BATTLESHIP FLEET WENT SOUTH AT SUNDOWN

BATTLESHIPS GETTING UNDER WAY.

—Advertiser Photo.

Crowds Watched Fighting Machines Swing Into Line and Start for New Zealand.

"Up Anchors!"
So read the signal pennants hoisted beneath the Admiral's blue two-starred flag aboard the flagship Connecticut at six o'clock last evening.

Instantly the anchor chains of fifteen battleships began moving upward through the bow vents, and presently a flag was hoisted to the fore on each vessel announcing to Admiral Sperry that the warships were under way.

And so began the voyage of the great battleship armada to the South Seas. And with the bow of the flagship pointing toward the waters beneath the Southern Cross, came the farewell to the people of Honolulu and the Hawaiian Islands in general.

The departure of the fleet, fifteen out of the sixteen warships, for the Minnesota remained behind to receive the fleet mails arriving today from the Coast, was witnessed by a large crowd on shore, while the reception committee with the Hawaiian band paid their respects to the officers and men by going out on the U. S. tug Iroquois and serenading each ship. The Iroquois wound its way among the anchored fleet, the band playing popular airs, until six o'clock. All eyes had been centered on the flagship Connecticut lying farthest to the south. Then the signal flags fluttered and the anchors were hoisted.

So silently was the maneuver of falling into line behind the flagship executed that some moments elapsed before the spectators were aware that the fleet was really in motion. But soon the bows began turning southward, and, as the flagship took up speed, other vessels slowly swung along, some two abreast and others in tandem. Then seven vessels comprising the first squadron were seen to swing into single column formation. To the westward, from the various anchorages, eight other warships began taking up a line formation. By 6:30 o'clock the first squadron had maneuvered into exact column position, and the second division vanishing fell in behind the others trailing gradually into line. At 6:40 the entire fleet was in single column formation, the Connecticut fast losing her identity as she sped on toward the horizon. At 7 o'clock the fleet was well on its way, the band

INTERNATIONAL BASEBALL PRODUCES COMPLICATIONS

The Keio baseball team has filed a protest with the baseball trustees, asking that the game with the Diamond Heads played last Sunday, and which was won by the latter, be declared off, and that it be ordered played over again. Back of this simple announcement there is considerable of a story and a good deal of feeling. It all centers about Bert Bower, the umpire. Bower has umpired all the league games for several years past, and been so fair and used such good judgment that such a thing as questioning his decisions has been almost unthought of.

Since the international series between the Keios, the Santa Claras and the local league teams began, however, there has been a growing feeling among spectators, both off and on the field, that Bower was not up to form. In fact a number of his decisions were rank. There was no suggestion of favoritism, however, his off decisions being quite as frequently against the local teams as against the visitors. Among local people who have watched Bower's work closely, there is absolute faith in his strict impartiality, but his somewhat erratic decisions upon several

FREAR APPOINTS THE NEW LAND COMMISSION

Governor Frear has appointed an Advisory Land Law Commission. This commission is to take into consideration the whole subject of the laws of the Territory in relation to public lands and to report such changes in details or principles as they shall be satisfied would serve the interests of the Territory.

Their recommendations will be in the shape of proposals for the amendment by Congress of our land laws, and such changes as may be made by our Legislature if it shall be found to have legislative powers on the subject.

The commission may, if it sees fit, make suggestions and recommendations in regard to the administration of the land laws.

The commission is as follows: A. Lewis, Jr., W. A. Kinney, Alfred W. Carter, Carl S. Smith, S. M. Kanakani, Joseph P. Cooke, and William B. Thomas.

"I had intended at first," said Governor Frear, "to make the commission five. But I have concluded to enlarge it to seven. It will, I hope, be able to report by the end of November, and I shall take its report, and any dissenting opinions, if there are any, with me to Washington, if I go, for presentation to Congress."

POWERFUL CRUISER BRINGS BRITISH PRINCE

(Associated Press Cablegram.)

QUEBEC, Canada, July 23.—The Prince of Wales, who comes to take part in the celebration of the three hundredth anniversary of the landing of Champlain at the site of the present city of Quebec, arrived yesterday on board the British first-class cruiser Indomitable. The arriving warship was saluted by the ten warships representing that many nations lying in the stream, the royal salute being fired. On landing the Prince was greeted by 50,000 people.

The Indomitable is one of the latest built cruisers of the British navy. She is of the Inflexible class, and has a normal displacement of 17,250. She has a speed of 27 knots, and carries eight 12-inch guns, twice as many as the U. S. S. Connecticut, while she is 106 feet longer than the American flagship.

NEWPORT, Rhode Island, July 22.—President Roosevelt addressed the Naval Conference here today, one hundred naval officers attending to discuss plans for projected battleships for which Congress made appropriations at the last session.

In his address President Roosevelt made a strong appeal for a hard-hitting, effective navy, a navy that can strike telling blows.

He declared that he believed in the restriction of immigration to the United States and in the ability of the United States to uphold the right in any cause.

The President went on to say that the cruise of the Atlantic fleet around South America was a great object lesson of the reality of the Monroe Doctrine.

FELICITATIONS AND GREETINGS EXCHANGED

The following are the letters exchanged between Admiral Sperry of the Atlantic fleet and Governor Frear, on the departure of the fleet. The Admiral expresses the appreciation the fleet feels for the hospitality experienced here, and Governor Frear speaks of what the fleet has done for the American and patriotic spirit here. The following are the letters:

Office of the Commander-in-Chief, United States Atlantic Fleet, U. S. S. Connecticut, Flagship,
Honolulu, T. H., July 22, 1908.
His Excellency, the Governor of Hawaii.

Sir: On the eve of departure of the United States Atlantic Fleet, I wish to express to you and through you to the people of Honolulu and of the Territory of Hawaii the sincere appreciation of the officers and men of the fleet for the kindly and courteous hospitality extended to them throughout their visit. The courteous and fair treatment shown the enlisted men of the fleet is especially gratifying to me and cannot fail to engender pride in the uniform and add to the contentment of the enlisted personnel thereby producing a lasting and beneficial effect upon the Naval service.

Very respectfully,
C. S. SPERRY,
Rear Admiral, U. S. Navy.

Commander-in-Chief, United States Atlantic Fleet.

Executive Chamber,
Honolulu, Hawaii, July 22, 1908.
Rear Admiral C. S. Sperry, Commander-in-Chief, United States Atlantic Fleet, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Sir: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of this date, expressing, on the departure of the United States Atlantic Fleet, the appreciation of the officers and men of the fleet for the hospitality extended to them during their visit and your special gratification at the treatment shown the enlisted men of the fleet.

I wish to express to you, for the people of this city and of the Territory, their sincere appreciation of this very kind expression from you. What little we have done has been done from the heart, and we feel that we have been more than repaid by the courtesy and kindness of yourself and the officers and men of the fleet. The presence of the fleet in these waters has done much to stir the pride and patriotism of the American citizens of this Territory and assist them in the important task that they have of building up American ideals in these islands, as well as to make closer the already close relations between the people of Hawaii and the American Navy.

Very respectfully,
W. F. FREAR,
Governor of Hawaii.

Some of the Amenities

Admiral Sperry of the Atlantic fleet yesterday received the following letter from the Executive Committee of the Fleet Entertainment Committee:

The Fleet Entertainment Committee, on behalf of the citizens of the Territory, desire to express to Admiral C. S. Sperry, the admirals, officers and the enlisted men of the Atlantic fleet, the pleasure afforded the citizens by the visit of the ships to the Territory and their high appreciation of the uniform gentlemanly conduct and bearing of each individual member of the fleet's crew during the time of their visit to this city.

(Signed) GEORGE R. CARTER,
Chairman Executive Committee.

THE ADMIRAL'S APPRECIATION.

"On the eve of the departure of the United States Atlantic fleet, I wish to express to the people of Honolulu and of the Territory of Hawaii the sincere appreciation of the officers and men of the fleet for the kindly and courteous hospitality extended to them throughout their visit.

"The courteous and fair treatment shown the enlisted men of the fleet is especially gratifying to me, and can not fail to engender pride in the uniform and add to the contentment of the enlisted personnel, thereby producing a lasting and beneficial effect upon the naval service."

GEORGIA COMMANDER PREDICTS GREAT THINGS

Enthusiasm over the Pearl Harbor project was in evidence among the officers of the Atlantic fleet after their inspection of the locks, and there were many predictions of what would be in store for Honolulu when the works there at the new naval station were well under way.

Just how much the installation of repair shops, drydock and the other proposed improvements for the projected naval station will mean to Honolulu was prophesied on Tuesday to a member of the Chamber of Commerce by Captain Qualtrough of the battleship Georgia, who stated that it was his belief that before long the Pearl Harbor station would be of such importance that the annual supplies alone would mean the expenditure of an amount approximating five million dollars.

aboard the Iroquois had played Aloha Oe and Auld Lang Syne, and the great fleet week in Honolulu had come to a pleasant and historic end.

The departure of the fleet had its phases of excitement and interest even as its arrival had. The spectators were amazed at the ease with which fifteen great ships of war, lying at anchorages almost as intricate as the proverbial mess of eels, could get under way and steam into a prescribed formation, and all within half an hour. There was no hurrying of one vessel to catch up, or of another lagging. Each vessel got under way and steamed along steadily in the general direction toward which the flagship had started, and, presto, after a brief closing of one's eyes there was the great armada in a single line, symmetrically perfect.

While the Iroquois was cruising about the warships many alohas were shouted from the little vessel, and in response came the waving of caps and here and there cheers. As the Kentucky was passed the band, at the request of L. Tenney Peck, played "My Old Kentucky Home," and cheers followed. Mr. Peck said that when the fleet arrived last week, the captain of the Kentucky was so enraptured with the rendition of "My Old Kentucky Home" by Berger's band as it played from the deck of the Mauna Loa, that he had the battleship's band assembled on the quarterdeck, and when Berger had finished the captain said to the marine musicians, "There, that is the way to play My Old Kentucky Home." As the Virginia was passed "Dixie" was played, and cheers answered.

