A Witness Who Wouldn't Be Bullied.
(The San Francisco.)

"Now, then, go ahead with the procession." There was an exciting horse-stealing case tried at Bodie last week, and the opposing counsel bullied the witnesses in a manner calculated to have convulsed even a Frisco lawyer with envy. Finally the name of a well-to-do old granger was called, and he stepped upon the stand, carrying a double-barrel shotgun in his hand.

"What are you going to do with that weapon?" asked the judge.

"Wall, I'll tell you, Squire," said the old man, cheerily. "I learn some talk around here this morning that the livers calculated for as no some questions about a little horse misundestandin' I had myself when I was a young man back in their states, and about my havin' an extra wife down in Texas somewhar. Now I'm willing to tell all I know about this here particular case, but I ain't going to take any bogus nonsense from anybody. I'm a law-abidin' man, Judge, but I ride powerfully easy. Now, then, go ahead with the procession, and placing his cocked gun across his lap the witness turned to the attorneys with a bland smile.

There was a solemn pause for a few minutes, and then the witness was excused, and stepped down amid terrific applause.

"It's Your Deal," (Argonaut.)

Col. Wolfe, of Indiana, told an amusing incident that had occurred between himself and Gen. Hatch on a recent meeting. The last time the two had met was in Tennessee, near Memphis, at the early part of the war. Hatch was in the regular service, and Wolfe a volunteer officer. On the night in question some movements were in operation, and orders were coming in thick and fast. To while away the tedium of the time, the two officers sat down to a game of poker in a log cabin which they occupied as headquarters. The play was interrupted by the arrival of frequent orders, who were promptly attended to, and then the game proceeded. After a while, however, orders began to come in at both doors, and the situation grew critical. Maj. Hatch started to his feet with the exclamation, "Wolfe, this thing is getting too hot! Mind, it's your deal," and, leaving cards and stakes on the table, he hurried from the hotel and mounted his horse. A few days ago the narrator of the story entered the Bretton house, in Winfield, and handing his grip to the clerk, waited the movements of a gray-headed gentleman in order to place his autograph on the register. The former, having entered his name, handed the pen to the Indian: his eyes met, and recognition was mutual.

"Hello, Hatch," said the ex-volunteer officer, "who would have thought of seeing you here!" A twinkle came to the eyes of the veteran addressed, and, extending his hand, he dryly remarked: "Wolfe, it's your deal!" A quarter of a century had elapsed since that unfinished game of poker, and since that night in the negro quarters till the accidental meeting in the hotel at Winfield they had not seen each other.

A Two-Dollar Marriage and a Carpet.
(Chicago Tribune.)

"We want to be married on the dome of the capitol," said Nunley Clark, a Warren county youth, entering Justice Eggleston's office in Des Moines, with Miss Jettie Collins, a pretty maiden of Warren county, leaning on his arm.

NOTICE.

The undersigned begs to call the attention of Planters and others who may want to move a succession of light loads for moderate distances, to the system of TELPHERAGE.

By which a nearly continuous stream of sugar cane or other material may be moved by means of electric motors, drawing back-ets, baskets or other containers, along a stationary steel rod suspended on posts, the power being supplied at a central station by means of a steam engine or water power working an electric dynamo.

This system does not profess to compete with tramways where the ground is suitable for such a mode of conveyance, but the circumstances under which its advantages are apparent are:

Where the ground is very rough, uneven or gully, or where the gradients are steep, as it has no difficulty in drawing a load up an incline of 1 in 10.

Where the space for a tramway cannot well be spared, or over swamps or other ground impracticable for tramways.

It has the advantage of the overhead wire rope system without its disadvantages, as there is not a long wire rope to drag, with its attendant friction and loss of power,

Whilst it can turn on sharp curves.

The main line can be moved to different positions at a moderate expense.

A line is now working at Glynde, in Sussex.

THE QUEENSLAND SUGAR INDUSTRY.

