

TAMMANY IS OVERTHROWN

LOW ELECTED MAYOR BY 30,000 PLURALITY.

Most of the Fusion Candidates Elected. William Travers Jerome Wins Magnificent Victory—Powers of Mayor.

NEW YORK, November 6.—The World (D.) says: "Government of the people, by the people, for the people" is vindicated and established in Greater New York. Popular rule has prevailed over boss rule. A city with a normal Democratic majority above 100,000 has elected Seth Low, the citizens' candidate for Mayor, by more than 30,000 plurality.

It is a great and significant triumph. It means an end to four years of a carnival of corruption. It means that the rascals will all be turned out. It means that Murphy and Devery will go, and all the brutal and boodle gang that have backed them. It means the beginning to the end of Boss Croker.

Fortunate indeed is New York in securing such a man for Mayor as Seth Low. In character, temperament, knowledge and experience, it would be hard to find in all the city a man so well fitted for the office of Mayor at this juncture.

He will go to his task free to serve the people and them only. He can take the police out of politics and politics out of the city. It is worth the struggle it has cost to win the election. Again we shall have "streets cleaned as Waring cleaned them" and all the features of decent, orderly, honest, respectable, efficient government.

The fifth of November, 1901, will long be a memorable day in the history of New York. It is almost a clean sweep for fusion. Seth Low has been elected Mayor by a plurality of about 30,000. Brooklyn alone gave him a plurality of 21,000.

William Travers Jerome was elected District Attorney by a plurality of about 11,000. Tammany made extraordinary efforts to elect its candidate, Unger, by trading Shepard votes.

Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck was re-elected in a most emphatic manner. He was not only defeated for a place on the Supreme Bench, but ran absolutely last on his ticket and fully 21,000 votes behind the other Tammany candidates for the Supreme Court. Mayor Van Wyck was even defeated in his own election district, where he has lived for many years.

Edward M. Grout, fusion candidate for Controller, was elected by about 30,000 plurality over his Tammany opponent, William W. Ladd Jr.

Low's powers as Mayor are practically absolute in the matter of city government. He has the power of appointment and removal of every non-elective officer of greater New York. He has the practical distribution of over $100,000,000 in patronage each year. But, as stated above, he will control this patronage to his various commissioners and hold them absolutely responsible for the conduct of their office.

Tammany Hall is in the deepest gloom and open revolt against Croker is among the probabilities. Croker denied today any intention of going abroad for some months. The general opinion is that Croker in the end will retire and name John F. Carroll as his successor. Justice Jerome is hailed by thousands as the Moses of the Democracy. His denunciation of Platt a few days before election is now regarded as a masterpiece of political strategy, ridding the fusion ticket at one swoop of the suspicion that it was dominated by Platt.

Anyhow, Jerome has the criminal elements of the city in terror, and a general exodus of gamblers, thieves and red-light cadets is looked for before January last, when the new regime begins.

UNION LABOR MAYOR WINS

EUGENE E. SCHMITZ ELECTED IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Wells, the Republican Candidate, Badly Defeated—Democrats and Republicans Divide the Other Offices.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 1.—The Chronicle this morning says: "It requires but a glance at the returns of Tuesday's election, even by one slightly acquainted with San Francisco's politics, to perceive that the bosses were badly defeated. A closer study, and comparison with the vote of former years, reveals how crushing was the rebuke administered to the railroad and 'sporting' combine. Whatever the division of sentiment may have been as to the advisability of the labor unions entering politics, it is apparent that many Republicans deemed the labor vote of this city, and the support it would give to the candidates for Mayor, more desirable than the corporations' man. The net result is a knockout blow to corruption and a demonstration of the incapacity of Herrin and Burns. Both are now convicted of being blunderers as well as corruptors. The man for whom they put forth their most strenuous efforts ran far behind his ticket. The greatest gulf was between Wells and Lackmann, over 9000 votes."

The total vote cast for mayor was 53,493. Eugene E. Schmitz, the Union Labor candidate, received 31,737. Asst. R. Wells, Republican, 17,718; and Joseph S. Tobin, Democrat 12,547. The Democrats elect the City Attorney, Recorder, District Attorney, Coroner, two Police Judges and nine of the eighteen supervisors. The Republicans elected the Auditor, Sheriff, Tax Collector, Treasurer, County Clerk, Public Administrator and six Supervisors. The Union Labor party elected the mayor and three Supervisors.

Eugene E. Schmitz was born in San Francisco on August 22, 1864. He received his education in the public schools of this city, and his mechanical education was also acquired here. His father, like himself, was a prominent musician and came to California half a century ago. All his life Schmitz has been a professional musician. He has long been connected with the orchestra of the Columbia Theater, of which he is the leader. He has traveled considerably in the Eastern States and in Alaska, but has never been abroad. Last February he became interested in the Economist Gas Engine Company, of which he is virtually the manager although nominally the secretary. His first appearance in public life was as one of the incorporators and directors of the Republican Primary League last summer. He has never before been a candidate for any political office.

For the last three years Mr. Schmitz has lived at 2849 Fillmore street.

PAID FINE OF ONE CENT

Antone Barabozza this morning paid a fine of one cent in the first circuit court. He was indicted by the Grand Jury for malicious injury on complaint of one Seveda Eugene Lucca, whose horse he was alleged to have taken. Antone is a boy about 15 and the trouble seemed to have been the result of a family row. The young prisoner entered a plea of guilty and after hearing the facts Judge Humphreys imposed a fine of one cent, and remitted the costs.

J. M. Vivas had a cent piece in his pocket and he gave it to Antone Barabozza, who trotted up to clerk Kellett and paid over the one-cent fine. Then he left the court room, free.

GOVERNMENT PAYS BILLS.

The October bills of the Government are now being paid. No longer do the treasury warrants read "Thirty or sixty days from date pay to the order of John Smith." Since the payment of personal, property and income taxes the coffers have been filling rapidly and the grace of thirty to sixty days is no longer required. Last month most of the "unpaid" bills were settled. There too become due on the twentieth of the present month as do the November warrants.

DOWN BY A BALLOON

CAPTIVE BALLOON BREAKS ITS MOORINGS

Carries a Party of Nine On a Fearful And Dangerous Voyage—Good Work Of The Aeronaut.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 4.—"Down into the bottom of the basket, all of you, keep perfectly quiet. I'll land you safely within an hour and a half—somewhere!" This command was uttered in a sharp, tense tone, for a great gas balloon was shooting skyward at the rate of hundreds of feet per second, and a splendid company of twenty people, and there were but nine huddled in the basket suspended below the swaying neck of the monster that was swiftly carrying them away from the earth.

Eight of the nine obeyed the command and dropped into the bottom of the basket awed by the horror of the situation. Breathless, helpless and with pallid faces they could only keep their eyes on the man who stood above them, his lips and brows drawn as he looked searchingly at his party for an instant. Then he turned and the balloon was shot up into the air, and again stood at a cat in the neck of the monster that with his knife cut away a portion of the neck of the balloon that had been rolled into a ball below the valve cord. The ball of cord on which nine lives depended uncoiled and dropped into the basket, and Aeronaut Dudley, with a flash of steel, slipped the rope and again stood among his companions, but this time with a smile of reassurance on his face. He realized the danger, but the others did not, and one of their chances of safety was for them to remain in ignorance. They did not know that they were nearly a mile above the earth, and rapidly going higher without an anchor and not an ounce of ballast aboard.

Dudley alone knew what it was to be adrift in the ocean of the air but for the moment his greatest purpose was to quiet the fears of his fellow voyagers. He made a dash for the rope and was shooting up and up through a stratum of warm air, then up into another stratum, in which their teeth chattered and the blood seemed about to congeal in their veins, but the next moments the frigid zone lay far below them, and the balloon was upward into a warmer stratum.

