TARIFF CUT WILL HELP SUGAR TRUST, SAYS WICKERSHAM MAN WHO FOUGHT OCTOPUS SHOWS FREE TRADE FALLACY

Former Attorney-General, Familiar With Situation From Battle Against Monopoly And Underweighing Frauds, Declares Consumer Will Get No Benefit
From Reducing Duties

"The great sugar refineries in the United States, the majority of which are controlled by the so-called sugar trust, will get all the benefit from any reduction in the cost of the raw product, and it is beyond my comprehension to see any reason why the price of the refined product to the consumer would be reduced."—Former Attorney-General George W. Wickersham in statement to the Star-Bulletin.

Condemning absolutely the policy of those American legislators who would put sugar on the free list, and stating in no uncertain terms that a reduction in the sugar tariff will benefit no one but the great refineries, about 80 per cent of which are controlled by the sugar trust, former Attorney General George Woodward Wickersham, in an interview this morning with a Star-Bulletin representative, expressed his views on the tariff. Mr. Wickersham's opinion on the subject is important and well-nigh conclusive not only because of his great reputation as a lawyer and a student of political economy, but also because he has, for more than two years, made an intimate study of conditions surrounding the sugar industry in his prosecution under the Sherman anti-trust law of the refined sugar monopoly in the United States. Mr. Wickersham said:

"I can ascribe no valid or sensible reason for the fact that some legislators in Washington are for a moment considering the reduction of the tariff on sugar. The idea that such a reduction will work anything but great harm or that it will benefit to any extent the consumer of sugar is to my mind so fallacious as to be absurd.

"The great sugar refineries in the United States, the majority of which are controlled by the so-called 'sugar trust,' will get all benefit from any reduction in the cost of the raw product, and it is beyond my comprehension to see any reason why the price of the refined product to the consumer would be reduced.

"On the other hand, by taking away the tariff protection from the sugar industry the government would without doubt stamp out an industry which in many parts of the United States, is still in its infancy. We cannot compete in the production of sugar with Cuba or with other foreign countries; this seems to be beyond the question. In the Philippines, in Hawaii, in Louisiana, and in a belt running east and west from Michigan, to Utah, the growing of sugar and more particularly in the latter places, of beet sugar, has become a growing industry and an industry of the greatest importance to these sections of the country.

"I cannot conceive of any reasonable man so foolish as to believe that this industry should be sacrificed for the sole benefit of the refining companies. To my mind the question of the reduction of the tariff on sugar, more than any other single question, is apt to result in the disruption of the Democratic party. It is an all-important question and one upon which the people of the United States are vitally interested. At present, the government realizes no less than $60,000,000 annually from the tariff on sugar. Besides this, the sugar industry is a great and important factor in the economic progress and prosperity of the country. We should encourage its development, not stamp it out of existence by a foolish measure.

"It is not possible to sustain the plea for the reduction of tariff on sugar by saying that free-trade is the ideal economic condition and that protection itself is an economic fallacy. If all the countries in the world would agree to free trade, a satisfactory economic condition might result, and each country might then grow that produce to which it is best adapted. But this is not the case. On the contrary, practically every nation in the world has agreed that some form of protection to home industry is necessary, and as a result they all have their tariff walls. Italy, Germany, France, in fact all of the na-

SAYS CONGRESS MAY TAKE UP COMMISSION

Unless a commission with adequate power to regulate rates and regulations of public utilities corporations is authorized by law before the legislature adjourns sine die, Congress may be asked to ratify one of the bills now in the hands of the house judiciary committee. Such is the statement, amounting to a threat, issued by Speaker Holsen yesterday.

"The corporation lawyers entertained the judiciary committee with a voluminous mass of criticism the other evening," he said, "but the only constructive suggestion was that a commission might be appointed with power only to publish its discoveries in corporation affairs. Using the inter-state commerce law, franchise agreements, federal control and other weapons it reduced the possibilities of a substantial utilities commission apparently to a pulp.

"If the commission it suggests has the authority only to publish the results of investigations, with recommendations, how is it going to effectively aid the small farmer or other producer who discovers that every time he ships his stuff to market he loses money?

"It looks very much like corporation tactics. The corporation representatives would be introduced this session, knew when they were introduced, knew to what committee they had been assigned, yet they have waited until the session is nearly half over before requesting a conference with the committee. Now it appears as if delay is what they are seeking. It is quite possible they want no such measure passed at all.

"If my information is correct, these same people, or some interests at least, told Secretary of the Interior Fisher, during his inquiry here last fall, that the territory was quite capable of handling the situation, was eager to pass a public utility bill, and urged him to keep 'hands off,' and let the territory run its own affairs as much as possible. Perhaps they didn't say it in that many words, but their remarks were to the same general effect.

"I understand Mr. Fisher intimated that if the territory didn't meet the situation it would be brought to Congress' attention. He believed the time was ripe for a commission of this character.

"The time certainly is ripe for it, and we're going to get a commission. If we have to ask congress to ratify one of those measures now in the judiciary committee's hands. And it certainly will be done. Of course, the present measures are weak in a number of respects, but these features can be eliminated by the judiciary committee and submitted to congress.

"You know we have a Democratic congress now, and the president and his advisors believe in public utilities. His own state, New Jersey, I believe has recently passed one of the most drastic utility bills ever tried in the states."

GUBERNATORIAL SHAKESPEARE

SENATE WILL STAND FIRM ON REASONABLE TARIFF FOR SUGAR

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10.—A free sugar bill has been tentatively arranged as the program of the house ways and means committee, when the extraordinary session of congress begins the downward revision of the Payne-Aldrich act. This was the first point taken up by the committee for determination after the inauguration had nailed down a Democratic administration. Although there was some opposition to this extreme cut a majority favored free sugar.

The action of the ways and means committee means absolutely nothing so far as the final perfected legislation is concerned. Free sugar was adopted to keep the record of the house straight on that schedule. It is well understood that such a measure cannot pass the senate. For that reason the house could play politics without apprehension and trust the senate to formulate a moderate and reasonable sugar schedule.

The matter of following the attitude of the committee and house during the last long session was much discussed during the past several months. Several members of the committee said it was useless to stand by free sugar because it was foolish and could accomplish no results. But Chairman Underwood and others thought it preferable to keep the record of the committee and house straight. For that reason it is determined to report and pass a free sugar bill.

Position of Senate.
The position of the senate has been equally well defined. Despite the proposed income tax, which is estimated to bring in something like $100,000,000 a year in additional revenues, thus offsetting the loss of $60,000,000 by a free sugar bill, a majority of the senate cannot be brought into line for such a radical slash. Even such extremists as Senator Williams do not care to go beyond a reduction of 23 1-3 per cent from the present duties. Others figure that a cut of 1-4 would be about sufficient. The Regular and Progressive Republicans fix a rate of $1.50 per 100 pounds as an irreducible minimum.

The senate will write the sugar schedule without reference to the character of measure passed by the house. It will be far short of free sugar, even if the income tax legislation is enacted to bring in more revenue. This will be eaten up in various other ways.

Senate to Stand Firm.
The Republicans of the senate will

PLANTATION MEN ARGUE TAX ASSESSMENTS SHOULD BE LOWER

Say Reduction in Sugar Price and Drought Are Valid Reasons for Revision Downward

Before a meeting of the equalization board of the tax adjusters this morning, representatives of the various sugar factors and plantations appeared and entered their plea against the action of the tax assessors in keeping their assessments at practically the same figures this year as last.

Richard Ivers, representing Brewer & Co., Ltd., argued that the assessments for the current year should be light because of the low price of sugar now maintaining in the markets, the drought, etc. "If," argued Mr. Ivers, "the assessments are allowed to remain at a comparatively high figure this year—which is not a very prosperous one—will that not give the assessors a good excuse for boosting it 'way up the first real prosperous year that comes along?"

It was apparently the opinion of the assessors, however, that the best policy is to keep the assessments at a figure more or less fixed during a period of some years. They pointed out that if the assessments are lowered this year, next year it will be necessary to "soak" the corporations in order to make up the amount of money necessary to run the government.

Although the representatives from the various sugar factors complained more or less of the drought and of the low price of sugar this year, the

SOLEMN SENATORS SLIP ONE OVER ON SERGEANT AT ARMS

For how much would Sergeant Kaliaha-a of the senate have sold his job at adjournment today.

The right answer is five cents.

He would have sold it for five cents and given $100, purse permitting, if he had never had it. For when President Knudsen of the senate stated just before adjournment that he wished the sergeant to step forward, as he had a number of criticisms to make, the good man of all duties shook, perspired, and walked with an 'I'm-on-my-way-to-the-dentist's' gait.

"There are complaints here," said President Knudsen frowning, "which show you have been remiss in your duties. It seems you have not yet acted as you should. It appears you have not yet arrested a senator yet, and this is the twenty-seventh day of the session. We can not longer tolerate such negligence. Here is your discharge."

And he handed the officer, while the sweat rolled down the latter's brow, a silver badge—

"To prove our sincere faith in you, and appreciation of your work," explained the president.

The rest should be told in the words of Kaliaha-a himself, who said with the emotion of a true artist: "Who'd have believed it!"

SHOTS TO FIRE

To destroy the present domestic sugar industry is the real purpose of the refineries (the Sugar Trust), as beet sugar, the principal home source of supply, does not pass through the hands of the refiner and yield them a profit. For every ton of beet sugar produced at home, one ton less of imported raw sugar pays its tribute to the Sugar Trust. Take off the duty, wipe out the home industry and the Trust will regulate the price of refined, without the present competition of home-grown sugar.

SOLDIERS GIVEN STIFF PENALTY FOR ROBBERY

Charles O. Van Camp and John Henry Diel, two soldiers indicted for robbery in the second degree, were given about as severe a penalty as the law allows in Judge Robinson's court this morning when they were sentenced to imprisonment for not less than one year and not more than eighteen months. The penalty is as stiff a one as has been handed down to some.

EUGENICS BILL CAUSES TILT IN HOUSE

From the standpoint of the onlooker today's session in the house was the most interesting that has taken place to date. In the first place, there was a long, somewhat heated controversy on the floor when Dr. Irwin's eugenics bill, proposing to compel intending bridegrooms to obtain a clean physical bill of health, came out of committee tagged for the discard.

The smoke of that battle had scarcely cleared away when Representative Tavares brought the "slush fund" story, which developed in the course of the committee hearing, on the barber-shop bill, to the attention of his conferees and demanded a thorough investigation. In short, for about two hours the sparks flew thick and fast, with nearly everyone taking a hand.

In both cases Dr. Irwin was a leading figure. As father of the eugenics measure he fired the opening gun with a learned dissertation on the danger of the marriage of a man

SHE PLEADS NOT GUILTY OF SMUGGLING

Stewardess of the Mongolia to Fight Case Brought by Federal Sleuths Here

Mrs. M. S. Taylor, the former stewardess of the Mongolia, who is facing a charge of opium smuggling, appeared this morning in the U. S. district court and pleaded not guilty. In her behalf, Attorney Frank Thompson requested the court to set as early a day as possible for the trial of the case. It was suggested that Mrs. Taylor's case be tried immediately following the disposition of the Hagemann case, which comes before the court next Tuesday, but George A. Davis interposed a plea for his client Samuel D. Hausmann, and it is probable that Hausmann will get his hearing before the former stewardess. Mrs. Taylor arrived in Honolulu on the Korea the first part of the week, and, upon appearing in the U. S. district court, was released upon her own recognizance.

SCIENTISTS BACK FROM LONELY LAYSAN

With the extermination of rabbits, which are declared to have proved a pest on Laysan island, a party of naturalists and hunters returned from a three months stay on the lonely and sand swept islet as passengers in the United States revenue cutter Thetis. The party arrived early this afternoon, and from all accounts the trip was an unqualified success, the scientists accomplishing every mission for which they were sent.

No evidences of Japanese poachers were found on any of the islands visited, and if the little brown men have made free with Uncle Sam's feathered subjects, it has been some time in the past. The difficult feat of taking a bird census of the islands was performed, and while it is possible that some of the birds were inconsistent, and therefore receive a double count, the figures are believed to be approximately correct. The census gives 40,000 albatross, 50,000 petrel, and 15,000 frigate birds.

Several specimens of the rare water seal were found at Laysan and Necker islands, and at Laysan a species of island fall was found. Several of these rare birds were caged and brought along.

The hunters killed about 5000 rabbits, which were endangering the bird life of the islands. When the Thetis reached the party, they were just out of provisions, but there had been no accidents, and the health of all was perfect.

The party sent here by the United States department of agriculture and which lived among the countless flocks of seabirds included Commodore G. R. Salisbury, who recently retired from service in the navy and was placed in charge of the Laysan island expedition. With him were George Willett, policeman-scientist from Los Angeles, declared to be an expert in the classification of birds, as well as a nimrod with a true aim when it comes to the extermination of rabbits. W. S. Wallace and A. M. Baily accompanied the party.

A thorough investigation was made of the condition of the Hawaiian bird reserves as it applies to Laysan and Lisiansky islands.

It was the purpose of the party in starting away from Honolulu on the tenth of last December to visit Laysan, the French Frigate shoals, Necker island and perhaps a call at Midway. Laysan island, however, was the headquarters of the little isolated band of scientists and hunters. Here they found the buildings and huts erected years ago by Max Schlemmer and his Japanese workmen in a deplorable state of decay and dissolution. Some time was spent in repairing the structures with a view of making them habitable.

The rabbits have been multiplying at a rapid rate within the past year, and to kill them off was no small job of itself.

A pair of lively "jacks" are thriving on the meagre collection of bunch grass that managed to survive the onslaughts of the rabbits.

Stretches of sand, strewn with eggs offered a picturesque spectacle to the party of four men, heretofore unacquainted with Bird Island life.

A number of coconut trees were taken along and these were set out with the hope that the rains that sweep over the islet would serve to keep them alive. The trees are of a variety that will also thrive when planted near salt water.

Willets, who accompanied the party in the role of scientist and hunter, was a former sergeant of the Chinatown squad at Los Angeles. He is an adept with the camera and brings back a large collection of views taken of the bird life on the islets comprising the reservation.

One task which the party set itself to accomplish was to attempt to estimate the numbers of birds of various species that frequent Laysan and

SONOMA HELD FOR REPAIR

A score of machinists spent a busy day aboard the Oceanic liner Sonoma yesterday and before the last man had stepped out from the engine room and down the gang plank last night, city clocks were striking the hour of eight-thirty.

The Sonoma was in need of considerable attention from a corps of picked men from the Honolulu Iron Works. As soon as Captain Traut could get into communication with Honolulu through wireless, a series of messages were sent to the local agents, giving particulars regarding the extra parts of machinery required to refit the engine.

This work was completed at the local shops by the time the liner came to a berth at Oceanic wharf yesterday morning.

The corps of mechanics worked at top speed in effecting repairs and to permit the liner sailing for San Francisco last night. Drawings were made from parts incorporated in the Ventura's engines, and from these drafts which were found to fit perfectly into the mechanism of the Sonoma.

The Sonoma departed with nearly one hundred additional cabin passengers. The vessel is due to arrive at San Francisco with about the largest list of travelers ever carried in this vessel.

Three hundred tons Hawaiian products were placed aboard. A big shipment of refrigerated meat was discharged.

The Hawaiian Band, now supposed to be on the retired list at the instance of Mayor Fern and pending the close of a grand opera season, was conspicuous by its absence. Melody from this organization would at least have served to relieve the gloom that hovered in chunks over the wharf which sheltered the little crowd that awaited the sailing of the Sonoma for San Francisco.

The vessel was supplied with a big mail, destined for the Coast.

Promotions in White Liner.

The Vancouver (E. C.) News-Advertiser reports that when the G. P. R. white liner Empress of Japan leaves upon her return journey she will have a new commander. Upon arrival at Yokohama the intelligence was received that Captain S. Robinson, the present skipper of the Empress, had been detailed to proceed to the old country and bring the new Empress of Asia out, and that Chief Officer W. D. Hopcroft would succeed him as captain of the Empress of Japan. Second Officer L. D. Douglas being promoted to the chief officership. In addition to Captain Robinson, Mr. T. J. Bridge, the chief steward, will proceed to the old country and come out with the new Empress of Asia.

A marked change has taken place in part of the interior of the Empress of Japan since she was last in port. The liner stayed for three weeks in Hongkong and during that time between 500 and 600 men were busy at work putting in a new boat deck, promenade deck and spar deck.

New Headquarters for Pacific Coast Liners.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 1.—Portland will be the headquarters of the San Francisco and Portland Steamship Company, it was officially announced today by President J. D. Farrell of the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company, who, at a meeting at Salt Lake Saturday, was elected president of the steamship company, succeeding W. H. Bancroft of Salt Lake.

"The steamers Deaver, Bear and Rose City are owned by the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company," said Farrell, "and from March 1st they will be managed from Portland as a part of the Oregon-Washington Railroad and Navigation Company. I am not prepared to announce who will head the management, but this will be decided in a few days."

China on New Schedule.

In departing from Manila, Philippine Islands, the Pacific Mail liner China is said to have steamed on a new schedule which will greatly shorten the time consumed between the Far East and the west coast of the United States. A service from Manila to San Francisco in 24 days is predicted. The China is due at the coast port on Monday morning.

Motor Driven Freighter Coming.

Puget Sound is to be visited by a motor driven freighter, operated by the Danish East Asiatic Company, reported to sail from Antwerp in June and calling at Seattle, Vancouver and Victoria. The company is said to have a number of vessels of the motor driven type follow the initial steamer to pick up cargoes of grain for the continent.

Found Fortune in Ambergris.

Officers in the Oceanic liner Sonoma bring word that a fortune in ambergris is reported by the whaler Norvegia, which has arrived at Christchurch, N. Z., with nearly half a ton of the precious substance aboard. It is estimated that the value of the find is $300,000 and the catch breaks all previous known records.

RUSSIANS SAIL; MADE THEIR PILE

Society was out in numbers last evening pending the departure of the Pacific Mail liner Korea for Japan ports, Manila and Hongkong. Several residents of prominence in social, professional and financial circles took their departure for the "Gilded East" in this palatial trans-Pacific steamer. The distinguished company of through passengers in the Korea also served as a magnet to draw a crowd of the great and near great of Honolulu. While shovels backed by brawn, ate their way into piles of coal and transferred the fuel to the steamer bunkers, an animated group of gay femininity held an impromptu reception on the upper decks of the vessel. The Korea sailed at five o'clock in the evening. A delegation of Russian immigrants took their departure in this vessel. All that could be gotten from them was to the effect that they had made their "pile" and would spend the summer in Siberia. One hundred Asiatics took passage in the steerage. The vessel was discharged of about two hundred tons freight during the stay at the port.

New Home for the "Ginger-ale Board."

Members of the "ginger-ale board" must seek other quarters and great is the woe and consternation attendant this announcement. The time-honored haunt of this organization, which for years has been a powerful factor in salt water circles is undergoing a decided metamorphosis.

The sequestered abode wherein poker, politics, patriotism or pets were taken with equal freedom, daily under discussion, is now frequented by noise producing carpenters and odor disseminating painters.

The Inter-Island Steam Navigation ship chandlery is undergoing a general housecleaning and alteration. Captain Campbell, the honored chairman of the house committee on headquarters for the local "ginger-ale board," views with sorrow and sadness the ravages that follow in the path of the renovator.

A special dispensation may yet bring about a change of heart, with the object of permitting the journeying mariner to again sit in conclave at a place made memorable in Honolulu shipping.

Through their American agents, Furness, Withy & Co., Ltd., they have taken the matter of entering Vancouver up. They state that later they will send several of their representatives there to study the situation. In the meantime they ask for all available shipping conditions and the outlook for the line's securing a paying terminal port on the Pacific.

With the opening of the canal the firm states that it is practically decided that their boats will extend their runs to Vancouver.

Japanese Tackled Wrong Man.

Captain Sunberg, master of the schooner Robert Seales, is alleged to have escorted two Japanese from his command in rather forcible and yet unceremonious manner, previous to the sailing of the windjammer for Port Townsend last evening.