The labor trouble is far greater in Queensland than in this country, a Royal Commission having decided that the bulk of South Sea Islanders on plantations should be returned to their own homes. A Court of Compensation has been created, and the planters are proving the value of the services of these men, and claiming the gross estimate as the amount to be awarded by the Court. The value the planters put upon their Kanaka labor and the wages paid men under contract are so disproportionately as to challenge either the honesty or fairness of the planter, or both. Anyhow, the policy of justice and humanity adopted by the Queensland Government under pressure of public opinion at home and abroad, will cost the country dear.

B. D. Morehead & Co., in their annual report of the Queensland sugar industry, printed in the Mackay "Standard," state that the condition is far more cheering than was anticipated at the commencement of the season. Despite the labor difficulty, growth, and the uncertainty regarding the future, the season of 1885 on the whole proved exceptionally good. Messrs. Morehead & Co. say:

In general, the prospects for the coming season are hopeful. Prices of sugar are not high, but there has been an appreciable rise in the market, although by no means as great as was anticipated by some enthusiasts. The actual average difference between this and last year's prices may probably be represented by the sum of $2 ($10 per ton, and this, although an improvement, when the disastrously low prices of 1884 are taken into consideration, is not very great. The low prices ruling have, however, not been an unmixed evil; many of the foreign sugar manufacturers having found the business too unprofitable to continue. The probable yield of sugar for last year may be roughly estimated at something over 50,000 tons, but this estimate does not indicate exactly the amount of sugar which might have been produced, inasmuch as many of the mills have been compelled to cease crushing owing to the rains, notwithstanding that cane was lying ready. The general quality of the sugar produced has been super-excellent all through the colony, and the improvement is due to more care in the cultivation of the cane, and to the adoption of sulphur processes in clarification. The general area under cane cultivation is, on the whole, probably less than last season, for although in a few districts plantations have been enlarged, there has been a considerable diminution of area in others, more especially in the Burketon district and the southern portion of the colony. The season also has in many instances, from its very excellence, proved unfavorable to many of the smaller cane planters who do not possess mills of their own, for the large mill owners having as much cane as they can crush, decline to purchase that of the small planters, except at unprofitably low rates.

The Queensland Government has a scheme under way which must materially aid in developing the sugar industry, by providing mill facilities for small cultivators. It is known as the Central Mill scheme. The measure contemplates advances by the Government to planters on the security of their plantations, in aid of the erection of mills in central districts, where those among them who may have no mills of their own can get their cane crushed at fixed prices. The Government originally proposed to apply £100,000 ($500,000) for this purpose, but the sum was subsequently reduced to £50,000 ($250,000). The money will in all probability be spent in and north of Mackay, and an agent has been appointed to visit and report on the most suitable sites for mills. By this far-sighted policy the sugar industry of Queensland will be built up on a firm basis, because the appropriation of $250,000 for the construction of crushing mills will be largely supplemented if the experiment proves successful. Queensland is one of the most heavily burdened colonies of the Australian group by public debt, but it is progressing steadily through the use of borrowed money.

No book ever published contains so much reliable and valuable information regarding the Hawaiian Islands in such small compass as the HONOLULU ALMANAC AND DIRECTORY, 1886. Price, 50 cents.

THE ROYAL VISIT TO HOOKENA.

The Sunday School Festival—A Large Gathering.

The Sunday School festival at Hookena, Hawaii, last Saturday, was largely attended and carried through successfully. The presence of His Majesty the King, the Princess Liliuokalani and the Royal Hawaiian Band added much to the success of the festival. Early on the morning of Saturday people were moving to the beach at Hookena from all directions. At 8 o'clock the band played in front of the residence of Hon. D. H. Nahunu, where the Royal party was staying. In the meantime the Native church was rapidly filled. As it only holds about three hundred, a large lanai was erected to further accommodate the people, and this also was crowded. It is estimated that over eight hundred people were present. At 10 o'clock His Majesty and the Princess arrived at the church, the band playing the National Anthem. As they entered the building the entire audience stood up.