It was the captive balloon that had broken its cable at 4:30 p. m. Saturday as it was being drawn earthward from an altitude of 1200 feet. Eight persons had accompanied the aeronaut, Edward Dudley. They were Walter Leon, a draper, formerly of Edward Taylor, an employee of a music hall, C. P. Videman, a tailor, J. F. Leonard, secretary of a pattern-makers' union; M. L. Haworth, an employee of the Southern Pacific; John H. Swift, a special policeman, and Mrs. J. P. Gumsauls of 1223 Market street, where the balloon was broken. The balloon was being drawn downward, but was yet nearly 500 feet in air the hempen cable had parted.

The ascension had been made amid cheers and laughter and mock good wishes. The suggestion of a rescue, which she placed in the care of her daughter to await her return. It was a jolly party that ascended, confident in the knowledge that the thing of iron and steel there on the earth had perfect mastery over the thing of air and flame, and which trusted to its bonds. Even the management had been so impressed with this confidence that no anchor had been provided, no sandbags of ballast had been evenly distributed around the basket or car. Even the valve rope had been coiled up on one side of the basket, and tucked into the neck of the balloon, far above the reach of anyone in the basket—then came the parting of the cable, the strand of hemp that bound the merry party to the earth. A far like the sudden stopping of an elevator, and then it seemed that the balloon alone on its way, and the whole earth fell, and fell, and fell, and then came the command of the aeronaut. It was instantly obeyed, and then a wait such as follows the "ready" of the captain of a gun battery.

On one side was a reach of endless ocean, on another the forty-mile stretch of a known San Francisco bay. He was searching for a current that would bear them away from both. He found it at about 3,000 feet altitude.

Then came the delicate manipulation of the valve cord, on which so many lives hung. He had watched the drift of the balloon through the various strata of air currents and knew where flowed the one that would take them out of danger. Without ballast or anchor it was absolutely necessary to reduce the ascension capacity of the balloon from twenty to nine; it must be reduced to the carrying capacity of the basket, and this must be done gradually and carefully. While he was doing this the balloon kept mounting upward. He struck a balance somewhere up there, 5,000 feet and higher in the air. Then he must come down so carefully and slowly; the overweight in the basket must be so slight that after striking the current that would drift them southerly the descent must be so gradual that they would be far out of harm's way before they dared try to make a final descent. If they went too low and met an upward current, they would rise above it, for they had no ballast to throw overboard. It was this he was doing up there in the air when he drifted over Goat Island; then another current took them down over the Morgan oyster beds on the Alameda side of the bay; another current brought them across and it was thought they had started safely on their journey southward, but nearly opposite San Mateo another creek-like current caught them and out they went over the ocean a short distance. Down, down, they went toward the water, while the voyagers, somewhat recovered from the first shock, again grew nervous. Down, straight toward that flat green plain that looked like a meadow, and then—the southeasterly current again took them up and in a few moments they were sweeping over town and forest. On and on they went, racing with the wind and leaving the passenger trains

BRIEF ACT QUESTIONS

THE PASSAGE OF ACT NUMBER TEN.

Journals Do not Settle the Amendment Question in Any Way—A Decision of Great Importance.

No legal point presented in the courts here for long time has attracted more attention than that offered yesterday in the first circuit court by A. G. M. Robertson contesting the legality of all grand juries on all the islands for several months past, and in fact is a claim that practically all the criminal proceedings all over the Territory, for seven months past, has been with illegal grand juries and illegal trial juries as well.

The journals of the House and Senate are the principal evidence relied upon by Robertson, but there may be additional evidence. Both journals are absolutely silent on one point. Neither journal contains a copy of the bill as introduced or as passed. The House journal tells of the striking out of one section five and the insertion of another section five on the point. It is impossible to tell from the journal whether the section stricken out and the section inserted were the same, or, in other words, whether the act was amended in the house or not.

It is claimed as a well established rule that the journals cannot be appealed to as evidence of the proceedings of either house and that this shuts out evidence except that of the journals, as far as they go. On the other hand it is claimed that where the journals fail to settle a matter of doubt, testimony may be given on the point. It is impossible from the journals to positively identify Senate bill number 35, as introduced by Senator White, with Act 10, as signed by the governor, owing to the amendment question. The title sticks to the act throughout the proceedings, but there is nothing in either journal that shows whether an amendment was made or not. The original copy of the act, on file in Secretary Cooper's office, shows nothing but the date of Governor Doie's signature.

The matter is to be argued before Humphreys next Monday. It is understood that the amendment question is not much relied upon, but that several others will be made. The drafts of copies made before the bill was written up as act 10 have been looked up and are said to show that it was not amended.

NEVER FELT THE BULLET

RATHBURN'S STORY OF BEING SHOT.

The Shooting at Dr. Carter's Place in Koolauloa—Grand Jury Finds Statements Untrue.

The indictment of William Kolo Rathburn for perjury gives in detail his story to the Grand Jury of the events of the night when he was shot by Dr. Carter. It was to the effect that Rathburn did not feel shot or know he was struck till he got home, that the indictment was brought. The Grand Jury was investigating a charge against Dr. Carter, of assault upon Rathburn with a revolver, and on October 3 Rathburn was called upon to give evidence in his being duly sworn he testified as follows:

"On the night of July 14th of this year when I was shot, I started to go to Kahuku to pass the night with my friend, Mr. Worthington, the head luna of the plantation at that place. I left my house at about 8 o'clock, and at about 8 o'clock p. m. and as I passed—still riding alone—the house of Dr. Carter, I noticed an unusually bright light therein, and I reined my horse into the street at the gate close to the hibiscus hedge which borders the house of Dr. Carter, and then sitting on my horse outside of the gate and fence, with the horses' head facing toward the gate, I gazed into the house for about five minutes.

"After gazing into the lighted window, I turned my horses' head toward Kahuku, when I heard two shots fired, I kept on riding towards Kahuku, about 500 feet to the first bridge at the bend in the road and then a heavy shower of rain came on and I decided not to go to Kahuku, and turned my horse round and rode straight home. I did not stop on the way and did not know that I had been shot until I undressed, when I discovered blood on my undershirt and then saw the wounds on my person.

"I did not dismount from my horse at or about Dr. Carter's premises that night, nor at any time after I left my house at 8 o'clock, until I turned my horse around and rode straight home, or at any time that day or night upon the premises of Dr. Carter."

The Grand Jury found that the facts were that Rathburn was riding with Fred Freudenburg, and not alone; that he rode past Dr. Carter's place and then turned back saying that he was ill; that he dismounted at Dr. Carter's gate instead of remaining on horseback, and that he entered the premises at least 90 feet and when shot was standing on foot near Dr. Carter's land.

A BOLT FROM WILCOX

THE HOME RULERS AND THEIR LATEST TROUBLES.

Some of Them Would Drop the Word Republican From the Name of Their Party.

Home Rulers are looking forward to a hot time tonight in Foster's hall. Their central committee is to hold a meeting, and one of the propositions to be discussed is returning to original Home Rule party, by striking the word Republican from the name of the Home Rule Republican Party. The word Republican was added at delegate to Congress R. W. Wilcox's suggestion, when he returned from Washington and advised his following to be Republicans. He told them that Republicans owned the earth at Washington, and that if he could go back as a Republican, he could indeed do much for Hawaii, as the men of power would listen to him if he were a party associate.

The talk went, and the Home Rulers, from Hawaii to Niihau, became Republicans in a single night. A hot, enthusiastic believers in protection, reciprocity, expansion, the Nicaragua canal and the strenuous life, by simply voting to add a word to the title of their party.

Now grumblings of dissatisfaction are heard, and tonight, if a quorum can be got together, they will be heard officially. It may mean a bolt from Wilcox, if he stands firm for the word Republican. It may mean two Home Rule parties, one an Independent Home Rule party and the other a Home Rule Republican party, one led by Wilcox and Princess Theresa and the other by Senator White, or some other opponent of the new party title.

The awful question of pedigrees is beginning to loom up in politics of Home Rulers. Rival claimants to royal titles and to descent from great chiefs have been hurling terrible names at one another in print and if row does not stop some of the sequestration jawbreakers that indicate how hard it was for Hawaiian babes to learn papa's name years ago, may have to be spoken out in meeting.

