A reptiemen who takes a business view of most things, when recently asked respecting a person of quite a poetic temperament, replied : Oh he is one of those men who have sourings after the infinite and divings after the unfathomshis, but who never pay cash.

A poor little church-goer asked his mother where the "mills with a thousand tails " lived. " Cattle with a thousand tails, child?" exclaimed the astroished parent, "there are no each things." " Ten there are," retarned the boy ; "the minu- braham, Warren and Easthampton ; five or six tor said, the cattle with a thousand talls were the Lord's I".

Apropos of the tornado which recently swept over Knokuk and Washington counties, Iows, by board and teaching is $8 per week for each papil which so many lives were lost and so much proparty destroyed, we observe that one journal has in a single sontenes assumed up its terrific force : " It was a wind that just sat up on its hind legs ". beiweid fine

As a fashionable young lady fresh from boarding school, came to her housest father's breakfast table, instead of apeaking English and saying kind should be healthy and happy-is the greatest "Good morning," she spoke French, and said "Box jour." "Of course, the bone's yours, if yus say so," responded the practical old gentle. to your own best conception of duty. Never man, as he hunded her the ossified portion of the brood over troubles that you have, and be sure beelstack.

A Southern paper has this among its "personals" : " St. Pani is nway out West with Minnenots. St. John will spend the sommer in New Brunswick. Elmira is in New York. Elizabeth is in Now Jersey. Marietts is in Ohio. Charlione is in North Carolina. Augusta is down in Georgia. They don't intend visiting each other this season."

When Jones' board bill was presented, he said he did not have enough money to pay it, opening his wallet at the same time. His landlady, seeing quite a number of bank notes, rather doubted his wurd, and sequired what decomination those bills ware. "Denomination !" said Jones. - Well, I don't know ; but I guess they must be of the Unitarian decomination, for they are all DOBS."

In a certain town in Vermont several instances have lately occurred, where husbands who have inst their wires have matried again within six to twelve weeks ; hence a good deal of neighborhood gossip, particularly among some of those women who "still live." One of these, Mrs. B----, at a quilting the other day, said. " I do hope I may be spared till summer, for then I may have tombelouses over my grave before my man gets tied up oppia."

MacBryde, of the Washington Chronicle, was rushing along D street, one day last summer, peocil in hand, and caromed against Rev. G. A. Hall, who is always equally in a hurry, through his zeal an religious chures. "Hallo, Mac !" exclaimed hearty meal. the Rev. G. A., impulsively taking him by both hands. "What are you doing for Jesus?" " Well," says Mac. " to tell the truth. I sin't doing much. I'm on the Chronicle now."

A onlored debuting society in Treaton, Tenn. has just debuted the question. " Which is the most profit to min-money or education ?" One of the debaters argued that if it had not been for advention the world would not have been half so the body from chill and exposure. large as it is. This clincher was not, however, by the argument that, "If it wasn't for money, how you gwine to side on the kyars !" It was intelligent in physiology will your habits be wise at once decaded in favor of money.

to be very little doubt in the public mind that Hall was poisceed, but by whom remains for investigation. The telegraph informs us that Wilham Morton the second mate of the Polaris, who discovered the open sea of Kane in 1854. and is among the rescard of the Baddington party, has made a statement concerning the death of Capt. Hall. He attended him personally up to the moment of his death. Hall returned on the 24th of October, 1871, in perfect health from a journey north in dog eledges, on which trip he was accompanied by Hubbard Chester, the cutef mate, and two Esquinuux. Joe and Hans Christian. After Hall had been a short -time in the cable, he took some coffee, and immediately after became sick and vomited. He said they were Similar him. Morton, it is evident, believes as Hall did. He also ansports the subsequent medical treatment. Morton has violent feeling sprinst

Dr. Ressall, which muy color his judgment. Whatever the trath may be, all the statements show that there was continual jenlousy among the officers of the steamer, and a lack of subordination, arising no doubt, in the first instance, from a misunderstanding between Hall and Buildington as to who commanded the expedition. It was intended by the Secretary of the Navy that Hall should be, while Buddington was to uct as sailing master, and have a supervision of the condition of the ship. After getting to sea, the lat-ter claimed authority which had not been vested in him. Hence the trouble on hourd, and failure of the expedition. We trust all the facts will be went. So we went slong seeking something count of the wreck : We had cloudy and thick weather for two days before we were making the land, and therefore unid take no observations. The Captain told me be expected to make the Fatralones about 7 o'clock on Wedne-day morning. When I got up at dryfight that morning the for was so dense that we could not see anything. It was on that account, I suppose, that the Captain give the Parralones a wide birth, going to the southward of them. We pushed on slowly every day in a very thick fog-I think as thick as I have ever men, with the exception of that off the coast of New Foundland. About 12 o'clock we seemed to be near land. Soon after we heard the whistleof a streamboat, and immediately whistled in reply, hat were not answered, the steamer probably having pass d out of hearing by that time. In the course of the afternoon the for hilled two or three times so as to permit us to see the fand for two or three mountes at a time. I went to call my wife two or three times to come and see the shore. and before she could get on deck the land was hidden. About 4 o'clock in the afternoon we spoke a fishing vessel and were informed that we were about ten miles from the entrance to the buy. The Captain was very careful, proceeding very slowly and taking soundings continually as to show as where we were antil night came apon us. It was impossible to get any point to found our reckoning from. During the afternoon the Ceptain told me that he didn't intend to run any passengers. I laughed at this, and told him that he need not be in any hurry on our account, as under the circumstances we could wait. The fog grew thicker towards dark and as there was no moon it was impossible to see where we were, and me west very slowly until about eight under the mid-ships, and a little forward of that-Mn. The Lord Mayor's Dinner.

The Dresses, the Singing and Speeches The dinner at the Mansion House is a stately affair. Alighting at the door you Reeping a Cow.

The man across the way who enjoyed vegetables fresh from his own garden through the summer has bought a cow. His wife told him how nice it would be to have a cow on the premises, to have milk fresh and pure every day, and always in time, and always in abundance. Then they could make butter themselves, and not eat the rank stuff out of the store. She told him there was enough stuff from the garden and table to almost keep a cow, and the product would be just about so much clear gain. He figured it up himself with a pencil, and the result surprised him. He wondered why he had not kept a cow before, and inwardly condemned himself for the loss he had been inflicting upon himself. Then he bought a cow. In the evening of its arrival he went out to milk it. But the animal was excited, by the strange surroundings, and stepped on our friend, and kicked over his pail, and What wag had got at the Lord Mayor's nearly knocked one of his eyes out with Lord and Lady So-and-so, when the title musical arrangements ! The boy wishes he had obeyed when a girl, and liked no better sport. She pounded away until she caught a crick in the back that doubled her up like a knife, and then she put the heir to do it. He had been standing around, eagerly waiting for a chance, and grumbling because he did not get it and when the dasher was placed in his hands he was so happy that he could hardly contain himself. He pumped away for an hour at it; then he said if he had to do it any more he would run away and be a robber. At noon the man came home and learned the situation. He was a little disgusted at the "tom-foolery," as he called it, and
