A PRAYER FOR CONTENT.

Dear Lord, to Thee my knee is bent;
Give me content—
Full-pleasured with what comes to me.
Whate'er it be:
An humble roof—a frugal board,
And simple food;
The wintry fogot piled beside
The chimney wide,
While the enwreathing flames upspring
And twine about
The brazen dogs that guard my hearth
And household worth;
Tinge with the embers' ruddy glow
The rafters low;
And let the sparks snap with delight,
As fingers might
That mark deft measure of some tune
The children croon;
Then—with good friends, the rarest few,
Thou holdest true,
Ranged round about the blaze, to share
My comfort there—
Give me to claim the service meet
That makes each seat
A place of honor, and each guest
Loved as the rest.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

THE DANGERS OF SORE THROAT.

What a Physician Has to Say on the Subject—Causes and Cures.

Throat troubles are due not so much to climate, as to care, or rather the neglect of attention to the rules of health, which should govern the daily lives of every person. But one thing should always be remembered, and that is, all mufliers or wraps should at once be removed from the neck upon entering the house, church, lecture-room, concert hall, etc., in fact, whenever one goes from out doors into any artificially heated room. The term throat diseases comprises a large number of affections of that organ and its immediate connecting structures, nearly all dependent upon a catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membrane of those parts. Now, catarrh, when located there, or in some other part of the body, is always due to a succession of sudden changes to which the body is subjected in one way or another. Once alone will not usually do it, but let people get well warmed up, and then suddenly expose themselves to the cold, and it will not take many such times to establish a catarrh of throat and lungs, which it may be a difficult thing to eradicate entirely from the system.

Many people are troubled more or less of the time with hoarseness. In this connection it may be incidentally remarked that hoarseness is a most excellent remedy for this trouble, and usually affords speedy relief as soon as it is used. The root is to be eaten when it is green, and not after it is dried. Another most excellent remedy for throat troubles, and one which is within the reach of every one, is common salt. Those people who use a great deal of salt are less subject to dryness and inflammation of the throat than are those who do not. A very good way to use it is to prepare it in the form of a gargle. Take a heaping teaspoonful of salt in a tumbler of water, and gargle three or four times a day. It is well to avoid going out in the cold for fifteen or twenty minutes after using it.

Many do not know to what dangers one is liable who has a severe sore throat. I do not mean diphtheritic sore throat, but the common, non-specific sore throat. The danger to be feared, and consequently to be avoided, is ulceration. If this takes place, the case becomes one of a serious nature. Prompt care and attention in the early history of a case of ordinary sore throat will generally prevent this additional and serious complication. For dryness of the throat a small piece of muriate of ammonia, ten or fifteen grains every two or three hours, will be found very serviceable. It is best taken dry in the mouth and allowed to slowly dissolve.—Dr. D. M. Patterson in New England Farmer.

In a Field of "Century Plants."

These plants stand about fifteen feet apart. And when I tell you that some times their sharp leaves reach each other you can guess how rank and luxuriant they grow here in their native soil. And when I assure you that every one of these million of leaves are sharp and strong enough to run a man clean through the body you can understand what a foolish thing it is to attempt to take a long walk through one of these apparently endless fields, with a fervid Mexican sun on your back, and all merely to save the feelings of a couple of perspiring mules.

But I learned something. I found, in the heart of this field, some sullen and sulky Mexicans, who, unlike all others I have encountered, refused to stop work or even take the least notice of my presence. These brown fellows, with bronchitis, and pigskins on their backs, were gathering pulque juice as a Yankee gathers his maple syrup. Each man had a little iron hoe in his left hand and a long gourd in his right. This gourd is about two feet long. The maguery plant is "tapped" by cutting the heart or central leaves out a foot or two above the ground and digging a hole there for the sap to gather in with the little iron hoe. These three times each day a man comes along with his pig-skin, his gourd, and his hoe. He sticks his long gourd down into the hole for the sap, and then he sucks and sucks. Now, it is absurd to say, as many do, that he sucks the sap into his mouth. He merely sucks it into his gourd; then he jerks off his gourd, thrusts it into the neck of his pig-skin, and, while the liquor runs out, dips a little deeper into the heart of the plant with his hoe for a new flow of sap by the time he shall come again. I know I have written of this before, but never before was I absolutely certain that the man does not take the liquor into his mouth. You can drink pulque with confidence in this assertion.—Joachim Miller's Letter.

sea-waters Heaped About the Land.

A French geologist, M. de Lapparent, lately called the attention of the Paris Geological society to the effect gravitation has in heaping up sea-waters about the land. The continents are thus all situated at the top of hills of water; and in crossing the Atlantic the ship has first to go down hill, then to cross a valley, and finally to climb another hill. The calculation has been made that in mid-ocean the surface may be more than half a mile (1,000 meters) below the level it would have if the continents exerted no attraction.—Arkansas Traveler.

The story is going around of a young reporter who visited a publishing house and then wrote: "Something new for the holiday trade is the Longfellow portfolio. The engravings are by the eminent French artist, De Luxe."—New York Sun.

A VALUABLE EXPERIMENT.

Mr. Herbert Purvis gives, in the Planter's Monthly, an account of an extensive experiment he is making in cinchona cultivation at Kukuihaele, Hawaii. He took a skilled gardener with him from England to Ceylon in 1883. The gardener he placed on a cinchona estate, to give him a knowledge of the cultivation; while he visited the chief cinchona districts of the island. What he saw and learned convinced him that cinchona would thrive in large districts of these Islands. Therefore he brought home with him a quarter ounce of seed, for which he paid at the rate of $100 an ounce. It was of an exceptionally good variety, yielding in Ceylon from 11 to 14 per cent of crystallized sulphate of quinine, on analysis, whereas Mr. Purvis believes the richest bark elsewhere known yielded less than 4 per cent. He returned to Hawaii in October, 1883, and at once began operations to start cinchona groves. Having selected a suitable situation in the forest above Kukuihaele, at an altitude of 2,000 feet, a small clearing was made in September, 1884, and the first batch of trees was planted out. They are now so well advanced that he was able to take bark from all the different kinds for analysis a short time ago, and hoped to hear of a favorable result very shortly. In 1884 Mr. Purvis obtained seed from a reputable variety grown in the cinchona region of the Andes, South America. He gives an account of progress made so far, in the following paragraphs:—

After a great deal of delay, caused by scarcity of labor, we got an area of ten acres cleared of forest—near the clearing before mentioned—on a gentle slope, and now we have all our young seedlings planted out to the number of about sixteen thousand (16,000, all of which are now thriving and looking remarkably well. The trees ought to be sufficiently old to give their first crop of bark in about two years' time.

