HONOLULU, TERRITORY OF HAWAII, THURSDAY, JULY 23, 1903

PRICE 5 CENTS

IROQUOIS IS TO GO ON CRUISE TO HILO

After certain minor repairs have been made on the U. S. S. Iroquois, Captain Rodman will take her out to Hawaii. The start will be made next week. The purpose of the trip is to make some additional notes concerning the sailing directions which were compiled by Captain Rodman about six months ago.

Hawaii will be the object of the visit but possibly other islands will also be visited. Captain Rodman intends to go as far as Hilo, where the Iroquois will stay for several days, possibly a week. The whole trip is to occupy a space of time not exceeding ten days.

RETAINS JURISDICTION

In the matter of the estate of Robert W. Holt, Judge Gear this morning denied motions by Henry Smith, Bruce Cartwright and Annie K. Kentwell to dismiss the petition of John F. Colburn on the ground that the order of publication and the publication of the notice of hearing were invalid for the reason that the application therefor made to and the order for publication were signed by Judge Gear who was not the presiding judge at chambers on June 16, 1903, the day Colburn's petition was filed.

Attorney Andrade asked that further hearing in the matter be postponed until Saturday. The court continued the case until Monday.

Annie K. Kentwell moved as one of the heirs of O. J. Holt and as a devisee under the will of R. W. Holt.

Rev. Louis E. Durr is rector of the Episcopal Church at Zanesville, O., said to be the smallest church in the United States, being 24 feet wide and 48 feet long.

PAPERS THAT SETTLE

FATE OF

TANBARA GISABURO

By registered mail today United States Marshal Hendry received the following from Washington: Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States of America.

To all whom these presents shall come, Greeting:

Whereas, Tanbara Gisaburo, a Japanese, was convicted in the United States Court for the District of Hawaii of a murder committed on the high seas on July 30, 1902, and on October 31, 1902, was sentenced to be hanged on December 26, 1902; and

Whereas, on December 24, 1902, the Governor of Hawaii granted to the said Tanbara Gisaburo a reprieve until the decision of the President of the United States might be made known upon his application for executive clemency; and,

Whereas, an application for executive clemency on behalf of the said Tanbara Gisaburo has been considered and denied by me;

Now, therefore, be it known, that I, Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, in consideration of the premises, divers other good and sufficient reasons me thereunto moving, do hereby approve the reprieve granted by the Governor of Hawaii to the said Tanbara Gisaburo and continue the said reprieve, in all its effects, until noon of Friday, the fourteenth day of August, 1903, at which time the said reprieve shall cease and determine.

The signature of the President follows, together with the seal of the Department of Justice.

On August 14th, therefore, Tanbara will pay the penalty for his crime, that of murdering Captain Jacobsen of the schooner Woods, and after all is over, Marshal Hendry will fill in the following and forward it to Washington:

"To the Attorney General: Received warrant for the reprieve of sentence of Tanbara Gisaburo until noon of Friday, August 14th, 1903, and stayed the execution accordingly, and executed the said Tanbara Gisaburo on the day of _____, 190__.

"U. S. Marshal, District of Hawaii."

STARBUCK'S FAST TRIP.

The American ship Tillie E. Starbuck arrived off port from Newcastle with a cargo of coal at about 1 o'clock this afternoon. The vessel made a star performance this trip, accomplishing the long run in the remarkably short time of 37 days, thereby outstriking a large number of other vessels, which are at present on their way from Newcastle to this port.

The Tillie E. Starbuck's master, Captain W. W. Winn, was here four years ago. He was then commanding the St. Francis. Later on, he took the R. D. Rice from New York to Kobe and was commanding that unfortunate vessel when she was burned in Kobe about two years ago.

The barkentine Koko Head arrived off port from Newcastle this morning after a voyage of 42 days. She remained off port and will probably sail this evening for Eleele to which place her cargo of coal is consigned.

Hawaii Can Soon Send MESSAGES BY CABLE Around the World

Honolulu is now connected with all the world by the wires of the Commercial Pacific Cable Company and messages may now be sent at a cheaper rate than when there was just the section between this port and San Francisco. It has been a gigantic undertaking and yet, with the corps of efficient experts on the cable ships and the equally efficient land forces of the various points at which the cable was landed.

The following message, telling of the fact that the cable is now in complete working order, was kindly sent to the Bulletin office this forenoon by J. D. Gaines, superintendent of the local office:

Honolulu, H. T., July 23, 1903.

To Editor Bulletin

Dear Sir:—I beg to announce the opening of our entire system Saturday, July 25th for traffic under the following rates per word:

San Francisco, 35 cents; Midway, 35 cents; Guam, 60 cents; Philippine Islands, Luzon, (Manila, etc.) 90 cents; all other islands, $1; China, $1.01; Japan, $1.32.

Yours truly,
J. D. Gaines,
Superintendent.

As a matter of fact, the line was completed on the third of July but there were various matters to be attended to before the formal opening could be announced. These were completed yesterday and the word coming from Manila that the line was opened, Mr. Gaines immediately took steps to inform the public of the good news.

The reduction in the rates from 50 to 35 cents to San Francisco will be most welcome to the business community, the members of which have had frequent recourse to the cable from the time it was first opened up. A dollar and a half off of every ten words is quite a saving when the messages of a year of a big business concern are stacked up.

S.S. SIBERIA HERE FROM THE ORIENT

Brings Large Passenger List and Much Freight.

SEVERAL WELL-KNOWN PEOPLE ARE ON BOARD

DEAN WORCESTER OF PHILIPPINE COMMISSION RETURNS TO MAINLAND WITH FAMILY.

The Pacific Mail steamship Siberia arrived off port from the Orient at 9:30 o'clock last night. She remained outside over night and steamed into the harbor this morning. Quite a little trouble was experienced in docking the leviathan at the Bishop wharf. First a pile off the Healan boat house was knocked over and the steamers bow seemed dangerously near the swing structure. Later, when she was in the slip, two lines parted before the steamship was safely docked.

The Siberia experienced a pleasant and uneventful voyage. No attempt was made to get in any extraordinary speed.

The Siberia carries a large list of passengers from various ports in the Orient. Among them is Dean C. Worcester, member of the Philippine Commission and the well-known author on the standard work on that archipelago. He is accompanied by Mrs. Worcester, Miss Alice Worcester, Master F. Worcester and his secretary, E. O. Johnson.

Captain J. J. Pershing, U. S. A., returns from active service in the Philippines. He is one of the best-known men in the service and bears the enviable reputation of being the man of whom the Moros are most afraid. He returns to the Mainland, where he intends to spend three months.

Captain J. H. Whitehead is an English army officer. He was attached to the Thirty-third Burmese Regiment in Burmah.

