hycirle, again blindfolded, walling on his head, cooking his omeletue on the tight rope, looking as much at his case before his stove as the old of the Reform Club in his kitchen. Then we see him eating his omeletute, drinking a glass of champagne, and, and—but there is no med to say more. The hall is above as the old of the Reform Club in his radorned with trophies and relice of the boomerable poat. There are portraits of M. Hhodite, of Mime. Blonding of Niagara—In another room is a wonderful painting of the scene at Niag ara. There are portraits of M. Hhodite, of Mime. Blonding of Niagara—In another room is a wonderful painting of the scene at Niag ara. There is the foam, the rope, the hero—a mere speck on the face of the canvass—with are excited group, including the Prince of Wales, swalling his safe arrival. And here I room for a few minutes while my host tells a story or two of his career. "Ah," he says, "you think as all a life the people have forgotten my existence. Not at all I perform in the provinces sometimes, and every year I go to Frankfort or Berlin or vieuna. There if have special permission to perform without a root for the hard was a mystale people have forgotten my existence. There if have apecial permission to perform without a root for the state of the same of a hundred poet is a neglet, less pechaps in a There for that is my condition. My feel have for the minute while my host tells a story of the state of the care. One may observe, too, that children, who are literally The consequence of this excessive production of sweets in modern times, is, of —no, not even when crossing Niagara. In 1860 I crossed on stilts. There was a danger in crossing Niagara. In straining a rope of that length to the requisite tightness it was liable to snap. The shorter the rope the easier it is to walk on, for the dip in the middle is less. I once offered to carry the Claimant across a repe, but he declined with thanks. I will not endanger your life (he said) and I do not wish to expose mine. A tight-rope walker is born; nothing can make him. None of my family will ever appear in the arena, because not one of them has been born a rope-walker. I am always well when I am working. When I am lesy I feel a twinge of lumbago, and that I am far from desiring to bring down upon my devoted head the imprecation pronounced against the rash person who would rob a poor man of his been. It is quite possible to believe that vegetarianism was the starting point of the race, without wishing to considered it also as the goal; just as it is quite possible.

Unbelievers' Hymns.

A singular fact about hymnology is that many excellent hymns have been written by men who were either not religious at all or whose claims to religion rested on very slight foundations. Addison was never celebrated for the depth of his piety but two of the best hymns in the language are accredited to him, "The Spacious Fir-mament on High," and "When All Thy Mercies, Oh My God." Moore was not and 1156 of the Coversor.

It is and 1156 of the Coversor.

It is easily to speak of this second motion in a way and the colly wound I saw was covered by an inch of sticking plaster. It is said that the direct rule of the Court. In the absence of such a rule we feel obliged to bold upon the statute that the exceptions were presented in time.

Another question raised is that the bill of exceptions did not contain the evidence. The will like freely be made part of it. Upon these his decision was based, and, though inthese his decision was based, and, though in this case, but they must be copied and annexed to the bill.

Another point is made that the judge below a minute be copied and annexed to the bill.

Another point is made that the judge below a denied the motion for new trial, and that this denied the motion whole subject of the psalmody of the church is apparently in need of overhaul-ing. The ordinary collections contains too many hymns, and of these too large a proportion are not of a suitable character portion are not of a suitable character for use in public worship. It is but just to say that those who are most interested in the subject see this fact perhaps more clearly than any others, and there are not wanting indications that before many years there will be a general overhauling of the hymn-books and a very liberal exci-sion of such burges are longer fell in sion of such hymns as no longer fall in with the spirit of the times.—St. Louis

Oysters for Indigestion.

It is not generally understood as it should be that oysters have medicinal qualities of a high order. They are not only nutritious, but wholesome e-pecially in cases of indigestion. It is said: is no other alimentary substance, not eve excepting bread, that does not produc indigestion under certain circumstances but oysters, never." Oyster juice pro motes digestion. By taking oysters daily indigestion supposed to be almost incura-ble, has been cured; in fact, they are to be regarded as one of the most healthfu articles known to man. Invalids who have found all other kinds of food disagree with them frequently discover in the oyster the required ailment. Raw oysters are highly recommended for hourseness. Many of the leading vocalists use them regularly before concerts and operas, but their strongest recommendation is the remarka-bly wholesome influence exerted upon the digestive organs.—Philadelphia Star.