I have now expended over $3,500, including cost of visit to Ceylon, but exclusive of all interest whatever, on the establishment of cinchona cultivation in Hawaii, and have every reason to believe that it is a success. Should it prove to be such, it would throw open a vast extent of land in the Hamakua, Hilo, and Kona districts on Hawaii, and also on Maui, which are above the line of sugar cultivation, and at present lying useless.

The man who makes valuable trees and plants grow, in former all but useless wilderness, is a decided benefactor to these Islands. More of his stamp are needed to place the Kingdom above the influence of all vicissitudes to the few products upon which it now wholly relies.

PENSIONS.

The door being effectually opened by the present Legislature, a rush of pension bills may be anticipated at subsequent sessions. Admitting that length of public service makes a valid claim for pensions, there should at least be some system in bestowing them. Probably the precedent established ensures all the older civil servants now in harness an early retirement on pensions. But for the younger portion of the service, a superannuation law ought to be passed, under which a slight percentage of salaries should go to a pension fund. Mr. Dole's bill may not have been comprehensive enough, but it was a move in the right direction. It was, at all events, far preferable to the promiscuous method adopted by the house. Every improper influence now has scope for its exercise in both the initiation and disposal of pension bills. Apart from the question of granting pensions at all, it must appear to every candid mind that the giving of nearly three times the annual gratuity to Princess Poomaikelani which was voted to the two veteran public servants, whose cases were passed upon with hers, was as gross a piece of favoritism and discriminating legislation as ever any law-making body committed.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

"I have nothing to advertise. There is no business doing." That is just why you should advertise, our dear sir.

It is a pity more notice cannot be given when water is to be shut off in any locality. An advertisement issued only the evening previous to a shut-off at six in the morning is taking house-keepers rather short.

It appears that the repairs to Kukui Place are unfinished, so that criticism is premature. Moreover, the work is being done by Mr. George Lucas at his own expense, and is one of the many evidences he has given of public spirit. We therefore move to amend the complaint, making it a compliment instead, but would enter a demurrer against the application of the familiar proverb about judging unfinished work.

Yes, let us have more watering carts, and stop the nuisance of hose practice at every corner for half the day. However, if ever the streets are paved so as to stand a thorough daily sweeping, with modern implements for that purpose, the public health will be better consulted by dampening the streets as little as possible. Medical opinion, we have been told, is strongly against having the streets kept wet under the tropical sun.

A newspaper has been discovered at Peking, China, that was started in the year 911. It was established to fill a long-felt want.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky is not a medicated liquor, but a pure, unadulterated whisky for medicinal use, free from fusel oil and all noxious impurities, and is prescribed by physicians. It is a medicine for the sick and feeble, and a beverage for the million, because it is absolutely pure.

LOCAL NEWS.

A little rain makes the Fort-street gutters horrid.

The iron front of Spreckels' block has been repainted in good style.

R. Takenchi, of the Tsukuba, is the only name registered at the Hotel yesterday.

Princess Likelike will be at home, Waikiki residence, from two till five this afternoon.

The forest of masts on the water front does not look as if trade was altogether dead.

The Japanese training ship Tsukuba will receive 135 tons of coal from Mr. S. M. Carter to-day.

Honolulu society is to have the diversion of two weddings within the ensuing fortnight or three weeks.

The Women's Church Aid Society hold their regular monthly meeting at the Y. M. C. A. hall at half-past two this afternoon.

Mr. Wright, of the Foreign Office, had a narrow escape from choking, by a piece of bone catching in his throat, at dinner last evening.

The Custom House presents the shabbiest, if not the only shabby front of all the public buildings in Honolulu.

Water is to be shut off on Judd, Liliha and Lunalilo streets, and Nuuanu avenue, from six this morning till four this afternoon.

A competition for three coconut ornaments, made by A. Herring, begins at the Fort-street shooting gallery to-day, crack shots to be barred.

The tug Eleu, in approaching the barkentine Amelia yesterday, was dashed by a swell against the latter, the tug's bow breaking the barkentine's fore-channel.

Messrs. Allen & Robinson have received two draught horses, and Mr. Mark Robinson a carriage horse, by the schooner J. C. Ford from San Francisco.

Yesterday's police grist consisted of three cases of drunkenness, with the usual fine, and one of disorderly conduct, remanded. There was nothing slated at the Station all day.

The weather was very dull and threatening all day yesterday, and its effects were visible in a gloomy shade over the city and its business. The spell was broken by rain in earnest about seven o'clock.

Vice-Admiral Shestakoff and lady, with the Princess Wittgenstein and Galitzine, on Tuesday visited the Princess Likelike at Waikiki. The Princess was attended by her husband, Hon. A. S. Cleghorn; her daughter, the Princess Kaulani, and the latter's governess, Miss Gardiner. Col. Boyd and Major Holt were also present.

In consequence of the British steamer Almacraig having met with a disaster at, or near the port of Santa Rosalia, Lower California, the Secretary of State of the Republic of Mexico, notifies mariners (in order to prevent a like disaster) that the port of Santa Rosalia is situated in latitude 27 deg. 20 min. 15 sec. N., and longitude 112 deg. 16 min. 30 sec. W. of Greenwich.

Several large boat-loads of Japanese cadets were landed from the Tsukuba about five o'clock last evening. It is noticeable that the Japs are very expert at the oars. The cadets are for the most part strong, healthy-looking and bright, although as a rule of rather low stature. Their "togger" is as neat as that of any man-of-war's men ever seen here, and is of a regular European cut.