MAY BE NAVAL DISTRICT

News has been received at the Naval Station to the effect that Lieutenant Commander A. P. Niblack has been ordered to the local Naval Station on shore duty. He is expected to arrive here in the Siberia, August 14. On his arrival here, Lieutenant Commander Niblack will succeed Captain Rodman in the command of the Naval Station. Captain Rodman will still retain the command of the Iroquois. Lieutenant Commander Niblack will be in command of the Station until Admiral Perry arrives.

Admiral Perry is expected to arrive in September or October, when the command of the whole station will be turned over to him. This seems to indicate that it is within the range of possibility that the Naval Station may be turned into a Naval District, which will vastly increase its importance. In that event Oahu will become an important strategic point and will possibly be the second point in importance in the Pacific.

GAS TANK TAKES BREATH AWAY

LIGHTFOOT'S

Short but decisive was the interesting rhetorical passage at arms between two knights of the lawyers' round table in Judge Gear's court this morning.

Argument was being indulged in over plaintiff's exceptions to defendant's answer in the case of Laurence H. Dee against W. H. Smith. Magistrate Lightfoot represents plaintiff, A. S. Humphreys looks after the interests of the defendant.

Humphreys thought the matter ought to be argued on the bill and the answer, not considering the exceptions to the answer, and intimated plainly that Lightfoot should not be afraid to stand on the bill.

Fire flashed from behind the spectacles of the muscular Lightfoot and in tones defiant and manner more than brave, he said these words:

"I am not afraid of anything, and of counsel I am especially not afraid."

Gentle as the whisper of the wind came Humphreys' pleasant rejoinder: "I did not mean to imply to counsel the possession of physical fear. He is a brave man. He is as brave, if not braver, than General Wilcox, the only difference between these brave men being that while General Wilcox hid in a gas tank, Mr. Lightfoot has a gas tank hidden within himself."

"That's one on me," said Lightfoot, good naturedly.

The Court allowed ten days for the filing of briefs in the matter of argument on exceptions to the answer and continued the hearing of the case until the return of Defendant W. H. Smith.

ANDREWS DENIES INVESTIGATION

Supreme Court Only Asked a Few Questions.

NOT GOING AROUND WITH CHIP ON SHOULDER

ATTORNEY GENERAL'S DUTIES HAVE ALREADY BEEN UNPLEASANT ENOUGH, SAYS HE.

"Yes, I see they've got me down for another investigation in disbarment proceedings," laughingly remarked Attorney General Andrews this morning, when seen in regard to the report that the Supreme Court had requested a new investigation of the Sumner case.

"As a matter of fact, the Supreme Court sent for me and asked me to ascertain certain facts in regard to one or two questions which had come up. Certain things were asserted and the Supreme Court wanted me to find out what I could as to their truth."

The Attorney General continued in answer to a question: "No, I have not been asked to investigate the conduct of any other attorneys in the Sumner case. I have not been called upon to make any further investigation. There is certainly no reason for me, of my own initiative, to commence any further investigation. If I am called upon to again take up the matter along other lines than those already pursued, I shall of course proceed. But I'm not going around with any chip on my shoulder. My duties in the matter have already been unpleasant enough. I have originated no action in any case and am certainly not seeking further action."

Thousands Crowd About Pope's Bier

[Associated Press Special Cable.]

ROME, Italy, July 23.—The throne-room of the Vatican in which the body of Pope Leo lies in state was thrown open to the public today. Thousands of citizens from all parts of the world crowded the approaches to the Vatican and a continuous line of men and women passed through the throne-room and viewed the remains. Requiem mass was celebrated, Italian troops guard the streets and are assisting in preserving order among the vast crowds assembled to participate in the public functions. The Cardinals are making arrangements for the conclave.

Novelist Farjeon Dead

[Associated Press Special Cable.]

LONDON, England, July 23.—Benjamin Leopold Farjeon, the English novelist, is dead. Farjeon was born in London of Jewish parents May 12, 1833. He spent some years in Australia and New Zealand, returning to London in 1869 to devote his time to literary work. In 1877 Farjeon married a daughter of Joseph Jefferson, the American actor.

KAUAI WIRELESS PLEADED GUILTY

The wireless system between this island and Kauai is working in fine style and there has not been a single hitch since the first message was sent on Saturday last. Three messages were delivered to various parties in town yesterday. On Tuesday, a sixty-word message was sent to Kauai. The Wai-ale station is still in operation and will be continued until communication by wire between the Barber's Point station and the town office is established. That work is progressing very rapidly and it is expected that by next week the wire connection will be ready for business.

James Montell, the first mate of the Hawaiian Isles, appeared in the Police Court this morning charged with assault and battery on Second Mate Peter Neilson. He pleaded guilty and was fined $20 and costs by Judge Davis.

Neilson a day or two ago complained to Assistant United States District Attorney Dunne, alleging that he had been roughly handled aboard ship. There was some question of the jurisdiction of the Federal Court, but this was not gone into, as Mr. Dunne concluded after an examination that the preponderance of evidence was against Neilson, and he had a weak business.

The concert given by the Misses Ena

NEW INSANE ASYLUM SOON

The Board of Health at its meeting yesterday afternoon held only a short session. Outside of routine business, nothing of special interest was done.

Paial Contract.
The first business transacted was the appointment of a committee, consisting of President Cooper, Fred Smith and L. Andrews to draw up the paial contract.

Asylum Fence Question.
The building of a six-foot fence in the insane asylum for the purpose of segregating the sexes, was discussed. Dr. Cooper stated that this would be an eyesore. Further, the thing would seem rather an unnecessary expense since work on the new asylum would probably begin within ninety days. The matter was referred to the standing committee on the Asylum.

Legal Members Report.
Attorney General Andrews submitted the report of the legal members of the Board on the duties expected by the President. The report was in the shape of a resolution and read as follows:

Whereas, the Legislature of the Territory of Hawaii, at its recent session, by Act 57 of the Laws of 1933, amended the law relating to the Board of Health and abolished the office of executive officer of the Board of Health, and

Whereas, the said Legislature also provided for a salaried president, but failed to fully define the duties of said president, it is hereby

Resolved that the Board of Health instruct and empower its president to act as executive officer of said Board of Health, with all the powers and duties necessary for carrying on the executive work of said Board; to make the necessary appointments and changes, and enforce all regulations and directions of the Board, subject to the ratification by the Board at regular or special meetings; to carry out the wishes of the Board, as expressed at regular meetings, through the proper subordinates, and to see that the same are carried out, with full power and authority of action, including the appointment, dismissal or suspension of subordinates, subject to ratification of the Board of Health at regular or special meetings.

The resolution was adopted.

