TEXT OF COINAGE BILL PASSED BY CONGRESS

(Special Cable to the Bulletin.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 7, 1:12 p. m.—The Senate coinage bill has been passed by the House of Representatives. The terms of the bill which will unquestionably be signed by the President follow:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the silver coins that were coined under the laws of Hawaii, when the same are not mutilated or abraded below the standard of circulation, shall be received at the part of their face value in payment of all dues to the Government of the Territory of Hawaii and of the United States, and the same shall not again be put into circulation, but they shall be recoined in the mints as United States coins.

Sec. 2. That when such coins have been received by either Government they shall be transmitted to the mint at San Francisco, in sums of not less than five hundred dollars, to be recoined into subsidiary silver coins of the United States, the expense of transportation to be paid by the United States.

Sec. 3. That any Collector of Customs or of Internal Revenue of the United States in the Hawaiian Islands shall, if he is so directed by the Secretary of the Treasury, exchange standard silver coins of the United States that are in his custody as such Collector with the Government of Hawaii, or with any person desiring to make such exchange, for coins of the Government of Hawaii, at their face value when the same are not abraded below the lawful standard of circulation, and the Treasurer of the United States, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, is authorized to deposit such silver coins of the United States as shall be necessary with the Collector of Customs or of Internal Revenue at Honolulu or at any Government depository for the purpose of making such exchange under such regulations as he may prescribe.

Sec. 4. That any silver coins struck by the Government of Hawaii that are mutilated or abraded below such standard may be presented for recoinage at any mint in the United States by the person owning the same, or his or her agents, in sums of not less than fifty dollars, and such owner shall be paid for such coins by the superintendent of the mint the bullion value per troy ounce of the fine silver they contain in standard silver coin of the United States, and such bullion shall be coined into subsidiary coinage of the United States.

Sec. 5. That silver coins heretofore struck by the Government of Hawaii shall continue to be legal tender for debts in the Territory of Hawaii, in accordance with the laws of the Republic of Hawaii, until the first day of January, 1904, and not afterwards.

Sec. 6. That any silver certificates heretofore issued by the Government of the Hawaiian Islands, intended to be circulated as money, shall be redeemed by the Territorial Government of Hawaii on or before the first day of January, 1905, and after said date it shall be unlawful to circulate the same as money.

Sec. 7. That nothing in this Act contained shall bind the United States, or any silver coin issued by such Government, except in the manner and upon the conditions stated in this Act for the recoinage of Hawaiian silver.

Sec. 8. That the sum of $10,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated, from any moneys in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, for the payment of the expenses of transporting said coins from the Hawaiian Islands to the mint at San Francisco, and a return of a like amount in the subsidiary coins of the United States to the Hawaiian Islands.

FORENOON RUNAWAY

Bicycle Officers Robert Parker and George Kaeo, this morning, by their prompt action, stopped a runaway and prevented possible disastrous consequences. At about 11 o'clock Hackman Kalanipau was adjusting the check rein on his horse at the Bethel street hackstand, when the animal suddenly took fright and ran away. It tore down Bethel street at a terrific gallop. In turning the corner of Bethel and Merchant street, the hack collided with a brake and horse belonging to Milk Inspector Myhre. This horse was tied up just making of the postoffice when the collision occurred.

Parker and Kaeo, who were standing near by, ran to the place and by each one seizing one of the frightened horses, put a stop to further injury. Myhre's brake was very badly smashed while Kalanipau's hack had a shaft broken.

F. G. Prescott, A. T. R. Jackson, T. C. Davies, Mrs. C. M. Cooke and J. A. Baker were among the departures in the W. G. Hall for Kauai yesterday afternoon.

ZEALANDIA'S SAILING

As announced in another column, the Zealandia will not sail for San Francisco until noon Friday. This decision was reached by the agents this morning after having heard from San Francisco. The post office people were informed last evening that no definite decision would be arrived at until today but that certainly the steamer would not sail until 5 o'clock on Thursday.

The Zealandia must reach San Francisco by Saturday, January 17th, for that is the time set for the sailing of the Alameda for this port. Captain Dowdell, who is at present in command on the Zealandia and who was recently made captain of the Alameda, has a particular interest in reaching San Francisco at the time mentioned. The Zealandia being a slow boat, one day's grace is given her to reach San Francisco and she should be there in plenty of time to catch the Alameda. At any rate, Captain Dowdell will have just about time enough to walk up town and get a shave before he will be called upon to start out again for Honolulu.

MERCHANTS' COMMITTEE

W. W. Harris, J. Wakefield and F. L. Waldron were appointed this morning as the committee of the Honolulu Merchants' Association to act with the committee of the Builders and Traders' Exchange in taking a labor census of Honolulu.

HE LOST HIS LIFE IN ANGRY WAVES

Sad Fate Of Macpherson Apprentice Boy.

TRAGEDY TOOK PLACE IN ATLANTIC OCEAN

SHIP ARRIVED IN PORT TODAY. HAD MUCH ILL LUCK ON THE TRIP FROM ANTWERP.

The British ship Clan Macpherson, Captain McDonald, arrived off the port early this morning, 131 days out from Antwerp. The Fearless went out and brought her in. She was moored at the Railroad wharf opposite the Alameda, at about 11 o'clock.

The Clan Macpherson left Antwerp August 27th last year. She had fair weather all the way through the Atlantic. Off Cape Horn the weather was rather stormy but the vessel had good luck and made the run from 50 to 50 in a fortnight. The run up through the Pacific was also made in pretty good weather.

While the Clan Macpherson was fortunate as far as the weather was concerned, the trip was marred by the second mate being ill throughout almost the entire trip, and by the loss of one of the apprentices who fell overboard and was drowned in the Atlantic.

The second mate was taken ill almost immediately after the vessel left Antwerp and was too ill to work during the rest of the trip. Those on board are at a loss to account for the nature of his illness and he will be put in a local doctor's care immediately.

The boy drowned was an apprentice by the name of William Maxwell Todd. He was sixteen years of age and had made one voyage prior to this one, when he met his death.