All the time the fleet was getting under way daylight fireworks were displayed and the air was filled with little balloons transporting in mid-air American and Japanese flags. The daylight fireworks were an attraction in themselves, and quite a compliment on the part of the Japanese toward the fleet.

The warships inside the harbor began moving to the outside anchorage yesterday at 2:30 p. m., when the flagship Connecticut cast off her moorings promptly at that hour. As the great vessel backed into the basin an immense crowd assembled ashore to watch the maneuver. The vessel backed until off the Alakea street wharf, when

Pilot Macaulay began turning the vessel about. Exclamations of admiration were heard on all sides as the huge vessel gracefully swung entirely about as if resting on a central pivot. The vessel's position appeared not to move a foot. When her bow was pointing seaward, she gathered headway and steamed outside. As the flagship passed each vessel bands played the Star Spangled Banner in honor of the Commander-in-Chief. The Wisconsin was the last to leave the harbor.

At 8 o'clock last night the sky was suddenly illuminated by shafts of light from the searchlights of the fleet. The all-penetrating shafts lighted up the clouds, and when lowered picked up the mountains. They criss-crossed and braided, and altogether made a beautiful spectacle. The lights were so powerful that when the reflectors were turned full in into one's eyes it was an almost blinding glare. The searchlight drill attracted general attention in town. At first it was thought that the Minnesota was playing her lights on the shore scenery, but they were from the fleet sure enough. Then at 8:15 the arrangement of searchlights at the rear of the fleet showed that the fleet was traveling in two columns, the battleships of the rearguard only using searchlights.

FAME.

The incumbent of an old church in Wales asked a party of Americans to visit his parochial school. After a recitation he invited them to question the scholars and one of the party accepted the invitation. "Little boy," said he to a rosy-faced lad, "can you tell me who George Washington was?" "Iss, surr," was the smiling reply. "E was a 'Merican gen'ral." "Quite right. And can you tell me what George Washington was remarkable for?" "Iss, surr. 'E was remarkable 'cos 'e was a 'Merican an' told the trewth." The rest was silence.—Cassell's Journal.

occasions had put the Japanese team and its supporters, into a frame of mind where they were prepared to be suspicious, and when, on Saturday last, a Japanese batter made a long hit and a home run, the team and the Japanese in the crowd rose up and howled when Bower ruled the runner out, for not having touched first base in making the circuit. There seems to be no doubt that Bower was right as to the fact that the runner did not touch his base, and his ruling was therefore correct; but the Japanese team would not have it, and for a while it looked as though their supporters might rough house the umpire in good American style. After some argument and persuasion, the Keios were prevailed upon to resume the game, and came out winners, in spite of the loss of the home run.

On Sunday Bower's judgment appeared to have been buffaloed, and he

as the Diamond Heads were playing in great form; but they chose to stand on their technical rights.

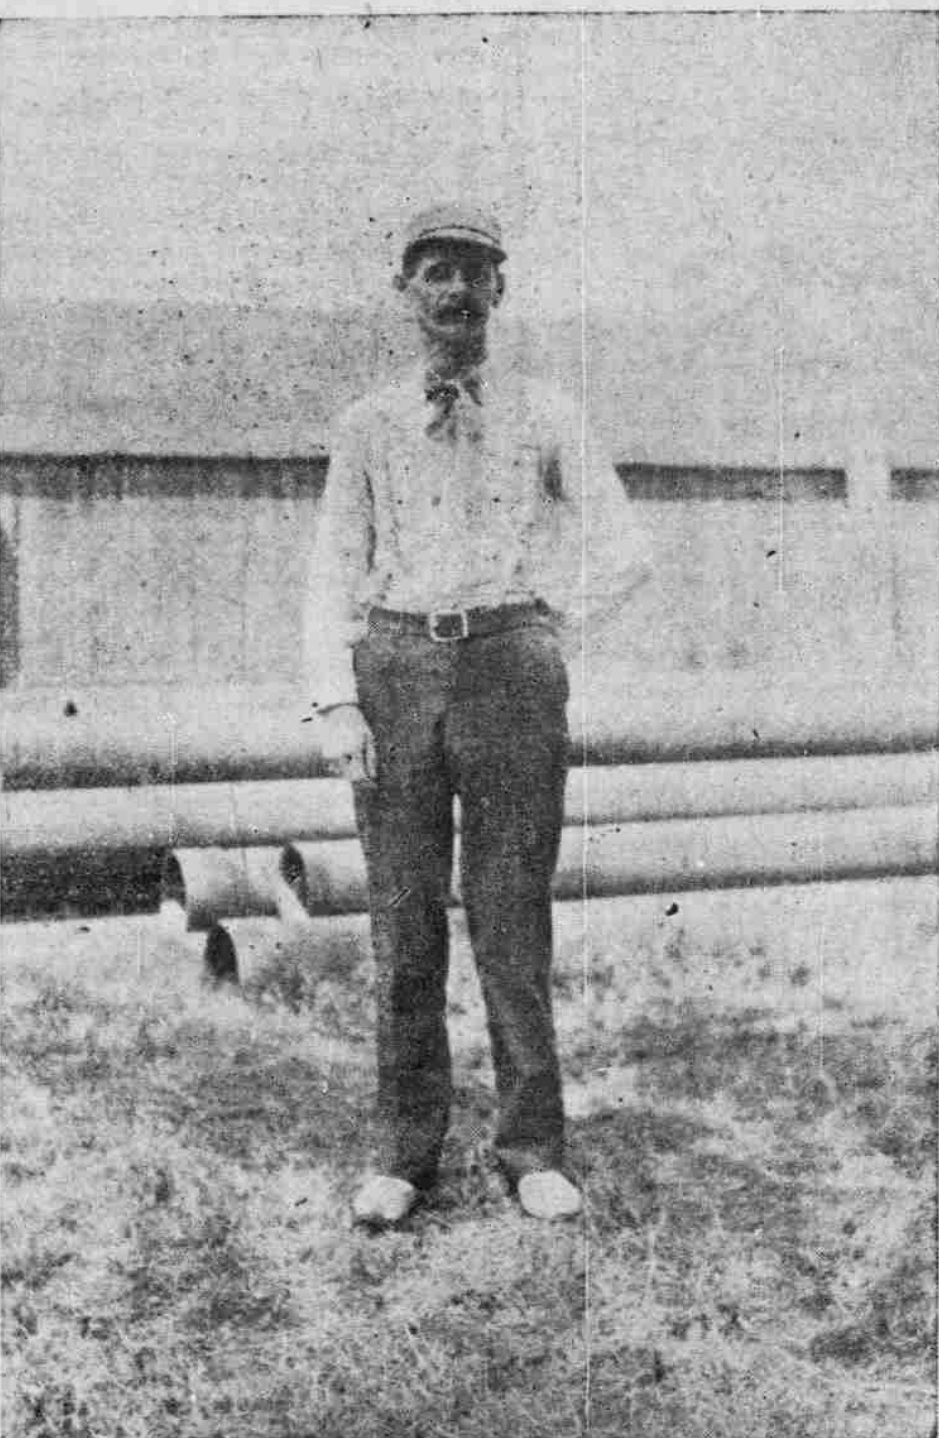

After the game was over, however, the feeling was so strong that an injustice had been done to the Keios, that the matter was considered by the officers of the league, and the outcome was that Bower has resigned.

The Keios expressed a wish that the remaining games might be played with two umpires, one to judge the balls and the other the fielding.

This practise has not been followed in Honolulu, for some years; but to meet the wishes of the visitors, the league complied, and has appointed Mr. Albright and Mr. Steere as umpires. It was hoped that this would satisfy the Keios, but not so. They have lodged the protest and appeal, above noted, with the trustees, and persist in the request that it be heard.

What the trustees can do in the matter is not plain. The judgment of the umpire in matters of this kind is final, and not subject to appeal.

Meanwhile the Japanese press has been stirring up matters by making disagreeable insinuations that the Japa-

EX-UMPIRE BERT BOWER.

made several rank decisions, without discrimination, however, as between the teams. Finally, in the game between the Keios and the Diamond Heads, the Keios being at the bat, they had a runner on third, and two strikes had been called against the batter. A squeeze play was signaled for, and the runner accordingly ran for home. The batter struck at the ball and made a foul tip. This entitled the runner to return to third base. Right here is where the trouble came in. Bower neither saw nor heard the foul, and called it a strike. Under these circumstances the catcher, who held the ball, touched the runner as he came in, and Bower called him out.

If the pitched ball was a strike, the decision was right, and the runner out. If the pitched ball was a foul, the decision was wrong.

From the evidence of a large number of spectators, including members of the Diamond Head team, Bower's judgment was at fault, the batter having in fact made a foul and not a strike. Naturally the Keios went up in the air, and their supporters voiced their sentiments like a Japanese dictionary having forty fits. Bower declined to change his ruling, however, and baseball law is such that the umpire is the sole and final judge of questions involving judgment as to facts. The Keios went on with the game, but in a listless and dispirited manner and lost it by a heavy score.

The general feeling on the ground, at the time, and now is, that the Diamond Heads, knowing, or having reason to know, that the decision of the umpire in their favor was a mistake, should then and there have waived the point. It would have been a sportsmanlike thing to do; a courteous and generous treatment of a team which is here as the guests of the Honolulu League, and would in any event have probably made no difference in the final results, nese team is being discriminated against on race lines, and threats are being made from Japanese sources that if the trustees do not order the game to be played over again, the Japanese will boycott the remainder of the series of games.