Pig Ranchers Heard From.
A letter was read from J. A. Magoon representing several Chinese pig ranchers. It stated that these ranchers had been notified by the sanitary officer to remove their swine. Mr. Magoon pointed out that the men had gone to considerable expense making their ranches and did not wish to move out. Litigation would be expensive and a settlement of the affair would be more satisfactory.

Ranches Offensive.
City Sanitary Officer Tracy stated that the ranches, which were on Sherilan street, were very offensive. The Chinese owners had promised to have the refuse taken away but Mr. Tracy found that they had lately thrown it into a small stream in the neighborhood. The refuse floated into the sea where it was spread along the beach. The men had started in a small way about three years ago, but now the ranches had grown to such an extent that they could not dispose of the refuse. Three Chinese living close by had been prosecuted in the district court.

Later on, it was found that the ranches in question were insanitary. He knew that the ranchers had gone to considerable expense and thought that the Chinese would fight out the case. President Cooper appointed a committee consisting of M. P. Robinson and himself to inspect the premises.

Letter From Cooper.
Superintendent of Public Works H. E. Cooper sent the following communication concerning the petition of Wong Leong for a fishmarket.

Department of Public Works, Honolulu, T. H., July 20, 1933.

Gentlemen:—I am in receipt of the application of Mr. Wong Leong by the communication of your secretary, for the erection and conduct of a general fish market.

I do not understand that I am charged with the direction and care of any place that is not a public market that is to say a market erected and managed by public funds, as the Honolulu market and the Hilo market.

It appears to me that all markets owned or cared for by individuals are subject entirely to the supervision of the Board of Health, and I am of the opinion that this matter is outside of my jurisdiction.

Very respectfully,
HENRY E. COOPER,
Superintendent of Public Works.

The Board decided to take no action in the matter.

Wanted to Remain.
J. Kanani and Kapahu objected to being sent away from the settlement and asked that they be allowed to remain as kokua. Superintendent McVeigh recommended that both petitions be denied, which was done.

Plumbing Inspector's Report.
The report of the plumbing inspector read as follows:

I beg to report the following plumbing work for the semi-monthly period ending July 15, 1933, as follows: Number of plans filed, 28; number of permits issued, 28; number of inspections made, 33; number of final certificates issued, 30; number of sewer connections made, 13.

WOMAN A PRISONER

MARSHAL HENDRY SERVES HABEAS CORPUS WRIT

JUE HUNG ALLEGED TO HAVE DETAINED JUNG HUNG FOR IMMORAL PURPOSES. RESCUE.

A writ of habeas corpus new to the Territory was served by United States Marshal Hendry yesterday afternoon. The individual to whom the writ was addressed was charged with detaining a woman for criminal purposes. Respondent was ordered to bring the body of the person unlawfully held into court and the Marshal was ordered to take possession of the person detained, for safe keeping. Lai Chee Hing petitioned for the writ.

Petitioner alleged that Jue Gun was holding Jung Hung, a Chinese woman, for immoral purposes, in a house off Liliha near King street.

Marshal Hendry, accompanied by an interpreter, drove to the place and served the writ.

Jue Gun started to resist and brought a crowd of Chinese around him by his noise. Notwithstanding the fuss the Marshal secured the imprisoned woman. She was found with two children and a nurse. She wanted to take them to jail with her. The request was granted. Petitioner pays all expenses of detention pending the disposal of the writ.

Following are the writ and order in the case:

In the District Court of the United States, in and for the District of Hawaii:

In the matter of the application of Lai Chee Hing for and on behalf of Jung Hung, for a writ of habeas corpus.

Writ of Habeas Corpus.

The United States of America to Jue Gun:

We command you that you have the body of Jung Hung, by you imprisoned, and detained as it is averred, together with the time and cause of such imprisonment and detention, by whatsoever name said Jung Hung shall be called or charged, before Honorable M.

M. Estee, Judge of the District Court of the United States in and for the Territory of Hawaii, at the Courtroom of said Court on the 23d day of July, A. D. 1933, at 10 a. m. of said day, to do and receive what shall then and there be considered concerning the said Jung Hung.

Witness the Honorable M. M. Estee, Judge of the District Court of the United States, in and for the Territory of Hawaii, District of Hawaii, and the seal thereof, at Honolulu, in said District, on the 22nd day of July, A. D. 1933, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and twenty-eighth.

W. H. MALING,
Clerk of said Court.

FRANK L. HATCH,
Deputy Clerk.

In the District Court of the United States in and for the District of Hawaii.

In the matter of the application of Lai Chee Hing for and on behalf of Jung Hung, for a writ of habeas corpus.

Order.

To E. R. Hendry, U. S. Marshal in and for the Territory of Hawaii.

Upon reading and filing the verified petition of Lai Chee Hing for a writ of habeas corpus for and on behalf of Jung Hung, and a writ of habeas corpus having this day been issued, directed to Jue Gun, in whose custody the said Jung Hung is now, and by whom the said Jung Hung is unlawfully detained and restrained of her liberty; and it appearing to said Court that it is for the best interests of justice and good morals that the said Jung Hung be immediately taken from the custody of the said Jue Gun and confined for safe keeping at a proper place, pending the return of the writ of habeas corpus this day issued:

Now therefore you are hereby ordered and directed to immediately take possession of the person of the said Jung Hung for the purpose of safe keeping and convey her to a proper place, pending the return of said writ.

MORRIS M. ESTEE,
Judge of the District Court of the United States, District of Hawaii.

Dated this 22nd day of July, A. D. 1933.

Governor Lanham, of Texas, has vetoed a bill allowing a man to marry his step-daughter or a woman to marry her son-in-law.

All Sick Ones

Get My Help When They Ask It.

It is waiting for you. Just write a postal stating which book you need and I will gladly do this:

I will mail you an order—good at any drug store for six bottles Dr. Shoop's Restorative. You may take it a month on trial. If it succeeds, the cost is $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself—and your mere word shall decide it.

I know how other treatments have failed with you. I know how the sick get discouraged. So I don't argue my claims. I simply ask you to try my way at my risk, and let the remedy itself convince you.

My records show that 29 out of each 40 pay for the treatment gladly, because they are cured. Not a penny is wanted from the rest.

I have spent a lifetime in learning how to strengthen weak inside nerves. My Restorative brings back that power which alone operates the vital organs. I treat a weak organ as I would a weak engine, by giving it the power to act. My way always succeeds, save when a cause like cancer makes a cure impossible. And most of these chronic diseases cannot be cured without it.

You'll know this when you read my book.

Sim by state which book you want, and address Dr. Shoop, Box 337, Racine, Wis.

