AN INVITATION.

Come, browse with me along the lane,
With April freshness in your heart,
And April breezes in the hair,
To blow the buds of thought apart.
The brook that stumbles o'er the stones
Is widening all his silver scope,
And sings, with April in his tone,
A tinkling song of youth and hope.
He runs to meet the glancing rill Amid her crosses, cool and green, Who lingers smiling, coy and still,
Half veiled beneath a cowl's screen.
Just here the mountain current flows
With spicy odors rich and warm;
Just here the splendid bloodroot blows,
And shy arbutus wavereth.
When autumn winds his mellow horn,
With pensive sweetness in its tone,
And leaves are falling all around,
Then pace the thinning aisles alone.
But when the bluebird wins his mate,
And singing swells the thrasher's breast,
Then saunter down the lanes, and date Beside the friend that loves you best.
—Danais Dandridge in Southern Bivouac.

THE DEVIL WORSHIPPERS.

Strange Religion of the Wild Kurds Who Dwell on the Mesopotamia.
Not far from Mosul, in Mesopotamia, there are a few Kurdish villages where one finds neither mosque nor minaret, synagogue nor church, and no meeting house. Moslems—serving an occasional government official—are rarely seen there, travelers not at all. Ordinarily there is nothing in the appearance of these places or the people to attract the attention of wayfarers apart from the white dresses of the women and the vests of the men. But one day in the year the village assumes quite a holiday aspect in preparation for a strange ceremony annually enacted there. The houses are plentifully decked with garlands of yellow flowers, and the people take up positions outside—the women in spotless gowns, the men with a twisted black cord around their necks.
Then a procession of some thirty persons emerges from the residence of the "pir" or priest, and begins slowly to perambulate the village. In front march half a dozen weird looking personages in long black robes and strange black headgear; then come half a score of "kavals," in yellow mantles and white turbans, chanting religious hymns in an outlandish tongue, and behind them as many more playing an accompaniment to the singers on reedy flutes and tambourines. Following these is the white robed priest, bearing upon his shoulders a kind of capulet and holding aloft the bronze figure of a bird, guarded on either side by a fierce looking Kurd, with a perfect arsenal of small arms about his person. In the rear rides the white turbaned sheik of the district, with a second batch of "black heads" to wind up the procession. The party makes the round of the village, the people raising their hands toward the brazen bird as it passes, and then halts in front of the priest's house. Here a sheep is in readiness, and a perfect arsenal of heart is torn from it and thrown down at the feet of the black robed figures. The procession then re-enters the dwelling, while the sheep is made ready for the pot, and in honor of the day the residents afterward dine together as soon as their "stew" is ready.
These Kurdish villagers are the "Yezidis" or "devil worshippers" of Mesopotamia, and their annual procession —known as the "showing of the king bird," the melik tons or "peacock king" —is the only ceremonial of their mystic cult. The devil worshippers accept no proselytes. "A Yezidi," they say, "must be born a Yezidi; he cannot be made."
They have no ceremonial ablutions, or attach no importance to them, and are allowed to use nothing colored blue. They will not sit down on a sofa having a blue tassel or enter a room containing an article of furniture covered with blue cloth.
Their religion prohibits them from serving as soldiers, though there appears to be nothing to prevent them from cutting throats on their own account. They baptize boys and girls, and when old enough every member has to make choice of a sister or brother who is to be his or her companion for eternity.—Cor. St.
James' Gazette.

Arsenic in Wall Paper.
The following is said to be a sure test for ascertaining whether wall paper contains arsenic: Take a piece of the paper and pour upon it strong aqua ammonia over a saucer. If there be arsenic present this will dissolve it. Collect the liquid in a vial or tube, and drop in a crystal of nitrate of silver. If there be arsenic present, little yellow crystals will make their appearance about the nitrate of silver. Arsenical green, when washed with aqua ammonia, either changes blue or fades.—Frank Leslie's.

A Fortune Assured.
First Omaha Man—I am in luck at last.
A friend of mine has sent me a magnificent bird's eye view of London, photographed from a balloon.
Second Omaha Man—What use is that?
"Why, I can have thousands of copies struck off at small expense and sell them for $100 apiece down in Kansas."
"Oh! come now, who would pay that for them in Kansas?"
"The real estate agents—to show what their new towns will look like when they're bigger."—Omaha World.