Meanwhile the whole kettle of fish has been passed up to the baseball trustees, Messrs. Paul Isenberg, H. M. Whitney, L. A. Thurston, Charley Chillingworth and J. M. Dowsett, and a meeting has been called for Friday morning, to consider the matter.

A DUMMY'S LONG WALK.

Walking day and night, without a single stop, a dummy soldier is taking 100,000 steps every twenty-four hours in an endurance test to determine the life of several new cartridge belts which are under consideration by the board of ordnance and fortification of the army. The dummy's tour of duty is at the Rock Island (Ill.) arsenal. The dummy is the size of an average soldier. By a special mechanical apparatus it is made to walk, with the guidance of a wire cable, as though on sentry duty, in a circle in one end of a hall. The mechanism is such as to give the dummy the same motion as would be experienced by the average soldier in walking. About the waist of the figure are strapped the various belts, one at a time, which are being tested. Each is filled with the regulation number of rounds of service cartridges, the principal test being made with the sharp-nose bullet, to determine how long it will take for these to wear through the pockets of the belts.

Boxing as a Sport

By Rev. E. W. Thwing.

The Rev. Mr. Thwing was one of the interested spectators the other night of the boxing event at the Fishmarket, and, at the request of the Advertiser, he gives his views of the sport as follows:

"Neither personally nor on behalf of the Ministerial Union have I been working to prevent boxing as true sport. I was invited, with Judge Dole, by the chairman of the Fleet Athletic Committee to witness the boxing contests at the fishmarket Tuesday evening, where no admission was charged and no prizes offered. For myself I do not care for that kind of sport but I can not rightly object to any one else enjoying it as long as it is carried on legally. The 'manly art' as long as it remains 'manly,' may be much enjoyed. Prizefighting as a business is degrading and injurious. The contests I saw seemed to be conducted in a sportsmanlike way. There were no knockouts or bloody appearance, and the boys seemed to be having a friendly bout. I was glad to meet Lient. Weaver, who is in charge of the fleet athletics, and asked him his opinion as to the difference between 'boxing' and 'prizefighting.' He said: 'It is the boxing for money that makes prizefighting.' It is the desire to make money that kills the sport and leads to brutality, and to fights that are against the law. I shall still work against those kinds of contests. But I am not against boxing as real honest sport. Without the money part it will trouble no one. With the money factor you cannot control it."

Short and Sweet

The Cherman Kegel Klub of Lihue bowled gloriously on the 18th. Steins, clocks and bridges were the prizes offered besides the C. M. Cooke cup which went to C. Maser.

When Sailor Roberts, "Honolulu's Pride," bucked up against the little lad from the battleship the other evening he must have thought that it wouldn't show fraternal feeling to dump his brother seaman—that is, if he had a chance to think.

Every other jackie was a graduate of the University of Podunk, to hear him hand out the guff.

Rae Soares, "sporting writer," has decided to climb the steps that lead to higher knowledge. He will have to be shown in the future, for Missouri's state institution was his destination when he left on the Aorangi last evening.

Eben Low has lost money on his Wild West project from beginning to end. The crowds didn't take to the antics of wild buckaroos in Hawaii. Baseball was a detracting feature.

Speaking of baseball, there will be keen competition at the park Saturday and Sunday. The visitors took a brace in last Saturday's games, even though so good a showing was not made the following day.

Charles Albright has been selected as one of the baseball umpires to take Bert Bower's place. Eddie Fernandez will probably also act in Saturday's games.

She—If a man loves his wife as much as she loves him, he will stop wasting his money on cigars if she asks him. He—Yes, but if his wife loves him as much as she ought to love a man who loves her enough to stop it if she asks him, she won't ask him.—Puck.

CHINESE BASEBALLISTS WANT TO TRY THE KEIOS

Chinese baseballists have been keenly watching the series of international games that have been going on here between the Santa Clara aggregation, the Keio College team and the local league, and they have arrived at the conclusion that they are able to do things to the Japs.

A challenge has been issued, a full copy of which is given below, by the captain of the Chinese Athletic Club team to the Keio ball-tossers. The language used is significant: It is not a request for a game—it is a def.

Whether or not the boys from Nippon will accept the challenge is not known as yet, but it is probable that a game will be arranged as soon as the regular series has been finished. The challenge reads as follows: Honolulu, T. H., July 22nd, 1908. Mr. M. Koyama, Captain Keio Baseball Team, City.

Dear Sir: The undersigned, captain of the baseball team of the Chinese Athletic Club, hereby challenges the Keio team to a game of baseball to be played after the regular series of the Triangle League or at such time to be arranged.

Trusting to receive a favorable reply from you as soon as possible, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,

YOU WILL NOT

be deceived. That there are cheats and frauds in plenty everybody knows; but it is seldom or never that any large business house is guilty of them, no matter what line of trade it follows. There can be no permanent success of any kind based on dishonesty or deception. There never was, and never will be. The men who try that are simply fools and soon come to grief, as they deserve. Now many persons are, nevertheless, afraid to buy certain advertised articles lest they be humbugged and deluded; especially are they slow to place confidence in published statements of the merits of medicines. The effective modern remedy known as WAMPOLE'S PREPARATION is as safe and genuine an article to purchase as flour, silk or cotton goods from the mills of manufacturers with a world-wide reputation. We could not afford to exaggerate its qualities or misrepresent it in the least; and it is not necessary. It is palatable as honey and contains the nutritive and curative properties of Pure Cod Liver Oil, extracted by us from fresh cod livers, combined with the Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites and the Extracts of Malt and Wild Cherry; and how valuable such a blending of these important medicinal agents must be is plain to everybody. It is beyond price in Insomnia, Anemia, Weakness and lack of Nervous Tone, Poor Digestion, Lung Troubles and Blood Impurities. Science can furnish nothing better—perhaps nothing so good. Dr. W. H. Dafe, of Canada, says: "I have used it in my practice and take pleasure in recommending it as a valuable tonic and reconstructive." It is a remedy that can afford to appeal to its record and represents the science and knowledge of bright and aggressive medical investigation. "One bottle convinces." At chemists.

THE Pacific Commercial Advertiser

A MORNING PAPER.

WALTER G. SMITH EDITOR

THURSDAY JULY 23

A DIZZY WEEK.

The town will soon begin to wonder whether it was all a touch of delirium, of which this is the convalescence, or whether it actually took place. Ordinarily Honolulu is a big, easy-going village, sleepy as compared with mainland places of the same size, a village where stores close early and business streets are nearly deserted after nine o'clock. But whiz! bang! ahl! In came the battleship fleet, lights flashed like a prismatic star shower, the waterfront became a great white way; far into night more people than Honolulu ever saw before surged through the streets, and Be Joyful was the standing countersign. The Advertiser in its fifty-three years of life on this soil has seen many local spectacles, both peaceful and revolutionary, but it never saw a Honolulu like the one of the past few days. But for the hunting that still flies, the whole thing would even now seem unreal. A week hence it will look like an iridescent vision, something born of laughing gas.

THE BASEBALL SITUATION.

If the facts concerning last Sunday's baseball game between the Keios and the Diamond Heads, as they are reported to the Advertiser and published in another column, are correct, there is just one sportsmanlike course for the Diamond Heads to pursue, and that is to waive the decision given in their favor and agree to play the game over again.

It seems that Umpire Bower mistakenly judged a foul, calling it a strike, which resulted in the putting out of a Keio runner who otherwise would not have been out. There is no question but that Bower was sincere in his belief that a strike had been made, but the evidence is so strong, including a number of the Diamond Head team themselves, that there can be little, if any, doubt that the umpire made a mistake. Under these circumstances the Diamond Heads have the technical right to claim the benefit of the umpire's decision; but they have not the moral right to do so. It is not sportsmanlike. The Hawaiian Baseball League does not consist of professionals, out for coin, and to win at all hazards. It consists of amateurs, whose motto should be "May the best team win." They should be above taking advantage of a mistaken decision in their favor, knowing it to be mistaken.

On the other hand, the Japanese press should know better than to try to stir up race feeling by insinuating that the Japanese team cannot get justice here. This is a good opportunity for them to put into practice some of the yearning which has been so freely expressed of late, to do something to demonstrate their affection for the "countrymen of Commodore Perry," instead of trying to stir up trouble.

Honolulu prides itself on the cleanness of its baseball games, and the fact that an unfortunate error in judgment was made by an umpire who is usually a model of correctness forms no sufficient basis for a charge of race prejudice or intentional unfairness.

THE PLEA OF CONFISCATION.

Apropos of the appeal made by a brewer in one of the local papers some time ago against the effort to abolish saloons, basing his argument on the ground that no one has the right to assail vested interests, it is worth noting how the people of the State of New York regarded that plea when anti-race-track gambling legislation came before them for approval.

It is estimated by the Philadelphia North American that 400,000 people in the United States and $100,000,000 of property were adversely affected by that one law. Of this the people of New York were fully informed. Yet they upheld the hands of Hughes, and, knowing the good and evil that had come of a sport once universally approved, they chose deliberately to force the passage of the law against monumental political and moneyed pressure.

"That estimate of destruction of values in one State is a fair offset to the total calculation of loss in the whole country by the liquor people, in the event of universal prohibition."

As this is merely the result in New York State alone, the widespread anti-gambling victories throughout the country make a total "confiscation" of property which the North American says "is well nigh fabulous." The possible loss of the liquor folk, even by their own computation of the result of absolute national prohibition, which no one now seriously contemplates as an immediate happening, is trifling by comparison.

In conclusion the North American points out the remarkable parallel in this "confiscation" of gamblers' property, and exclaims:

"In every respect, from the standpoint of the brewer and distiller, this is an outrage. If a man has a right to drink whenever and wherever he pleases, he has the same right to wager. A vested right in a brewery or distillery is just as sacred, and not more so, than the investment of a track-owner."