Book No. 1 on Dyspepsia
Book No. 2 on the Heart
Book No. 3 on the Kidneys
Book No. 4 for Women
Book No. 5 for Men (scaled)
Book No. 6 on Rheumatism

Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

PIOUS BI-METAL WISH

Berlin, July 16.—The American and Mexican international silver exchange commissioners met the representatives of the German Government for their first conference today. Germany was represented by President Koch and Director Lumm of the Reichsbank; Privy Counsellor Dombola of the Imperial Treasury; Count von Roder of Prussian Finance Ministry; Professor Helfferich, of the Colonial Bureau; Roland Lucke, of the Deutsche Bank; Arthur Salomonsohn, of the Disconto-Gesellschaft, and Franzburg, of the German-Asiatic Bank.

The conference lasted an hour and was then adjourned until Saturday. The Associated Press correspondent learns that Germany's representatives recognize the desirability of fixing the ratio of exchange between silver and gold countries, but regard a scheme in that direction merely as a pious wish. From a trustworthy German source, the correspondent is informed that the British and French Governments flatly refused to obligate themselves to the purchase of a fixed amount of silver yearly for Indian and Colonial coinage. This is one of the commission's proposals, intended to stabilize the ratio between silver and gold.

For many years delegates recognized that absolutely nothing is possible without the co-operation of Great Britain and France and it is not believed here that the commission's work will lead to the calling of an international conference.

Baron von Rhoelnhagen, the Prussian Finance Minister, has invited the commission to dinner on Friday and United States Charge d'Affaires Dodge has extended a dinner invitation to Monday.

PLURAL WIFE SUPPORT

Salt Lake, Utah, July 15.—According to a decision of the State Supreme Court, a man is under moral but not legal obligations to support his plural wives and educate his children by such unions. The decision was rendered in the case on appeal from the Utah County District Court in a suit for separate maintenance brought by Mary Caroline Riddle, a plural wife of Isaac Riddle. The Supreme Court is of the opinion that "notwithstanding celestial or plural marriage is one of the essential tenets of the Mormon Church, the legal status of marriage exists between parties who in Utah, before the enactment of any statute upon the subject, though members of that church, having made a contract of marriage in which they mutually agree to assume and observe the legal obligations of that relation, and in pursuance of that agreement openly cohabit as man and wife and hold themselves out to the public as such. But in the absence of such an agreement the legal status of marriage cannot arise."

It was shown during the first trial that Riddle married Mary Caroline in the Temple at Logan, Utah, in the fall of 1888 while he was dodging debt. United States marshals who had a warrant for his arrest on the charge of polygamy, Riddle already having two plural wives.

Attorney General Andrews' statement that he is not investigating further in the Sumner case sounds like a paragraph from Russian diplomacy.

It is highly appropriate that the man who discovered the source of laziness should also find the means for exterminating mosquitoes while you wait.

Utah courts hold that a husband is morally but not legally bound to support his plural wives. Utah is thus to be credited with discovering the moral phases of immorality.

Minister Wu's new position in the Chinese Foreign office turns out to be a place full of possibilities, but for the time being it lacks the probabilities of importance American friends had hoped for.

Pope Leo was a wonderful man but the discussion arising over the election of his successor proves there is one thing no human being has yet mastered—the art of winning out in factional strife arising among candidates.

The latest report from the Immigration bureau notes an increase in the number of Irishmen entering the port of New York. Since the new Irish land bill makes it possible for Irishmen to live in peace at home, this new influx can only be accounted for by a shortage of policemen in eastern cities.

If Sumner's cash account shows how much he has paid first and last in lawyers' fees it would make mighty interesting reading. Among other things it would show whether the price of lawyers' services has been reduced since Sumner made his first appearance in the courts many years ago.

The St. Louis Grand Jury is doing splendid work in developing the methods of Missouri grafters. The real value of the discovery will be known when the future determines how the citizens of Missouri use this education. It is not impossible that a new set of men may come to the front and adopt the old method of getting rich quickly.

Cornell University has side-tracked one of its ablest professors because he has had the misfortune to grow old. If it will now select a successor because of his youth, the folly of retiring old men when they still retain vigorous mental power will be fully demonstrated. Capacity for work ought to be the gauge by which all men are measured.

The tourist campaign has at last reached the point where it can honestly claim actual existence. Though the beginning is not heralded with a blast of trumpets, the enterprise should be given the liberal financial support that will assure rapid progress. There is more money for the merchants and returns will be quicker from the tourist enterprise than anything that offers in the local business world, not excepting small farmers. Hawaii has the goods to deliver and can go into the travelling centers with no excuses or apologies.

OPPOSED TO RACE ISSUE.

Approving applause was the response given by the alumni of the Kamehameha school when, during a recent address on the duties of citizenship under county government, T. McCants Stewart came out strongly against possible political movements based on race divisions. This incident bears excellent testimony to the sentiment prevailing among Hawaiian-Americans who may properly be termed a leading element in our electorate. These young men constitute an already strong and constantly growing power in Hawaii's political life. Advantages of education which give a broader view of public affairs and a clearer understanding of the duties of citizenship convince them that their own interests and the welfare of those who follow them cannot be served by arousing the prejudices, so easily turned into the channels of bigotted bitterness, that lurk in the difference of race.

There is an element, there are individuals among the Hawaiians, and the haoles as well, whose political action is based primarily upon a race issue. God has not yet created any human race that is free from agitators, troublemakers who appeal to and build their hopes on fostering a spirit that places race against race and class against class. It was of such men that President Roosevelt spoke when he said in one of his most recent public speeches, "The two qualities—envy and arrogance—are the two opposite sides of the same crystal. The same attributes which make a man when powerful tyrannize over others will make him the agitator and the revolutionist if he happens to be placed at the other end of the social scale." The course mapped out by men of this stamp spells disaster for themselves and those thoughtless or innocent followers whom they may drag down to their level. Temporary success may for a time crown their efforts, but history has demonstrated times without number the certain destruction to which the course leads.

Despite the struggle in some quarters to make it appear otherwise, the Bulletin does not believe that the solid, influential leaders among the Hawaiians or the haoles of this Territory are now or will be found preaching or sanctioning the doctrine which would make the political divisions coextensive with the dividing line of race. If we were to take the say-so of the morning press for instance, the central thought of every man, woman and child in this Territory in whose veins runs the blood of the Hawaiian race is to make combinations by which the supremacy of the race shall be established by force of numbers rather than capacity and honesty. The estimate of the race is drawn from the prejudicial acts of agitators. The position taken is not only unjust but is so palpably false that it arouses an acrimonious spirit of resentment making doubly difficult the work of those educated Hawaiian-Americans endeavoring to break down the ill feeling of the past. It plays into the hands of the race party promoter, furnishing him with just the ammunition desired to further his cause.