The Japanese are said to have approached the doughty skipper with a proposition that he take them to the coast, and upon landing them at one of the American ports the Japanese would readily turn over a substantial sum to the mariner. The proposition made was in effect that the Japanese be secreted and later smuggled into the United States.

A hasty exit then followed.

Mauna Kea Met Rough Weather.

It was rough in the channel during the passage of the Inter-Island steamer Mauna Kea, an arrival from Hilo and way ports this morning. The vessel returned with freight including 221 head sheep, cases of plants, 15 cases of bottles, 45 sacks taro, 10 cords wood and 186 packages sundries.

Purser Phillips reports rough weather along the coast of Hawaii. The vessel met with strong trades and a heavy swell. The Mauna Loa, like the and Kaula were at Hilo. The Kaula was at Honolulu, taking on sugar. The Helene is due to arrive here tomorrow morning with cattle and sugar. The schooner Annie Johnson was being supplied with sugar at Maunaloa.

Dollar First to Enter Steamer Drydock.

The first big foreign vessel to use the huge new half million dollar steel drydock installed at the shipyards of the Seattle Construction & Drydock Company was the M. S. Dollar. This steamship of the Dollar Line was safely floated off the new drydock. Though the Dollar only underwent minor repairs of cleaning and painting, which occupied part of two days, the ease with which her immense bulk was handled by the up-to-date machinery proved of great interest to shipping men.

The American schooner Fearless is on the way down from the Sound with a shipment of lumber for this port. The vessel sailed from Grays Harbor last Thursday.

The Japanese freighter Koku Maru in departing for Astoria, made the Northern trip in eleven days. The vessel is to take on lumber, destined for the Antipodes.

The last word from the United States army transport Thomas was that the vessel from San Francisco would reach the port on or about six o'clock this evening.

Members of the territorial senate and house will depart for the leper settlement this evening as passengers in the Inter-Island steamer Claudine. The vessel is to remain off Molokai tomorrow, the party returning at a late hour Sunday night.

Egg-Belline Monday.

The children of the city will be the guests of Governor and Mrs. Walter F. Frear, at their home on Wilder avenue, Monday afternoon between the hours of 3:30 and 4:30 o'clock, at which time the ancient custom of egg-belline, which has been transplanted in Hawaii, will be indulged in.

This custom has been observed in Honolulu for many years past and is an annual event in many of the larger cities on the mainland, especially at Washington, D. C., where the children of that city gather on the lawn of the White House, the home of the president of the United States. The Hawaiian band will be in attendance at the festival and a special musical program has been arranged by Captain Berger for the occasion.

MARCH MAKING BIG RECORD IN BUILDING

Permits for new buildings issued thus far this month amount to $199,000 in round numbers, which makes it look as if the month is going to be a record one in building operations. Repair permits are also running well. The big warehouse of the Honolulu Iron Works for $100,000 comes this month, and there are several other business structures of respectable cost, besides a few average "good dwellings." There continues a large run of small cottages, which for the past year have been rapidly supplanting tenement blocks. Following are the permits entered to date:

ARTILLERY BALL TEAM GOING STRONG

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

PORT RUGER, March 22.—Captain N. Stanyon, Coast Artillery Corps, commanding the 10th company, stationed at Ft. De Russy, one of the hottest baseball fans on the island, is very optimistic over the showing which is being made by the team to represent the Coast Defenses of Oahu this coming season. Captain Stanyon has practically been the moving spirit in the organization of the team, and feels that given a little more time, he will turn out an aggregation that will compare favorably with any team on the island.

The team, as yet, is a stranger to most of the fans of the island, but the few who were fortunate enough to see it in action against the Second Infantry state that with development, the artillery will be well up in the running.

With Lieutenants Applin and O'Hara, at third and short, respectively, and LaMere, the hard hitter of the P. A. C.'s at first, Captain Stanyon has a nucleus for one of the fastest infantries that ever worked on a diamond on the island. The pitcher's box is also well taken care of, with Lawson, Randall and Smith. Smith and Lawson were sent against the Fort Shafter team and returned winners. Randall of the 10th company was regarded as one of the best twirlers in the service around Frisco when the company was stationed at Winfield Scott, and can be depended upon to give a good account of himself when the time comes. Lawson has all the earmarks of an exceptionally classy hurler, and would probably have led the attack against the All-Chinese last week if the game had not been called off on account of rain.

The schedule of the junction box launch which runs from Fort Armstrong to Kamehameha has been arranged so that the players from Ruger and De Russy can go down in the afternoon and practice, and under the direction of several old time diamond stars, the artillery will no doubt turn out a very creditable organization.

Owing to the fact that members of the garrison at Fort Ruger participated in the department field meet at Kapiolani Park on February 22, no field meet will be held this quarter. This was announced in a memorandum from headquarters March 18. These quarterly field meets are the occasion of a great deal of interest and rivalry between the companies stationed at this post, and some very good sport is the outcome. Sport in general was given a big boost by the department meet and many of the men have kept in training since that time, looking forward to a post meet. The first post meet to be held now will be in June.

The matter of organizing a service baseball league on the island is looked upon with a good deal of favor by many of the fans in the Coast Defenses of Oahu. The only drawback is the fact that Honolulu would have to turn out in good shape in order to support a league. At many stations where the civilians look upon the soldiers for a great deal of their sport, as they do in Honolulu, a service league has proved to be a great success, both financially and in the interest displayed. Some believe that it would be a good plan to let the different teams arrange a schedule between themselves, without forming a league, and to play the games at Athletic Park. Then if the public turns out in sufficient numbers to warrant the forming of a league, this could be done later. The artillery would undoubtedly wish to enter the league, and would endeavor to put up an article of ball as good as any ever seen on this island, in order to make the league a financial success.

PROMINENT MEN PALLBEARERS AT CUMMINS FUNERAL

Men foremost in Hawaii's public life will be pallbearers at the funeral of the late Hon. J. A. Cummins tomorrow afternoon. The pallbearers, announced this afternoon, will be Judge Sanford B. Dole, Chief Justice A. G. M. Robertson, Senator Cecil Brown, the Hon. Mark P. Robinson, Dr. George H. Hebert, Henry Smith, A. Fernandez and C. A. Brown.

In accordance with Mr. Cummins' last wishes, the ceremonies will be simple and unofficial. The services at the house will begin at 2 o'clock. Rev. Henry H. Parker, pastor of Kawaiahae church, will hold the service at the house, and Rev. Leopold Kroll, minister of the Hawaiian congregation of St. Andrew's cathedral, at the grave.

The habes corpus case of Young Chow Yee came up again in the U. S. district court this morning. Yee alleges to have been denied admission to Hawaii upon returning from a visit to Japan. He declares that he had previously established residence and should have been admitted. At the hearing Monday, R. L. Halsey and H. B. Brown of the immigration service will testify.

DIMOND & CO. IN BIG PLAN OF WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

Workmen's compensation on a wide scale, in a chain of big establishments one of which is a Honolulu institution, has been inaugurated by B. Nathan, F. W. Dohrmann and Mrs. Bianca W. Paulsen of San Francisco. W. Dimond & Co., Ltd., is the local institution to participate in a generous and novel plan for compensating employees who are sick or injured due to care for faithful employees who have passed their period of active usefulness.

Mr. E. A. Berndt of Dimond & Co., has received from Mr. F. W. Dohrmann, who is well-known here, the details of the plan in a letter which has been sent not only to the local house, but to Nathan-Dohrmann Co., San Francisco; Parmelee, Dohrmann Co., Los Angeles; Howell-Dohrmann Co., Oakland; Trinkler-Dohrmann Co., San Jose, and Vos-Dohrmann Co., Stockton, all of which houses are included in the plan.

The fund is $50,000, an establishment this year commemorates the golden jubilee of Mr. Nathan's establishment of the business, the forty-fifth anniversary of Mrs. Paulsen's connection with it. Mr. Nathan was 80 years of age on March 17 and is now living in Germany. Mr. Dohrmann is expected here shortly to look over the work in connection with the extension of Dimond & Co. each of these has given $25,000 to the fund and Mrs. Paulsen has given $10,000. The fund has been placed in the hands of three trustees, and in the letter announcing the gift, the purposes are set forth as follows:

"To use the earnings to relieve need and distress of employees, and to assist those who may depend upon such employees for their living when they are in trouble or need.

"So far as possible and practical, to provide pensions for those, who in their old age, or in cases of infirmities, after long and faithful service, are unable to earn sufficient wages to afford them a comfortable living.

"To do any and all things for employees which in the judgment of the trustees will add to their individual or collective comfort, pleasure, entertainment and prosperity, and which will have a tendency to more firmly establish and maintain friendly relations between employers and employees."

With workmen's compensation just now a live topic before the legislature, the announcement of this voluntary plan, recognized as deserved by employees, is of unusual interest.

ACTIVE SESSION PASSES ON MANY MEASURES

"Where are we at?" demanded Senator Makekau yesterday during a parliamentary entanglement, and the same question might have been heard from him during this morning's session, when more work was done by the solons than during any previous sitting. Or he might have asked it in particular when his beloved one, an act to increase the salary of the deputy sheriff of Puna, limped through third reading, after having a very eventful sojourn with the higher body.

Two other bills went through the third reading process, being S. B. 11, which is an act introduced by Senator Wirtz to restore the appointive power of the mayor of Honolulu. It passed slightly amended by the author. The other act was H. B. 80, and relates to the employment of prisoners.

Not only did the senators hear a goodly number of bills on second and third reading, but three were introduced. The first one by Senator Baker, is an act to authorize the supervisors of Hawaii to make certain improvements, the second one was by Senator Rice and has reference to the employment of prisoners sentenced to hard labor. Senator Makekau offered one relating to slander, and the fourth was submitted by Senator Baldwin and seeks to regulate the use of firearms for hunting.

When the reapportionment bill put its head up again, it was quickly sent back to the never consent to any ruinous cut in sugar rates. The Democrats out of regard for the industry in Louisiana and the beet production in other states will not agree to go farther than a one-third slash.

In addition, it is known that President Wilson does not favor any great reductions in any of the schedules. He believes in taking revision by moderate degrees—what off a portion of the protection and if it is demonstrated that another cut can be made do that later.

If President Wilson gives his assent to the Democratic program, as virtually agreed upon by the leaders of the house, the special session of congress will be devoted exclusively to the revision of the tariff and the passing of the few appropriation bills that failed at the last session.

Tariff Main Problem.
The question is up to the President, and he is thinking over the matter. The belief was strong today that he would put his O. K. on the program, which would mean that the country will witness the spectacle of a special session working wholly upon one big problem.

The theory upon which House Democrats are proceeding is that tariff bills are generally murdered in a private sort of way in the Senate; that favoritism for monopolies is shown and protection of the interests accomplished in that body and will continue to be done unless the spotlight of public sentiment is focused there just at the right time.

If the house, after passing one or a number of tariff revision bills then proceeds to other important work, the attention of the people will be divided. But if the tariff bills go to the senate and the house marks time while the senate works, the eyes of the public will be centered there; the thoughts of the administration will be directed that way, and attempts at hocus-pocus with the tariff will probably meet with exposure.

Democratic leaders sincerely anxious to give to the country a tariff law that will be honest and fair to the people and to business interests and at the same time as free from favoritism to big interests as possible have not hesitated to tell President Wilson that the senate is the place where the butchery of tariff bills is done and that it is generally done by able but scheming men seeking to secure favors for big interests to which they have long been friendly.

Protectionists Strong.
There is no suggestion to the President that the Democratic majority in the senate cannot be trusted, but it is urged that the majority is surrounded on all sides by the ablest generals of the protective tariff army of the old school thought.

The forces, the President is now being told, will hoodwink the administration, March 28, 8 p. m., "The Intention if possible, and the best way date Conception."

President Wilson, although strongly desiring a revision of the currency and financial laws as early as possible, is known to be giving a most attentive ear to the proposition to make the tariff the only business of the special session. He will not pass the bill, finally, however, until he has conferred at length with Democratic leaders in both houses.

NIGHTExtraordinary Attraction Is Announced as Company's Farewell to Honolulu

The most noteworthy feature of the grand opera season here has been kept in the background by Signor Lambardi's managers, and was sprung last night by Advance Manager Baker, who announced it from the stage. It is in the shape of a grand gala performance—an extra attraction, which will be given on Monday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock sharp. The program as arranged will bring together, upon the same stage, the full roster of principal artists, entire orchestra and complete chorus, and the singers will all appear in costume.

The event will be after the plan of the great operatic concerts as given by the New York and Boston companies on Sunday evenings when no regular performances are permitted. The program for the occasion has been so arranged as to please both the artistic and popular tastes of opera patrons, and it will afford hundreds who, owing to their observance of Holy Week, have not even attended the fine performances of the Lambardi organization, an opportunity to see and hear the entire membership of the company in a gala festival of song and instrumental music.

As to the program, a glance at the scheduled is at once convincing that Signor Lambardi has reserved his very best for the last. The regular season, so far as subscribers are concerned, terminates with tonight's production of Puccini's fascinating opera, La Boheme, sung previously with such success that a great many who heard the work before, will again be seen in their customary seats this evening. The seat sale for the big gala performance opened this morning at nine o'clock, and, it being, perhaps, the last opportunity that Honolulu will have of hearing so excellent an organization of artists for many years, there was a long line of ticket seekers on hand. The program is as follows:

1. Overture from "Barber of Seville" Rossini
 2. Aria, from the opera "Louise" Charpentier

Y. W. C. A. ROOMS
BEING ENLARGED

On account of the steadily increasing membership and the urgent need of more room, work was commenced this morning on enlarging the quarters of the Young Women's Christian Association in the Boston building.

For the past two months the membership of the association has been on the increase to such an extent that it has been found impossible to accommodate all the girls who are in the habit of taking their lunches at the building, and for this reason this department is now being enlarged and the lunchroom will be closed until Monday. The room which was formerly used as the dining-room has been converted into the main office for the general secretary and her associates, while the dining-room is being moved into another room with more floor space. A smaller dining-room has been turned into a private rest-room for the convenience of the members who wish to spend a quiet hour at the association. The kitchen has also been overhauled and more room added.

The association now has a total of 466 paid-up members, 54 of these having been received since the first of March, as against ten for the entire month of March in 1912.

On Monday afternoon, at 5 o'clock, there will be a meeting at the association of all young women interested in any phase of athletics. This meeting is for the purpose of organizing the spring term of the associations athletic work. All the members are requested to be present and to bring their friends.

There will be special Easter services at the Homestead, King street, at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A musical program will be rendered by the girls of the Kawaiahao church choir.

DR. IRWIN IS A LUCKY MAN

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
HILO, Hawaii, March 21.—While Dr. Irwin was returning home to Oahu from the volcano, late Sunday night, his automobile ran directly over the body of a man, stretched out in the road. The doctor, just before passing over the man, saw a horse in the road and when he tooted his horn the animal did not move, so he swerved to the side and as he did so, saw the man before him. He applied the brakes but was unable to stop until after he had gone beyond the man. As soon as the car was stopped he ran back to see how serious was the injury and found the man still lying not aware of the danger through which he had passed, as he was paralyzed with liquor. The automobile had not even grazed the man as he was reclining parallel with the road and it had passed directly over him. After much trouble the man was aroused sufficiently to get him off the road to sleep off his jag and probably he has no recollections of the incident or if he has, attributes it to a booze dream.

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
HILO, Hawaii, March 21.—Directors of the Hilo board of trade have appointed Attorney Harry Irwin to represent the board and Hawaii and Washington, during the proposed sugar legislation, at the special session of congress, which convenes on April 1st. This action was taken at a called meeting of the directors held last Tuesday afternoon.

The selection of Irwin is considered a wise one, as he is familiar with conditions in Hawaii and has a large acquaintance among the Democratic members of congress. He is to leave on the Mauna Kea for Honolulu today and will sail from there on next Saturday or Tuesday.

MRS. ANNA COYNE PASSES AWAY

Mrs. Anna Coyne, wife of Col. Arthur Coyne, manager of the Coyne Furniture Company, died at her home on Magazine street at twenty-five minutes past twelve o'clock this morning after a lingering illness lasting over a period of several weeks.

Mrs. Coyne was born in London, England, and came to the Hawaiian Islands at the age of sixteen years, where she has resided ever since. She leaves her husband, Colonel Coyne, and three children, Mrs. B. F. Lee, Harry Bruns and George Bruns, to mourn her death, as well as a wide circle of friends both in the islands and on the mainland.

The funeral services will be held at the residence at three o'clock this afternoon.

ARMY AND NAVY

The War Department has been called on to take official cognizance of the vandalism committed at the Gettysburg battlefield the night of March 4, when eight handsome monuments were battered and broken by some unknown person or persons. Col. P. P. Nicholson, chairman of the Gettysburg National Park commission, has asked the department to authorize him to offer a suitable reward for information likely to lead to the arrest and punishment of the persons implicated.

The monuments defaced are those of the Fifth Corps headquarters, the Ninety-sixth Pennsylvania, the Fortieth New York, the Vermont Brigade, the Sixth Maine, the Fifth Wisconsin, Thirty-second Massachusetts and the Forty-ninth Pennsylvania. They are all located in the vicinity of Round Top and the Valley of Death. All the monuments defaced are of granite, and their appearance indicates that a heavy hammer or similar instrument was used in the attempt to destroy them.

Colonel Nicholson says that the damage was done in the evening after the guards had left the field, and that there is no clue to the offender. He says that the broken parts of all the monuments have been collected and boxed, and that an effort will be made to restore the monuments, if that is possible.

Daniel C. French, chairman, and Frederick Law Olmstead, vice chairman of the fine arts commission, have just returned to Washington from a visit to the Canal Zone, and are now engaged in preparing a report for submission to President Wilson, embodying recommendations for the artistic temperaments of the various structures of the great waterway. Probably these members of the commission will consult with the five other members of the body before presenting their report.

Messrs. French and Olmstead were sent to the isthmus by President Taft, with special instructions to consider the plans for the bridges, locks and terminal stations and approaches of the canal, in order that the severely simple details of the rough mechanical construction might be developed along the lines of some harmonious scheme of esthetic value.

Chief Gunner's Mate P. F. Sokolowski, of Worcester, Mass., became an ardent advocate of pure democracy when he called into the office of the new secretary of the navy, where he was warmly shaken by the hand by Josephus Daniels.

Secretary Daniels assured the gunner's mate that the enlisted man was just as welcome in his office as any other and told him to take that message to the Navy Yard.
Secretary Daniels' message to the enlisted men also informed them that his heart beat strongly for them and he would do all in his power to make their lots happier and better. He believes that a contented navy is a more efficient navy.

Recent letters to the naval observatory from the ships of the fleet show that the new gyro-compasses are exceedingly successful. Reports have recently been received from the Wyoming, Arkansas, north Dakota and Florida, showing that those ships having the gyro-compasses are using that compass for steering entirely, but that for the present they check their courses by the old magnetic compasses.

The reports also indicate that for use in ordinary navigation in taking bearings the new gyro-compasses have been a great assistance.

The battleship Delaware won the coveted first position in elementary practice with guns and torpedoes combined last year with the total score of 46,025, for the past calendar year. The other battleships included in the honor list of the first ten of the Atlantic fleet were the Florida, 43,134; Idaho, 42,455; Michigan, 39,846; North Dakota, 35,144; Connecticut, 34,811; Louisiana, 34,565; Mississippi, 33,775; New Hampshire, 33,708; and Utah, 30,997. The Georgia stood at the foot of the list of 25 ships for combined practice with a score of 9,302.

Six, instead of twelve military and naval aids to the president, as at present, probably will be the quota of President Wilson's administration. Major T. L. Rhoads, who has been directed to remain as military aid and medical adviser to the president until further orders, is author of a plan of reorganization, which will materially cut out gold lace in the White House. He would have a chief aid in charge. He would also discontinue the practice of having a uniformed aid accompany the president on his travels.

FOUR SUGAR STOCKS
REGISTER DECLINES

Hawaiian Commercial, Haiku, Oahu and Pioneer all register declines today. On the board three 10-share lots of Hawaiian Commercial sold down an eighth point to 33.62 1/2. Ten shares of Haiku sold in recess at 129, which is a drop of six points from last sale some time ago. Oahu dropped a quarter-point to 3.25 on the board for 25 shares. A block of 145 shares of Pioneer is reported sold at 23.75, or a fall of one-quarter point.