"Yet the Legislatures of twelve States and the Congress of the United States, in the case of the Benning track, have exercised the right to depreciate property the use of which impairs the general welfare."

The simple truth is, in Honolulu as elsewhere, that people who invest their money in nuisances, in vice, or in any offensive form of business do so at their own risk and without recourse in law or logic against those who oppose such undertakings on grounds of public policy.

The Advertiser felt that the public would appreciate a large pictorial paper daily during fleet week better than a single statistical number at the start, to be followed by the usual issue. So, for six days running this journal has appeared in 16-page form, making a total fleet edition of 96 pages, set in small-faced type and clearly and opportunely illustrated. We are told by visiting correspondents and naval men that no paper in the new American empire, so far as they know, has ever approximated these six papers in size, accuracy, pictorial embellishment and attractive writing. Many Honolulu people have been sending these publications away in sets or preserving them for future reference. The can be bound lightly in Manila paper for those who desire them that way, or efficiently bound, at no great expense, in boards.

A suggestion has been made in an Auckland paper, with a view of commemorating the visit of the fleet in a permanent form, that a group of oaks or other suitable variety of trees, corresponding in number to the battleships of the American fleet, be planted in a conspicuous part of the domain or park during the stay of the visitors in Auckland. Each tree could be named after one of the ships and planted by an officer of that vessel. A name-plate could be affixed to the protecting railing in each case, and in course of time, as the trees grew sufficiently large, the plate could be transferred to the trunk itself.

Some months ago Sheriff Iaukea announced that he would not run for Sheriff again, a statement which he has lately confirmed. The decision caused regret among those who realized how nearly ideal his administration had been, and he may be quite sure that the popular strength he has rolled up will make it difficult, should he take part as a candidate in any of the contests of the future, to run a man successfully against him. Sheriff Iaukea is an honor to his race and his party, and has earned respect even for the enemies he has made.

The departure of the fleet at sunset last evening was a fine spectacle of orderly and disciplined maneuvering. Seen from a high point, where the decks of each receding ship could be viewed through a glass, the scene was a memorable one—more impressive for the greater number of vessels that fell into line than was the advent of the fleet last Thursday. It was a sight which aroused enthusiasm at Hampton Roads, Rio de Janeiro, Valparaiso, Lima, San Diego, San Pedro, and San Francisco—and one can well understand why.

The monitor Wyoming, which is coming down soon as a station ship, to take the place of the Iroquois, is one of the most formidable of port defenders. Her complement of men (125) will make an appreciable addition to the roster of white inhabitants here, and she will dignify the local naval establishment. Her two 13-inch guns and her four 6-inch guns, will make her a fine reinforcement of the land batteries. As there is no especial call for monitors at sea, her stay here is likely to be prolonged.

The tradesmen, hackmen and cafe proprietors did the fair thing by the fleet, and the fleet, in return, did the fair thing by them. There were few, if any, complaints on either side. Honolulu had as good a chance as Santa Barbara had to prey on the pockets of the sailors, but fair prices prevailed. Consequently the boys spent money freely and have gone away with a good opinion of the town.

Every member of the active committees for the fleet work has earned the right to help entertain the next fleet.

THE LUMLEY COMPANY WILL PLAY CARMEN

At the Orpheum tonight the Lumley Company will present Olga Nethersole's version of the great romantic play "Carmen."

Everyone knows the story of "Carmen." It has been produced here operatically before, but never in its dramatic form.

The strong acting and dramatic situations which can not be given in the operatic version are brought out strongly in the drama.

The production as it will be given tonight will leave nothing required to make it as near perfect as possible. Special scenery by Marshall and Clemens has been made, and costumes imported from Madame Jahn, San Francisco, for every person in the large cast.

To Miss Mae Keane is allotted the title role of the play. The San Francisco Bulletin, speaking of Miss Keane's performance of this role, said in part: "Miss Keane's performance of 'Carmen' last evening was, in the opinion of the writer, as good as that of the distinguished English actress, Olga Nethersole, who made the play famous."

Frank E. Montgomery will take the part of Don Jose, while the role of the Toreador will be played by Richard Buhler.

"Carmen" should prove a great drawing card for the remainder of the week. The production as promised will deserve a large patronage.

KILOHANA REHEARSAL FOR TONIGHT'S PLAY

A number of interested spectators were present at the rehearsal of the Kilohana Art League plays at the Opera House last night and basing the opinion on what was seen and heard, the prediction is made that an artistic success will be scored by the members of both casts at the performance tonight. The plays to be presented, "Lady Fortune" and "Second Thoughts" are cleverly written society plays, such as will appeal to cultured playgoers who do not require their fun to be laded out to them in a scoop shovel, while the clever society people who are appearing in the various characters are such as are able to do full justice to the lines.

Amateur plays in Honolulu, during the past few months, have been very sparingly patronized. It will be a pity if the play and farce tonight will have to be given before anything but a full house, which, however, seems not likely to be the case. The performances are certain to be good if last night's rehearsal can be taken as a sample of what the players will do before the audience tonight and those who appreciate clever acting should give themselves the pleasure to be present.

SCHROEDER AND PEARL HARBOR

channel at Pearl Harbor will be promptly accepted and O.K'd by the Secretary of the Navy, but that construction work will begin at an early date. He says that the Pearl Harbor station will be one of the finest in the world and a model of arrangement and up-to-date-ness. He expressed himself as pleased to have been on a board which had the opportunity to take raw material and plan a station that will be absolutely modern in every respect, with no old buildings, docks, etc., to remodel and attempt to rearrange to meet the growth and requirements of the new navy.

The Schroeder board's report was completed in time to be forwarded to Admiral Sperry at 2 p. m. yesterday, just at the hour when the Admiral was discussing the report with an Advertiser representative. The report probably went to Washington on the Aorangi.

The Admiral stated that the board, after personally visiting Pearl Harbor and going over the maps, had decided upon the location of the various structures called for in the appropriations for the building of the station. They decided where the docks were to be located, the piers and cradles for the torpedo craft, machine shops, the great array of smaller structures for housing officers and men, administration buildings, armories, storehouses, hospital, etc. So sure is the board that the plans will be accepted and specifications drawn up and bids called for, that in all probability the details for the locating of the buildings and docks will be worked out immediately, so that no time may be lost in getting the specifications before the contractors. Of course, it is unknown to the board whether or not the work will be done under contract or by day labor by the government.

The improvement of the channel will be undertaken at an early date. The Admiral said that the channel would in all probability be made as straight as possible. The appropriation for its dredging is available and apparently that work will be the first in hand. It is expected by the board that the hardest dredging will be found at the mouth of the channel. Personally, Admiral Schroeder has a very favorable opinion of the Pearl Harbor site, although he would like to see a greater expanse of water in some places. The depth is sufficient.

"I first visited Honolulu," said the Admiral, "in 1900, but I would like to have been here before just to have seen the old Honolulu. I like to see the youth of a place first that I may follow its development. Honolulu is a very delightful city. I went around it and to outside places by auto and found it most pleasant." Admiral Schroeder had very little time for recreation here owing to his important duties in connection with Pearl Harbor plans, and he took the first opportunity following the end of the work by taking in the sights.

MARINE

There was a fire drill in reality aboard the flagship Connecticut yesterday forenoon, and only prompt service saved the ship's famous 21-knot motor gig from destruction. The boat in question was lying in the chocks above the upper tier of midship guns, and just below two other boats, secured and ready for the cruise to the south. When the alarm was given, and the big bell forward sounded the fire call, there was a rush of sailors from all parts of the ship to their stations, doors were closed and in a very short time hose had been reeled out and water thrown. Most of the sailors had no knowledge that a fire was really in progress. In some unknown manner the boat caught fire, probably by gas from escaping gasoline. The boat's interior was damaged. This little craft is known as the "quartermaster destroyer," because of its speed in sliding up alongside, or passing a warship, often catching a quartermaster unaware. The boat is painted black and has two gold stars on the bow. This boat is said to have been Admiral Evans' personal craft, and when he retired Admiral Sperry fell heir to it.

DIDN'T WANT FILIPINOS.

A couple of Filipinos arrived from Hilo about ten days ago and to a haole friend expressed a desire to enlist in the Navy. They were referred to the Naval Station, and by an officer there to the fleet. The little brown men went aboard one of the battleships and inquired about enlistment. An officer told them that as the ship was being coaled the matter could not then be discussed. Come again, they came again and finally were told that no enlistments were being made at all. When the Filipinos came ashore they ascertained that the Navy was not enlisting Filipinos. These young fellows are both well-educated in Spanish, one having been a University student in Manila. They feel sore because they were BROUGHT NAVY COAL.

Officers of the British collier Craigvar, which arrived yesterday forenoon from Norfolk, Va., with a cargo of 4994 tons of coal for the navy, thought they had made pretty good time, for a tramp steamer, having finished the trip in 71 days. Hence they were surprised to read in the papers that their trip was considered a very slow one. The Craigvar was fogbound, while passing through the Strait of Magellan and on coming out into the Pacific encountered heavy rollers. These were about the only special incidents on the voyage. Captain Edmunds commands the steamer.

The steamer J. A. Cummins, Capt. Searle, arrived yesterday from Oahu ports with 1621 bags rice and paddy. The monitor Wyoming, which is to be the station ship at this port, will in all likelihood arrive here in about a month. She is a coast defense monitor with a battery of two 12-inch and four 6-inch guns and a complement of 125 men. She will probably be installed with oil fuel burners.

MARAMA TO BRING THE KILTIES ON TIME

A cable received from the office of the Canadian-Australian Steamship Company at Victoria, states that instructions were given the Captain of the Marama to arrive in Honolulu on Friday noon to enable the "Kilties" to give two concerts on the afternoon and evening of that day, so those who were in doubt as to this need have no further hesitancy in the matter.