Living on His Books.
I was in Bonaventure's store the other afternoon when the door opened, and what at first glance looked to me to be a small boy came in. In a moment more I saw that it was a little old gentleman, nearly doubled up with some spinal weakness and very shabbily dressed, but cleanly washed. His face was perfectly spider webbed with wrinkles, and his pale blue eyes seemed to swim in moisture inside their red and flabby lids. He walked dragging his feet on the ground, and was a perfect picture of reckless senility painful to contemplate. He exchanged some low words, in French, with the bookseller, and put a little package in his hand. Bonaventure unwrapped the clumsy covering, and lo, a superbly bound little illuminated missal was revealed.
The bookseller took his visitor apart and after some argument gave him several bills of a considerable amount each, when the old man shuffled away.
"There," said Bonaventure, who has a Frenchman's talent for resolving even commonplace into romances, "goes a last leaf of a chapter of history. That is the last of a famous family ennobled by Napoleon I at the commencement of the century. This book, which he has sold me to buy bread, is part of the spoil of some great campaign made by his elder brother and bequeathed to him.
He ate his picture gallery up before he left Paris. For nearly ten years he has been living here upon his books. I have bought quite a number from him at good prices, for they are very choice. He must be near the last shelf, and then!"
The bookseller paused and shrugged his shoulders.
"Ah, well," he said, "to himself.
"When a man is old and poor and hopeless what does it matter? My faith! he is lucky to have an empty bookcase make a coffin of."—Alfred Trumble in New York News.

A Conjurer's Clairvoyance.
But how shall we explain the "second sight" of our dark cabinet wizard, or that much more undoubted faculty of "seeing in the dark" which a Samarkand conjurer proved to the satisfaction of a rather skeptical modern traveler. Professor American Vambrey, the foremost Orientalist of our century. The wizard's sanctum was a tent erected among the bazaars of the open market place, but so well draped with shawls and mats that not the faintest gleam of light could penetrate the gloom of the interior. An English officer, who had thought it worth while to invest the small entrance fee, attested that in that absolute darkness of his den the wizard had been able to distinguish the printed from the blank leaves of an open book; but remembering that white paper might shine with a light of its own, Professor Vambrey proposed a more critical test, and got his servant to procure a piece of charcoal and a small board. After waiting in vain for his eyes to "get used to the darkness," which, at the end of five minutes, seemed as absolute as ever, he put the board on his knee and softly marked it with fourteen black spots and then held it up over his head. "Count that, oh, Hakim."
"Half a score and a fourth" (fifteen spots), said the seer after a minute's pause.
"You guessed it very nearly," laughed the professor, "but there are only fourteen, if my memory serves me right."
"It doesn't, then," was the reply, and withdrawing one of the shawls, the wizard admitted light enough to reveal the disputed fifteenth spot—a small knot hole in the center of the board. The second and third time he discounted that center spot, and when Professor Vambrey left the tent he admitted that his prophetism must have either a gift of divination or a pair of owl eyes.—Felix L. Oswald in Cincinnati Enquirer.

Brightest Woman in Boston.
We are drawn and attracted to certain people, and we at once invest them with those qualities which please us, for nothing is more natural than to see the best in those we like. It is consciousness of this flattering. One of the most brilliant Bostonians, or, rather, cosmopolitans, after living all over the world returned here not long ago, and in course of time met numerous learned society women who have been accounted worth knowing. He was not struck by the mental or physical charms of any of them. At last a quiet, unassuming little person, whose husband carried this citizen of the world home to dinner one day, became suddenly elevated to the rank of "the brightest woman in Boston." Her sayings were quoted far and wide, whenever any one else was let fall a pearl it was snatched up and fastened to her newly acquired reputation for making droll, exaggerated speeches.
By and by this citizen of the world couldn't endure his native land longer and he flew back to more congenial Europe, leaving the brightest woman to fight out this battle of wit by herself. The consequence was obvious. She ceased to say smart things. Her inspiration had flown; the mind that had acted on others like flint on steel sparkled itself in other circles and drew sparks from quick witted Parisians instead. I have always surmised this temporary cleverness of Mrs. Humdrum was in reality the witty reflections of this thoroughly witty fellow. He thought she said the bright things, while he was really the perpetrator. At all events, it was one of the curious psychological studies which now and then creep in among and enliven the commonplace facts and issues of the day.—Boston Herald.