Onomae is unchanged at 31.75 for two lots of 10 shares each reported, and Hawaiian Sugar at 34.75 for 100 and 75 shares. Hilo Railroad common holds at 6 for 100 shares in recess. Brewery maintained 23 on the board for 30 shares in three unequal lots.

Transactions on the stock exchange for the past six business days amount to $41,721.12 1/2, which is less than half of either of the two previous periods with which comparison can be made.

KAIMUKI AWAKE TO ITS RIGHTS

At the monthly meeting of Waialae, Kaimuki and Palolo Improvement Club, some residents complained of the shutting off of their water on account of irrigating outside of the prescribed hours. It was claimed that there was no need for the enforcement of the rules in that section, as the Kapaeha pump delivers more than an ample supply of water all the time. In fact, there have been complaints of the frequent overflowing of the reservoir. It was decided to lay the matter before the superintendent of public works.

Another complaint, which will be transmitted to the president of the board of health, related to hog ranches in Palolo valley.

Still another grievance voiced was in regard to the garbage service. Rubbish is left untouched in places where it is dumped by inconsiderate people, while in some cases garbage properly left out for the wagon is not taken away. There are piles of bottles and cans and other debris here and there throughout the district, which belong to the clean-up of two years past.

The appropriate committee was charged with watching the rapid transit charter extension proposals in the interests of the district.

A committee has the improvement of Lihoukale school grounds in charge, with plans destined by local architects. In one corner will be a baseball diamond.

You Can't Be Happy With a Headache

Probably more pleasure is spoiled because of headaches than from any other reason.

When your head aches it not only makes you unhappy but it is very apt to interfere with the pleasure of anyone else around you. One can't be expected to be very cheerful and pleasant when one's head is simply splitting.

And there is no need of suffering. Keep a box of

Stearns' Headache Wafers [Shac]

In the house when you are at home—carry it in your bag when you travel. That insures you against the annoyance of headaches—your own and other people's.

Stearns' Headache Wafers are as pure as they look, and the snow-white wafers certainly indicate purity in the highest degree. One dose cures, and leaves your head "clear as a bell."

It is so much better than any other kind that your own interest demands that you insist on STEARNS—the genuine.

ably meet with exposure. Democratic leaders sincerely anxious to give to the country a tariff law that will be honest and fair to the people and to business interests and at the same time as free from favors to big interests as possible have not hesitated to tell President Wilson that the senate is the place where the butchery of tariff bills is done and that it is generally done by able but scheming men seeking to secure favors for big interests to which they have long been friendly.

There is no suggestion to the President that the Democratic majority in the senate cannot be trusted, but it is urged that the majority is surrounded on all sides by the able generals of the protective tariff of the old school thought. These forces, the President is now being told, will hoodwink the administration if possible, and the best way to prevent this is to force a concentration of the country's attention to all the time the tariff bills are in the body. "Watch every move in the senate and turn on the lights" is to the Democratic watchword.

President Wilson, although strongly desiring a revision of the currency and financial laws as early as possible is known to be giving a most attentive ear to the proposition to make the tariff the only business of the special session. He will not pass the bill finally, however, until he has conferred at length with Democratic leaders in both houses.

PLANTATION MEN ARGUE

returns from some of the big plantations which were discussed did not point, say the assessors, to an utter dismal condition of affairs.

The following representatives were present at the meeting: Richard Ivers, Brewer & Co., J. W. Waldron, Schaefer & Co., W. H. Baird, Theo. I. Davies & Co., J. H. McKenzie, Bishop & Co., J. P. Cook, Alexander & Baldwin, F. Klamp, H. Hackfeld & Co.

That Chun Duck Soon, escaped Korean convict, separated himself from the fifty-pound iron ornament that adorned his leg last night, through a novel method, is the prediction ventured this morning by police officers who have for years studied the habits of this interesting felon.

"Chun Duck Soon is a pretty wise Korean and in my opinion he awaited his chance last night and was assisted by an Oahu Railway train in securing his release from the heavy instrument calculated to make escape almost impossible," was the suggestion offered by one well versed police official today.

"By laying the heavy iron ball across the railway track, his body on the outside and the iron within the rails, a passing freight train at night would come pretty near doing the business of severing the chains. It is admitted that the method would be a daring one to say the least. A man in the position of a hunted criminal of the Chun Duck Soon class, however, would not stop at a long chance on gaining his liberty.

Chief of Detectives Arthur McDuffie, Deputy Kellert and a force of a dozen men spent the night in the Palama cane fields with a view of running across the Korean who broke jail yesterday. The field was gone over with a fine tooth comb. The greatest care was exercised in beating up the cane with the hope of running across the hiding place of the convict.

It would prove no great surprise to police officials to run across a portion of the Chun Duck Soon leg adornment near the right of way of the Oahu Railway Company.

Another expedition under the direction of McDuffie will take up a different trail tonight.

Rather Slow Builder
It is lucky Noah did not have for a contractor to build the ark a man as slow as a Japanese applicant for a building permit at the city hall this morning wrote himself down to be. This Japanese wanted a permit for a house 10 feet 21 feet ground dimensions, and in reply to the question on be blank. "What will be the probable time occupied in the erection of the building?" he wrote, "Six years!"

License Inspector Fennell descended upon a pair of Japanese near the Ahimamu pineapple cannery last night and discovered and confiscated a quantity of beer, wine and okolehu. Arrests were made and the two Japanese were released by putting up bond to the amount of $200.

DEFENSE FUND FOR MAGUIRE BEING RAISED

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

Hilo, Hawaii, March 21. — What was first believed to be coercion of county road workers by lunas to make them contribute to a general fund for the defense of Auditor Maguire, in case he is arrested, is now thought to be merely the efforts of the members of the Hilo Labor Union to raise a fund for the defense of one of their members. Maguire is a member of the union.

The first intimation of the attempt to raise a defense fund, became known the first of this week, when Manuel Destrella, a road workman, told a clerk in one of the stores that he had been requested to give a portion of his pay, last Saturday toward the fund that was being raised to defend Maguire. The workman was indignant at the time and was hotly declaring that he would give no money to aid one who could afford to drive an automobile. "He has lots of money—I have little," he is quoted as saying.

When Destrella was seen and asked about the matter, he denied that it was he who had said anything about the supposed coercion. On being pressed he said maybe it was Antonio Destrella who was asked to support Maguire. Finally on being assured that there would be no "pillika," whether he gave the money or not, he said that his road luna had asked him to help. Then added: "Spose other men kokua, me kokua too." Evidently the man felt that he was being questioned, because he had not given any of his money. To use his own words, "he said, 'Me cash money, go right home.' When again assured that there was no "pillika," he appeared much relieved.

Road Overseer Vierra was asked for an explanation of what seemed coercion of county employees, in raising the fund, said he "During last week, the Hilo Labor Union called a meeting and several speakers asked the men who gathered to help toward raising a fund for the defense of Maguire. There was quite a large attendance of union men and of others who are not."

"The purpose of the meeting was explained to the men. Some seemed willing to contribute others did not. I spoke to the men of the matter, because I believe every man is entitled, to be thought innocent until he is proved guilty. I do not think Maguire has yet been proven guilty. But I assured the men present that they must not feel obligated to give a cent toward the fund because they might happen to be working under me. Ewaliko expressed like sentiments. No, I would not like to say who else spoke. But there were no other county officials present except Pacheco. He is clerk of the road board and secretary for the union. Maguire is a member of the union. I thought he ought to be given a chance to prove himself innocent, if he is, which some think."

From what Destrella says and from the interview of Vierra, the impression that the road workers were being forced to help swell the fund is due no doubt to the coincidence that leaders in the labor union are in some cases also county officials.

Vierra was an almost unanimous choice of Hilo people for the position of road overseer. There are very few who will not accept his statement as true of what appeared at first to be a nasty pressure on road laborers.

CLAUDIUS M'BRIDE PAYS FOR SLAPPING DEYO

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
Hilo, Hawaii, March 22.—Fifty dollars was the fine imposed upon Claudius McBride, the Kona attorney, for slapping E. N. Deyo, secretary of the Hilo board of trade, at the legislative luncheon in the Hilo Hotel last Monday.

According to the testimony of D. S. Bowman, he heard Deyo remonstrate with McBride for creating a disturbance during the talks that followed the luncheon and a few moments afterward the secretary called out in the hall, where he said he saw McBride strike Deyo.

"I saw McBride hit Deyo in the face and I not only saw the blow, but heard it," Bowman testified.

Deyo then made a statement in regard to the assault which was in part corroborative of Bowman's testimony. Assistant County Attorney Heen recommended to the court that the sentence be as severe as the gravity of the assault warranted.

McBride was defended by Attorney Irwin, who stated that an appeal of the case would be made.

SKYSCRAPER BASEBALL
LATEST IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO—Skyscraper base ball, played 200 feet above the street level, is the newest sport adopted by employers in the main building of the Chicago Telephone Company since the mild weather has made outdoor playing possible. A baseball diamond has been laid out on the roof of the new building and two teams organized. Every day during the noon hour the teams play a few innings. The diamond is inclosed by a six-foot wall, and the roof is so large that no one has yet been able to bat the indoor ball, which is used, out of the "grounds."

Full details of the New York Yacht Club's refusal to accept Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for another international race came to hand in yesterday's mail papers.

A story in the San Francisco Call, under New York date line of March 12, says:

Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for another race for the America's cup, the premier trophy of the yachting world, was declined by the New York club tonight. The action was taken, the club announced, because the challenge did not comply with conditions of the deed of gift, which governs all contests for the cup.

The declination of the present challenge, however, it was stated by members, did not necessarily mean that no America's cup race was in prospect, as the club was in anticipation of an unrestricted challenge for the cup from a British gentleman other than Sir Thomas Lipton.

The club's only official statement related to the reason for the declination of the Lipton challenge, which was forwarded by the Royal Yacht club for Sir Thomas. The statement read:

DEFENSE FUND FOR MAGUIRE BEING RAISED

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]

HILLO, Hawaii, March 21.—What was first believed to be coercion of county road workers by lunas to make them contribute to a general fund for the defense of Auditor Maguire, in case he is arrested, is now thought to be merely the efforts of the members of the Hilo Labor Union to raise a fund for the defense of one of their members. Maguire is a member of the union.

The first intimation of the attempt to raise a defense fund, became known the first of this week, when Manuel Destrella, a road workman, told a clerk in one of the stores that he had been requested to give a portion of his pay, last Saturday toward the fund that was being raised to defend Maguire. The workman was indignant at the time and was hotly declaring that he would give no money to aid one who could afford to drive an automobile. "He has lots of money—I have little," he is quoted as saying.

When Destrella was seen and asked about the matter, he denied that it was he who had said anything about the supposed coercion. On being pressed he said maybe it was Antonio Destrella who was asked to support Maguire. Finally on being assured that there would be no "pillikia," whether he gave the money or not, he said that his road luna had asked him to help. Then added: "Spoke other men kokua, me kokua too." Evidently the man felt that he was being questioned, because he had not given any of his money. To use his own words, he said: "Me cash money, go right home." When again assured that there was no "pillikia," he appeared much relieved.

Road Overseer Vierra was asked for an explanation of what seemed coercion of county employees, in raising the fund, said he: "During last week, the Hilo Labor Union called a meeting and several speakers asked the men who gathered to help toward raising a fund for the defense of Maguire. There was quite a large attendance of union men and of others who are not."

"The purpose of the meeting was explained to the men. Some seemed willing to contribute others did not. I spoke to the men of the matter, because I believe every man is entitled, to be thought innocent until he is proved guilty. I do not think Maguire has yet been proven guilty. But I assured the men present that they must not feel obligated to give a cent toward the fund because they might happen to be working under me. Ewa-like expressed like sentiments. MAY BE FREED FROM SHACKLES

That Chun Duck Soon, escaped Korean convict, separated himself from the fifty-pound iron ornament that adorned his leg last night, through a novel method, is the prediction ventured this morning by police officers who have for years studied the habits of this interesting felon.

"Chun Duck Soon is a pretty wise Korean and in my opinion he awaited his chance last night and was assisted by an Oahu Railway train in securing his release from the heavy instrument calculated to make escape almost impossible," was the suggestion offered by one well versed police official today.

"By laying the heavy iron ball across the railway track, his body on the outside and the iron within the rails, a passing freight train at night would come pretty near doing the business of severing the chains. It is admitted that the method used is a daring one to say the least. A man in the position of a hunted criminal of the Chun Duck Soon class, however, would not stop at a long chance on gaining his liberty.

Chief of Detectives Arthur McDuffie, Deputy Kellett and a force of a dozen men spent the night in the Palama cane fields with a view of running across the Korean who broke jail yesterday. The field was gone over as with a fine tooth comb. The greatest care was exercised in beating up the cane with the hope of running across the hiding place of the convict.

It would prove no great surprise to police officials to run across a portion of the Chun Duck Soon incarceration near the right of way of the Oahu Railway Company.

Another expedition under the direction of McDuffie will take up a different trail tonight.

Rather Slow Builder

It is lucky Noah did not have for a contractor to build the ark a man as slow as a Japanese applicant for a building permit at the city hall this morning wrote himself down to be.

This Japanese wanted a permit for a house 10 feet 21 feet ground dimensions, and in reply to the question on the blank, "What will be the probable time occupied in the erection of the building?" he wrote, "Six years!"

Challenge Refused on Account of Clause Specifying 75- Footer—Late Rumors

Full details of the New York Yacht Club's refusal to accept Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for another international race came to hand in yesterday's mainland papers.

A story in the San Francisco Call, under New York date line of March 12, says:

Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for another race for the America's cup, the premier trophy of the yachting world, was declined by the New York club tonight. The action was taken, the club announced, because the challenge did not comply with conditions of the deed of gift, which governs all contests for the cup.

The declination of the present challenge, however, it was stated by members, did not necessarily mean that no America's cup race was in prospect, as the club was in anticipation of an unrestricted challenge for the cup from a British gentleman other than Sir Thomas Lipton.

The club's only official statement related to the reason for the declination of the Lipton challenge, which was forwarded by the Royal Ulster Yacht club for Sir Thomas. The statement read:

Spirit Of Easter In All The Churches

AT TULULAN

Ring Followers Looking Forward to Some Fast Milling Next Week

Fight fans are beginning to sit up and take notice of the fact that next Saturday night there is to be a live card staged in Honolulu. Promoter Nigel Jackson's show, announced some weeks ago, is to come off at the Popular Theater the evening of the 29th, and after a number of changes and substitutions the program looks like the real thing.

CENTRAL UNION BEGINS ANNUAL WORLD CAMPAIGN

For the purpose of broadening the great field of mission work, especially in those fields to which workers have been sent by the local mission, and for the upkeep during the next year of those workers, Central Union church has begun its annual "World Campaign," which is more or less in the form of an Easter offering. In order to secure an early part in securing the fund, the church has forwarded letters to the various members of the church in which are set forth the needs in the mission fields which are presided over by workers sent there by the laymen of the church.

The letter is, in part, as follows: "We are pledged as a church to give this year $4,000, which will go to the support of Rev. and Mrs. Delaporte and Miss Mettner on Nauro, for the support of Rev. and Mrs. Wickes in Peking (Mrs. Wickes is the missionary for whom your laymen are especially responsible), and for carrying the gospel into India, Turkey, Japan, Africa and other foreign fields, including the Philippines. If, first, you will give to the cause in 1913 what you gave during our special Easter-tide campaign last year; or, if, secondly, you have no hand in last year's giving because you were not one of us then, or failed to connect through absence or other reasons, but will now contribute what you are able, we shall have no difficulty in securing the entire pledge on Easter Sunday.

"Please think on these things: The establishment of the Chinese republic has turned the eyes of that people toward Christ. Our missionaries are overwhelmed with opportunities. It is the greatest hour the disciples of Jesus have ever faced. Let us not fail when our Captain cries, 'Forward!'

"The war in Turkey has not made our work harder there, but has made the Turkish listen as never before. Now is the time to win the Mohammedan world for our King. The American Board, through which we work, is the only missionary organization in Turkey proper. Hence the great duty to be true to this golden opportunity is ours.

"India, under the impetus of the wonderful union movement among its millions, is rapidly changing. Our missionaries are overworked and forced by lack of men and means to refuse to enter many open doors in that land. That land, a dollar accomplishes more today for Christ than any previous generation. Our industrial and medical work there is doing wonders.

"A new era has dawned in our two African missions and the story of advance is thrilling. David Livingstone is going to reap his reward in that continent. If his spirit were in all the Christians whose missions are at work there, Africa would soon adorn the crown of our Lord.

"Our Philippine mission is prospering remarkably and cries aloud for re-enforcement. The islands of the sea, including our own Nauro, report steady advance. Our Spanish, Austrian and Mexican fellow-workers were never so aggressive and efficient. In Japan, Christianity has won most notable triumphs during 1912.

"Shall we back up these representatives of ours at the front, through whom alone we can obey our Lord's command to disciple all nations?"

"CHRISTIAN MYSTICISM AND 'SPIRITUAL PHILOSOPHY.' Dr. and Mrs. F. INDOOR BASEBALL LEAGUE FORMED AT Y. M. C. A.

Indoor baseball has started at the "Y." A meeting of the managers for the different teams held yesterday resulted in framing up a schedule and such other arrangements necessary in carrying out the program of the baseball series.

All games will be played on the Games Hall diamond on Thursday evenings with one exception, when the Red Sox will cross bats with the Healanis on April 9th instead of Thursday the 10th. The games will start promptly at 8 o'clock and everybody is invited to see the fun.

PRETTY LEGEND OF THE EASTER RABBIT

So many have asked, "Why is the rabbit so closely associated with Easter?" Each year at this season the little bunny appears in the shop windows beside downy chicks and gayly-colored eggs. The legend of the Easter rabbit is one of the most ancient in mythological lore and is closely related to the folk tales of Southern Germany.

In the beginning of things, it seems, the rabbit was a bird. As a great favor, the Goddess Ostara, who was the patron of Spring, gave it four legs, for which the rabbit was deeply grateful. In remembrance of its former life as a bird, when the spring or Easter season comes, it lays eggs of gorgeous colors, and the egg has always been a symbol of the resurrection, and therefore used at Easter time when we look for the life everlasting and all things made new.

It is a custom for German children to go to their godmothers at Easter for the gift of colored eggs and a baked rabbit. Just before Easter the children are sent to the garden to build a nest for the expected rabbit, and early Easter morning they go with great expectations, and are never disappointed, to get the eggs which the rabbit has laid for them. Even in Africa, among the heathen tribes, worship of the egg is common. No altar is complete without its egg decoration, and most huts have at least one sacred egg. On all the eggs devoted to the rites of worship a verse from the Koran is written at each end, while the sides are ornamented with scenes from the Nile.

A rare specimen of these eggs is to be seen in the Detroit, Mich., museum of art. The etchings on the shell follow closely the same design as the paintings of men and women that were recently found in Cairo.

KAWAIAHAO CHURCH. Easter services at 11 o'clock in the morning, with musical program and sermon by Rev. H. H. Parker. In the evening Kawaiahao will join with Kamaeapili in a union service.

K. OF P. HALL. The Young People's religious service at the K. of P. Hall will have a change in its order of worship tomorrow morning. The regular program will be replaced by special Easter exercises for which the young people are now preparing. These exercises will have, for the most part, special musical selections by the young men and women of the choir. There will also be a brief discussion of "The Resurrection." The Sunday school, which has plans for a good lively Easter. Mrs. Cooper, the superintendent of the work, will be ready to show what the teachers and the children have done. Friends and others interested in the work are cordially invited to attend the exercises. The time will be from ten until eleven o'clock. Rev. Akaiko Akana will speak.

JAPANESE EVANGELICAL CHURCH. The Easter services will commence at eleven o'clock in the morning, Rev. C. Nakamura officiating. A special sermon appropriate for the occasion will be delivered and there will be a musical program. The regular evening service will be held at seven o'clock.

Huahu, accompanied by Mr. O. Omsted, organist.