The tragedy occurred when the ship was in the 45th degree south, in the Atlantic ocean.

At the time there was hardly any wind blowing, but a pretty heavy sea was running. Todd, together with another boy, had gone aloft to loosen sail. No one had sent them but the boys did the work in a spirit of rivalry, wishing to get ahead of the sailors. There was a race between them as to which could get through his work and be on deck first, and this probably accounts for the fact that Todd was not as careful as he ought to have been.

The unfortunate lad had just finished loosening sail and was climbing back on the fore upper topsail yard when he suddenly lost his hold and fell from this great height down into the sea. In his fall the boy struck a rat-line with such force that it was broken in two, notwithstanding the fact that it was new.

The accident was noticed immediately and everything possible done to save the unfortunate lad. As the ship was making no headway, she did not have to go about. A man threw a line to the boy, who caught it but lost his grip on it.

Captain McDonald threw a life-preserver overboard and had a boat lowered into the water. He then called for volunteers to man the boat, but owing to the tremendous sea which was running, the men were afraid of venturing out in the frail craft.

Finally, the first mate, the boatswain and two Chilean sailors manned the boat and went to look for their lost shipmate. They found the life preserver which the captain had thrown overboard, but failed to find the boy.

On returning to the ship the four men in the boat came near to sharing the fate of their shipmate. The waves threw the boat against the ship's side with such force that it was badly smashed and it was only with great difficulty that the four brave men were taken on board.

Captain McDonald speaks in high terms of the dead boy, who he says was a bright and very likely young fellow. He thinks that the boy must have been stunned by striking the rat-line in his fall, as he had graduated from a school where instruction in swimming is made a specialty, and was a fine swimmer.

The Clan Macpherson is a fine ship. She is about seventeen years old, but is kept in good condition. She brings a cargo of general merchandise, consisting principally of fertilizer and cement. Of her cargo 1,200 tons are for Honolulu and 1,500 for Seattle, to which port the Clan Macpherson will sail when she has finished discharging here.

WAILUKU WATER RIGHTS DISPUTE

Parties Make Agreement Upon a Thorough Inquiry.

SURVEYOR JACOB BROWN APPOINTED COMMISSIONER

FOURTEEN ISSUES TO BE INVESTIGATED WITHOUT ANY INTERFERENCE OF LAWYERS.

An attempt is being made to reach a basis of settlement in the long-standing controversy over water rights between the Hawaiian Commercial and Sugar Company and the Wailuku Sugar Company. Agreeable to a joint motion by Alfred S. Hartwell and W. A. Kinney, the respective attorneys, Judge De Bolt has signed an order in the injunction suit pending between the first above named company as plaintiff and the second as defendant, appointing Jacob F. Brown, a professional surveyor, as commissioner to take testimony and make findings of fact. The motion and the decree contain fourteen points upon which the investigation by the commissioner is to proceed and be reported. A great deal of the inquiry has reference to operations of the Wailuku Sugar Company since the beginning of 1894.

A curious feature of the agreement under which the commissioner will act is that no lawyers are allowed to appear in his investigations. The text of the agreement is here given:

The said parties hereby agree with each other that said Jacob Brown, upon being appointed as said commissioner, shall, at his earliest convenience, proceed to Wailuku, upon the island of Maui, and there personally examine all the title papers presented to him, or accessible to him, of each of said parties, together with maps and surveys of the same, and shall personally visit and inspect the several local

A Bishop Is Laid Away

The last sad rites were performed over the body of the beloved Gustaf F. Robert, Bishop of Panoopolis, at the Catholic cemetery between 12 and 1 o'clock today and it was then lowered away into a grave on the makai side of the great black cross amidst the sobbing of a multitude of faithful followers and loving friends.

At 4 o'clock this morning, the priests of the Catholic Mission with Pro Vicar Libert, went into the room where the body of the Bishop was lying and there witnessed the placing of the body in the coffin and the shutting away of the beloved countenance forever from all earthly vision. The casket was then conveyed to the Cathedral, accompanied by all the priests in surplices and was deposited upon the catafalque before the altar and at the head of the main aisle of the Cathedral.

It was long before 10 o'clock, the hour announced for the funeral services, that people began to gather at the cathedral and when the appointed hour arrived, the place of worship was crowded to its utmost capacity both upstairs and down, the ushers estimating an attendance of 2500 or thereabouts. The pillars of the church the balustrades above and other portions of the cathedral were draped in black and white. To the sides of the altar were palms and other potted plants. The casket rested on an elevated catafalque and was surrounded with groups of candles.

Thrown over the casket was a black pall with white designs, an hour glass being plainly visible from the congregation.

Resting on the casket were the mitre and crozier of the dead Bishop, while surrounding it were masses of flowers. The most noticeable floral piece rested on the floor at the foot of the catafalque. It was a cross with a broad base made of marigolds.

The ushers—Messrs. George Sea, F. D. Creadon and Harry Davidson—had their hands full seating the people but they did their work well and put into the benches all they would possibly hold.

To the right and left of the foot of the catafalque and forming semi-circles, were rows of six seats each. Five on each side were occupied by pallbearers. At the head of the right hand row sat A. de Souza Canavarro, Consul for Portugal, while in a similar position on the left was M. Antoine Viazova, Consul for France.

There were seventy reserved seats immediately in front which were reserved for Territorial and Federal officials, consuls of the various countries, judges of the Supreme, Circuit and Federal Courts, members of the Bar and prominent citizens.

Shortly before the beginning of the services, Hon. Henry E. Cooper, acting for the governor, arrived and was escorted to his place in front. He was attended by Col. Soper, Captain Pratt, Secretary A. G. Hawes and Captain C. H. Atherton, dressed in their uniforms as members of the staff of Governor Dole. Attorney General Dole entered between Secretary Hawes and Captain Atherton.

Among the Consuls noticed were: H.