The exercises opened with prayer by the Rev. A. O. Forbes. This was followed by singing and recitation by the different schools from the Kohala district in the following order: Ainaka, 20 scholars; Makakala, 22; Kahel, 12; Niuli, 6; Halawa, 8; Komohana, 4. After this came the chorus "Home Kaliai." His Majesty delivered a brief address, which was listened to with the closest attention, and then a recess was taken.

At 10 o'clock the exercises were resumed. After a hymn, four Christian Chinamen from Kekaha, assisted by a native, sang a song. Then came singing and recitals by the schools from the district of North Kona in the following order: Holualoa, children, 16 members; Holualoa, adults, 21; Kailua, children, 14; Kailua, adults, 12; Keahou, children, 10; Keahou, adults, 40. The district of South Kona followed: Honanua, 10 members; Hookena, children, 125; Hookena, adults, 20; Miloli, 14. The exercises concluded with the singing of "Hawaii Pono!" everyone present joining.

Bandmaster Berger speaks of the singing as being very good on the whole. He particularly mentions that by the adults from Keahou, and says he never heard better chorus singing. The recitations were all carefully given, showing that pains had been taken in their preparation. Everyone present at the festival went home highly pleased. There were present at the festival three hundred and seventy-three Sunday-school pupils.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the band played in the lanai. While they were playing the rain came down in torrents, and a regular kona storm set in—an unusual thing for Hookena. They had not had any rain for the past five months.

His Majesty visited Keahou, his birthplace, on Sunday, going from Hookena in a whaleboat. The former place is the prettiest on the coast.

A novel feature at the festival was ice cream, sold by an enterprising native from Honolulu, but the people did not take to it. Bandmaster Berger and the Rev. Mr. Forbes were the only two white men at the festival.

Supreme Court.

AT CHAMBERS—BEFORE JUDD, C. J.

TUESDAY, March 16th.

In re estate of Tong Kim, late of Honolulu, deceased. The Court heard the petition of Ph. Opiergelt and Joseph Hyman, administrators, praying that their accounts be approved and that they be discharged. The Court, after examining said accounts and no objections having been offered, ordered that the administrators' accounts be approved and that they be discharged. The estate is shown to be insolvent, paying dividends at the rate of 11½ per cent. The total assets were $1,303.23.

In re Mrs. M. S. Rose vs. Henry Smith, ejectment. Hearing on defendant's motion that plaintiff produce for inspection of defendant's counsel the deeds upon which the plaintiff's action is based. Counsel in argument being heard, the Court takes the matter for consideration. Ashford & Ashford for the motion, F. M. Hatch for plaintiff.

In re Emma Beckley vs. Frank Metcalf and others. Bill in equity for general relief of the rights and interest of said plaintiff in the estate of the late Theophilus Metcalf, deceased. The Court heard argument of counsel on demurrer, decision to be rendered in writing after deliberation. Paul Neumann for plaintiff; Ashford & Ashford, J. A. Magoon, Jomo Austin and S. B. Dole for defendants.

In re John H. Wood vs. B. F. Dillingham. Bill in equity for specific performance. This case occupied all of the afternoon. Plaintiff asks for the performance of an agreement "and asks for relief. Defendant answers that the acreage of land on which the agreement was based is short and asks that said agreement be determined upon the acreage of land ascertained since said agreement. At 4 p. m. the Court adjourned to resume the case again tomorrow morning. Kinney & Peterson and W. A. Whiting for plaintiff; F. M. Hatch and S. B. Dole for defendant.

BEFORE MR. JUSTICE PRESTON.

Edward C. Rowe, painter and paper-hanger, appeared before the Court and asked that he be adjudged a bankrupt. The Court adjudged him a bankrupt and ordered the Marshal to take possession of his property, and set Thursday, the 25th instant, as the time for creditors to prove their claims. Liabilities are $9,588.86; assets, $7,186.13.