Thursday, 8 p. m., Dr. and Mrs. Curtis will interpret the Bible lessons now being conducted at "The Home of Truth." During this class a healing session is held for all present, and for the city and the world. "The Kingdom of Heaven is at Hand." Ministers, teachers, students of all classes and denominations are invited to attend these lectures.

This message is not for any sect, class or denomination, but for the whole of Honolulu. It is the message of Christ, addressed to all.

A loving invitation is extended to everybody in the island to attend these meetings.

THE LIGHT OF LIFE

May this season mark a step nearer the solution of our problems of humanity!

BEAUTIFUL MUSIC AND FLOWERS IN ALL CHURCHES OF HONOLULU

In celebration of Easter Sunday, elaborate preparations have been made by all the principal churches of Honolulu in the way of appropriate sermons by the various ministers and special musical programs. While there are a few churches which will not celebrate extensively, yet there is hardly one throughout the city that has not made some arrangements for the special observance of the day. Many of the churches will be beautifully decorated with potted palms and ferns, and calla-lilies, the flower which has always been highly regarded by the church.

Many of the northern nations celebrated the vernal equinox as a time of festivity and cheer. The name "Easter" was given by the early Saxons as a festival in honor of the goddess of spring. Some features of the common celebration may be traced to this Teutonic origin. There is a peculiar fitness in celebrating the resurrection of the Lord of the earth in that season when earth wears its resurrection robe of green, as it does in Hawaii at all seasons. The early Christians celebrated Easter with solemn and joyous services; it was a day of unalloyed Christian gladness. No requirement was given by Christ or the apostles; the day has been gladly observed by the church as one of unimpeded rejoicing. The Roman Catholic, Greek and Protestant Episcopal churches make it a matter of ecclesiastical rule, and the non-liturgical churches more and more universally enter into its celebration. In some parts of the Greek church friends meeting on Easter morning will greet each other with the words, "The Lord is risen!" To which the customary answer is: "He is risen indeed!" In all Christian lands churches of every name on that day are specially adorned with flowers and other emblems of life and hope and their worship is enriched with songs and anthems and triumphant faith.

THE LESSON OF THE LILLIES

"Consider the lilies of the field."—Matt. 6:26, 28, 29.

What has this text to do with Easter day? Let us think awhile. Life and death; the battle between life and death; life conquered by death; and conquered again by life. Those were the mysteries over which the men of old time thought, often till their hearts were sad. And because our forefathers were a sad and earnest folk; because they lived in a sad and dreary climate, where winter was far longer and more bitter than it is, thank God, now; therefore all their thoughts about winter and spring were sad; and they grew to despair, at last, of life ever conquering death, or light conquering darkness.

All living things would die. The very gods would die, fighting to the last against the powers of evil, till the sun should sink forever and the world be a heap of ashes. And then—so strangely does God's gift of hope linger in the hearts of men—they saw, beyond all that, as in a dream of a new heaven and a new earth, in which should dwell righteousness; and of a new sun, more beautiful than ours; of a woman called "Life," hid safe, while all the world around her was destroyed, fed on the morning dew, preserved to be the mother of a new and happier race of men. And so to them, beatheans as they were, God whispered that Christ should some day bring immortality to light.

"So it pleased the Father," says St. Paul, "to gather together in Christ all things, whether in heaven or on earth."

In him were fulfilled, and more than fulfilled, the dim longings, the child-like dreams, of heathen poets and sages, and from our own ancestors from whom we spring. He is the desire of all nations, for whom all were longing, though they knew it not. And now we may see, it seems to me, what the text has to do with Easter day. Be not anxious, says our Lord, for your life. Is not the life more than meat? There is an eternal life which depends not on earthly food, but on the will and word of God the Father; and that life in you will conquer death. Consider the lilies in the field. All the wher they are dead, unashamedly roots, hidden in the earth. What can come of them? But no sooner does the sun of spring shine on their graves than they rise into sudden life and beauty as it pleases God, and every seed takes its own peculiar body. And even so is the resurrection of the dead.—Charles Kingsley, the necessary funds, Dr. Doremus

Rev. Fr. Valentini. A special musical program has been prepared under the direction of Mr. A. R. Cunha, organist, assisted by the following: Mrs. Riley, H. Allen, soprano; Miss Helen Gay, alto; Mr. Harry Davidson, tenor; Mr. Frank Leandro, tenor; Mr. James Holt, bass; Mr. John Legro, bass.

Program: Mass in b flat. W. A. Leonard Choir.
Offertory—Ave Maria. C. C. Maston Solo—Mrs. Riley H. Allen and chorus.

The chapel will be beautifully decorated in palms, ferns and lilies by Mr. Harry Davidson. The spirit of Easter in Hawaii will be carried out in the decorative effect.

ST. ANDREW'S CATHEDRAL.

Celebration of holy communion at 6 and 7 o'clock in the morning. Religious service and singing (anahua hana olele me hmeni), in Hawaiian, at 9:15 o'clock. Willis did nothing to injure his reputation, and is entitled to the match.

There is a lot of interest shown in the semi-windup between Piszczek and Young Jack Johnson. The latter is one of the wildest fighters ever seen in the local ring, and if he can clip Piszczek on the top of the head with one of those pile driver affairs that come down from the ceiling, he may finish matters. Piszczek, however, has improved wonderfully in recent fights, and is undeniably a far better boxer than Young Jack.

CRACK PLAYERS COME FOR GAME

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence.]

SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, March 22.—For the game between the Twenty-fifth Infantry and the Saint Louis team at Athletic Park today, Lieutenant Saunders, manager of the soldier team, will carry to Honolulu twenty players and it is likely that Honolulu fans will see several new faces in the lineup. This, however, will depend largely on whom the Saint Louis manager puts in the box. If Barney Joy or the soldier south-paw Lawson, is chosen, Lieutenant Saunders will doubtless make up his batting list from his righthand hitters, and this means that Willis, Slaughter, Cullen and Palmer, all lefthand hitters, will not play. If the Saints offer a righthand pitcher the same old lineup will probably represent the Twenty-fifth. For pitchers the soldiers will have Jasper or Lowe. The probable lineup will be Jasper and Cross for battery; Jackson, first; White, second; Parker, short; Williams, third; Swinton, left; Scott, center, and Procter, right.

For the game against the All-Portuguese here, on Sunday, the Twenty-fifth expects to play the lineup of the Chinese game and Waterhouse will probably do the flinging. This being the first big game of the season an immense crowd of soldier fans will attend.

Since the Chinese game, Lieutenant Saunders has been putting his team through considerable extra practice and he has been putting on his spiked shoes and getting in the practice himself. Honolulu knows, from the three appearances the team has made at Athletic Park, that it is as yet green but that with this week's work can be seen that it is getting into its stride and the brand of ball it will be offering soon will suit the most exacting fan.

INDOOR BASEBALL LEAGUE FORMED AT Y. M. C. A.

Indoor baseball has started at the "Y." A meeting of the managers for the different teams held yesterday resulted in framing up a schedule and such other arrangements necessary in carrying out the program of the baseball series.

All games will be played on the Games Hall diamond on Thursday evenings with one exception, when the Red Sox will cross bats with the Healanis on April 9th instead of Thursday the 10th. The games will start promptly at 8 o'clock and everybody is invited to see the fun.

A great many people have the erroneous impression that members only are allowed to attend the various athletic stunts and exhibitions given by the physical department. Every person interested the least bit in athletics is cordially invited.

The manager for the White Sox is Bert Buchta, who has some fast baseball material, and who says he will keep his slate clean from a defeat. Nevertheless A. R. Tinker, manager for the Healanis, will make the other teams dig, for he has nearly the cream of indoor ball players of the association. They are a husky bunch and should be properly called the Giants. The Red Sox are not very well organized as yet, but by the time their date to play comes round they will have a fairly good lineup of ball tossers. There will undoubtedly be a lively race for the pennant which will be given the championship team.

Rapid Transits	33	5	28

By rolling their record game for the season, the Rapid Transits managed to take the Myrtles down the line in the final string last night. To do it they rolled 865 for the game, which is some pin smashing for a tail-end aggregation.

The Brunswicks are again on top.

My, but those Rapid Transits do make things lively occasionally.

Azvedo had both high score, 220, and average, 164, for the street car men.

The R. T.'s had a conference after the match—a warning to other teams.

Kinslea had both high score and average for the Myrtles, with 192 and 171 respectively.

PERSONAL AND CIVIC PRIDE.

Personal and civic pride, and consideration of others should urge the elimination of the fire nuisance. Considerations of economy added to the foregoing makes such action more urgent. In view of the fact that each year sees $225,000,000.00 worth of property destroyed by fire in the United States, every citizen should do his utmost to help reduce this annual loss, and one of the best ways to show our self and civic pride, and consideration of others is to at once install the Denio system of fire protection and notification on our premises.—advertisement.

BOWLING ALLEY CHAT

BY WIZ.

"You've got to quit kickin' our team around."—The R. T.'s.

The Brunswicks, Myrtles and Laetis are having quite an argument over first place.

Yes, Clarence, Bob has it on you now by just 23-80 or 2875, infinitesimally speaking.

There will be no more Individual Tournaments till after the present league season is over. Then we will have a hummer.

The prize committee, Messrs. Winne, Longley and Haney, will hold a meeting very soon to decide just what the prizes will be, and what they will be given for.

That fellow Rietow is usually "isadoraduncaning" all over the alley approach; in fact, no one is able to tell which alley he is using until the ball has been delivered.

A Cockney, overhearing a bowler say that he believed the alleys were "piped," turned to his friend and said, "If I expect they 'ave the 'bally polyes filled with h'ice water to keep the 'bloomin' bowlers from getting h'over 'eated."

Teams from all over the States and Canada are represented in the Bowling Tournament in Toledo, Ohio. A team from Calgary, Alberta, has the distinction of going the greatest distance from home. What's the matter with having Honolulu represented in the Western Bowling Congress, to be held in Denver next fall? A five-man team from the islands would be a good ad, even if they didn't get a look in on the prizes.

Anyway, a woman would rather have cold feet than large ones.

SPORTS IN PROGRESS THIS AFTERNOON

The Maile and Healanis teams of the Hawaiian Association Football League are playing an extra game this afternoon to decide the tie for the championship. Play was scheduled to commence at 3 o'clock, at Moiliili Field, and from the indications the contest should be a hummer. At Athletic Park, commencing at the same hour, the newly organized St. Louis Alumni team is mixing it with the Twenty-fifth Infantry. The colored ball tossers are still smarting from the walloping given them by the Chinese last Monday, and they come to Honolulu with the avowed intention of slamming Barney Joy's shoots all over the lot.

The baseball attraction for tomorrow is a return game between the Ewa and Asahi teams, to be called at 3 o'clock.

Lawyer (to judge)—I admit that my client called the plaintiff an ox, but, seeing the price of meat, I consider that rather as a compliment than an insult.—Sacred Heart Review.

That habit of "Pineapple" Barbers is a good one—he blows in the finger holes of his ball-before heading it for the wood. He refuses to give any reason for so doing.

The Cambridge crew appeared to have the race at its mercy until the last quarter mile and the finish was in doubt until the last few strokes, when Oxford, by a desperate spurt, shoved the prow of her shell a quarter of a length in front of her light blue rivals. Cambridge was unable to stall off the desperate rush of the heavier and better conditioned Oxford oarsmen.

Cambridge won the toss and chose the Surrey side of the river, where the water almost was without a ripple.

At the start Cambridge caught the water first and maintaining a stroke of thirty-six to the minute jumped half a length in the lead in the first half mile. The Oxford stroke was kept at thirty-four for the first mile, when Stroke Horsfall called for a spurt that reduced the light blue lead for a time.

Rounding Chiswick Mall, however, Cambridge, having the shorter turn, dropped her stroke to thirty-four and put daylight between the stern of her shell and the Oxford bow.

At Barnes Corner less than half a mile from the finish, Stroke Horsfall moved the Oxford stroke up to thirty-six, and the Cambridge crew, with a last final effort forced their prow in front. The light blues, who had been compelled to carry two half-trained men in the boat because of the illness of members of their crew, were unequal to the last spurt which would have meant victory. The official times of the race were: One mile, 4:12; Hammersmith bridge, 7:40; Chiswick Mall, 12:31; Barnes bridge, 17:21; finish, 20:53.

GLAZED ONIONS.

Choose mild onions for this way of cooking. Melt half a cupful of butter in a saucepan, then put in as many peeled onions as will fit in without crowding. Move about until all are well coated with butter, sprinkle with a tablespoonful of sugar, then pour over them a well-flavored soup stock. If you have no stock on hand, dissolve a little beef extract in hot water and salt well. Simmer until the onions are tender, take off the lid of the saucepan and let the stock simmer down to about half a cupful. Serve in a heated covered dish as an accompaniment to a roast of pork or mutton.

SKYSCRAPER BASEBALL LATEST IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO—Skyscraper baseball, played 200 feet above the street level, is the newest sport adopted by employers in the main building of the Chicago Telephone Company since the mild weather has made outdoor playing possible. A baseball diamond has been laid out on the roof of the new building and two teams organized. Every day during the noon hour the teams play a few innings. The diamond is enclosed by a six-foot wall, and the roof is so large that no one has yet been able to bat the indoor ball, which is used, out of the "grounds."

WELLS WAS EASY FOR GUNBOAT SMITH

NEW YORK, March 14.—Gunboat Smith, the California heavyweight, knocked out Bombardier Wells, heavy-weight champion of England, in the second round of a scheduled ten-round bout at Madison Square Garden here tonight. A right on the point of the jaw was the blow that finally put the British champion out after he had weakened under punishment.

Wells had all the better of the first round, jabbing his left repeatedly to Smith's face and cleverly blocking Gunboat's attempt to counter. A hard left hook, followed with a left and right to the wind, puzzled Smith. He made wild attempts to land, missing several swings, while Wells got in lefts and rights to the face and a right uppercut on the neck. Smith was wild throughout the round, only succeeding in landing a couple of lefts on the face.

Wells came out of his corner for the second round, smiling and confident, but Smith rushed at him, landing a hard right in the stomach. Smith rushed again, hooking his left to the head and landing a right overhand swing to the jaw.

Wells went down for a count of five seconds and got up dazed. Smith was right on top of him, hooking left and right, and with a left hook to the jaw and a right swing to the back of the head, sent Wells down again for a count of nine. Wells struggled to his feet, but was hardly able to raise his hands in defense, while Smith crossed his right foot to the point of the jaw, sending Wells down and out for good. Wells Out Ten Minutes.

While Wells was on the floor for a count of six, the bell rang, ending the round, but he still lay helpless. He had to be carried to his corner and it was nearly ten minutes before he was able to leave the ring and then he had to be assisted.

The result was a complete surprise, because after the first round the majority of the onlookers thought that Wells would win easily. He outpointed and outboxed Smith so decidedly in the opening session that no one thought the Californian had more than a lucky chance for victory.

But Smith's rushing tactics and swift work with both hands in the second round nonplussed the British boxer and from the time of the first knock-down Wells was unable to put up anything in the line of defense.

The men weighed in at the ringside as follows: Wells, 192; Smith, 182½ pounds.

GOUGH FALLING FOR GRAPPLERS

BY ROBERT EDGREN.

NEW YORK—Wrestling may have another chance in New York. If the example of the New York Athletic Club is to be followed. The other night the club put on a big wrestling show, the card including a number of the most skillful wrestlers in the country. The main event was between Zhyzsko, the big Pole, who acknowledges that he weighs 240 pounds, and Samson, coyly admitting that he balances the scale at 265.

Zhyzsko won a single fall during the 40 minutes they wrestled. The fall came in about 32 minutes, and he was unable to get another in the remaining eight. One of the interesting events was a bout between wrestlers employing jiu jitsu methods. It was as good as a tumbling match.

This wrestling show packed the gymnasium with club members and guests, drawing as great a house as any of the boxing tournaments. That the bouts were being held under the auspices of a club like the New York Athletic Club seemed a fair guarantee that there would be real competition. The crowd was well satisfied with the experiment.

Having obtained this preliminary grip on a part of the New York public the grapplers may possibly be able to engage in a large public match or two. In that case the future of the sport will depend entirely upon the wrestlers themselves.

New York is a skeptical town, regarding wrestling. It has paid out too many thousands of dollars to fakers in the past to warm up quickly again. A few really first class matches would make wrestling draw well whenever champions are put on.

N. Y. YACHT CLUB TURNS DOWN LIPTON

Challenge Refused on Account of Clause Specifying 75-Footer—Late Rumors

Full details of the New York Yacht Club's refusal to accept Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for another international race came to hand in yesterday's mailhand papers.

A story in the San Francisco Call, under New York date line of March 12, says:

Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge for another race for the America's cup, the premier trophy of the yachting world, was declined by the New York club tonight. The action was taken, the club announced, because the challenge did not comply with conditions of the deed of gift, which governs all contests for the cup.

The declaration of the present challenge, however, it was stated by members, did not necessarily mean that no America's cup race was in prospect, as the club was in anticipation of an unrestricted challenge for the cup from a British gentleman other than Sir Thomas Lipton.

The club's only official statement related to the reason for the declaration of the Lipton challenge, which was forwarded by the Royal Ulster Yacht club for Sir Thomas. The statement read:

"The New York Yacht club has declined this challenge because it imposes as a condition that the defending vessel shall not exceed 75 feet in length on the water line and thereby deprives the defending club of the right given it by the deed of gift to select a vessel of such size as it pleases, provided she be not less than 65 nor more than 95 feet on the water line."

The club has cabled its reply to the Royal Ulster Yacht club.

As it would be improper to make this reply public until it is received by the Royal Ulster Yacht club, it can not be given to the press until tomorrow evening.

Sir Thomas sent the three Shamrocks to this side of the water in a vain quest of the cup against 90-foot defenders and has contended that a yacht of the 90-foot type can not be constructed on the other side and brought across with safety to the crew, without a sacrifice of some of her racing qualities to the strength of construction necessary for an ocean voyage.

In his present challenge Sir Thomas through the secretary of the Royal Ulster club, had specifically stipulated the length of his yacht on load water line as "75 feet," and her type as "cutter." He had purposely taken up the line of Shamrocks by naming the prospective challenger "Shamrock IV."

In forwarding this challenge, Secretary Patterson of the Royal Ulster Yacht club wrote, "I am desired by the committee to say that it is an on condition that the cup will be defended by a yacht with a length on load water line not exceeding 75 feet."

The challenge stipulated the same regulation "as governed the last contests (in 1903), and which proved to be so satisfactory, namely, the best three out of five races over the same courses, with like starts and other details."

The dates picked were September 10, September 12 and September 15, 1914, with further races to be sailed on each following Thursday, Saturday and Tuesday until finished.

The club's action tonight was taken at a meeting attended by more than 300 members. Only boat owners were entitled to vote on the question of the challenge. Forty votes were cast and all were against acceptance. The refusal upon the Lipton challenge in 1907, which likewise stipulated for craft under the 90-foot mark as challenger and defender.

The America's cup committee which has had the challenge under consideration is comprised of Dallas B. Pratt, commodore; Lewis Cass Ledyard, E. D. Morgan, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Henry Walters, C. Ledyard Blair and J. P. Morgan, Jr., rear commodore.

JOHN WILLIAMS MAKES BIG HIT

Johnny Williams didn't lose much time in making himself solid with the fans and clinching his job with the Sacramento Coast League team. The Honolulu pitcher got his first chance of the season March 11, when the Senators went up against Comiskey's White Sox.

Williams didn't go in until the sixth inning, after Frank Arellanes had been touched for six runs in the preceding spasm, and the game was as good as gone. For the four frames in which he officiated, Williams had the Chicago players buffaloed.

The Sacramento Bee has the following to say of "Honolulu Johnny's" work:

"Honolulu John Williams' pitching from the sixth until the close was easily the Senatorial feature. He did not allow the Chicago boys a hit, fanned two, and never issued a pass to first. Johnny's work was perfect; he had great control and broke them over in grand style. His work showed why he was the first Conster to attract the scouts last season."

"Ginger was the pass word with the Sacramento club. The infield kept up a constant babble that had the boys moving all of the time. The club looked better yesterday than at any time since the pre-season games were started."