The "Kilties" are a great organization. Besides the band which is the pride of all Canada, they have the famous Clan Johnstone troupe of dancers late of the Crystal Palace London; The Royal Scottish Bagpipers and a great choir of twenty voices. They give a concert and vaudeville show combined and will give exactly the same program as given before the King of England.

The "Kilties" created a furore in New York and other American cities and when there were recognized as the highest salaried international feature then touring the United States. Don't forget that they will give two concerts in Honolulu at Opera House. Get your seats before it is too late.

UNCLE SAM'S DECORATIONS.

Orders of Knighthood Do Not Carry Titles.

Uncle Sam is not averse to bestowing decorations. While the constitution prohibits government officers from accepting orders from foreign governments, the president has the power to award insignia which mean considerably more than most of the stars, garters, etc., of the old world. These are medals for bravery.

Besides the medals for conspicuous bravery in battle, and the decorations for life-saving on the water, the chief executive can now honor men and women who display heroism on the railroad lines of the country.

Award of the decorations is made by the chief executive on recommendation from the interstate commerce commission. Applications must be accompanied by affidavits from eye witnesses of the heroic deeds, and they must be approved by a committee of five of the commissioners.

A bronze medal and a button of gold and enamel are the insignia given. The medal is about as big as a silver dollar. On one side—the obverse—there is a figure of a man upon a rocky track, with one knee upon a rock which blocks an approaching train. He is warning the trainmen by means of a brand.

On the reverse side is a laurel wreath—symbolical of heroism. The inscription, "The United States medal for life-saving on railroads," appears near the medal's rim, and within the wreath is the following: "For bravery. Awarded to —."

shop, the same report is heard of good business and unstinted praise for the sailors. According to the estimate of the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, each day the sailors were ashore they spent from twenty to twenty-five thousand dollars, a total of over one hundred thousand dollars in good American gold. This money was spent ungrudgingly and more than one sailor was heard to regret that the boys had not more money to leave here, where the people treated them as friends and not as strangers to be fleeced at every turn, such as had been their experience in some of the ports visited so far on the cruise.

In addition to the sailors who left money in the city, there were out-of-town folk from the other islands, the number of such visitors having been very large, although their presence was not noticed as much as would have been the case had the city not had ten thousand other guests to look after.

The hotels and restaurants were naturally the first to feel the sudden increase of business brought about by the coming of the ships. At the Alexander Young Hotel their record was broken, for, for the first time since the big hostelry opened its doors to the public, every room was filled for two nights running. Had the sailors been allowed to spend their nights ashore the pressure on the Young would have been greater, but as it was, Manager Hertsche reports "magnificent business." The same, on a smaller scale, he reports from the Moana, which was well filled with naval and other guests, while in the Alexander Young Cafe, the business of the week was the best ever done there. The sailors shied off to a large extent from the glitter of town restaurants, but the island visitors occupied every table.

The Seaside was another busy spot, the crowds that filled its beautiful grounds every day, patronizing the grounds liberally, so liberally in fact that time after time the place was swamped with business and the small force of waiters could not attempt to handle it. Further down the line the Waikiki Inn entertained its hundreds of guests a day, this place having established itself as a favorite resort at once with the sailors, who went out there in droves.

The regular boarding houses did not benefit greatly, the order taking the men aboard each night at midnight making the elaborate sleeping arrangements provided ashore unnecessary.

The restaurants did a roaring business. At the Union Grill it is estimated by the manager that ten thousand meals were served during the five days the sailors had shore liberty and the great majority of these meals were served to the men in uniform. "And all the time the sailors were here, crowded and jammed as this place was all the time, I do not believe that we lost one twenty-five cent piece through any man not coming to the counter with his ticket," says the Grill manager, who cannot praise the battleship men too highly for their excellent conduct. There was not one row in this place during the fleet's stay and not a dispute over payment.

The men bought very little intoxicating liquor, the Grill says, for instance, being surprisingly small, considering the great crowds catered to. There were no late hour drinking bouts, no orgies.

The men went to the restaurants to get something to eat, not to drink, as they patronized the temperance Palm restaurant quite as liberally as they did the licensed Grill or the licensed Palace. "We did just as big a business as we could conveniently handle," says Manager Ludwig, of the Palm, "a very satisfactory business indeed. Not only were we busy at all times in the restaurant, but we had orders from outside that kept us bustling in the kitchen. We did the catering for the two lunch-ers served at the officers' excursions at Pearl Harbor, for the reception and ball given Admiral Sperry and the officers at the Seaside and for the reception given aboard the flagship. Oh, we were busy, all right."

And the same report comes from all the smaller cafes, the Palace Grill, the California and the others. Wherever there was good substantial food served, the sailors were to be found and everywhere they appeared to be satisfied.

MANDAMUS FOR THE REGISTRAR

A Map of Kahului Townsite Filed Yesterday With Merriam.

United States District Attorney Breckons is preparing the mandamus to be issued from the United States District Court requiring Charles Merriam, Registrar of Conveyances to receive for record the maps of the Federal building site. This case went up to the United States Court of Appeals to determine whether under the law of 1905 providing for the filing of such maps, the Registrar could be required to record them.

The Kahului Railway Company yesterday filed with the Registrar a very carefully worked out map of the townsite of Kahului.

A deed was filed yesterday made by Lionel Hart and the other heirs of Ha-leakala Hart of some property near Punchbowl street to E. P. Aikue.

THE CONSERVATION COMMISSION NAMED

Governor Frear yesterday announced his Territorial Conservation Commission. President Roosevelt has appointed a National Conservation Commission which has organized with five committees, an executive committee and one on each of the four principal natural resources, land, waters, forests and minerals. It was desired that each governor of a state or a territory should appoint a state or a territorial conservation commission which should act in harmony with the National commission and independently in its own particular state or territory. The Governor's appointees to this commission are Ralph S. Hosmer, W. O. Smith, Alonzo Gartley, Jared O. Smith and Walter F. Dillingham.

THREE PLEADED GUILTY.

The persons indicted by the grand jury which has just adjourned were arraigned before Judge Dole in the United States District Court yesterday morning. A number of pleas of not guilty were entered, and in some cases were continued until a particular time. The indictments against Moses Koki were continued until August 31.

Three of those indicted pleaded guilty: Kim Moon Sung, a Korean charged with impersonating an officer; Mityasu, charged with forging a postoffice money order, and Kinashita charged with illicit distilling. They were remanded for sentence on Friday.

JACK ORDERED ABOARD.

Editor Advertiser: At 12 midnight Jack is ordered aboard to sleep on the hard deck instead of being allowed to stay on shore to enjoy a soft and cozy bed. Jack is an American citizen. Why not give him the same chance that is conferred on the officers of the fleet? I am proud of Jack when he breaks his liberty and then goes aboard to take his punishment like a man.

It is to be hoped that Jack will be allowed to enjoy his hobby of staying ashore all night when the fleet arrives in Sydney without shocking the tender feelings of the people.

DID BERESFORD PULL DOWN AND THEN RESTORE EAGLE?

Honolulu, July 21, 1908.

Editor Advertiser: Among the locals in this morning's paper is one stating the recollections of an officer of the visiting fleet, who claims to have been here forty-one years ago, and "seen Lord Beresford nail up an American shield over the doorway of the American consulate."

As a resident of Honolulu at the time of the visit of H. M. S. Clio here in 1865 and 1866 with Lord Charles Beresford as a midshipman on board, allow me to say that your informant is incorrect in stating that Middle Beresford took down or put up the shield—he did neither, the perpetrators of the act being two other midshipmen of the same warship—whose names I will not mention—who were chums of young Lord Beresford, who protected them by assuming the blame of the occurrence. They and not Beresford nailed up the shield over the gateway of Dr. McBride's private residence on Beretania street in the presence of some of their officers—and a number of our citizens. No American man-of-war was in port at the time—and I am not aware that there was an American naval officer here then.

MAPS SHOWING PUBLIC LANDS

Governor Frear Secured the Printing of a New Edition.

When Governor Frear was in Washington he endeavored to get the Interior department to publish a number of the maps which were originally published as a part of Governor Carter's report for the year ending June 30, 1906.

These maps show graphically by colors the various parcels of land owned by the government on each of the islands. These maps have always been in great demand, and as the edition of the report containing them was limited, there have been none to be had for some time.

The department on Governor Frear's representations has agreed to get out some of the maps separately, and this has just been done. The maps have now been received and may be secured from the Survey department for fifty cents each. The number of maps secured is not large. There are 723 of Hawaii; 429 of Maui; 323 of Molokai, 525 of Oahu and 328 of Kauai.

JIMMY KELLEY DIES ON BOARD AORANGI

When the Aorangi arrived in port yesterday morning from the Colonies, it was learned that James Joseph Kelley, formerly storekeeper for the local customs bureau, had died of heart failure on July 18. Mr. Kelley was in his cabin with a fellow passenger the morning the summons came to him. His roommate was reading and turned to look at Mr. Kelley and found that he was dead in his chair. Mr. Kelley had traveled extensively of late and was planning to go to Alaska.

Among the passengers on the Aorangi was Sir Reginald Talbot and Lady Talbot, en route to England to remain a year. The vessel brought very little freight for Honolulu, but dropped off several passengers. Several thousand papers from Melbourne, sent by the Melbourne Leader of July 4 were brought on the steamer for distribution among the men of the fleet. The articles referring to the fleet's visit to Australia indicate that the welcome will be given on a grand scale.

CHINESE LUNCHEON TO NEWSPAPER WRITERS

The luncheon given by representative Chinese to the visiting correspondents and local press writers yesterday, was delightful in every way. There were present Messrs. Matthews, Clotworthy and Patchin of the fleet corps; Messrs. Henshall, Smith, Rhodes, Sheba, Soga and others of the English and Oriental press of Honolulu; Rev. E. W. Thwing, who acted as toastmaster; Alexander Hume Ford, Rev. Frank W. Damon, A. M. Merrill, and a number of leading Japanese residents. Ah Leong, at whose pretty home the feast was given, presided, with Yee Chin, president of the Chinese Promotion Committee, on his left and a venerable Chinese merchant on his right.

