FASTEST PACING EVER DONE BY A HORSE THAT OF DAN PATCH ON A NEW YORK TRACK TODAY—COVERS A MILE IN 1:59, REDUCING RECORD BY A QUARTER SECOND.

Associated Press Cable to the Star.

NEW YORK, August 19.—By pacing a mile in 1:59 today Dan Patch made the fastest time ever done by a pacer in the history of track records. His wonderful performance reduces the record by only a quarter of a second, but it aroused great enthusiasm among horsemen. The pacing was witnessed by a large crowd.

The best mile pacing record up to this is 1:59 1/4, Star Pointer, Readville, Mass., Aug. 28, 1897, and Dan Patch, Readville, Mass., Sept. 23, 1902. Best mile in a race, 2:00 1/4, Star Pointer, Springfield, Ill., Oct. 1, 1897. Best mile by a stallion, Star Pointer, as above. Best mile by a mare, 2:04 1/4, Lady of the Manor, Glens Falls, N. Y., Aug. 18, 1899 (race record). Best mile by a gelding, 2:00 1/4, Prince Alert, Memphis, Oct. 26, 1901. Best mile by green pacer, 2:06 1/4, Direct Hal, Detroit, July 14, 1902.

MOTHER'S MESSAGE ARRIVES TO LATE

CHICAGO, August 8.—"Isabelle Gonsalves found; is rich; hold boy, money for his transportation and expenses is being telegraphed."

This telegraphic message from Oakland, Cal., was hurried into the detective headquarters shortly before noon today. Had it reached the eyes of a frail, dark-eyed youth who left the police station less than half an hour before it would have changed his sad heart and dejected countenance into one of joy and would have permitted him to travel in ease instead of on freight cars to California.

August Gonsalves, who is 17 years old and a Portuguese boy, was kidnapped from his home in Honolulu by his father at the age of 10 and taken to the Madeira Islands, and his sole ambition is to learn the whereabouts of his mother. He was positive when he appealed to the Chicago police that she was living somewhere in California, and for six days efforts were made to find trace of the parent. This morning a message was received from the Oakland police. It read: "Isabelle Gonsalves left here years ago to search for her son. No trace of her now."

"Too bad," sobbed the boy when the message was read to him. "I must leave you and find my mother. You have been good to me, and when I find mother I will write and tell you." He then left the police headquarters. Half an hour later the second message was received, but the police have been unable to locate the lad and it is thought he has started on the "blind baggage" to the Coast.

Young August remained in the Madeira Islands until seven months ago, when his father died. The boy came to this country as a stowaway on the United States schooner St. Mary. The officers of the vessel sent him to Chicago.

This boy is well known in Honolulu where he has a number of relatives. His mother is a sister of M. A. Gonsalves. She was divorced from her first husband, the father of the boy, and afterwards married a man by the name of Silva with whom she went to California.

CABLE CONGRATULATIONS TO THE EMPEROR KWANGSUI

THE BOW WONG SOCIETY CELEBRATES THE CHINESE EMPEROR'S BIRTHDAY TODAY WITH A GATHERING OF ABOUT THREE HUNDRED—SEND A CABLE HOPING FOR HIS RESTORATION TO POWER.

Chinese all over the world are today celebrating the birthday of the Emperor Kwangsui. Chinese all over the world will be celebrating the birthday of the Emperor tomorrow. Owing to the difference in the calendar because of the difference of longitude, wherever that difference amounts to nearly a day there is a standing difference in the Chinese colony as to which day to celebrate.

The Bow Wong Society is celebrating today. Tomorrow the consulate celebrates, and so will the United Chinese Society. Usually the United Chinese Society celebrates the earlier day when a Chinese anniversary is to be observed. But today, President Ai accepted the invitation of the consulate to celebrate the later day, saying that there was no reason why this should not be done, though at the same time saying that as to the Chinese new year, the feeling among the Chinese was so strong on that day that he would not undertake to change the observance from the accustomed day.

The Bow Wongs celebrated the Emperor's birthday today with a gathering at the society's hall on River street near College Walk. There were about 300 present. Speeches were made by a number of the members, all expressing the hope that the Emperor would soon be restored to the authority from which he was deposed by the Dowager's coup in 1898, and that he would have strength to carry out the reforms for the empire of which he gave such brilliant earnest during the short time he was actually in power. The health of the Emperor was drank, and light refreshments were served to all in attendance at the gathering. There was a good deal of enthusiasm displayed. The following congratulatory cable message was sent to the Emperor through the Chinese Foreign Office. It will be observed that the wish is expressed that he may soon be restored to power and have strength to carry out reforms throughout the empire. The idea in this is that similar cablegrams of congratulation will be received from every Bow Wong organization throughout the world, and that if each contains something to show the Empress Dowager that the Chinese throughout the world favor reforms, it may be of some service, whether the Emperor sees any of these congratulatory cablegrams or not. The cablegram follows:

"Foreign Office, Peking: Bow Wong Society, Hawaii, congratulations Emperor birthday. Prays restoration power with strength reform Empire."

Addresses were made by Wong Leong, Dr. K. F. Li and Henry Loo Kong and several others.

At the consulate tomorrow there will be open house to the Chinese residents and the usual official celebration of the day including the reception of representatives of other nations.

The celebration by the United Chinese Society will take the form of a gathering with brief addresses by prominent Chinese.

BECKLEY OUT OF COUNTY POLITICS

SAYS HE DOES NOT THINK IT SEEMLY FOR MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURE WHO CREATED THE COUNTY OFFICES TO ENTER INTO A SCRAMBLE FOR THEM—WANTS GOOD GOVERNMENT.

Fred W. Beckley, speaker of the House, says he is out of politics until the county elections are over. He doesn't propose to run for any county office and is inclined to think that members of the legislature should not be candidates for the offices to be voted for next November.

Beckley stated that he didn't think the legislators should be candidates for positions which they had helped to create. The members of the present legislature had created the county offices, said Beckley, and were therefore not in a position to properly run for such offices. Beckley's idea, however, is not shared by all the members of the legislature, some of them being willing to run, for the legislature is pau and the other offices are just beginning.

Speaker Beckley also stated that he was done with strict party lines in politics here, unless the party he favored put up good men. "I believe in getting good men into the offices," he said, "and I refuse to support men who are not good just because the party nominates them. We must have capable men in public office, and if my party doesn't name good men I don't believe in supporting them. The strict party lines proposition may be all right on the mainland, but probably Hawaii is too small a community for it."