Mr. R. W. Laine has brought with him from the Twentieth National Encampment, a supply of "Register of the Department of California, Grand Army of the Republic, 1886." It is a stout manual, the cover bearing an illuminated impression of the G. A. R. badge. By indexes the Post to which any member in the Department belongs is easily found, and then in the Post catalogue his address is given. Geo. W. DeLong Post, No. 45, of Honolulu, has forty-five members registered. There are 125 Posts in the Department.

LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY.

Mr. Gibson yesterday reported to the house that His Majesty had signed the following bills: relating to the challenging of jurors, to the punishment for cruelty to animals, and to the encouragement of telegraph cables; to amend the rates of boats for hire, to regulate the construction of buildings, and to provide for the measurement of vessels upon registry at the Custom House. Mr. Kaunamano presented a report from the Sanitary Committee on petitions for and against the removal of Dr. Thompson, Government physician at Kohala. They recommended that the Board of Health should direct the doctor to give more attention to his medical practice, and also suggest to him that there are plenty of lawyers at Kohala, and that the lives of the people are of more importance than their legal rights. But, considering the Board of Health to be the proper authority in the case, they recommended that the petitions be laid on the table. The report was adopted. Mr. Kaunamano presented a majority report of the committee on items of $4,320 for pay of keepers of mausoleums and $300 for other expenses connected therewith, recommending that they be passed. Mr. Dole presented a minority report of the same committee, giving reasons at length in support of a recommendation to reject the items. Both reports were tabled to be considered with the Appropriation Bill. The bill to provide for the payment of outstanding Coronation accounts was referred to a select committee. Several bills were taken from the table and placed on the order of the day. The Indemnity bill was read a second time by title and referred to the Finance Committee. Mr. Dole's bill to regulate the granting of pensions was tabled. The bills granting pensions to Hon. W. C. Parke, Mr. Thos. W. Everett and Princess Poomakelani were the order for the afternoon. Mr. Parke's was reduced from $2,000 to $1,200 a year, and Mr. Everett's from $2,500 to the same figure, with the proviso added in each case, that, should either of the pensioners accept a salaried office, the pension should thereupon cease. After an animated discussion, Princess Poomakelani's pension was granted at the original figure of $3,500. On that the house adjourned.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING.

W. R. C.—stl—The House is out of order half the time, and the Government off its legal base all the time. We can only try to get in good work whenever there is a chance.
J—e Am—ra—If Waialua cannot get what she wants here, she will have to start a Legislature on her own account.
J. W. K—I—a—The shrievalty of Maui looks to me a little like the spider's parlor to the old fly.
J. K. Ka—n—m—no—The opium business is smoked out, and the kahuna Board of Health seems to have gone overboard, but I have done well for my constituents in shoving petitions through.
J. L. K—ul—k—u—I would not be a judge and lose all the fun of politics.
L. Ah—lo—A disposition to kick sometimes gains tender treatment for the cow.
J. K—au—Not such a bad billet, if it wasn't for the mosquitoes.

Reciprocal Courtesy.

A breakfast was given on board the Russian steamer Moskwa, from 12 noon till 3 p. m. yesterday, by Captain O. Radloff, Prince Ferdinand Wittgenstein, and Prince Proskowsky Galitzine, to the Hawaiian Minister of Foreign Affairs and others, namely: His Excellency Robt. J. Creighton, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Mr. J. S. Webb, Secretary to the Minister; Col. the Hon. Curtis P. Iaukea, His Majesty's Chamberlain; Major A. B. Hayley, Equerry to His Majesty; the Russian Vice Consul, Mr. J. W. Pfluger, wife and daughter; Mr. Henry F. Poor, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Berger, Mrs. F. P. Hastings, Miss Gardiner, Miss Winter, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Strong, Col. J. H. Boyd and Mr. David Dayton, Deputy Marshal. The occasion was a most enjoyable one, the hosts vying with each other in dispensing to their guests the hospitalities of the floating palace.

Aquatics.

The splash of oars for the November regatta is increasing nightly along the harbor front and out the channel. Almost every evening for some time past the Myrtle Club crews have been practising. Last evening a spurt took place between one of the King's crews and the junior crew of the Honolulu Club, round the spar buoy, but the former retired to its quarters on coming opposite them on the home stretch, having got about three lengths behind. Later on two of the King's crews were pulling abreast of each other, His Majesty accompanying one of them. The Honolulu four-oared crew—J. Dowsett, John Markham, W. Morse and H. Wodehouse—also had a lively spin. The Eclipse Club seems to be eclipsed this season.

An honest baby show is the noblest work of a farmer's club.

Native Genius.

A young man of German and native parentage, named August Herring, has opened an engraving establishment in a little shop on Fort-street, nearly opposite the Pantheon Stables. He has in various stages of embellishment many coconut ornaments engraved, in rare artistic style. One cup bears a very presentable likeness of the American Minister, Mr. Merrill, also representations of the United States arms and of the King's house at Kona, besides a coconut grove. Another not so far advanced under the graver has a portrait of Mrs. Merrill, recognizable at first sight, very finely engraved. A third shows pictures of Emperor William of Germany, King Kalakaua, Cook's monument, and a sea view at Kona. An egg shaped nut-shell has His Majesty and Cook's monument. A large round shell has engravings of Kamehameha, from the statue; Kamehameha in a spear-catching bout; Waianae Bay, Hawaii; and the hula dance. The artist has made some elegant vases for Queen Kapiolani, also coconut wine cups chased with grape vines and clusters. What is very remarkable is that Herring has acquired all this skill without a teacher. He certainly has claims to a share in the appropriation for educating Hawaiian youths abroad.

EARLY MARRIAGES.

CASES IN WHICH THEY SEEM REASONABLE AND DESIRABLE.

Unshared Tastes and Aspirations Fatal to Conjugal Happiness—Making the Best of an Unfortunate Bargain—The Sadness of Unequal Mating.

The one supremely important thing in marriage seems to me to be that the contracting parties should be sufficiently advanced to know what they are doing, and to have reasonable ground for believing that the judgment of their maturity will not condemn the choice of their youth. This certainly would come earlier in some stages of civilization than in others. Quiet, unambitious country folk, in districts remote from innovation, may marry at a very early age with safety. Such as they are, they are likely to continue to be, and the man who tills his own acres, and has no ambition beyond them, will be far happier to find some cheery young helpmate in the home to which he returns at nightfall; nor is it at all likely that either husband or wife will live to regret such an early choice.