The menu was almost wholly Chinese and, in the opinion of Rev. Mr. Damon, who has attended many such feasts, was one of the best ever served in our Chinese community. Almost every white guest ate unsparingly of shark's fins, bird's nests, the little concoctions of oyster, peppers and onion tips, mushrooms and bamboo sprouts, lychee preserves, etc., which go to make a feast worthy of the presiding household gods even of a taotai's home. It was the common remark that if a handsome restaurant could be opened up town where such good things were served, it would soon be a fad of society to take dinners there.

Several speeches were made. Ho Fon of Bishop's bank leading. Yee Chin gave a good talk, which Mr. Thwing interpreted. Mr. Matthews spoke eloquently, as did Mr. Patchin. Mr. Sheba spoke for the Japanese and Mr. Henshall of the Star and Mr. Smith of the Advertiser were heard. There were toasts to the President, the Emperor of China, the Emperor of Japan, the correspondents and to the host, Mr. Ah Leong.

THE KAUAI POLO PLAYERS WIN

Oahu Did Well and the Score Was Very Close.

Fighting like demons every moment of the game, not relinquishing an inch without a struggle, Oahu polo players went down to defeat in the second game of the series at Eben Low's amphitheater grounds yesterday afternoon by the close score of 24 to 2. Different from the first game of this series, when the Kauai lads took the bit in their teeth and literally ran away with the game, Oahu was there with all the goods yesterday afternoon.

There wasn't a minute of the classy exhibition that they were not up on the ball, and, by the way, the kind of team-work shown by both aggregations was such as to put the sport on a high standard in the islands. It was not a case of each man being a star, though it must be said that J. Malina of Kauai had them all about faded when it came to playing a way-up individual game, but it was the manner of sticking together, of each man playing his opponent and at the same time keeping his weather-eye on the little white spheroid that won the small crowd of enthusiasts who attended the game.

Fred Angus played a cracking good game at rushing the ball, and, indeed, it fell to him to give the Oahu poloists their best chances at scoring. He is excellent on long strokes, and has the happy faculty of being able to cut into a bunched-up mass of horses and men and wing the ball far enough to one side to swing with his full arm. Fleming made a great showing on a great little pony, Mallet. This bit of bay horseflesh was undoubtedly the fastest animal on the field, and the way Fleming put him through paces when after the ball or crowding an opponent to one side was a caution.

On the whole, it seemed as if Oahu had the edge on Kauai in point of horses. This was evident particularly after each close scramble when the ball was shot out from under the feet of five or six ponies. A race invariably ensued, and it was seldom that Oahu came out second best.

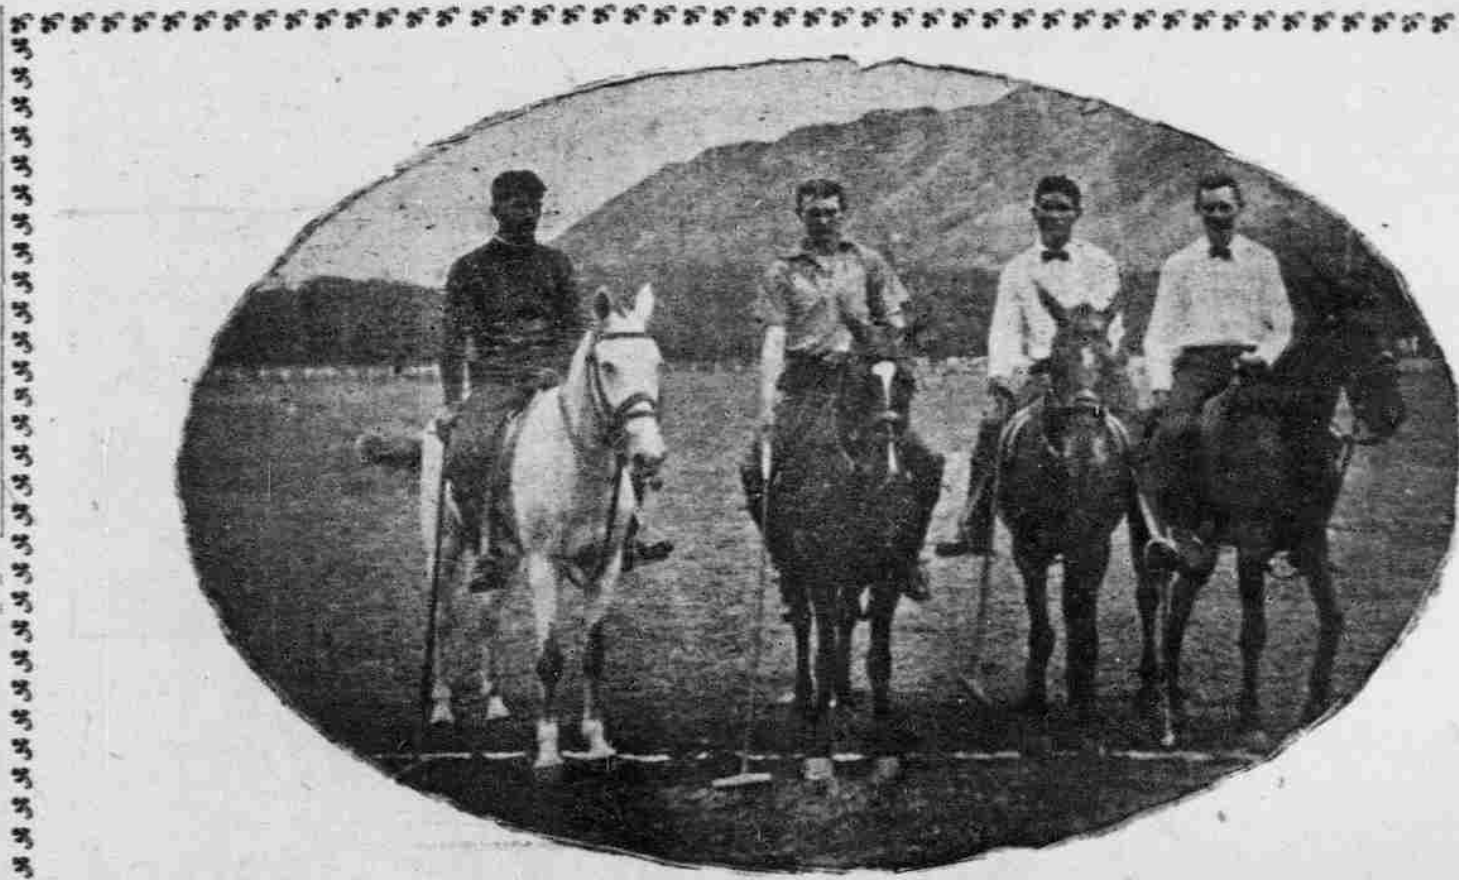

Kauai has a team-work aggregation. In this essential part of the game they showed their steadier practice, each man knowing exactly what to do before the ball bounded out. All in all, Kauai out-played the local horsemen, but this was almost made up by the bull-dog fight made by the latter.

The game started off with a rush, a swift dash, a couple of splendid strokes, and it seemed as if Kauai was going to do the walk-over stunt even as they had in the previous game. Back again came the ball within a very few moments, however, and Oahu supporters in the grandstand had their little shout coming. It came—but alas and alack! quickly died away into a moan of dismay when the Rice duo doubled together, and, passing the ball back and forth down the stretch, tore off the first small chunk of scoring. Kauai, 1; Oahu, 0.

Nothing more was doing in this canto, on a quarter, as it is in polo. The ball vacillated back and forth the field until Clifford Kimball, timekeeper, tooted the little whistle.

The second quarter duplicated the first in the opening stages. Kauai scored, after Fleming had been fouled. This latter caused the loss of half a point to the boys in the pink shirts. But they were still in the lead. Angus and Malina had a little game all to their lonesome a great part of this quarter; long strokes, cross-back-hand swings and short, swift dashes being the real dope for their style of playing and the fast animals they were riding. Angus waved his magic club and started things going for Oahu in a manner that boded ill for Sister Kauai when he shot the pasty-looking ball and followed it up in dangerous territory. A sure arm and he would have scored, but Malina and the Indian sign worked a double combination that he couldn't overcome, and the ball took a trip to the skies, alighting in the center of the field whence Dole quickly shot it between the two posts. This landed the Garden Island team 1½ points to the good, their foul costing them half a point.

Walter Dillingham started things again in the beginning of the third quarter. His horse followed the ball with keen scent, and notwithstanding the crowding of the Rices, working him from two sides, he had the ball near the objective point within a very few minutes after play had been resumed. This was doomed not to count anything for the locals, however, for that bad actor Malina seemed to own the eagle eye and the sure hand when it came to parrying from the very teeth of the enemy. Fleming captured the little speck on the ground, and with two magnificent swings, the best of the game, had the spheroid down the length of the field. This was where Oahu lost the game. A trifle more to the left, and Fleming would have been proclaimed the absolute candy kid of the game, but his hasty shot, forced by the oncoming of Dole, missed the inner side of the pole by not more than three feet.

KAUAI POLO TEAM, WHICH WON A HARD-FOUGHT GAME FROM OAHU YESTERDAY.

It was disheartening for the locals. Kauai took the ball from under their noses and had it in dangerous ground for a short space. Then Oahu took a brace and, through the clever twisting and good team-work of Denison and Dillingham, matters were evened up for a moment. The ball shot in dangerously. Kauai rooters of both sexes looked glum. There was nothing doing by Oahu's cracks, however, for Malina, in far and away the most spectacular series of punts, bunts, shots and runs of the day swung the bouncing ball through the posts after showing a clean pair of heels to every one of his opponents. This gave the Kauai bunch their total score—24 points.