W. Schmidt, Consul for Norway and Sweden; F. A. Schaefer, Consul for Italy; H. R. Macfarlane, Consul for Denmark; W. R. Hoare, Consul for Great Britain, and Goo Kim Pui, vice Consul for China. Among the others occupying reserved seats were: Chief Justice Frear, U. S. Judge Estes, U. S. Marshal Hendry, U. S. District Attorney Breckons, A. S. Humphreys, E. R. Stackable, Rev. John Osborne, Rev. V. H. Kitchat, H. A. Isenberg, J. F. Colburn, Senator George Brown, J. I. Dowsett, Henry E. Highton, Alatau T. Atkinson, J. M. Monsarrat, John L. Kauilouka, W. F. Allen, C. W. Ashford, G. F. Wilder, August Dreier, T. McCants Stewart, A. G. Correa, Commissioner E. S. Boyd, Treasurer A. N. Kepokai and Chas. Creighton.

At a little after 10 o'clock, the services began. The organ played the first notes of a chant and then the brothers from St. Louis College, who formed the choir, sang the words, thus beginning the High Pontifical Requiem Mass for the dead. The services, conducted by Pro Vicar Libert, assisted by Fathers Mathias, Valentin and Stephen, lasted for about an hour.

During the progress of the services in the Cathedral, great crowds began to gather outside the church and when the procession finally moved, the whole of Fort Street was lined with people, there being at least three thousand.

The arrangements for the procession were perfect and as soon as the ser-

COMMISSION'S REPORT

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 6.—Senators Mitchell, Foster and Burton, the sub-committee of the Senate Committee on Pacific Islands and Porto Rico, who visited Hawaii last summer, rendered their report today. The document goes thoroughly into the situation in the islands and is accompanied by a mass of detailed testimony and memorials presented to the Commission by the people of the islands. The general sentiment of the report is towards doing away with the present centralized authority in the Territorial Government.

In dealing with the much-discussed land question of the islands the committee favors Federal control of all public lands with two general land offices; one at Honolulu and one at Hilo. The immediate suspension of the present system of leasing public lands is recommended; also a thorough investigation of land and forestry questions. The Kohala Ditch Bill, which was before the Senate at the last session, is approved.

The report favors Federal control of lighthouses and extensive harbor improvements throughout the Territory. The construction of a breakwater for Hilo harbor is approved.

The petition of Portuguese residents on the Punchbowl lands of the Kapiolani Estate is favored with a recommendation that the lands be sold to the sub-lessees at the expiration of the Kapiolani lease.

Somewhat critical comment is made on the condition of Territorial laws and a new codification recommended.

Control of lepers at Molokai and throughout the Mainland by the Marine Hospital Service of the Treasury Department is approved.

The Commission urges a four-cent bounty for Hawaiian-grown coffee and is strongly in favor of immediate organization of county and municipal governments. Payment of the fire claims as embodied in the bill recently passed by the Senate is urged.

in importing mango plants. In some cases almost the whole shipment has been lost, the plants dying soon after arriving. This last lot however bids fair to thrive.

Section 1153 of the Civil Laws is
not mandatory, nor does it provide an exclusive mode of publication. It simply provides a mode, and it may, or
it may not be followed.

Publication is provided for in Sections 1221 and 1240 of the Civil Laws
in the Government Gazette.

Now, if said Section 1153 be mandatory and exclusive, then every publication of summons, etc., made outside
of it, and even under said sections, is illegal, and there is chaos in the Territory as to both marital and property
rights, possibly involving innocent
children.

A liberal interpretation of the statute will avoid such a result. Surely; the Legislature did not intend to rest the machinery of the Courts, as of
publications, upon such a frail foundation as the life of a newspaper.

Wherefore we submit that exceptions
should be sustained.

DIVORCE PUBLICATION

BRIEF FOR LIBELLANT IN SUPREME COURT

PRACTICE FOLLOWED THE SPIRIT
WHERE IT COULD NOT OBEY LETTER OF LAW.

T. McCants Stewart has filed the following brief for libellant in the Proper divorce case. It was in this case that the Circuit Court applied a law relating to publication of summons, which had become obsolete through the extinction of the papers named in it as media of publication, and thereby nullified all the previous proceedings in the case. This is the attorney's statement:

1. This is an action for divorce.

Libellee was absent from the Territory
when suit was brought, and summons was served by publication, under Section 1933 of the Civil Laws.

2. The papers named in said section are not published, and they have not been published for several years. The summons in the suit at bar was published in the Bulletin and the Aloha Aina by order of Court.

3. After hearing evidence and deciding that it was sufficient to entitle lib-ellant to a divorce, the Court below held that there was not legal publication and dismissed the libel.

4. From the decree of dismissal lib-ellant appeals.

The attorney for the libellant then states these points and authorities:

1. In providing for service of summons by publication, the intent of the Legislature was to give such publicity as to bring the suit to the attention and notice of the absent party, as is shown in the provision that publication shall be made in two languages, namely, English and Hawaiian; and that the papers should be journals of general circulation.

In Sage vs. Central R. R. Co., reported in 99 U. S., page 347, the Court held that, in the publication of a notice of a sale, "The purpose of the order to advertise in that newspaper was publicity."

While this case is not exactly in point, it furnishes the basis of an argument from analogy, which should have some weight with this Court.

2. The Circuit Court has interpreted in this spirit the statute providing for publication in divorce proceedings, as is shown by the following illustrations from its record of divorce cases, namely:

Costa, Creighton attorney, Makalana
and Independent, papers; Perry, Judge Ramos, Creighton attorney, Kuokoa and O'Leary, papers; Perry, Judge.

Akono vs. Foo, Kaulukou, attorney;
Gazette and Chinese News, papers;
Stanley, Judge.

Marquez, Atkinson & Judd attorneys;
Star, paper; Humphreys, Judge.

Lopez, Russell attorney; Republican, paper; Gear, Judge.

Merrill, Bittling attorney; Bulletin, paper; Humphreys, Judge.

Hottendorf, Peterson & Matthew-
man attorneys; Bulletin, paper; Humphreys, Judge.

Morgan, Dunne attorney; Bulletin
and Kuokoa, papers, Humphreys,
Judge.