At the other extreme of the social scale, also, early marriages seem reasonable and desirable. When people have been born into an atmosphere of luxury and culture, when both parties to the marriage contract have inherited the tradition of gentle breeding, neither is likely to shock or outgrow the other as time goes on.

The terrible danger is in the early marriage of people in a transition state, when, before the wings have sprung from the shoulders of Pegasus, he may be mated all unknowingly with the plodding plough-horse. Unshared aspirations, unshared tastes, unshared acquisitions—these are fatal to conjugal happiness. I know, for instance, a man in high, official position educated largely by contract with the world, by the very duties that have devolved on him and the attrition of every day's experiences, whose pretty, empty-headed wife must shock him by her very accent every time she opens her lips. He does his duty manfully, this man—but does any one suppose he would not be happier with a different wife?

NOTHING Sadder OR MORE TRAGIC.

I know women also, women of keen intellect and of both scholarly and social culture, who are married to men whom time has not improved or enlarged—women who think their own thoughts and live their own solitary lives in a world of which the man whom they married before they knew themselves or their own needs, does not even know the language. Short of crime, I think the world holds nothing sadder or more tragic than such unequal mating. As Amiel says in his wonderful "Journal Intime," "an irreparable evil brought about by one's self—a renunciation for life of liberty, of piece of mind—the very thought of it is maddening."

It is perhaps a mistake to pity most the one who is generally most commiserated in these ill-fated unions; for the one who has the highest range of possibilities, and the most intimate and exquisite need of sympathy, has also the most resources. Friends warm to him; books speak to him; the whole world of ideal beauty is ready to help him forget the unsatisfying real; but what shall console the duller mate whose one hope of warmth was in the nest of home? And yet it is no light thing for the man who aspires and struggles and achieves, or the woman who studies and dreams, to be bereft of that keen sympathy, that blessed oneness in marriage, which, to the heart at once true and tender, seems worth all other things put together.—Liquor Chandler Moulton in Brooklyn Magazine.

Cause of a Candidate's Defeat.

Parson Brownlow's son John used to tell a good story about the canvass for congress in a Tennessee district by Maj. Pettibone, a very eloquent man, a classical scholar, and with a range and depth of information which proved his defeat. It was said that he quoted the Latin poets, while his competitor told familiar jokes, adapted to the comprehension of the not over-intellectual populace of the region, and thus secured his election. One day during the canvass Taylor and Pettibone were addressing a crowd of mountaineers. Taylor dealt in jokes and stories suited to the comprehension of the crowd, and kept them in a roar of laughter. Pettibone followed in his usual learned and solemn style, saying that he should not attempt to excite the risibles of the intelligent crowd. "What's that he said?" asked a mountaineer of Brownlow, punching him in the ribs. "He said he should not attempt to excite your risibles," replied Brownlow. "Excite my risibles!" exclaimed the mountaineer; "what does he mean by that?" "Why, he means he won't make you laugh," replied Brownlow. "Then why didn't he say so? I can't vote for no sich!" And he didn't, and a good many others didn't, and Pettibone was defeated.—Ben: Parley Poore.

Treatment of Horses in Paris.

The horses are of the heavy southern breeds, generally sleek and well kept, and not infrequently furnishing specimens as handsome as can be seen in Ross Bonheur's pictures. They suffer terribly when the streets are slippery, which occurs whenever there is a slight mist or a little shower. The crown of the street is but slightly raised, but the slope toward the sides is quite enough to send the outer animal's feet from under him when it is necessary to drive near the gutter. There he lies sprawling, and either trodden on or kicking the animal next him. The injuries resulting from these concrete pavements are really more cruel than the whip.

No one can be much about Paris on a moist day without seeing dozens of omnibuses or carriage horses fall, and if he stops to observe he will sometimes remark a painful limp when they are again on their feet. Some used singly in some of the public wagons are exceedingly docile and intelligent, and if they slip on their haunches in a press of vehicles sit quietly like dogs till the obstructions are removed from in front of them, when they rise quietly and proceed as if nothing had happened.—Paris Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

Approaches Frigidity and Absurdity.

There is one bit of hospitality which one meets constantly in foreign houses, and in the west in our own country, which is sadly lacking in New England. This is the "bite" when one is making an hour's visit or a prolonged informal call. Of course, with our knowledge of what is good for our health, we don't wish to tempt people to eat between meals, but the regard for health is sometimes carried to a degree of conscientiousness which approaches frigidity and absurdity. A famous French visitor to the Hub said in another city, "O, yes, I like Boston very much, but it does seem as if the people live upon apples and cold water."

There is to be telephonic connections between Paris and Brussels. These cities are about 150 miles apart.

All men are poets, though but few can voice the melodies which are born in them. Mina George Band.

The DAILY HERALD will follow a straightforward, consistent, independent and moderate course in the discussion of public affairs. It will not be the servile organ of any clique, faction or party. At the same time an earnest support will be given to measures, promotive of the public welfare, and to individuals or organizations that may appear in the political field, with claims to popular confidence backed by worthy records and unassailable principles.

The undersigned would, however, rather point to his record as a journalist in this city for the past two years, as conductor of the Daily Bulletin, than make promises that, in general estimation, are valueless until justified by performance. A PRAYER FOR CONTENT.

Dear Lord, to Thee my knee is bent;
Give me content—
Full-pleased with what comes to me.
Whatever it be:
A humble roof—a frugal board,
And simple food;
The wintry fog piled beside
The chimney wide,
While the enwrithing flames upspout
And twine about
The brazen dogs that guard my hearth
And household worth;
Tinge with the embers' ruddy glow
The rafters low;
And let the sparks man with delight,
As fingers might
That mark deft measures of some tune
The children croon;
Then—with good friends, the rarest few,
Thou holdest true,
Ranged round about the blaze, to share
My comfort there—
Give me to claim the service meet
That makes each seat
A place of honor, and each guest
Loved as the rest.
—James Whitcomb Riley.