The King's Own meet at 8 o'clock this morning at the Armory and will march to the back of Punchbowl, where they will camp for the day. Target practice will be indulged in.

The Oahu Colonization Scheme.

Mr. Spruill, C. E., Mr. B. F. Dillingham and Mr. D. Logan returned to town on Saturday last after a thorough examination of the lands of the proposed Oahu colony and adjoining districts. They managed to get over a good deal of ground, having traveled about 115 miles from Tuesday to Saturday. Mr. Spruill made the tour of inspection on behalf of John Fowler & Co., Ltd., England, who desire a report from a reliable and competent person, of the character and capabilities of the soil with a possible view to investment. Without anticipating this report or prejudging it in any way, it may be mentioned that Mr. Spruill was well pleased with what he saw. There was no difficulty to be apprehended regarding water, which may be provided by sinking wells and storing the surface drainage. The party visited the properties of Mr. Gasper Silva and Mr. James Gay, northeast of the Waianae range, and saw what could be accomplished by artesian wells in the way of irrigation. These gentlemen have between them 315 acres leased to cultivators of rice, for which Mr. Gay receives $25 an acre yearly rental and Mr. Silva $30 an acre. Two or three years ago this was dry pasture land. Wells were bored and there is now an unending supply of water for rice cultivation. The Mormons have fifty acres of sugar cane under cultivation, and they are taking off from four to six tons per acre from plant cane and a four tons from ratoon. This is entirely without irrigation and with very indifferent cultivation. The Mormon ranch, which has between two and three thousand acres of similar land in the Malakalana Valley capable of yielding between five and six tons of sugar per acre as it stands. Great interest is being taken in the colonization scheme in the rural districts, where the value and capabilities of the land are known.

A Fine Entertainment.

Mr. Fred W. Millis, the humorist and ventriloquist, was greeted with a good audience last evening at the Hawaiian Opera House, and made a great hit. His entertainment is one of the finest that has been presented in this city for a long time, and there was not one dissatisfied person among the audience. The first part of the programme consisted of a series of impersonations, particular mention of which must be made of the characters of "Mr. Muldoon" and "The Modern Troubadour." In the latter Mr. Millis gave an original song in three different voices, with guitar accompaniment.

In the second part Mr. Millis introduced, with the aid of six manikins, the most wonderful feats in ventriloquism. The rapid change of voice was marvellous, and the local hits fairly brought down the house. One of the figures imitated a Chinaman, and as soon as it commenced to sing six Chinese in the audience in the gallery jumped up from their seats and made a lively exit, causing much amusement.

Mr. Millis will give another performance on Thursday evening, when we expect to see the Opera House crowded in every part. There will be an entire change of programme. Secure your seats early at Wiseman's, Merchant street.

Arrival of the Royal Party.

Yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock the steamer W. G. Hall arrived from Hookena, Hawaii, with His Majesty the King and Her Royal Highness Princess Liliuokalani on board. Bandmaster Berger and the members of the Royal Hawaiian Band also returned by her. As the steamer entered the harbor, flying the Royal Standard, a salute of twenty-one guns was fired from the shore battery. The Royal party were met at the wharf by His Majesty's Ministers, the Chamberlain and Vice Chamberlain and other officials. On coming down the gang plank His Majesty and the Princess were greeted with loud and enthusiastic cheers. His Majesty was received at the Palace by a detachment of the Prince's Own.

Police Court.

BEFORE POLICE JUSTICE BICKERTON.

TUESDAY, March 16th.

Paul Smithers and George A. Dunn were charged with affray, and each fined $5, with $10 costs.

Sam Tin and Quang Yen Pa, charged with gaming, were remanded until the 19th.

Ulli, remanded from the 15th for vagrancy, was discharged.

Akama was charged with the larceny of $10, the property of Wm. Maloy. After hearing the evidence, he was discharged. J. M. Poeppel appeared for him.

Civil Court.

BEFORE POLICE JUSTICE BICKERTON.

TUESDAY, March 16th.