Aurdell, Robertson & Wilder attorneys; Bulletin and Kuokoa, papers; Humphreys, Judge.

Sorenson, Robertson & Wilder, attorneys; Bulletin and Kuokoa, papers; Gear, Judge.

Endermark, Correa attorney; Bulletin and Kuokoa, papers; Robinson,
Judge.

Section 1153 of the Civil Laws is
not mandatory, nor does it provide an exclusive mode of publication. It simply provides a mode, and it may, or
it may not be followed.

Publication is provided for in Sections 1221 and 1240 of the Civil Laws
in the Government Gazette.

Now, if said Section 1153 be mandatory and exclusive, then every publication of summons, etc., made outside
of it, and even under said sections, is
illegal, and there is chaos in the Territory as to both marital and property
rights, possibly involving innocent
children.

A liberal interpretation of the statute will avoid such a result. Surely; the Legislature did not intend to
rest the machinery of the Courts, as of
publications, upon such a frail foundation as the life of a newspaper.

Wherefore we submit that exceptions
should be sustained.

FIRE CLAIM SUIT.

John F. Colburn has brought suit against S. Ozaka, alias Ozaki Shoten, for an accounting. The defendant leased property from him at King and Maunakea streets, on which there were buildings valued at $4100 and destroyed in the great fire of 1900. An award of $2655 for the loss was made by the Fire Claims Commission. The defendant received a pro rata payment of $265, of which he offered but $109 to the plaintiff. Hence the suit.

Magnificent Pageant To Celebrate King Edward's Rule In India

Delhi, India, Dec. 29.—The Viceroy, Lord Curzon of Kedleston, made his state entry into the capital of the Moguls today. This constituted the official opening of the Durbar held to celebrate the accession of King Edward as Emperor of India.

It was a splendid pageant, probably unparalleled in its magnificence. At the head of the elephant procession rode Lord and Lady Curzon on the state "grand tusk" twelve feet high, the largest elephant in India. Their howdah was decked with gold and silver and the elephant itself was almost hidden beneath a gold-worried saddle-cloth. Surrounding them were footmen in scarlet and gold liveries and bearing massive silver staves. The Duke of Connaught, who represented King Edward, and the Duchess of Connaught followed. Their elephant was equally gorgeously caparisoned. Then, in order of precedence, came the Nizam of Hyderabad, the Maharajah of Travancore and other ruling chiefs, seventy in all, their huge elephants forming a line over a mile in length. This glittering procession started from the railroad station, preceded by dragon guards and artillery, the Viceroy's escort, and by heralds and trumpeters. The route was entirely lined by British and native troops. From the saluting battery, posted at the fort commanding the Lapore gate, guns thundered out a royal salute as the Viceroy passed with the heralds and trumpeters sounding at intervals spirited fanfares. The cortege passed in front of a line of 150 elephants carrying the brilliantly dressed retainers of the ruling chiefs. The colossal beasts all saluted by trumpeting and throwing their trunks in the air, presenting a truly imposing sight, and afterward fell in line behind the official procession. Huge crowds of onlookers witnessed the spectacle, which, it is asserted, has never been surpassed in magnificence even in this country of Oriental splendor.

LORD CURZON

WHY STRAUCH SUICIDED.

At the Cooner's inquest over the death of Herman Strauch in the police station yesterday afternoon, H. Schultze of H. Hackfeld & Co., Ltd., produced a letter from the dead man which bore the inscription: "Not to be opened by any except Mr. Schultze." These words were underscored with a blue pencil. The letter stated that, owing to a disease which he believed had settled upon him and would incapacitate him for life, he had decided to commit suicide. Dr. Herbert stated it as his belief that the young man had a diseased brain. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the undertaking parlors of H. H. Williams. The interment was in the German Benevolent Association plot in Nuuanu cemetery.

TO SETTLE WITH POWERS

[Associated Press Cable.] Washington, Jan. 6.—The General Staff Bill of the War Department was passed by the House today.

San Francisco, Jan. 6.—Thomas H. Williams, Jr., and Truxton Beale have been acquitted of the murderous assault on Frederick Marriott, editor of the News-Letter.

Berlin, Jan. 6.—The joint reply of the powers to President Castro's qualified acceptance of arbitration was given today. A settlement may possibly be reached without arbitration. The powers do not abandon any reservations contained in the original proposals.

Seattle, Jan. 6.—The Norwegian bark Prince Albert, in command of Captain Hansen, was wrecked off the Washington coast today, while coming through a gale in an effort to find Cape Plattery. Eighteen lives were lost. Only two of the crew were saved.

The heralds and trumpeters who followed the escort and immediately preceded the Viceroy, were conspicuous by the splendor of their attire. They were followed by the newly-constituted Imperial Cabinet corps comprising thirty Maharajahs. The excitement was at fever heat, the first elephant, with gold and silver howdahs of the staff officers came in view and commenced to circle around the mosque. The first elephants in India passed in front of the Jumma Masjid, the steps of which were thronged with distinguished personages, including the Viceroy's American and British guests and the delegates from the colonies and from other parts of the Empire. The enormous animals shifted slowly by, many of the massive howdahs of quaint and rich design being surmounted by magnificent canopies of gold-embroidered and bejeweled tapestry. The bodies of the animals were almost hidden by their trappings of crimson, purple and gold. Bands of gold encircled their tusks, golden bracelets were on their ankles, gold and silver bells were hanging from their neck chains and their heads were painted and decorated in every conceivable color. The mahouts were clad in the brightest attire and were the attendant spearmen who marched by the elephants' side.

In the rear of the procession rode General Lord Kitchener, the commander-in-chief of India, surrounded by a brilliant staff, and followed by the heads of provinces, with escorts of Indian cavalry and tribal leaders from beyond the border line. Thrown the main street moved the cortege through lines of saluting soldiers and excited, surging, acclaiming throngs of natives; through the ancient city with the balconies and house-tops teeming with life and through the Moree gate into the open park beyond. There after a four-mile march, the elephants of the Viceroy and the Duke of Connaught halted side by side, and the pageant was concluded with the great princes filing by their elephants trumpeting a salute.