IS HOPE FOR MISS STONE

LETTER RECEIVED FROM HER DATED OCT. 29.

Belief That the Publicity Given to the Subscriptions to the Ransom Fund is in Her Favor.

CONSTANTINOPLE, November 6.—The officials of the United States Legation here have received news through Salonika that indicate the early release of the captives in the hands of the brigands. On October 29, Miss Stone and Mrs. Telika were both well.

WASHINGTON, November 6.—The State Department received today a cablegram from Consul-General Dickinson at Constantinople, saying he has received a letter from Miss Stone dated October 29.

SOPIA (Bulgaria), November 6.—The brigands having Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, and her companion, Mrs. Telika, in their custody, were in Bulgarian territory near the Turkish frontier last week, according to authoritative intelligence. The captives were lodged in caves, and fires were kindled to protect them from the severe cold.

The fact that violent measures, such as mutilation, to extort ransom, were not taken, indicates that the brigands are under the impression that the longer they wait the better will be the terms obtained. This attitude is regarded as being partly due to the publicity given to the subscriptions toward the ransom and it is increasing the difficulty experienced by Consul Dickinson in his efforts to reduce the brigands' demands.

HOW TO TREAT A TROUBLESOME CORN.

To remove a troublesome corn or bunion: First soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it, then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood, and apply the following: Pain Balm twice daily; rubbing vigorously for five minutes at each application. PROTEST AGAINST THE TAX

INCOME TAX PAID MORE THAN ANY OTHER.

People Fear Publicity of the Delinquent List—Other Taxes May Run Somewhat Behind.

Hundreds of protests against the income tax are being received by Tax Collector Pratt, but the tax is being more generally paid than any other. Between fifty and seventy-five per cent of those who pay the tax enter a protest, by way of preserving their right to get the money back if the law should be declared unconstitutional, but the number who are willing to allow the tax to become delinquent is very small.

The "delinquent tax list" is the great income tax collector. Nobody wants to see his delinquent income tax advertised in the papers, even if willing to stand the ten per cent that is added for delinquency, and consequently people who let property taxes go by the board, come to time on the income tax.

The method of protest is by letter, addressed to the collector. Hundreds of letters making protests are filed away in the safe in Pratt's office and more are constantly being received. The attorneys who examined the income tax law for the merchants' committee, when an appeal against it was being discussed, expressed the opinion that the law was not constitutional and advised those who paid it to do so under protest. This is the reason for the large number of protests. The large payers, especially enter a protest, the payers who do not protest being all among those who were assessed small amounts.

Those who pay over the tax in the hope that they will get it back need not expect any very immediate reimbursement, even if the law is declared unconstitutional. It is easy enough to put money in the treasury, when people are willing to pay it to the tax collector. But to get it out again is different. It requires an act of the legislature, and if the income tax law is declared unconstitutional, the only way any of those who have paid it will get the money back will be through an act of a legislature, appropriating what is necessary. The money is therefore safe for public use for some time.

Among those who have protested against paying tax are some members of the legislature, even members who voted for the law last spring. Others protesting include practically all the persons of large incomes throughout the islands.

After Friday, taxes of all kinds become delinquent, and 10 per cent is added. Tax Collector Pratt will make up a delinquent list, for publication in the usual way, and further time is allowed, after which legal proceedings are brought to collect taxes that remain unpaid.

Indications are that aside from the income tax, the delinquent list will be rather large. Times are somewhat dull, and property taxes are not coming in any too quickly. Large amounts are being paid, however, and there is a big rush on today. Today and tomorrow will tell as to the size of the list of delinquents.

TONIGHT'S PLAY.

Mr. Neill and his company will this evening present at the opera house John Drew's famous romantic success "Rosemary." The play ran an entire season at the Lyceum theatre, New York and is regarded as one of the sweetest stage stories ever told. It concerns the love of "Sir Jasper Thorndyke," a man of forty, for a beautiful and winsome girl of seventeen, "Rosemary," who was first produced in the west by the Neill company in San Francisco last September and its success there was a duplicate of the eastern hit.

The performance will commence at eight o'clock.

In Henry Arthur Jones' greatest play, "The Case of Rebellious Susan," which Mr. Neill and the Neill company will present tomorrow evening at the opera house, "Lady Susan Harbison" decides to pay her young husband back in his own coin by entering into a temporary whirl of flirtation and Mr. Jones has made a wholesome analysis of the problem that beset and sometimes upset married life, yet there is nothing in the lines or situations to cause the strictest duenna any uneasiness for her ward.

In the play Mr. Neill will be seen as "Sir Richard Kato."

THE FIRE CLAIMS COURTWORK MUST CEASE IF FUNDS NOT ADVANCED

Appeal Made to the Chamber of Commerce—A Committee Appointed to Confer with Other Organizations.

At yesterday's meeting of the Chamber of Commerce the subject of the Fire Claims court was discussed. Governor Dole was present by invitation of the president of the chamber and presented the matter. The appropriations for the commission had been so divided by the legislature that while some funds were exhausted others were scarcely touched. But without some funds being advanced the work of the commission would have to cease after November 15.

The Chamber directed its president and secretary to confer with the presidents and secretaries of the Merchants' Association and the Planters' Association to see what could be done.

Governor Dole first read a letter from Chairman MacFarlane of the commission setting forth the situation.

"It seems to me," continued the governor, "that the commissioners have done very satisfactory work in this enterprise. They have been well organized, harmonious and very industrious in carrying on the work. They have worked nights as well as in the day time, and when it is understood that there are 7,000 claims before the commission the amount of work is apparent. The work could never have reached the stage it has now unless it was so well organized and systematically carried on. The commission has shown a great deal of intelligence and ability and has gone on rapidly in the hearing of claimants."

"It seems to me that if the work of the commission is terminated, when so nearly finished, when a few weeks will clear all the questions, and a few months will adjudge them, that it would be a great public misfortune for it to come to an end now. I think the Chamber of Commerce and the Planters' Association will be interested in seeing it accomplish its work."

"The work has certainly had its effects on the labor conditions here, especially where Japan is concerned. It has given the Japanese government confidence in the just and equitable disposition of these claims. The work of the commission has created confidence in this direction, and is associated directly in promoting the interests of the laboring community."

"If the work is discontinued for the present and taken up two years or eighteen months hence, there might not be the same men in commission and the work would again be more difficult, as the present members understand all questions on the labor conditions here, especially where Japan is concerned. I would like to see the Chamber of Commerce, if the members see their way clear as a body, to act with the Merchants' Association to raise this money, and take the guarantee of the government to present the matter to the first legislature sitting, and ask the legislature to appropriate the amount with interest. It is a practice very common in the past ten years. Many advances have been made, and all have been paid back. The last legislature, regarded as an uncertain one, I think did not hesitate to appropriate money for advances of that kind in a previous period. It seemed proper for me to come to such a body as the Chamber of Commerce, which has always been cordial to the government, and always ready to give it cordial and reasonable assistance."

"There are great interests involved, and there would be great disappointment that this matter should come to a standstill until a new legislature had met. I think it might have some beneficial effect on the labor conditions, as far as Japan is concerned. I would like to see the Chamber of Commerce, if the members see their way clear as a body, to act with the Merchants' Association to raise this money, and take the guarantee of the government to present the matter to the first legislature sitting, and ask the legislature to appropriate the amount with interest. WHY WAR COMES.

"Reciprocity or the Alternative" is the title of a most valuable paper by Brooks Adams upon economics in which all nations, and particularly the United States, are now deeply interested. Mr. Adams' alternative to reciprocity is war. He says down as a postulate that war is only an extreme phase of economic competition. If this be true, it is clear that international competition, if carried far enough, must end in war. The present policy of the United States and its marvelous success in forcing a struggle for subsistence upon Europe, which is already making Germany very uneasy, and France and Russia are also beginning to feel the pressure. When these powers are driven to the commercial wall, they will fight, says Mr. Adams. It is better to fight than to starve.