Pepper and Pepper.
Take some ground pepper, the pure quill, and place it in the cester for a few weeks. At the end of that time go to your grocery and purchase some of the finest selected Singapore or Sumatra pepper. You can get trusted for it, if you are fortunate—that will not affect my argument—but get in some way. Then just before dinner have a portion of this ground, and if you don't say that there is pepper and pepper, I will give up strolling. You will discover a most delicious and appetizing aroma from the freshly ground spice that will linger on your beef-steak or roast and fill it with a taste that you never knew before unless you have eaten food served with freshly ground pepper. You will never again, mark my word, say that pepper and salt are the same everywhere, after having a meal served with the newly ground and state pepper.—Toledo Sunday Journal.

FOUR DAYS LATER NEWS.

The barkentine Planter, Brings Dates to August 2d, Inclusive.

The barkentine Planter arrived yesterday, after a fine run of twelve days from San Francisco. She brings dates to August 2d. The following is a summary:

British Affairs.

A London dispatch of July 29th says: Gladstone addressed the London Liberal Radical Union this evening. He said that at the last election the Unionists had a majority of only 76,000 in the country, and that if the Liberals reclaimed 150,000 votes their strength in Parliament, now in the minority, would become a majority. The recent election had already given the Liberals six or seven seats, gains which indicated that the Liberals would triumph if Parliament were dissolved to-morrow. In regard to the Unionist members, he was sure that the electors who supported, or refrained from opposing, them at the last election, mistook their position.

They believed Irish autonomy to be a questionable policy, or even mischievous, but anyhow they expected that the Unionists would co-operate with the remainder of the party in regard to Liberal principles, and especially against coercion. He continued:

"Far from dismembering the Empire, we intend to solidify it. Electors are rapidly and almost unanimously arriving at the right judgment. The question of retaining the Irish members in Westminster is still an open one, but it will never be allowed to interfere with the attainment of our object. When autonomy is gained, if Ulster desires severance from Ireland, the Liberal party will not stand in the way. This ought to be a conclusive answer to those who allege that the Liberals are indisposed to try the effect of reunion. The land bill, as amended, confers vital and important benefits on Ireland."

In the House of Commons, August 1st, Dillon expressed disappointment at the form in which clause 22 of the Land bill had been passed in committee. He said that unless the bill was greatly amended in the latter stages it would be the duty of the Nationalists to tell the Irish people that they must trust only to the system of combination.

Balour said the Ministry was not responsible for the elimination of the bankruptcy clause. T. P. O'Connor said these clauses had committed suicide.

Clause 22 was eliminated. The Parnellites have decided to adopt a passive policy after the passage of the Land bill, to allow a speedy close of the session.

A committee of the Federation League held a meeting in London July 30th. A resolution was adopted affirming the importance of the British mail service between Vancouver and Hongkong. The resolution will be submitted to the Government.

Prince Louis of Battenburg has been appointed to command the British Ironclad Dreadnaught over the heads of scores of seniors. It is expected that the Radicals will criticize the appointment in Parliament.

Murderer Maxwell.

The father of Brooks, alias Maxwell, is making preparations to make an appeal for his son to Lieutenant Governor Moorhouse of Missouri. Brooks wants a stay of execution, and believes that his son would be sufficiently punished with imprisonment for life. Mr. Brooks is a Mason in high standing, and the State officers assert that he is bringing Masonic influence to bear on the case. Public opinion is so decided on the issue that if any demerit was extended it would call forth great indignation.

Afghanistan Affairs.