MME. HUMBERT THE WHOLE SHOW

CONTINUES TO DOMINATE THE PARIS TRIAL AND CREATES SEVERAL SCENES—LOUDLY CHARGES THE COURT WITH BIAS—PROMISES TO PRODUCE FAMOUS CRAWFORDS EXCITES SPECTATORS TO LAUGHTER.

PARIS, Aug. 10.—The Humbert trial today drew another large crowd to the Palais de Justice. Mme. Therese Humbert continued to dominate the proceedings, and created several scenes when the Court attempted to examine the members of the family. M. Bonnet, the presiding Judge, insisted on examining Frederic Humbert, her husband, but Mme. Therese, rising, said: "I demand to be heard. I am strong today, and will explain where the millionaires are."

The Judge, however, proceeded with the examination of the other defendants despite Mme. Humbert's constant interruptions. During Judge Bonnet's searching interrogation of her husband Mme. Therese dramatically exclaimed: "Monsieur le President, you are clearly showing by your manner that you are against us. You should disguise your feelings and try to appear impartial."

The spectators were greatly amused at this outburst. The Judge ordered Mme. Humbert to be silent, but she again shouted, "You are continually showing your prejudice."

Frederic Humbert testified lengthily regarding the affairs of the Rente Viaigre, the insurance concern which the Humberts started, and in the crash of which thousands of poor people lost all their savings. He maintained that the operations were conducted in good faith, and claimed that public prejudice, aroused against the Humbert family, brought about the failure of the concern. He denied the Judge's statement that the rooms in the palatial residence of the Humberts in the Avenue de la

MUST FENCE FORESTS

EXPERT FORESTER HALL WHO HAS BEEN CLIMBING MOUNTAINS AND RANGING THE FORESTS OF THIS ISLAND TELLS OF HIS EXPERIENCE—FENCING THE FOREST RESERVES HE THINKS IS NECESSARY.

W. L. Hall, the expert forester, returned yesterday evening from a two days' trip to the Waianae range, during which he made some examinations of a large area of forest. Hall already has a fair idea of the situation on this island and thinks the proposition will resolve into a matter of fencing. He expresses a high opinion of the tree planting that has been done and is impressed with the spirit of readiness to do thoroughly whatever is necessary for the future which he has observed in the community.

"I do not think I ever saw a place," said the forester, "where people are so ready to go into matters of public concern with thoroughness and energy. The forest matter may cost something but it will be a paying investment with big returns in five years. From what I have seen I do not think there will be any trouble about going ahead with whatever is decided to be necessary."

"I should judge that there are about 100,000 acres of good forest cover on this island. Up above Wahiawa I found thick natural forest. In about the natural condition, but coming this way from there one encounters thinner growth. I am inclined to think that grazing has done the thinning out. It is not only that the undergrowth is removed, thus exposing the roots which are in only thin soil, but the removal of the natural undergrowth has given the Hilo grass a place, and this sort of grass has grown so thick that it utterly shuts out young trees. The young trees do not come up and the old ones die and leave no successors."

"As far as my investigations have gone, I think the problem will resolve itself into a question of fencing on this island. Some arrangements will have to be made whereby the government, or those interested, will see that the forest areas are enclosed and that no grazing is allowed within the enclosure. In five years I think the results would be such as to thoroughly satisfy everyone with the investment of money needed."

"The planting done some years ago on Tantalus has been very successful. I visited there some days ago and was agreeably surprised at the growth that has taken place."

Forester Hall was accomplished yesterday by H. W. Von Holt, and the Von Holt place high in the mountain was one of the places visited. Hall is an enthusiastic forester and tackles explorations with vigor. He is enjoying the new kind of forest growth encountered by him in Hawaii and has already acquired a good start in Hawaiian nomenclature.

This afternoon Hall will take another short trip into the hills between here and Pearl City and then he will start round the island on the outer edge, making excursions inland and up the mountains wherever it seems to be desirable. This will complete his exploration of Oahu and next Tuesday he expects to take a steamer for the windward islands. He will begin with Molokai, then go over Maui, and from there will go to Hawaii, making a thorough exploration of each island. Hall thinks it is highly interesting work and is going at it with enthusiasm.

Who Shall Vote In Primaries

Malihinis Who Cannot Register For the Election Claim Primary Rights.

Many of the officers of precinct clubs have been asking the Republican central committee for instructions as to whom they shall allow to vote in the coming primaries and there is some difference of opinion on the question. The doubtful cases are those of men who have come here since the election and who, though citizens are entitled to vote at the election as far as all other qualifications are concerned, may not vote because there is no chance for them to register.

It is admitted that the newcomers cannot vote in the election, but those who are Republicans claim that they should be allowed to take part in the primaries, as they are in every sense voters except for a technicality preventing legal registration. The general answer made by members of the central committee has been that the precinct officers should use their own judgment, but some of the officers want instructions from the party, and a meeting of the executive committee may be called to discuss the matter.

GOVERNOR HAS APPOINTED FRED W. MACFARLANE CHAIRMAN OF LATE FIRE CLAIMS COMMISSION

Governor Dole yesterday announced his appointment of Fred W. Macfarlane as Hawaii's Commissioner to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition. Mr. Macfarlane has been a member of the St. Louis Exhibit Committee which was appointed by the governor more than a year ago, at the time that Commissioner John Barrett was here. He was chairman of the Fire Claims Commission which only a few days ago adjourned sine die.

Mr. Macfarlane is the fourth son of his parents. His father was a descendant of the Macfarlane clan of Scotland. His mother is of English birth. They were married in Auckland New Zealand, and came to Hawaii in 1846. Fred W. Macfarlane was for a number of years cashier for Bishop & Co., and for the past several years has been at the head of the Union Feed Company. He married a daughter of the late H. A. Widemann.

OF MATTER

ATOMS ARE NOT STABLE BUT ARE COMPOSED OF IONS ALL IN ORBITAL MOTION LIKE A PLANETARY OR STELLAR SYSTEM—THE LIGHT RADIUM HAS THROWN ON THE SUBJECT.

The world's foremost searchers after the ultimate secrets of the universe have at length committed themselves to a stupendous theory which has for some time been foreshadowed and has now apparently been substantiated by the study of the new substance called radium. Prof. Crookes not long ago in Berlin and Profs. Lodge and Curie, about the same time in London, have confidently proclaimed that it is easy to define this great revolution of science in scarcely more than a sentence. To comprehend it however, is almost as far beyond the power of the human mind as the idea of eternity or infinite space.