During the last century the iron and coal of Europe enabled it to build up a manufacturing supremacy, but at the opening of this century, the iron and coal of Europe is being undersold by the iron and coal of the United States, and that supremacy is gone. To illustrate the point appeal is made to the position of Antwerp in the time of Charles V, which then was in the zenith of its power. The bankers of Antwerp used to finance the Spanish Empire, and when the Spanish Empire became insolvent, such a policy was adopted in order to squeeze money out of the Netherlands, that the celebrated revolt took place, the country was laid waste with fire and sword and the world's commercial and financial center moved to Amsterdam. But for financial pressure the revolt of the Netherlands would never have taken place.

The same thing occurred during the reign of Louis XIV, the most brilliant period of France. In the arts of peace and of war, in literature, in architecture, in splendor of living, France was the arbiter of Europe, but the reign closed in disaster and ruin. The commercial system of France was the cause of this collapse. A hundred and fifty years later, under Napoleon, it was the same thing. His commercial system, his plan for shutting out Great Britain from all ports over which his empire had control, led to his disaster and ruin.

It will be noted here that wherever there was a readjustment, a changing of international values, there was war, far reaching war. After the fall of Napoleon there was a comparatively peaceful period, and then came the consolidation of Germany and new commercial complications came on which began to grow still more acute when until the present era of American expansion came on. Now argues Mr. Adams the commercial unrest will go on till either some relief is given to Europe by reciprocal treaties, or Europe finding herself commercially "up against it" will have to fight. Such rumors of coalition and of ultimate war are heard from Germany now. Indeed as far back as the Spanish war there was a strong effort to bring about a coalition, offensive and defensive, but it failed through the refusal of Great Britain to join.

The condition of Europe now is a deterioration in agriculture and the complete undermining of her manufacturing industries. Mr. Adams thus sketches the situation:

"Prior to 1897, while Europe still held a substantial monopoly in manufactures, the deterioration of agriculture, if not viewed with pleasure, might be contemplated with equanimity. Not so since 1897, when the industrial revolution in North America has brought European mines to a condition of relative exhaustion, and European workshops to a position of relative inferiority. Assuming that a satisfactory social readjustment offers, just now, insuperable difficulties, Europeans see but one method of obtaining relief, should America retain her tariff; that method is to develop regions abroad containing mines capable of vying with those of Alabama, Pennsylvania, and Lake Superior. And it is precisely here that Europe finds herself propelled toward a collision with the United States, because the United States, for her own protection, has devised a mechanism which holds her rival as in a vise."

The writer then goes into an elaborate discussion of the military and naval situation, which is well worthy of consideration. He points out the enormous military force of Russia, Germany and France combined, and further shows that their naval tonnage is three times that of the United States built or building.

Finally Mr. Adams concludes:

"America enjoys no immunity from natural laws. She can pay for what she takes, or she can fight for it, but she cannot have the earth for nothing. Sooner or later the inexorable tribute will be exacted from her as it has been exacted from every predominant community, from the days of the grandeur of Babylon to those of the glory of London; for, since time began, no race has won for itself supremacy without paying a price in gold or blood to other races as ambitious and almost as powerful as itself."

In view of the fact that the reciprocity treaties which have been pending for so long, will come up for probably final discussion at the coming meeting of Congress, Mr. Adams' article is an important one. That many will entirely disagree from him is certain, but he has marshalled his historical facts excellently and any one who would be abreast of economic discussion now approaching, should read the article in full.

LIQUOR STATISTICS.

Some interesting comparisons of the amount of money spent on liquor in leading countries are contained in a recent publication of the British Board of Trade and noted by the London Standard, and quoted by Headlines: The United Kingdom leads the quartet of nations which furnish the largest returns from liquor taxes. The proportion that taxation bears to the total collections is 36 per cent, as compared with only 23 per cent in the United States and 19 per cent and 18 per cent respectively in France and Germany, in which countries apparently the liquor interests are not singled out for as heavy taxation as they are in Great Britain or the United States.

The United Kingdom is a comparatively small wine consumer, almost as small as the United States, the consumption per head being placed, in fact, at .29 of a gallon, as against .53 of a gallon in our own country. On the other hand, France is the wine consumer of the first rank, as shown by the fact that 25.4 gallons per head of population are consumed there. In Germany the consumption is only 1.45 per head of population. Wine consumption naturally appears to be largest in the wine-producing countries. For instance, in Portugal, Spain, Italy, Switzerland and Austria-Hungary the consumption varies from a maximum of 29 gallons per head of population in Portugal to as low as 3 gallons per head in Austria-Hungary.

In the matter of beer consumption the United Kingdom easily comes first in the list of four countries with 31.7 gallons per head of population, followed closely by Germany with 25.5 per head of population and at a greater distance by the United States with 13.3 gallons per head of population. The consumption of beer in France is placed at only 6.2 gallons per head, cheap and abundant wines apparently leaving only a small place for beer in that country. It may be a surprise to some, however, to learn that Belgium is easily first in the item of beer consumption with nearly 47 gallons per head of population. Some statistics of consumption in different German states however, exceed any of these totals. In Bavaria, for instance, the total consumption is placed at 54 gallons per head. In all countries the tendency of late years is apparently to an increase of beer consumption. This will certainly be true of this Territory, for the consumption of beer must have increased considerably since the establishment of the local brewery, and the opening out of so many beer saloons.

The consumption of spirits appears to be the largest in France, 2.02 gallons being used, against 1.94 gallons per head in Germany, 1.12 in the United Kingdom and 1.06 gallons per head in the United States.

THE ELECTIONS.

There can be nothing but the greatest satisfaction with the result of the election in New York. Tammany has been overthrown and the metropolis of America released from the grasp of an organized conspiracy against the public treasury and public morals. Seth Low will undoubtedly give New York a good administration, as he gave Brooklyn one when mayor of that city.

The election of Schmitz as mayor of San Francisco comes as a surprise. But the elements which fought Wells, the Republican candidate, whether they supported Tobin or Schmitz seem satisfied with the result.

The elections throughout the country seem to indicate that there is yet no ebb of the tide toward Republican policy and the Republican party.

The Circuit Court has not practiced much economy in its expenditures. What the court will do when the appropriation is exhausted is not clear. It may take a vacation or it may insist on an extra session. There is never any telling what the Circuit Court will do.

The storm has had its effect on the shipping and many of the local vessels have been weather-bound. Steamers can generally get into fairly comfortable quarters, but it is a different thing for schooners, and two have been lost. Fortunately in neither case was there loss of life. Though there have been cases where wrecks have resulted fatally on our shores, they are rare. The schooner Warwick disappeared with all her crew many years ago. The Dauntless turned turtle losing all her crew in the Hawaii channel, and there have been a few other cases, but as a rule when any local wreck occurs the crew gets ashore.

If A. G. M. Robertson is able to substantiate his charge that the bailiff act of the last legislature was improperly passed, it will make confusion worse confounded in the courts. It would vitiate all the findings of the grand jury and of petit juries drawn by the bailiffs appointed by the Circuit Court under that act. Of course every one convicted under such circumstances would have to be set free or retried. It really seems as if it is the hardest thing in the world to hold a criminal when once he is convicted. At all events, in former times, the criminal once convicted had to work out his sentence. Now he seems to have as many chances of escaping the consequences of his crime as a cat is said to have lives. The theory of escape seems to be the one the lawyers are devoting themselves to. Meantime the expense upon the Territory is very large indeed. All legal proceedings are expensive to the state. But trying men, and retrying them adds very largely to this expense.

Whether you admire it or not, does not interest us.
We are pleased that you noticed it. That is what it is there for.

Do you realize that another year has rolled around, and that Christmas is almost here again? We are going to do all we can to make it pleasant for you.

You may feel poor, from the fact that your income has been somewhat reduced, owing to the non receipt of your sugar dividends.

However, you will make your usual holiday gifts, and perhaps a few more, than you did last year.