Advices from Candahar, received at Calcutta August 1st, state that the Ameer of Afghanistan has issued a proclamation informing his subjects that the British Government is holding six infantry divisions, each consisting of nine regiments, with cavalry and artlery, in readiness to march into Afghanistan to suppress the revolt of the Ameer's enemies in the interior. The proclamation adds: "I can suppress the Ghilzais without them, but they will remain ready in case Russia takes advantage of the rebellion to invade the country." The Ameer invites the rebels to return to their homes, and says he will only punish the chief. He also warns Great Britain against permitting Ayoub Kahn to approach the frontier. The opponents of the Ameer explain that in issuing the proclamation he is playing his last trump card, as he finds that the people value his alliance with England more than the Ameer himself. The insurgents in Afghanistan have blocked the roads between Candahar and India.

A Salt Lake Property Suit.

Suit has been brought in the Territorial Supreme Court, Salt Lake City, to escheat the Mormon Church property to the United States fund of the Territory, as provided in the Edmunds-Tucker bill of last winter. The value set on the property is $2,000,000 real estate, and $1,000,000 personal property. Under the United States laws no church in any Territory is allowed to hold more than $50,000 worth of property. The appointment of a Receiver is asked for, to whom all persons having any property of the church be directed to turn over the same. The hearing of the case is set for September 15th next.

The Breakbluffs.

The schooner-yacht Brimble, John J. Phelps Captain and owner, arrived in New York harbor July 31st, two years and one month from New London, Conn., having circumnavigated the globe. She reached San Francisco on July 1, 1886. The trip around the Horn has taken ever since, but it has been extended by a great deal of cruising. The Sandwich Islands, Society Islands, Eastern Islands, San Juan Fernandez and Valparaiso were visited on the Pacific side, and Montevideo, Rio Janeiro and the West Indies after rounding into the South Atlantic.

Fire at Cincinnati.

A dispatch from Cincinnati, July 29th, says: Six acres of ground, covered by a couple of brick buildings and a number of frame shanties, extending from the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railroad to the foot of the hill, and from Gest street north on both sides of State street, was burned over this afternoon. The burned district was known as Slop-town, and the tenement houses on it were mostly occupied by poor families. The fire burned so fiercely and rapidly that none of the household goods were saved, and even cows were cremated in the various stables. The fire covered the most space ever swept by flames in Cincinnati. The loss amounts in all to $100,000. Probably one hundred people are homeless.

Passing to Turkey.

Boston, July 30th.—The American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions received a cablegram from the treasurer of the famine relief fund at Constantinople, saying: "Fifty thousand people about Adana have nothing to eat. The number is increasing, and other towns are as helpless."

Adana is the center of the Cilician plain, ordinarily so fertile, but this year absolutely barren on account of drought. A little over $4,000 has already been contributed in this country for the relief of the starving people, and further contributions are greatly needed, and may be forwarded to Langdon S. Ward, Somerset street, Boston. Gifts can be sent by telegraph so that in three days they will be paid.

Miscellaneous.

A dam burst on the mountain at Wilkesbarre, Pa., August 1st, letting the water down into the village of Parsons. The whole town was flooded and the people had to flee for their lives. Four bridges were washed away and much other damage done. At Lauret the waters caught fifty loaded coal cars and dashed them down the mountain side like kindling wood. The losses will probably reach $221,000.

An immense migration movement is proceeding in Central Russia. Peasants and farmers are going in large numbers to Western Siberia, where free pasture and arable lands abound. The movement threatens to result in a serious agricultural crisis. It is reported the Government is about to stop the migration.

Owing to the death of Signor Depretis, the Italian Prime Minister, the other members of the Cabinet have tendered their resignations. Signor Crispi, Minister of the Interior in the Depretis Government, will form a new Cabinet, which will be composed of members of the present Ministry.

A fire occurred at Pittsburgh, July 31st, by which the glass manufacturing firms of S. McKee & Co. and Kinson & Co. sustained total losses of $150,000; insurance, $75,000. Several hundred men will be temporarily thrown out of employment.

The British ship Star of Scotia, Captain Sutter, from San Francisco April 27th for Queenstown, has been wrecked off the Falkland Islands. The first officer and seven of the crew were drowned.

General Boulanger telegraphed to his seconds on August 1st to insist upon his reference to the General in his speech at Epinal, and, in the event of his refusal, to continue preparations for a duel.

The town of Sassanowa in Galicia has been destroyed by fire. Fifteen corpses have been recovered from the ruins and twenty children are missing.