The old theory that the atoms of elements consist of indivisible units of matter has now been definitely discarded. Instead, we are told that each atom is a whole stellar system of infinitely smaller, but absolutely identical, units, all in orbital motion. A hydrogen atom consists of 700 such units, or ions. The nature or identity of each substance depends upon the number of such ions contained in each atom, thus 11,200 ions in each atom produce what we know as oxygen, and 137,200 of the same ions if combined in a single atom would yield what we regard as gold. The nature of these ions is, for want of a better word, electrical. In other words, electricity and matter are one and the same thing.

This theory has been more or less familiar to scientific men for two or three years, but has not been demonstrated until recently, when the study of the Roentgen rays suggested it, and now radium seems to furnish a complete proof, and also carries its conception into a marvellous elaboration. An examination of radium and other phenomena leads Prof. Lodge and his associates to believe that matter is not stable in its atoms, as has been heretofore supposed by everybody familiar with the disintegration of matter, which means the rearrangement or recombination of elements. Thus, water may be separated into oxygen or hydrogen, but it was never before imagined that the atoms themselves were capable of disintegration. Prof. Lodge suggests that this is the normal process of nature, yet it is proceeding at a rate so slow that it baffles the powers of conception of the human mind to estimate the length of time required.

In radium alone it proceeds so rapidly that the phenomenon is easily observed. M. Curie, the discoverer of radium, in some wonderful experiments at the Royal Institution showed that radium spontaneously and continuously disengaged heat, rapidly affected photographic plates, even through opaque bodies, discharged an electroscope when merely brought in its vicinity, and gave off emanations similar to itself in constant and even violent streams or radiations; in other words, the 120,000 ions which compose each atom of radium rotated so violently that they flew apart into original units. It has been calculated, however, that this efflux from radium is so infinitesimal that a square inch of surface would lose only one grain in ten thousand million years.

Prof. Lodge surmises that this process of disintegration of atoms may constitute the evolution of the chemical elements. He announced that within a few weeks Prof. Ernest Rutherford of McGill University, in Montreal, had observed the break-up of the most massive atoms. He found that some few atoms of a ratio-active substance seemed to reach a critical stage at which they flung away small portions of themselves with great violence, the residue having the same property of instability for some time until ultimately it settles down into what is presumably a different substance. Changes of this sort in more stable atoms would seem to require millions of millions of centuries, so long, in fact, that the longest periods in astronomical evolution would seem but hours in comparison. Prof. Lodge affirms, however, that these changes seem bound to occur, according to fixed laws.

So the state of flux and decay is recognized, not only in the stars and planets but in the foundation stones of the universe, which are the elemental atoms themselves. The process of regeneration, however, can also be imagined, and it would occur if the separations ever aggregated themselves together by their mutual attractions into fresh material. The progress of the research may lead us to recognize the existence of atoms, some of which were recently formed and others very ancient.

It will be seen that the whole theory in effect is an astronomical one. Chemistry has, in act, become the astronomy of the infinitesimal. One is led to wonder, then, if the earth and the other planets are not mere ions forming a single atom of a higher universe, where, perhaps they constitute a speck of dust that worries the careful housewife in the world next above us. At all events, we are clearly on the verge of the greatest revelation that science has yet vouchsafed to mankind and knowledge that is only limited by the capacity of the human mind to receive it.—N. THE YACHT RACES.

Tomorrow the first race for the America Cup will be sailed, and every sportsman will be hoping for fine weather, so that nothing may interfere with the success of the event. The change in the time of holding the races has been made on that account. The former races have been sailed either in September or October, and both months have given fogs and storms which have seriously affected the races. Sir Thomas Lipton, after his previous experience with Shamrock I and Shamrock II stipulated for the earlier date, and the New York Yacht Club acquiesced.

The America Cup was originally won by the schooner yacht, the America, at Cowes regatta in 1851. No one at that time dreamed of what importance the cup would become. The race was listed at the time as the Royal Yacht Squadron's International Queen's Cup, and the trophy was valued at one hundred pounds. The yacht America was a new model and walked away from all competitors, coming in eight miles ahead in a race round the Isle of Wight.

The cup went over the Atlantic and became one of the trophies of the New York Yacht Club. It was regarded as not much more than any ordinary prize. Then the idea took hold of British yachtsmen that they would like to win back the cup, and out of it grew an international effort to build better yachts. The struggle since 1870 has been not to win the cup, which is merely a symbol, but to prove which side of the Atlantic the best racing machines can be constructed.

This has led to the building of a number of yachts of exceptional excellence, each series of races bringing forward vessels of exceptional speed, and each exceeding those of the previous struggle, till we have reached such vessels as the Reliance and Shamrock III, whose powers will commence to be tested tomorrow.

It is a long list of brilliant yachts which have come together on the waters off Staten Island at intervals since the America won her race at Cowes. On the British side have been the Cambria, Levinia, Genesta, Thistle, Valkyrie I, Valkyrie II and the Shamrocks, on our side have been the Sappho, Magic, Columbia, Dauntless, Puritan, Volunteer, Vigilant, Defender, Columbia again, and lastly the Reliance, upon which our fortunes rest in tomorrow's and the subsequent races.

The question of who can build the best yachts is still unsettled, though we have proved ours the better up to the present. Some millions of dollars have been spent upon the question, many people have earned their living out of the struggle and the money has been well distributed. Each side is confident tomorrow will prove propitious, and which ever side is beaten will take its defeat in good part. Only once has the harmony of the races been broken and that unfortunate incident occurred in 1895 over Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie II. Sir Thomas Lipton has proved himself a true sportsman and will accept defeat or victory with equal equanimity.

SOME QUEER CHARACTERS.

A long residence within the shores of the Hawaiian Islands can make a man acquainted with some strange characters. In the olden days the escaped convict used occasionally to land here and take up his residence. Some very worthy safe-crackers, homicides, and cattle and horse thieves have spent their declining years in our valleys and their descendants occupy quite prominent positions, as similar convict families have risen to eminence in Australia. But the convict and the beach-comber has long since had his day. The last convict who visited Honolulu in an official capacity was Cochfort, the French journalist, he escaped from New Caledonia to which place he had been sent for his share in the commune. Since his time various fugitives from just ce have sought refuge with us, but only to flit away again.