The Viceroy was in state uniform, Lady Curzon was dressed in grey, the Duke of Connaught had on a field marshal's uniform and the Duchess of Connaught was attired in blue. They received a flattering welcome at all points.

The Viceroy and the Duke of Connaught subsequently drove to the main camp. The roads, after the passage of the procession, presented a scene of chaos, as the camel carriages, mule carts, landaus, bicycles and bullock carts pressed onward in strange confusion. There were many breakdowns and many hours elapsed before the people were able to return to their homes.

A cable from our business organizations in behalf of the bounty on coffee would be a very timely act.

Hilo ought to hold a celebration in honor of the Impression its magnificent harbor possibilities made upon the Senatorial Commission.

Every citizen of this Territory who knows a Congressman or Senator or knows a friend who can bring the matter to the attention of a Senator or Congressman, should write to the Senator, Congressman and friend, individually and collectively, urging favorable action on the Senatorial Commission's recommendation for a bounty of four cents per pound on Hawaiian-grown coffee. Let the public men in Washington know that Hawaii unanimously supports the stand the Commission has taken for the development of this industry throughout the Territory.

THE COMMISSION REPORT.

Decentralization of Hawaii's government is the keynote of the report made by the Senatorial Commission which visited these islands last summer. Whatever hints were thrown out previous to the submission of the report, all pointed to an opinion among the members of the Commission that too much administrative business was centered in the Governor, and the review of their report in the cable dispatches shows that the Commission was a unit on this point.

The recommendation for immediate organization of municipal government and the proposal to place our public lands under the control of the Federal Government constitute the chief items in carrying out this policy. It is apparent that the Commission was convinced of the necessity of placing purely local affairs more directly in the hands of the people, while the transfer of the public lands to the control of a Federal department is a natural consequence of Hawaii's gradual adaptation to American methods of administration.

The attitude of the Commission on the municipal question will be a marked assistance to the local work in that direction. Should it be found that the Organic Act in its present form offers the slightest conflict with the inauguration of local self-government, Congress will be in a mood to speedily act upon whatever changes may be found necessary.

It has already been intimated that there will be strong opposition to the withdrawal of public lands from the Territorial administration, but the Bulletin believes that this transfer is as much a part of natural and logical destiny as annexation itself. It stands to reason that the Federal Government should exercise direct control over its land areas, whether located in Hawaii, Alaska or California. It will be time enough to offer opposition when the method of administration contemplated becomes known. Transfer of the Leper Settlement to the Treasury Department is another matter that will arouse lively opposition, of necessity, from the Republican party organization of the Territory.

With the exception of the land question and Settlement affairs, other recommendations made by the Commission will receive the hearty commendation and support of Hawaii's citizens. The bounty for coffee should receive the immediate attention of our business and industrial organizations. It may be taken for granted that the Commissioners thoroughly canvassed the probability of obtaining a protective tariff for this island product, and adopted the bounty plan as the most feasible. If adopted by Congress, this bounty will open up an avenue of prosperity which will be of far-reaching effect.

Codification of the laws, sale of the Punchbowl lands, harbor improvements, fire claims and Federal control of lighthouses are all matters on which the people are unanimous.

AMERICANIZING THE TROPICS.

Commenting on Senator Burton's amendment in behalf of Hawaii labor problem, the San Francisco Call takes occasion to say "I told you so" and publishes a very able exposition of the anti-expansion sentiment. For the time being the Call would seem to have grounds for a little self-praise, but it fails to give due weight to the fact that the work is not yet finished. When the American people reached out to new fields in the tropical possessions they did so with a full knowledge that the problems of the tropics were not child's play, nor have they been approached as such. The American people believe they have the power, the vigor, the ability, to develop the principles of the Republic in the tropics and at the same time promote the material prosperity in the tropical and subtropical sections, that prevails in the temperate regions from Maine to California or the frigid fields of Alaska.

This is not the work of a month or a year. Long established industrial conditions in this Territory for instance, cannot immediately be forced into the California or the Maine groove by an act of Congress. The American people cannot afford to force an era of depression in the new possessions or call them to account for their lack of tact or ability because it is not within the power of humanity to meet new situations and slide easily into changed surroundings as one would into a new suit of clothes. Patience and perseverance is as necessary to national life as the individual. Possibilities of the Mainland, of Hawaii and doubtless the Philippines and Porto Rico are crying "I told you so." Optimists, the hard workers, are putting their energies to the solution which shall find a way out, a way acceptable to the mother country and meeting the necessities of the latest acquisition to the national family. And all this "new" work is being done in order to gradually but none the less positively bring about the transformation which shall create in the new possession a closer approach to the principles and the ideals that have always guided the American commonwealth.

The present status may give the workers an opportunity to dwell upon their superior foresight, but their time is short. American progress is not easily blocked on the mainland or in the tropics.

ditches, reservoirs and river mentioned in the order of appointment filed herein, and take testimony, and that he shall report in full such testimony so taken, and all testimony subsequently taken, together with his findings thereon, accompanied by such maps, charts and diagrams, or copies of the same, as he may make himself or obtain from the parties, first satisfying himself that the same are approximately correct.

That he shall notify the respective agents of said parties in Honolulu, to wit, Alexander & Baldwin, plaintiff's agents, and C. Brewer & Company, defendant's agents, of the time when he proposes to begin to make such examination, and that each party shall be at liberty to be present in person, or agent other than attorney-at-law, at any time while he shall be taking testimony and making such examination in any of the matters aforesaid, and that he shall furnish to the respective agents of said parties a copy of his report and findings in the premises, at the same time when he shall file the same in court.

"The commissioner may proceed at once, without any notice to the parties, with his examination of title papers, maps, charts and localities, and with taking proofs upon all the issues herein submitted to him, whether either party shall be represented at the time or not; but either party shall be at liberty, before the commissioner shall make any finding, to examine his report of testimony and, upon due notice to the other party, introduce further evidence on any of said issues, or re-examine or cross-examine any witnesses whose evidence shall have been taken; each party reserving the right to except to the admission of incompetent or irrelevant evidence taken in the absence of its attorney-at-law."

