SPECIAL BANCO TERM, MARCH, 1891.

KAMAKAOHUA (W.) VS. THOW CHOY, assignee of the bankrupt estate of Aiona.

REPLEVIN.

JUDD, C. J., M'CULLY, BICKERTON AND DOLE, J. J.

The defendant took into his possession some horses, etc., which were claimed by the plaintiff (the wife of the bankrupt) to be her own property, she having acquired them previous to the year

Held, that the property was her husband's, and were part of the assets of the bankrupt estate.

OPINION OF THE COURT BY BICKERTON, J. This case was tried at the January Term, 1891, and the presiding Justice directed a verdict for the defendant. The plaintiff excepted to the charge of the Court and also to the verdict offer the comforts of a home to as contrary to the law and the evidence, and gave notice of a motion for a new trial, which motion on being heard was overruled, and the matter now comes here on a bill of > exceptions. The plaintiff claims that the defendant as assignee in bankruptcy of her husband's estate, unjustly seized and took into his possession, three horses and a cart, that they were her own property by exchange and purchase, with her own money, that she acquired these animals be-fore the year 1888, about the year 1884 and 1886. That her husband had never reduced this property in dispute to his possession or asserted his rights to said chattels. The de-fendant claimed that these chattels were the property of the bankrupt and are part of the assets of his estate.

In June, 1888, an Act relating to the property and rights of married women, was approved and became law; it provides inter alia that, "the real and personal property of a woman shall, upon her marriage, remain her separate property, free from the management, control, debts and obligations of her husband; and a married woman may receive, receipt for, hold, manage and dispose of property, real and personal, in the same manner as if she were sole," * * * * Section 13 reads, "Nothing in this Act contained shall affect any rights of property which shall have already accrued under any law heretofore in existence." It is not claimed, nor is it shown that any of this property was acquired after the Act of 1888 came into force, so the law as it stood previous to the said Act must apply to this case; there is no necessity to go outside of our own reports for this, for it is clearly laid down in H. Riemenschneider, administrator, vs. Kalaehao, Vth Haw. Rep. p. 550. In that case the Court charged the jury as follows: "If you find that those backs, etc., were bought with money received from her (i. e., intestate's wife) lands, and from the earnings of her horses and carriages subsequently, you will find them to be the property of her husband. Anything in her possession, whether bought with her own or her hus-band's money, belongs to him and is his own property, and goes to his administrators." In regard to the exception taken to this instruction, the Court says: "We think that the jury were properly instructed."

This case controls the case before us, and lays down the law as we understand it to have been previous to the Act of 1888.

The fact being established by the evidence that the acquisition of the property by the plaintiff was prior to 1888, we are of opinion that the jury were properly instructed and that the evidence supports the verdict. The presiding Justice in this case remarked in his charge to the jury, "A verdict for the plaintiff would be set aside as being contrary to the law." We are of the same opinion.

The exceptions are overruled.

A TARGET FOR THE TEMPEST.

Does it seem discreet to construct a wind-motor of wood, such weak, perishable material, when it is designedly held aloft in the most exposed position and compelled to face every storm?

It's mission is to be out in all weather and endure all exposures. It should, therefore, be made of the most enduring and the strongest materials, and aside from the working sails, present the least possible surface to the grasp of the tempest.

Where lightness is so important and weight so detrimental as in a windmill, it is an error to add weight where strength can be more effectually gained by using stronger material.

The manufacturers of the Aermotor make the sails, bands and arms of the wheels of steel. Other parts requiring strength are made of the same material.

The history of one farm machine is the history of all. The huge fourhorse wooden reaper became the compact two-horse self-rake reaper of greater efficiency. The unwieldly, wood-frame, four-horse, self-binding harvester that broke of its own weight, has given place to the snug, trim, light-steel, two-horse machine. In each case it is a lighter machine doing more and better work with less power. The great, clumsy, wooden hulk of a windmill, the target of every tempest, suffering more exposure and used more hours of the day than any other farm tool will as sur-ly make way for the smaller, more compact and more efficient steel Aermotor sold by the Hawaiian Hardware Company.

Like unto the wife who halves your sorrows and doubles your joys, a geared Aermotor and its attachments will do one half more work and cost less than one-half the price of the old style wooden outfit doing less work. Less than one-half the space is used and double the room is left in the barn. The weight is less than half that of wooden outfits consequently freight charges less than one-half.

Like the steamer that sets out on a journey while sail boats wait for wind and tide, the Aermotor works while other windmills stand idle waiting for wind. An expert me chanic is not required to set up this outfit, anyone can place it in position. It costs about the price of one horse and will do the work of four. Like interest, it works while you sleep, it neither gets tired or eats

How can it? The mere fact of touching the regulator one way or another does not compel the watch to do its work properly, if something is wrong inside. The delicate machinery is subjected to constant wear, pivots are wearing one side of the pivot hole, causing the wheel to be forced out of position; and running in an eccentric manner; other little matters need attention. How can it be otherwise; when you neglect your time piece, and think of it only when it refuses to go. Have it done in time and save expense and perhaps your watch. Remember we are successfully altering American key winders into stem winding watches; we are also demagnatizing watches that have become useless by coming in contact with electricity, and are making H. F. WICHMAN.

CANADIAN WHISKIES!