The confidence man has given us a good deal of attention and one or two attained celebrity. Out of the ruck of acquaintances of this type rises Ross Raymond. He represented himself as a brother-in-law of Lord Brassey, and was welcomed with open arms by the four hundred. He was dined and wine by the king, was taken into political confidence by Premier Gibson, and generally enjoyed himself among the wealthy and the swift. He left rather abruptly and he was tenderly enquired after by several people who had advanced him money on his remittances. After a tour in the colonies, he made a round of the Southern States, living well upon forged checks, and alas! fell a victim to the law in New York. He reposes in Sing Sing if he is yet alive.

Another brilliant rogue was Julian Hayne. He aspired to political honors and ran a vigorous campaign in favor of the royalists. As he had not an ounce of moral sense, or any character to lose, he made quite a lively opponent. Had he stayed straight he might have been a running mate of Cayless in the Home Rule party. But he couldn't stay straight, and he also returned to the mainland and was gathered to the no herly bosom of Sing Sing, or some equally haven of rest, where the wicked, for a time, cease from troubling their neighbors and putting out plausible schemes for making the fat and greasy citizen part with his wealth.

Of rogues political we have had our share. Some of them have been merely dishonest politically, and have been honest enough in their financial dealings, others have been dishonest both politically and financially. Of the rogue political who came to our shores perhaps Don Celso Moreno was a good example. He was taken up by the monarchy and played a very brilliant game for a time, so brilliant a game that he became Minister of Foreign Affairs, a position he held but three days, but which he exploited in Europe for all that it was worth and a little more. He was a great supporter of Robert Wilcox, but when the latter did not divvy fair over the Home Rule funds, Moreno went back on him, and attacked him bitterly in the minor press of Washington.

Of late years it is the political rogues which have come into evidence, the financial rogue finds the place too confined for his expansive talents, but the political rogue flourishes. All he has to do is to pack his carpet bag on the mainland, and sail down here looking for what office he can devour. His regular plan is to at once attach himself to the opposition, make as much noise as possible, and trust that he may be bought off. Any one who will give the subject a moment's thought will readily supply the names of a dozen or more of these successors of the highly accomplished runaway convicts who used formerly to make their home in Hawaii.

The old resident on these islands might write a somewhat breezy article upon the subject of "Rogues I Have Known." He would have to leave his manuscript to be published after his death, or during the time he was visiting the South Pole. It would hit too many people of the present day, but it would make a very amusing volume, for if a biography of all the rogues were to be attempted, it would fill a rather large book. It would contain the names of ———. But there, the names must be guessed.

When one thinks of it one has certainly exceptional opportunities for studying curious phases, and distorted characteristics of human nature, and the stage upon which the parts are played is so small that it is easy to see every detail and to understand the causes which produce the effects.

The appointment of Fred W. Macfarlane as Commissioner for the Territory of Hawaii at the St. Louis Exposition is an eminently satisfactory appointment. Macfarlane is a man of great organizing ability and of indomitable energy. Moreover he may be reported as a "lucky" man, for what ever he undertakes he succeeds in. No better representative of the Island Territory

There are the elements of a neat little row brewing in Venezuela. The foreign merchants in Ciudad Bolivar, many of whom are Americans, paid their taxes to the revolutionary government when that city was occupied by the rebels. Now Castro wants the taxes paid over again to him. This the merchants have refused to do, and he has very promptly clapped them in to the common jail. There will be a rendezvous of our war vessels again in Venezuela.

The telegrams from the Balkan Peninsula contain their usual crop of contradictory horrors. The difficulty of getting accurate information or of verifying rumor is enormous, and the average correspondent simply forwards what he hears and does not attempt to verify. The most important items of intelligence are the arrival of the Russian squadron at the Golden Horn, and the mobilization of the Bulgarian forces though the Bulgarian government claims that the mobilization is for Autumn maneuvers and not for war.

The Treasury notes have been taken up by the banks, and the financial wheels will run quite smoothly till the taxes come in. Now we want to hear about the loan. As soon as that is floated there will be a boom in public improvements, and lots of work for those who want it. Within a year from now, what with our own public work and the Federal work which will be then undertaken, the Territory of Hawaii will be a busy place.

Hawaii has been exceptionally lucky in getting her sugar in upon a rising market. The effect of prosperous sales is already being felt here. The worst of our depression is over, and brighter days are in store for us.

mind the running down of the U. S. S. Onaida in Yokohama harbor, by the P. and O. S. S. Bombay, many years ago. The loss of the Onaida was more tragic than that of the Chinese Huang-tai: Only one officer and a few of the crew was saved. The officer saved was Lieutenant Yates, who afterwards came to the Islands and married Miss Theodora Paty, a sister of the late John Paty of Bishop's bank.

CARRARA Mixed Paint

Is not an old paint in the sense that it has been in the market for many years, but the pigments used in its manufacture are believed to be old, because they are supposed to represent the re-discovery of the secret of permanent color, thought to have been lost with Michael Angelo, Leonardo da Vinci, Fra Angelico, Corregio, Murillo, Titian, Guido, Raphael and other Old Masters.

CARRARA has been in the market long enough, however to establish the fact that it gives a BETTER FINISH, lasts LONGER, under the most severe tests, covers more surface, and COSTS LESS than the best Lead, Zinc, and Oil.

If you want the Best Effect and the Best Results, USE CARRARA. Of course some people want what came over in the "Mayflower" and think that pure lead, Zinc and Oil Paint is the thing to use because "Grandpa" used it. "Grandpa" was no doubt an authority in his day and a man of judgment; but if he were alive today, it goes without saying, that he would use CARRARA.

In passing, we may say, that we still have a balance of the OLD KIND OF PAINT, as good as can be made under the old formulas, which we were selling when our knowledge was in the rudimentary stage.

This we can give you at A BARGAIN.

Grande Armes were connected by a system of secret telephones. Mme. Therese here also exclaimed, "Lies! More lies!" Frederic Humbert said he had devoted most of his time to art and poetry, leaving the entire financial operations to his wife.

The examination of Romaine d'Aurignac, Mme. Humbert's brother, brought out nothing new. Romaine d'Aurignac testified that Mme. Therese commissioned him to trace the whereabouts of the Crawford brothers. Once, he said, when Crawford visited his residence he followed him to the Grand Hotel de Louvre and located the room occupied by Robert and Henry Crawford. The former was sick in bed, and refused to get up, but Henry came to the door, and after a brief conversation accepted copies of some legal papers. The Judge sought to bring out that Romaine himself impersonated the Crawfords and instituted suits in their name. This the defendant denied. Mme. Humbert here made another declamatory statement, protesting her complete innocence.