No doubt you will be more judicious in your selections but your friends and yourself will enjoy Christmas just as much as ever.

Our stock of goods is arriving daily, and the assortment will be better than ever.

We are making some changes in the arrangement of our store, which will interest you, and the many novel articles that will be displayed, will surprise you.

We will announce, in a few days, when we will be ready for your inspection.

GAELIC FROM THE COAST.

Vessel Encounters Rough Weather Out of San Francisco.

The Gaelic arrived from San Francisco this morning with news and papers up to November 7. Captain Finch did not bring the vessel down this trip, as he was ill and remained in port, first officer Hambleton being in command of the boat.

The boat encountered bad weather after leaving San Francisco and met high winds yesterday. Evidently the storm which struck the bark Rithet and caused her to go out of her course, had passed over the Gaelic's course for the steamship missed that rough weather. The vessel is loaded down with general cargo for Oriental points.
She has a fair sized passenger list.
The largest single party is that of R. E.

Herdman who is going out to Manila to take charge of the New York Life Insurance Company's interests. In addition to himself, Herdman is accompanied by his wife and six children.
Lieut. A. C. Candy is an officer of the British navy who is returning to his Asiatic post.
Capt. and Mrs. G. M. Audain are going to Hongkong. He is connected with the British army.
Baron Van Bosch is a merchant of Manila.
William Wolff is the head of a liquor house in San Francisco. He is bound for Yokohama.
Mrs. A. B. Canaga and child are going to Yokohama. Her husband is a lieutenant commander in the United States navy.
In the steerage are a number of rejected Chinese and several Japanese.
A number of Filipinos are returning from the Buffalo Exposition.
The Gaelic will sail for the Orient at 8 p. m. tonight.

KIDNAPPED BY A BALLOON

behind. Merced lake resembled a small duck pond. A part of the country known to be hilly seemed a level plain, and those ribbons of green were deep, forest-lined canyons.

As if tired of the race with the train the balloon turned slightly over Redwood City and struck through the air for the Coast range of mountains. On and on it swept, and as it neared the range the moments brought increased anxiety to the aeronaut. Would the balloon clear the summit? He could not clear it for lack of ballast. He had no anchor to throw out to catch an-drag and finally hold and stop the balloon until the gas could be slowly exhausted. Straight the balloon went for what is known as "The Summit," and straighter for a bald, rocky peak, to strike which would probably mean death to all. The mountain approached them rapidly and they narrowly gauged the distance with his eye as it approached at the rate of fifty miles an hour. They could not clear it; the men braced themselves against the side of the car waiting for the shock, with Mrs.
Gunsauls on the side of the basket opposite that from which the blow was to come. The next instant the aeronaut had thrown his coat from the balloon, and it raised, raised enough to clear the threatened danger; then dipped down again over Albert Eikerenkotter's place and went down La Honda canyon over the hanging cable almost touching the redwoods. Everywhere people came running out to see the strange thing that had swooped down upon them.

Nine miles beyond La Honda and six miles this side of Pescadero the night was coming up rapidly; already the heavy wooded canyons looked gloomy and fearsome, and the shadows were creeping toward the mountain tops.
There were freakish currents in the air on the farther side of the mountains, and the drift of the balloon was again settling toward the ocean. They were close enough to see from their high altitude the crowd which was in the lay along the beach, and knew it to be the line of breakers. Directly beneath them were rocky mountain slopes and deep canyons hidden under the redwoods. The situation to the aeronaut was more serious than at any time since the starting of the cable. Ahead of them and almost in their course was a ranch house that of Beatty Thompson.

Before there was any hope of being heard they began shouting, and it was not long until Thompson came out to see what manner of thing it was that was calling him from the air, and when he saw the "thing" with a crowd of men in its talons he stopped in sheer amazement and gazed. The broken cable was dragging, and ahead of them was a little clearing that promised an easy descent if only they had a trifle more weight. They yelled and yelled, and the moment their prospective host understood that his strange visitors were in danger he ran to their assistance and tackled the rope, tugging at it with all his strength. The balloon thus steered, hesitated, then slowly settled down, and the party stepped from the basket at an elevator.

As soon as they landed, Mrs. Thompson took charge of Mrs. Gunsauls, while the men worked for two hours in caring for the balloon. It was undamaged, save for an L-shaped tear about one foot in length. At it weighs almost 2000 pounds, it will be necessary to cut a sled road through the brush to where it lies in order to drag it down to where it is a distance of about two blocks. This will require several days.

T THE TOMB OF CHRIST.

JERUSALEM, November 5.—The Church of Holy Sepulcher, surmounting Christ's tomb, was the scene of a sanguinary affray Monday last between Franciscans and Greeks, during which there were a number of casualties on both sides. The dispute arose over the question as to which community had the right to sweep the church. Troops had been posted in the vicinity for several days previous to the outbreak in order to prevent the anticipated collision, but they were suddenly outnumbered and overpowered by the contending parties.

COOPER ON OUR NEEDS

RECOMMENDATIONS IN HIS AN- NUAL REPORT.

Asks for a Federal Building in Honolulu and for Enough Money to Pay the Fire Claims.

WASHINGTON, November 3.—Authority for the conversion of all Hawaiian silver coins into corresponding coins of the United States, and for the immigration of a limited number of Chinese laborers, conditioned upon their engaging in agricultural pursuits only during their residence in the Territory, and their return to their own country upon ceasing to be farmers, are the recommendations of H. H. Cooper, Acting Governor of Hawaii, in his annual report.

Other recommendations are for the maintenance of an expert forester in the islands, to investigate and report on forest conditions and forestry conservation, and extension, the detail of a special agent of the Fish Commission at Honolulu, and the adoption of restrictive measures to prevent wanton destruction of the food fishes of the Territory; the granting of licenses to diver, water from lands, where it is no available, to arid sections that owners are adapting to agricultural pursuits; the erection of a Federal building at Honolulu for the accommodation of the Federal officials; the retention from the customs receipts of a sufficient sum to pay judgments of the Commission of Fire Claims; the authorizing of statistics to show the shipments between the mainland and the islands, and the appointment of a deputy secretary to act during the disability of the Secretary of the Treasury for Territorial purposes only.

The prosperity of the islands, according to the acting Governor, depends upon the successful and economical production of sugar. "The employment of Chinese and Japanese by the planters," he says, "never has interfered and never will interfere with either American skilled or unskilled labor, but if an ample supply of desirable labor can be obtained it means millions of dollars spent for machinery, buildings, tools, steel and iron and other supplies of American make."

"Since the annexation the immigration of unskilled laborers has practically ceased, while many of the Chinese and Japanese have returned to their native countries. Between June 14, 1900, and August 31, 1901, 4079 Japanese have left the Territory, while only 589 have arrived. All sugar plantation stocks consequently have fallen far below their former value, and this has had the effect of producing a stringency in the money market, from which many have suffered loss."

"If no relief is forthcoming the most disastrous results surely will follow.
It is a physical impossibility for the Anglo-Saxon race to satisfactorily perform the severe labor required in the sugar fields. Hawaii, therefore, is entitled to legislation favorable to its greatest prosperity."

NEARLY BROKE THE RECORD

BARK SANTIAGO ARRIVES FROM COAST.

Lost All of Her Topsails Last Night in A Gale—Brought Captain James as Passenger.

The bark Santiago, Captain Engalls, arrived from San Francisco this morning after making the quickest passage of the season. Her run was made in 11 days. The vessel has been in the Hilo trade but as there was no use for the vessel on her usual run, she was sent to this port. There was a strong northeast wind all the way down and the boat came near breaking the record between San Francisco and Honolulu.
Last night, she ran into very bad weather, all of the topsails being carried away and some of the lower sails ripped.
She will not wait for sugar, as her agents, W. G. Irwin and Company, will dispatch her as promptly as possible in ballast to San Francisco.