THE DANGERS OF SORE THROAT.

What a Physician Has to Say on the Subject—Causes and Cure.

Throat troubles are due not so much to climate, as to care, or rather the neglect of attention to the rules of health, which should govern the daily lives of every person. But one thing should always be remembered, and that is, all muzzles or wraps should at once be removed from the neck upon entering the house, church, lecture-room, concert hall, etc.; in fact, whenever one goes from out doors into any artificially heated room. The term throat diseases comprises a large number of affections of that organ and its immediate connecting structures, nearly all dependent upon a catarrhal inflammation of the mucous membrane of those parts. Now, catarrh, when located there, or in some other part of the body, is always due to a succession of sudden changes to which the body is subjected in one way or another. Once upon a time will not usually do it, but let people get well warmed up, and then suddenly expose themselves to the cold, and it will not take many such times to establish a catarrh of throat and lungs, which it may be a difficult thing to eradicate entirely from the system.

Many people are troubled more or less of the time with hoarseness. In this connection it may be incidentally remarked that hoarseness is a most excellent remedy for this trouble, and usually affords speedy relief as soon as it is used. The root is to be eaten when it is green, and not after it is dried. Another most excellent remedy for throat troubles, and one which is within the reach of every one, is common salt. Those people who use a great deal of salt are less subject to dryness and inflammation of the throat than are those who do not. A very good way to use it is to prepare it in the form of a gargle. Take a heaping teaspoonful of salt in a tumbler of water, and gargle three or four times a day. It is well to avoid going out in the cold for fifteen or twenty minutes after using it.

Many do not know to what dangers one is liable who has a severe sore throat. I do not mean diphtheria or scarlet fever, but the common, non-specific sore throat. The danger to be feared, and consequently to be avoided, is ulceration. If this takes place, the case becomes one of a serious nature. Prompt care and attention in the early history of a case of ordinary sore throat will generally prevent this additional and serious complication. For dryness of the throat a small piece of nitrated ammoniac, ten or fifteen grains every two or three hours, will be found very serviceable. It is best taken dry in the mouth and allowed to slowly dissolve.—Dr. D. M. Patterson in New England Farmer.

In a Field of "Century Plants."

These plants stand about fifteen feet apart, and when I tell you that sometimes their sharp lances touch each other, you can guess how rank and luxurious they grow here in their native sun and soil. And when I assure you that every one of these million of lances are sharp and strong enough to run a man clean through the body you can understand what a foolish thing it is to attempt to take a long walk through one of these apparently endless fields, with a fervid Mexican sun on your back; and all merely to save the feelings of a couple of trespassing mules.

But I learned something. I found, in the heart of this field, some sullen and sulky Mexicans, who, unlike all others I have encountered, refused to stop work or even take the least notice of my presence. These brown fellows, with breechcloths, and pigskins on their backs, were gathering pulque juice as a Yankee gathers his maple sirup. Each man had a little iron hoe in his left hand and a long gourd in his right. This gourd is about two feet long. The maguoy plant is "tapped" by cutting the heart or central leaves out a foot or two above the ground and digging a hole there for the sap to gather in with the little iron hoe. Then three times each day a man comes along with his pigskin, his gourd, and his hoe. He sticks his long gourd down into the hole for the sap, and then he sucks and sucks. Now, it is absurd to say, as many do, that he sucks the sap into his mouth. He merely sucks it into his gourd, then he jerks out his gourd, thrusts it into the neck of his pigskin, and while the liquor runs out, dips a little deeper into the heart of the plant with his hoe for a new flow of sap by the time he shall come again. I know I have written of this before, but never before was I absolutely certain that the man does not take the liquor into his mouth. You can drink pulque with confidence in this assertion.—Joaquin Miller's Letter.

Non-vanished Heaped About the Land.

A French geologist, Mons. de Lapparent, lately called the attention of the Paris Geological society to the effect gravitation has in heaping up sea-waters about the land. The continents are thus all situated at the tops of hills of water; and in crossing the Atlantic the ship has first to go down hill, then to cross a valley, and finally to climb another hill. The calculation has been made that in mid-ocean the surface may be more than half a mile (1,000 meters) below the level it would have if the continents exerted no attraction.—Arkansas Traveler.

By the Eminent French Artist.

The story is going around of a young reporter who visited a publishing house and then wrote: "Something new for the holiday trade is the Longfellow portfolio. The engravings are by the eminent French artist, De Laxe."—New York Sun.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1886.

A VALUABLE EXPERIMENT.

Mr. Herbert Purvis gives, in the Planters' Monthly, an account of an extensive experiment he is making in cinchona cultivation at Kukuihaele, Hawaii. He took a skilled gardener with him from England to Ceylon in 1883. The gardener he placed on a cinchona estate, to give him a knowledge of the cultivation; while he visited the chief cinchona districts of the island. What he saw and learned convinced him that cinchona would thrive in large districts of these Islands. Therefore he brought home with him a quarter ounce of seed, for which he paid at the rate of $100 an ounce. It was of an exceptionally good variety, yielding in Ceylon from 11 to 14 per cent of crystallized sulphate of quinine, on analysis, whereas Mr. Purvis believes the richest bark elsewhere known yielded less than 4 per cent. He returned to Hawaii in October, 1883, and at once began operations to start cinchona groves. Having selected a suitable situation in the forest above Kukuihaele, at an altitude of 2,000 feet, a small clearing was made in September, 1884, and the first batch of trees was planted out. They are now so well advanced that he was able to take bark from all the different kinds for analysis a short time ago, and hoped to hear of a favorable result very shortly. In 1884 Mr. Purvis obtained seed from a reputable variety grown in the cinchona region of the Andes, South America. He gives an account of progress made so far, in the following paragraphs:—

After a great deal of delay, caused by scarcity of labor, we got an area of ten acres cleared of forest—near the clearing before mentioned—on a gentle slope, and now we have all our young seedlings planted out to the number of about sixteen thousand (16,000, all of which are now thriving and looking remarkably well. The trees ought to be sufficiently old to give their first crop of bark in about two years' time.