"I have tried to find the Crawfords and their millions," she said. "I have not succeeded in finding the money, but I have found the Crawfords. They have made a terrible revelation to me. I have told Maitre Labori all. He knows the real name of the Crawfords; for they do not call themselves by the name of Crawford. No one will suffer any loss. I will pay every one. Perhaps the Crawfords may not appear, but they exist. It is only their name that does not exist."

The Judge, interrupting her, asked: "Then where are the Crawfords?"

"If the Crawfords do not come here I will give their name, and that will suffice," replied Mme. Therese. "I have already told Maitre Labori that when the witnesses have been heard and the hearing is concluded I will tell all."

There was a profound silence in the courtroom during Mme. Humbert's declaration, but her final words, again putting off the promised disclosure, aroused derisive laughter. When the Court intimated that the statement was vague Maitre Labori answered: "But Mme. Humbert engages herself to speak at the close of the hearing."

The Court then began the examination of the ninety witnesses called, outside the family, which will occupy many days. Mme. Therese's declaration that the Crawfords actually exist under another name is generally regarded as only another of her ruses to gain time.

GREAT BRITAIN IN QUEST OF ORES

The fact is most significant that the British Iron Trade Association has asked the government to instruct its consular officials throughout the world to collect information and report on the iron ore resources of many countries with a view to assist British iron makers in their search for the raw materials needed to carry on the industry. In its letter to the Prime Minister the association has suggested the appointment of a royal commission to inquire into the question of raw materials and to collect through the consuls all facts relating to iron ore supplies which it concerns the buyer and the user of such ores to know.

"This application," says the Marine Review, "illustrates the changed position of Great Britain as an iron manufacturer. It was not many years ago that the British boasted of the great advantage they enjoyed in the fact that their iron ore, coal and the limestone needed for fluxing were near together so that they could turn pig iron out of their blast furnaces more cheaply than any other country. In the great iron ore districts of Cleveland, south Scotland, Staffordshire and Lincolnshire the ore and coal were side by side, while in no district of the kingdom were they separated by more than 100 miles and in hardly any district by more than fifty or sixty miles.

"On the other hand, in the United States the ores and the coal were generally about 1,000 miles apart, except in Alabama; and in Germany the bulk of the ore had to be carried by rail to the coal over distances varying from 100 to 150 miles. Today, however, Great Britain is bringing millions of tons of iron ore thousands of miles to her coal, and the reason is interesting. Great Britain still possesses enormous resources in iron ore. But a great change has occurred in all the iron markets. The use of iron is decreasing, while the demand for steel is growing every year. A very large variety of articles once made of iron are now made of steel, and the fact is deeply regretted by all British manufacturers that the larger part of their native iron ores contains too much phosphorus for the production of iron suitable for the manufacture of Bessemer and Siemens steel.

"The most important iron ore district of the kingdom is the Cleveland district, near the east coast, south of Newcastle. Until about twenty years ago the iron ore from which its millions of tons of pig iron were annually produced came almost wholly from the hills of the Cleveland region. Today, however, the vast demand for the highest quality of steel-making iron compels the importation of large quantities of foreign hematite ore, which is now used in Cleveland to the extent of nearly 3,000,000 tons a year.

"The same change has also overtaken Scotland, where, until about fifteen years ago, the iron produced was almost wholly from local ores, whereas now nearly one-half of it is made from ores imported in order to provide a quality of pig iron suited to the demands of the local steel works. Scotland produces a considerable quantity of hematite ore, but nothing is more certain than that in the near future Scotland must rely increasingly upon imported ores.

"The most important iron-making district after Cleveland is the west coast; that is to say, west Cumberland and northwest Lancashire. The total product of pig iron in this district exceeds 1,500,000 tons yearly, and that of steel is from 700,000 to 750,000 tons. The pig is chiefly produced from local hematite ores, this being the only important center of such ores in the British Isles, but the local supplies have in the past three or four years been largely supplemented by imports of hematite ores from foreign countries.

"The fact that Germany today is producing more steel, though not more pig iron, than Great Britain is due to the poverty in steel-making ores of the British Isles. The result, therefore, of the substitution of steel for iron in many manufactures is that Great Britain can no longer say that the supplies for its blast furnaces are near together. Nearly the whole of the ore for the most important form of iron that is used in the manufacture of Bessemer steel or mild steel is brought 1,000 miles over the sea from Spain. Some of it comes from other countries, but Spain is the largest source of supply. It has been evident for some time that the mines of north Spain will not for many years longer be equal to the demands which Great Britain and, to a less extent, Germany are making upon them. Evidences of approaching exhaustion are already apparent in some of the best Spanish districts. It is an imperative necessity that Great Britain should secure other sources of supply of hematite ores. Another fact that has helped to wrest the supremacy in iron and steel from Great Britain is that richer ores are found and worked in some foreign lands. Even the best Cumberland and Lancashire hematite ores have but 57 per cent of iron, while the Cleveland iron ore is very much leaner. Our Lake Superior ores, on the other hand, contain from 59 to 65 per cent of iron, while the Gellivara mines of northern Sweden give a 68 per cent iron.

"Thus it happens that Great Britain, which had always held the premier position among iron-producing countries, has lost its supremacy. Thirteen years ago the United States wrested the lead from Great Britain, and, except for two years, has held it ever since. Fifteen years ago the British production of ore was double that of the United States. But the British have now been left far behind, and there is every indication that within a very few years the blast furnaces of this country will produce far more than twice as much iron as those of Great Britain."

NEW POLICE JUDGE IN ACTION

ALEXANDER LINDSAY JR., NEW DISTRICT MAGISTRATE PRESENTS OVER HIS COURT.

Judge A. Lindsay the new district magistrate made his initial appearance in the police court this morning. He is to preside in future over that court. Judge Lindsay entered the court room in company with Judge Lyle A. Dickey. "Gentlemen of the court," said Deputy High Sheriff Chillingworth, "I have the honor to present Hon. Judge Lyle A. Dickey, first magistrate of the district of Honolulu and Hon. Alexander Lindsay Jr., second magistrate of the district of Honolulu."