The city of Peshawar, in the north-western part of India, in the Punjab, is infested with cholera of the worst type. Three hundred deaths from the disease occurred during July.

Three young Russian Nihilists murdered General Nestor's widow at Vladikavkaz, and stole 800,000 rubles. They were arrested while trying to escape to Turkey.

H. B. M. S. Wild Swan.

Early yesterday morning H. B. M. S. Wild Swan came to anchor in the harbor, 42 days from Coquimbo. She came under sail all the way and met with light winds.

The Wild Swan is an eight-gun boat, 2 six-inch and 6 five-inch breech-loading guns. She also carries 2 Nordenfledts and 2 Gardner machine guns. The vessel was commissioned January 22, 1885. She is 185 feet over all, 32 feet beam and 17½ feet draft, 1,130 tons burden and has engines of 1,000 horse-power. Her full speed is about 11 knots per hour. She has a complement of 131 men.

While the vessel was at Coquimbo there was a premature explosion of a torpedo during practice, which blew off one of gunner David Stewart's arms and injured two other men, though not seriously. The gunner was left at Coquimbo in the hospital ship.

The Wild Swan will stay in this port about two weeks, and then proceed to Esquimaux. Following is a list of her officers:

Yesterday circulars were mailed to the leading men on the other islands. The Chinese translation of all the papers has been completed and will shortly be printed. Police Court.

BEFORE POLICE JUSTICE DAYTON.

MONDAY, August 15th.

McTish, like, Pohaihi, Kahai, Kalamia, Puakela, J. Friedenberg, Kaal and Simmons had each to pay $6 for drunkenness.

Wm. Crews forfeited bail of $15 for disorderly conduct.

Sam Kanki, an old Reformatory School boy, was sent on the reef for six months for larceny of fowls.

Faults of the London Daily.

Some days, when I feel too bright and cheerful, I buy a Daily Telegraph. It is good as a sort of mental ballast. I rarely go so far as to read it, but I keep it, as the Roman emperor kept the death suggesting slave, to remind me that after all this is a serious world. The other day I opened the immense sheet, and on the Sahara called the leader page there was only one head line. There were 300 square inches of solid reading matter, a desert of type with that one solitary oasis of a heading to tell what part of it was about. This is enough to stagger any man. It is quite contrary to everything else that I know of in the world. A chemist labels his bottles. The names of the streets are up at the corners, a Camden bus says it's a Camden bus, a book has its title page, a minister announces his text, and a lecturer gives the subject of his discourse. I don't have to go into a train and ride a mile or two to find out whether it is going my direction or not. Yet a London daily with near two exceptions asks you to wade into a long editorial before you can tell whether or not it is of the slightest possible interest to you.—Luke Sharp in Detroit Free Press.

The Young Woman's Exaction.

It was in the horse car, that place in which the experiences are varied enough to make a man cosmopolitan if he will study them. Two girls were talking of what they read.

"Oh, I choose a novel easily enough," one said. "I go to the circulating library and look at the last chapters. If I find the rain sooty and sack-dropping over one or two lonely graves I don't take it, but if the morning sun is glimmering over bridal robes of white satin I know it's all right, and I take it and start to my chamber while I read it."

Novelists are respectfully reminded that the remark contains an important truth which they will do well to bear in mind if they wish to reach that constituency of young women who are said to arbitrate upon the fate of American fiction. There is often more in the last chapter—which is usually read one early in the book—to settle the fate of a novel than in all the rest of the volume, and he who aims to be popular will make this, at least, bright and attractive.—Youth's Companion.

An edition of the Bible in two volumes, the first book ever printed, was sold in London a short time ago for $18,000.

Hawaiian Catholic population, 26,400; 1 cathedral at Honolulu; 80 churches and chapels on different islands; male boarding and day school; St. Louis' College, conducted by Brothers of Mary from Dayton, Ohio, with over 400 pupils; young ladies' boarding and day school at Honolulu, presided over by Sisters of the Sacred Heart; number of pupils, 425.