I have now expended over $3,500, including cost of visit to Ceylon, but exclusive of all interest whatever, on the establishment of cinchona cultivation in Hawaii, and have every reason to believe that it is a success. Should it prove to be such, it would throw open a vast extent of land in the Hamakua, Hilo, and Kona districts on Hawaii, and also on Maui, which are above the line of sugar cultivation, and at present lying useless.

The man who makes valuable trees and plants grow, in former all but useless wilderness, is a decided benefactor to these Islands. More of his stamp are needed to place the Kingdom above the influence of all vicissitudes to the few products upon which it now wholly relies.

PENSIONS.

The door being effectually opened by the present Legislature, a rush of pension bills may be anticipated at subsequent sessions. Admitting that length of public service makes a valid claim for pensions, there should at least be some system in bestowing them. Probably the precedent established ensures all the older civil servants now in harness an early retirement on pensions. But for the younger portion of the service, a superannuation law ought to be passed, under which a slight percentage of salaries should go to a pension fund. Mr. Dole's bill may not have been comprehensive enough, but it was a move in the right direction. It was, at all events, far preferable to the promiscuous method adopted by the house. Every improper influence now has scope for its exercise in both the initiation and disposal of pension bills. Apart from the question of granting pensions at all, it must appear to every candid mind that the giving of nearly three times the annual gratuity to Princess Poamikelani which was voted to the two veteran public servants, whose cases were passed upon with hers, was as gross a piece of favoritism and discriminating legislation as ever any law-making body committed.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

"I have nothing to advertise. There is no business doing." That is just why you should advertise, our dear sir.

It is a pity more notice cannot be given when water is to be shut off in any locality. An advertisement issued only the evening previous to a shut-off at six in the morning is taking house-keepers rather short.

It appears that the repairs to Kukui Place are unfinished, so that criticism is premature. Moreover, the work is being done by Mr. George Lucas at his own expense, and is one of the many evidences he has given of public spirit. We therefore move to amend the complaint, making it a compliment instead, but would enter a demurrer against the application of the familiar proverb about judging unfinished work.

Yes, let us have more watering carts, and stop the nuisance of hose practice at every corner for half the day. However, if ever the streets are paved so as to stand a thorough daily sweeping, with modern implements for that purpose, the public health will be better consulted by dampening the streets as little as possible. Medical opinion, we have been told, is strongly against having the streets kept wet under the tropical sun.

A newspaper has been discovered at Peking, China, that was started in the year 911. It was established to fill a long-felt want.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky is not a medicated liquor, but a pure, unadulterated whisky for medicinal use, free from fuel oil and all noxious impurities, and is prescribed by physicians. It is a medicine for the sick and feeble, and a beverage for the million, because it is absolutely pure.

LOCAL NEWS.

A little rain makes the Fort-street gutters horrid.

The iron front of Spreckels' block has been repainted in good style.

R. Takenchi, of the Tsukuba, is the only name registered at the Hotel yesterday.

Princess Likelike will be at home, Waikiki residence, from two till five this afternoon.

The forest of masts on the water front does not look as if trade was altogether dead.

The Japanese training ship Tsukuba will receive 135 tons of coal from Mr. S. M. Carter to-day.

Honolulu society is to have the diversion of two weddings within the ensuing fortnight or three weeks.

The Women's Church Aid Society hold their regular monthly meeting at the Y. M. C. A. hall at half-past two this afternoon.

Mr. Wright, of the Foreign Office, had a narrow escape from choking, by a piece of bone catching in his throat, at dinner last evening.

The Custom House presents the shabbiest, if not the only shabby front of all the public buildings in Honolulu.

Water is to be shut off on Judd, Liliha and Lunalilo streets, and Nuuanu avenue, from six this morning till four this afternoon.

A competition for three cocoanut ornaments, made by A. Herring, begins at the Fort-street shooting gallery to-day, crack shots to be barred.

The tug Eleu, in approaching the barkentine Amelia yesterday, was dashed by a swell against the latter, the tug's bow breaking the barkentine's fore-channel.

Messrs. Allen & Robinson have received two draught horses, and Mr. Mark Robinson a carriage horse, by the schooner J. C. Ford from San Francisco.

Yesterday's police grist consisted of three cases of drunkenness, with the usual fine, and one of disorderly conduct, remanded. There was nothing slated at the Station all day.

The weather was very dull and threatening all day yesterday, and its effects were visible in a gloomy shade over the city and its business. The spell was broken by rain in earnest about seven o'clock.

Vice-Admiral Shestakoff and lady, with the Princes Wittgenstein and Galitzine, on Tuesday visited the Princess Likelike at Waikiki. The Princess was attended by her husband, Hon. A. S. Cleghorn; her daughter, the Princess Kaulani, and the latter's governess, Miss Gardiner. Col. Boyd and Major Holt were also present.

In consequence of the British steamer Almacraig having met with a disaster at, or near the port of Santa Rosalia, Lower California, the Secretary of State of the Republic of Mexico, notifies mariners (in order to prevent a like disaster) that the port of Santa Rosalia is situated in latitude 27 deg. 20 min. 15 sec. N., and longitude 112 deg. 16 min. 30 sec. W. of Greenwich.

Several large boat-loads of Japanese cadets were landed from the Tsukuba about five o'clock last evening. It is noticeable that the Japs are very expert at the oars. The cadets are for the most part strong, healthy-looking and bright, although as a rule of rather low stature. Their "toggery" is as neat as that of any man-of-war's men ever seen here, and is of a regular European cut.

Mr. R. W. Laine has brought with him from the Twentieth National Encampment, a supply of "Register of the Department of California, Grand Army of the Republic, 1886." It is a stout manual, the cover bearing an illuminated impression of the G. A. R. badge. By indexes the Post to which any member in the Department belongs is easily found, and then in the Post catalogue his address is given. Geo. W. DeLong Post, No. 45, of Honolulu, has forty-five members registered. There are 125 Posts in the Department.

LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY.