WHO IS ANTI-AMERICAN?

[Hilo Tribune.]

In a trade against Hawaiian-Americans, an editorial in the Advertiser contains the following paragraph: "Further than this every fair-minded white man in Hawaii knows that the aboriginal policy is opposed to his interests. The native no more wants white men, and particularly Americans, to come here than he wants to be beaten in the next election. He believes that the more Americans there are in the Territory the fewer will be his chances to hold office—and holding office is the one supreme ambition of every aboriginal native of the soil. His spirit of opposition to Americans—whom he accuses of having stolen his country in 1893—is his substitute for patriotism. It appears in all his public acts whether legislative or administrative; whether in framing bills or in mal-administrating a land bureau. And for the present—the present only—it is effective."

As a matter of fact, every well-posted man in Hawaii knows that the policy of the missionary party, represented by the Advertiser, has been since the overthrow, a policy of persistent discouragement to immigration of Americans. The missionary party is the only party that has driven white men from the Hawaiian Islands. It is the only party that has attacked the new-comer, tooth and nail, in politics, in business and even socially. With the Advertiser as its mouthpiece, a handful of white men masquerading as Americans, have controlled these Islands. They at one time had the Hawaiian flag upon his back, bound and muzzled, and had upon their books such an abominable code of laws that Americans only ventured here through curiosity. This same party, when those who composed it were confronted with the extinction of their little sovereignty, when they were also confronted with, as they then thought, the loss of sugar dividends, they clamored for and got annexation to the United States.

Since annexation, this same party has fought inch by inch, the adoption of everything labeled American, whether it be a law, a method of procedure, a business custom or a personal right. It would be hard to say against whom it has directed its choicest venom—the lately arrived American, or the enfranchised Hawaiian.

The one thing, American, that the Advertiser party has coaxed and coaxed hardest to these Islands, is the American dollar. For it they have sacrificed even the memory of the American spirit of justice, which in varying degrees permeates every walk in American life. The dollar was needed; the American citizen with a mind of his own, was not. The tactics of the Advertiser coterie for the past three years is proof sufficient of this statement.

And now, this hysterical outcry that the Hawaiian is heading off an incursion of American settlers is ridiculous. As to the Hawaiian's love of office—say, if the Hawaiian careses the ermine of office tenderly, your sinuous pure missionary hugs it as the devil hugs a lost soul. If the Hawaiian is jealous lest an imaginary horde of Americans come and fill all the offices; what may we call those promptings in the bosoms of the elect that causes them to calumnize every American who has obtained office without their endorsement. If the Hawaiian is afraid that the proposed influx of Americans will gobble up his lands—his lands—his lands—where are they?

Claims Discovery of Mosquito Exterminator

Washington, July 12.—Dr. Chas. Wardell Stiles of the Public Health and Marine Hospital Service, the discoverer of the parasite Uncinaria Americana, generally known as the bookworm, or "germ of laziness," and who, in his address last December before the Sanitary Conference of American Republics, told of the effects of the ravages of the bookworm disease upon the social, industrial and economic conditions in the Southern States, has made another discovery in the parasite world. It is considered by Government scientists as of the greatest importance, and its effects may be far reaching.

Dr. Stiles new achievement is the discovery and isolation of what he has named the Agamo-mermis culicis, otherwise known as "the mosquito destroyer," a parasite which kills millions of mosquitoes each year, and which it is believed under artificial preparation will prove far superior to any means now known for ridding infested communities of these pests.

Scientists in Washington who have been made acquainted with the discovery say its importance cannot be overestimated, and that the mosquito is doomed to extermination.

DIDN'T MEAN VIDA

The following correspondence is given in publicity at the request of Attorney Creighton:

Honolulu, July 16th, 1903.
Walter G. Smith, Esq., Editor of the Pacific Commercial Advertiser.
Sir:—In your article on the front page of today's "Advertiser" entitled "Where are the vouchers of the adjourned House?" and your editorial bearing the head line "The Missing Vouchers," on page four of the same issue you reflect upon the character of Mr. Henry C. Vida as a legislator and insinuate—nay more, charge that Mr. Vida is guilty of destroying the vouchers of the last Legislature.

We beg leave to remind you that Mr. Vida was not a member of any Committee of the House which had charge or control of the vouchers and also that the only construction of the article, referred to, are ones which are unjust in the extreme to Mr. Vida and damaging, if allowed to pass unchallenged to his character as a citizen and a member of the Legislature.

We would request that you in your next issue correct this idea, and say that you had no intention of charging Mr. Vida with so destroying the records. Upon investigation you will find that Hon. Mr. Harris as chairman of the Committee of Finance, and Hon. Mr. Purdy as chairman of the Committee on accounts were the ones who had the absolute control of all vouchers.

CREIGHTON & CORREA,

Gentlemen:—Answering your communication of even date herewith, to Walter G. Smith, regarding an article appearing in the Advertiser of this morning, which you erroneously state reflects upon the character of Mr. Vida, we wish to say that the article in question, headed "Missing Vouchers," neither implies nor is intended to imply that Mr. Vida had any connection with the matter, his name being used simply to identify Mr. Birbe.

This being the case we have no objection to make as one not retract that which he has not uttered.

Yours truly,

TOURIST TRAVEL WORK.

At a meeting of the Joint Tourist Committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association yesterday afternoon, E. M. Boyd was selected secretary and was authorized to at once start the work which has from time to time been mapped out by the committee. Chairman Smith was empowered to negotiate for quarters for the committee. These will be offered to the government as an assembling point for the exhibits to be sent to the St. Louis Exposition.

Chairman Smith and Treasurer Gilman were appointed a committee of two for the purpose of interviewing business houses of the city for the purpose of securing pledges for support of the work of the committee, these pledges to cover a period of one year.

CLAVERING'S SURVEY.

The survey of the S. S. Clavering has not yet been completed. This morning the diver examined the bottom of the vessel forward of the bridge and found it to be undamaged with the exception that the paint had been scraped off in places. This is the part of the vessel which was on the reef.

The agents of the tug Chas. Counselman have sent in a bill for $40,000 for the services of that tug in pulling the Clavering off the reef. Captain Barton of the Clavering regards this price as being so high as to be out of the question.

Irwin & Co. have not yet decided on the amount they will charge for the services of the Fearless.

Captain Barton expects that the Clavering will sail for San Francisco tomorrow.

Played "Kid" Games In Kids Clothing

St. Louis, July 15.—The "kid party for grown folks," so popular in some Eastern cities, was introduced last night to St. Louis by Judge and Mrs. James L. Blair at their beautiful suburban home at Kirkwood. Two scores of the best known men and women in town were present. The ladies wore short dresses, made in childish fashion, with their hair down their backs. The men were attired in short trousers, troublesome waists and the droptitch half-hose of babyhood.