Mails That Were Left.
The S. F. "Examiner" of July 30th has the following: "The steamer Mariposa, for Australia via the Hawaiian Islands, sailed yesterday on time. Had she waited just an hour later she would have been able to carry the Eastern mails for Hawaii, which, on account of delays on the Central Pacific, failed to arrive in time to be taken abroad. It is explained by the Spreckels, the agents of the steamship company, that as their contract is with the Colonial Governments, and as all the English mails were in the city yesterday morning, there was no reason for their delaying the hour for her sailing."

IN THE BATH ROOM.

A CLEAN OLD CUSTOM HANDED DOWN FROM ANTIQUITY.

The Various Styles of Baths, Their History and Characteristics—The Primitive Bath—Turkish and Russian Baths—The Mud Bath.

The bath is as old as the hills. It comes down from the most remote antiquity. The Egyptians used to bathe in the Nile. The Hebrews made bathing compulsory by law, and the Mohammedans and Hindus enforce it as a duty of religion. Public baths were among the public institutions of the ancient Egyptians, Greeks and Romans. If Pharaoh's lovely daughter hadn't gone bathing in the Nile, Moses might never have been discovered in the bullrushes. If Nausica and her fair companions had not bathed themselves in the waters of the sea, the shipwrecked Ulysses might never have been rescued. So it will be seen that the bath is a very venerable and patriarchal institution.

But the primitive bath was a simple process compared with the elaborate bath of modern times. It was merely a plunge into the limpid water of some flowing stream. Now the bath is a scientific process, presided over by competent attendants and regulated by the watch and the thermometer. The bath most popular with the American people, barring of course, the domestic tub, is the Turkish bath. Why it is called "Turkish" surpasses all understanding. It is probably, though, because the Turks reside in a most luxuriant bath in perfumed water, while about the edges of the marble basin grow fragrant flowers and blooming rose trees, filling the apartment with their ravishing scent. The Turkish bath was first introduced into England about the middle of the 16th by a nobleman, David Urquhart by name, who had received the impression in the Orient. This country adopted the Turkish bath about twenty years ago.

TAKING A TURKISH BATH.
Have you ever taken a Turkish bath? Not then, in the language of Edwin Forrest, you "have never risen to the dignity of being personally clean." When you go to a Turkish bath house you first enter the office, where you register, deposit your valuables and receive a check for them. Then you pass into the "Muctali" must be the Turk for cool room. At any rate, muctali is the cool room. In one of the numerous compartments of this apartment you disrobe and invest yourself in a bathing garment, then you pass into the warm room, the tepidarium, they call it, where you encounter a temperature of 120 to 140 degrees Fahrenheit. Here you recline on a couch until the perspiration is freely started. When the skin has become sufficiently soft and moist—the attendant frequently passes his hand over the body to ascertain if it has arrived at the proper state—you are ushered into the hot room, which is plain English for the caldarium, as the apartment is called, where the temperature is 40 degrees higher than in the warm room. In the hot room the attendants lay you upon a heated marble slab, and the perspiration becomes more and more profuse, while the attendant thoroughly manipulates the body with a towel. From this room you pass into a still hotter hot room, where the temperature is 220 to 240 degrees. You perspire a few more times in this room, when you are conducted into the shampooing room, where enough tepid water is sprinkled over you to remove the perspiration. Then you are stretched out upon another marble slab and receive another manipulation. The wind up consists in the attendant thoroughly washing the body with a lather of soap and water, sprinkling the bather over with a tepid spray, and the bather taking a plunge in the swimming bath.

THE RUSSIAN BATH.
The Russian bath is so called because the Russians from long ago have indulged in a hot vapor bath. The Russian bath differs from the Turkish bath in this essential particular: In a Russian bath the room is filled with hot vapor; in the Turkish bath the room is filled with hot air.

The Russian bath is attaining popularity with the busy, bustling American people for the reason that it doesn't take long. A Russian bath can be taken in a quarter of the time that is required for a Turkish bath. A comparatively new idea in baths is the electric bath. This is a medicated bath prescribed for neuralgia, rheumatism and all forms of nervous disorders. The bather enters a bath tub, around the inside of which are a number of electric buttons. During the bath a current of electricity is turned into the water through these conductors from a battery, manipulated by an attendant. The sensation, instead of being unpleasant or producing a shock such as contact with a battery produces, is said to be one of intense delight.