PAHOA MILL RISING LIKE MAGIC FROM THE ASHES

Under the determined leadership of Manager Sam Johnson, Pahoa mill, at Pahoa, Hawaii, is rising like magic from the ashes of the disastrous fire of a few weeks ago. The photograph above was taken a few days ago and shows the remarkable work being done. Although the debris of the fire is not all cleared away, a few saws have been hammered into shape and even in the hurry of reconstruction lumber is being turned out. Manager Johnson says that the new mill will be completed by April 15.

OFFICERS OF SCHOFIELD AND OTHER POSTS TO CROSS BATS

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, March 22.—Schofield Barracks is saving its laughter for the ball game scheduled for Saturday week when the officers of this post, in response to a challenge will cross bats with a team of officers from the combined forces of Forts Shafter, De Russy, Ruger and Kanehameha. If the real contest can be any funnier than the daily practice on the Twenty-fifth diamond, it will be a scream. Both infantry regiments, the artillery and the cavalry, with the medical corps yet to be heard from, have candidates for every position and then some. And the material is some versatile, too, for so far as the practice has gone to date most of the candidates can play in one position as well as another. Usually in an officer's team everyone wants to pitch; in the new Schofield Barracks team everyone wants the outfield. To date there are a dozen candidates for each of the three outfield gardens. Schofield Barracks will probably offer as a battery Lieutenant Baird, 125th in the box with Major Butts behind the bat; a choice of infielders among Martin, field artillery, Lieutenants Little, Campanole and True of the First, Lieutenant Saunders, 5th, and Lieutenant Milton of the cavalry. The outfielders are so numerous that they may be selected by lot unless some one springs his rank. Nothing definite is known of the line-up for the Honolulu posts but it is rumored that Lieutenant Rose of the 2nd will pitch and that Lieutenants Baxter, O'Hara and Clark of the Artillery will make their first appearance on any Diamond.

HOMESTEADERS' LOAN BILL IS TABLED

Norman K. Lyman's pet measure, which would permit homesteaders to borrow money from the territory for improvements on their lands, limiting the loan to 6 per cent of the value of their holdings, has probably been effectively throttled in the house. In its adverse report last Thursday the public lands committee, after explaining at length why it does not think a law of this nature would be advisable, introduced a substitute bill for the organization of farmers' cooperative societies, which it says should cover the situation.

The subject of loans is of vital interest to homesteaders, and the committee's report is therefore given in full below:

"Your committee on public lands in internal improvements, to which was referred house bill No. 126, introduced by Hon. Norman K. Lyman, entitled 'An Act authorizing the commissioner of public lands to assist and encourage homesteaders in the Territory of Hawaii, by making advances for the improvements thereon,' begs leave to make the following report:

"That your committee has had the same under careful consideration and recommends that it be laid on the table for several reasons, notwithstanding its very praiseworthy object.

"There is much reason to believe that the bill, if it should be passed, would be invalid and ineffective under the provisions of the constitution of the United States inasmuch as it would require public funds to be used for private purposes, and also under the provisions of the Organic Act of the territory inasmuch as it would be inconsistent with the land laws which were continued in force by that act subject to change only by congress. The legislature of 1909 provided for a commission to investigate and report on this subject; and that commission in its report, which was submitted to the legislature of 1911, discarded the method provided by this bill for rendering financial assistance to homesteaders on the ground that 'there are grave questions as to the constitutionality of a law providing for direct loans of public moneys to private individuals for private purposes, however laudable the purposes and however beneficial the result."

"Furthermore, there is not sufficient money available for the purpose of the bill and the bill itself does not provide for raising the necessary funds.

"Moreover, the bill does not provide for sufficient security or adequate protection. It would undoubtedly in many cases result in the loss of the amount loaned by the government, and in many other cases in the forfeiture of the homesteads of the borrowers.

"It is true that loans are made by the government to farmers in Australia, New Zealand and Canada, but those countries do not have constitutions like ours. It is true also that some of the States on the mainland make loans to farmers, but that is under special constitutional provisions and only with funds of a fixed nature that have to be invested and cannot be reduced and are not raised by taxation, but even under such circumstances several of the states have found that the practice does not work well and have given it up.

"In the countries of Europe and some other countries the need which this bill is intended to meet is provided for, in part at least, by permitting groups of small farmers to form cooperative associations for the purpose of obtaining credit and for other purposes for the mutual benefit of their members.

"These societies can borrow money more easily and on better terms with their united credit than their individual members could on their individual credit because the security is much greater. The societies can then in turn safely make loans to their members because they are acquainted with each other and know just how much they can safely loan to each person and can see that he applies the money to the objects for which it is loaned and lend him a helping hand when necessary. The formation of such societies is now attracting much attention on the mainland and it is recommended that provisions be made here for the formation of such societies as at least one way in which the financial need of homesteaders can be partially met.

"Accordingly, your committee recommends that House Bill No. 126, be laid on the table and that a bill here-with presented authorizing the formation of cooperative societies be enacted instead."

THINK ESCAPED PRISONER NOW IN CANEFIELD

Efforts of the police and officers of the sheriff's office to find some trace of Chun Duck Soon, the penitentiary prisoner who made a singular escape Thursday night, have been without success, and though it is believed certain that Duck Soon is in the Palama cane field, still no trace of him has been found.

As a ball and chain trailed behind him on his flight, High Sheriff Henry says that the escaped prisoner is probably filling at the farms and will not leave the cane field until they have been cut off. In the meantime the police and sheriff's officers are watching the field.

The escape of this prisoner and the attempted escape with him of Antone Rodriguez, may be the cause of general improvements being made in the prison, as High Sheriff Henry states that he will call the attention of the prison board to the condition, and ask that certain work be done at once.

Had the flooring been of iron, or even heavy wood, the escape of Duck Soon could not have been made, he says. But as it is now, with the flooring rotten and easily torn up, the sheriff states that he is surprised that more escapes are not made.

Military Drills Forbidden the Boy Scouts of America

A further move to eliminate militarism from the Boy Scouts of America was taken at the third annual meeting. An order was issued to scoutmasters directing them to eliminate military methods and ideas and to keep on such drills as are needed to teach the boys to move promptly and in an orderly manner from one place to another. The staves should not be used in any way as dummy muskets. The leaders of the Boy Scouts of America wish to encourage the boys in peace scouting.

Why Is Your Family Safest In A Packard?

Why is a Packard at its best after thousands of miles of hard usage on the road?

Why will a Packard run so long without mechanical attention?

Why may a Packard owner start on a globe-encircling tour at a moment's notice?

Why does the discriminating buyer demand a Packard?

Why will a Packard bought this spring have a higher relative cash value next fall, next spring or five years hence than any other car purchased at the same time?

THE PACKARD IDEA

OUR BIGGEST ASSETS are reputation for maintenance of price, service to owners and a square deal for everybody. The public knows that back of these business principles is the best piece of machinery that ever went upon the highways. We have just one way of doing things. We are going to keep right on along the same lines as long as we stay in business.

BECAUSE

Endurance far exceeding the requirement is the uncompromising standard to which every Packard is built.

Driving a new Packard "38", William R. McCulla left the new Southern Hotel in Chicago at 2:30 a. m., Monday, February 17. Seven hours and nine minutes later he arrived at the Hotel Pontchartrain in Detroit. The distance is 284 miles.

Three stops for gasoline and tires occupied a total of 15 minutes. The actual running time therefore was 6 hours and 54 minutes, making the average speed for the entire distance a little more than 41 miles per hour.

This record, we believe, has never been equalled under any circumstances. Considering the frozen, rutty condition of the mud and gravel roads traveled by the Packard "38", it stands as a marvelous test of the maximum service car.

With the BOY SCOUTS OF HAWAII

Alaska Boy Scouts Have Camp Near Glaciers

Scouting among glaciers and icebergs is one of the summer pastimes of the Boy Scouts of America in Alaska. There is a troop of sturdy scouts in Wrangell under the Rev. Harry P. Corser, pastor of St. Philip's church. He took the boys on a camping expedition last summer near the Kuzg Glacier. He found the expedition not only an inspiration to himself but a source of fun and a stimulus to the boys.

Scoutmaster Corser says that the boy problem comes to the missionary as well as to other preachers, and upon the way in which the missionary handles the boys rests largely the success of his work. "We have been asked to tell," he writes, "what we are doing for our boys in Wrangell. Our answer is, we have introduced the boy scouts, and we find the idea very successful. Many boys literally rot morally and intellectually, because nothing has been furnished for them to do in their time of recreation. The Boy Scout movement corrects this by giving the boy an interest and an occupation. When we have our sports we insist that every boy shall take his place in the games. No one is allowed simply to look on.

"One of the great rewards for faithful service on the part of the boys is the annual camping trip. The last one we had was very successful. It was a fine summer day when we started. The use of a large gas boat was donated by the manager of one of our packing companies, and it was a merry lot of boys that started on a trip to Kuzg Glacier, thirty miles from town. We camped that night near the foot of the glacier.

"For scenery the place was all that could be desired. At the foot of the glacier is a large lake surrounded by mountains perhaps two thousand feet high, their sides being so steep that climbing them was out of the question. In the lake were icebergs as big as large-sized houses. Back beyond the glacier were high peaks looking in the distance like some of the old German castles. Most brilliant flowers grew right up at the edge of the ice and the snow.

"But some may say, What does all this have to do with missionary work? It looks simply like having a good time. We did have a fine time, but it was something a great deal more than that. Every Sunday school is troubled more or less with its 'bad boy class.' Too frequently these 'bad boys' have been cast aside as hopeless. On an excursion like this, boys begin to ask questions, and you will be surprised to find that behind each so-called bad boy there is a good-sized doubt. You have a chance to explain, and he is now better satisfied with himself and his church; what was, or might have been, the 'bad boys' class becomes the missionary's best helper.

"As a result two of our scouts, not from church families, have asked to be made ready for confirmation, and four of them have asked to be enrolled as members of a junior chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. Nearly all of our boys are quite regular attendants of our church services.

"When we returned from our excursion the boys were more enthusiastic, and the missionary himself felt so refreshed that he would recommend to any clergyman an excursion with the boys of his church as a cure for that 'exhausted' feeling which comes at times to the best of us."

Scouts Hunting for Lost Boy

The Boy Scouts of America have been asked to find William Wallace Tomlinson, who disappeared from his home in Stratford, Connecticut, on December 5, 1912. Tomlinson, 15 years old, is 5 feet 6 inches in height. He is described as having brown hair, small gray eyes and a prominent nose. The end of his little finger on his left hand is gone. When he left home he wore a gray and black striped suit, gray outing flannel shirt, gray cap, mixed brown overcoat and patent leather shoes.

Radiator is located behind channel cross member so as to be perfectly protected.

DIFFERENTIAL AND JACK SHAFT—Differential is of the bevel gear type with four pinions. Inside ends of pinions are supported in a yoke. Bevel driving gear and jack shaft are chrome nickel steel. Differential case is carried on roller bearings. Jack shafts are enclosed by sleeves (steel castings) bolted to transmission case, these sleeves having at the outer ends spherical seats which fit brackets bolted to frame side members. Jack shafts at outer ends are carried on annular ball bearings.

DIFFERENTIAL LOCK—On right hand jack shaft there is an interlocking dog which can be engaged by a lever with dog on differential housing, thus interlocking both jack shafts. With this attachment, when one wheel is on slippery ground the differential can be locked and the truck driven from the wheel that has traction.

DIMENSIONS—Wheel base: 140 inches. Track: 65 inches front; 70 inches rear. Overall length: 265 1/2 inches. Overall width at rear hub caps: 87 1/2 inches. Width of frame: 40 inches. Platform space: 14 ft x 6 ft. (for wider). Inside width of driver's seat: 45 inches.

DISTANCE RODS—All driving stresses are transmitted to the frame through channel section cast steel distance rods. Rods swivel front and rear, affording a universal connection between axle and frame.

You can save tire expense by using

Interchangeable, Demountable Tires

BECAUSE ONLY ONE SIZE NEED BE CARRIED IN STOCK.

This means your investment in spare tires will be less. Your chances of loss through rubber deterioration will also be decreased.

BECAUSE THE ACTUAL WEAR IS LESSENED.

As an illustration, suppose one of the dual rear tires should need replacement. If front and rear tires are not interchangeable a new and unworn tire must replace this one. The unworn tire will carry all the load on that wheel. This is a heavy overload. It means rapid deterioration. If tires are interchangeable, a front tire may be substituted for the rear tire that needs replacement. As all tires are worn to nearly the same size, each will take nearly the same load and give the most service.

M-T-R CAR GOSSIP

AUTOMOBILE TRUCK BRINGS PINEAPPLES IN TO MARKET

The Locomobile five-ton truck recently purchased from the Royal Hawaiian Garage by Libby, McNeill & Libby for use in their big pineapple plant on windward Oahu, is hauling millions of cans of pineapple from Kahaluu, where the cannery is located, to the city.

This truck is running day and night between the cannery and the city, via the Pail, and is being operated by a double shift of drivers. The truck arrived at a most opportune time, as the canning season is at its zenith now.

During the short time that this truck was on exhibition at the garage it had hundreds of visitors daily and received much favorable comment. The enormous strength of the differential and bronze crank and transmission case was a revelation to all who saw it. The big powerful engine is capable of hauling 12 tons up the steep grade of the Pail.

The Locomobile bears the distinction of being the only truck in America that has a bronze crank case. The radiator in the powerful car holds 10 1/2 gallons of water, and the engine can be run day and night without overheating, so perfect is the cooling system.

Being equipped with steel wheels the truck is absolutely safe, as far as the rims cracking when overloaded and is not affected by heat. A big feature is the five-main bearing crank shaft, with which every car is equipped.

The truck is so controlled by an automatic governor that it cannot be driven over 11 miles an hour, thereby rendering it absolutely safe, no matter how reckless the driver may be.

Another feature of this powerful truck is the differential lock with which it is equipped, so that if the car should get stuck in the mud the differential lock can be brought into play, making both wheels turn with the engine, thereby enabling the car to pull itself out with its own power.

The whole construction of the Locomobile truck is based on the fact that it is expected to give service, and with this view in mind the builders who are recognized as the brainiest men in the automobile world today, set to work on the five-ton truck and the result is a perfectly constructed machine.

UNIQUE TESTS OF STEEL USED IN FORD CARS

The value of vanadium steel in the construction of Ford cars was never more forcibly brought to notice than in the newspaper reports which state that the government would have to pay $830,295 for forty locomotives of vanadium steel, or $493,010 for the same number built of carbon steel.

The government is going to buy forty electric locomotives for use on the Panama canal in towing the ships through. It shows the value of vanadium steel in a way that, perhaps, has never been brought to automobilists' attention before.

It was the Ford Motor Company that really made vanadium steel popular among the users of the finest metal in America.

Vanadium steel, when scientifically heat-treated, as it is by the Ford process, is practically proof against crystallization, the one great deteriorating force which automobile-makers have to contend with in the selection of their steels. When heat-treated, the molecules of vanadium steel actually become so interlaced that they cannot crystallize. Their tensile and elastic strength has been found to be greater than that of any other steel.

In the booth of the United Steel Company at the automobile show in New York recently was shown a front axle of a Ford car which has been "punished" in the torsion machine at the University of Michigan. For over two days the steel experts of Ann Arbor were trying to tie the axle in a knot. Two complete turns of the torsion machine were made, and the Ford axle refused to break. The attempt to tie the axle into a knot was abandoned because it was difficult to handle the steel in the torsion machine.

The Schuman Carriage Co. have sold fifty of these fords in the last five months and still the demand for them seems to be on the increase.

SENATE TO BUCK $60,000 BANANA MEASURE

There is going to be a fight on Senator Chillingworth's banana bill, which has been returned to the senate after having been amended in the house so as to make the appropriation $60,000 in place of $30,000. This fight, by all the present signs, will be led by Senator Brown, who made a number of frank statements yesterday regarding the action of the house, before the bill was assigned back to the ways and means committee.

It seems almost certain that that committee will recommend that the senate do not concur in the amendment. From a statement made by Senator Rice, chairman of the committee, it is clear he is not in sympathy with the amendment. He stated that though in appropriating $60,000 under the measure, it does not mean that that much will be used; it still is counted as used in figuring an appropriation for other purposes.

A Novel New Year's Present
The cash register in a Dallas, Tex., restaurant was silent on New Year's morning between the hours of 12 and 2. The proprietor stood behind the register, received the checks and greeted each customer with a smile and "No money, thank you." It is the manager's annual custom to show, in this way, his appreciation of liberal patronage during the year.

FEDERAL ONE-TON TRUCK POPULAR IN HONOLULU

The Standard Motor Car Company has put in a busy week filling orders for Federal one-ton trucks, says the San Francisco Examiner of recent date.

On Monday the company shipped five to Honolulu to the Schuman Carriage Company, who, notwithstanding the limited territory the island affords, has had no difficulty in creating a growing demand for the motor-driven vehicle.

On Tuesday a carload was shipped to Bakersfield, Wednesday four Federal trucks departed for Reno, Thursday another was delivered to the Golden Gate Meat Market, San Francisco, and Friday S. G. Rump of Vallejo annexed a one-tonner, making in all a distribution of twelve Federal trucks for the week.

Speaking of the future Manager Nichols says:

"It looks as though we would have to increase our allotment, so great is the current demand and so bright are the prospects for ensuing months. Never before has the commercial field presented such promising possibilities, and with the Federal, which to our thinking is supreme in its class, we expect to surpass any previous record. We have made a study of the service, and by keeping this department open day and night are in a position to take care of our customers any hour in the twenty-four."

THIS THE LAST DAY OF ART EXHIBITION

W. A. Coulter, the marine artist, will close his exhibition in the Castle & Cooke hall today. There were so many things, both in business and pleasure lines, going on when he opened the exhibition that the results were very discouraging. He had about decided to hold an auction sale of the pictures, when several purchases were made and he canceled the engagement of the auctioneer. This was a week ago and since then Mr. Coulter has sold more of his work. He will leave in the Wilhelmnia on Wednesday. His paintings have been greatly admired by those who have visited the exhibition here.

JAPAN'S SKYSCRAPERS

With the completion of a seven-story building, Tokio is able to boast of the first skyscraper in its history. The structure, begun in January, 1910, was but recently completed. It is considered fire and earthquake proof.

MONSTER MOTORS OUST HORSES IN DRAYING

Last week the Royal Hawaiian Garage delivered to Allen & Robinson a huge Knox-Martin Tractor for use in their lumber yards; this week they report the sale of a duplicate of the monster machine to Huestace-Peck Co. for use in hauling their dump wagons around town. The same firm also bought a Reo, 2-ton truck, for use in lighter work.

The San Francisco Chronicle in a lengthy article recently, commented on the phenomenal performance of a model 32 Knox-Martin Tractor carrying a 19-ton load of granite up a 12 per cent grade in Oakland. Judging from the number of inquiries about the tractor a number of other firms will shortly be using these powerful machines which does the work of six and eight horses.

D. A. McNamara of the Honolulu Dairyman's Association this week took possession of a 1913 Reo touring car and is very proud of his new possession. Hardly a week goes by in which there is not a purchaser for one or more of these medium priced cars.

Manager Wells who has had one of the Reos in the rent service for the past year, reports that the car is still as good as new despite the fact that it has done the majority of hard trips around the island at times when the roads were anything but good. He considers the Reo the best value in the automobile market today.

Belgian Army Menace

The Belgian government has decided to introduce a bill in the coming parliament demanding the increase of the Belgian army from 42,800 men in time of peace to 55,000. This will make the army when on a war footing number about 500,000 men. The bill will call for an increase in the army expense amounting to about $20,000,000. The system now in force in Belgium of "one son per family" will give place to "two sons per family," which will give an annual contingent of 35,000 recruits.—Army and Navy Journal.

HUDSON CAR CREATES SENSATION IN SWEDISH ICE RACING EVENT

STOCKHOLM, Sweden.—America scored its first motor car victory in Sweden during the annual winter ice racing classic.

The first prize for the kilometer race was captured by a beautiful 1913 Hudson car. The distance of one kilometer from a standing start was covered by the fleet automobile in 40 seconds. The rate of speed was a mile in approximately 45 seconds.