The games which were played provoked hilarity among men who do not laugh often. "Wade the swamp," forfeits, King William, postoffice and other kissing games made the evening pass as quickly as of old.

Mrs. Blair herself was the life of the party. She made the guests, some of whom were a bit timid at first, feel perfectly natural in the garments they had discarded so many years ago with pride and thankfulness.

Mrs. Blair, who is president of the board of lady managers of the World's Fair and of the St. Louis Choral Society and several other social and musical organizations, declined today to give a list of the names of her guests.

"It wasn't a reception," she said. "We just tried to forget for one evening that we ever had grown up. The little party was ultra private, and I don't think it would be the proper thing for me to announce the names of my guests."

STOPPED RUNAWAY.

Deputy Sheriff Chas. Chillingworth this morning distinguished himself by a daring stop of a dangerous runaway on King street. At about 11 o'clock the horse, which belonged to the Honolulu Iron Works and had been left untied outside the office on Nuuanu street, came dashing up the crowded thoroughfare with a wagon behind it. The animal, a large, powerful black, took the whole street and sent people and rigs scurrying out of the way.

Deputy Sheriff Chillingworth was standing quietly outside the Union Grill when he heard the rumbling. He unhesitatingly made a dash for the horse and caught it with one hand on the mane and one on the bit. The powerful animal dragged the Deputy Sheriff quite a little distance before he was stopped. Chillingworth's 208 pounds of weight on the horse's head was too much for him and he was brought to a standstill outside E. O. Hall's store.

The driver in charge of the rig, Alex. Riddell, was arrested on a charge of leaving his horse untied.

Wm. Pehu, Lana, Awana and Puna-kea, three boys, appeared before Judge Davis this morning charged with larceny in the second degree. They went into the room of Ah Kum, a Chinaman, in Manoa and, breaking open a trunk, took from it two jack knives and six packages of firecrackers. The defendants were sent to the Reform School for one year each.

J. Madison Bell, generally known as "The Singer of the Maumee," has just died in Chicago. He was born in 1826, was a friend of John Brown and a Delegate-at-Large to the National Convention that nominated Grant.

Langley Has Machine He Thinks Will Fly

Washington, July 13.—Preparations have been completed for taking the flying machine constructed by Professor S. P. Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution down the Potomac river for its initial trial tests. It is understood that the start will be made tomorrow morning.

The flying machine is about sixty feet in length and apparently of great stability. It is built of steel and brass and under Langley's direct supervision. It will carry a passenger and the steersman.

The machine is driven by a gasoline motor and is capable of furnishing its own motive power when in the air. The central portion—the backbone of the whole airship and principal feature of the invention—consists of a cigar-shaped cylinder made of brass, apparently, and sharp pointed at both ends. To this cylinder various parts of the motor are fastened. Langley's reluctance to disclose anything concerning his invention and the precautions taken to keep it from prying eyes preclude anything like a detailed description.

The airship accepted for the final test was built at a cost of more than $70,000, of which $30,000 was appropriated by Congress. Langley is said to have spent more than $20,000 of his own means on the invention. The greatest difficulty in the way of success has been removed by the utilization of a gasoline motor light enough for the purpose. This motor is of 25 horsepower. The elimination of weight to so large an extent has convinced Professor Langley that he has solved the problem of devising a motor sufficiently light to be borne easily through the air on the frail structure of the aeroplane proper. Work on this motor has monopolized Langley's spare hours continuously since 1896, when his first machine, a small model, was tested.

PACIFIC BANK PRESIDENT

Montreal, July 12.—Dr. R. H. McDonald, formerly president of the Pacific Bank in San Francisco, the failure of which in 1893 caused widespread panic and resulted in sensational charges against its president, died in this city today at an advanced age. It is said that worry over his involved estate and the many suits pending against him as the result of the failure of the bank of which he was the head hastened his end. The remains will be taken to the United States for burial.

THE CRITIC.

In the last month's issue of "The Universal Monthly Magazine" there appeared six competitive stories. In the conditions it was stipulated that no story submitted should contain more than one thousand words, the idea being to confine the authors to bright, witty, pointed stories told acceptably in as few words as possible. Pictorial essays were not desired. A long, word-painted story centering about "The Confessions of a Ton of Hay" was not called for.

The stories are well told and without exception interesting, but the prize story deserves the favorable criticism it received. It is well worth reading and bears the title "In the Dens of Bath and The Douglas".

GRAUSTARK

...By... GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

CHAPTER I.—Grenfell Lorry, a wealthy American globe trotter, stumbles into acquaintance with a charming foreign girl on the train from Denver to Washington. The pair are left behind when the fiercest storm for repairs in West Virginia. II.—Lorry wires ahead to hold the train. He and the unknown girl ride four miles at a tearing pace in a mountain coach. There is no love-making, but a near approach to it as the rolling stage tumbles the passengers about. III.—Lorry dines with the foreign party, consisting of Miss Guggenlocker, Uncle Caspar and Aunt Yvonne. They are natives of Graustark, a country Lorry had never heard of before. IV.—Lorry shows the foreigners the sights of Washington. They leave for New York to sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm. Miss Guggenlocker naively calls Lorry her "ideal American" and invites him to come and see her at Edelweiss, V.—Wildly infatuated, Lorry hurries to New York. The name Guggenlocker is not on the steamer list. He sees the steamer off. Miss G. waves him a kiss from the deck. VI.—Lorry joins his old friend, Harry Anguish, an American artist, in Paris. Graustark and its capital, Edelweiss, are located by a guidebook. The Americans get no trace of the Guggenlockers there. VII.—Lorry sees his charmer driving in a carriage with a beautiful companion of her own sex. He gets a glance of recognition, but the carriage rolls on, leaving the mystery unsolved. Later he receives a note at his hotel signed Sophia Guggenlocker, inviting him to visit her next day. VIII.—In the evening Lorry and Anguish ramble about the grounds of the castle where dwells the court of the Princess of Graustark. They overhear a plot to abduct the princess and resolve to capture the plotters red-handed. IX.—Following the conspirators, Lorry finds himself in a room he heard them designate as that of the princess. X.—Lorry tells the princess of the plot. Mutual recognition; she is Miss Guggenlocker. Danno, the guard, is in the abduction plot. He tells Lorry with a terrible blow. Anguish to the rescue. XI.—Lorry quartered in the castle. The princess visits him, but forbids all talk of love. XII.—Graustark is bankrupt and owes the neighboring principedom of Axphain $30,000,000. The creditor demands cash or the cession of the richest districts of Graustark. XIII.—The Prince of Axphain offers to extend the loan if the princess will marry his son Lorenz. Prince Gabriel of Dawsenberg also bids for the princess' hand with offer of a loan. Yvonne tells Lorry that she belongs to her people and will marry Lorenz. XIV.—Lorry discovered kissing the princess while she is seated on the throne. He quits the castle by royal command. XV.—Betrotal of the princess to Lorenz. The Americans recognize Gabriel as chief conspirator in the abduction plot. XVI.—Lorenz toasts the princess lightly in a cafe. Lorry dashes the glass from his hand. Challenge to a duel. Lorenz assassinated. Lorry charged with the crime.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE FLIGHT AT MIDNIGHT.