CRICKET TOMORROW

There will be a match game of cricket between teams from the cable ship Silvertown and the Honolulu players on the grounds at Makiki tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon at 2 o'clock sharp. The Silvertown team will be picked from the following members of the cable staff and officers of the ship: H. A. Rowe, B. Sangster, A. G. Rutter, B. E. Bumpus, R. G. Wood, J. R. Barker, H. Denison, Wender, H. G. Barwell, W. Harwood, A. P. Lum, S. F. Crawford, P. C. W. Dixon, C. B. Wylie and E. Rymer-Jones (captain).

The Honolulu team will be picked from the following: R. Anderson, A. Catron, Stanley Beardmore, T. Gill, T. Hatfield, R. A. Jordan, Rev. V. H. Kitchin, J. Kelly, Judge W. L. Stanley, Dr. Walters, A. St. C. Pihlala, H. H. Pickett and Mr. McGill.

Astoria, Ore., Dec. 27.—The British ship County of Linthgow arrived today from Shanghai and has been placed in quarantine by the Federal and State officials. There is one convalescent case of smallpox on board, and the ballast on board was taken from the river at Shanghai that is believed to be impregnated with cholera germs. The vessel has been taken to the quarantine station, where the ballast will be removed and disinfected with a mercurial solution to destroy the germs. This is the same experience that the County of Rosburgh recently went through, as she was from the same port and had ballast taken from the same place.

CITY WILL HAVE BASEBALL PARK

People interested in the progress of baseball will be glad to learn that the league has now reduced things down to a point where it can be said with certainty that there will be a baseball park for the coming season and that it will be within reach of everyone.

The committee in charge of this choice of grounds for the laying out of a baseball park has been doing excellent work and were it not for the absence of D. P. R. Leenberg, president of the league, on Kauai, it would take a very few hours to complete arrangements by which work on a site would begin. However, as Mr. Leenberg is an important factor, his return from the Garden Isle will have to be awaited. One of the members of the committee said this forenoon:

"We have now eliminated all but two sites. We had a large number to choose from but we found that the two I speak of were the very best when all things were taken into consideration. I cannot say just now where these sites are but I can assure the public that they are right on the line of the Rapid Transit and about twelve minutes' ride from the center of the city."

"I will say that, in my opinion, there is a choice between these two places but what the final action of the league will be, I cannot say. At all events, there would be very little filling to do on either one of these places and hence the expense would not be very great. The greatest expenditure would be for the putting up of the high board fence and the building of the grandstand. Both sites I speak of are most excellent."

"We have made some calculations and find that it would take at the outside limit, only about a month to complete the work of filling, grading and putting the place in condition to be played on."

"Of course, the matter of money for the carrying out of the work is the point of greatest importance and as we have no funds to speak of in the coffers of the league at the present time, we will have to devise ways and means of securing the wherewithal. However, we do not anticipate any trouble along this line. We have a man at our head who will be able to cope with the situation successfully."

"There is some talk of incorporating but this is a matter to be discussed later on when we have picked out a permanent site."

"We of the league have determined that the baseball park shall be under the absolute control of a board of trustees made up of members of the league, who will have the arrangement of everything in connection with the park in their own hands and from whose decision there will be no appeal. It will be much better in this way as we will then be assured of quick and unbiased action."

MIKI AND JOHN DOE

In the Police Court this afternoon quite a sensation was created in the case of H. Miki, charged with assault and battery on Lum Hee. Judge Wilcox read the complaint and asked the defendant his name.

"Miki," answered the defendant. "Then you have arrested the wrong man," Mr. Sheriff, said the judge. "This warrant reads John Doe without anything else."

At this juncture, Attorney Robinson arose and stated that he appeared for the defendant and as he had himself made out the warrant for the defendant's arrest, he would waive the point and admit that Miki was the defendant mentioned in the complaint.

This statement for a moment created surprise and consternation in the court. Attorneys whispered together, the Court looked surprised and Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth thundered out: "Do you mean to say that you are appearing for both the prosecution and the defense?"

Mr. Robinson stated that he was not and that he was able to give a satisfactory explanation of the case. Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth in the meantime entered a nolle prosequi, saying that he would have another warrant made out.

Mr. Robinson, with the Court's permission, called Interpreter Goo Kim to make a statement, which he did, stating that yesterday Lum Hee wanted to have a warrant made out for the Japanese. As the clerks at the police station were very busy, it being steamer day, and had no time to make out the warrant, Goo Kim asked Mr. Robinson as a favor to make out a warrant for him in the name of John Doe. Mr. Robinson at the time did not know for whom the warrant was intended. The attorney stated to the Court that he had made out the warrant as an accommodation to Goo Kim. He did not know for whom the warrant was and had nothing further to do with the case. Later on the defendant had retained him as his counsel and still later he had found out that his client was the "John Doe" mentioned in the warrant.

Judge Wilcox expressed himself as satisfied.

The Elks will play the Custom House game of baseball at Kapiolani Park next Sunday at 2:30 p. m. There will probably be quite a number of spectators present as it will be the first time the Elks have been out in force and the baseball enthusiasts will be able to seize up their team.

SHORT STORY FOR EVENING HOURS

SHE GAVE OF HER BEST

By Ernest Glanville.