The victor far outdistanced the field, so remarkable was its getaway under the adverse conditions occasioned by the glassy surface of Lake Malar on which the race was held.

An American car won second position at the finish, the Cadillac finishing the kilometer in 45.4 seconds.

Ice racing by motor cars has become one of the most fascinating sports to the Swedish people and thousands assembled along the Lake Malar course to watch the annual events.

European cars were favorites owing to the fact that they were better known to the racing fans. The crowd cheered its favorites as they came to the starting line. A Swede in the employ of the Hudson dealers for Sweden was at the wheel of the car about which many inquired because of the beauty of its lines. Its quietness alongside of the noisy European cars in the event was also remarked by the spectators.

The starter set the various cars on the straight line drawn across the course and they were away at the crack of his pistol.

Most of the cars were still in first speed when out of the mass of smoke and whirling snow shot the new car from America, the Hudson, several yards ahead of the artillery-like clatter of the exhausts of other contestants.

In an instant it had gained 20 feet on the field, and was closely followed by the second American car, the Cadillac. Gradually the Hudson commenced pulling away and the driver eased up at the line of finish five and one-half seconds in the lead of the contender. Since the race the remarkable new car from America has been on the tongue of everyone in Stockholm who is interested in motor cars.

DEMOUNTABLES FEATURE OF PIERCE

One of the new features of the Pierce-Arrow Cars this year is the demountable rim.

While apparently a new departure, like all Pierce-Arrow products it has been thoroughly tried out by the factory before the public had a chance to use it. The initial test before adoption consisted of service of over forty thousand miles on one car and since July of 1912 it has proved its worth on all Pierce-Arrow under all kinds of conditions, roads, drivers and climates.

In the first place it has a cover for the tire valve, thus protecting the tire from dust and moisture. Other makes leave the valve unprotected. Second: It is perfectly safe with six bolts—with other makes safety demands more than six bolts, thus increasing the time necessary to make the change.

Third: It is interchangeable. A 36x4 1-2 inch spare rim can be used on a 38x5 1-2 wheel or visa versa; but tires are not interchangeable on rims of different sizes. Fourth: The four contact surfaces are flat and cover a large area obviating sticking and preventing wear. Other types have angular ridges of limited area which create difficulty in removing. These ridges are essential to safety in other types but the wedges soon wear the ridges away.

Fifth: The felloe band and rim flange are stamped from solid sheet steel making these two closely related parts an exact fit and assuring the four large bearing points so perfect a contact that no truing is needed and the bolts and nuts become only a precautionary adjunct and clamp. Other makes are rolled felloe bands and rim flange, fit loosely and depend entirely upon special setting of bolts and wedges to true the rims and keep them in place.

In other words the Pierce-Arrow demountable rim protects the tire—its lighter than some, slightly heavier than one other make but in all whose weight is in exact proportion to the demands upon it—is interchangeable with other sizes—whose contact surface prevents seizing and consequential delay, has a guard against wear making it durable and safe with only six bolts—is so constructed that change of rims can be made easily by the most inexperienced driver in seven minutes and altogether is a rim that use has proved to be not only demountable in name but an incontestable fact.

Society

THE HABIT of purchasing new hats and gowns for Easter Sunday has been indulged for so long that it has become a custom and for years unold those who have gone to church on Easter Sunday have been attired in new hat and gown.

Honolulu has a reputation for being different from the residents in any other part of the world, and it has become a fact with many of the society women here to wear the new costumes they have secured for the season the week previous or the week following Easter. In fact, a number of the women wear the oldest garments they possess on Easter. This fact is only in existence in society, for the other good folk wear their new frocks just the same.

The working girl of Honolulu is perhaps better dressed than the glitzy wage earner in any other city, because there is little change in the seasons, and inexpensive dresses may be worn all the year round. Consequently the girls are in a position to purchase dainty and appropriate Easter frocks. They can have silk hosiery, too, and many times when their costumes are simply arranged their station in life cannot be determined as easily as that of the working girl on the mainland.

All of this has gone towards making the society woman disregard the ancient custom of the new Easter gown and bonnet.

Mrs. A. Hocking a Bridge Hostess.

The most elaborate affair of the week was the bridge tea at which Mrs. A. Hocking entertained on Monday afternoon at her home on Keolu street. As green prevailed in all of the decorations at the entertainments given on Monday, so it did at Mrs. Hocking's and her home was made most attractive with palms and ferns. Wilhoits Return From Visit to Honolulu

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Wilhoit returned home Monday from Honolulu, where they have been wintering for the past three months. They took their automobile to the islands and drove everywhere. Mr. Wilhoit states that persons planning to visit the islands should take their machines because of the great pleasure to be derived by the many scenic trips and because of the high cost of auto hire. Mr. Wilhoit was in one of the Honolulu banks for two years about 20 years ago and met many old friends on the recent visit. Many of the boys and girls of the former visit are now the men and women of the city.

Mr. Ayre says the story insinuating that he had become a bachelorette was merely the practical joke of some of his friends.

Social News From Washington

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 10.—With the president's family and the vice-president and Mrs. Marshall setting the standard of not entertaining or accepting hospitality on Sunday, it is quite natural that the official set follow the same rule. The first Sabbath under the new regime, was observed in a quiet way, with an attendance at church, followed by informal luncheon en famille or with an occasional guest here and there, and a few guests dropping in informally at tea time.

The president and Mrs. Wilson's luncheon party was much the same as it has been from the outset, consisting of the members of the household and several of the relatives who are in Washington. Later the Misses Wilson went for a motor trip, as they have been doing frequently since their arrival, getting acquainted with Washington, which they seem to be finding an interesting as well as large undertaking.

Owing to the fact that all their household goods have not reached Washington, the process of getting settled in the White House has been a little slow.

Congressman James R. Mann and Mrs. Mann, of Illinois, and former Congressman William B. McKinley, of Illinois, and his niece, Miss Mattie, have gone to New York, from where they will sail Tuesday for Panama. Captain and Mrs. Johnstone, Major Cruikshank of Littleham, Captain and Mrs. Lister, Captain and Mrs. Freeman, Lieutenant Campanole, Lieutenant Andrews, Lieutenant Payson and Lieutenant Pratt.

"Military Night" at the Opera. Among the military officers and ladies at the opera Tuesday were Admiral and Mrs. C. B. T. Moore, Major and Mrs. Timberlake, Major and Mrs. Wooten, Colonel Campbell, Major Neville, Colonel and Mrs. Raymond, Captain and Mrs. Johnstone, Major Cruikshank of Littleham, Captain and Mrs. Lister, Captain and Mrs. Freeman, Lieutenant Campanole, Lieutenant Andrews, Lieutenant Payson and Lieutenant Pratt.

Mrs. Ivers' Box Party. Mrs. Richard Ivers was hostess at a box party at the opera Tuesday evening. Her guests included Mrs. M. M. Scott, Miss Marion Scott, Mrs. Lee, Miss Lee, Lieutenant Pratt and Matteo Sandona.

Society Personalities. Captain and Mrs. Douglas McDougal are planning to leave in the April transport for the mainland. They will first go to New York and later to Washington. Captain and Mrs. McDougal have many friends in Honolulu and their departure will be regretted.

M. Foster, a retired banker of Butte, Mont., and George P. Castle, a Honolulu merchant, are guests at the Bellevue.

IF CONSTIPATED OR BILIOUS—"CASCARETS"

No Biliousness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue or Constipation.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give you constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.—advertisement.

Col. Frank L. Denny of the Marine Corps will continue on duty at the head of the quartermaster's department, notwithstanding reports that his health is somewhat impaired. A reviewing board, of which Brig. Gen. Geo. C. Reid, U. S. M. C., retired, was chairman, recently examined Colonel Denny in this city and has just reported to the Secretary of the Navy that he is physically capable of performing the duties of his office.

In view of recent reports that Col. Denny was afflicted with serious heart trouble, his friends are highly pleased that the latest medical examination shows that he is fit for further active duty. He is now stationed at marine headquarters in the Mills building.

CHURCH CHRONICLE TAKES UP QUESTION OF HELL EDITORIALY

The Hawaiian Church Chronicle, of which Bishop Rastarick is editor, carries this interesting editorial in its latest edition:

Raymond Robbins and Fred B. Smith of the Men and Religion Forward Movement have come and gone. These visitors spoke to large congregations of men. From their first appearance at the dinner given at the Commercial Club until their departure, they were gladly heard.

With an acknowledged feeling of the part of the writer of some tendency towards traveling evangelists, he is glad to say that these two men commended themselves by their sanity of thought and speech. They did not teach that this excess, or that sin, was the cause of all vice and crime. They did not charge at windmills or burn on "don't" or "do" or "don't" do that. They had no purpose to offer One stated plainly, clearly, and in a masterly way the principles of Christian social service. The other spoke with burning language of the indifference of men to religion and the need of God in the individual life.

The two-fold message was needed and was well delivered. These visitors were laymen speaking to men. But they took especial pains to emphasize the necessity of organized Christianity. At the Opera House Mr. Smith spoke powerfully on the subject of worship by men. He did not hesitate to say that the days of Protestantism were numbered unless men awakened to the necessity of worship.

It is a fact in this regard that the bodies in the United States which show signs of growth are almost always those in which worship is emphasized.

Protestantism.

The only words uttered by Mr. Smith which would criticize were those in which he set forth the real point of weakness of the Protestant position. He is reported to have said: "I believed that the Bible did not provide a hell for betrayers of your faith. I would stamp it under my feet." It does not matter to us whether he said these words or not, but they exactly state the American Protestant idea.

In the old days Abolitionists flung away the Bible because the Bible did not teach abolition. Some Protestants today have flung the Bible away because it does not teach prohibition. What does the above mean? It means that the Protestant considers that he, in his individual personality is the judge of the truth and the false, of what is Christian doctrine and what is not.

As a matter of fact, Jesus Christ dealt with eternal infinities, and not with methods. The New Testament shows that He taught brotherly love because of a heavenly Father. This principle was bound to abolish slavery in time, and will abolish injustice and unfairness to labor in time.

Just so the principle that we are sons of God and that our bodies are the temples of the Holy Ghost will, when realized, make intemperance impossible and so abolish it.

So with impurity it is not by pointing out that sin especially, that impurity is to be abolished, but it is by the development of the truth among men and women that "the pure in heart shall see God."

The Catholic position as opposed to the Protestant conception of the individual as a criterion of doctrine and truth is the Catholic conception of the deposit of great central and eternal truths in the church, and the proof of these by the records in the New Testament. We church people do not go to Holy Scripture to pick out this text and that text to make a belief or to bolster up this or that teaching. We go to it to prove that what the church teaches now is as she taught in the beginning. The Apostles' creed is the chart by which we sail into the sea of Holy writ. We go there not to pick out our religion but to prove that what the Church teaches is the truth taught by the Apostles. There is a great deal of difference in these two methods. The first or sectarian method, the cause of numberless divisions, has been found wanting. Men have ceased to argue about little things in religion. They want to think of the great things and fundamental truths. The church has always emphasized the eternal truths and has left small matters of views and opinions to the liberty of the individual.

We churchmen are in a peculiar position, we are Catholics by heritage, doctrine and Holy Orders. We are Protestants against the additions of Romanism. But we no less are Protestants against the subtractions of many religious bodies. It is true this church is a via media and so touches the Catholic churches of Rome and Greece on the one hand, and the various Protestant bodies on the other. It is because of this that the wisest men look to it as the possible strongest factor in the movement towards unity.

WEALTH OF COCOS DECLARED A MYTH

The wealth of buried treasure is a myth pure and simple, in the opinion of an officer in the Pacific Mail liner Korea, who in passing through Honolulu yesterday, following his transfer from the Panama run, is making his initial tour of the Pacific to the Orient.

Treasure hunters from Great Britain are now said to have returned from the treasure island with experience and not gold.

"Cocos Island gives no sign of wealth," declared the Pacific Mail official yesterday. While at Panama we learned that the treasure-hunting party headed by Miss Genevieve Davis, of London, which has been delving into the soil of Cocos Island for several months, has returned at the isthmus with considerable experience and no treasure.

The party left Plymouth, England, in September last for Cocos Island, which lies about 550 miles southwest of Panama, where they hoped to find treasure estimated at $100,000,000.

The result of the search bears out former reports that the treasure on the island is a mythical story, utilized by unprincipled promoters in forming searching parties at so much per search. The romantic situation of Cocos Island, the only speck of land out in the Pacific a short distance from Central America, has resulted in searching parties boring into every foot of ground on the small island, which is out of the track of vessels.

The wealth said to have been stored on the island is reported to have been carried there, following a Chilean revolution, but a significant fact is that the Chileans are about the only people who have not searched the island, although it is close to that republic.

During the past six months half a dozen expeditions have been reported to be heading for the island from distant countries, while the people in the vicinity of Cocos Island regard the treasure talk as a joke.

PRIVATE FUNERAL FOR J. A. CUMMINS

In obedience to his last wishes, the funeral of the late Hon. John A. Cummins will be virtually private. The ceremonies will be simple and only relatives and close friends will be present. It will take place at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the house in Alexander street.

In the meantime, due to the high chief rank of the deceased, the body is lying in state and the chanting of odes and waving of kahalis are being conducted according to the ancient customs.

Rev. Henry H. Parker, pastor of Kawaiahao church, will hold the service at the house, and Rev. Leopold Kroll, minister of the Hawaiian congregation of St. Andrew's cathedral, at the grave.

Joseph Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, has sent to the imperial navy department, Germany, a message expressing his sympathy and that of the American navy upon the loss of life involved in the disaster to the German torpedo boat destroyer S-178. The sending of the message was among the first of Secretary Daniels' official acts.

PRICES OF STOCKS STEADY BUT LITTLE BUSINESS DOING

Although the intervention of a non-business day this week, destroys an even comparison with last week the fact that in the five days ended at noon on Thursday the business of the Honolulu stock exchange was scarcely more than a quarter of that done in the six days ended on Friday of last week tells its own story of dullness. In the five-day period of this week there were 1482 shares sold with proceeds of $25,766.12, and bonds of the par value of $4500, a total of $30,266.12, against 3519 shares with proceeds of $118,040.87, and bonds of the par value of $1500, a total of $114,542.87, for the six-day period of last week.

MONEY MARKET IS UNCERTAIN

In his special letter of March 8, Henry Clews of New York says the stock market was agreeably surprised by the inaugural address, which created a decidedly better sentiment regarding values generally. Reports of current earnings of railroads are shown to be encouraging. That general business continues well sustained is still proved by clearing house returns. Mr. Clews regards the money market as the chief point of uncertainty. He mentions that in Great Britain business continues at the maximum, but in Germany credit is badly overstrained and there are signs of serious reaction induced by the financial strain following the Balkan war. Caution is advised on the buying side owing to the strained money situation in Germany, which he says is likely to be more seriously felt in America as the annual settlement period, April 1, is approached.

"The trade and credit situations in this country are sound," Mr. Clews says in conclusion. "The political situation is more hopeful, and we shall have at least one month's rest from political shocks, or until congress reassembles for a special session. The crop situation is also favorable, as far as developed this season. On the other hand, the policy of the new administration towards big corporations is still a matter of uncertainty; so, too, is the dissolution of the Union-Southern Pacific system, which struck a snag in California, and will be obliged to pass the critical approval of the new administration."

The Kaimuki and the Manoa Improvement clubs have endorsed the sugar protection campaign.

BUSINESS ITEMS

A bill has passed third reading in the senate raising the income tax exemption to $2000, instead of $1500, as at present.

At Wednesday, afternoon's meeting of the Sugar Protection Committee, George F. Henshall was appointed secretary for headquarters.

Among bills becoming law this week by the signature of the governor and publication is one appropriating $10,000 for the preparation and printing of a Hawaiian dictionary and bills amending the land registration law.

W. C. Achi has sold three lots containing 8270 square feet, in the Luna-Hilo tract, Beretania avenue, to Anna M. Rock for $3721.50, and two lots containing 3687 square feet in the same tract to Elise Bolton for $1600. These prices are at the rate of about forty-five cents a square foot.

George B. Curtis informed the Sugar Protection Committee that he was going to the coast this week and would take with him arguments for presentation before all the ad clubs of the country, showing that the result of free sugar would benefit only the sugar trust, while ruining an industry upon which much general business depends.

A delegation of insurance men, headed by J. A. Gilman, appeared before the senate judiciary committee Tuesday in opposition to the Wirtz insurance bill. The measure would compel insurance companies doing business here to invest 10 per cent of their local profits in territorial or municipal securities. Mr. Gilman would not deny that there were good points in the bill, but contended that in its present form it would not prove a good law for the property owners of the territory.

Wilbur A. Anderson, manager of Nahuiku and Hawaiian-American rubber companies, Maui, has been requested to join the honorary advisory committee of the fourth International Rubber and Allied Trades Exhibition to be held in London in June of 1914. During the rubber exhibition the fourth International Rubber Conference will be held, and at the same time as the exhibition just mentioned, but in an adjoining building, the first Cotton, Fiber and Tropical Products Exhibition will be held.

At a general land and lease sale held on Thursday at the capitol, the sale prices differed scarcely more than a dollar or two from the upset prices in every case. The government lands of Oookala, manowai, Hilo, Hawaii, were sold to the Kaimuki Sugar Company, Ltd., for $3103. The government land of Kaapahu at Hilo was sold to the same company for $302. The lease of about 28 lots suitable for grazing purposes at Laupahoehoe, Hilo, was sold to John Swain, trustee, at an annual rental of $151. About 430 acres of land at Maui went to A. Pomp for $370, and land at Kaupo, Maui, was leased to R. A. Drummond at an annual rental of $301.

Honolulu is exhibiting the get-together spirit in a marked manner, in the matter of the campaign for saving the protection to sugar. Under the direction of the Sugar Protection Committee, practically every organization in the city, together with the business firms and professional classes, are enlisted in a letter-writing bombardment of senators and representatives and other public men in Washington, as well as their relatives and everybody on the mainland having business connections with these islands. To assist correspondents arguments are being prepared from day to day and printed at intervals in broadsides—not to be forwarded bodily but to be drawn upon for letter ammunition.

E. M. Ehrhorn, territorial entomologist, reports thirty-two vessels arrived in February at Honolulu, of which twenty-two carried vegetable matter, and he passed as free from pests 755 lots and 20,853 parcels. Thirty-four lots and forty-six parcels were fumigated, and four lots and nine parcels were burned. Thirty-five packages of fruit and eleven packages of vegetables were found in the baggage of passengers and immigrants from the Orient, which being prohibited were seized and burned. Mr. Ehrhorn intercepted several bad pests in his inspection during the month. Eight steamers and two sailing vessels arrived at Hilo, and six steamers brought vegetable matter consisting of ninety-seven lots and 2,637 packages, all of which being free from soil and pests were passed.

WILSON'S WORDS MOST INSPIRING

Henry Clews of New York, in his special letter of March 8, thus eloquently expresses appreciation of the president's inaugural message:

"We shall restore, not destroy. These were the significant words of President Wilson in his inaugural address—one of the most inspiring messages ever delivered by a chief magistrate of the United States. Mr. Wilson, of course, merely stated his personal aims as president. He did not expect to carry them to completion; nor did he undertake to tell us how that might be done. Their fulfillment will depend chiefly upon Congress, which is supposed to make laws for the public welfare and in obedience to public opinion; hence his ringing call upon 'all honest men, all patriotic, all forward-looking men,' to counsel and support him throughout his administration. Mr. Wilson has offered with few exceptions a splendid program, conceived in an admirable spirit of temperateness, toleration and justice. His message was a welcome surprise to business men who began to believe that prosecution for evils they could not help had degenerated into persecution for evils they could not even create. To all reasoning and fair-minded people the message was a reminder that the new era into which we have already entered ought to be an era of industrial peace and justice. Of course there was much that is purely idealistic in the message, but that was appropriate to the occasion, and we must not expect too much at once from the new administration, because as yet it is lacking in political and executive experience. Mr. Wilson has many very hostile elements against which to contend—even in his own party; also a strong radical element which aims to upset and tear down rather than to adjust or restore; although, as he himself intimates, our economic system must be dealt with 'step by step.' It is assuring, therefore, to know that we have at the nation's head a man of lofty purpose and strong will; quite capable of taking advice and using discretion in the development of progressive ideas."