James Campbell vs. Uyeno Kauge, Japanese, refusing to do his duty under contract. The defendant claimed that his contract is for house work, and not for outside work, and he therefore refuses to work outside. The contract was produced by the plaintiff. The defendant admitted he has always worked outside before under contract. His Honor ordered him to return to his employer and serve according to his contract, and pay $3 costs.

Mail Matters.

The Post Office dispatched by the Mararoa yesterday morning for San Francisco 3,025 letters, weighing 77 pounds 3 ounces, and 983 packages of papers, weighing 173 pounds. During the month there has been dispatched up to date, by three steamers and one sailing vessel, 8,700 letters, weighing 212 pounds 6 ounces, and 2,801 packages of papers, weighing 467 pounds. The Geo. W.

Elder brought from San Francisco March 7th 4,677 letters, weighing 162 pounds, and 24 bags of papers.

The sale of furniture at Mr. Peacock's residence by Mr. Lewis J. Levey takes place at 10 o'clock this morning.

Mr. J. F. Brown was out riding with his family yesterday morning, when on Fort street a carriage struck the sidewalk and the occupants were thrown out, fortunately without receiving serious injury.

Not to be Killed.

[Harper's Monthly.]
"If there was a prize for suicide, it ought to go to the Irishman who vowed 'to hang himself or perish in the attempt.'"

"Our talk was being carried on upon the hurricane deck of a homeward-bound steamer from the cape, in the full enjoyment of doing nothing, after all the excitement of Zululand and the Transvaal border."

"I kin beat that, I reckon," said Mr. Dolarsworth, who was one of our party. "How any of ye ever been at St. Malo?"
"I was there in 1864, Mr. Dolarsworth," said I: "so I can guess to what story you refer, but I am sure those gentlemen will be glad to hear you tell it."

"Wa'al, I guess it's worth tellin'," rejoined the Yankee, with a grim chuckle, "though I don't know if they'll believe it, neither. You see that was a young French officer that in my time, one o' them young ones that think the bull world's out of jist if their toes ache. One day—having nothing better to do, I suppose—he made up his mind to kill himself, and like them highfalutin' Frenchers always do, he concluded to fix it so his suicide would be 'the talk of all Europe.' So up he gets airy one mornin', and down he goes to the beach, takin' with him a rope, and a pistol, and a vial of pizen and a match-box. Then he climbs up one of the tide-mark posts that's set in a row that, just as the sea was close up to it, and he hitches one end of the rope around the cross-piece at the top, and the other end around his neck, and then he sat his clothes afire with a match, and swallowed the pizen, and let slip the pistol at his head, and chucked himself off the post, all at once."

"Well, he certainly deserved to succeed, after taking so much pains," said Lieut. Mason, as well as he could speak for laughing.

"Guess he didn't, though," answered Mr. Dolarsworth; "for it was just a case of 'too many cooks spoil the broth.' The bullet, 'stead of going through his skull—what it wouldn't have found many brains to stop it, I reckon—cut the rope, and let him slide down ker-swish into the sea, and put out the fire right away. In' the salt water made him sick, and so he got rid of the pizen; and as if all that wasn't disappointing enough, the flood tide washed him ashore 'all alive and fresh,' as them Irish fish-dealers say. But if he wanted to be 'the talk of all Europe,' I guess he got his wish; for every newspaper on the hull continent had that story fore the next week, and the poor critter got so eternally laughed at that he concluded to jine the Mexican expedition till the 'blew over.'"

A Maiden's Bravery.
(Columbus O.) Dispatch.]

"Didst ever hear that seeds of death,
O, rare and radiant maiden,
Were often found in Cupid's breath,
And in sweet kisses laden?"

INOCULATION.

"I may have heard that story told,
But far ne'er penetrated
This breast, but off the surface rolled—
I've been inoculated."

OSCUATION.

The hint was broad enough for him
Who questioned her and waited;
He raised the maiden's bonnet brim,
And then they osculated.

"It's English, You Know."
(Albany Times.)