It was afternoon and the heat quivered like steam above a little patch of scrub from which grew a spreading mimosa tree covered with little silk-like balls of yellow bloom. In the scrub were two men; one, in khaki, sword-belted with his rifle resting on a stone; the other with his legs in a jacha hole, and his body protected by the dirt thrown out by the jackal, by his rolled-up coat, and a little outer wall of small stones. His rifle commanded the other side of the small knoll. The gray velvet sloped away on the west for three miles to a little white vanished farmhouse, where stood the figure of a woman in the shade, motionless. North and south the velvet sloped down, and ran up to ridges lined by anti-hills and a few scattered thorns. Beyond the north ridge was a waken road skirted by a wire fence, over which, at one spot, towered the head and neck of a male ostrich, apparently, from the cock of his tail, in a state of excitement. The two figures in the scrub were so still that a white-throated, black-headed, butcher-bird, the Dutchman's "fiscal," lighted on the mimosa to impale a locust he had caught as reserve supply for his gray mate nesting near by. Something stirred on the north ridge. A man jerked out the empty cartridge, rolled over slightly to get at his handkerchief, recharged the magazine, and rolled back to position. His right eye peered round an anti-hill, his yellow hat seeming a part of the yellow hill. As the faintest wisp of smoke curled up from the muzzle, another man on the left, who had been supporting himself on his elbows, fired into the scrub, then rolled over to the cover of a stone, where he began filling his pipe. As he struck the match he touched a sleeping comrade with his toe. "Hi—Hans, opestan."

Hans lifted his head, yawned, and rubbed his eyes. "Allday, kerd, I had a mood dream." He yawned again, and picked up his rifle. "I was sitting kinder." He stared around. "And the cows were a coming to the kraal—a good herd, a moor troop. Look at the moor volstruif (ostrich) there under."

"Butter the volstruif!" growled the other, tilting his hat over his eyes as he turned on his back. "Get to your place."

"So. They live yet, eh—those two?"

"Maybe they are dead, they lie as still."

Hans crept up to the cover, and peered across at the little patch of scrub. "Maybe it would be good to storm. It grows late."

"Storm then, yourself," muttered the other sleepily.

Hans fitted his toes into two little holes and fired, cutting a branch of the mimosa which fell on the khaki-clad figure lying so still. The "khaki" let the branch remain where it fell; but his eyes ranged along the ridge opposite to where Hans lay—and his rifle slowly moved till it covered the position. Hans was not taking any risks, and had shifted two yards to the right. A bullet blazed through the scrub from the south ridge; and then a strong voice hailed in Dutch: "You there, come out, leaving your guns. It is foolishness to resist."

The man in khaki turned his head. "Tom!"

"Je, Ted."

"I have been thinking."

"Ja, Ted."

"I have been thinking this: If anything happened there would be no one left to help them, eh?" "Them" meant the sisters, and the mother down at the white house—especially the mother.

"Ja, Ted."

"Well—sharply, 'don't lift your head—keep it down.'"

"Ja, Ted."

"I heard you move. Lie close—close."

"I am close to the ground as I can stick."

"Keep like that." A bullet struck a stone and sang mournfully away into the air. "There would be no one to help them with the farm—except Kinau."

"And he is lazy."

"So, what I think, Tom, is that—that one of us must get away out of this."

"I think so, too."

Ted smiled. "I am glad. Dusk is coming; see how the shadow from the mountain creeps over the valley. I will then open fire and you must crawl away—no towards the house, but from it—then make for the wood, under the mountain, and wait there till these men go. Do you hear?"

"I hear, Ted; but you have made a slip."

"How?"

"It will be you who will creep away, Ted. You could look better after the farm—you are older."

"You know I cannot go," said the other irritably.

"Then we'll both stay; see?"

"And the farm?"

"They would like it better so," said Tom, quietly.

"Tom, you must go. I say you must go."

"Well, Ted."

"We must surrender. I can't have you killed."

"What would 'they' say?" and the boy—he was only a boy in years—checked a leaf and chewed it to moisten on his parched tongue. They had taken to the scrub, he and his brother, at dawn, when surprised by a looting band from one of the roaming commandos, and they had stood the siege all day wounding two of the enemy in the first hour. "What would they say?" That settled the matter, and Ted said no more. He had merely used the word "surrender" as a threat. They had never been to England—they were colonials through and through—but the pride of race was strong in them. Moreover, this was their own field. The white house was their home. They knew every bush and every tree. Their world had been law with the servants. No surrender was not to be thought of seriously. "When they do come, Tom," said Ted, with a sigh, "they will come quickly after sunset, but silently."

"I am dead tired, Ted. I wish they would come now."

"After sundown? You have done well, sonny; I am proud of you."

"Are you, now?" and Tom's freckled face grew red with pleasure.

"Ja—but lie down, lie dead still, and listen—when they do come keep your cover, and fire at the flash. Leave the rest to me."

The shadows crept swiftly over the brown velvet, shot up the hill, and stole silently up to the knoll. It was night in a twinkling, and the Boers began to move. First they poured in a volley, having trained their guns in the waning light; then they stole down the slope, and up towards the knoll. "They must be dead," said one.

"Stone dead."

"They have not fired for two hours; see you?"

"Ja—it is over. We have lost time—but maybe they have good boots and money." They advanced, nevertheless, with caution, and one, when near, threw a stone. "Hi, kerdels," he shouted, taking care to speak cover. "We give you one more chance. Come out now—or you are dead."

There was no reply, only the deep boom of the ostrich from beyond the ridge. The trumpet call rang over the valley and a dikkop uttered its plaintive whistle as it passed over head to the great dam, where the brothers had so often bathed. Then the cool evening wind came sighing up over the hot lands, rustled the scrub, and fled up over the mountain. The Boers crouched listening for many minutes; then one bolder than the rest crawled up and fired. There was no reply, and the man stood up. It was Hans, and never again would he dream of the troop of "moor cows," hewing to the kraal in the evening, for a bullet struck him in the chest.

"My dodd!" he cried.

Then Ted, who had silently crept out to the shelter of an anti-hill on the sand, fired rapidly at some figures on the slope, and the Boers ran.

"Come, Tom."

"Ja, Ted."

The two brothers slipped off into the night, but not towards the house, where the mother watched anxiously. All night, with hunger on them, they walked, till in the morning they reached the kraal of horses. At breakfast the troop rode up to the farm, and before noon Ted was waving a good-by to his family. They did not see him again. A month later, when the crops were ripening, the news came that the soldier on had died on the field gloriously. The mother looked at her young son with fear in her eyes; but he would not speak. The boy gazed away across the valley, and there crept into his face the look she knew so well, for she had seen it on the grave, steep face of her dead husband when he took his gun to ride out against the Kaffirs; and on the fine face of her eldest. Oh, it was bitter to bring such into the world, and yet sweet!