Both judges bowed, sat down and proceeded to transact business with exceptional promptness. Judge Dickey called a case of assault and battery and disposed of that case, then Judge Lindsay assumed the reins of the police court and began the trial of his first case. Mori had the distinction of being the first defendant to be tried by the new judge. "You are charged with being drunk in the district of Honolulu," said Judge Lindsay "Are you guilty or not guilty?"

Mori was drunk. He admitted it. In fact he confessed to having been real drunk. The court promptly fined him $3 and costs.

The new judge showed himself to be quite a linguist. He knows English of course, as it is the official language, he understands Hawaiian and he also has a knowledge of Spanish, as spoken by Porto Ricans. Several Hawaiians were charged with various offences and the court took a hand in their examination in the Hawaiian tongue.

Andre Gomaro and Epolo de Ruan Porto Ricans were charged with being vagrants of the worst type.

"The statutes of this Territory," said Judge Lindsay "require that every man shall work. There is ample work to be secured, if one wishes to work. The evidence shows that not only did you not desire to work, but that you lived off the earnings of women. This practice must be stopped. The court finds you guilty."

Gomaro was sentenced to three months in jail with costs, while De Ruan got one month and costs.

SURVEYING IMMIGRATION SITE.

Captain U. S. G. White, engineer officer of the Naval Station, began day before yesterday, to survey the site of the immigration station on the Naval reservation. Some of this site takes in a part of the street and Captain White desired to get the bounds properly marked out. F. M. Bechtel, the head of immigration matters in these islands, will shortly take steps to begin work on the construction of the new station.

SCHURZ ON GERMAN.

Carl Schurz speaks wisely—as he is wont to do on every matter, and has been doing from before the war for the Union, even to the later days when he has antagonized imperialism—about the demand of a certain class of Germans who want the study of German made compulsory in the public schools of New York city. His letter to the Staats Zeitung is thus translated in part by the New York Tribune:

We German-Americans brought this treasure with us from abroad. We need not learn the language; we need only not forget it. And our children will have for nothing what others must laboriously acquire, if we are wise and conscientious enough to cultivate the language in the family circle. I do not preach as one of whom you might say: "Follow his words, but not his deeds." I pride myself on being as dutiful an American as any man. I learned the English language, and so did my children. But in the family circle we speak only German, read much German and correspond only in German. And I say to you, when I see German-American parents, because of sheer laziness fail to secure for their children a knowledge of the mother tongue; when I see how they thoughtlessly cast away the precious treasure, my German heart and my American intelligence rebel. These parents do not fulfill their obligations to their children; they commit a breach of trust, a robbery and a crime.

Perhaps Mr. Schurz's estimate of the short comings of the German born parents who do not teach their children their own native tongue is a trifle too severe. It would undoubtedly be a great enrichment to the minds of these children, but the real offense is the demand of such neglectful parents that the city shall "compel" the study of German. It is for the parents to teach their children if they wish to be sure of their learning the language; and not try to impose a burden on the schools, which they themselves will not assume. The children have the opportunity to receive instruction in German. That opportunity is all that they have a right to.—Springfield Republican.

UTILITY OF PRAIRIE DOGS.

There are great excitement and indignation on the headwaters of the Minnecadua creek, in Cherry county, says the Omaha Bee, over the passage of a bill by the last Legislature designed to exterminate the prairie dog in Nebraska.

Louis Grosmentir, one of the earliest settlers on the Minnecadua creek, near Georgia, Neb., has for a number of years been training the inhabitants of a small prairie dog town upon his farm. As is well known, the most profitable crop that can be grown in that region is alfalfa. For the greatest success in growing alfalfa two things are necessary. First, that the roots of the alfalfa plant shall be infected with a certain fungus, and second, that the roots should be able to pierce the soil and reach the water beneath. Mr. Grosmentir made the important discovery a few years ago that this fungus is propagated by the prairie dog and carried by it in digging its burrows through the earth, and set himself to train his prairie dogs so as to prepare the ground for alfalfa culture. After four years of diligent application he has perfected his system so that his dogs not only infect the soil with fungus, but break through the hard pan in numerous places, so as to afford easy access for the alfalfa roots to the all-important water beneath.

It has just been made known that under the statute passed by the last Legislature these industrious redeemers of an arid region are condemned to death. Mr. Grosmentir is taking steps to test the law, and for that purpose will consult the most eminent counsel in the State.

TRANSVAAL MARRIAGE FEE.

The Anglican Synod at Pretoria has decided to press the new Government in the Transvaal to reduce the fee for native marriages from $15 to some more reasonable figure. Such a sum means a small fortune to the average native and naturally acts as a prohibitive agent in many cases. It is not often that the fees for marriages are used as revenue creators, but much was made of the system in Samoa some years ago under King Malleia's regime. The native young women of Apia are much given to marrying the sailors visiting the port, and the fee was fixed at $1. But the figure for a divorce was made $10, and as every sailor had to get divorced before his ship left or else provide for his wife there was often some embarrassment, generally got over by a temporary advance of pay from the captain.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Russell Sage's formula for getting rich is to "keep all you get, spend nothing, make only gilt-edge investments." Russell is a galoot. Suppose every fellow kept all he got and never spent anything, how would another fellow ever get rich?—Winnington (N. C.) Star.

THE REFORM EDITORS

HOW THEIR CASES APPEAL TO THE FOREIGN PRESS OF CHINA AND JAPAN—THE REAL ISSUES ARE THOSE THOSE BETWEEN CONSERVATISM AND PROGRESS—WHEREIN THE SEDITION LAY.

The following is the view taken of the case of the "reform editors" in Shanghai, about whom so much has been said in the cable dispatches, and on whose behalf the British and American governments have been memorialized by the Bow Wong Societies throughout the world, by the Chinese and Japanese foreign papers:

