The second session of the infant Ebeye Adult High School is scheduled to commence on Monday, November 18. After a successful initial venture into night education, the high school program now has all the appearances of becoming a permanent institution on Ebeye. Reasons for this optimism come from the students of the last session who voiced their for more courses and praised the first session.

The upcoming program is being organized and administered by a local Peace Corps Volunteer, Chris Christensen. Courses include Intermediate English, Advanced English, Social Studies, and Typing.

The Social Studies course will be in Government and politics, covering such areas as different types of government, from totalitarian to democratic, in addition to a survey of current and continuing international issues, and an examination of Micronesian politics, history and future.

The typing course will be first come, first serve, and offered with some difficulty. Those interested are being asked to bring typewriters if they access to any. Other machines are being sought from any and all sources. Temporary donations of typewriters would be welcomed by the night school.

It is hoped that as many Ebeyeans as possible will apply for the courses this session. See the last page of this issue of the Ebeye Voice for the application form. Please submit this form to the Ebeye Public School or drop it in the letter box of the EBEYE VOICE in Kitco.

The tentative schedule and teachers:

COUNCIL APPROVES $10,000 PLAN

The Ebeye Municipal Council has approved the Shelter Improvement and Recreation Plan drawn up and proposed by popular young Youth Corps Director, Ray Stanford, PCV.

The $10,000 plan provides for a complete recreation program (described in last issue of the EBEYE VOICE), in addition to physical improvement of available space in the community shelter.

Included in the shelter aspect of the plan are provisions for a party area, ping pong tables (4), a pool table, food and soft drink vending machines where residents may sit and talk while relaxing, a library and reading room, a large area for holding public meetings or large parties, plus other improvements and added attractions too numerous to mention.

The present EBEYE VOICE office is to be the first casualty of the newly approved multi-thousand dollar operation. Our new office will be located on the opposite side of the shelter. The present Municipal building will be deserted by the Council as well. The members will take up business in the shelter in an area prescribed by the plan.

U.S. COLONIALISM IN MICRONESIA

The EBEYE VOICE has received a story from the Guam Daily News concerning the congressional hearings in Washington over Micronesia's political status (see related story from MNS on page 10). A Guam Daily News correspondent acquired some of the committee's secret transcripts and we enclose excerpts from the Guam Daily News, Friday, November 1, 1968:

From my examination of the transcript I came to the conclusion that the root of the trouble was insistence by the State Department that the people of Micronesia must be given their choice of independence or associating themselves with the United States.

The Interior Department which administers the trust territory would go no further than allowing the Micronesians to vote for a form of territorial status of the unincorporated variety which is now accorded Guam.

Here is what a high official of the State Department told the sub-committee when asked for the U.S. objective in Micronesia: "We are anxious that they be given an opportunity to express themselves at the earliest feasible date, primarily because we think the national interest of the U.S. would be best served by these people giving what we consider to be the right answer to any plebescite, and the right answer, in our judgement, is continuing association
with the United States."

A defense official, commenting on the possibility of using the Trust Territory as a "fall back" area for defense installations, if the U.S. relinquishes its bases in Japan, Okinawa, or Southeast Asia, said, "there have been some preliminary studies made by the Army as to the possibility of stationing land forces
there."

At this stage of the hearings, a member of Congress told the defense official
"There isn't going to be any plebescite until we take care of these things that are being done by American installations."

He was referring to Kwajalein, a test site for the Army Sentinel anti-missile system command. About 500 (700 to be exact: editor) Micronesians work there and most (all: editor) of them live on the nearby island of Ebeye. It was re-

Most are without windows and toilet facilities. Some are so crowded that people are forced to sleep in shifts. On Kwajalein members of the sub-committee were told also that Micronesians cannot ride taxis or wash their clothes at the laundromat.

One member of the sub-committee described the attitude of military personnel he encountered in the Trust Territory as "about the worst example of antique colonialism I have ever found in my life."

As to the overall situation in Micronesia, one member said, "We now apparently have lost a generation as far as the Trust Territory is concerned." "Twenty years of mismanagement and bungling," said another, "that is our record in Micronesia."

THE 8TH GRADE PARTY

Friday evening, November 8, was one of the most enjoyable of the new school year for the 8th grade of Ebeye Public Elementary School. Under the chairmanship of Mr. Kemlet, Class President Mr. James, and several committees, the class put together a well organized affair in the Home Economics building. Several teachers were guests as well as class officers of rival Ebeye Christian Elementary School. A delicious chicken, rice and potato main course was cooked by the 8th grade girls enrolled in the Home Ec program. The evening was highlighted by several speeches, a drama, and dancing. It was a good start for the spirited leaders of EPES, on their last and most important year and promises even more for the future.