The boy went to the stable, saddled his horse, and strapped on his rifle. "Good-by, my son," she said with a "Good-by, mother," he said. "I will catch the troop beyond the mountain."

"Good-by, my son," she said with a smile that hid the sorrow in her heart. He joined his troop three days later, the youngest in the band; and when his comrades got to know him they were curiously eager to shield him all ways. They tried, they scarcely knew why, to keep him out of danger; but he would take his share, do what he could, and within three months he was No. 26 in a camp hospital, down with a wound in the groin. There was no more patient sufferer there—with a queer little smile for his nurse, and a joke for the surgeon always. And as his brown face grew white and thin under the growing feebleness, it hid a look in it that would bring sick men to his side, there to sit and stroke his hand. They hungered over him. Their brows would knit into a frown, and they would forget their own pain,

Legal Notices.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE First Circuit, Territory of Hawaii. At Chambers; In Probate. In the Matter of the Estate of Akol, Deceased. On reading and filing the petition and accounts of Chang Kim, administrator of the estate of Akol, deceased, where-in he asks to be allowed $490.13 and charges himself with $190, and asks that the same may be examined and approved, and that a final order may be made of distribution of the property thereto entitled, and discharging him and his sureties from all further responsibility as such administrator, it is ordered that Monday, the 24 day of February, A. D. 1926, at 10 o'clock a.m., before the Judge of said court, at the court room of the said court at Honolulu, Island of Oahu, be and the same hereby is appointed as the time and place for hearing said petition and accounts, and that all persons interested may then and there appear and show cause. If any they have, why the same should not be granted, and may present evidence as to who are entitled to the said property. And that notice of this order, in the English language, be published in the Evening Bulletin newspaper printed and published in Honolulu, for three successive weeks, the last publication to be not less than two weeks previous to the time there-in appointed for said hearing.
 Dated at Honolulu, this 22d day of December, 1925.
 W. J. ROBINSON,
 Third Judge, First Circuit Court.

while they hoped fiercely for the sign of returning health. They looked at the doctor with their eager eyes, as he bent over the wasting form—and their first hoarse whisper was always, "How is the kid?" One afternoon, when the nurse and the doctor stood by the bed, and the patients who had the strength had raised themselves to watch, the boy laughed, such a clear, merry laugh that all the others repeated it—all but the nurse, who turned away, and the doctor.

The boy laughed again happily, and some of the men cheered. The doctor turned round with a frown and uplifted finger. And in the deep silence they heard the boy's speech, thin and boylike, but clear. "Tell mother," he said, "I was so happy I could laugh."

"Yes, lad."

"Because I'll be—with Ted soon."

SILVERTOWN'S WORK

During this afternoon the cable steamer Silvertown will begin unloading the cable she has left over in her tanks into the Cable Company's tank in Iwilei, just Ewa of the mauka end of the railroad wharf shed. There are a hundred and odd miles of cable left on board the cable steamer. It is all of the deep sea quality, being about four-fifths of an inch in thickness.

This morning the Silvertown was hailed down to the mauka end of the larger of the railroad wharves and during the forenoon all preparations were made for the transferring of the long line of cable.

The first end of the cable, which was lying on the deck, was covered with canvas in order to preserve the rubber coating from melting in the sun. This end will be run by hand over to the cable tank shed, where it will be put over a drum which is made to revolve
by an electric motor.

The cable will pass over several wheels along the vessel's deck and will then pass down over the bow of the steamer and ashore.

On the land end, five or six poles are being erected. These are furnished with cross-pieces over which the cable will run. These cross-pieces are so high above the ground that the O. R.
& L. Co.'s engines, which are constantly running to and from the railroad wharf carrying freight from the vessels lying there, can pass without inconvenience under the cable while it is being transferred.

Over the cement cable tank which has been sunk in the ground, is a platform covered with a shed. On this platform is a drum over which the cable passes and thence through a trap door in the floor of the platform into the cable tank itself, where men coil it up in a neat roll. The drum over which the cable passes is furnished with a still jockey wheel, which prevents the cable from rising up.

The officers of the Silvertown expect that the transferring of the cable will take about a day or two. When this work is finished the Silvertown will be hauled out in the stream, where she will lie until she receives further orders from England.

KAUAI SHIPPING.

The steamer Mikahala arrived from Kauai ports this morning at 3:50 o'clock with 400 bags sugar, 1 horse, 20 pigs, 13 barrels poi and 75 package
sundries.

The following sugar is reported left at Kauai ports ready for shipment: K.
S. M., 600; V. K., 300; W., 200; Mak-
1000; G. & L., 250; McB., 11,500; K. P., 2100; L. P., 2700; H. M., 2700; and
M. S. Co., 27,300.

The purser reports as follows: "The steamer Waiwalele is on her way back to Honolulu from Kilauea. The steamer Niihau was at Anahola. Could not discharge her freight on account of rough weather. The ship Antiope was discharging coal at Makawili. The S.
C. Allen was loading sugar at Elele.
Fine weather on leeward side of Kauai."

C. H. Tracy, city sanitary officer, is preparing a map showing all the buildings in Honolulu, with those connected with the sewers marked in red. Several of the most populous sections are yet outside the bounds of the sewerage system as constructed. For instance, the upper portion of Fort street is one mass of cesspools and gives the sanitary force a great deal of trouble.

Work is progressing in making connections along Kukui street. When this is completed, a line may be run into the Fort street and Nuuanu valley sections. The Legislature will require to provide a large amount of money before Honolulu obtains anything like a complete sewerage system.

The French Consulate was to have been transferred from its present location, at the corner of Victoria and Green streets, this forenoon but the work has been postponed until tomorrow. Consul Vizzavona will take up his residence at the Hawaiian hotel.