We handle Whittall's Rugs
because they are the best

So beautiful are the new "WHITTALL" RUGS, so perfect are their imitations of rare, old Orientals, as to be justly termed Real Oriental Rugs in America. They have the rich, lustrous sheen and deep rich pile that is characteristic of Oriental weaves. In the making the "WHITTALL" mills use exactly the same sort of wools as are used in the much 'higher' products of Palestine, Persia, Arabia, and the Himalayas.

Pure Aniline dyes forced through the yarn gives these "Whittall" Rugs their beautiful lasting colors, shades, and tints. The fineness and beauty expressed in the new "WHITTALL" weave add grace and dignity to any home. The range of colorings and shadings is of the widest. The rugs are adapted to every purpose—for living room, dining room, sleeping room, library, parlor, hall, and den.

Whittall Anglo-Persian

Whittall Royal Worcester

The very best value for the price in a Whittall Rug, made from selected worsted yarns, closely woven in a wide range of designs and colorings. Compare this rug with other makes of a similar price and we are sure you will agree with us that it is the peer of all. Size 9 x 12, $50.00.

Whittall Brussels Rugs

OVER-NIGHT FEDERAL WIRELESS To the Advertiser

King Nicholas of Montenegro today replied to the peremptory demands made by Austria yesterday, in connection with the Montenegrin bombardment of Scutari.

Although the note is conciliatory in tone, it refuses most of Austria's demands. He says he has ordered that the bombardment be directed only against the port and that the rest of the city shall not be shelled.

The Austrian-Hungarian government is preparing an ultimatum to Montenegro, according to an unofficial statement today. The ultimatum was decided upon, it is said, owing to the unsatisfactory nature of the reply to the Austrian remonstrance regarding Scutari.

Part of the Austrian fleet already has left for the Montenegrin and Serbian coasts, and while it is announced officially that the object of the warships is to carry out maneuvers, it is apparent that their presence is to impress Montenegro and Serbia with the determination of Austria to prevent the further cannonading of the civilian quarter of Scutari and to obtain satisfaction or the alleged forcible conversion of Catholics and interference with the Austrian steamer Skodra.

Seven are reported dead and one hundred injured at Poplar Bluff, Missouri, and one dead and ten injured at Walnut Ridge, Arkansas.

Five persons were killed and thirty others injured last night in a cyclone which destroyed Salina, Louisiana, where sixty buildings were demolished.

Another arrest is expected as the result of the mysterious poisoning of Rear Admiral Eaton at his home in Norwell, Massachusetts. The name of the local suspect is being kept a close secret by the police.

Conclusion of the United States Health Service-surgeons, so far as they have been reached, as to the tuberculosis cure of Doctor Friedmann, will be made public tomorrow.

"I cannot tell how long it will require for us to ascertain the real value of the treatment," said Surgeon Rucker today. "I cannot prophesy how long our board will require to feel absolutely sure in its conclusions."

In its official statement the government will warn tuberculosis sufferers not to travel to seek treatment from Doctor Friedmann, as he will be allowed to treat only specially selected cases.

SANITARY EXPERT LAYS STRESS ON NECESSITY FOR MOSQUITO WAR

[A paper read before the Chamber of Commerce on February 17 by Dr. E. R. Marshall of the U. S. Public Health and Marine Hospital Service.]

Mr. President and Gentlemen:

In the few minutes at my disposal I wish to present to you a few facts relative to the mosquito eradication campaign, which was instituted in Honolulu in November, 1911, and which is being continued on a somewhat smaller scale at the present time. You are all no doubt more or less familiar with the events that led up to this determined fight against the mosquito, but a brief review of the main facts will not be amiss at this point. Honolulu has had a good many mosquito eradication campaigns, but none have been so liberally supported, and comprehensively executed as the one referred to above, when it was found that a case of yellow fever had made its appearance in this city. The victim was an Hawaiian who had been employed as a quarantine guard on board the Japanese steamer Hongkong Maru. This vessel had arrived off this port a few days previously with a case of yellow fever on board. Ample funds were made immediately available, the section of the city where the case occurred was depopulated and fumigated, a committee under the name of Civic Sanitation Committee consisting of eight members was appointed by the commercial bodies of Honolulu, a field force made up in part of non-commissioned officers of the army was rapidly organized under the immediate supervision of Dr. Donald H. Currie of the U. S. Public Health Service. Dr. Rupert Blue, now surgeon-general of the public health service, assumed charge of the campaign when Dr. Currie was ordered to San Francisco, and Dr. Blue was in turn relieved by Dr. George W. McCoy, who directed the campaign for several months, when it was turned over to the board of health.

The greatest credit is due the chamber of commerce, merchants' association and other business interests of the city for their helpful and active cooperation in paying the way for this fight against the mosquito.

From November, 1911, to July, 1912, the sum of about $100,000 was expended, the larger part of which was required for the first 50 days. Beginning with July, 1912, it has cost approximately $2000 per month, which is sufficient for 18 inspectors and 10 laborers. Experience has shown that this force can cover the city in a satisfactory way. At the present time about $2100 per month is being expended for mosquito eradication.

There are three species of mosquito in Honolulu.

(1) Stegomyia calopus, which is known to transmit the organism or virus that causes yellow fever.

(2) Stegomyia scutellaris, a first cousin of the calopus which may transmit yellow fever, however this has not been proven.

(3) Culex fatigans, the dengue fever mosquito, and the carrier of the dreaded filarial disease.

The diseases that are known to be transmitted by the mosquito are:

(1) Yellow fever.
(2) Malaria.
(3) Filariasis.
(4) Dengue fever.

The campaign in Honolulu was directed against the S. calopus or yellow fever mosquito and its cousin S. scutellaris primarily, but the Culex was not overlooked, much to the delight of that part of the populace who have experienced the aches and pains of dengue fever. We have with us the mosquitoes that transmit yellow fever, filariasis and dengue, but fortunately are not yet cursed with the malarial fever carrier, the Anopheles. In my humble opinion the Anopheles mosquito if once introduced into these islands and allowed to propagate its kind without restraint, would occasion more misery and suffering and economic loss than all the epidemics of yellow fever that we may through carelessness have imposed upon us.

The following bit of interesting history is a good illustration of what is in store for the Hawaiian islands if the campaign against the mosquito is not made a permanent feature of our sanitary work. For centuries after its discovery and colonization Mauritius was noted for its beauty, its delightful climate, and for its salubrity. There were no Anopheles there in the days of Paul and Virginia. Situated in the middle of the Indian ocean far away from continental influences, it enjoyed an equable climate well suited to recruit the broken down anemic constitution of the victim of tropical diseases. So high was its reputation for salubrity that up to the early sixties, in times when Europe was not so accessible as it is at the present day, it was used as a sanatorium by the British in India. Of course many of the invalid soldiers and civilians who visited the island and many of the imported Indians who labored on the extensive sugar plantations for which Mauritius was famous, must have introduced times without number, malarial parasites. In those happy days, there being no Anopheles present, any imported parasites did not spread—the died out. But about the time I mention, that is to say in the early sixties, Anopheles were introduced, how is not known. Gradually they spread over the island, carrying the malarial germ with them. An epidemic that decimated the population was the consequence, malaria is now endemic, and beautiful Mauritius, formerly known for its salubrity, has become a by-word for unhealthiness.

We will now turn to just the opposite picture, where a malaria infested island was reclaimed and made habitable for man, through the application of the principles of sanitary science and a clear conception of the mosquito and its habits.

Brione, an island off the coast of Italy which belongs to Austria was known as the "Island of Death." Of the first twelve settlers in recent times 11 died of malaria and this condition existed for years. The island, however, was very fertile, and from the standpoint of its luxuriant foliage could well be styled the "Paradise of the Mediterranean." In the latter part of the 19th century it sold for $10,000 and changed hands several times at prices going as high as $40,000 when the last purchasers about ten or twelve years ago appealed to the Austrian government to free the island of malaria. The government placed the work under the direction of the famous Dr. Koch of Berlin, who sent Dr. Rivas, then one of his assistants, and now an instructor in tropical medicine at the University of Pennsylvania, with full powers of quarantine, treatment and preventive measures against mosquitoes and malarial patients. In two years the death rate from all causes was cut down about 50 per cent, and in two years more malaria was absolutely eliminated from the island. Today the island is the favorite resort of the crown prince of Austria, and the owner has just recently refused an offer of five million dollars for his property.

With the increasing opportunities of these modern days for rapid travel and communication, many islands and isolated districts at present healthy will at no distant date share the fate of Mauritius unless, before it is too late, effective measures are taken to prevent the introduction of the Anopheles mosquito. Let British experience in Mauritius be a warning to you who dwell in the Hawaiian islands. The results of the campaign in Honolulu have been very satisfactory. Day mosquitoes, the yellow fever carriers, have been reduced to a negligible number. In most parts of the city they have entirely disappeared, and the dengue or night mosquitoes have been materially reduced in number. The yellow fever mosquito is easily identified at sight by those who are familiar with its characteristic markings, and yet in nearly a year's time but one single mosquito of this species has come to my notice in the business portion of the city, where they fairly swarmed the year previous and made life miserable for everyone. At the present time I believe it would be perfectly safe to take a yellow fever patient from a ship and convey him to any part of this city for treatment without any danger of being bitten by the S. calopus. Gentlemen, your campaign against the yellow fever carrier has been a decided success, but you must not rest on your oars and congratulate yourselves with the thought of past achievement. This campaign, so well instituted and so thoroughly executed up to the present time, must be kept going. You must make it permanent.

According to statistics from the board of health, the mosquito campaign has almost put dengue fever in the class of "has-beens." The report I have here will convince anyone that the night mosquito has not enjoyed any particular immunity to the raids of the old brigade during the past year. From the time mosquitoes were introduced into Hawaii they have been with us and always will be in numbers more or less. Total extermination would be ideal, but is not possible nor practicable. Good work has been done against the mosquito in Honolulu and it behooves the businessmen of this "Paradise of the Pacific" to lend their aid in every possible way with the end in view of making the mosquito suppression campaign a permanent feature of the broad general fight that Hawaii is making against the introduction of the whole host of infectious and contagious diseases.

To this end every man interested in Hawaii's welfare should urge his representative in the legislature to appropriate liberally for the work that is absolutely necessary for the next two years. Such appropriations should be based on estimates submitted by the president of the board of health, who is thoroughly informed on this subject. At this point I want you to hold up the hands of that quiet, energetic man who now has charge of all matters affecting the health of this territory. I care not what his politics may be, he has made good as the president of the board of health and guardian of the health of the citizens of this country, and in my opinion it would be difficult indeed to find a man qualified to assume his duties.

The great practical value of the facts I have mentioned is patent to every thoughtful individual. With common sense, a moderate amount of money, and a clear conception of the mosquitoes and their habits, we should be able to practically abolish them and the dreaded diseases that they carry in any community. Wise men profit by the experience of others, and a solemn warning is hereby sounded lest the history of Mauritius be repeated in this "Paradise of the Pacific," which will be the antithesis of a paradise if the Anopheles gains entry and along with its companion scourges the S. calopus and Culex fatigans is allowed to propagate without molestation.

48 Engineers Built this HUDSON as a Four-Cylinder Masterpiece

Howard E. Coffin and His Specialists Now Offer the HUDSON "37"

It is Here Now—Come, See It

These 48 Engineers—Gathered From Everywhere—Have Had a Hand in Designing Over 200,000 Cars of 97 Well-Known Makes

There are more high salaried, widely experienced automobile engineers on the HUDSON Engineering Board than in any similar organization in the world.

At the head of this body—now 48 in number—is Howard E. Coffin, America's leading designer and builder of six famous cars.

No one disputes his pre-eminent position as the leader of automobile engineering progress.

His associates have been gathered from nearly every important automobile engineering organization of the world.

There are men on this Board who were the chief engineers of leading concerns. Every automobile building nation has its representatives here.

There are representatives from Germany, France, England and Italy, as well as from America.

Combined they have had a hand in building more than 200,000 cars of 97 well-known makes.

They Are Specialists—Every One

No one man can ever hope to know as much about automobiles as these men, working in unison, know.

Each is stronger for being associated with so many other experts.

Each is a specialist. Each possesses a knowledge and an ability not possessed by his fellows.

In the same way that a base ball manager in building a strong team chooses specialists who excel at certain kinds of play—at pitching, catching, batting, and base running—so Howard E. Coffin, four years ago, set out to organize the strongest body of automobile engineers to be had.

The world was his field. If a man had shown that he could get more power out of a motor than any other man had been able to get, or if one proved he could simplify work others had more crudely begun, he was induced to join this organization.

Still, there are men here who know nothing about automobile chassis designing but who know everything about creating beautiful body lines.

Some who know how to make comfortable seat cushions and backs with soft upholstery that will retain their easy qualities and not break down, were added to the organization.

Never before in any other car was so much thought given to these important items of comfort. It is a dominating characteristic of the New HUDSONS.

Worked Two Years

The result of two years' work—the master work of all these men—is shown in the New HUDSON cars.

As the experimental cars were completed, they were sent with a corps of experts and drivers who knew all road conditions, over every imaginable kind of road.

The cars were tried out last winter over roads practically impassable to other vehicles. Snow and mud and the worst weather did not interrupt these tests.

Officers of the company rode on these test trips. They demanded more emphatically than any owner can ever demand, that the quality of the New HUDSON cars should be thoroughly known to them.

The Allegheny mountains became our testing ground.

No road was too rough, too steep, too dangerous or too long for these cars to be driven over at maximum speed.

A driver—winner of many road races in America and abroad—who knows no fear—drove at top speed up rough mountain paths, through bottomless roads of mire and over every conceivable surface that a vehicle can be sent, to prove that the car has the stamina, the power and the comfort to do the work and do it with minimum fatigue to the passengers.

Consider the Stake

In reading the claims which are made for this car, consider how much is at stake on it.

Electric Self-Cranking—Electrically Lighted

Electric Self-Cranking. Automath. Will turn over motor 30 minutes. Free from complications. Simple. Positively effective.

Electric Lights. Brilliant head lights. Side lights. Tail lamp. Illuminated dash. Extensive lamp for night work about car. All operated by handy switch on dash.

Ignition. Integral with electric cranking and electric lighting equipment. Gives magneto spark. Known as Delco Patented System, the most effective, efficient yet produced.

Speedometer. Clock. Illuminated face. Magnetic construction. Jeweled bearings. Registers up to 60 miles an hour. Eight-day keyless clock.

Windshield. Rain vision and ventilating. Not a makeshift. Not an attachment. A part of the body.

Upholstering. Sofa type. Highest development of automobile upholstery. Soft, flexible, resilient. Comfortable positions. Hand-buffed leather—the best to be had. 12 inches deep.

Horn. Bulb type. Concealed tubing.

Demountable Rims. Latest type. Light. Easily removed. Carry 36" x 4" Flat tires—heavy car type. Extra rim.

Top. Genuine mohair. Graceful lines. Well fitted. Storm curtains. Dust envelope.

Bodies. Note illustration. Deep, low, wide and comfortable. You sit in the car—not on it. High backs. Graceful lines. All finished according to best coach painting practices. 21 coats—varnish and color. Nickel trimmings throughout.

Gasoline Tank. Gasoline is carried in tank at rear of car. Simple, effective, with two pound pressure. Keeps constant supply in carburetor either going up or down hill. Magnetic gasoline gauge constantly indicates gasoline level.

Wheels. Extra-strong. Artillery type. Ten spokes in front wheel. Ten hub flange bolts. Twelve spokes in rear wheel. Six hub flange bolts. Six spoke bolts.

Bearings. All roller bearings. Thoroughly tested. Latest type.

Rear Axle. Pressed steel. Full adjustable, full floating. Large bearings. Heat treated nickel steel shafts. Easily disassembled, an item which indicates the simplicity and get-at-ability of the entire car.

Models and Price. Five Passenger Touring, Five Passenger Torpedo, Two Passenger Roadster—$1875, f.o.b. Detroit. One price to all—everywhere.

Simplicity. The HUDSON standard of simplicity is maintained. Every detail is accessible. There is no unnecessary weight. All oiling places are convenient. There are but two grease cups on the motor. Every unit is so designed that it can be quickly and easily disassembled. Think what an advance this is over even the previous HUDSON—the "33"—the "Car with 1000 less parts."

We are now demonstrating this HUDSON "37." Before a single car was shown HUDSON dealers had booked orders on which deposits were paid for approximately 1000 cars. All wanted for early delivery. You should act at once.

CATTLE DISEASE IS NOT ANTHRAX

Dr. Norgaard, territorial veterinarian, an, discussed at length, in his February report to the board of agriculture, a cattle disease at Pupukea, Oahu, which during the past six or eight months has caused the death of fifteen head of cattle belonging to F. S. Lyman.

Anthrax was strongly indicated by the symptoms and postmortem changes, but microscopic examination of the affected parts failed to reveal the presence of the bacillus of anthrax. One of the evidences that it was anthrax was the fact that the owner and a farm hand, who had assisted in disposing of the dead animals were suffering from pustules of a very suspicious character on the hands. Animals that left the barn after milking in the morning would be found dead at night. The investigations of the veterinarian led him to the opinion that the malady was caused by the feeding of the animals on a weed known as the asclepias curassavica L., also kukui leaves, both of which were found in the first stomach of the animals. The weed mentioned belongs to the class of milk weeds known to be poisonous both in the southern parts of the United States and in Australia. Cattle as a rule are not known to eat it, and the fact that they have eaten it at Pupukea is attributed to the death of good pasturage owing to the drought. It is also possible, Dr. Norgaard says, that the animals may have acquired a taste for the poison such as is known with regard to the loco weed. No further cases have been reported. "says the veterinarian, writing on February 28, "and the only advice which could be given in the premises—to eradicate the weed as soon as possible—has been followed in so far as it could be done under the circumstances."

TWO BAD CHICKEN DISEASES REPORTED

Dr. Leonard N. Case, assistant territorial veterinarian, in his report for February to Dr. Norgaard, describes two chicken diseases, one of which is decimating the poultry yards of the Haiku homesteaders and the other having broken out among two pens of five-weeks-old chicks at Kaimuki. The disease on Maui is called apoplectic form septicemia, being a highly fatal and rapidly spreading distemper. So sudden is the attack that few if any premonitory symptoms are observed. The organism which is the direct cause of the disease is to be found in the soil of certain localities. It is obtained from a contaminated water supply, generally a water-house that receives the drainage from the surrounding land, and to which chickens running at large have free access. Coccidiosis is what Dr. Case calls the disease that has appeared at Kaimuki. The owner had been losing his chicks at the rate of from five to seven a day. The earth frequented by infected chickens may hold the coccidia for Infants and Children.

CASTORIA

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody, without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrup," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without your or your physician's knowledge of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

The signature of Dr. H. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria. Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"I have frequently prescribed Castoria for common ailments of children with good results."
W. A. CRANFORD, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.

"As the father of thirteen children I certainly know something about your great medicine and, aside from my own family experience, I have, in my years of practice, found Castoria a popular and efficient remedy in almost every home."
Wm. J. McCracken, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I object to what are called patent medicines, where maker alone knows what stuff is put in them, but I know the formula of your Castoria and advise its use in proper cases. I judge it to be a very useful, as well as harmless family medicine."
N. B. Smith, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

CHAPTER XI.

With a Great Price.

JOHN was standing at the window of his courthouse office. The sense of loneliness was upon him again. It may be that the sight of Katherine Hampden smiling down Main street in company with a bearded summer gentleman had something to do with his mood.

Then another vision was accorded him—a fat white horse lazily drawing an ancient top buggy in which sat Senator Murchell, for all the world a prosperous farmer passing into age amid peace and plenty.

A minute later came a knock at his door. "Come," he said. "Afternoon, John."

"What can I do for you?"

"Humph! Don't seem very glad to see me. You might ask me to sit down."

John pointed to a chair. "Why hesitate? It's your courthouse, isn't it?"

"Understood you'd taken a mortgage on it yourself lately," Murchell sat down, looking gravely at John.