ARE WE READY FOR INDEPENDENCE?

One of the most fantastic features of any advanced society in Micronesia in present time is the choice of Independence or association with another country. That is going to be an interesting and fantastic story throughout all of Micronesia.

To me, independence or association with another country involves many concepts and a complicated, advanced society. I am thinking in the first place of the six districts in which I am interested: Marshalls, Ponape, Truk, Palau, Yap, and Mariannas. For this moment I will say that all societies in Micronesia, whatever their political structure or legislative formulations, are going to be faced with this same choice of independence so long as we have association with the United States, and that the results are not only going to be significant, but much too significant.

I know that we can take care of our own political responsibility and still be able to associate with the other country, but most of us feel that everything can be taken care of in our future status. But if we do, we shall not even begin to understand what is really happening. We shall fool ourselves as we often, with many specific reasons, such as lack of industries, difficulty of the languages of Micronesia, and the long distances between our districts. To me, the only thing we have taken for granted is the status of our government and the political future of our islands.

In conclusion, the point is, that anyone who is drunk with coconut juice is a menace. Any choice he makes--particularly if it involves comparison of other countries--is much more likely to be wrong than right. The higher he climbs, the more he is going to mislead his own country.

Dear Editor:

I went to the TT office on Kwajalein two weeks ago. I asked the personnel for permission to go to Macy's for shopping. First they asked me whether I was going to travel or not. I answered that I was going to travel, and they asked, "Are you sure you're traveling?" They also asked me what my job was and when I told them they said, "Are you sure you're a teacher?"

These are kind of foolish questions. They shouldn't ask me things like this. I thought the Army discriminated on Kwajalein, but now I think the Trust Territory office on Kwajalein also does this.

If we need something but our stores here on Ebeye don't have them, we would like to use Macy's. Because of discrimination against Marshallese, we cannot shop there.

EBEYE AT UN DAY, MAJURO

The small but powerful Ebeye Athletic contingent set down in Majuro on the Army DC4 flight on UN Day, Thursday October 24. Three hours later they began their assault on the athletic competition which would cover the next three days.

According to team representative, Hideo Milne, a large force of 9 younger Ebeyeans should have been able to compete in the lower age group events where Ebeye lost points in overall competition due to their absence. Despite this however, Ebeye did quite well and came very close to taking top spot. The following is a list of of the events in which Ebeye competed, and their results:

Exhibition baseball: Majuro 15, Ebeye 2.
100 meter dash...winner, Zakios, Ebeye,
High jump...winner, Zakios, Ebeye 5' 4"
220 dash....winner, Zakios, Ebeye 26 sec.

In the women's volleyball competition the Ebeye women won the championship. In the men's exhibition volleyball game Ebeye beat the Majuro Atoll District Champions, Rongerong, in two games, 15-3 and 15-10.

In the men's softball game, the Ebeye Angels went into the finals with MIHS and lost the championship in a game played under protest because of the unprining.

In the women's can race, Dire and Diana from Ebeye, won. During the week, the Ebeye Karete Association put on two impressive demonstrations for the children's polio fund and raised $753.

Edward Peterson, an American living on Ebeye, won the Datsun pickup truck, while the ticket seller of the winning ticket, Imada Kabua, took the motor scooter, over the washing machine.

WASHINGTON DEBATES OVER FUTURE OF MICRONESIA

A debate in the Congress of the United States over the status of Micronesia has revealed some interesting viewpoints from several congressmen.

The exchange of views, generated in a committee hearing on trust territory's budget for fiscal years 1970 and 1971, centered on mainly two areas.

First, most representatives are in agreement that Micronesia has great strategic value to the United States. Congressman Hugh Carey stated that the area is a "matter of vital strategic concern" to the U.S. Another representative, James Fulton of Pennsylvania, voiced his views: "I favor strongly a new state in the United States in the future composed of the oceanic islands of the Pacific and their peoples." Also congressman Jonathan Bingham registered his opinion that the Trust Territory will remain in association with the US, but he added, that Micronesians "have the right at some stage to make that decision for themselves."

The other area of concern which surfaced in the debates was that of the Trust Territory's administration and the United States' responsibility to Micronesia. Carey said, "our efforts to bring these islands from the chaos and destruction of WW II to social and economic prosperity have fallen short..."

Congressman Rogers Morton of Maryland expressed the committee's dissatisfaction with "the way in which the Trust Territory has been administered," and he also charged the TT of lacking coordination within the leadership and executive agencies involved, but concluded by stating his "comfortable sense of confidence in the personality of the High Commissioner, Mr. Norwood...He is doing an excellent job."