From an English paper which has lately been received we find the following anent Mr. Fred Algar, who is known by many people in this city. "The senior living advertisement agent in London, is, we be lieve, Mr. Frederic Algar, of 11, Clements Lane. This gentleman established the first colonial advertising agency in 1846 ONLY ONE TRUE DISINFECTANT. - Prof. de

Chanmont says, with regard to disinfecants, that there is but one true disfinfect ant, viz., fire. The majority of so-calle disinfectants are simply deodorants. The idea that tobacco smoke or the odor of camphor is destructive of contagion is still extensively held, though it is simply absurd. A true disinfectant is a substance that will kill the germ or living particle in which the contagious principle resides or through which it is conveyed. Of true disinfectants, heat is the most reliable, though odors are not to be despised, such as carbolic acid, chlorine and sulphuri ian Francisco,) have been forwarded to the Gazarra and the late news contained, in the papers received, is herewith presented: papers received, is berewith presented:

AMERICAN AND EUROPEAN.

BERLIN, Feb. 17.—The text of the German Samoan treaty is published. It provides for a Council of State to consist of the German Consul, two Samoans and two Germans, to establish laws in the interest of the Samoans and German residents. The German officer will act as adviser to the King and judge all penal matters in which Germans are concerned. Prisons to be erected for German offenders. The King will establish a police force for the protection of the German population, the expenses of which will be covered by fince, revenues from prison labor and taxes from the Germans. Germany is allowed to give six months notice of a withdrawal from the agreement.

Benian, Feb. 17.—The dynamite scare at Frank fort, Sintigart and Mayence is owing to an-archist letters and plawards scattered broadcast, threatening explosions. The military and police are taking great precautions, night and day, to prevent any demonstrations.

are taking great precentions, night and day, to prevent any demonstrations.

DESVER, Col., Feb. 17.—The snowstorm which has been raging in the mountains for the last few days has resulted in another formidable blockade. No trains have crossed the Marshall Pass since Sunday morning. The train which left Salt Lake Sunday morning is snow bound on the west side of the range, with no immediate prospect of release. Both the Gunnison and Eagle river branches are badly blockaded. No effort is being made to move the trains on either of the roads.

New OBLEANS, Feb. 17.—The Mardi Gras procession to-night was led by the Bound Gras mounted on a cow, and the horns were tipped with gold. Rex was seated in a golden chariot drawn by a team of blooded steeds, followed by the ear "Louisiana," then in turn by twenty cars with befitting tableaux illustrating the prominent incidents of Sir Walter Scott's novel, "Ivanhoe." There were immense crowds all along the route of procession.

Whereless, W. Va., Feb. 17.—There was evidently an organized attempt made to destroy the southern portion of this city by fire Sunday night a few incipient incendiary blazes were discovered and extinguished, and last night another was found. No clew was found.

Bostos, Feb. 17.—The Faculty of Harvard College has denided upon a new scheme of admission requisites. The most important change is the making of admission examinations in Greek optional with the students. This is considered a great victory for the anti-classicists.

The Hilmois Legislature used in joint session to vote for United States Senator, Feb. 17. The Speaker voted for Morrison. No other votes were cast.

The Speaker voted for Morrison.

In the New York Assembly, a resolution calling on Congress to pass the Edmunds bill to place General Grant on the retired list was adoptednyss 71, noes 1.

The Pope has retused to see Michael Davitt. It is stated that he fears England will deem an audicance with Davitt, under present circumstances an unfriendly act.

Salt Laxx, Feb. 17—No train arrived pesterday or to-day on the Union Facilic, and none will come to-night. The Denver and Rio Grands is paralyzed. The Usah and Northern Pacific failed year bending, and no train has got through on the Oregon Short Line from Wood river since Monday.