The Only Liquors in the World Which Afford the Consumer a Government Guarantee

"Trade," an English journal published in the interest of the Wine, Spirit and Brewing trades, has the following article in the issue of July 5, 1890:

"Age has its advantages, notaby in whisky. No other quality can equal that of maturity, nothing else can contribute to even the finest and purest whisky the round, soft and mellow characteristics secured by genuine age. We have it on the highest medical authority that the use of pure and fully matured whisky is not only not deleterious, but is even very beneficial to the system. It is the raw, crude and unadulterated spirits that work the mischief with one's constitution, and until our Legislature has made us as secure from this pernicious stuff as our Canadian friends are, we cannot claim for whisky an unqualified position among

"In Canada there is a most stringent law in force, preventing any spirit from being sold until it has arrived at the age of two years, and so ensure this the Government retains it in its possession for that length of time after manufacture—a precaution that is not taken by any other government in the world. Not only has the consume of whisky in Canada the advantage of an enforced minimum age; they have also this security—the benefit of which is shared by the producer—that every bottle of whisky has its age guaranteed by the Government."

In one particular only, but that a very important one, is the article above quoted incorrect, viz: In the statement that "Every bottle of whisky has its age guaranteed by the Government." The distiller, or any other person, may bottle whisky in Canada away from the Government control; but to provide a much needed security to consumers the Government permits distillers, (and distillers only), to bottle under excise supervision; the spirit in fa t remaining in bond, and the process of bottling closely watched by officers, until the official stamp has been placed over the capsule. In no other way can the guarantee mentioned be obtained.

We have never put up a bottle of whisky without the Government guarantee, and no goods purporting to be ours are genuine unless they bear over our branded cork and capsule the Excise stamp of the Dominion of Canada. Our Whiskies are all matured in barrels, in rack warehouses warmed by steam during the cold season, with a capacity of 72,000 barrels equal to 3,500,000 gallons. This has been demonstrated to be the most perfect system in use.

SATURDAY'S GAME.

The First Game of the Season-A Fair Day-A Large Number of Spectators.

The first base ball game for the season of 1891, between the Kamehamehas and Honolulus, took place Saturday afternoon at the new base runs .- In their half of this inning ball grounds. The weather was cool and pleasant. A large number of runs to their already winning lead spectators were present, including with the ball, and a double by Masome of the most prominent citizens | kaimoku. of town and numerous visitors from the other islands.

Throughout the game, especially during the fore part, the applause was uproarious when a good point was made, showing that even if Honolulu has had no game for some time the lovers of base ball had not forgotten how to appreciate the

It was the first of a series of games, one of the objects of which being the winning of the silver cup won by the Kamehamehas last year. The game commenced at 3:30 P. M. with H. Wodehouse at the bat. He responded to the honor of heading the batting order of his club by making a clean hit of the first ball pitched. Stole second and C. Wilder's safe hit after G. Lucas had flied to Mahuka, brought him home. Pahau muffed and Winter was safe. A. Lucas gave Pahau an easy chance and Desha fouled out to Wahine maikai. Two runs.— Lucas gave Pa-hau his life and Meheula's long drive against the right-field fence scored him and placed the batter safely on third. Keliinoi hit safely but was out trying to sneak second. Four runs .- When Wahinemaikai bit the ball Pabau's face took the shape of a smile, as bright as the sunshine reflected from the blue waters of the harbor. It changed to a grin when Mahuka and Lawelawe followed him with safe singles. When Davis started it on an astronomical excursion his face looked like a corrugated wash-board.

Seventh innings-E. Wodehouse knocked a pretty double but got no farther, as the next three men were runs. Pahau was the only batter to reach first for the Kamehamehas.

Eighth innings—Wilder, the first man at the bat, started the ball to Waikiki, but Keliinoi judged it well and Wilder took his place on the bench. Running certainly tires Winter, for he failed to get farther than the batter's box again. A. Lucas died at first. No the Kamehamehas added two more on a base of balls, a batter hit with

The Benefit of Coffee.

Dr. I. N. Love, of St. Louis, in his paper on this subject, said that his experience for five or six years past had been stronly in favor of taking a cup of strong, black coffee, without cream or sugar, between two glasses of hot water, before rising every morning, at least an hour before breakfast. The various secretions were stimulated, the nervous force was aroused, an hour later a hearty meal was enjoyed, and the day's labor was begun favorably, no matter how the duties of the day and night preceding might have drawn upon the system. Another cup at 4 in the afternoon was sufficient to sustain the energies for many hours. In this way the full effect was secured. If along with this the proper diet was taken at the proper timesand the ideal diet for those who make large drafts upon their nervous systems and expected to have them honored was hot milk and at least eight hours of sleep were taken out of every twenty-four, one's capacity for work would be almost unlimited .-- [American Cultivator.

Teach Loyalty.

In his recent address on education in which such a decided stand was taken against classical learning, the Emperor William said many things in which the general sentiment of the American people will hardly agree; but when he said "our schools must educate the growing children, above all other things, into a spirit of unswerving loyalty to their government, permitting neither descent nor religion to interfere with it,' he gave utterance to a doctrine which will be heartily commanded here. In fact, the sentence sounds like an extract from an American rather than a German speaker. We have just this problem of alien descent to deal with in many States, and the Emperor's words would make a good plank in a state

A scheme is on foot in London to turn a large portion of the coal supply from the English provinces into gas, to convey the gas by pipes to the great city, and there regulate it after the manner of natural gas in some American cities. It is estimated that the change from coal to gas for fuel would mean an annual saving to the people of Lon-don of $100,000,000, besides ridding the city of an historic nuisance.