Mr. Gibson yesterday reported to the house that His Majesty had signed the following bills: relating to the challenging of jurors, to the punishment for cruelty to animals, and to the encouragement of telegraph cables; to amend the rates of boats for hire, to regulate the construction of buildings, and to provide for the measurement of vessels upon registry at the Custom House. Mr. Kaunamano presented a report from the Sanitary Committee on petitions for and against the removal of Dr. Thompson, Government physician at Kohala. They recommended that the Board of Health should direct the doctor to give more attention to his medical practice, and also suggest to him that there are plenty of lawyers at Kohala, and that the lives of the people are of more importance than their legal rights. But, considering the Board of Health to be the proper authority in the case, they recommended that the petitions be laid on the table. The report was adopted. Mr. Kaunamano presented a majority report of the committee on items of $4,320 for pay of keepers of mausoleums and $300 for other expenses connected therewith, recommending that they be passed. Mr. Dole presented a minority report of the same committee, giving reasons at length in support of a recommendation to reject the items. Both reports were tabled to be considered with the Appropriation Bill. The bill to provide for the payment of outstanding Coronation accounts was referred to a select committee. Several bills were taken from the table and placed on the order of the day. The Indemnity bill was read a second time by title and referred to the Finance Committee. Mr. Dole's bill to regulate the granting of pensions was tabled. The bills granting pensions to Hon. W. C. Parke, Mr. Thos. W. Everett and Princess Poomaikalani were the order for the afternoon. Mr. Parke's was reduced from $2,000 to $1,200 a year, and Mr. Everett's from $2,500 to the same figure, with the proviso added in each case, that, should either of the pensioners accept a salaried office, the pension should thereupon cease. After an animated discussion, Princess Poomaikalani's pension was granted at the original figure of $3,500. On that the house adjourned.

WHAT THEY ARE SAYING.

W. R. C.—stl—The House is out of order half the time, and the Government off its legal base all the time. We can only try to get in good work whenever there is a chance.

J.—e Am—ra—If Waialua cannot get what she wants here, she will have to start a Legislature on her own account.

J. W. K.—l—a—The shrievalty of Maui looks to me a little like the spider's parlor to the old fly.

J. K. Ka—n—m—no—The opium business is smoked out, and the kahuna Board of Health seems to have gone overboard, but I have done well for my constituents in shoving petitions through.

J. L. K.—ul—k—u—I would not be a judge and lose all the fun of politics.

L. Ah—lo—A disposition to kick sometimes gains tender treatment for the cow.

J. K.—au—Not such a bad billet, if it wasn't for the mosquitoes.

Reciprocal Courtesies.

A breakfast was given on board the Russian steamer Moskwa, from 12 noon till 3 p. m. yesterday, by Captain O. Radloff, Prince Ferdinand Wittgenstein, and Prince Prosorowsky Galitzine, to the Hawaiian Minister of Foreign Affairs and others, namely: His Excellency Robt. J. Creighton, Minister of Foreign Affairs; Mr. J. S. Webb, Secretary to the Minister; Col. the Hon. Curtis P. Iauken, His Majesty's Chamberlain; Major A. B. Hayley, Equerry to His Majesty; the Russian Vice Consul, Mr. J. W. Pfluger, wife and daughter; Mr. Henry F. Poor, Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Berger, Mrs. F. P. Hastings, Miss Gardiner, Mrs. Winter, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Strong, Col. J. H. Boyd and Mr. David Dayton, Deputy Marshal. The occasion was a most enjoyable one, the hosts vying with each other in dispensing to their guests the hospitalities of the floating palace.

Aquatics.

The plash of oars for the November regatta is increasing nightly along the harbor front and out the channel. Almost every evening for some time past the Myrtle Club crews have been practising. Last evening a spurt took place between one of the King's crews and the junior crew of the Honolulu Club, round the spar buoy, but the former retired to its quarters on coming opposite them on the home stretch, having got about three lengths behind. Later on two of the King's crews were pulling abreast of each other, His Majesty accompanying one of them. The Honolulu four-oared crew—J. Dowsett, John Markham, W. Morse and H. Wodehouse—also had a lively spin. The Eclipse Club seems to be eclipsed this season.

An honest baby show is the noblest work of a farmer's club.

Native Genius.

A young man of German and native parentage, named August Herring, has opened an engraving establishment in a little shop on Fort street, nearly opposite the Pantheon Stables. He has in various stages of embellishment many cocoanut ornaments engraved, in rare artistic style. One cup bears a very presentable likeness of the American Minister, Mr. Merrill, also representations of the United States arms and of the King's house at Kona, besides a cocoanut grove. Another not so far advanced under the graver has a portrait of Mrs. Merrill, recognizable at first sight, very finely engraved. A third shows pictures of Emperor William of Germany, King Kalakaua, Cook's monument, and a sea view at Kona. An egg shaped nut-shell has His Majesty and Cook's monument. A large round shell has engravings of Kamehameha, from the statue; Kamehameha in a spear-catching bout; Waianae Bay, Hawaii; and the hula dance. The artist has made some elegant vases for Queen Kapiolani, also cocoanut wine cups chased with grape vines and clusters. What is very remarkable is that Herring has acquired all this skill without a teacher. He certainly has claims to a share in the appropriation for educating Hawaiian youths abroad.

TRADE POINTERS.

E. P. Adams & Co. hold their regular cash sale at 10 o'clock this morning.

Anybody desirous of going into yachting will find a chance open in an advertisement to-day.

Mr. J. Lyons has the selling of the Bethel property at auction, instead of the gentleman whose name was inadvertently mentioned yesterday.

At noon to-day a grand opportunity will be afforded capitalists for the purchase of an extensive and valuable property. The entire property of the East Maui Plantation Co., situated at Makawao, Island of Maui, will then be offered to the highest bidder, at the upset price of $50,000, payable in U. S. gold coin, at the salesroom of E. P. Adams & Co., Queen street. Particulars will be found in the advertisement in this paper.

EARLY MARRIAGES.

CASES IN WHICH THEY SEEM REASONABLE AND DESIRABLE.

Unshared Tastes and Aspirations Fatal to Conjugal Happiness—Making the Best of an Unfortunate Bargain—The Sadness of Unequal Matings.