The difficulty with which a Briton's mother tongue can be understood in an English speaking community is here well illustrated.

Sir R. Gifford Snow, Essex, Eng., was registered recently at the Delavan house. He had hardly reached No. 1,022, his room on the fourth floor, when he summoned a bell boy.

"Go down to the booking office, my lad," said he, "and have the books sent up here."

The brightly colored boy seemed puzzled.

"Ah, my man, please go to the booking office and bring me a form, you know."

The colored boy did not know, but he went. He first asked Sam Thompson, the head of the bell boys, for a form for No. 1,022.

"Why don't you go and get that form yourself?" indignantly responded Sam.

"What is it?"

Sam coughed. "I reckon de las' form was took when dem Buffalo men went away. But go ax Mr. Hamlin."

Mr. Hamlin was appealed to, and he promptly handed several telegraph blanks to the bell boy. Mr. Snow took them and said: "Ah, thank you. Ah, ah, my man, please ask the booking clerk to send me a monitor, you know."

"Yes, sah; a—monitor?"

"Yes, sah," replied R. Gifford Snow, impatiently, "a monitor."

The boy descended and asked Sam for a monitor. "Seems to me you boys know nothing. Mr. Hamlin keeps all de monitors locked up."

Mr. Hamlin was away, and Mr. Roosevelt, his assistant, was appealed to.

"Monitor," said he. "Let's see, what does he mean by a monitor? Who is this galoot, anyway?"

"He's an Englishman."

"Oh," Then Roosevelt ruminated: "I guess its a new English drink. Go and ask the barkeeper to make up a monitor."

But Mr. Pyrie, the stationer, at that moment interposed and handed the bell-boy a railroad guide, which he carried to 1,022 and gave to the guest. It was evidently what he wanted.

"Ah, thank you, my man—ah, now would you tell the proprietor of the 'ouse that I fear I have lost me brasses, do you know?"

A discussion ensued over the meaning of "brasses," but Mr. Hamlin, returning, interpreted it to mean the baggage checks, which were found in possession of the baggage-man and handed over to the guest.

"We got along very easily with our French guests," says Mr. Hamlin, "but occasionally our queen's English is a little at fault."

A Novel Situation.
(Texas Siftings)

"Augustus bent over with his tall, slight figure, and gazed lovingly into her dark eyes."

A Barking Chicken.
(San Francisco Chronicle.)

"Talking of dogs," said the colonel, "talking of dogs, a friend of mine has a Gordon setter. She's the most sympathetic dog I ever heard of. She has the paternal instinct so strong that she has brought up a whole farmyard."

"I've known of such cases," said the judge.

"But this is the most extraordinary. There was a hen had a chicken. The hen died, and the chicken was in sore distress. This dog took pity on it and suckled the chicken."

"Yes," said the doctor, "that's curious, but it is not uncommon."

"And now," said the colonel solemnly, "that chicken barks."

A Journalistic Greeting.
(New York Tribune.)

Miss Mamie Larkin Hatchet, the editor of The Southern Woman, published at Henderson, N. C., says in her salutatory: "A callow birdling nestles among you, its fledged wings eager for flight, eager to penetrate the mysteries of the bright far-off canopy of blue and reveal amid the dreamed-of beauties of the wide, wide world. And the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph, which is edited by a nervous man, unfeelingly says: 'The Telegraph extends its strong right hand to the callow birdling. Come, Mamie, and nestle right on top of our exchange pile, where the stained window may shed its soft roseate glow upon your unfledged wings. If you don't want anything you see don't ask for it. Mingle your carol, dear girl, with anything in reach, but drop the spices; they will arouse suspicion. No need to seek a refuge in the alien wood. Keep your seat! There is no fire in the house! Warble right where you are, if you're going to stick to journalism.'"

Full river Advance: Nothing occurs a modest but hungry old hen so much as when she has made a hearty breakfast off an old shoe lace and finds the unfortunate shoe still at the end of it.