London, Feb. 18.—The Duke of Cambridge to-day inspected the Guards as the latter were leaving for Saakim. The Duke in his address to the Guards reminded them that their dissipline was of high order and England would expect a good report of their services in the field. He hoped, notwithstanding the severe trials attendant on the campaign in Egypt, that the Guards would remember their duty to their country and do nobly. The Princess of Wales and her daughters were present at the review. Large crowds of propie collected to rive the Guards a parting cheer.

Gladstone, upon the assembling of Parliament to-morrow, will speak in defense of the Government, and more superially in regard to the Souland Cambridge.

Chinese men-of-war, French torpedoes sank two Chinese war ships, the othere escaping in the fog. A dispatch from Shanghai says: The French residents at Shanghai bare been placed under Rassian protection. The Russian fag is hoisted in over the French concession.

The following dispatch was received this morning from Admiral Courbet, dated, Cheefoo, Feb. 16: "Two of Bayard's torpedo-boats sunk the Chinese trigate Yugnen, carrying twenty-sir guns and 600 men, and the Chinese corrects Tohangking, carrying 7 guns and 150 men.

Le Paris considers the striking of the French flag by Patremore, French Minister in China, indicative of a final breaking off official relations between the two countries.

Losnos, Feb. 19.—Later advices from Shanghai concerning the engagement of the French and Chinese vessels state that they have been confined the French torpodo-boats four times. This occurred on Friday. Admiral Courbet renewed on Sunday and sunk the Chinese vessels. The French feet is now pursuing the Chinese research in the protect that a slight engagement has taken place off Ningpo.

A Leading Woman Journalist. Mrs. Margaret Sullivan, the wife of Alex-ander Sullivan, late President of the Irish Land League, is undoubtedly the ablest tro-man journalist America has produced, con-sidering journalism in the light of the varied and universal work of the daily newspaper. Mrs. Mary Clanunger, as a correspondent to a and universal work of the daily newspaper.

Mrs. Mary Clemmer, as a correspondent to a weekly paper, and confining herself usually to the political world, hardly entered into competition with the work exacted of a woman who does her daily work in the editorial rooms of a daily newspaper. Mrs. Sullivan is now who does her daily work in the canalast of a daily newspaper. Mrs. Sallivan is now the leading writer on the staff of the Chicago Herald, a paper growing rapidly in power and influence. Of her entrance into journalism garet Buchanan.

"I would like a regular position on the Post," she said.
"There are none," I answered. "News va Procession.

"What can you do?" I asked.

"Anything that needs to be done, I think," she answered, with a curious combination of perfect modesty and utter self confidence. perfect modesty and utter self confidence.

"Have you been on a newspaper?"

"No, never; though I have written a little for newspapers."

I was amused by her nonchalant ambition, which seemed audacity and when she announced that she was recently from school in Detroit, I said, "Well, there's a desk and pens yonder; write what you please," and turned to my work. She was twenty-one or twenty-twe years old, was neatly and plainly dressed and had a shock of wavy yellow hair hanging about her shoulders. In 20 minutes she brought to me an article headed, "The Michigan Schism," treating of a serious breach in the Republican party on account of a bolt against the regular Republican candidate. It was written with the off-hand vigor of an experienced editor and put very concisely the salient points of the case not before published. It appeared as an editorial that same evening.

point of view. It was a strong and timely article on pig-iron, and was followed by others on kindred topics. She proved not only proficient in French belles-letters and acquainted with German, but she was well up in Latin, Greek and mathematics, and was a thoughtful stur ent of those financial and commercial questions which women seldom touch. She could write a better article on the silver question, or the internal revenue, or our trade with Baszil than on any of the questions that ordinarily engross the attention of women, with Bearil than on any of the questions that ordinarily engross the attention of women, though she was thoroughly feminine both in appearance and character. She stayed on the paper three years, her salary growing from $12 a week to $43. She manifested an adaptability, a quickness of perception and keenness of wit, a wide range of information, the ability to tell with spirit what she knew on a given point, and, above all, a a timeliness and readiness that made her a valuable worker.