The mud bath is indulged in almost entirely as a remedy for blood disorders. The bather is placed in a bath tub and covered up to the chin with a thick coating of heated mud. As one coating cools off a fresh warm coating is applied. This heated mud is supposed to act as a poultice and draw out the impurities of the system. There is one peculiarity about the Turkish bath that is not generally known, and that is its influence to preserve the equilibrium of the bather's weight. If the bather is above his normal weight, that is above a weight suitable to his build and temperament, the Turkish bath will reduce him. If he is below his normal weight it will increase it.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Intelligence of Fishes.
In a lecture delivered by me at Crofton on the 16th of March upon "Ichthyology" I alluded to fish being subservient to the leadership of the intelligence of fish, as I had seen on several occasions small bodies of trout following the lead of an elder and acting in accordance with its movements. Speaking of the intelligence of fish, I stated that on three occasions I had observed a shoal of carp approached by a single congener which ultimately conducted it to another part of the pond, where a considerable quantity of food existed. This clearly proved that fish are endowed with communicative capabilities and are liable to influence each other either by sound or motion.—W. A. Carter in American Angler.

Bernhardt's Congenial Friends.
Bernhardt is very independent in her choice of acquaintances. She objects decidedly to meeting people who do not interest her, or who do not appeal in some way to her feelings. An intimate of the great actress once asked if he might bring a friend of his to see her, and added, "He is a great admirer of you." "Is he sympathetic?" asked Bernhardt, quickly, where most women would have said, "Is he respectable?" and then she continued: "I don't care to know persons who are unsympathetic." This explains, perhaps, why Sarah Bernhardt is always so talkative, cordial and sunny at her receptions; she feels that she is surrounded by congenial friends; she is sure that no cold bores have strayed into her drawing room.—Paris Cor. Fashions for men are in that blissful stage of uncertainty in which it is comparatively easy for extreme dressers to make idiots of themselves.

ECLIPSE

CHAMPAGNE!

EXTRA DRY.

WE ARE NOW PLACING ON THE market the ECLIPSE CUVES of 1879 and 1880, which for dryness and bouquet are unsurpassed, and are pleased to inform you that our efforts in producing a Champagne competing with the best Foreign Wines, have been appreciated, dispelling, in a great measure, the prejudice against pure native wines. The ECLIPSE will not only be found in every city in the Union, but has also found a market in the Republic of Mexico and on the Continent of Europe, where it is much appreciated by connoisseurs for its purity, lightness of alcoholic strength and exquisite bouquet and flavor.

WE GUARANTEE OUR

SPARKLING WINES

As absolutely pure, and they are par excellence the SPARKLING JUICE OF THE GRAPE. They are produced precisely as the high-grade French Champagnes, by fermentation in the bottle, REQUIRING TWO YEARS' CURE AND RACKING TO PERFECT, but differing from their foreign competitors in being neither strengthened with spirit nor flavored in any manner. We claim, and can substantiate our claim, that our Champagnes are the purest Sparkling Wines in the world, and quote from the report to a comparative analysis made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture: "Of 200 samples of wines analyzed, nothing has been found on this continent equal to the ECLIPSE. Containing only the normal percentage of alcoholic strength in dry wines 104 per cent., and only 6.51 of Saccharine, and no fictitious flavorings." As a stimulant the ECLIPSE bears the highest recommendation of the leading faculty of the United States, and wherever exhibited for competition with any other Champagnes, either foreign or native, its merits are attested by the highest awards.

We caution you against the impositions of parties East and on the Coast, who are foisting on the market a "gas" or charged wine, under the name of California Champagne. Remember, none are genuine except those bearing our name and brand, on both cork and label, and which are sold with the guarantee of absolute purity.

HONOLULU, May 7, 1887.

HAMILTON JOHNSON, Honolulu.

Dear Sir—I have made a chemical examination of the sample of Haraszthy "Eclipse" Champagne taken by me from your store, and find that this wine contains no adulteration whatever, the acid present being the natural acid of the grape, while the "bouquet" and gas present are such as would result from the natural fermentation of the wines. Yours very truly,

GEO. W. SMITH,

Of Benson, Smith &amp; Co., Druggist.