"So you think I'm a bad man and a disgrace to the state?" the senator inquired at last.

"Well, just about that," John said quickly.

"Told Miss Roberta I'm a bad man, didn't you?"

"I could have said that you are a shameful force in politics; that you have exploited a great party; that you have built up a machine for the sole purpose of looting the state; that you have got and held power by compelling public servants to use the influence of their office to perpetrate your machine and by buying the votes of the corruptible. That's probably a lot more, if I only knew it. I've never heard that you used your power for any good thing. Without professions of business you are a rich man. How?"

"Humph!" grunted Murchell, who had listened without displaying feeling. "Doesn't mean much. You'd have hard work proving any of it."

They relapsed into silence. John looked out of the window, awaiting in cold silence the senator's next words. Murchell preserved his usual impassive front. "It was not the first time he had encountered the intolerance of youth. But never before, save during the Sheehan trial, had the intolerance pierced the crust of the man."

He broke the silence. "What do you want to do?"

"A good many things you wouldn't understand—principally, I suppose, to smash you and your organization. That probably sounds funny to you."

Murchell did not laugh. He merely felt pity for an impractical young dreamer.

"You can't smash the organization."

"It must be smashed, because it exists to deprive the people of the right of self government."

"A pretty phrase. It's common sense politics. The people don't want to govern themselves—they can't. They need some one to take the burden from them. How are you going to smash us?"

"It may be simpler than you think, Senator Murchell. When the people understand what you are they'll smash you."

The other smiled pityingly. "You think because you're set a few poor devils to jall you're a man of destiny, don't you? You think I'm merely a wicked old fellow who's got power and is using it for his own selfish ends. If I were just that you could smash me. But I'm more than that. I am an institution—a part of a necessary institution, one that society, that property, that business, can't get along without. You can smash William Murchell—that is, put some one in his place. But you can't smash the institution. And you can't judge a system by its incidental errors."

John smiled, not very happily. "I've heard that before. The weakness of your argument is that the errors seem to be essential. Government isn't, or shouldn't be, merely a matter of force, nor exist only as the servant of property, even if all you say is true. And I've got to go on."

"And where'll you come out?"

"I'll try to break me. You may succeed. But you will observe that I have little to lose. If I had much you wouldn't understand this—I hope I'd lose it finally."

"Did I say I was going to break you?" Murchell demanded testily. "I came here today to suggest that you come out for Wash Jenkins' seat in congress."

John's reply was almost bitter. "So I have impressed you as a hypocrite trying to get kicked out of the way. I repeat, I'm not for sub."

Murchell suddenly rose and put a heavy hand on John's shoulder. "You said you have little to lose. You have much—a future. You've gone out of your way to attack me. You're a fool. But I like you, man. And I'd like to save that future for you."

For a moment John stared at him, in-

"You've gone out of your way to attack me. You're a fool."

credulous. He went to the window, staring out wonderingly. He saw a strange thing—Jeremy Applegate stumping across the square and pausing under the flag, looking up. The veteran's hand rose, as though in salute; then, arrested midway, it fell limply, and Jeremy marched on.

John pointed. "There, senator, is one who entered the service of your institution. Now he is a broken spirit left old man with just enough soul left to be ashamed: If I became part of your machine, in the end I'd become like that—different in size perhaps, but the same in kind. I," he said, quietly, "prefer your enmity; it's safer. You represent an institution. I stand for a principle, a fundamental principle. You can smash John Dunmeade—oh, very easily, no doubt. But, Senator Murchell, you can't smash the principle!"

The senator did not often permit himself the luxury of losing his temper, but he was exceedingly close to it just then. The friendship he had offered to a young man whom he liked strangely well had been contemptuously rejected; and the hurt was all the deeper because he had broken the rule of a lifetime to make the offer. He carefully waited until the emotion had subsided before speaking.

"It's a good deal simpler to state a principle than to follow it in practice. And you can't judge politics by one year's experience. However—"

He stopped long enough to put on his hat.

"You went out of your way to denounce me. You took a time when I'm needing friends to do it, too. In spite of that I made you an offer in good faith. If there's anything in you I'd have given you the chance to prove it."

"I," he concluded, and he spoke as of some divine edict, fixed and immutable. "I rarely offer friendship to those who fight me—never twice."

He went out.

The East ridge colony was gone, scattering its charms broadcast from Lakewood to Bar Harbor. Only the Hampdens were left, and they were soon to depart. Katherine and her mother, to go abroad for the latter's health—which, to be sure, was so good as to be worth preserving. John and Halg had arranged to make together one September evening their farewell pilgrimage to the ridge.

That evening John spent a great deal of care over his toilet.

He drove to the home of Silas Hicks, where Halg, wisely avoiding the hospitality of the hotel, had his rooms. Somewhat at his dismay, he was informed that Halg had discovered some mysterious errand requiring his attention, had departed a half hour earlier and had left word that he would later meet John at their Mecca.

"That's funny," muttered John as he drove away. He strongly suspected the validity of Halg's errand and debated seriously the advisability of turning back and sending his farewells by note, pleading as excuse for his non-appearance some unexpected business matter. He solemnly assured himself that he was a fool; both for having dallied with unhappiness all summer and for going now on a journey that could only intensify futile longings.

He scrutinized the indictment by continuing his journey. When he found Katherine, they strolled, Katherine chatting unconcernedly, to a seat in a retired corner of the grounds—only the fact would not have been significant to John—where she had sat so long after her talk with Warren Blake.

She leaned back in one end of the seat. He sat at the other, as far away from her as he could, half facing her. She was not really beautiful—her features were too firm for that—yet even another than John might have been excused for thinking her so in the softening light of the rising moon. Only her eyes, softly lustrous in the pale light, marked her suppressed excitement.

"Do you realize," she said, "this is the first time we've been alone this summer? You have really managed it very awfully." As though she had not done all the managing!

He had nothing to say. "Am I such an ogress, or have you been afraid that I'd propose to you again?"

"I haven't been fool enough to take that seriously," he said quickly. "Am I old enough to know the danger of playing with fire. At least," he added, "I ought to have known it."

He could not help thinking of the months to come when, with less engrossing tasks to take his mind from the ache, he must renew the loneliness, grown more poignant of the last winter. He wondered now at his weakness in letting himself, despite his knowledge of her and of what she meant to him, be drawn again within the circuit of her charm.

He became aware that she was speaking, with that amazing courage which was always hers.

"I am sorry," she said. "But I haven't been fair to you. The things father works for are what appeal to me, not the things you dream of. The prestige, the power, the knowledge that I belong to the men who are conquering, not dreams or ideals, count with me. It isn't very pretty, is it, from your point of view? But it's true. I—I could wish it were different. Last summer it was different. I was trying to decide what I wanted, I—I have always been more or less in love with you ever since I can remember. And I saw you were beginning to care. I unsexed myself, I pursued, to learn whether you were what I wanted. I tried to believe, to make you believe, that I could have you and the rest. And I don't greatly blame myself for that. Because I am a woman must I sit passively by and wait for happiness to come? I was drifting between two ideals, but struggling against it, of course—toward you. Do you know it's your fault I didn't drift further? You wouldn't take me. You made a mistake the night of that rally, being so faint in your notions of a poor man's honor. You ought to have taken me in your arms and made me go to you. I should have gone—gladly—faithfully too. But you wouldn't."

He listened unresponsive to her words, that halting sometimes, fell in now, measured tones with a curious, underlying regretfulness.

"Now it is too late. I've had time to think, to weigh you against the other things. Last winter taught me how much they mean to me. And I find you—wanting. This summer has not changed that. What you ask costs too much."

"I ask nothing."

"True. I forget, you ask nothing. Last summer you need not have asked."

He got to his feet slowly. She, too, rose. With a sudden jealous contraction of her heart she realized how little of the grief she had thought to see was in his look. Strength was there, the strength to suffer and to withstand, and something else, almost a glow, the reflection of a spirit banded down to this man across the generations from an age of martyrs who were glad to pay for their faith. With a great price he was paying for his faith, and it became the more precious to him.

She found the need to justify herself before him.

"At least," she said unsteadily, "you will remember that I didn't pretend until it was too late for you to escape me and then worry you into going any way as many women have done. I'm not quite so selfish as that. Am I wholly contemptible?"

He judged her generously.

"You aren't contemptible. It is only that you don't love. Love doesn't bargain or try to drag down. You have mistaken, honestly mistaken, something else for it. If you cared—but you don't. You will find that out soon."

For a little she looked at him unwaveringly. Then her strength seemed to wilt.

"You are right, I suppose, and I have missed a great deal. Goodbye," and went in the house.

CHAPTER XII.

Locusts and Wild Honey.

SON of the old regime returning to New Chelsea after four years would have found vast improvements wrought. Nor was the prosperity thus attested merely the crumbs from the table of thriving Plumville. It was all New Chelsea's own, and it had come by the avenue of Stephen Hampden's speculation, for the coal company, despite the rules of the game, was a success for all concerned. Already it was paying dividends.

But a great deal more than a "boom" can happen in four years. That number of cycles saw William Murchell's power shaken, totter and crash to the earth. Most people credited this to the draft of Mark Sherrod, state treasurer and the new minister, and his able lieutenant, Governor Parrott. Murchell would have placed the credit or blame elsewhere. Had he had the habit of discussing his mistakes he would have added a year to the initial blow had been struck at his power when on a certain June day, in company with Jim Sheehan, he had sought to press a bright faced young man into his service.

If it was your good fortune to be a resident of New Chelsea at that time you will remember how John Dunmeade appeared when he was thirty-five—a grave, quiet man, looking older than his years, as carelessly dressed as men are apt to be who are dreaming of big things. His hair was beginning to thin at the temples. He walked with a slight stoop and with less spring—the long, slow stride of a man who thinks much on his feet.

He made it a point, however unhappily his cause was progressing, never to seem downcast. You would leave him, probably thinking it a pity that such an attractive man should be so unpractical and the object of so many bitter and powerful enmities. If the truth must be told, New Chelsea was more than a little disappointed in John Dunmeade.

His health was not always good. He had suffered a serious illness during one winter and, between the duties of office, the cares of a growing private practice and the incessant labors of politics, his body had been sadly overtaxed. He was still district attorney, last trophy of the reform wave that had swept over the shattered machine. Under the leadership of Greene, an ex-gambler and former lieutenant of Sheehan, less obviously the brute and far shrewder than the deposed boss, the Plumville organization had risen from its ashes. He had recaptured all the county offices, except when John, a candidate for re-election, had won through personal popularity and by a scant margin.

Politics is a hard taskmaster. John found poor compensation in the fact that he had become well known throughout the state. The year after the Benton county reform he had joined himself to the cause of Judge Gray, an honest and capable lawyer who dared to ask the old party nomination for governor against the organization's choice. With the Judge John made a vigorous stamping campaign in every county of the state. He was new, he was enthusiastic, he was daring. People listened. Parrott was nominated easily according to the "slate."

Judge Dunmeade was not nominated to the supreme court that year; hence the breach of a lifelong friendship, increased bitterness against his son and many I-told-you-sos from Miss Roberta.

But John preached on. He did more than attack. He devised and proffered remedies with a naive disregard of the conservative habit of the American mind that inclined mirth in some apprehension in others and bewilderment in still others. It is not necessary here to enumerate his remedies. They have since become respectable.

He learned in common with other young iconoclasts something of the existence and character and aims of the personal government which lay behind the formal and of the marvelously woven system by which the dominant personalities twisted the form of government to their purpose. Being a young man who thought himself inspired, he was agitant and the more determined to destroy that system. Not wholly lacking a sense of proportion, he realized the timidity of him who undertook such wholesale destruction.

But his youthful optimism and faith in the people had not failed. His task was to expound the machine to the people of his state. Always he saw victory just one year ahead.

In those days—to be exact, three years after the destruction of the Sheehan machine—there was strife in the organizations of both parties. Upon the devoted heads of Murchell and Duffy, the respective bosses, hurried abuse from strange quarters. Anxious cries rang from the deck of the ship Murchell had steered so long. Then the storm burst.

The biennial election of a state treasurer was at hand. There appeared to John one day a plausible gentleman who discussed the troubled waters. He was in a state of righteous indignation. Murchell's domination had continued too long! Patience with his tyrannical ways had ceased to be a virtue. His usefulness had been proved by his breach of contract to let Sherrod succeed Beck. And be, the messenger, was glad to say, in confidence, that those able and distinguished patriots and leaders, Mark Sherrod and Philander Parrott, were organizing a revolt and proposed to make the treasurer nomination a test of strength. And they had commissioned him to urge that other able, etc., John Dunmeade, the man who had "licked Murchell in his own back yard," to join the reform. He was deeply hurt when John refused.

Halg, who also had made New Chelsea his legal residence, invented sundry lurid epithets to describe John's folly and urged reconsideration. John shook his head.

"But I thought you wanted to put Murchell out of business?"

"Not Murchell. I've grown past that. I'm rather sorry for him just now. And I'd rather have him run things than Sherrod. It's the institution we're got to destroy—as he told me himself once. Nothing's gained if we substitute one boss for another."

"Then what are you going to do, my destructive friend?"

"Try to slip in between them, I think—put up an independent candidate."

John made his campaign. When the primaries had been held, he was himself astonished to discover that nearly a quarter of the delegates chosen were pledged to his independent candidate. But before daylight on the night before the convention John learned that he had been used to draw delegates from Murchell for Sherrod's purpose; he saw his hand dwindle to a faithful handful.

When the convention met, Sherrod was in control. After the preliminary John, answering to the roll call of counties, placed his candidate in nomination in a speech that could hardly be heard for jeers and catcalls. It was brought to an abrupt conclusion by a yell from the gallery. "Sit down, sonny. Only money talks in this convention!" Even the delegates joined in the roar of laughter. And then the coup was accomplished. The Parrott-Sherrod candidate was withdrawn and Sherrod himself substituted. Amid confusion that amounted almost to a riot he was nominated.

A nonpartisan candidate was put up that fall. John and Jerry Brent were most active in his support. They made what was said to be a remarkable campaign, and in every county they were met with tremendous enthusiasm. People flocked by thousands to hear them and cheered themselves hoarse as the young orators extolled the bosses. But on election day the people marched to the polls, voted as they had always done and elected the old party ticket by a majority of more than 100,000.

The campaign fixed John's place firmly in the public mind. This place, one that a practical man would have thought twice before seeking, was won at the cost of much of his buoyant optimism. It almost cost him his life also. A heavy cold contracted during the last days of the campaign eventually settled into a stubborn case of pneumonia. There were many anxious days in the Dunmeade home. Nor was Miss Roberta's anxiety unshared. Through three consecutive nights Hugh Dunmeade never sought his couch, but kept a constant vigil by his son's bedside, listening to the painful breathing and, without protest, to the reproaches of an inner voice. When the Christmas holidays arrived John was still confined to his room.

That winter Senator Murchell varied his program by spending the congressional recess at his legal residence.

And one Sunday morning he came face to face with the judge and Miss Roberta in the vestibule of the Presbyterian church. It was the first meeting in more than two years.

"The doctor tells me John ought to go south and won't. If it's on account of—er—money matters," the senator looked carefully out into the street. "I'll be glad to help out."

"No, sir," the judge put in stiffly. "If John needs money, it is my right to provide it." It had not occurred to him before to exercise the right.

"But," said the senator, "I know you've got a lot of money. You want a Ford, don't you?"

"We Dunmeades," Senator Murchell, don't accept charity from our political enemies."

"Our political enemies! Have you turned reformer, Judge?" Murchell inquired innocently. "I thought you didn't believe in agitation."

"At least my son is an honorable gentleman," the judge retorted. "He doesn't go about deceiving his friends with promises he has no intention of keeping." Here the judge certainly scored.

"John," declared the judge later to Roberta with ill concealed pride, "doesn't need charity from me or any one else. Only justice. He's an honest but misguided man."

Others than Senator Murchell overstepped a custom to spend the holidays in New Chelsea. To John, by way of Halg and Miss Roberta, came rumors of a very gay house party on the ridge that had been led by some strange whim to experience the novelty of a country Christmas. One day Miss Roberta brought to him an armful of roses sent by Katherine.

"I went to call," she explained, "on Katherine Hampden. They were asking about you and somebody suggested sending flowers. So that little Miss Haines went over the house and got together all they had. Katherine helped her," she added. "She suggested it."

"That was very good of her."

"John, she isn't engaged yet. Why?"

"Is that a conundrum? Probably, I should say, because she hasn't found any one with the required combination of talents and possessions. Or it may be she has found him and he—let us not be too ungallant—doesn't know it."

"John, it isn't too late for you."

"It isn't too—why, my gracious! Aunt Roberta, she likes nice, sleek, prosperous gentlemen. Honestly now, you could never fit that description to me, could you?" He laughed very heartily.

She looked at him keenly, rose to her feet and went downstairs to procure a vase for the flowers. When she returned, he was staring oddly at them. What she read in his expression was not at all mirth.

"Suppose," he said abruptly, "you take the flowers downstairs. They—the odor is a little too heavy."

"I thought," she said quietly, "your laugh was overdue. John, how much have your politics to do with it?"

"A little. She thinks I am a fool."

"At least my son is an honorable gentleman," the judge retorted. "He doesn't go about deceiving his friends with promises he has no intention of keeping." Here the judge certainly scored.

"John," declared the judge later to Roberta with ill concealed pride, "doesn't need charity from me or any one else. Only justice. He's an honest but misguided man."

"I went to call," she explained, "on Katherine Hampden. They were asking about you and somebody suggested sending flowers. So that little Miss Haines went over the house and got together all they had. Katherine helped her," she added. "She suggested it."

"That was very good of her."

"John, she isn't engaged yet. Why?"

"Is that a conundrum? Probably, I should say, because she hasn't found any one with the required combination of talents and possessions. Or it may be she has found him and he—let us not be too ungallant—doesn't know it."

"John, it isn't too late for you."

"It isn't too—why, my gracious! Aunt Roberta, she likes nice, sleek, prosperous gentlemen. Honestly now, you could never fit that description to me, could you?" He laughed very heartily.

She looked at him keenly, rose to her feet and went downstairs to procure a vase for the flowers. When she returned, he was staring oddly at them. What she read in his expression was not at all mirth.

"Suppose," he said abruptly, "you take the flowers downstairs. They—the odor is a little too heavy."

"I thought," she said quietly, "your laugh was overdue. John, how much have your politics to do with it?"

"A little. She thinks I am a fool."

campaign, and in every county they were met with tremendous enthusiasm. People flocked by thousands to hear them and cheered themselves hoarse as the young orators extolled the bosses. But on election day the people marched to the polls, voted as they had always done and elected the old party ticket by a majority of more than 100,000.

The campaign fixed John's place firmly in the public mind. This place, one that a practical man would have thought twice before seeking, was won at the cost of much of his buoyant optimism. It almost cost him his life also. A heavy cold contracted during the last days of the campaign eventually settled into a stubborn case of pneumonia. There were many anxious days in the Dunmeade home. Nor was Miss Roberta's anxiety unshared. Through three consecutive nights Hugh Dunmeade never sought his couch, but kept a constant vigil by his son's bedside, listening to the painful breathing and, without protest, to the reproaches of an inner voice. When the Christmas holidays arrived John was still confined to his room.

That winter Senator Murchell varied his program by spending the congressional recess at his legal residence.

And one Sunday morning he came face to face with the judge and Miss Roberta in the vestibule of the Presbyterian church. It was the first meeting in more than two years.

"The doctor tells me John ought to go south and won't. If it's on account of—er—money matters," the senator looked carefully out into the street. "I'll be glad to help out."

"No, sir," the judge put in stiffly. "If John needs money, it is my right to provide it." It had not occurred to him before to exercise the right.

"But," said the senator, "I know you've got a lot of money. You want a Ford, don't you?"

"We Dunmeades," Senator Murchell, don't accept charity from our political enemies."

"Our political enemies! Have you turned reformer, Judge?" Murchell inquired innocently. "I thought you didn't believe in agitation."

"At least my son is an honorable gentleman," the judge retorted. "He doesn't go about deceiving his friends with promises he has no intention of keeping." Here the judge certainly scored.