Mrs. Sullivan was for some years dramatic and musical critic on the Chicago Times in its great days, and held at one time the important place of night editor. No other woman journalist has ever held so responsible a position on the daily press.—Eastern Paper.

In Kamain vs. Lovell, 4 Hawn. 601-1, we held that the informal motion above referred to might be made without a bill of exceptions allowed but if the party beaten on that motion sought to go further he must draft and presents a bill of exceptions. The opinion fails to say when this should be done. Sections 834 to 534 and 1155 and 1156 of the Civil Cede which are the only ones which can effect the question now sought to be made.

This defect ought to have been remedied by a direct rule of the Court. In the absence of such a rule we feel obliged to bold upon the statute that the exceptions were presented in time.

Another question raised is that the bill of exceptions did not contain the evidence. The bill filled refers to the Judge's minutes below and asks that they be made part of it. Upon the content of the court in the absence of such a rule we feel obliged to bold upon the statute that the exceptions were presented in time.

Prince Albert Edward.

Prince Albert Victor Christian Edward was born on January 8, 1864. His early education was received at home, and it was not until March 1877, that it was resolved that the two sons of the Prince should receive a portion of their education on board the Britannia training-ship, when they were entered as naval cadets. In May they were examined at the Royal Navy College at Greenwich in the same manner as ordinary naval cadets. Both Princes passed a very satisfactory examination, and in some of the subjects exhibited a more than usual degree of proficiency. Here they remained for some time, until, on September 18, 1879, the two Princes embarked

On December 15th the squadron arrived at Amoy. The squadron, after a stay of a day or two, proceeded to Hongkong, visiting Ceylon on their way home.

On May 2, 1880, the Bacchante returned from her voyage, in the course of which she had visited the Mediterranean, the West Indies and Hermuda. In their voyage round the world in 1881 and 1882, as midshipmen in the Bacchante, commanded by Capt. Lord Charles Scott, they visited many countries, but a detailed account of the trip has yet to be written. It is rumored that some such book may come from the Princes themselves, but of this we say nothing. Prince Edward also resided for a time with Prof. Ihnn at Heidelberg, forfthe purpose of studying the German language. He has seldom appeared on the public platform. Some two or three weeks ago he distributed the prince to the Cambridge town volunteers in the Guidhall, and spoke of the advantages of the system to the individual and the nation. The value of military training, he considered, was exemplified in the most striking way in the case of Germany, and he did not believe the military system of that country weighed nearly so heavily upon her peaceable and mercantile subjects as some would persuade themselves. The steady avanaging of the German and sometimes even the soap is left open for their exterminator as the chemist can provide. We never allow rats to be poisoned in our dwell ing. He managed, however, to bear each evening to the bedside of his "wee lad," as he called him, a flower, a hit of ribbon er a fragment of crimton glass—indeed anything that would lie out on the white counterpane and give a color to the room. He was a quiet, unsentimental man, but never went home at night without something that would make the wan face light up with joy at his return. He never said to a living soul that he loved that boy so much. Still he went on patiently loving him. And by and by he moved that whole shop into positively real, but unconscious, fellowship with him. The workmen made curious little jars and cups upon wheels, and painted diminutive pictures down their sides before they stack them in the corners of the kiln at burning time. One brought some fruit in the bulks of his apron and another engravings in a rude scrap-book. Not one of them whispered a word, for this solemn thing was not to be talked about. They put them in the old man's hat, where he found them, so he understood all about it; and boliere it or not, cynics as you will, but it is a fact, that the entire pottery full of men, of rather coarse fibre by nature, grow quiet as the months drifted, becoming gentle and kind, and some dropped awearing as the weary look on the patient fellow-worker's tace told them beyond mistake that the inevitable shadow was drawing the same in the case more or less with almost all distinctive flavorings. When you come to find of what they are made up, they consist generally of sweets or bitters, intermixed with certain etherial perfumes, or with pungent or acid tastes, or with both or several such together. In this way a comparatively small number of original elements, variously combined, suffice to make the tastes and flavors.—Cornhill Magazine.