The vessel brought, as a passenger, Captain J. F. James, one of the best known water front characters along the Coast. Until recently, he has been editing the City Front News, a paper in San Francisco, devoted to shipping matters. He has decided however that Honolulu is apt to prove a more agreeable and, perhaps profitable, field so he has ceased the publication of his San Francisco Journal and may reestablish it in Honolulu. He was here 35 years ago.

Captain James is quite a unique character. He has the reputation of being a scrapper, from the word go, and is in his element when engaged in a newspaper controversy. He has a style of investive which is peculiarly his own.
James was in trouble with the United States authorities over matter published in his paper, when he conducted the Non Partisan in Los Angeles some years ago.

He was commissioned admiral back in 1890 during the filibustering expedition which some enterprising San Diego people fitted out for the purpose of an-nexing the peninsula of Lower California. The conspiracy was happily nipped in the bud by George S. Gage, the United States marshal for the southern district of California for had the filibusters ever invaded Lower California, Governor Torres would probably have hung them to a man.

ROUGH WEATHER ON HAWAII.

The steamer Nihau returned this morning from Hawaii ports. She had a rough time along the Hamakua coast, especially at Punaluu and Hanalei, where work had to be stopped several times on account of the rough sea and heavy rains. The vessel reports heavy rains all over Hawaii, including Hamakua.

TRIAL OF KIKI.

Charged With the Murder of a Fellow Prisoner.

The trial of Kiki, charged with manslaughter, was renewed this morning.
Kiki was accused of killing one Bombay in the prison in Honolulu last May, when both himself and Bombay were hopelessly drunk. The two men were put in the same cell, and Kiki, intoxicated is said to have beaten and kicked his companion to death.

Bombay was arrested first. He was in a drunken sleep from which he could not be awakened and he lay on the floor. Then Kiki was brought in and as the jail was full he was put with Bombay. A short time afterwards the trou-

THE HEALTHY WOMAN.

Aside from form or features, she has an attractiveness all her own. The bloom on her cheek, the elasticity in her step, the ring of her voice, her enjoyment of life—all these are magnets which draw others to her side. Wonderful and valuable as it is, health is not so difficult a thing to obtain as some discouraged ones think. Most of the troubles of women arise from impure blood, impaired nutrition, low vitality and general debility.
Modern science furnishes the most successful of remedies for these conditions—namely

WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION

It is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry. Taken before meals it improves the appetite, makes fat, restores vitality, enriches the blood and cures those weaknesses peculiar to the sex, which are the seat of their troubles. It is a blessing to Tired Wives, Nursing Mothers and Girls growing into womanhood. It colors the pale faces and rounds out the hollow chests. In a word, it nourishes and develops the entire body, and brings happy surprises to feeble, hopeless and discouraged sufferers. Dr. E. J.
Boyes says: "I have found it a preparation of great merit. In a recent case a patient gained nearly twenty pounds in two months' treatment, in which it was the principal remedial agent." It is the typical medical success of our age, for time has proved our claims are supported by results, and a remedy which acts in harmony with nature's own efforts and processes. Effective from the first dose. "Never disappoints."

he occurred. Bombay was apparently jumped on and kicked and when the prison officers came to the rescue his head and face were red with blood. He died shortly after.

The evidence in the case was begun yesterday and closed this morning, and the case was argued by C. S. Dole for the defense and Assistant Attorney General Donthitt for the prosecution. At half past eleven Judge Humphreys' charge to the jury was finished and the jurors retired. They had not reached a verdict at a quarter past twelve, and were sent to lunch in charge of bailiff Hopkins, court taking a recess to two o'clock.

The jurors in the case were: Edwin K. Blake, George K. Kala, George W.
Harrison, James K. Merseberg, Alexander K. Aona, John J. Hansmann, Charles D. Dudoit, Jr., Edward Woodward, Isaac H. Harbottle, James M. Sims, Rheumatism

Two Bottles Make a Complete Cure.

Perhaps your rheumatism is not bad enough to confine you to the bed, yet your muscles and bones ache every time a storm approaches, making you generally miserable. We can bring you positive and prompt relief.
Mrs. Isabella Menzies, of Glenburne, New Zealand, sends this letter and her photograph:

"I took a hard cold which resulted in a severe attack of rheumatism. I tried all kinds of remedies without relief. Then I tried

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

I was not disappointed, for after taking only two bottles the rheumatism all left me and I was cured. I want to say everything I can to make known what a wonderful medicine your Sarsaparilla is for those suffering the severe pains of rheumatism."

To make a quick cure, take Ayer's Pills with the Sarsaparilla. They make the liver active, cure biliousness and constipation.

LI HUNG CHANG IS DEAD

THE GRAND OLD MAN OF CHINA PASSES AWAY.

Rose From Humble Life to the Highest Position in the Empire—Was Sagacious and Far Seeing.

PEKING, November 7.—Li Hung Chang died at 11 o'clock this morning.
At midnight last night Li Hung Chang rallied slightly. His family had located native doctors in charge of the patient, the regular physicians having refused to attend him unless the Chinese doctors were dismissed.

PEKING, November 6.—At 9 o'clock this evening Earl Li was still breathing and displaying unexpected vitality.
The burial clothes have already been put on. The courtyard of the yamen is filled with life-size paper horses and chairs, with coolie bearers, which his friends are sending, in accordance with Chinese customs, to be buried when he dies, in order to carry his soul to heaven. Several of the Ministers of the powers have called to express sympathy.

The Chinese officials are somewhat anxious concerning the effect his death will have on the populace, and to guard against a possible anti-foreign demonstration the Chinese generals have disposed their troops about the city in such a way as to command the situation. Trouble, however, is extremely improbable.

The wife of Earl Li and his two sons and daughter are with him. They are greatly distressed.

Chinese officials through the yamen.
Telegrams have been sent summoning Prince Ching, who is now on his way to court, and Chou Fu, Provincial Treasurer, from Pao-tung-fu. The former will assume the general charge of Government affairs, and the latter will act as Governor of Chi-li until Li Hung Chang's successor in that office, who will probably be Yuan Shi Kai, is appointed.

Robert Colman, an American, who is one of the physicians attending Li, told the correspondent that when he was called to act with Dr. Velde of the German Legation, November 1st, he found the patient very weak from a severe hemorrhage due to ulceration of the stomach.

"The hemorrhage was readily controlled," said Dr. Colman, "but owing to the underlying condition of chronic gastritis with persistent nausea only, the mildest liquid food could be digested.
Yesterday he was cheerful and without pain, but at 1 o'clock this morning he became unconscious and was no longer able to get rid of the collection of mucus which he had freely expectorated. Death is expected shortly, owing to symptoms super-vening upon gradual carbonic acid poisoning."

Throughout the evening digitalis was frequently administered.

Earl Li's persistent refusal to refrain from attending to Government business has aggravated his malady, while the refusal of the family to permit certain measures customary in Western medical practice for relieving him have also contributed to bring his end near.

For forty years Li Hung Chang has been the most important figure in China as well as the most picturesque. In diplomatic ability he far surpassed all his rivals, and this ability enabled him to save his prestige and his fortune in several crises that would have proved disastrous to a less dextrous intriguer and politician. A native-born Chinese, he had all the natural traits, including great love of money and profound suspicion of the motives of all his associates. He had unusual capacity for work, great keenness in the selection of subordinates and absolute unscrupulousness. What mainly gave him his prestige was the fact that he entertained in princely style all distinguished foreigners who visited China.
In this way he commended himself to General Grant, who ranked him with Bismarck, Disraeli and Gambetta as the four great men of the age. That Li Hung Chang did not rank with Bismarck was shown in his failure to appreciate the gravity of the Japanese-Chinese war and also in his intriguing with Russia. Like most Chinese viceroys, he was corrupt in money matters, and in illicit ways he accumulated a great fortune.

Li Hung Chang was born in 1822, in the province of An Hui, which lies just south of the Yellow river, and west of the Grand canal. His family was humble, but it was, however, because noted from the fact that Li and all his brothers have sought the Government service and have each become mandarins of the highest rank. Such a record is unparalleled even in China, and the mother of this notable family of boys is consequently honored above all other Chinese women.