The "Supao" case is arousing some controversy in the model settlement. The "Supao" is the name of a Chinese newspaper to which some of the defendants, accused of seditious proceedings, belong. The case is being tried before the Mixed Court, in which sit foreign assessors, and foreign counsel have been retained for the prosecution. Naturally, this mustering on the side of the forces of tyranny, of men who belong to a country where political freedom is something more than nominal, even nowadays, is not welcome to those who would find in China emancipated from the thralldom of the Manchus, under which, to quote the N. C. Daily News, the law is barbarism tempered by venality. A good deal of the writing and speechifying dignified by the name of sedition appears to have been very poor stuff indeed, such as in England and America—in the old days—would have been treated with silent contempt. It would be dangerous to answer for the fate of those guilty of a similar agitation today, seeing that there is a strong party which, if it had its way, would gladly torture and slay every man, woman, and child that chanced to differ from itself. Nevertheless, the foreigner in the barbarous Orient can still, for purposes of reference, fan up quite a decent little fire of enthusiasm for the rights of the individual and of denunciation of the abominable methods of the government which controls him, as in Japan, and does not, as in China, where aliens enjoy the blessed privileges of extra-territoriality. The point of the controversy in Baron Munchausen's birthplace is whether the prisoners in the "Supao" case are deserving of sympathy or otherwise; as also whether it is within the rights of the foreign authorities interested to interfere for the protection of the defendants, in the event of their conviction. L'Echo de Chine takes the ground that China is China; the defendants have offended against the Chinese government and must accept the consequences entailed under Chinese law. It is also charged in the same quarter that the seditious utterances of the "Supao" are due to the influence of Protestant missionaries. It certainly appears more likely, as insisted by the N. C. Daily News, that whatever revolutionary tendencies are abroad amongst the rising generation in China are due to the influence and teachings of students, from and in Japan. It must further be admitted that as long as these influences are directed along the lines of constitutional reform, they are deserving of encouragement at the hands of those whose professions of a desire to see a regenerated China are sincere. The problem in this particular case is not easy, especially after all that has gone before in the way of coercion of the Chinese government. If it is the duty of foreign states to recognize the sovereign rights of China over her own nationals, how can they reconcile that duty with the forcible exaction of "leases" and "usufructs," in the sphere of which Chinese are amenable to foreign laws and regulations? What right, indeed, have foreign states to stay in China at all when their presence is entirely obnoxious to the rulers of the country? The truth is that the West has gone too far to boggle now over trifles, and the N. C. Daily News at least is not inconsistent when, as we read between the lines, it favors foreign intervention in the "Supao" case. Our contemporary, replying to the arguments already adverted to, contends that these "might well be used tomorrow to deprive Europeans in China of the privileges and protection of extraterritoriality; they might have been used in 1901 to prevent retribution falling on the chief culprits of the Boxer outrages; they might serve daily to justify Chinese officials in the slaughter of native Christians. Was the French government so delicate in observing the correct relation of native Christians to their government when the latter was made to pay compensation two years ago for their losses in three provinces? Are the sovereign rights of China, an absolutely negligible quantity in Shantung, Manchuria, Mongolia and other parts of China, to be quoted here, in the Model Settlement itself, as sufficient reason for ignoring every tradition of justice and fair play? Since when have the dignity of the Chinese government and the maintenance of its unimpaired authority become an object of tender solicitude to the European powers?" Since when, indeed? Were there a rational hope that the forces of reform could within our own day gain strength sufficient to bring about the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty and the substitution of a government modelled on Japanese lines, perhaps the powers—outside Russia—might do far worse than lend them a helping hand by protecting them, whenever possible, against the attacks of the present regime. Assuredly such a course would be far more in consonance with principles of absolute justice than the constant alienation of Chinese territory for purely selfish purposes. Of course even the encouragement of the elements of revolution may in some sense be termed selfish, since the reformers are pledged to abandon the traditional policy of exclusiveness, once and for all, so that foreign commerce might expect to benefit, but in the absence of sinister ulterior motives, there would be this important difference that, although the encouragement of revolution might involve a chance of dynasty, it would or should still imply China for the Chinese. As far as the merits of this concrete case are concerned, it is deemed undeniable that, had the seditious-mongers refrained from advising the retirement of the Empress-Dowager on a life pension—think of them!—the prosecution would never have taken place. The N. C. Daily News defines the "Supao" proceedings as "a test case in which all the forces of conservatism are arrayed against the expression of public opinion. That the persons directly responsible for the "Supao" have escaped from the settlement is well known; the present defendants, with the exception of two foolish pamphleteers, are, we believe, entirely unconnected with journalism. Even if that were not so, it should be borne in mind that the main tenet of the doctrine which has incurred the wrath of Peking, is that the Chinese official class is corrupt, and needs reformation: a doctrine which finds support with every European individual or nation that is not interested in maintaining the administration's rottenness, and which is urged at intervals in Imperial decrees."—Japan Daily Advertiser.

PEDRO ALVARADO DEAD.

Associated Press, Morning Service.
CHIHUAHUA, Sonora, Mexico, Aug. 18.—Senor Pedro Alvarado, once a peon, has died here leaving an estate of 85 million dollars.

The phenomenal richness of the Palmillo mine has long attracted the attention of the entire mining world. This mine was discovered about four years ago by Pedro Alvarado, a Mexican peon, who was at that time employed as a workman in a mine there at fifty cents a day. He owned the Palmillo and was probably the richest man in the world. It is believed to be the richest mine in the world.

The American Smelting and Refining Company, through its Mexican branch, the Guggenheim Exploration Company, has just made an unsuccessful effort to purchase his mine. The agent of the great mining corporation approached Alvarado with a proposition that its mining expert, John Hays Hammond, be permitted to inspect the mine. To this Alvarado replied:

"Let the Guggenheims name a price for all their interests in Mexico and if I find that it is reasonable, after they are examined by my men, I will buy them. I am buying mines, not selling."

Alvarado had nearly 1000 burros carrying bullion from his mine to the railroad. How much he took out of it no one knows—possibly not even Pedro Alvarado. At the works of the Palmillo mine he had a steel cage in which are bars of gold and silver to the estimated value of $60,000,000.

Alvarado recently offered to pay the public debt of Mexico as a donation to the Government. His offer was rejected by Minister of Finance Limantour. He lived in a palace, which he recently completed near Parral, and when he visited the town he always was accompanied by an armed bodyguard of twenty-five men.

JAIL DELIVERY IN SHANGHAI

FOUR AMERICAN PRISONERS IN THE BRITISH CONSULAR JAIL AT SHANGHAI, LED BY A NEGRO BREAK OUT, CLOTHE AND PROVIDE THEMSELVES WITH MONEY AND MAKE THEIR ESCAPE.

Americans seem to lead in jail deliveries in the Orient, just as they do in California and Montana. The Japan Daily Advertiser says: Four Americans have managed to escape from the British Consular Gaol at Shanghai. The Mercury reports that two of them were serving a long sentence for burglary committed in Bubbling Well Road. They were on the point of being sent to the States to complete their sentence. The prisoners are named Langford, Ward, Brown and Konkel. It will be remembered that two of them escaped last Christmas Eve, but were recaptured within 24 hours asleep in a pavilion in the Recreation Ground.