Lorry's cell was as comfortable as a cell could be made through the efforts of a kindly jailor and a sympathetic chief of police. It was not located in the dungeon, but high in the tower, a little rock bound room, with a single barred window far above the floor. There was a bed of iron, upon which had been placed a clean mattress, and there was a little chair. The next day after his arrest a comfortable armchair replaced the latter. A table, a lamp, some books, flowers, a bottle of wine and some fruit found their way to his lonely apartment, whoever may have sent them. Harry Anguish was admitted to the cell during the afternoon.

He reported that most of the Axphain contingent was still in town. A portion had hurried home, carrying the news to the old prince, instructed by the aggressive Mixrox to fetch him forthwith to Edelweiss, where his august presence was necessary before the 26th. The princess, so Harry informed the prisoner, sent sincere expressions of sympathy and the hope that all would end well with him.

Late in the evening, as Lorry was lying on his bed, staring at the shadowy ceiling and puzzling his brain with most oppressive uncertainties, the rattle of keys in the lock announced the approach of visitors. The door swung open, and through the grate he saw Dangloss and Quinnox. The latter wore a long military rain coat and had just come in from a drenching downpour. Lorry's reverie had been so deep that he had not heard the thunder nor the howling of the winds. Springing to his feet, he advanced quickly to the grated door.

"Captain Quinnox brings a private message from the princess," said the chief, the words scarcely more than whispered. It was plain that the message was important and of a secret nature. Quinnox looked up and down the corridor and stairway before thrusting the tiny note through the bars. It was grasped eagerly, and trembling fingers broke the seal. Bending near the light, he read the lines, his vision blurred, his heart throbbing so fiercely that the blood seemed to be drowning out other sounds for all time to come. In the dim corridor stood the two men, watching him with bated breath and guilty, quaking nerves.

"Oh!" gasped Lorry, kissing the missive insanely as his greedy eyes carved through the last line. There was no signature, but in every word he saw her face, felt the touch of her dear hand, heard her timid heart beating for him—for him alone. Rapture thrilled him from head to foot, the delicious rapture of love. He could not speak, so overpowering was the joy, the surprise, the awakening.

"Obey!" whispered Quinnox, his face aglow with pleasure, his finger quivering as he pointed commandingly toward the letter.

"Obey what?" asked Lorry dully. "The last line!"

He hastily reread the last line and then deliberately held the precious missive over the lamp until it ignited. He would have given all he possessed to have preserved it. But the last line commanded, "Burn this at once and in the presence of the bearer."

"There!" he said regretfully as he crumpled the charred remnants between his fingers and turned to the silent watchers.

"Her crime goes up in smoke," muttered Dangloss sentimentally.

"The princess commits no crime," retorted Quinnox angrily. "When she trusts four honest men."

"Where is she?" whispered the prisoner, with thrumming ears.

"Where all good women should be at 9 o'clock—in bed," replied Dangloss shortly. "But will you obey her command?"

"So she commands me to escape?" said Lorry, smiling. "I dare not disobey my sovereign, I suppose."

"We obey her because we love her," said the captain of the guard.

"And for that reason I also obey. But can this thing be accomplished without necessitating explanations and possible complications? I will not obey if it is likely to place her in an embarrassing position."

"She understands perfectly what she is doing, sir. In the first place, she has had my advice," said Dangloss, the good old betrayer of an official trust.

"You advised her to command you to allow me to escape?"

"She commanded first, and then I advised her how to command you. Axphain may declare war a thousand times over, but you will be safe. That's all we—I mean, all she wants."

"But I cannot desert my friend. How is he to know where I've gone? Will not vengeance fall on him instead?"

upon her heart," said Dangloss earnestly.

"I have said my life is hers, gentlemen," said Lorry simply. "Oh, if I could but throw myself at her feet! I must see her before I go. I will not go without telling her what is in my heart!" he added passionately.

"You must obey the commands implicitly on your word of honor or the transaction ends now," said Quinnox firmly.

"This escape means, then, that I am not to see her again," he said, his voice choking with emotion.

"Her instructions are that you are to go tonight, at once," said Dangloss, and the black-eyed soldier nodded confirmation.

The prisoner paced the floor of his cell, his mind a jumble of conflicting emotions. His clenched hands, twitching lips and half closed eyes betrayed the battle that was inflicting him with its carnage. Suddenly he darted to the door, crying:

"Then I refuse to obey! Tell her that if she permits me to leave this hole I shall be at her feet before another night has passed. Say to her that I refuse to go from Graustark until I have seen her and talked with her. You, Quinnox, go to her now and tell her this, and say to her also that there is something she must hear from my own lips. Then I will leave Graustark, and not till then, even though death be the alternative." The two men stared at him in amazement and consternation.

"You will not escape?" gasped Quinnox.

"I will not be dragged away without seeing her," he answered resolutely, throwing himself on the bed.

"Confounded young ass!" growled Dangloss. The soldier's teeth grated. A moment later the slab door closed softly, a key rattled and his visitors were gone—messengers bearing to him the most positive proof of devotion that man could exact.

He looked at his hands and saw the black stains from the charred letter, last evidence of the crime against the state. A tender light came to his eyes, a great lump struggled to his throat, and he kissed the sooty spots, murmuring her name again and again. How lonely he was! How cold and cheerless his cage! For the first time he began to appreciate the real seriousness of his position. Up to this time he had regarded it optimistically, confident of vindication and acquittal. He grew cold and shuddered instinctively as he realized that his position was so critical that the princess had deemed it necessary to resort to strategic measures in order to save him from impending doom. Starting to his feet, he paced the floor, nervousness turning to dread, dread to terror. He pounded on the door and cried aloud. Oh, if he could bring back those kind messengers!

Exhausted, torn by conflicting emotions, he at last dropped to the bed and buried his face in his arms, nearly mad with the sudden solitude of despair. He recalled her dear letter the stretched out to lift him from the depths into which he was sinking. She had written—he could see the words plainly—that his danger was great; she could not endure life until she knew him to be safely outside the bounds of Graustark. His life was dear to her, and she would preserve it by dishonoring her trust. Then she had unfolded her plan of escape, disjunctively, guiltily, hopelessly.