Li saved the Manchu dynasty more than once. It was he who put down the famous Tai-Ping rebellion, which raged through China from 1850 to 1858.
This rebellion, starting in the mountains north of Canton, swept through the whole empire, its forces reached Tientsin on their way to the capital, and but for Li would surely have succeeded in establishing a new dynasty on the throne.

Earl Li was the first Chinese to realize the advantage of Western civilization, and ever since he called in the American, Ward, and "Chinese" Gordon to help him put down the Tai-Pings he has steadily remained the friend of foreigners and the most progressive of Chinese. For thirty years he had an English private secretary.
He kept a steam yacht for his trips on the Pei-ho and the Grand canal; he strung the first telegraph line in China down the Taku road from his yamen to the forts at the mouth of the river; he developed the great Kai-Ping coal mines, and was really the builder of all the railroads now existing in China.

After the massacre of Tien-tsin in 1870 Earl Li was selected as Viceroy of the metropolitan province of Chi-li, with his court at Tien-tsin. For twenty-five years with a stern and relentless hand he repressed and kept in order the notoriously vicious and turbulent population of that great city.
While in this position he organized the Empire by suddenly appearing outside the walls of Peking with his army.
For this signal service he was appointed "guardian of the throne," and reached a position never before attained by a Viceroy. No man in China was so universally feared and respected as Li Hung Chang. His reputation among the Chinese was, however, rather that of a great and successful general than that of a statesman or diplomat.

When General Grant visited China in 1879 he found Li occupying the position of Viceroy, the Chinese statesman residing in the ex-President's with every honour known to Oriental etiquette. He became so impressed by General Grant's personality that he asked the General to act as mediator between China and Japan. From this date Li manifested the most pronounced ideas concerning railroads and telegraphs and made treaties. The hatred of everything of foreign origin that is so persistently manifested by the Chinese led them to destroy the railroads and telegraphs but when the people discovered that Li punished such acts with death they abandoned all further opposition.

In 1880 Li Hung Chang paid a visit to this country and Europe, his first trip abroad, and was lionized everywhere he went.

Li Hung Chang was reputed to be one of the richest officials in the empire, and his wealth has been put as high as 70,000,000 taels, or about $50,000,000.
His attaches assert that these figures are grossly exaggerated, and that their employer is not nearly as rich as men commonly believe. It is probable that there are others—Shen Tao-tai, for example—who are richer, yet if Li had as large a share as is stated of the capital of the China Merchants' Company with its magnificent fleet of ocean and river steamers and its handsome monopoly of the carriage of the tribute rice, he must have ranked among the great millionaires of the world's finance.

Perhaps Li's most noted characteristic was his inquisitiveness. With this he had a strong sense of humor, and asked the most delightfully personal questions, when the answer necessarily travelled through an interpreter, and reached any number of ears. One woman whom he had just met was positely asked how far she believed in the efficacy of prayer—not an easy question to answer in a crowded drawing-room.
He had evidently little use for the new woman, and declared that the girls he saw at the public schools ought to be at their needlework—books were for men.

Personally he was a striking figure, being over 6 feet 1 inch in his stockings, and looking even taller because of his thick wooden soles. He wore a gown of bright yellow satin falling from his neck to his feet, and over his a jacket, sometimes of brown velvet with gold buttons, sometimes of sealskin—unless it was a state occasion, when the famous yellow jacket always appeared. The three-eyed peacock feather, another of his honors, was attached by a button to the top of his cap, and he was always looking gayly out behind.
When not on dress parade he replaced this with a skull cap of black silk, in the front of which was set an enormous diamond. He drank almost no intoxicants, but was fond of his pipe, a complicated affair which a servant carried around after him, thrusting the end into his master's mouth at discreet intervals. At table he used a fork as well as chopsticks, and showed considerable knowledge of European customs.

CHINA'S ARRANGEMENTS TO SUIT THE POWERS.

Monuments Erected—Posthumous Degradation of Officials and Four Hundred and Fifty Million Taels.

The final protocol closing the negotiations at Peking between the Chinese plenipotentiary and the representatives of the powers, as submitted by Special Commissioner Rockhill to the state department, is a long document consisting of 12 distinct articles. In general terms these recite the measures taken by China to satisfy the powers for the boxer outbreak and the assassination of the German minister, such as the dispatch of the embassy to China, the promise to erect a monument to the memory of Von Kettler and a memorial arch (work upon which has already begun); the infliction of various punishments upon the Chinese officials who were characterized as the principal authors of the outrages and the crimes committed against the foreign governments and their nationals. Characteristic Chinese methods appear in the posthumous degradation of officials and the rehabilitation of the memory of others who protested against the outrageous breaches of international law and were therefore cut to death.

Likewise the protocol shows that reparation was made for the assassination of the Japanese chancellor of legation by a special mission to Japan, and it appears that the Chinese government already has erected expiatory monuments in each of the foreign or international cemeteries which were desecrated.
Other articles prohibit the importation of arms or ammunition or materials for their manufacture, and this decree may be renewed every two years. Article 6 provides for the total indemnity of 450, 000,000 taels, with full particulars of the method of amortization and distribution among the powers, each of which is to be represented by a delegate on the committee of bankers to receive the interest. The Chinese government undertakes to deliver to the dozen of the corps at Peking a bond for the lump sums. This same article provides for the conversion of ad valorem into specific duties, and the improvement of the rivers Pei-ho and Whang-Poo at the joint expense of the foreign interests and China. Article 10 looks to the future, prohibiting Chinese membership in any anti-foreign society under pain of death; prohibiting examinations in titles when foreigners were massacred, and providing for the dismissal of governors who hereafter permit antiforeign troubles. The last article transforms the tsung-lyamen into a ministry of foreign affairs under the name of Wai-Wu-Pu, which takes precedence over the six other ministers of state.

A NEW RELIGIOUS SECT

OF THE "WISE FAITH."

Laying on of Hands and Curing of Infirmity Special Tenets of the New Doctrine.

Hoomana Naamoo, which, literally translated means the wise religion, but liberally interpreted is the Hawaiian equivalent for Christian Science, is the title of a new sect that has obtained considerable sway among the natives both in Oahu, Hawaii and Maui.

The faith is supported largely by those who have from time to time for schism or other reasons been expelled from Kaunakapili and Kawaiaho churches and was started mainly, says the Rev. H. H. Parker, by the political changes of some ten years ago.

The laying on of hands to cure diseases is one of the principal tenets of the members of the new religion, all of whom are active schematics and have caused some little trouble to the regular church by endeavoring to take members from its fold and convert them to their belief. This power of healing by the laying on of hands is handed down by ordination from the inspiration received from the original ordainer, an ex-minister of the regular church.

The Rev. John Kekipi, father of the Kekipi who was arrested and fined for immoral intercourse the other day in the police court, is at the head of the organization in Honolulu. He is chaplain of the Senate in the present Legislature and styles himself a reverend.

The church in which the members of the "Wise Religion" hold their services, is styled by the easily remembered name of Kawaiaho, Kawaiaho, Kawaiaho chapel, and is situated in a lane off Hustace avenue near Curtis street, at the back of the old Honolulu Stockyards site. The church can readily be seen from King street looking across from J. B. Albertson's residence.

The "Reverend" John Kekipi has says Theodore Richards, done a great deal of good in his way, straightening out family brawls and other matters.
Connected with the Honolulu branch is Bipikane (Hoaring Bull) a prominent member and a well known character.
Mr. Richards has taken considerable interest in the new movement and at one time started to make negotiations to affiliate with them.

"I thought they should be judged by their fruits," said Mr. Richards, "and they undoubtedly have a good crop to show for a harvest. I did not feel as if the mere question of a different head should prevent us from affiliating but the conservative, cautious members among ourselves, who had looked carefully into the matter assured me that they did not think the organization would last very long or was built along the foundations of true righteousness or a desire for the same.