Langford, a negro, it is believed, again planned the whole affair managed in some way to secure a screw driver or some similar instrument and by thrusting his hand out through the bars of his cell he unscrewed the lock of the door, after which he proceeded to do the same to the cells of the others. They confined their attention next to the Chinese warder, whom they bound and gagged. One of the men said "let's kill him," but the others prevented him from carrying out his purpose. After securing the warder's keys they made a raid on a box containing clothing, with which they fitted themselves out, they also took away a bag containing a small amount of money. Reaching the prison yard they found some ropes and a ladder handy for their purpose and with which they got over the wall and found themselves at liberty. It is believed that they are now in the vicinity of Joesfield and it will not be long before they are again in custody. They are a very desperate gang and no doubt will not surrender without a struggle.

WANT PUBLIC LANDS.

Land Commissioner E. S. Boyd says that he has received a number of calls lately from land seekers who had previously written him and received in reply the circulars prepared for that purpose. The visitors usually introduced themselves by stating that they had previously written and received circulars in reply. They were furnished with lists of the available homestead lands, and presumably set out to see them. Not much can be done in public land matters, it is stated, until the meetings of the executive council are resumed.

LOUISA GOT VERY EXCITED

THOUGHT SHE HAD TO SERVE
TIME—CAUSED SCENE IN POLICE COURT—ALARMED NEW JUDGE.

Louisa Teata created quite a scene in the district court this morning. It was the first time that the new district magistrate Judge A. Lindsay, had presided over the police court, and she certainly made the proceedings interesting enough.

She was charged with vagrancy. The court questioned the woman and came to the conclusion that while she was not living quite as regular and laborious a life as she might, still there were extenuating circumstances that might indicate that she might reform and do better. He suspended sentence for six months. As soon as the woman heard the words "six months," she thought she had been sent over to serve that time in jail, so she was disconsolate.

She looked at the judge a moment, flung a passionate glance out of the window at the bright air of freedom, then gave a little wiggle, then a bigger wiggle, then a multitude of wiggles, then convulsions that terminated in an ear splitting if not heart rending yelp. "Oh My, Oh My" she howled. "Oh, This is awful."

Judge Lindsay started in astonishment. He probably regretted having come to preside over such a place. He looked scared. Even Deputy High Sheriff Chillingworth was astonished. He had never seen such a performance in the police court before. Officer Willie Vida rushed forward and grabbed hold of Louisa, but she gave a couple of wild, abandoned wiggles and Willie retreated. Court Officer Dan Renear led the limp and convulsing female to a chair. She thought she had to go to jail.

"Water" she gasped in a moment of desperation. "What's the matter Louisa" soothingly asked Renear. "Why don't you go home. The court did not give you six months. He suspended sentence."

But the reassuring words of Renear did not altogether quiet the woman. Some of the hardened officers declared she was trying to work her self into a fit and faint. She was taken below to the police station to await until she had calmed down sufficient, to go forth a free woman.

edicts, but the anti-reform movement continues threatening even in the case of Viceroy Chan Chung, who remains hostile to Russian influence.

HIS WIFE ALL HIS ESTATE

MRS. HAPAI AN INCOME PRODUCER AND ALL THE PROPERTY HAPAI HAD.

The divorce suit of Annie Hapai vs. Charles L. Hapai came up before Judge De Bolt this morning. The libelles appearing for himself without counsel and Mrs. Hapai being represented by Henry Hogan. The hearing was on a motion for an order to secure the woman's clothing, which Hapai was alleged to be holding from her, but it turned out that he was willing to give it up. The complaint charges that Hapai took everything in sight and also accuses him of cruelty, and Hapai started to answer the charges but was told by the court that he could do that when the entire case came up.

Mrs. Hapai testified in answer to questions that she was all the property Hapai had. "Has he any property besides you?" asked Hogan, and the witness replied in the negative.

It appeared that Mrs. Hapai was revenue-producing property, for she said that she had earned enough by sewing for Hapai to live on during the past year. She is living now with Mrs. Benoit, a friend on Vineyard street, and came into court to get her clothes and her marriage certificate, which are in trunks in Hapai's house.

"She left me, I don't know why," said Hapai. "She was ill in the hospital and the day before she was to leave the hospital I saw her and thought she was coming home. I waited the next day but she didn't come and I haven't seen her since until now." Hapai said that Mrs. Benoit came the next day with a letter, asking for some pillow cases and signed by his wife, but that it was not for the clothes. He was willing to deliver the clothes and the marriage certificate he told Judge De Bolt.

Hapai testified that he was busted and out of work, but the court made an order that he pay the costs of the suit. An order was also made that he turn over all Mrs. Hapai's personal clothing to her and refrain from selling or disposing of any of the household goods until the end of the case.

ANTI MOSQUITO MEETING.
A meeting of the anti-mosquito committee is being held this afternoon at the board of health office, to discuss plans for taking up the campaign against mosquitoes. The members of the committee have organized and decided to take up the actual work at once and a large force of men will probably be put at work on the proposition.

NEW SCHOOL BUILDINGS.
Superintendent of Public Instruction has plans drawn by W. E. Pinkham, architect, for an addition to the High school and for a commercial school building. Both are to be built from the loan fund if the bonds are approved.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATIONS.
Examinations of applicants for teachers' certificates will begin tomorrow morning at the High School. There are forty or fifty applications already and it is expected that more will attend.

DEMOCRATS REORGANIZE.
The Democratic Central Committee held a meeting last night for the purpose of reorganizing the committee. One member resigned, and six others who had left the territory, or joined some other party were dropped from membership. The chairman, C. J. McCarthy was instructed and empowered to fill the seven vacancies thus created, and to report the same to a meeting to be called in the future.

INFORMATION ABOUT BONDS.
Governor Dole has sent to Washington a statement showing the financial condition of the Territory and giving other information desired in connection with President Roosevelt's approval of the proposed Hawaiian loan.

TO EWA TO PROSECUTE.
Deputy High Sheriff Chillingworth went to Ewa this morning for the purpose of conducting the prosecution of Mizka a Japanese wrestler who is charged with assault and battery on three countrymen. The attack on the men is alleged to have been very brutal. Mizka escaped arrest and was able to elude the service of the warrant for several months. He was captured by the Honolulu police several days ago and is now being tried.