The one supremely important thing in marriage seems to me to be that the contracting parties should be sufficiently advanced to know what they are doing, and to have reasonable ground for believing that the judgment of their maturity will not condemn the choice of their youth. This certainly would come earlier in some stages of civilization than in others. Quiet, unambitious country folk, in districts remote from innovation, may marry at a very early age with safety. Such as they are, they are likely to continue to be; and the man who tills his own acres, and has no ambition beyond them, will be far happier to find some cheery young helpmate in the home to which he returns at nightfall; nor is it at all likely that either husband or wife will live to regret such an early choice.

At the other extreme of the social scale, also, early marriages seem reasonable and desirable. When people have been born into an atmosphere of luxury and culture, when both parties to the marriage contract have inherited the tradition of gentle breeding, neither is likely to shock or outgrow the other as time goes on.

The terrible danger is in the early marriage of people in a transition state, when, before the wings have sprung from the shoulders of Pegasus, he may be mated all unknowingly with the plodding plough-horse. Unshared aspirations, unshared tastes, unshared acquisitions—these are fatal to conjugal happiness. I know, for instance, a man in high official position educated largely by contract with the world, by the very duties that have devolved on him and the attrition of every day's experiences, whose pretty, empty-headed wife must shock him by her very accent every time she opens her lips. He does his duty manfully, this man—but does any one suppose he would not be happier with a different wife?

NOTHING Sadder OR MORE TRAGIC.

I know women also, women of keen intellect and of both scholarly and social culture, who are married to men whom time has not improved or enlarged—women who think their own thoughts and live their own solitary lives in a world of which the man whom they married before they knew themselves or their own needs; does not even know the language. Short of crime, I think the world holds nothing sadder or more tragic than such unequal matings. As Amiel says in his wonderful "Journal Intime," "an irreparable evil brought about by one's self—a renunciation for life of liberty, of peace of mind—the very thought of it is maddening."

It is perhaps a mistake to pity most the one who is generally most commiserated in these ill-fated unions; for the one who has the highest range of possibilities, and the most intimate and exquisite need of sympathy, has also the most resources. Friends warm to him; books speak to him; the whole world of ideal beauty is ready to help him forget the unsatisfying real; but what shall console the duller mate whose one hope of warmth was in the nest of home! And yet it is no light thing for the man who aspires and struggles and achieves, or the woman who studies and dreams, to be bereft of that keen sympathy, that blessed oneness in marriage, which, to the heart at once true and tender, seems worth all other things put together.—Louis Chandler Moulton in Brooklyn Magazine.

Case of a Candidate's Defeat.

Parson Brownlow's son John used to tell a good story about the canvass for congress in a Tennessee district by Maj. Pettibone, a very eloquent man, a classical scholar, and with a range and depth of information which proved his defeat. It was said that he quoted the Latin poets, while his competitor told familiar jokes, adapted to the comprehension of the not over-intellectual populace of the region, and thus secured his election. One day during the canvass Taylor and Pettibone were addressing a crowd of mountaineers. Taylor dealt in jokes and stories suited to the comprehension of the crowd, and kept them in a roar of laughter. Pettibone followed in his usual learned and solemn style, saying that he should not attempt to excite the risibles of the intelligent crowd. "What's that he said?" asked a mountaineer of Brownlow, punching him in the ribs. "He said he should not attempt to excite your risibles," replied Brownlow. "Excite my risibles!" exclaimed the mountaineer; "what does he mean by that?" "Why, he means he won't make you laugh," replied Brownlow. "Then why didn't he say so? I can't vote for no sich!" And he didn't, and a good many others didn't, and Pettibone was defeated.—Ben: Parley Poore.

Treatment of Horses in Paris.

The horses are of the heavy southern breeds, generally sleek and well kept, and not infrequently furnishing specimens as handsome as can be seen in Rosa Bonheur's pictures. They suffer terribly when the streets are slippery, which occurs whenever there is a slight mist or a little shower. The crown of the street is but slightly raised, but the slope toward the sides is quite enough to send the outer animal's feet from under him when it is necessary to drive near the gutter. There he lies sprawling, and either he kicks on or he kicks the animal next him. The injuries resulting from these concrete pavements are really more cruel than the whip.

No one can be much about Paris on a moist day without seeing dozens of omnibuses or carriage horses fall, and if he stops to observe he will sometimes remark a painful limp when they are again on their feet. Some used singly in some of the public wagons are exceedingly docile and intelligent, and if they slip on their haunches in a press of vehicles sit quietly like dogs till the obstructions are removed from in front of them, when they rise quietly and proceed as if nothing had happened.—Paris Cor. San Francisco Chronicle.

Approaches Frigidity and Absurdity.

There is one bit of hospitality which one meets constantly in foreign houses, and in the west in our own country, which is sadly lacking in New England. This is the "bite" when one is making an hour's visit or a prolonged informal call. Of course, with our knowledge of what is good for our health, we don't wish to tempt people to eat between meals, but the regard for health is sometimes carried to a degree of conscientiousness which approaches frigidity and absurdity. A famous French visitor to the Hub said in another city: "O, yes, I like Boston very much, but it does seem as if the people live upon apples and cold water."—Exchange.

There is to be telephonic connections between Paris and Brussels. These cities are about 150 miles apart.

All men are poets, though but few can voice the melodies which are born in them. Mina George Sand.

INVITED TO SUBSCRIBE.

Business men are solicited to test the advantages of THE DAILY HERALD as an

A large edition will be printed each day, to be circulated in Honolulu and throughout the Islands, regardless of subscriptions, until a regular paying list of subscribers is obtained on the public becoming acquainted with the merits of the paper.

The DAILY HERALD will furnish a fresh and readable record of events in city and country. It will also give, from time to time as received, a summary of the latest news from the outside world, in concise and systematic form.

The DAILY HERALD will follow a straightforward, consistent, independent and moderate course in the discussion of public affairs. It will not be the servile organ of any clique, faction or party. At the same time an earnest support will be given to measures promotive of the public welfare, and to individuals or organizations that may appear in the political field, with claims to popular confidence backed by worthy records and unassailable principles.

The undersigned would, however, rather point to his record as a journalist in this city for the past two years, as conductor of the Daily Bulletin, than make promises that, in general estimation, are valueless until justified by performance. He can only pledge himself to do his best to produce a thorough, an influential, and in every way acceptable, daily newspaper.