Notwithstanding the lead of their antagonists, Oahu again demonstrated that it was a fighting combination. Without so much as a mistake until Goal-land was reached, the ball was shifted by clean strokes away from Kauai by the Oahu team, and for a second time they lost an excellent opportunity for scoring, missing the stake by but a few feet. It was hard luck, in a way, for the locals that they did not score this time, for it was easily perceivable, even from the grandstand, that the loss of the goal was caused by the rough ground, a point jutting up catching the edge of Dillingham's mallet as he swung. Again, after losing the ball for a time, it was again brought back and by hard fighting in the very shadow of the posts the ball was shot through for a score. Kauai, 24; Oahu, 1.

Sensational running characterized the fourth and last period of the game. Close infighting, as it were, also being a feature, and it was not but a short time after play had been started that Oahu had tacked another point on their initial one. This naturally made things simmer down to a question as to whether the locals could wing another point to their credit. By so doing the game would have been almost in their hands.

Kauai played a defensive game. At every opportunity they shot the ball as far away as possible, not striving so much to score themselves as to keep their opponents from scoring. This was their game, and they played it for all they were worth. There was one bad spot in the center of the field which the players had avoided as much as possible during the course of the game, a heap of sand that was a bad place for the ball to be stuck in as well as clogging the horses to some extent. While attempting a quick, short turn, Walter Dillingham's pony pivoted for a second, then tumbled in a heap on the ground. The players were well away from him, and no damage was done. Within the next few minutes of fast and furious playing, however, it was found necessary for him to change horses.

With the exception of Malina, who though a heavy man seems to ride his horse light, and Charley Rice, all of the players took fresh ponies. Time was taken out while this was being done.

The remainder of the quarter was fiercely contested by the members of both teams. The Oahuans were demons, and especially Dillingham and Angus, and they followed the ball close and hit hard at every chance. Angus was keen on the back-hand swings, as was Denison and Fleming in the final bit of the game. Their efforts proved of no avail, however, for the game ended with the ball near the Kauai goal, even in striking distance, with the score remaining, Kauai, 24; Oahu, 2.

It was a beautiful exhibition. Perhaps not so good as some games that have been played here, but it must be taken into consideration that the grounds were anything but conducive to a high-class exhibition of polo. The horsemanship was at all times good, far above par, and the team-work displayed was much better than in the other game this week. It was too bad that there were so few out to witness the game, for it is a kingly sport, and deserves better patronage than the scattering few in the grandstand yesterday afternoon.

Sam Baldwin umpired an excellent game. It is rumored that a series of games may be arranged between the locals, Kauai and Maui teams some time in August, when a tournament for the championship of the islands may be had. The line-up of the teams follows:

Oahu—George Angus, G. P. Denison, Walter Dillingham (captain), and J. Fleming.

Kauai—A. Rice, J. Malina, C. A. Rice, and C. A. Dole.

Welcome to New Zealand

Auckland News.

Arrangements for welcoming the American fleet are now so far advanced as to assure the people of the Dominion that the credit of New Zealand will be well sustained. This result has not been attained without a great deal of consideration and much hard work on the part of the executive committee, who have been helped in every possible way by the local and national authorities and by the citizens of Auckland. With one or two exceptions, the local bodies have unhesitatingly agreed to share in the cost of entertainment, upon the lines suggested by the Mayor of Auckland, and this, with the increase in the government subsidy for the purpose, enables plans to be made which would have been impossible had the municipality of Auckland been unsupported. The government, on its part, is acting generously and energetically, recognizing that the visit of the fleet is in response to a national invitation, and is not a merely Auckland function in any sense whatever. The national character of the welcome will be accentuated not only by the presence in Auckland of the Governor, members of the Cabinet and members of Parliament—Parliament adjourning for the occasion—but by the hearty response which is likely to be made to the invitations sent to Mayors of municipalities and chairmen of local bodies throughout both islands, and by the display of welcome-banners which are being generally promised by these local authorities. In addition, an immense quantity of bunting is being provided and the resources of the city are being exhausted in obtaining power for electrical illumination. The published entertainment program is a very suitable one, for it is not only within our power, but it leaves our visitors the necessary amount of freedom from formal engagements, which they must have in order to see as much of the city and province as is possible in one short week. There need, therefore, be no fear that our American visitors will be in any way disappointed with the nature of their reception and entertainment, or will regret that Mr. Roosevelt accepted so readily and heartily the cordial invitation forwarded to him by our government through his excellency the Governor. With cheering crowds and fluttering flags by day, and with glittering illuminations and attractive fireworks by night; with the shipping and the main streets and many private houses, in addition to all public offices, gaily decorated; with the railways placed at their service, and sufficient public events provided to make the time pass pleasantly; the Americans, we are confident, will enjoy their visit, and take away with them a kindly remembrance of Auckland.

HOUSEHOLD TRIBULATION.

The old home is not what it was long ago. There's "litteryhoor" in each room. We're all of us talking more careful an' slow.

An' wearin' expressions of gloom. Nobody makes jokes or tell stories or sings. 'Cause laughter aint truly refined. An' we're puttin' our thoughts on superior things. Since Maw is improvin' her mind!

We're talkin' 'bout Shakespeare an' Browning an' Keats. The biscuits look queer an' taste wrong.

But she says it's no difference what a man eats. If his intellect's healthy an' strong. An' Paw says a "culture club's" harder to bear.

Than the ten plagues of Egypt combined. And excuses himself to go outdoors an' swear.

While Maw is improvin' her mind.

We're trying to heed the example she sets. Though the pace she has struck makes us pant.

She says "cawn't" and "shawn't"; but she sometimes forgets. And falls back on plain "can't" and "shan't."

This morning Paw said, as he stood at the door. He was more than three-quarters inclined.

To camp out an' never come home any more.

Till Maw quit improvin' her mind!

—Washington Star.

Although woman has not yet won her fight for equal suffrage, her influence in the politics of a club exclusively for men has lately been demonstrated. A contest for the office of president in a New York club was decided by a letter written by a woman. There were two candidates for the place; one a clerk in a New York financial institution, whose young wife had been a working girl, the other a wealthy manufacturer, with a reputation among his neighbors for "closeness." The day before the election each member of the little club received a typewritten letter, signed by a woman whom all knew, which began with these words: "If what I write you is not true, it is libel." Then she said the club should not honor its "meanest man," and related some amusing incidents to demonstrate that she was not mistaken in her estimate of the man. In closing she wrote, "What do you think of a man who has his barn painted and says to his wife: 'That's your birthday present? If you can afford to elect that kind of a man for your president, go ahead!" The alleged "meanest man" was defeated.

For once the American had discovered something British that was better than anything they could produce "across the pond." His discovery was a fine collie dog, and he at once tried to induce its owner, an old shepherd, to sell it. "Wad ye be takin' him to America?" inquired the old Scot. "Yes, I guess so," said the Yankee. "I thoct na muckle," said the shepherd. "I couldna' rirt wi' Jock." But while they sat and chatted an English tourist came up, and to him the shepherd sold the collie for much less than the American had offered. "You told me you wouldn't sell him," said the Yankee, when the purchaser had departed. "Na," replied the Scot; "I said I couldna' part wi' him. Jock'll be back in a day or so, but he couldna' swim the Atlantic."

"Just this way, sir," said the courteous clerk in the railroad ticket office. "Let me show you some summer guides entitled 'Where to Go' and 'When to Go.'" The man with the modest income shook his head. "They don't interest me," he sighed. "What I want to know is 'How to Go.'"—Chicago Daily News.

THE HILO GRAND AND ITS WORK

A Large Number of Matters
That Were Dealt With.

HILO, July 16.—At 11 o'clock on Monday morning the grand jury submitted the following report, and was excused till further notice:

Your grand jurors have investigated an alleged case of the use of unlawful influence resulting in the obtaining of warrants in payment of accounts against the County of Hawaii and have found absolutely no grounds to substantiate such allegations.

A complaint of the existence of irregularities in the payroll of the Road Supervisor of the North Hilo district has also been investigated, but no evidence was produced that any such irregularities existed.

The police force and its efficiency
was gone into and your jurors are thoroughly satisfied with the conduct and efficiency of the Hilo police force.

At the request of a taxpayer the Treasurer's method of dealing with special road deposits was investigated and it was found that under a misapprehension of the law on the subject, special road deposits to the credit of some of the districts had been drawn upon to pay overdrafts to other districts. Your jurors feel no wilful wrong has been committed but that this violation of the law has occurred through the ignorance of the one in control of this office.

The sentiment of this grand jury is that more suitable quarters be provided for jury work, both trial and grand,
and we would ask the assistance of your honor in an endeavor to better
the existing condition of affairs.

A vote of thanks to Deputy Attorney General Larnach for his able and courteous assistance to this grand jury in their labors was passed unanimously.
There being no further business brought before this grand jury they herewith present themselves to your honor for instructions.

Dated Hilo, July 13, 1908.

Foreman of the Grand Jury.

Secretary.

Bacin de Mansano, burglary, first degree.
Sasaki Kio, perjury.
Cipriano Candalaria, murder, first

gree.

STONEWALL JACKSON.

How He Was Carried Off the Field
When Wounded.