"They have a luau after the service on King street every Sunday which is quite a convivial affair. I don't mean that undue license is practiced or il-liquor introduced, but it is made quite an attractive occasion. At first I looked somewhat askance at this luau, but I afterwards found that there were many present who came a long way to the service and that the luau was not only a legitimate means of helping along their church and its attractions but also a practical affair for the sustenance of the travellers. By the way Kekipi has a name which in view of the schematic actions of his order is rather appropriate. It means the rebel.

"In Maui they have accomplished some wonderful results in the way of reforming drunkards. I do not know what means they adopted but the results seem permanent."

A FIELD FOR SCIENTISTS

FISH COMMISSION IN PORTO RICO.

Bulletins Published Describing Many Kinds of Fishes Until Recently Unknown.

Porto Rico is proving to be an interesting field for scientists. They have already discovered much that is new in plant and animal life on this island.
The United States fish commission has been particularly forward in this work, and as a result has just issued a series of five bulletins on the subject of some Porto Rican fishes until recently unknown to science.

One of these bulletins describes two new fresh water leeches from Porto Rico, one of the "Blanchard's leech," being of a bright crimson on the back and a light orange color on the under surface. This leech is short and thick, measuring about fifty-three millimeters in length.

The second which has thus far received no English name, is very large, nearly four inches in length. The colors of this leech are arranged in stripes of yellow, red, ash, black, olive and brown.

Another bulletin deals with 150 or more sea crabs, shrimp, etc., many of which are new, and ranging in color from a screaming crimson to dull gray.
One of the new crabs is of a bright turquoise blue, another a pale rose pink, while a third reminds one of a major's pitcher. Others bear calico patterns, which are simply stunning.

Bulletin numbered 461 is perhaps the most interesting, as it describes a certain class of crustaceans, which seems to be intermediate between shrimps and lobsters. The eyes of these little crustaceans are not set in their heads, but grow on the end of long stalks sprouting forth from either side of the head.
The limbs of these strange creatures resemble tooth brushes, being covered with a growth of something akin to hair.

The last two of the series to be mentioned describe a world of new and strange life, gathered from the sea bottoms around the island.

The Smithsonian Institution received recently a number of specimens of bird and animal life from Mona Isle, a strange rocky island off the coast of Porto Rico, on which the government has just erected a light house.

Mona Island is of limestone formation, and is literally honeycombed with caves some of which are almost as large as the Mammoth Cave of Kentucky, and full of the most wonderful stalactites and stalagmites.

The island has a peculiar fauna of its own. Among the fauna are enormous iguana lizards. These lizards are very much larger than those of Cuba and Mexico.—Washington Star.

BEARING ON 1904 RESULTS

PLITICANS FIGURING ON THE FUTURE.

Believe That the Recent Elections Indicate a Continuance of Republican Success—Speculation as to Roosevelt.

NEW YORK, November 6.—A special to the Brooklyn Eagle from Washington says: The general result of yesterday's election is regarded by political leaders here as indicating that the tide that set toward the Republican party and its policies seven years ago still flows in that direction, though with lessened force. They argue that as no sign of an ebbing of the tide is visible this year, none will be three years hence, and that therefore President Taft's successor will be himself or another, will be a Republican. Already they are attempting to forecast the effect of yesterday's results upon his fortunes and wondering whether it means that he will be the first Vice-President succeeding to the Presidency by the death of his chief to be nominated by his party as his own successor—a nomination that they assert will be equivalent to election.

A powerful factor in the situation is the evident inability of the Democratic party to find an issue upon which they can unite or a man who can unite them, regardless of issues. Of course if this condition continues in the Democratic party it will work to the advantage of whomsoever the Republicans may name.

The party leaders of both sides at this time, viewing the situation in the light of the late elections as they appear to them here at the national capital, assume, as practical politicians, that the conditions under which the next Presidential campaign will be conducted, will be substantially those that now prevail, and that this being the case the Republicans will win.

BRITISH INTERESTED IN AMERI-CAN NAVAL BILL.

No Longer the Man Behind the Gun But the Man "Behind the Button."

The British admiralty is taking a lively interest in the working of the personnel bill in the American navy, with the view of the possible amalgamation of the line and engineer officers of the British service. Arnold-Forster, secretary to the admiralty, recently requested special reports on this matter and Vice-Admiral Fitzgerald, writes to the London Times on the same topic.
The admiral's letter is a spirited defense of the navy against many recent criticisms, but he admits that the line officers must wake up and become expert mechanics as well as good seamen, in order to master the complicated machinery of the fighting ships or else the engineers will oust them from their present predominant position. "I am not prepared," he says, "to advocate the amalgamation of the engineers and executives in imitation of the Americans. We are certainly not ripe for it yet. Moreover, it is just as well to wait and see how it turns out with them. But, if an amalgamation is to be eventually avoided it can only be by our executives becoming practical mechanics. All real work is now done by steam, electricity and hydraulics.
Touch the 'blooming button,' as Jack said, and let him get up. I doubt not that he who is the most expert in touching the 'blooming button' at the right moment will be the victor in future naval battles, just as the best sailors are of yore."

GRAY'S ANSWER FILED.
Charles E. Gray yesterday made answer to the suit brought against him by Mrs. Kate L. Vida, in which she accused him of making false representations in order to induce her to accept his notes in payment for a half interest in the California saloon. Gray makes denials to most of the allegations in the complaint. He claims that the plaintiff agreed to sell half the saloon and did actually do so, accepting in full payment therefor the notes in question. He denies that he is insolvent or irresponsible and unable to pay the notes. The defendant also denies that he is likely, unless restrained by an order of court, to dispose of the property and decamp with the proceeds.

Now Reduced to The Work of a Coal Barge.

Every week or two the barge Dessoug comes into port to load coal. She was once a palatial steamer, built for the khedive of Egypt in 1864, and named the Denton. At that time she was considered one of the fastest and most beautifully appointed vessels afloat, and the khedive enjoyed her immensely for a while. But he got tired of her, and in 1876 William H. Vanderbilt bought her to transport the obelisk from Egypt to Central Park, New York. The obelisk, which weighs 196 tons was far from the shore line and buried, besides deep in the sand. It was altogether too heavy for ordinary machinery to be used, and it was carried down on immense platforms, with cannon balls used for rollers. Then it was placed in a crib fixed on a pontoon. The pontoon and ship were lifted in a graving dock head on to each other, and when this had been accomplished a hole 20 feet long and 12 feet high was cut in the starboard bow of the boat below the water line. Through this the great stone was rolled into the hold of the ship on a grove having an improved ball-bearing attachment, also made of cannon balls. Inside, the obelisk was braced along the keelson, and stout choking blocks about it to make it immovable. Before the stone could be taken from the vessel's hold she had to be cut open again. The vessel is now owned by the American towing company of this city, and was overhauled at the shipyard of H. M. Stedden.

She is one of the largest barges on the coast, being 235 feet long, 32 feet wide, and registers 1382 tons.—New Bedford

Russell; Chinese fancy work, ladies of St. Peter's Chapel; ice cream, Mrs. C.
Booth; tea, Mrs. Pond and Miss Walker; grabbox, Miss Harris; embroidery, Mrs. Kient; Candy, Sisters of St. Andrew's Priory.

TOO BUSY.

President Castro is too busy with his personal affairs to take a proper interest in any Pan-American exposition.

LEASE
—OF—
Business Property

The undersigned will receive applications to lease lots in the "SCHMIDT CENTRAL BLOCK" on Beretania street, No. 588, adjoining the premises of the Queen's Hospital.

This valuable property will be divided into several business sites and offers a fine chance to investors in Real Estate. Suitable for Stores, Lodging Houses or Dwellings. Applications for lots will be treated in priority and it will pay to make early applications.

An important feature of these leases is that the lessee has the option of purchasing his lot in fee simple during the term of his lease at a figure based on the rental he is paying.

Terms and conditions of lease with amount of rents asked can be had on application to