But she was offering him freedom only to send him away without granting one moment of joy in her presence. After all, with death staring him in the face, the practically convicted murderer of a prince, he knew he could not have gone without seeing her. He had been ungrateful perhaps, but the message he had sent to her was from his heart, and something told him that it would give her pleasure.

A key turned suddenly in the lock and his heart bounded with the hope that it might be some one with her surrender in response to his ultimatum. He sat upright and rubbed his swollen eyes. The door swung open, and a tall prison guard peered in upon him, a sharp eyed, low browed fellow in raincoat and helmet. His lantern's single unkind eye was turned menacingly toward the bed.

"What do you want?" demanded the prisoner irritably.

Instead of answering, the guard proceeded to unlock the second or grated door, stepping inside the cell a moment later. Smothering an exclamation, Lorry jerked out his watch and then sprang to his feet, intensely excited. It was just 12 o'clock, and he remembered now that she had said a guard would come to him at that hour. Was this the man? Was the plan to be carried out?

The two men stood staring at each other for a moment or two, one in the agony of doubt and suspense, the other quizzically. A smile flitted over the face of the guard. He calmly advanced to the table, putting down his lantern. Then he drew off his raincoat and helmet and placed in the other's hand a gray envelope. Lorry reeled and would have fallen but for the wall against which he staggered. A note from her was in his hand. He tore open the envelope and drew forth the letter. As he read he grew strangely calm and contented. A blissful repose rushed in to supplant the racking unrest of a moment before. The shadows fled and life's light was burning brightly once more. She had written:

"I entreat you to follow instructions and go tonight. You say you will not leave Graustark until you have seen me. How rash you are to refuse liberty and life for such a trifle! But why, I ask, am I offering you this chance to escape? Is it because I do not hope to see you again? Is it not enough that I am begging, imploring you to go? I can say no more."

The folded brief note, written in agitation and, after kissing it, proceeded to place it in his pocket, determined to keep it to the last hour of his life. Glancing at a sound from the guard, he found himself looking into the muzzle of a revolver. A deep scowl overspread the face of the man as he pointed to the letter and then to the lamp. There was no mistaking his meaning. Lorry reluctantly held the note over the flame and saw it crumble away as had his predecessor. There was to be no proof of her complicity left behind. He knew it would be folly to offer a bribe to the loyal guard.

After this very significant act the guard's face cleared, and he deposited his big revolver on the table. Stepping to the cell's entrance, he listened intently, then softly closed the heavy iron doors. Without a word he began to strip off his uniform, Lorry watching him as if fascinated. The fellow looked up impatiently and motioned for him to be quick, taking it for granted that the prisoner understood his part of the transaction. Awakened by this sharp reminder, Lorry nervously began to remove his own clothes. In five minutes his garments were scattered over the floor and he was attired in the uniform of a guard. Not a word had been spoken. The prisoner was the guard, the guard a prisoner.

He found himself looking into the muzzle of a revolver.

"Are you not afraid this will cost you your life?" asked Lorry, first in English, then in German. The guard merely shook his head, indicating that he could not understand.

He quickly turned to the bed, seized a sheet and tore it into strips, impatiently thrusting them into the other's hands. The first letter had foretold all this, and the prisoner knew what was expected of him. He therefore securely bound the guard's legs and arms. With a grim smile the captive nodded his head toward the revolver, the lantern and the keys. His obliging prisoner secured them, as well as his own personal effects, and was ready to depart. According to instructions, he was to go forth, locking the doors behind him, leaving the man to be discovered the next morning by surprised keepers. It struck him that there was something absurd in this part of the plan. How was this guard to explain his position with absolutely no sign of a struggle to bear him out? It was hardly plausible that a big, strong fellow could be so easily overpowered single handed. There was something wretchedly incongruous about the—but there came a startling and effective end to all criticism.

The guard, bound as he was, suddenly turned and lunged head foremost against the sharp bedpost. His head struck with a thud, and he rolled to the floor as if dead. Uttering an exclamation of horror, Lorry ran to his side. Blood was gushing from a long gash across his head, and he was already unconscious. Sickened by the brave sacrifice, he picked the man up and placed him on the bed. A hasty examination proved that it was no more than a scalp wound and that death was too remote to be feared. The guard had done his part nobly, and it was now the prisoner's turn to act as resolutely and as unflinchingly. Sorry to leave the poor fellow in what seemed an inhuman manner, he strode into the corridor, closed and locked the doors clumsily and began the descent of the stairs. He had been instructed to act unhesitatingly, as the slightest show of nervousness would result in discovery. (To be Continued.)

Wu's Position Is
One of Possibilities

Washington, July 15.—Minister Conger at Peking has informed the State Department that Wu Ting Fang, formerly Chinese Minister to the United States, has been appointed second assistant in the corps of under secretaries.

"While," says Conger, "this gives Mr. Wu nominally only a clerical place, yet it makes an opportunity for utilizing his foreign knowledge and experience, if the Foreign Office so desires."

Minister Conger reports also that Wien Fank has been promoted to the position of first secretary, or director, of the Board of Foreign Affairs, vice Na Tung, the present president of the Board of Revenue, and that Ku Pi Hsin has been appointed second secretary and director of the Board of Foreign Affairs.

MANILA OPIUM LAW.

Manila, July 9.—The public discussion of the opium bill was continued before the United States Commission today. Representatives of the Asiatic local syndicates and also the missionaries operating in Hongkong and Singapore, argued in favor of the adoption of the bill and quoted statistics showing that the rapid spread of the opium habit had been undermining the Filipino since the expiration of the Spanish monopoly.

On cross-examination the opponents of the bill proved that many signers of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce mammoth protest, which is backed by the Evangelical Union, are the chief importers and distributors of opium, and hence that they are occupying an untenable in favoring a prohibition which, if effective, would ruin the signers.

Commissioner Smith charged the editors of newspapers here who had called a protest against the bill to Washington with being desirous of deceiving President Roosevelt and the United States Congress.

The Commission introduced a substitute bill making the importation of opium unlawful, except by pharmacists, and permitting the disposal of the drug only by a physician's certificate. Final action in the matter is indefinitely delayed.

MRS. M'KAY DEAD.

News was received by the Sonoma yesterday of the death in San Francisco on the 9th inst. of Mrs. McKay, who was Miss Emma Medau, a young lady well and most favorably known in town who upon the occasion of her visit here was the guest of Miss Nolte at her home in Waikiki. Miss Medau was just recently married. Her death was the result of an attack of typhoid fever. A brother of the deceased, Emil Medau, was at one time an employee in the Nolte restaurant.