Thomas Jefferson Capps, the man who drove the ambulance which carried Stonewall Jackson, mortally wounded, off the field at Chancellorsville, is still very much alive, and a prosperous North-Carolina merchant. He has recently been correcting some historical errors in connection with the wounding of General Jackson. Through an interview in the Richmond Times-Dispatch, he tells as follows of his part in the tragedy:

"I remember it just as clearly as if it happened day before yesterday. No one who was in the engagement at Chancellorsville could forget much about it. I was standing with my ambulance awaiting orders from our regimental surgeon, Dr. James McRee, when an officer galloped up to me and said, 'Do you see that thick cloud
by the plank road?' I said, 'Yes, sir.'
'I wish you would drive over there as fast as you can. There are some wounded officers that we want to move.'
'I told him that I was sorry that I could not do so, for my orders from Dr. McRee were very strict, that I should wait where I was until he directed me to move. The officer reddened and looked at me sternly; but I returned his gaze calmly, by which he knew that I was determined to stand by my orders. He hesitated for a moment, glancing over the field, and then he turned to me and said, as if he were talking in the greatest confidence, 'It's General Jackson. He is seriously wounded, and is lying over there close to the plank road.' I answered, 'That's enough; I'll go, sir.'
My orders to stay amounted to nothing then.

"I hurried over to the plank road and galloped my horses toward the place indicated. I saw from where I had been standing that things were pretty hot down there, but did not know how it really was until I got a little way on the road. The air was filled with shells and small shot that were searching everywhere for the Confederates that were in the woods.
My horses were wild, but I was only too glad they moved so fast. The officer started back with me, but his horse reared and refused to go. I never expected to come back alive. I had my duty to do, though, and didn't care. There was no one with me.

"In a little while I saw a group of men crouching beside the road. They were evidently on the lookout for an ambulance, and raised up and motioned to me when I drew near. I stopped, and could see General Jackson and another wounded officer, who, I learned,
was Colonel Crutchfield, of the general's staff, lying side by side in the ditch near the plank road.

"Was it a ditch?" I asked in some surprise.

"Well, no," he said, "just a place where the ground had been dug out in building the road. A surgeon was with him, and a few other men. Shells and canister shot were crashing through the woods and tearing up the ground all around us.

"I worked as quickly as I could to get the ambulance in position, and in a minute or two the officers were placed in it, a surgeon jumping in after them. Hardly a word was spoken, and, even if there had been any conversation, I could not have heard much of it on account of the constant booming of the cannon and the singing of the shells passing by us. It was about dark when we started back; and it was a solemn thought to me that I had General Jackson wounded and lying in my ambulance.

"It was a regular army ambulance
being a spring wagon, strongly built,
and covered over with a rounded hood of canvas. We ran like the wind along the plank road, the canister shot from the enemy splattering and singing around us. The wonder was the ambulance was not struck time and again;
but we escaped with one hole through the top of the hood, made by a spent ball. We were a solemn crowd. If there was any talking going on, I did not hear it. I knew I was busy wondering whether we were going to get out or not.

"It was not long before we came to where there had been a bridge which had been burned, and I had to turn aside into the bed of the stream to get to the other side. It was rocky and rough down there, and I tried my best to drive easily; for I was thinking of the wounded men. It was then that General Jackson said to me,
'Driver, drive carefully, please.' I answered, 'General, I'll do my best, but if I hold in my horses, they will be sure to balk.'

"I had two horses, a bay mare and a sorrel horse, and whenever I tried to hold the sorrel in from going fast, he would invariably balk. However, I did the best I could until we got on the smooth road again.

"General Jackson seemed to be worried on account of Colonel Crutchfield,
who was badly wounded in the leg.
Both of them were lying on their sides
in the ambulance.

"When we reached the field hospital,
the surgeon jumped out and got some stimulants for the wounded men. At this time a guard was placed about the ambulance, to keep the army from finding out who the wounded officers were;
and we moved on to the corps hospital,
about two miles farther in the rear.
Here the General and Colonel Crutch-field were removed to a big bell tent,
a hundred yards or so from the building used as the main hospital."

Honolulu Citizens Gladly Testify and Confidently Recommend Doan's Kidney Pills.

It is testimony like the following that has placed Doan's Backache Kidney Pills so far above competitors.
When people right here at home raise their voice in praise there is no room left for doubt.

Mrs. N. Joseph living at the corner of Liliha and King streets, Honolulu, states as follows: "I was troubled for seven months with a lame back, and also suffered from occasional attacks of chills. These various complaints made my condition by no means a happy one, so that I much desired
some remedy which would bring relief.
This I found in Doan's Backache Kidney Pills, some of which I obtained at the Hollister Drug Co.'s store. I am pleased to say that they gave me not merely temporary but permanent relief and I have not the least hesitancy
therefore in recommending Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. They are a good kidney medicine."

strength and how to restore it without the use of drugs or medicines.
I want every man who suffers from lost power, drains or weakness of any kind to read my free 100-page book, which tells how I restore strength and vim with Nature's

No man should go through life a weakling just because doctors and their drugs have failed to cure.
Drugs are poisons, and poisons don't give strength.
You need something that assists Nature. My Electro-Vigor does that. It puts new life, new energy into every organ. When every part of your body has all the energy it needs there can be no weakness.

It does not cost much for a cure by my method.
You pay one price for my treatment, and that is all you pay. I have cured hundreds of weak men, and have the evidence to prove it. Electro-Vigor has never failed.
After two months' use of your Electro-Vigor
I have regained my lost power, and am feeling strong and well again. I would not take a thousand dollars for what your treatment has done
for me."

Under your treatment the losses have stopped and my power is returning, my health generally has the trial jury was in attendance at the Circuit Court of the Fourth Circuit, and the trial was begun on Yoshida, alias Giotoku Jutaro, who is charged with assault with intent to commit rape. He was arraigned on Monday, pleaded not guilty on Tuesday and J. U. Smith has been appointed attorney for the defense. The jury is composed of: Wm.

Roback, C. K. Kalanoo, A. S. Figueredo,
Chas. Keanohou, W. J. Stone, I. Erickson, F. R. Conrad, Robert Horner, J. K.
Ewaliko, Adam Baker, Jay M.

lary in the second degree. He was also arraigned on Monday, pleaded not guilty on Tuesday when W. S. Wise was appointed for the defense.

Cipriano Candaliaro, charged with murder in the first degree will plead this morning. W. H. Smith has been ap-

Sasaki Kio, charged with perjury, pleaded yesterday and will be defended by his counsel Chas. M. LeBlond. The trial has been set for today.

Bacin de Mansano, charged with burglary in the first degree was arraigned yesterday. Counsel will be assigned to-

Among the civil cases, those of R. T.
Guard versus David Reinhardt and William Reinhardt have been set for July ready been continued for the term.

"These working minorities!" said
Senator Tillman, at a Washington

banquet.

He smiled and went on:

"I said to a friend of mine one day in Charleston:

"Bill Higgins doesn't seem to have much voice in the management of his house, does he?"

"My friend shook his head and laughed.

"No," said he; "but Bill supports his wife, his mother-in-law, his father-in-law and his two brothers-in-law, and therefore it may be said of him that he constitutes a good working minority."

J. E. Livermore, the young "king of the cotton pit," who last month gained $500,000 in one day, was talking about the futility of attempting corners.

"Such schemes won't work," said
he. "None of these flighty, tricky speculations ever work. The best side is the safe side.

"It was cured of flighty speculation
by a dialogue I overheard in my boy-hood.

"What is Smith laughing at?" said
a broker.

"Because he's bought a block of P. D. Q.," another broker answered.

"And what is Jones laughing at?"

"Because he's sold a block of P.
D. Q."

A country admirer sent the following letter to Lord Beresford: "My household has been blessed with twins (a boy and a girl) this morning. My wife would like to name the girl after the Princess of Wales, and I want to name the boy after you. May we do this? and can you obtain the princess's permission for us to use her names?" The admiral thought that the applicant desired to use the Christian names only, and in due course sent the princess's permission together with his own. He then forgot all about the matter until, one fine morning, he was considerably astonished at receiving another letter from the same man, to this effect: "My Lord—I thought you would like to know that Lord Charles Beresford Brown is thriving, and has cut his first tooth. Princess of Wales Brown had convulsions last week, but is now very much better."

When Charles Dickens was in Washington he met one morning on the steps of the Capitol a young Congressman from Tennessee whom the great novelist had offended by his bluntness.
That morning Dickens was in great good humor. "I have," said he,
"found an almost exact counterpart of Little Nell." "Little Nell who?"
queried the Tennessean. Dickens looked him over from head to foot and from foot to head before he answered.
"My Little Nell." "Oh," said the Tennessean, "I didn't know you had your daughter with you." "I am speaking of the Little Nell of my story, 'The Old Curiosity Shop,' sir," retorted Dickens, flushing. "Oh!"
said the imperturbable Tennessean,
"you write novels, do you? Don't you consider that a rather trifling occupation for a 'town-no man'?"

When John Goodnow was consul general at Shanghai, China, he was an ardent collector of antique bronzes, and, having acquired a great many, was in-ordinately fond of showing them off, particularly a small Buddha, stuffed with uncut turquoise and garnets. One day he invited a number of Chinese connoisseurs to see his collection and upon their departure, Dr. Barchet, the official interpreter, overheard one of them remark in Chinese: "I heard this man Goodnow had some pretty good bronzes—why, he hasn't got a piece
that's more than a thousand years old!"

There is a son of Erin in Newton,
Massachusetts, who is quite a character.
He has a number of children and was asked one day how long he had been married. "Well," he said, "there's Eugene is forty, and Norah thirty-five, that makes seventy-five, and Lizzie is thirty-two, and how many do that make?"

"I tell you," said Sinnick, "men are getting so deceitful these days that you can't trust your best friends—"

"And what's worse," interrupted Burroughs, gloomily, "you can't get your best friends to trust you."—Philadelphia Press.

"So," remarked the boyhood friend,
"you are in the swim." "Mother and the girls think I am," answered Mr.
Cumrox. "But my personal feelings are those of a man who has fallen overboard and ought to be hollering for help."—Washington Star.

in our oldest daughter." "There you
